SPECIAL ORDERS, War Dept., Adj. General's Office,

By order of the Secretary of War:

L. THOMAS,
Adjutant-General.
Brig. Gen. S. D. Sturgis,

Commanding Reserve:

Send one regiment of cavalry now with you and one brigade of Shields' late division to report for duty to Major General Banks, near Sperryville. This brigade will be assigned by General Banks to Augur's division. Send the other brigade of Shields' division to report to Major-General McDowell at Warrenton. These troops will march to-morrow, fully equipped and provided by you with ample transportation. The two companies of First Ohio Cavalry are detailed as escort to Major-General Pope. Direct all men on detached service from these companies to join at once. You will then put the companies in march for Warrenton, there to report to the commanding general. In case he should not be there upon their reaching the place, they will report to Major-General McDowell and await the arrival of these headquarters.

By command of Major-General Pope:

GEO. D. RUGGLES,
Colonel and Chief of Staff.

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Command</th>
<th>Present for duty</th>
<th>Aggregate present and absent</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>First Division (Stevens)</td>
<td>162</td>
<td>3,693</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Second Division (Reno)</td>
<td>166</td>
<td>3,904</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Third Division (Parke)</td>
<td>146</td>
<td>3,290</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Total</td>
<td>474</td>
<td>10,887</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

FIRST DIVISION.

Brig. Gen. ISAAC I. STEVENS.

First Brigade.

Col. WILLIAM M. FENTON.

28th Massachusetts.
8th Michigan.
50th Pennsylvania.

Second Brigade.

Col. DANIEL LEASURE.

46th New York.
73rd New York.
100th Pennsylvania.

SECOND DIVISION.

Brig. Gen. JESSE L. RENO.

First Brigade.

2d Maryland.
6th New Hampshire.
48th Pennsylvania.

Second Brigade.

21st Massachusetts.
51st New York.
51st Pennsylvania.
HDQRS. THIRD ARMY CORPS, ARMY OF VIRGINIA, Warrenton, Va., July 25, 1862.

Maj. D. C. HOUStON,

Chief Engineer:

Proceed, accompanied by an officer of the staff you may select, to Culpeper and make a reconnaissance of the country between this and that point on the scale of five inches to the mile, in which shall be sketched the houses, roads, streams, fords, and topography of the country generally. Avail yourself of such information as can be obtained from people of the country, contrabands, &c. See Generals Hatch and Bayard, commanding the cavalry in that neighborhood, if not too far from you, and get from them such information as they possess respecting the resources of the country they are operating in, and particularly reliable information as to the position and strength of the enemy's forces in front of them. Examine their officers and scouts for the purpose of procuring from them any knowledge they may have acquired of the topography of the country which they have passed over. Send any sketches or maps, if they can be had. In your report be particular to distinguish between facts and hearsay statements, giving the authority for facts reported. Endeavor to secure the services of negroes in the vicinity of Culpeper who will go to Gordonsville and Louisa Court House to gather information, and for this purpose you are authorized to offer liberal inducements. Every one hired is to suppose he is the only one sent out by you, so that their reports may be compared on their examination, by the general commanding, to whom they are to be brought. See the commanding officer at Culpeper, General Crawford, and acquaint him with the object of your mission. If anything special occurs, as soon as you arrive there send back word, and return with your party day after to-morrow.

By order of General McDowell:

S. F. BARSTOW,

Assistant Adjutant-General.

HEADQUARTERS MIDDLE DEPARTMENT, Baltimore, Md., July 25, 1862.

Hon. EDWIN M. STANTON,

Secretary of War, Washington:

SIR: I am informed that you are not well pleased with the management of the Middle Department. Wait a little and you will be satisfied. To day, after a conference with several members of the second branch of the common council of the city of Baltimore, the members have resigned their offices, leaving it to the Union party to elect members that will vote for the sum necessary to raise three regiments in the city. About fifteen minutes since they tendered to me their resignations, which I approved.

JOHN E. WOOL,

Major-General.
Brig. Gen. Julius White, U. S. Volunteers, will proceed to Winchester, Va., and relieve Brig. Gen. A. S. Piatt in command of the troops at that post. Upon being relieved Brigadier-General Piatt will repair to Alexandria, Va., and report in person to Brigadier-General Sturgis. By command of Major-General Pope:

R. O. SELFRIDGE,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

Brig. Gen. J. P. Hatch, U. S. Volunteers, is relieved from his present command in the Army of Virginia, and will await orders from Major-General Pope.

By order of the Secretary of War:

E. D. TOWNSEND,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

Maj. Gen. H. W. HALLECK,
Commanding U. S. Army, Washington, D. C.:

From wounded and liberated officers and men I learn that large reinforcements are constantly arriving in Richmond from south; also many supplies. I write fully by this mail.*

G. B. MCCLELLAN,
Major-General.

Brig. Gen. SETH WILLIAMS,
Asst. Adj. Gen., Headquarters Army of the Potomac:

GENERAL: In my recommendations for promotion by brevet or otherwise, I omitted the names of the following officers, some of whom I particularly mentioned in my reports, but all were conspicuous for bold and gallant conduct in actions: Maj. Ernest von Vegesack, aide-de-camp to Brigadier-General Butterfield, distinguished for efficient service at Hanover Court-House, and gallant and meritorious conduct at battle of Chickahominy. Capt. T. J. Hoyt, aide-de-camp to Brigadier-General Butterfield, for distinguished, gallant, and meritorious services at Hanover Court-House, Chickahominy, and Malvern. First Lieut. J. Elliott Williams, Thirteenth New York Volunteers, aide-de-camp to Brigadier-General Morell, for gallant conduct at Hanover Court-House, Chickahominy, and Malvern. Second Lieut. Isaac Seymour, Jr., New York cavalry, aide-de-camp to Brigadier-General Morell, for gallant conduct at Hanover Court-House, Chickahominy, and Malvern. If brevets can be given brigadier-generals of volunteers, I should be pleased to see Brig. Gen. G. W. Morell brevetted for meritorious services at Hanover Court-House, Chickahominy, and Malvern.

I am, general, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

F. J. PORTER,
Major-General, Commanding.

[11.]

VI. Brig. Gen. Q. A. Gillmore, U. S. Volunteers, having reported for duty at these headquarters in obedience to Special Orders, No. 168, current series, Adjutant-General's Office, is assigned to duty with the forces under Brigadier-General Sturgis. He will report to Brigadier-General Sturgis without delay.

By command of Major-General Pope:

R. O. SELFRIDGE,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

[12.]

I. Brig. Gen. B. S. Roberts is assigned to duty at these headquarters as chief of cavalry, and will report as soon as practicable.

By command of Major-General Pope:

R. O. SELFRIDGE,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

[12.]

II. The brigade brought to this place yesterday by General Tyler will be consolidated with the brigade under Brigadier-General Geary, which will be known as the First Brigade, General Augur's division. General Tyler will return to Washington and report to General Sturgis to organize a new brigade.

By command of Major-General Pope:

R. O. SELFRIDGE,
Assistant Adjutant-General.
anxious about the location of these gun-boats to-day, on account of the nervous condition of the guard on Coggins' Point (Pennsylvania Reserves). The boats may return to-night. Their absence may be noted, and until we get artillery located, the command at Coggins' Point will not feel safe. Five hundred regular troops under Capt. J. D. Wilkins will be there to-night, and so far as their strength will suffice fear nothing; but I would like the co-operation of the gun-boats, and for them to lie somewhat fixed in their position, as they tend to keep the enemy from a raid. The commanding officer (Colonel Sickel) at Coggins' reported this morning the appearance of cavalry in his front; supposed to be about three companies, but there was no definite information, and I have sent to ascertain the real state of affairs there. He withdrew his pickets a long distance. The road ascending the hill is not finished for artillery. In the absence of Colonel Averell (I believe with you) I have called upon Colonel Childs, Fourth Pennsylvania Cavalry, for two companies of his regiment (previously indicated by him as the one to go over there), and they will cross at 3 o'clock. I design these merely to furnish small pickets until others cross and all get into position. I propose the following at Coggins' Point: To send over one battery (12-pounders) to-day so soon as the road is ready, which will be in half an hour (about 2.30), and to-morrow another battery (horse artillery). To-morrow I send a brigade of at least 1,500 men under General Butterfield to stay two days, to be relieved by one of Sykes', and so on through the corps. As soon as they can be obtained the cavalry will go over, and reconnoitering parties employed. At Cole's Landing I have 200 men. They have been directed [to complete], and I presume by this time have completed the rifle-pits. No gun-boats protect. I presume the lower battery, under General Barry's direction, is prepared to lend its aid.

I am, general, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

F. J. PORTER,

Major-General, Commanding.

[11.]

SPECIAL ORDERS, } HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF VIRGINIA,
No. 34. } Camp near Sperryville, Va., August 4, 1862.

II. The Purnell Legion will proceed via Warrenton to take post as a guard on the line of the Orange and Alexandria Railroad between Catlett's Station and Culpeper Court-House. The public stores now at Warrenton will be sent thence via Rappahannock railroad bridge to Culpeper under a sufficient escort, to be furnished by this regiment. Upon arriving at Warrenton Junction the colonel of the regiment will proceed to post the necessary guards at the bridges along the line of the road, commencing at Catlett's Station. Upon reaching the Rappahannock he will establish his headquarters and the greater portion of his regiment at the railroad crossing of that river, and will then send forward the public stores with their escort to Culpeper, establishing at the same time the necessary guards for the railroad bridges up to that point. Upon the arrival of the public stores at Culpeper the escort will return to the headquarters of its regiment at the crossing of the Rappahannock.

By command of Major-General Pope:

R. O. SELFRIDGE,

Assistant Adjutant-General.
HDQRS. THIRD ARMY CORPS, ARMY OF VIRGINIA,
Sulphur Springs, August 4, 1862.

Acting Brigadier-General CARROLL:

GENERAL: You will move with your brigade at 5 to-morrow morning on the road to Culpeper as far as Aestham River and encamp on this side. On arriving you will report to Brigadier-General Ricketts, who will be between you and Jefferson.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

S. F. BARSTOW,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

HDQRS. THIRD ARMY CORPS, ARMY OF VIRGINIA,
Warrenton Springs, August 4, 1862.

Colonel DUFFIE,
First Rhode Island Cavalry, Rappahannock Station:

COLONEL: It is the direction of the major-general commanding that you hold yourself in readiness to march your regiment to Culpeper Court-House any time after to-morrow at noon. Meantime ascertain the best crossing-place. Go below your present position to examine the fords. Captain Jewett, aide-de-camp, who is the bearer of this, will examine between this point and your present station, and will report the result for your information.

Very respectfully, colonel, your obedient servant,

ED. SCHRIVER
Colonel and Chief of Staff.

HEADQUARTERS FIFTH ARMY CORPS,
Harrison's Landing, Va., August 5, 1862.

COMMANDING OFFICER Coggins' Point, JAMES RIVER, VA.:

SIR: The commanding general directs me to address you as follows in his name: Your command is to occupy the defenses on Coggins' Point, and in connection with the gun-boats prevent the enemy approaching near enough to injure, with their guns, our shipping and camps; also to secure from injury working parties. Infantry pickets, with a few cavalry for messengers, will be posted sufficiently far in advance to prevent small parties approaching and observing the camps, and to give warning of the approach of parties too large to drive back or capture. Cavalry scouts in small force will daily be made to gain information of the enemy and pick up all persons found beyond our lines, and all strangers (black or white) and travelers. They will time their march so as not to pass the same points two days in succession at the same hour, and will not enter houses. The commander will always caution his men never to permit themselves to be enticed from their duty or put off their guard by designing persons. Extended reconnaissances or reconnaissances in force will be directed from these headquarters. The camps of the troops will be kept as much as possible out of sight of the enemy under shelter from the enemy's fire by irregularities of the ground. The cavalry and artillery camps and horses should be well in rear of the works, and also under cover. The guns will always be in position; some to fire over the ground by Cole's Landing. The gun-boats are stationed to render assistance by their fire, and any information of the approach of the enemy should be made known to Captain Rodgers, commanding the Tioga and the co-operating fleet, and also of the location of the troops and batteries, and in case of a strong attack the pickets should retire in a manner known to him, so as not to be fired upon by his guns. The commanding officer will report by signal to the commanding general all information of importance, and send in every morning a report of what has passed through the preceding twenty-four hours. He will send here all persons arrested or coming into the lines. This letter will be delivered to the commanding officer who succeeds you.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

FRED. T. LOCKE,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

SPECIAL ORDERS,

HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF VIRGINIA,
No. 35. Near Sperryville, Va., August 5, 1862.

V. Major-General Banks, commanding Second Corps d’Armée, will move his command to-morrow to some point near Hazel River on the pike between Sperryville and Culpeper. He will there encamp the command and await further orders.

By command of Major-General Pope:

R. O. SELFRIDGE,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

HDQRS. THIRD ARMY CORPS, ARMY OF VIRGINIA,
Warrenton Springs, August 5, 1862.

Colonel DUFFIE,
First Rhode Island Cavalry, Rappahannock Station:

COLONEL: You will march to-morrow morning with your regiment to within a mile of Culpeper Court-House, being governed in selecting the place for your camp by the advantages it affords for your horses, &c. Respectfully,

ED. SCHRIVER,
Colonel and Chief of Staff.

HEADQUARTERS FIFTH ARMY CORPS,
Harrison’s Landing, Va., August 6, 1862.

Brig. Gen. D. BUTTERFIELD,
Commander Coggins’ Point, Va.:

GENERAL: I have directed General Morell to send you two regiments or more, to make at least 1,000 men. With the force at your disposal I wish you to attack the enemy at brick church and destroy or capture them if possible. Leave at the breast-works a good support for the artillery and to hold the intrenchments. Use the cavalry to watch your flanks and extend reconnaissances on other roads. Since taking the initiative we have the morale over the enemy, and I doubt not, with the vim of the old division, your command will maintain it and inflict a severe blow if the enemy will stand long enough. The regiments will cross the river at 12 o’clock, when the water is high enough for them to land. Ambulances will follow. I hope and expect the success which pertains to all you undertake will attend you.

I am, general, very respectfully, your obedient servant,
F. J. PORTER,
Major-General, Commanding.

I will try to send you some contraband guides. If the enemy occupy any house for defense, destroy it, leaving some indication why it was destroyed.

[11.]

SPECIAL ORDERS, No. 103.

HEADQUARTERS FIFTH CORPS,
Camp near Harrison's Landing, Va.,
August 6, 1862.

3. A force of two or more regiments from Morell's division, numbering together at least 1,000 men, with the proper complement of officers, will cross the river this evening and report to General Butterfield for a few hours' duty. They will have their boxes filled with ammunition and take rations with them. Twelve ambulances will follow the force at daybreak. The troops will embark from the ordnance dock at 12 p.m., landing at Coggins' Point.

By command of Maj. Gen. F. J. Porter:
FRED. T. LOCKE,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

HDQRS. THIRD ARMY CORPS, ARMY OF VIRGINIA,
Near Culpeper, August 7, 1862.

Brigadier-General BAYARD,
Commanding Cavalry, Ten Miles South of Culpeper:

GENERAL: It is the direction of the major-general commanding that you establish a line of estafets between these headquarters and your camp for the purpose of transmitting information promptly. Colonel Duffié's regiment has taken post at Vaughan's Mill and he has been ordered to occupy Raccoon Ford, picketing between it and his headquarters as well as on the roads which lead west from the road between Culpeper and Raccoon Ford. A sketch of the country in your vicinity is with the engineer who left here for your headquarters this morning.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,
ED. SCHRIVER,
Colonel and Chief of Staff.

HDQRS. THIRD ARMY CORPS, ARMY OF VIRGINIA,
Culpeper, August 7, 1862.

Colonel DUFFIE,
Commanding First Rhode Island Cavalry:

SIR: The general commanding directs me to inform you that the First Maine Cavalry has received orders to occupy Raccoon Ford and to do generally what you were instructed to do in my letter of the 6th instant. He will now be on your left and you must search for him and his pickets in that direction.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

ED. SCHRIVER,
Colonel and Chief of Staff.

P. S.—You will perceive from the above that you are not at Raccoon Ford, and from your statement to the general just received you must be at the Rapidan crossing.

[12.]

HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE POTOMAC,
August 8, 1862—12.30 p. m.

[General E. D. Keyes:]

GENERAL: General Pleasonton reports from Haxall's at 11.30 this evening that the enemy are reported as having been seen advancing toward Malvern Hill to-day, and his pickets have been pressed this evening by those of the enemy. The general commanding desires you to give instructions to that part of your command that is out in the direction of Nelson's farm to keep their pickets well out, and if they are approached by a large force to retire to your intrenchments. General Pleasonton has been instructed to fall back if he is pressed by the enemy in force. Your pickets should (as you are well aware) be vigilant during the night and in the morning.

Very respectfully,

R. B. MARCY,
Chief of Staff.

[Indorsement.]

HEADQUARTERS FOURTH CORPS,
August 9, 1862—2 a. m.

The foregoing is communicated for the information and guidance of division commanders. The advanced guards and pickets will be instructed accordingly, and the utmost vigilance and care will be exercised.

By order of Major-General Keyes:

C. C. SUYDAM,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

HDQRS. THIRD ARMY CORPS, ARMY OF VIRGINIA,
Culpeper, August 8, 1862.

Brigadier-General BAYARD,
Commanding Cavalry Brigade:

SIR: It is the direction of the major-general commanding that you make frequent reports to these headquarters (until further orders) as often as every two hours. Take occasion to report briefly your position, that of your pickets and of your grand guard, certainly as often as they are changed. Never lose sight of the enemy and make accurate reports, if you can, of your position, numbers, &c.

Very respectfully,

S. F. BARSTOW,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

(Same to Colonel Allen and Colonel Duffié.)

[12.]
Brigadier-General BAYARD,
Commanding Cavalry Brigade, Ten Miles from Culpeper:

GENERAL: As yet the commanding general is without any definite report from you as to your position, &c. He therefore desires you to report immediately the strength present of your command; the situation of your headquarters; the post of the Pennsylvania cavalry; the post of the New Jersey cavalry; the position of your grand guard, line of pickets, reserve, &c. You are required to picket five miles east of the railroad, but as Colonel Dufîé is now one mile east of the railroad you are so far relieved of attending to that part of the country in advance. The design of estafets is to facilitate communication between you and these headquarters. Posts at about three miles distant, occupied by some five men each, furnish relays of carriers, and they enable prompt communication to be made without injury to horses, &c. One man should have his horse always ready to go forward, and instructions should be given not to go at a greater speed than six miles an hour, unless in cases of emergency.

Very respectfully, general, your obedient servant,

S. F. BARSTOW,
Major and Assistant Adjutant-General.

SPECIAL ORDERS,)
HEADQUARTERS FIFTH CORPS,
Camp near Harrison's Landing, Va.,
August 9, 1862.

6. Brigadier-General Seymour will detail a brigade of at least 1,500 men to relieve the infantry command now at Coggins' Point, under Brigadier-General Butterfield. The command will be rationed for three days, fully supplied with ammunition, and will bivouac. Take none but shelter-tents or anything which will encumber the command if required to march at short notice. The brigade quartermaster will provide 400 axes for fatigue purposes. The command will embark to-morrow at 5 a.m. from the ordnance wharf. Transportation will be provided by the quartermaster's department. The commanding officer will receive from Brigadier-General Butterfield the instructions for his guidance. Brigadier-General Butterfield on being relieved will return with his command to camp.

By command of Maj. Gen. F. J. Porter:

FRED. T. LOCKE,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

ED. SCHRIVER,
Colonel and Chief of Staff.
Brigadier-General Ricketts,
Commanding Division:
The major-general commanding directs that you establish a reliable line of pickets joining on to your next neighbor, and that you make, if possible, such an arrangement as will effectually prevent a stampede to-night.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,
ED. SCHRIVER,
Colonel and Chief of Staff.

Brigadier-General Jackson,
Commanding at Coggins' Point:

GENERAL: The commanding general directs that the six-gun battery now with your command be returned to this side of the river, the shipment to take place as early as possible this evening, but no movement to be made until the darkness shall be sufficient to hide it from observation. The other guns will be retained in position, and the places left vacant by the withdrawal above ordered shall be carefully masked. The commanding general further directs that all the cavalry now with you, except an officer and fifteen men, shall be shipped in the same manner as above prescribed and at about the same time. Transportation will be provided for your use immediately after dark. Timely notice will be given of any further movement that may be considered advisable. Meanwhile the commanding general desires that you will take every precaution to prevent any intimation of the changes herein ordered from becoming known even to persons in your own command. You will please destroy this letter and silently take the necessary measures, avoiding any accumulation of stores or property, and keeping your command well in hand for any emergency. The caissons of the remaining battery can be brought to a point on the plateau convenient to the landing. The battery which crosses will report to Colonel Hunt.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,
J. KIRKLAND,
Captain and Aide-de-Camp.
HDQRS. THIRD ARMY CORPS, ARMY OF VIRGINIA,
Near Culpeper, August 12, 1862.

Brig. Gen. G. D. BAYARD,
Commanding Brigade:

The major-general directs that you move your brigade (leaving the First Maine behind) to the rear of Duffie's regiment, who is pressed by the enemy on the Raccoon Ford road.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,
ED. SCHRIVER,
Chief of Staff.

FALMOUTH, VA., August 13, 1862—11 a.m.

Maj. Gen. H. W. HALLECK:

Colonel Magilton, of the Second Brigade, Pennsylvania Reserves, has arrived at Aquia Creek—the First, Third, Fourth, Eighth, and a part of the Eleventh Regiments. I have ordered him to this place at once.

A. E. BURNSIDE,
Major-General.

GENERAL ORDERS,
No. 11.
HEADQUARTERS FIFTH ARMY CORPS,
August 14, 1862.

Sykes' division will march at 7.30 p.m., taking the road through Charles City Court-House to Barrett's Ferry over the Chickahominy. Hunt's Reserve Artillery will follow Sykes'. Sykes will place a regiment in rear of Hunt's batteries. Sykes' wagons will follow the artillery. The artillery wagons will follow Sykes'. Morell's division will march at 9 o'clock. The wagons will follow the division. His leading brigade will guard the trains of artillery in advance of him. The whole command will halt at 12 o'clock and rest for two hours. At 2 o'clock the leading division will march and follow verbal instructions from the commanding general. The other commands will resume the march at the same hour and be governed by verbal instructions. The commanding general will start with the last division and join the leading division. Captain Kirkland, aide-de-camp, will provide guides.

By command of Maj. Gen. F. J. Porter:

FRED. T. LOCKE,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

SPECIAL ORDERS,
No. 110.
HEADQUARTERS FIFTH ARMY CORPS,
Camp near Harrison's Landing, Va.,
August 14, 1862.

1. The brigade and the artillery of McCall's division, now on this side of the river, will embark for Aquia Creek on the Potomac, where they will report for duty to Maj. Gen. A. E. Burnside.

2. Jackson's brigade, of McCall's division, and the artillery attached to it will receive orders hereafter direct from the headquarters of the Army of the Potomac.

By command of Maj. Gen. F. J. Porter:

FRED. T. LOCKE,
Assistant Adjutant-General.
Special Orders, No. 150.

Flat Top Mountain, August 14, 1862.

1. The First Provisional Brigade will move to Camp Piatt, taking up its march at 3 o'clock to-morrow morning. The detachment of Twenty-third Regiment at Pack's Ferry will thoroughly destroy all boats, large and small, in that vicinity, doing the same as secretly as possible after dark to-night.

2. Colonel Moor, with the Second Provisional Brigade, will move to Raleigh Court-House, starting at the time above ordered. At Raleigh he will leave the Thirty-seventh and Thirty-fourth Ohio, and proceed to Camp Piatt with the Twenty-eighth, Simmonds' battery, and Schambrock's cavalry. Captain McMahan's company, Second Virginia Cavalry, will accompany the Second Brigade and be under Colonel Moor's command to Raleigh, and will there report to Colonel Siber, Thirty-seventh Ohio Volunteer Infantry.

3. The whole movement will be conducted in the best order possible, and the destination will be concealed from all except officers immediately and necessarily obliged to be informed. Each evening rations for the next day will be cooked, and the march will be commenced each morning at the same hour. Commandants of brigades will see that all possible means are taken to keep the columns well closed, to prevent straggling and make speed.

By command of Brig. Gen. J. D. Cox:

G. M. BASCOM,

Captain and Assistant Adjutant-General.

Headquarters Army of the Potomac,

Berkeley, August 15, 1862—1.30 p. m.

Maj. Gen. H. W. HALLECK,

Washington, D. C.:

The advance corps and the trains are fairly started. I have nothing more in relation to reported advance of rebels via Jones' Bridge. Shall push the movement as rapidly as possible.

G. B. McCLELLAN,

Major-General.

SPECIAL ORDERS, No. 237.

Camp near Harrison's Landing, August 15, 1862.

4. Maj. Gen. Israel B. Richardson will resume command of his division, relieving Brig. Gen. George Stoneman, who will thereupon resume command of the division of cavalry, and immediately report in person at these headquarters for special instructions.

By command of Major-General McClellan:

S. WILLIAMS,

Assistant Adjutant-General.

*So in McClellan's manifold dispatch book, but in Halleck's telegrams-received book, it is dated August 16, and is so printed in Vol. XII, Part III, p. 578.
GENERAL ORDERS, HEADQUARTERS FOURTH ARMY CORPS,
No. 82.
August 15, 1862.

The troops will be immediately put in readiness to march, and will be prepared to move at five minutes' notice. When the movement takes place it will be in the following order: First, the wagons of Peck's division, which are to accompany the column; second, Peck's division; third, the wagons of the Reserve Artillery, which are to accompany the column; fourth, the Reserve Artillery; fifth, the wagons of Couch's division, which are to accompany the column; sixth, Couch's division. On the march the wagons of each division will be preceded by an advance guard of one regiment. The utmost care will be taken to prevent the straggling of the troops, and no sick men will be allowed to fall to the rear. There is no water transportation for them, and all, without exception, must be kept up with the column. Division commanders will detail an appropriate guard to accomplish this object. The headquarters of the corps will be established on the march at the rear of the leading (Peck's) division.

By command of Major-General Keyes:

C. C. SUYDAM,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

GENERAL ORDERS, HEADQUARTERS FIFTH ARMY CORPS,
No. 12.
Camp at Barrett's Ford, Va., August 15, 1862.

The command will march to-morrow in the following order: First, at 3 a.m., Sykes' division, one brigade of which will constitute the guard to Hunt's artillery and wagon train. Second, at 4 a.m., Hunt's artillery. Wagon train of Sykes and Hunt will follow united in rear of Reserve Artillery. At 9 a.m. a brigade of Morell's division will follow the Reserve Artillery train. He will have prepared a brigade to march and march it at an earlier hour in case the trains preceding his command shall have marched. When troops other than the advanced guard halt to rest they will be turned off the road and the train permitted to pass them. The command will march to Williamsburg, provided other orders are not issued.

By command of Maj. Gen. F. J. Porter:

FRED. T. LOCKE,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

HEADQUARTERS FOURTH CORPS,
In the Field, August 16, 1862—11.45 p. m.

The corps moves to-morrow morning at daylight in the order of march to-day. General Peck will start his wagons ahead of his troops, so that the first wagon shall be on the road and on its way precisely at 3 o'clock. General Peck will send in advance of the wagons a large pioneer force with discreet officers to repair the road. The route will be over the road running south where the small brook was seen by General Peck and General Emory to-day.

By command of Major-General Keyes:

C. C. SUYDAM,
Assistant Adjutant-General.
Major-General Pope,

Commanding Army of Virginia:

GENERAL: I hear that Brig. Gen. H. G. Wright is now in Washington and anxious for a command. It would be very gratifying to me to have him assigned to the command of my old division. Will you apply for him? I sent one brigade to Cedar Creek last night; the rest of my command are now ready to start. I am waiting the return of Lieutenant Mackenzie, of the Engineers, who is to guide the command; also for General Buford. If he cannot get ready to-day I shall leave without him.

I have the honor to be, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

J. L. RENO,

Major-General.

HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE POTOMAC,

August 17, 1862—9 p. m.

General E. D. Keyes,

Commanding Army Corps:

The general commanding directs that you order General Peck to march his division with his train at daylight to-morrow morning, and send an officer to accompany Major Davis to select camps, and return to report to you before reaching the camp. General Franklin marches at the same time and General Couch will follow. It is important that General Peck should be prompt in starting. Major Davis, assistant inspector-general, is encamped near my tent where you saw me this evening.

Very respectfully,

R. B. MARCY,

Chief of Staff.

AUGUST 17, 1862—9.30 a. m.

Major [Huey]:

Your note of 8.30 is received. Keep your position as long as you can. When compelled to fall back do it slowly, notifying the pickets on the first and second Long Bridge roads. I am at Mrs. Clarke's, and unless further orders require me, shall remain until 6 p. m. Let me know if anything important occurs.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

A. PLEASONTON,

Brigadier-General.

AUGUST 17, 1862.

Major Huey,

Commanding Pickets:

MAJOR: I shall move from this at 6 p. m., at which time you can draw in your pickets, or keep them out till dark, as you may think best. Bring in with you the 1st and 2nd Squadrons, and proceed back on Charles City at 6 p. m. and wait there until you get the order to follow. Keep a squadron a mile or two to the rear and let there be vedettes and flankers in. rear of it. All roads coming in from the direction of the Chickahominy should be well watched. In case we stop for the night do not close on the column, but keep in rear at least two miles. I hope to be able to cross the Chickahominy to-night. If so, I will relieve you to-morrow. After passing Charles City Court-House send three of your squadrons longest on picket to join their regiments. We take the road to Barrett's Ferry near the mouth of the Chickahominy. Mr. Ward, aide-de-camp, will hand you this.

Very respectfully,

A. PLEASONTON,
Brigadier-General, Commanding.

HDQRS. THIRD ARMY CORPS, ARMY OF VIRGINIA,
August 17, 1862.

[11.

Brig. Gen. J. B. RICKETTS,
Commanding Division:

GENERAL: The major-general commanding directs that your division retire by the road east of Cedar Mountain and take up a position on the left of King's present camp. Your supply train will precede the column and be parked in the woods near the position which your division recently occupied, and which will be pointed out by the quartermaster.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

ED. SCHRIVER,
Colonel and Chief of Staff.

[12.

HDQRS. THIRD ARMY CORPS, ARMY OF VIRGINIA,
August 17, 1862.

Brig. Gen. R. KING,
Commanding Division:

GENERAL: You will send a regiment of infantry to the front this p. m. with two days' cooked rations, for a term of armed service for two days, to take post at a point which will be indicated by a staff officer from these headquarters. This regiment to serve as a support for the regiment of cavalry which will be ordered to occupy the line of the Robertson's and Rapidan Rivers, connecting on the right with General Sigel and on the left with General Reno. The regiment to march at 5 p. m.

Respectfully,

S. F. BARSTOW,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

[12.

HDQRS. THIRD ARMY CORPS, ARMY OF VIRGINIA,
August 17, 1862.

Colonel DUFFIE,
Commanding Rhode Island Cavalry:

COLONEL: The major-general directs that you order in your regiment this side of Mitchell's Station.

Very respectfully, &c.,

ED. SCHRIVER,
Colonel and Chief of Staff.

[12.]
Major White,
Thirteenth Regiment Pennsylvania Cavalry,
Commanding Expedition to south of Frederick:

Sir: You will proceed with your command by railroad to the intersection of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad and the Baltimore and Frederick turnpike, where you will be met by Capt. W. T. Faithful, provost-marshal of Frederick, who will conduct you to the camp of some 200 guerrillas, reported to be about sixteen miles south of Frederick. Should you find this report to be true, you will attack them, kill as many as possible, and break up the band. Having performed which duty you will return to this city and report.

By command of Major-General Wool:

WM. D. WHIPPLE,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

SUFFOLK, VA., August 17, 1862.

(Via Fort Monroe, August 18—10 a.m. Received 4 p.m.)

Maj. Gen. H. W. HALLECK:

Stonewall Jackson has 125,000 men at least. He is fortifying between Louisa Court-House and Gordonsville. They knew a week ago of McClellan's movements on the Peninsula. It is their intention to whip Pope and move on to Washington. I have this from good authority.

JOS. K. F. MANSFIELD,
Major-General, U. S. Army.

GENERAL ORDERs, HDQRS. DISTRICT OF THE KANAWHA,
No. 31.
Gauley Bridge, Va., August 17, 1862.

1. Brig. Gen. J. D. Cox hereby turns over to Col. J. A. J. Lightburn, Fourth Virginia Volunteers, the command of this district.

2. Commandants of all the forces in the Kanawha Valley not already ordered to accompany the commanding general out of the district will report to Colonel Lightburn for orders.

3. Brigade Surg. George M. Kellogg will report for duty to Colonel Lightburn as medical director of the district.

4. Commandants of the several posts now held will proceed immediately to put such positions in the strongest defensive condition, so that they may serve as bases for active operations at any time.

By command of Brig. Gen. J. D. Cox:

G. M. BASCOM,
Captain and Assistant Adjutant-General.

HEADQUARTERS TOPOGRAPHICAL ENGINEERS,
ARMY OF THE POTOMAC,
Camp near Williamsburg, August 18, 1862.

Brig. Gen. S. WILLIAMS,
Adjutant-General, Army of the Potomac:

GENERAL: In reference to the inquiry as to the works in front of Williamsburg which should be destroyed, I have to report that if the three redoubts on the right of the line, commanding the road from Allen's Landing or Wharf on James River (formerly King's Mill wharf), were destroyed or taken, the position could be turned. But as these works are small (the faces being of forty yards) they could be rebuilt in a short time. A similar remark is applicable to the two redoubts near the left of the line, one of which commands the crossing of a deep mill pond, the other (the one taken by General Hancock), the road at the point of departure of a branch road which passes through woods to the rear of the main work. Fort Magruder, the principal work, commands the main roads along James River and along York River leading to Williamsburg, which unite in one road near this fort, the two branches from these two roads being in like manner commanded by the redoubts previously mentioned. To make the destruction effectual, therefore, it seems to me necessary to destroy all the works named. The parapet of Fort Magruder is nine feet thick, about six feet high, with ditches nine feet wide and probably nine feet deep, filled with water. The interior crest is about 600 yards long.

I inclose a very imperfect photographic copy of a sketch exhibiting the position of Williamsburg, which is sufficiently correct for the illustration of the subject of this letter.* There is some error of scale in that part of it west of Williamsburg.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

A. A. HUMPHREYS,

Brigadier-General Volunteers, Comdg., Topographical Engineers.

---

SPECIAL ORDERS,  }
 No. 112. }
 HEADQUARTERS FIFTH ARMY CORPS,
 Camp at Newport News, August 18, 1862.

Morell's division will commence embarking to-morrow morning at 6 o'clock and continue embarking as rapidly as possible, the infantry from Newport News, the artillery from Hampton. As fast as a brigade has embarked, it will sail for Aquia Creek, where it will debark and be reported to Major-General Burnside by the division commander, or brigade commander if the latter be not present. If possible, at least two wagons will be taken with each regiment, brigade, and division headquarters. Two batteries of Hunt's reserve will embark at Hampton after Morell's batteries, the guns, &c., going on the City of Norwich with those of Morell. These batteries will, on arrival at Aquia Creek, be reported as part of the Reserve Artillery. All will debark as rapidly as possible after arrival and the vessels directed to return and report to the quartermaster at Fort Monroe. With such of the wagons as cannot be transported a suitable officer will be left to bring them up as soon as transportation can be obtained. The artillery ammunition will be put in the schooners.

By command of Maj. Gen. F. J. Porter:

FRED. T. LOCKE,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

---

HDQRS. THIRD ARMY CORPS, ARMY OF VIRGINIA,
August 18, 1862.

Brig. Gen. GEORGE D. BAYARD:
You will concentrate the cavalry force of the corps, on the receipt of this, at the foot of Cedar Mountain, and you will be expected to notify *Sketch not found.

Colonel Allen, First Maine, of this order. Colonel Duffié is on outpost duty between the Cedar Mountain and the Rapidan. He has been ordered to join you at daylight, when, with the whole force, you will cover the rear of the column agreeably to general order of this date. —

ED. SCHRIVER,
Colonel and Chief of Staff.

HDQRS. THIRD ARMY CORPS, ARMY OF VIRGINIA,
August 18, 1862.

Colonel Duffié:
You will fall back, with your regiment, to the foot of Cedar Mountain in time to join by daylight on the 19th instant the cavalry of the corps, which is ordered to concentrate at the foot of Cedar Mountain, and report to Brigadier-General Bayard.

By order of Major-General McDowell:

ED. SCHRIVER,
Colonel and Chief of Staff.

HDQRS. THIRD ARMY CORPS, ARMY OF VIRGINIA,
August 18, 1862.

Colonel Duffié:
Send your baggage train under your quartermaster here, to Colonel Myers, and as soon as you are ready to move, proceed to the front on the road which passes to the east of Cedar Mountain, and relieve the Harris Light Cavalry. On being relieved, the Harris Light Cavalry will proceed to their camp and make preparations for their movement to the rear. Keep the posts now occupied by Harris Light Cavalry occupied, unless you should be overpowered by a large force of the enemy. The infantry regiment now there will come in this evening.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

ED. SCHRIVER,
Colonel and Chief of Staff.

HDQRS. THIRD ARMY CORPS, ARMY OF VIRGINIA,
August 18, 1862.

Commanding Officer Harris Light Cavalry:
On being relieved by Colonel Duffié's regiment, you will repair to your camp and make preparations for a movement to the rear. The regiment of infantry now with you will come in late this evening.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

ED. SCHRIVER,
Colonel and Chief of Staff.

HDQRS. THIRD ARMY CORPS, ARMY OF VIRGINIA,
August 18, 1862.

Brig. Gen. Z. B. Tower, Commanding Brigade:
It is the order of the major-general commanding the army that, when the last railroad train shall have passed the bridge over Cedar Run, you cause it to be destroyed. Acknowledge the receipt of this order.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

ED. SCHRIVER,
Colonel and Chief of Staff.

* See Vol. XII, Part III, p. 598.
HEADQUARTERS DETACHMENT NINTH ARMY CORPS,
Cedar Creek, August 18, 1862.

Col. GEORGE D. RUGGLES,
Asst. Adjt. Gen. and Chief of Staff, Army of Virginia:

COLONEL: I have the honor to report that the telegraph operator has not yet arrived. The cavalry expedition sent out yesterday has not yet returned, nor the infantry expedition sent to the top of Clark's Mountain. I have the honor to be, colonel, your obedient servant,

J. L. RENO,
Major-General, Commanding Detachment Ninth Army Corps.

[12.]

FORT MONROE, August 18, 1862—9 a.m.

Major-General HALLECK, General-in-Chief:

Will leave this forenoon. It is blowing very hard. Porter's advance has arrived at Newport News. Everything was progressing well when I left the Chickahominy last evening. Hear of no trouble this a.m. The remainder of Pennsylvania Reserves is here and in vessels, and will leave to-day for Aquia Creek.

A. E. BURNSIDE,
Major-General.

HEADQUARTERS DETACHMENT NINTH ARMY CORPS,
August 18, 1862.

General STEVENS,
Commanding First Division:

GENERAL: Start all your wagons immediately for Stevensburg. Have three days' rations cooked and be ready to move at a moment's notice. We are to fall back by Barnett's Ford, crossing the Rappahannock. After having made these arrangements, report to me in person. Very respectfully,

J. L. RENO,
Major-General.

[12.]

HEADQUARTERS DETACHMENT NINTH ARMY CORPS,
August 18, 1862—11 a.m.

General STEVENS:

If you can find a good place to command Raccoon Ford you had better put Benjamin's battery in position. Support it strongly by infantry. The enemy are in strong force in the rear of Clark's Mountain, extending toward Raccoon Ford. Push forward your reconnaissance of the roads. The battery should not be nearer than one mile and a quarter. Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

J. L. RENO,
Major-General.

[12.]

HEADQUARTERS DETACHMENT NINTH ARMY CORPS,
Cedar Creek, Va., August 18, 1862.

General BUFORD,
Commanding Second Cavalry Brigade:

GENERAL: The infantry regiments are ordered to march at 10 o'clock to-night. You will follow them. You will send a couple of squadrons to Raccoon Ford by dark, with directions to obstruct the road leading up from the ford as much as possible. They will remain there until your column comes up, when you will make such disposition of them as you see fit. Two squadrons will be sent down along the road leading toward Germanna Mills, where they will remain and communicate with the advance column. We are ordered to cross at Barnett’s Ford.

I have the honor to be, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

EDWARD M. NEILL,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

FORT MONROE, August 19, 1862.
(Received 1.30 p. m.)

Major-General HALLECK,
Commander-in-Chief:

General Porter is at Newport News. I go there at once. The weather is fine. We have an abundance of transports, and you may rely on most rapid movements.

JOHN TUCKER,
Assistant Secretary of War.

CIRCULAR.]
HEADQUARTERS FOURTH CORPS,
August 19, 1862.

The Fourth Corps will move to-morrow morning in the following order: Couch’s division, starting at 4.30 a.m., will be in advance; next the Reserve Artillery, following Couch’s wagons, and last Peck’s division. The wagons will be in rear of their respective divisions. General Peck will detail a rearguard of one regiment, and will start the head of his column at 6 a.m.

By command of Major-General Keyes:

L. J. HOWARD,
Aide-de-Camp.

HEADQUARTERS FIFTH ARMY CORPS,
Newport News, August 19, 1862.

Major-General MORELL,
Commanding Division:

GENERAL: The commanding general desires me to say that he has received intelligence which makes it very important the command should reach Aquia Creek and Fredericksburg as quickly as possible. He desires that you will not fail to make every exertion to get your command on board to-day.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

FRED. T. LOCKE,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

HEADQUARTERS DETACHMENT NINTH ARMY CORPS,
Kelly’s Ford, Va., August 19, 1862.

Colonel RUGGLES,
Assistant Adjutant-General and Chief of Staff:

COLONEL: I have the honor of informing you of my safe arrival at Kelly’s Ford with six regiments of my command, with their baggage train; and I have every reason to believe that General Stevens, with the other six regiments and the cavalry, have arrived at Barnett's Ford, as he was several hours in advance. Kelly's Ford is an admirable one, and advantageously situated for defense, the hills on the north side commanding all the approaches, and a good road leads to Barnett's Ford on the north side, connecting the two fords, the distance being seven or eight miles apart. Our march was unmolested, the rebels not having made their appearance. Our wagon train got along admirably, every wagon having crossed before 10 a.m. Our pickets from Germanna Ford and below on the Rapidan report no movement of the enemy in their front.

I have the honor to be, colonel, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

J. L. RENO,
Major-General.

HDQRS. THIRD ARMY CORPS, ARMY OF VIRGINIA,
August 19, 1862.

Brig. Gen. R. KING,
Commanding Division:

You will halt your command in the vicinity of this station and bivouac for the night, not making any permanent arrangements. The position of the corps will be on the right of General Banks and you will be on the left of Ricketts.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

ED. SCHRIVER,
Colonel and Chief of Staff.

HDQRS. THIRD ARMY CORPS, ARMY OF VIRGINIA,
August 19, 1862.

Brig. Gen. GEORGE D. BAYARD:

GENERAL: You will halt your command at Brandy Station and throw out large forces on the Raccoon Ford, Somerville Ford, and Germanna Ford roads, picketing well in every direction.

By command of Major-General McDowell:

ED. SCHRIVER,
Colonel and Chief of Staff.

Baltimore, Md., August 19, 1862.

Col. D. S. MILES,
Harper’s Ferry:

The major-general commanding directs that the greatest vigilance be exercised by all the officers on the line of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad to prevent the breaking of the line of road or destruction of bridges. He also empowers you to countermand his order to Colonel Voss to recall his cavalry at Paw Paw if you deem it necessary.

W. D. WHIPPLE,
Assistant Adjutant-General.
SPECIAL ORDERS, No. 198.

HEADQUARTERS OF THE ARMY,
ADJUTANT-GENERAL'S OFFICE,
Washington, August 20, 1862.

By command of Major-General Halleck:

E. D. TOWNSEND,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

GENERAL ORDERS, No. 44.

HDQRS. FIRST DIVISION, THIRD CORPS,
Steamer Express, August 20, 1862.

The destination of this division is Alexandria. On arriving there each brigade commander will encamp his brigade at some convenient place about two miles from the city between the Little River turnpike and the railroad. The men will be had in readiness to proceed by rail, but no troops will be moved without orders emanating from the division commander. Commanders of batteries will also encamp as prescribed for brigades, and will attend to the above instructions.

By order of Major-General Kearny:

J. E. MALLON,
Acting Assistant Adjutant-General.

HEADQUARTERS FOURTH CORPS,
August 20, 1862—1 p. m.

Major-General Peck:

GENERAL: The major-general commanding the corps has been instructed to hold Gloucester Point. He therefore directs that two regiments from Emory's brigade be sent across without delay. The officer in charge will apply to Brigadier-General Van Alen, commanding post, for means of crossing.

By command of Major-General Keyes:

C. C. SUYDAM,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

FALMOUTH, Va., August 20, 1862—2.04 p. m.
(Received 4.20 p. m.)

Maj. Gen. H. W. HALLECK,
Commander-in-Chief:

General Stevens is at Barnett's Ford, and sent down for intrenching tools. We have none of any account. General Burnside has not arrived.

JNO. G. PARKE,
Major-General, Commanding.

[12.]
Brigadier-General Stevens,

Commanding First Division, Ninth Army Corps:

GENERAL: I am instructed by Major-General Reno to direct you to move your command to this place to join him.

I have the honor to be, general, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

EDWARD M. NEILL,

Captain and Assistant Adjutant-General.

[12.]

HDQRS. FIRST AND SECOND DIVS., NINTH ARMY CORPS,
Kelly's Ford, August 20, 1862.

Brigadier-General STEVENS,

Commanding First Division, Ninth Army Corps:

GENERAL: If you think it necessary to leave a regiment until the troops from Fredericksburg arrive you can do so.

Very respectfully, yours,

J. L. RENO,

Major-General.

[12.]

HDQRS. FIRST AND SECOND DIVS., NINTH ARMY CORPS,
Kelly's Ford, August 20, 1862.

Brigadier-General STEVENS,

Commanding First Division, Ninth Army Corps:

GENERAL: General Reno desires me to instruct you not to move your command to this place until to-morrow. If General Porter has not arrived with his artillery, leave four of your light guns.

I have the honor to be, general, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

EDWARD M. NEILL,

Captain and Assistant Adjutant-General.

[12.]

Brigadier-General BUFORD,

Commanding Second Cavalry Brigade:

GENERAL: I am directed by General Reno to instruct you as follows: You will leave one regiment of cavalry at Barnett's Ford and move on with your whole remaining force on the south side of the river up to this point, pushing out a reconnaissance in your front as far as you can. Your wagons may be sent up on this side of the river. You will leave a strong force at the forks of the road that leads to Germanna Ford. The main portion of your force will remain on the opposite side of the river from this point, which will be so arranged as to cover our front. General Bayard with five regiments of cavalry occupies Brandy Station, five miles from the Rappahannock on the railroad toward Culpeper.

I have the honor to be, general, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

EDWARD M. NEILL,

Captain and Assistant Adjutant-General.

[12.]
Major-General Buford,
Commanding Second Cavalry Brigade:

GENERAL: You must be the judge whether it is practicable to come here by the south side. I should like you to send some cavalry here this evening by the road on the north side. The enemy's cavalry (about a dozen) have been on the opposite side of the river and killed one of our pickets. A man just in from the Harris Light Cavalry reports that his regiment had been driven in by a very large force of cavalry this morning. I don't think they can be in very strong force in your front, if that is so. However, you will know more about that than myself, so use your own discretion.

J. L. RENO,
Major-General.

Brig. Gen. J. B. Ricketts,
Commanding Division:

It is the order of Major-General McDowell that you do not fail to acquaint him as soon as possible if anything should occur to-night which it is proper for him to know.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

ED. SCHRIVER,
Colonel and Chief of Staff.

Lieut. Col. W. D. Whipple,
Assistant Adjutant-General, Baltimore, Md.:

COLONEL: I have the honor to acknowledge receipt of the major-general commanding's telegraph of yesterday from Harrisburg, at Martinsburg, and your telegraph relating to the same subject, on my return last night to this place. I telegraphed to Colonel Voss to leave the companies of his regiment at Paw Paw and return with the balance of his regiment to Martinsburg. You can assure the general commanding that the railroad is in no more danger now than at any prior period. If it had not been strictly guarded it would have been destroyed. Guerrilla parties are all through the country headed by returned men from the rebel army. Their object seems [to be] to collect men, horses, arms, do what damage they can to the Union men and the Government, and rejoin their regiments. Their numbers are greatly overestimated, and no fear need be apprehended of the destruction of any of the bridges at present. It is very desirable that more cavalry should be at my disposal than I now have control of, but I shall embrace the application in a separate communication.

I am, sir, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

D. S. MILES,
Colonel Second Infantry.
I. In virtue of Special Orders, No. 196, from the Headquarters of the Army, dated at Washington, August 19, 1862, Brig. Gen. J. G. Barnard assumes the command of the fortifications of Washington and troops assigned to the defenses.

II. The fortifications and troops on the south side of the Potomac will remain under the immediate command of Brig. Gen. A. W. Whipple; those on the north side under charge of Lieutenant-Colonel Haskin, aide-de-camp, through whom all orders will be transmitted and to whom commanding officers will make their usual reports.

III. Capt. J. Brice Smith is announced as assistant adjutant-general to this command, and Lieut. T. M. Farrell, Fifteenth New York Volunteers, as aide-de-camp to the general commanding.

J. G. BARNARD,
Brigadier-General, Commanding Defenses of Washington.

HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE POTOMAC,
August 21, 1862.

Lieut. Col. B. S. ALEXANDER, Yorktown:

General Keyes has been instructed to confer with you, and to furnish the necessary working parties to carry out your views with regard to the defense of Yorktown. He has also been instructed to send a brigade of infantry to Williamsburg for a few days to cover this work, General Keyes to take the general command and control of these operations. As soon as you have set the work going repair here in person, leaving Lieutenant McAlester at Yorktown for the present to superintend it.

R. B. MARCY,
Chief of Staff.

I. Two regiments of Emory's brigade, Peck's division, will be placed temporarily in garrison at Yorktown. Brigadier-General Emory will take post in Yorktown, and will report as usual to his division commander in all matters relating to the duties at Yorktown and Gloucester Point, which will be considered under General Emory's immediate command. He will report to the corps commander through Major-General Peck.

By command of Major-General Keyes:

OSWALD JACKSON,
Aide-de-Camp.

General Emory will at once designate the regiments and proceed to Yorktown without delay.

HEADQUARTERS FIRST AND SECOND DIVS., NINTH ARMY CORPS,
August 21, 1862.

Col. JAMES NAGLE:

Colonel: You will order your troops to be ready to move and report in person at these headquarters at once. The camps will not be disturbed. You are to proceed to the south side of the river some three miles, to the support of a reconnaissance to be made by cavalry.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

EDWARD M. NEILL,
Captain and Assistant Adjutant-General.

HDQRS. THIRD ARMY CORPS, ARMY OF VIRGINIA,
August 21, 1862.

Brigadier-General KING,

Commanding, &c.:

GENERAL: In looking at the position of your troops this p. m., the major-general commanding regarded their order too much extended.
It is therefore desirable and the general directs that you keep at least two of your brigades in reserve. General Pope thinks one brigade with artillery ought to be sufficient to guard the ford. One of the best should be used for this purpose and one of the best in reserve. The general noticed that all the four battalions of Hatch's brigade occupied the same general line. As it is the order of the Major-General-in-Chief, Halleck, that every inch of ground shall be disputed with the enemy, it becomes necessary to make the disposition of your troops in such a way that only a part shall be engaged at the same time. As a general thing, which will admit of few exceptions, brigades should be drawn up in two lines, the second line being in double column at half distance, so as to best enable them to take advantage of the undulations of the ground to screen the men from the enemy's fire. Major Tillson will see this evening or early to-morrow morning that the two batteries received from Major-General Banks receive new ammunition. It is suggested that they be posted on the high ground which they first occupied this a. m., so they may shell the woods on the opposite side by firing over the heads of our men. It is suggested by the major-general commanding the army that your howitzers and Napoleon batteries be put closer to the ford, so as to sweep it, should the enemy attempt to cross. The general endeavored to see you this p. m. on the subject of his communication, but failed to do so. Please write if there is anything which strikes you as unsuited to the position your division is to occupy.

Very respectfully, general, your obedient servant,

ED. SCHRIVER,
Colonel and Chief of Staff.

ORDERS,

HDQRS. DIV. PENNSYLVANIA RESERVE CORPS,
No. 70. Camp near Fredericksburg, Va., August 21, 1862.

Pursuant to instructions from headquarters Fifth Army Corps the undersigned hereby assumes command of this division. General Seymour is assigned to the command of Reynolds' brigade. The following changes in the organization of the division are ordered: Meade's brigade will be known as the First; Seymour's as the Second, and Jackson's as the Third. The Eleventh Regiment, Colonel Gallagher, is assigned to the Third Brigade, and its commanding officer will report to General Jackson. Commanders of brigades will cause the muster directed in paragraph 3, orders from the War Department, dated July 31, 1862, to be made at once and the rolls forwarded as directed therein.
They will also cause to be read at the head of every regiment orders No. 154, headquarters Army of the Potomac, which will be strictly enforced by all commanders. At the same time they are reminded that all existing orders of the division are in full force until otherwise changed.

JOHN F. REYNOLDS,
Brigadier-General of Volunteers, Commanding.

ORDERS, \{ HEADQUARTERS REYNOLDS' DIVISION, \\
No. 71. \} Opposite Fredericksburg, August 21, 1862.\\n
The First Rifle Regiment, Pennsylvania Reserve Volunteer Corps, is hereby assigned to the First Brigade, General Meade; and its commanding officer, Col. H. W. McNeil, will report to Brigadier-General Meade.

By order of Brigadier-General Reynolds:

C. B. LAMBORN,
Acting Assistant Adjutant-General.

ORDERS, \{ HEADQUARTERS REYNOLDS' DIVISION, \\
No. 72. \} Opposite Fredericksburg, August 21, 1862.

I. The troops comprising this division will hold themselves in readiness to move at short notice. Wagons will be furnished for transportation from the depot. But three wagons will be allowed to each regiment, of which two will be required to transport ammunition. The full amount of ammunition must be carried at all hazards. The surplus baggage may be placed in store in Falmouth.

II. The troops composing this division will be at once ordered under arms and take the road leading to Barnett's Ford, on the Rappahannock. The men will have three days' provisions in their haversacks, and officers three days' forage. As soon as the wagons which will be furnished to the regiments are loaded and the brigades ready to move, the brigade commanders will report to these headquarters.

By order of Brigadier-General Reynolds:

CHARLES B. LAMBORN,
Acting Assistant Adjutant-General.

HEADQUARTERS EIGHTH ARMY CORPS,
Baltimore, August 21, 1862.

Brig. Gen. B. F. KELLEY,
Cumberland, Md.:

GENERAL: You can, if you deem it absolutely necessary, send two of the regiments at Cumberland and New Creek, leaving Mulligan's regiment and battery at New Creek, to defend the pass of Cheat Mountain. Under your command you have over 5,000 men. Can you not concentrate some parts of this force to defend the pass at Cheat Mountain? It will hardly be safe to take any of the troops this side of Cumberland. They are distributed all along the road to the Relay House.

JOHN E. WOOL,
Major-General.
MD., E. N. C., PA., VA., EXCEPT S. W., & W. VA. [CHAP. LXIII.

WAR DEPARTMENT,
Washington City, August 21, 1862—9.20 a.m.

TO ALL OFFICERS COMMANDING OR IN CHARGE OF TROOPS BELONGING TO GENERAL COX'S COMMAND, Parkersburg, Va.:

You will ship your troops without a moment's delay as fast as transportation is furnished by the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad Company.

P. H. WATSON,
Assistant Secretary of War.

[12.]

GENERAL ORDERS, HEADQUARTERS KANAWHA DIVISION,
No. 1.
Parkersburg, Va., August 21, 1862.

1. The First Provisional Brigade of this division, commanded by Col. E. P. Scammon, Twenty-third Regiment Ohio Volunteer Infantry, will remain as announced in General Orders, No. 13, dated May 7, 1862, from headquarters District of the Kanawha, with addition of Company A, First Virginia Cavalry.

2. The Second Provisional Brigade will consist of the Eleventh, Twenty-eighth, and Thirty-sixth Regiments Ohio Volunteer Infantry, Schambeck's company Illinois cavalry, and Simmonds' artillery, and will be commanded by Col. A. Moor, of Twenty-eighth Regiment Ohio Volunteer Infantry. The commandants of these regiments and companies will immediately report to Colonel Moor for orders.

By command of Brig. Gen. J. D. Cox:

G. M. BASCOM,
Captain and Assistant Adjutant-General.

[12.]

SPECIAL ORDERS, HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE POTOMAC,
No. 241.
Camp near Fort Monroe, Va., August 22, 1862.

3. At his own request, Brig. Gen. George Stoneman is relieved from duty with the Army of the Potomac, and will proceed to Washington and report to the Adjutant-General of the Army for orders.

The brigades of cavalry will be respectively commanded by the senior officer of each present for duty.

By command of Major-General McClellan:

S. WILLIAMS,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

[11.]

SPECIAL ORDERS, HEADQUARTERS FOURTH CORPS,
No. 101.
Camp near Yorktown, August 22, 1862.

I. The remaining regiments of General Emory's brigade now in this camp will join their camp above Yorktown this evening.

II. Major-General Peck, commanding division, will order one of the batteries of artillery attached to his division to proceed forthwith to Gloucester Point to report to the officer in command there.

By command of Major-General Keyes:

OSWALD JACKSON,
Aide-de-Camp.
FALMOUTH, August 22, 1862—12.20 a. m.

Major-General McCLELLAN,

Fort Monroe:

I guess we shall have no trouble to hold out for five or six days.*

FITZ JOHN PORTER,

Major-General.

FALMOUTH, August 22, 1862.

Major-General MORELL,

Commanding Division:

GENERAL: The commanding general directs that you be prepared to move on at a moment's notice in the direction of Kelly's Ford, under orders from this point, and to obey a call from that direction. Orders will be sent you in time should your command be required for support.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

FRED. T. LOCKE,

Assistant Adjutant-General.

SPECIAL ORDERS, No. 116.

Falmouth, Va., August 22, 1862.

Brigadier-General Sykes will move his command as early as possible to-morrow morning and proceed to Deep Creek. He will encamp at that place or its immediate vicinity. He will hold himself in readiness to give support to the troops in front and to secure and protect the fords in that neighborhood. He will take with him as much provision as he can carry and drive beef on the hoof.

By command of Maj. Gen. F. J. Porter:

FRED. T. LOCKE,

Assistant Adjutant-General.

HEADQUARTERS RESERVE ARMY CORPS,
Alexandria, Va., August 22, 1862—2.30 p. m.

Col. G. D. Ruggles,

General Pope's Headquarters, Rappahannock:

SIR: I have directed Colonel Pierce, at Manassas, to send forward and guard the road strongly from Catlett's to Manassas, and to arrest all stragglers from your army. The railroad is now monopolized by Heintzelman's division, so that it is impossible to send any from here. I think some of them will be off soon, and that may attain the end desired, but I will send him your telegram.

S. D. STURGIS,

Brigadier-General.

HEADQUARTERS RESERVE ARMY CORPS,
Alexandria, Va., August 22, 1862—2.30 p. m.

Colonel Pierce,

Comdg. Twelfth Pennsylvania Cav., Manassas Junction, Va.:

COLONEL: You will immediately place strong guards all along the railroad from Catlett's Station to Manassas. This is imperative. Guard

* This in reply to McClellan to Porter, August 21, 10.40 p. m., Vol. XII, Part III, p. 615. the road to the best of your ability and arrest all stragglers from General Pope's army.

S. D. STURGIS,
Brigadier-General.

HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE POTOMAC,
Fort Monroe, August 23, 1862.

Maj. Gen. H. W. HALLECK,
Commanding U. S. Army, Washington, D. C.:

In view of his important services since the army reached Harrison's Bar, I respectfully recommend and urge that Col. R. Ingalls, chief quartermaster of this army, may be made a brigadier-general of volunteers or a brigadier-general by brevet in the Regular Army. The duties and position of Colonel Ingalls make it almost necessary that he should have this rank.

G. B. McCLELLAN,
Major-General.

SPECIAL ORDERS, No. 102.
HEADQUARTERS FOURTH CORPS,
Camp near Yorktown, August 23, 1862.

II. The brigades of Generals Ferry and Wessells, with the artillery attached to Peek's division, with the exception of the battery now at Gloucester Point, will proceed to-morrow morning at daybreak to Fort Monroe and report to Major-General Dix, commanding Seventh Corps.

By order of Major-General Keyes, commanding Fourth Corps:
OSWALD JACKSON,
Aide-de-Camp.

ALEXANDRIA, August 23, 1862—9.30 a. m.

General HEINTZELMAN,
275 I Street:

General Pope reports that the enemy has turned his right flank. He desires you to endeavor to keep open the railroad communication between Cedar Run and the Rappahannock. General Halleck wishes you to mass the corps at Warrenton Junction, Catlett's, or Manassas, as the case may be, in the event of the railroad communication to the Rappahannock being interrupted.

C. MCKEEVER,
Chief of Staff.

OFFICE CHIEF QUARTERMASTER,
SECOND CORPS, ARMY OF VIRGINIA,
August 23, 1862

Capt. E. B. OLMSTED,
Commanding Pioneer Corps, Second Division, Second Corps:

SIR: By direction of Major-General Banks, you are instructed to open a road from Broad Run to Catlett's Station, cutting a straight road through all the woods wherever this can be done, and cutting off all stumps, making a good track for artillery and troops. You will also send a wagon and small party back to repair the crossing damaged by the rain.

I am, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

S. B. HOLABIRD,
Colonel, Aide-de-Camp.

HEADQUARTERS EIGHTH ARMY CORPS,
Baltimore, August 23, 1862.

Maj. Gen. H. W. HALLECK,

Washington:

A recent order from the Secretary of War directs me to send home the three-months' regiments, most of which expire on the 26th of this month. Unless replaced by other regiments the forts will be at the mercy of the rebels. Shall I replace them with regiments passing through this city to Washington?*

- JOHN E. WOOL,
Major-General.

FORT MONROE, August 24, 1862—1 p. m.
(Received 1.45 p. m.)

Major-General HALLECK:

We have sea-going steamers here to take 13,000 of General Sumner's troops which are now embarking. A strong gale causes the detention of all other vessels.

JOHN TUCKER,
Assistant Secretary of War.

WASHINGTON, D. C., August 24, 1863—10 a. m.

Capt. CHARLES G. SAWTELLE, Assistant Quartermaster, or Capt. C. W. THOMAS,
Assistant Quartermaster, Fortress Monroe, Va.:

Twenty or thirty canal boats or barges must be had at once at Aquia Creek to build a wharf. There are none here which can be spared. Can you send any? If so, send them at once to Capt. C. L. West, assistant quartermaster, Aquia Creek. Let me know at once by telegraph how many you can send. Any that you have loaded can be sent up with their loads. The necessity for them is urgent.

D. H. RUCKER,
Colonel, Quartermaster, &c.

FORT MONROE, August 24, 1862.
(Received 7.15 p. m.)

Col. R. INGALLS,
Chief Quartermaster, Army of the Potomac, Aquia Creek, Va.:

I have sea-going transports for about 13,000 men of Sumner's corps, which are embarking to-day. General Sumner says he shall not send any of them off until the whole corps is embarked. Nothing else can

* For reply, see Vol. XII, Part III, p. 640. start to-day on account of the gale. Batteries are loading rapidly, but the schooners and small steamers must be kept in this harbor until the storm abates.

C. G. SAWTEILLE,
Captain and Assistant Quartermaster.

WASHINGTON, D. C., August 24, 1862—11.09 a.m.

Capt. C. B. FERGUSON,
Assistant Quartermaster, Alexandria, Va.:

There will arrive at Alexandria to-day by water sixty tons ammunition, which it is important should be sent forward immediately to General Pope's army. Please see that it goes forward without delay.

D. H. BUCKER,
Colonel and Quartermaster.

WASHINGTON, D. C., August 24, 1862—11.09 a.m.

Capt. C. B. FERGUSON,
Assistant Quartermaster, Alexandria, Va.:

There will arrive at Alexandria to-day by water sixty tons ammunition, which it is important should be sent forward immediately to General Pope's army. Please see that it goes forward without delay.

D. H. BUCKER,
Colonel and Quartermaster.

[12.]

HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE POTOMAC,
Aquia, August 24, 1862—6 a.m.

Major-General BURNSIDE,
Major-General PORTER,
Falmouth, Va.:

I have just reported to Halleck for orders.* What news have you? Come down and see me on the steamer City of Hudson. I remain here until I receive orders from Halleck.

G. B. McCLELLAN,
Major-General.

HEADQUARTERS FIFTH ARMY CORPS,
Falmouth, Va., August 24, 1862.

Generals MORELL and SYKES:

Hold your present positions and keep a bright lookout at the fords and toward Rappahannock Station. Resist crossings, and if enemy succeeds in large force and presses, retire slowly this way. Keep me informed.

F. J. PORTER,
Major-General.

[Indorsement.]

GENERAL: I have read this and shall hold on at Deep Run. Can't you send me a platoon or company of cavalry? I want them for the side roads.

Yours,

[12.]

G. S.,
Brigadier-General.

HEADQUARTERS EIGHTH ARMY CORPS,
Baltimore, August 24, 1862.

His Excellency E. D. MORGAN,
Governor of New York, Albany, N. Y.:

SIR: The Seventh Regiment New York State Militia will leave this city on Thursday next for New York to be mustered out of service.

Can you not send me a first-rate regiment to take its place in the fort on Federal Hill? It is an important position for the defense of Baltimore. The term of service of the Seventh Regiment expires on the 25th. The colonel consents to remain until the 28th at my request. Please answer.

JOHN E. WOOL,
Major-General.

[12.]

HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE POTOMAC,
Aquia Creek, August 25, 1862—11 a. m.

JOHN E. WOOL,
Major-General.

Can you not send me a first-rate regiment to take its place in the fort on Federal Hill? It is an important position for the defense of Baltimore. The term of service of the Seventh Regiment expires on the 25th. The colonel consents to remain until the 28th at my request. Please answer.

Major-General BURNSIDE,
Falmouth:

Have you heard anything from Rappahannock Station, Kelly’s Ford, or Porter’s troops this morning? I will go out to Falmouth on 1 o’clock train to see you.

G. B. McCLELLAN,
Major-General.

[12.]

HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE POTOMAC,
Aquia, [August] 25, 1862.

G. B. McCLELLAN,
Major-General.

Maj. Gen. E. V. SUMNER,
Commanding Second Corps:

General McClellan directs that you send forward your troops as fast as they embark and not wait for all to embark before sending any. Send them to this place.

A. V. COLBURN,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

[12.]

FALMOUTH, August 25, 1862.

Maj. Gen. F. J. PORTER:

Until Sumner’s troops arrive it would be well to hold the fords with an ample force. You are now in connection with Pope, and, no doubt, can get what cavalry you want. When you can dispense with the three companies of Indiana cavalry, please send them back. We will send up the forty wagons with provisions for Morell and Griffin; have sent down to Aquia for wagonload of hospital stores; will send them with supply train if they arrive. The wagons and ambulances will be sent out as they arrive with the direction you request. All quiet here. Your dispatches all received, and your disposition of troops is all right. You state that Reno is expected to pass to your left. To what point is he to go?

A. E. BURNSIDE,
Major-General.

[12.]

FALMOUTH, [August] 25, 1862—11.05.

Capt. C. G. SAWTELLE,
Assistant Quartermaster, Fort Monroe:

The commanding general desires that you will now use all your means of transportation in forwarding cavalry wagons and mules. Keyes’ corps to wait for the present.

S. WILLIAMS,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

[12.]
[General Birney:]

GENERAL: You will employ all the Second Pennsylvania Cavalry which I yesterday sent to the front for your purposes. The main party toward the Rappahannock bridge should be at least fifty to sixty men; the rest in small patrols, protecting our advanced infantry from being surprised. Two horsemen should be with all advanced outposts as messengers and some few (two to five) constantly moving between points from front to rear. The regiment at Bealeton Station is rather an ambush party (as against strong bodies). The troops in front, on the contrary, are intended to “impose,” and should so move about as to represent numbers. It seems to me that Elkton is a dangerous point, and should be watched. A force of some 2,000 or 3,000 men trying to get in your rear from that point should be surprised by you with a flank attack.

Respectfully, yours,

PH. KEARNY,
Major-General, Commanding.

P. S.—Keep the Twentieth Indiana, but if the Eighty-seventh New York or Sixty-third Pennsylvania Volunteers come along send them back to General Robinson.

[12.]

HEADQUARTERS FIRST DIVISION,
Near Warrenton, Va., August 25, 1862.

Col. BUTLER PRICE,
Second Pennsylvania Cavalry:

COLONEL: Your principle of action will be to patrol heavily in the daytime and rest your horses at night. At night organize your men to act on foot with their carbines. As General Robinson, whom I have placed in immediate command, delegates, Colonel Kane, of the Bucktails, will take charge on the Catlettside. You will concert with him as to a system of night defense.

_Patrols.—_Let your parties be of 50 to 100 horse. The distant ones about 100. These should go on main lines of direction and forward at least five miles, halting at cross-roads and there sending out small patrols or scouts to go two or three miles rapidly and return. The small guerrilla parties are to be expected from the west and northwest; the more serious (but less probable) attacks from the southeast via Weaversville and that vicinity. This day please to send out 100 horse by Bealeton, thence to Elkton, and then by by-roads to Weaversville. At Elkton send out small detachments to all points. Start shortly. Our infantry is at Bealeton, with parties in all directions. In case of finding the enemy in force report at once to the regiments at Bealeton and to General Birney.

PHIL. KEARNY,
Major-General, Commanding.

General Birney:

GENERAL: The above is a copy of instructions sent this morning to Colonel Price.

Respectfully,

G. W. MINDIL,
Acting Assistant Adjutant-General.
CHAP. LXIII.]

CORRESPONDENCE, ETC.—UNION.

761

HEADQUARTERS FIFTH ARMY CORPS,
No. 118. } Deep Creek, Va., August 25, 1862.

I. Sykes' division will march at 5 a.m. to-morrow to vicinity of Rappahannock Station. Warren's brigade will join the division.

II. Morell's division will march at 5 a.m. to-morrow to vicinity of Kelly's Ford and camp under cover from the enemy's fire on opposite bank of Rappahannock. Griffin's brigade and one battery will remain for the present at Barnett's Ford.

III. Each division will hold the ford in its vicinity, keep watch over adjacent fords, and strike the enemy if he attempt to cross within reach. With the aid of the cavalry at the fords they will keep up communication with each other and these headquarters, the location of which will be given in time from day to day.

By command of Maj. Gen. F. J. Porter:

FRED. T. LOCKE,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

[12.]

ADJUTANT-GENERAL'S OFFICE,
August 25, 1862—4.35 p.m.

Col. W. G. WARD,
Twelfth New York Militia, Harper's Ferry, Va.:

The Secretary of War accepts the offer of your regiment to remain until September 1.

E. D. TOWNSEND,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

[12.]

HEADQUARTERS EIGHTH ARMY CORPS,
Baltimore, August 25, 1862.

Governor E. D. MORGAN,
Albany, N. Y.:

SIR: I have received your dispatch. Colonel Porter, with his regiment, having arrived just before I received it, I have promised him the position on Federal Hill. I require, however, for other important positions, four other regiments, and shall be glad if the State of New York could supply them. I will endeavor to take good care of them.

JOHN E. WOOL,
Major-General.

[12.]

WARRENTON JUNCTION, August 26, 1862.
(Received 1 p.m.)

Maj. Gen. H. W. HALLECK,
General-in-Chief:

Our animals are suffering and getting badly out of condition for want of forage. I should be glad if the forwarding of supplies could be expedited.

JNO. POPE,
Major-General.

[12.]
HEADQUARTERS FIRST DIVISION,
Camp near Licking Creek, August 26, 1862—9.40 a.m.

General BIRNEY,
Second Brigade:

GENERAL: The general commanding division directs [that] you move forward one of the regiments at Bealeton to the side of the advanced Maine regiment, so as to cover a greater extent of ground, at the same time advancing one of your regiments from the rear to Bealeton to supply its place. In the direction of Elkton you are pretty secure, as the outposts of Poe's brigade extend to the place, Poe having a regiment on the dirt road between his camp and Elkton. In case of attack you will fight the enemy near the river well to the front. A section of Randolph's battery will be posted with the detachment at Bealeton. You can use it to the front. The cavalry squadron will report to you as desired. Keep them well in a body to resist crossing. If small parties of the enemy cross, ambush and surround them. You will please inform these headquarters what regiments have been sent to the front.

Respectfully,

G. W. MINDIL,
Acting Assistant Adjutant-General.

---

HDQRS. THIRD ARMY CORPS, ARMY OF VIRGINIA,
August 26, 1862.

Brig. Gen. J. B. RICKETTS,
Commanding Division:

GENERAL: Retrace your steps and occupy your position on the Waterloo road with your division.

By command of Major-General McDowell:

ED. SCHRIVER,
Colonel and Chief of Staff.

---

SPECIAL ORDERS,
No. 105,
Camp near Yorktown, August 26, 1862.

I. Major-General Peck will resume the charge of the work on the fortifications at Yorktown, paragraph 7, Special Orders, No. 104, from these headquarters, being hereby annulled.

By command of Major-General Keyes:

OSWALD JACKSON,
Aide-de-Camp.

---

HDQRS. THIRD ARMY CORPS, ARMY OF VIRGINIA,
August 26, 1862.

Brigadier-General BUFORD,
Commanding Cavalry:

By direction of the major general commanding, a regiment of cavalry will be detailed from your command to report to him at Waterloo.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

S. F. BARSTOW,
Assistant Adjutant-General.
Maj. Gen. E. D. Keyes,
Commanding Fourth Corps, Yorktown:

The general commanding directs that you send Couch's division, as soon as transportation can be had, to Aquia Creek, to report thence by telegraph to these headquarters near Alexandria. The general directs that you remain, for the present, at Yorktown, to direct the organization and discipline of the 5,000 new troops now being sent there.

By command of Major-General McClellan:

S. WILLIAMS,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

[11.]

HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE POTOMAC,
Alexandria, August 27, 1862.

Lieut. Col. H. Biggs,
Chief Quartermaster, Ninth Corps, Aquia Creek:
The general commanding desires that you will hurry forward Captain Norris and the Second Cavalry as soon as they arrive. Every man of the command is greatly needed here at once.

S. WILLIAMS,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

[12.]

WARRENTON JUNCTION, August 27, 1862.

General Burnside,
Falmouth, Va.:

A dispatch to me was lost by an orderly. If anything of much importance has been sent would like it repeated. I leave in the morning for Greenwich to aid in protecting the line of retreat, which is now threatened. Would that I were out of this; I don't like the concern. I think there is no cause for alarm here or anywhere, except for Washington. Communication should at once be opened from Alexandria. No effort to do so is being made from here. The reliance is upon Alexandria.

F. J. PORTER,
Major-General.

[12.]

HDQRS. THIRD ARMY CORPS, ARMY OF VIRGINIA,
August 27, 1862.

Brigadier-General Reynolds,
Commanding Division:

It is the order of Major-General McDowell that you will move on your own division to a point where our headquarters are, and rest here until further orders.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

ED. SCHRIVER,
Colonel and Chief of Staff.

[12.]
HEADQUARTERS,
Harper's Ferry, August 27, 1862.

Lieut. Col. William D. Whipple,
Assistant Adjutant-General, Baltimore, and ADJUTANT-GENERAL,
Washington:

Express has just reached me that about 150 of the enemy's cavalry surprised and captured Captain Means' company of Loudoun Rangers at Waterford, Va. (about fourteen miles southeast of this), this morning at daybreak. Means' company varied in strength—sometimes about sixty and other times not over thirty—without discipline. Most of my cavalry (three small companies) now out on the Winchester road. This force of the enemy can cut the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad at Point of Rocks or Berlin, there being but one company of infantry at either place.

I am, sir, &c.,

D. S. MILES,
Colonel Second Infantry.

[12.]

HEADQUARTERS EIGHTH ARMY CORPS,
Baltimore, August 27, 1862.

Col. D. S. Miles,
Commanding at Harper's Ferry, Va.:

COLONEL: You will send a force to Point of Rocks with two pieces of artillery immediately. I sent you two strong regiments and six pieces of artillery. I will send you another regiment in the course of the day.

JOHN E. WOOL,
Major-General.

[12.]

HEADQUARTERS,
Harper's Ferry, August 27, 1862.

Major-General Wool,
Baltimore:

Two citizens from Lovettsville, a few miles this side of Waterford, report 1 lieutenant and 4 men wounded, the officer mortally. Captured 17 men and paroled them. They did not know how many guerrillas there were, but that as soon as the fight was over they got wagons and commenced packing them with the carbines and clothing captured.

D. S. MILES,
Colonel Second Infantry.

[12.]

HEADQUARTERS,
Harper's Ferry, August 27, 1862.

Lieut. Col. William D. Whipple,
Assistant Adjutant-General, Baltimore, Md.:

SIR: I telegraphed to you this morning the capture of Captain Means' company, surprised, so the young man from there informed me, while sleeping in a church at Waterford, Loudoun County, Va., fourteen miles southeast of this, by about 150 rebel cavalry. Means' company, lately raised, without discipline, has committed all kinds of depredations on the inhabitants, living on them, taking what he pleased and when it suited him, until the arrival of his men in any vicinity was a dread and terror. This company was never placed under my command or I should have removed him from Loudoun County long since. In my last interview with him I warned him, from the loose, straggling manner he encamped and marched, he would be surprised and cut to pieces. The number of the enemy may be exaggerated; if true, it may turn out to be the left wing of Lee's army. What cavalry I have here are in the saddle for Berlin, the nearest crossing-place to Waterford, to ascertain the damage done to Means, and to protect the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad; also to penetrate as far into Virginia as prudent, to gain information. There is no force on the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad from here to Point of Rocks to resist an attack of a large body of men; one company at Sandy Hook, one at Berlin, one at Point of Rocks, and another ten miles south at Edwards Ferry, belonging to Maulsby's regiment of Maryland Potomac Home Brigade. If the enemy is in force he can cross the Potomac anywhere. The small force of cavalry at my disposal, by constant hard work, is nearly broken down. I this moment received a dispatch from Means that he escaped from Waterford; that he was attacked by 500 guerrillas. For the last two days I have sent by the train on the Winchester railroad a company of infantry, and it has passed through unmolested. General White has just telegraphed that it is probable the train will be attacked to-day. I shall, however, risk it, believing one company in cars ought to whip a regiment of cav-raly on horseback. I have now on the Winchester railroad one small regiment (Eleventh New York State Militia), whose time of service expires to-morrow, distributed as follows: Four companies at Charlestown, one at Cameron, one at Summit Point, and two at Opequon bridge.
To keep the road open and admit the passage of cars with safety will require two regiments of infantry and one of cavalry, under present aspect of affairs.

I am, sir, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

D. S. MILES,
Colonel Second Infantry.

[12.]

HEADQUARTERS EIGHTH ARMY CORPS,
Baltimore, August 27, 1862.

Col. D. S. MILES,
Commanding at Harper's Ferry:

You can certainly guard the Winchester road. None of the three-months' militiamen will leave your command without orders from these headquarters.

JOHN E. WOOL,
Major-General.

[12.]

HEADQUARTERS,
Harper's Ferry, August 27, 1862.

Lieut. Col. WILLIAM D. WHIPPLE,
Assistant Adjutant-General, Baltimore, Md. :

SIR: The general commanding's telegraph received sufficiently early to reply by mail. I have ordered and will leave here at 1 p. m. to-day 200 men under a field officer of the Eighty-seventh Ohio State Militia, and two 12-pounder smooth-borees, with a detachment from Captain Graham's company, with four days' rations. I have sent Captain Cole with about 100 cavalry to Waterford to get information of the enemy.
Five of Means' men, who were not sleeping with the company at the church, just arrived, and report that they knew of some of their men who were wounded; that about fifty of Means' company were in the church, and when they left were still fighting. The general states he has sent me two strong regiments. I have received but one, and the men belonging to it never had a gun in their hands until the boxes were opened and muskets issued to them yesterday; nor does an officer of the command (except of two companies), as the colonel reports, know how to drill or anything about the drill. I have detailed, or rather they volunteered, four officers and four non-commissioned officers from the Twelfth and Twenty-second New York, each to instruct the companies of this regiment in the manual of loading.

I am, sir, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

D. S. MILES,

Colonel Second Infantry.

Point of Rocks, August 27, 1862—7 a. m.

Col. D. S. MILES:

Three of Captain Means' men are at my place. Their statement is that at daybreak this a. m. Captain Means and [company] were attacked by some fifty guerrillas in the town of Waterford. They give no information of the result of the attack. Will notify you if anything reliable received.

R. C. BAMFORD,

Near Waterford, August 27, 1862—a. m.

General D. S. MILES:

I am attacked by at least 500 guerrillas. They will kill all if I cannot get help. Let me know.

S. C. MEANS,

Captain, Commanding.

12.

Headquarters Eighth Army Corps,

Baltimore, August 27, 1862.

Col. A. Voss,

Martinsburg, Va.:

Colonel: You will keep up an active vigilance and look out for guerrillas and see that they do not interfere with the railroad.

JOHN E. WOOL,

Major-General.

12.

Alexandria, August 28, 1862—10.40 a. m.

(Received 11.20 a. m.)

Major-General HALLECK:

Platt's battery (regular), Slocum's division, have arrived and nearly disembarked. One squadron Second Cavalry disembarked; another company disembarking now.

GEO. B. McCLELLAN,

Major-General.

12.
ALEXANDRIA, August 28, 1862—10.30 a.m.

Major-General BURNSIDE,
Falmouth:

Rebel cavalry at Leesburg yesterday p.m. Jackson in direction of Middleburg. Have nothing from Pope or the front to-day. Give me state of affairs with you. Rebel cavalry are between you and Alexandria. Can you communicate with Pope or Porter? If so, do so and inform me result. Am anxious. I am very badly off for cavalry and artillery. Answer.

GEO. B. McCLELLAN,
Major-General.

General WHIPPLE,
Arlington:

What garrison and guns in Fort Buffalo? I think it ought to be strongly occupied, and that any disposable cavalry should watch Vienna and Falls Church. Make the best arrangement you can as to Falls Church and please reply at once in regard to Fort Buffalo.

GEO. B. McCLELLAN,
Major-General.

HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF VIRGINIA,
Bristoe Station, August 28, 1862—5 a.m.

Maj. Gen. FITZ JOHN PORTER,
Commanding Fifth Corps:

GENERAL: Major-General Pope directs me to say that General Hooker reports his ammunition exhausted. General Pope desires, therefore, that you come forward with your command at once with all possible speed, and that you send back to hurry up your ammunition train.

I am, general, your obedient servant, very respectfully,
GEORGE D. RUGGLES,
Colonel and Chief of Staff.

HDQRS. THIRD ARMY CORPS, ARMY OF VIRGINIA,
August 28, 1862.

Col. A. N. DUFFIE,
First Rhode Island Cavalry:

The general commanding is disappointed at not hearing anything from you. If you do not see any enemy, the general wishes you to repair to the front, where your regiment can be of service. Report by return messenger without fail.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,
ED. SCHRIVER,
Colonel and Chief of Staff.

HARPER'S FERRY, August 28, 1862.

Major-General WOOL,
Baltimore, Md.:

Reports from my scouts and information from citizens confirm me in the belief that rebel cavalry has largely increased in number to-day at Berryville and in Loudoun County. I shall have to contract my lines on to-morrow, owing to my cavalry being fagged out, and I shall expect the troops on the Winchester road to be driven in any moment. The time of the Eleventh New York State Militia on the Winchester road expired to-day. The regiment is desirous of discharge.

D. S. MILES,
Colonel Second Infantry, Commanding.

[12.]

HEADQUARTERS EIGHTH ARMY CORPS,
Baltimore, August 28, 1862.

Col. B. F. DAVIS,
Eighth New York Cavalry, Relay House:

COLONEL: Have your regiment ready to start for Harper's Ferry by Saturday at the latest.

By command of Major-General Wool:

[12.]

W. D. WHIPPLE,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE POTOMAC,
Camp near Alexandria, August 29, 1862—8 p. m.

Brigadier-General BARNARD,
Washington:

Tyler has some forty siege guns under his charge. Consult with him as to the best disposition to be made of them.

G. B. McCLELLAN,
Major-General.

[12.]

HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE POTOMAC,
Camp near Alexandria, August 29, 1862—5.40 p. m.

Brigadier-General CASEY,
Washington, D. C.:

You will hold your command in readiness to move, but wait until further orders before moving them.

By order:

[12.]

A. V. COLBURN,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE POTOMAC,
Camp near Alexandria, August 30, 1862—12 m.

Brigadier-General BARNARD,
Washington, D. C.:

In consequence of the report made to me by Lieutenant-Colonel Webb, who has just completed an inspection of the works from Ethan Allen to Pennsylvania, I recommend as follows, viz: That at least ten well instructed artillerymen and an officer from the Second Pennsylvania Artillery be sent to Battery Vermont, and at least ten artillerymen belonging, respectively, to the same companies, with the officers now sent from the Second Pennsylvania to Battery Cameron and Fort Gaines, be sent to these two works. That Captain Ellis be held responsible for the destruction of Chain Bridge should the necessity arise, and that he be provided with hay and tar for that purpose.

G. B. McCLELLAN,
Major-General.

HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE POTOMAC,
Camp near Alexandria, August 30, 1862.

Maj. Gen. D. N. COUCH,
Alexandria:
The general commanding directs that you immediately disembark the regiment which has arrived and encamp it a short distance beyond the town, on Little River turnpike, prepared to move to front at moment's notice. Please report what part of your division you expect this afternoon and during to-night and when you expect to have the whole up.
Use every exertion to land and encamp your troops, and have them ready to move as fast as they arrive.

By command:

S. WILLIAMS,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

HEADQUARTERS,
[August] 30, 1862.

General WILLIAMS,
Assistant Adjutant-General, Headquarters:

One regiment only is disembarked and thrown forward, and others will be if they can do it for us to-night. One brigade only has arrived.
I shall do all I can.*

D. N. COUCH,
Major-General.

HEADQUARTERs,
[August 30, 1862.

Colonel HAUPT:

There has been heavy and rapid firing in the direction of Fairfax for some time. I have sent out to ascertain what it is. I thought perhaps you might learn something by telegraphing to the front.

GEO. B. McCLELLAN,
Major-General.

General G. B. McCLELLAN:

We have not noticed any firing this morning. Persons about station of whom I inquired have not heard it. My trains were started at 4.30 a.m. A courier came in from General Pope last night; he was at Centerville; the information was that Hooker was pushing the enemy toward the mountains and McDowell and Sigel cutting off his retreat.
I understood that the parties had been sent to you. Dispatches from Pope by courier have gone to Washington.

H. HAUPT.

* This in reply to Williams' dispatch of 10.10 p.m., Vol. XII, Part III, p. 751.
QUARTERMASTER'S DEPOT,
Alexandria, August 30, 1862.

Captain Rozafy,
Ordinance Officer, General Pope's Headquarters:

One hundred and fifty tons of ammunition are now loading on cars for General Pope's army, to stop at Fairfax Station. Send teams to receive it. All the wagons we have will be loaded and started for Centerville by road. Five hundred tons of ammunition is expected from the arsenal, which will be forwarded without delay.

C. B. Ferguson,
Captain and Assistant Quartermaster.
[12.]

HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE POTOMAC,
Camp near Alexandria, August 30, 1862.

Capt. C. B. Ferguson,
Assistant Quartermaster, Alexandria:

Seventeen headquarters wagons are now going in to take out reserve ammunition to Franklin's or Sumner's corps. If the ordnance officers from either of these corps can be found they should take charge of the train. If not, other arrangements must be made. A staff officer will confer with you on the subject.

S. Williams,
Assistant Adjutant-General.
[12.]

HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE POTOMAC,
Camp near Alexandria, August 30, 1862.

Capt. C. B. Ferguson,
Assistant Quartermaster, Alexandria:

The general commanding directs that you have the First Massachusetts Cavalry, Colonel Williams, landed as fast as possible when it arrives. It may be expected to-night.

S. Williams,
Assistant Adjutant-General.
[12.]

HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE POTOMAC,
Camp near Alexandria, August 30, 1862.

Col. C. S. Wainwright,
First New York Artillery:

Have everything ready at the earliest possible moment, and report where orders will reach you. The batteries will now probably accompany Couch's division. Be ready to move at a moment's notice.

S. Williams,
Assistant Adjutant-General.
[12.]

GENERAL ORDERs,
HEADQUARTERS FOURTH CORPS,
No. 87.
Yorktown, Va., August 30, 1862.

Maj. Gen. E. D. Keyes hereby assumes command of Yorktown and of all the forces hitherto under the immediate orders of Brigadier-General Van Alen.

By order of Major-General Keyes:

Oswald Jackson,
Aide-de-Camp.
HEADQUARTERS EIGHTH ARMY CORPS,
Baltimore, August 30, 1862.

Hon. E. M. STANTON,
Secretary of War, Washington, D. C.:

SIR: I have received your dispatch and have already taken measures to send you all the volunteer surgeons we can get. I congratulate you on the success of General Pope. He, however, committed an error which I cautioned him against, that is, of leaving his rear and supplies unprotected. I see you have precluded me from Washington without permission from the Adjutant-General.

JOHN E. WOOL,
Major-General.

SPECIAL ORDERS,
HEADQUARTERS KANAWHA DIVISION,
No. 6.
Camp at Munson's Hill, Va., August 30, 1862.

1. Fort Ramsay and the work on Munson's Hill are hereby put under the charge of Col. E. P. Scammon, commanding First Brigade. The heavy artillery company within these works will report to Colonel Scammon.

2. Fort Buffalo and the works on Perkins' Hill are hereby put under the charge of Col. A. Moor, commanding Second Brigade. The heavy artillery company within these works will report to Colonel Moor.

3. Col. E. P. Scammon is ordered to relieve that portion of Colonel Moor's command now occupying the work on Munson's Hill with one company of infantry and a section of McMullin's artillery.

4. Colonel Moor will place one company of infantry and a section of artillery in the works on Perkins' Hill.

By order of Brig. Gen. J. D. Cox, commanding division:

G. M. BASCOM,
Captain and Assistant Adjutant-General.

CIRCULAR.
HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF VIRGINIA,
Camp near Centerville, August 31, 1862.

Commanders of army corps will forthwith establish suitable grand guards in front of the positions they respectively hold, and have outposts thrown forward which shall furnish a line of sentinels covering the entire army. Those in the flanks will furnish a grand guard for the flanks. The advanced position this side of Cub Run will only be held as an outpost and the division now there will be withdrawn at an early hour in the morning.

By command of Major-General Pope:

GEO. D. RUGGLES,
Colonel and Chief of Staff.

HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF VIRGINIA,
Camp near Centerville, August 31, 1862.

Major-General PORTER:

GENERAL: General Pope directs you to detail one company of infantry to collect wounded from the battle-field of yesterday. You will also please detail five regimental surgeons to report to Medical Inspector Coolidge or Surgeon McParlin. The commanding officer of the infantry will report, if possible, this evening to one of the medical officers above mentioned.

I am, general, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

GEO. D. RUGGLES,
Colonel and Chief of Staff.

HEADQUARTERS,
Harper's Ferry, August 31, 1862.

Col. B. F. DAVIS,
Comdg. Eighth New York Cavalry, Harper's Ferry, Va.:

The colonel commanding the brigade directs you take post at Summit Point, on the Winchester railroad, with your regiment, it being a point where supplies from this place can more readily reach you and the nearest to the scene of operations where your services are most required, viz, Berryville, Winchester, Snicker's Ferry, and the ferries on the Shenandoah generally. The Twelfth Virginia (rebel) Cavalry has its headquarters at Middletown, seven miles from Winchester, where it has been recruited from a skeleton to a regiment of seven companies of about sixty strong each. A strong picket of this regiment is kept at Berryville and Snicker's Ferry, and a camp east of the Shenandoah at Round Mountain. It will be your first duty to closely watch the operations of this active partisan corps, which has all the advantage of you in fleeter horses, light equipments, and knowledge of the by-roads of the country. The two most active officers attached to this regiment are Captains Rouss and White. The former burned the train of cars not over a mile from your station; the latter captured in Loudoun County, at Waterford, part of Captain Means' company of rangers. White has his camp at or near Round Mound. His business seems to be to take horses and cattle to supply the rebel army. It would be very desirable to break up his command, communications, and business. From information received by telegraph it is almost certain Jackson's army has been broken and defeated. His line of retreat is cut off in almost every direction except by Snicker's Ferry. A sharp lookout in that direction will give you the opportunity of picking up stragglers and perhaps capturing a flying battery. If Winchester is attacked, General White, its commander, will fire four guns, with an interval of two minutes. Push up a light scout instantly in that direction to watch and ascertain the cause, sending to these headquarters an express immediately on the first alarm and the result of the observation of the scout; so soon as the alarm is given cars will be sent up to bring the companies at Wadesville back to Charlestown and their baggage, and to bring yours to this place.

If the force of the enemy is strong you will operate in its front or flank, preserving your communication with this place, on which you will fall back, if not cut off; in that case you will retreat on Martinsburg, cross at Shepherdstown, and join my forces down the left bank of the Potomac. I shall order four companies of the Twelfth Illinois Cavalry now at Martinsburg to take post at Smithfield, six miles north of you, with orders to communicate with you, and Captain Cole's with Means' cavalry (four companies) to operate in Loudoun County from Hillsborough, Leesburg, to Snicker's Ferry. Warn your troops of these corps, that a mistake may not be made and you fire into each other. The general order from War Department allows you while in Virginia to take what you require applicable to your necessities, such as forage, &c., which you will give proper certificates for and take up on your returns, accounting to the Government for the same, stating from whom taken. Pillage is prohibited of every kind. You can appoint a provost-marshal to give passes for travel. All that obtain passes must take the oath of allegiance, exception being made to physicians and ministers of the Gospel, but they must sign a declaration not to reveal your position or strength to the enemy, or give him any information whatever. You can also permit ladies to visit in the neighborhood, but not to carry mails or contraband of war. Besides breaking up the Twelfth Virginia Cavalry the primary object assigned you is the protection of the Winchester railroad. But one train at present runs on it, leaving here at 2 p.m.; it goes guarded with a company of infantry. Have a company sent east and west on the railroad to be three to five miles from your station at such hours as to secure the train in case of attack. The train returns from Winchester in the morning, passing your post about 9 o'clock. Please, colonel, furnish as early as possible a monthly return of your regiment, with a roster of the officers, and every five days a consolidated morning report, being on the 4th, 9th, 14th, 19th, 24th, and 29th.

I am, colonel, very respectfully, &c.,

H. M. BINNEY,
Lieutenant and Aide-de-Camp.

HEADQUARTERS,
Harper's Ferry, August 31, 1862.

Capt. H. A. COLE,
Maryland Cavalry, Bolivar, Va.:

CAPTAIN: You will to-morrow morning, with the whole of your cavalry, take the shortest route to Waterford, and take up Captain Means' company of rangers. Direct him to make and send to me at this place a monthly return of his company, one to the Adjutant-General at Washington City, and one to assistant adjutant-general at Baltimore. Every five days a consolidated morning report—4th, 9th, 14th, 19th, 24th, 29th. Take with you five days' rations, and depend upon foraging your horses in the country, giving receipts for all you take. Stop all marauding, if you have to shoot. Your principal object is to watch the movements of the enemy skedaddling from Manassas and Aldie, who will try to pass from Aldie to Snickersville. Capture all stragglers and burn up all the baggage you take, except wagons which you may be able to get off with. Destroy all arms you capture, if you can't bring them off. Be careful when you scout toward Snicker's Ferry that you do not mistake Colonel Davis' Eighth New York Cavalry for the enemy and fire into each other. Keep these headquarters advised of what you hear and see. If pressed by the enemy fall back on Berlin or Point of Rocks. You must visit Leesburg and drive out the small cavalry picket at that place, but take care and not be captured yourself. Should you meet with Colonel Davis, commanding Eighth New York Cavalry, obey his orders and such instructions as he may give you, but show him your orders if he wishes to take you out of Loudoun County. This is communicated by the order of Colonel Miles.

I am, captain, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

HENRY M. BINNEY,
Lieutenant and Aide-de-Camp.
General S. WILLIAMS,
Headquarters near Alexandria:

Do not let the batteries of Sumner’s corps proceed to the front until further orders.

JAS. A. HARDIE,
Lieutenant-Colonel and Aide-de-Camp.

[12.]

HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE POTOMAC,
September 1, 1862.

Brig. Gen. S. WILLIAMS,
Assistant Adjutant-General:

Lieutenant-Colonel Warner should get his ammunition early in the morning and then move out to join their command at once. Colonel Belknap’s command should be retained and armed. They can be turned over temporarily to Couch. When his command comes in have them armed at once.

A. V. COLBURN,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

[12.]

HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE POTOMAC,
September 1, 1862.

Brig. Gen. S. WILLIAMS,
Headquarters Camp near Alexandria:

General McClellan directs that you order General Pleasonton to send out under an experienced officer at least a company, and better a squadron, of cavalry to Fairfax Court-House, if it is possible for them to get there. It is reported that the enemy are in that vicinity, and the cavalry should move with caution, and ascertain what troops are at Fairfax. Ours should be there.

A. V. COLBURN,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

[12.]

HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE POTOMAC,
September 1, 1862.

General S. WILLIAMS,
Ass’t. Adjt. Gen., Hdqrs. Army of the Potomac, near Alexandria:

Issue orders at once to have all trains that come in to-night to park well this way from your camp, under the hill toward Four-Mile Creek, and send out some cavalry to direct them where to go. The trains of General Pope's army are now coming in. No delay must be made in executing this order, and the cavalry must continue on the duty all night.

R. B. MARCY,
Chief of Staff.

HEADQUARTERS,
Washington, September 1, 1862.

General S. WILLIAMS,
Assistant Adjutant-General, near Alexandria:
The commanding general desires to procure the return to his headquarters of Major Haller's command, and the regulars of late Willard's battalion, and begs you to take the necessary steps to secure this object. He wishes you to request General Burnside by telegraph to instruct Captain McIntyre's squadron to report to him (General McClellan), immediately upon its arrival from Aquia. The general has decided to drop the heading “Army of the Potomac,” and to say from the present simply “Headquarters.”

JAS. A. HARDIE,
Lieutenant-Colonel and Aide-de-Camp.

HEADQUARTERS,
Washington, September 1, 1862.

General WILLIAMS,
Assistant Adjutant-General, Headquarters near Alexandria:
Telegraphic communication with General Cox will do. No hurry about that. The general does not wish the batteries of Sumner's corps to move to the front, nor any wagon trains whatever on the Little River turnpike toward Fairfax Court-House. Any trains which may be within a reasonable distance of Alexandria may be stopped and got into position, if possible, to move either way. Abercrombie's brigade will prepare itself to march at short notice, but will await orders.

By command:

JAS. A. HARDIE,
Lieutenant-Colonel and Aide-de-Camp.

HEADQUARTERS,
Washington, September 1, 1862—8.40 p.m.

General S. WILLIAMS,
Assistant Adjutant-General, Headquarters near Alexandria:
General McClellan desires you to inform Col. Robert Williams that his command should be disembarked and prepared for immediate service as rapidly as possible. As soon as his command is disembarked and ready to move he is to report to General McClellan by telegraph. Please also direct Captain Howard to repair here at an early hour to-morrow to make arrangements with Colonel Rucker, assistant quartermaster, for a temporary office, storage for camp equipage, place for parking wagons, grounds for camp of headquarters troops, &c. It is desired to move the headquarters in as soon as possible. Captain Howard should report to General Marcy at 9 a.m.

JAS. A. HARDIE,
WASHINGTON, D.C., September 1, 1862—11.20 p.m.

General S. WILLIAMS,
Assistant Adjutant-General,
Hdqrs. Army of the Potomac, near Alexandria, Va.:

The commanding general directs that you move headquarters to this place early to-morrow morning. Please direct Captains Lowell, Abert, Forsyth, and Gentry to report at the general's quarters here by 9 o'clock to-morrow morning prepared to inspect new troops.

R. B. MARCY,
Chief of Staff.

HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE POTOMAC,
Camp near Alexandria, September 1, 1862.

Brig. Gen. J. G. BARNARD,
Commanding Military Defenses, Washington:

Lieut. Col. A. J. Warner, Tenth Pennsylvania Reserves, has been ordered to proceed to Arlington with the detachment of recruits and convalescents under his command, and report for duty to Brigadier-General Whipple. They will go in the morning as soon as they get ammunition. Colonel Allabach's brigade, now in front of Fort Ward, &c., has been ordered to report to Col. R. O. Tyler, for duty as part of the garrison of the works. Its position is not changed by the order. The brigade consists of the One hundred and twenty-third, One hundred and thirty-first, One hundred and thirty-third, and One hundred and thirty-fourth Pennsylvania. Brig. Gen. E. B. Tyler has been ordered to report his brigade to you for orders. It consists of the Ninety-first, One hundred and twenty-sixth, and One hundred and twenty-ninth Pennsylvania, with a section of Battery C, First New York Artillery.

S. WILLIAMS,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

HEADQUARTERS,
September 1, 1862—5.30 p.m.

Col. R. O. TYLER:
(Care General Williams, assistant adjutant-general, near Alexandria.)

The general commanding desires you to turn over such of the material of your siege train as may be indicated by General W. F. Barry as necessary for service in the forts.

JAS. A. HARDIE,

SPECIAL ORDERS, No. 5.

I. The fortifications and troops guarding the lines from Fort Blenker to Fort Lyon are hereby made to constitute an independent command, under the orders of Brig. Gen. D. P. Woodbury. The troops subject to his command will consist of his own brigade, the regiment of Colonel Tyler, the brigade of Brig. Gen. E. B. Tyler, the provisional brigade of Colonel Allabach, the Tenth Connecticut, and Thirty-fourth Massachusetts. They will report accordingly.

By command of Brigadier-General Barnard:

J. BRICE SMITH,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

[12.]

HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE POTOMAC,
September 2, 1862—12.20 a.m.

Maj. Gen. E. D. KEYES,
Yorktown:

Push the embarkation of Averell's cavalry as rapidly as possible and send them to Georgetown.

A. V. COLBURN,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

[12.]

HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE POTOMAC,
Washington, D. C., September 2, 1862—12.17 p. m.

General J. D. Cox,
Commanding, Upton's Hill:

The commanding general desires you if you have any disposable cavalry to send out a scouting party to Flint Hill, to ascertain if possible whether Jackson is in that vicinity.

R. B. MARCY,
Chief of Staff.

[12.]

HEADQUARTERS,
Washington, D. C., September 2, 1862—1.15 p. m.

Brig. Gen. J. D. Cox,
Upton's Hill:

General Pleasonton has been directed to order the companies of the Eighth Illinois Cavalry to report to you as fast as they arrive.

S. WILLIAMS,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

[12.]

UPTON'S HILL, September 2, 1862.

General WILLIAMS,
Assistant Adjutant-General:

Surgeon Hutchinson, Twenty-second New York, from Centerville, reports himself taken prisoner, with his wounded, and released this morning. He says Jackson's command was last night near Flint Hill, north of Fairfax Court-House, but he thinks, from what he overheard, that the main part of the rebel force is pushing for the Potomac. I have ordered him to report in person at General Halleck's headquarters or yours, if at Washington. My outpost at Bancroft's Mill, on Columbia pike, has report of a dash last night at a wagon train near Fairfax, and of repulse of enemy in the attack. I am carefully picketing and scouting the country from Bancroft's Mill through Mills' Cross-Roads, Freedom Hill, &c.

J. D. COX,
Brigadier-General, Commanding.

[12.]
HEADQUARTERS,
Washington, September 2, 1862.

COMMANDING OFFICER AT ALEXANDRIA:

Major-General McClellan desires you to post strong guards on all the avenues of approach from the front to prevent stragglers coming from the front. Organize, if possible, stragglers into companies. Use strong measures to do this. Men with arms can be made useful. Those without arms may be put to work, if work can be had for them.

JAS. A. HARDIE,

(Same to General Cox, Upton's Hill; Colonel Allabach, commanding brigade, care Captain Ferguson, quartermaster, at Alexandria.)

[12.]

HEADQUARTERS,
Washington, September 2, 1862—9.35 a.m.

General PLEASONTON:
(Care Captain Ferguson, assistant quartermaster, Alexandria.)

The general commanding desires you to have all the cavalry possible to mount that you can muster, and meet the general at Fort Albany in an hour or so.

JAS. A. HARDIE,

[12.]

HEADQUARTERS,
September 2, 1862—2 p.m.

General A. PLEASONTON:
(Care of Capt. C. B. Ferguson, Assistant quartermaster, Alexandria, Va.)

General McClellan wishes to collect the Eighth Illinois Cavalry at Upton's Hill, and directs that you order the portion of the regiment that arrived at Alexandria this morning to report as soon as practicable to General Cox. You will give a like destination to the portions of the regiment yet to arrive. General McClellan further directs that you establish your headquarters at once between Forts Runyon and Albany, and locate a cavalry camp under the cover of the works, where you will assemble as they arrive the troops belonging to the two brigades of cavalry, the Eighth Illinois excepted. Please acknowledge, and furnish these headquarters with the precise location of your camp.

S. WILLIAMS,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

Please send the same to General Pleasonton at Fort Albany.

[12.]

HEADQUARTERS,
Washington, September 2, 1862—3.15 p.m.

Col. H. HAUPt,
Superintendent Military Railroads:

The general commanding desires you to remove all the material from Fairfax Court-House as rapidly as possible. The army has orders to retire from there, and it is important that the movement should take place speedily. Nothing should go forward, therefore, on the railroad without the sanction of the commanding general, and all that can be brought in must be brought in rapidly. As to Major Haller's command, it should retire before the rear of the army leaves Fairfax, and so at each station it should retire before the last of the troops pass the station. The command should be brought in on the cars. The general wishes no risk to Major Haller’s command on account of the stores. The latter should of course rather be sacrificed than the command. How many prisoners remain at Fairfax Station? The general wishes an examination made of the entire railroad as far as Falls Church, in case he should wish to throw supplies out there. When Major Haller’s command reaches Alexandria it is to proceed to Washington, encamping on Fourteenth street near the college. Please so inform the major, and tell him to report his arrival to General Williams or General Marcy.

S. WILLIAMS,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

HEADQUARTERS,
Washington, September 2, 1862—6 p. m.

Capt. C. B. FERGUsoN,
Assistant Quartermaster, Alexandria:

Please convey to the commanding officer Eighth Illinois Cavalry the directions of the general commanding that all the cavalry of that regiment is to report to Brig. Gen. J. D. Cox at Upton’s Hill as fast as it arrives. Keep the general commanding advised of the arrival of these troops, and of their departure to join General Cox under these orders. All of General Pleasonton’s command of cavalry (other than the Eighth Illinois, above ordered to be posted) as fast as it arrives is to be sent to join Pleasonton at his camp between Forts Runyon and Albany. No other orders must be given by any other authority to interfere with the speedy and the immediate execution of this order. Convey General McClellan’s orders to Maj. Francis N. Clarke, chief of artillery of Sumner’s corps, to move his four batteries to the vicinity of Arlington and encamp there in such position as that they can be moved to any point. Convey instructions to Colonel Wainwright to move his five batteries to the same place with the same orders. Convey orders to Taft’s battery to move at once and report to General Abercrombie at the Chain Bridge. Also convey orders to Lieutenant-Colonel Getty to move his three batteries to the north side of the Potomac and encamp them somewhere on Fourteenth street a little out of the city, but convenient to be reached, and whence they can be ordered to any point. Any other of Getty’s batteries may join him that may arrive after this dispatch. The remaining batteries are to remain at Alexandria ready for movement at an instant’s notice. Do you know where Col. Robert Williams’ Massachusetts cavalry is? If so, tell him to report here instantly. Please acknowledge.

JAS. A. HARDIE,
HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE POTOMAC,
Washington, D. C., September 2, 1862—11.30 a. m.

Lieut. Col. GEORGE W. GETTY,
U. S. Artillery, Alexandria:

Disembark the artillery as rapidly as possible, and get ready for service. If anything can be gained by disembarking at Georgetown or Washington, you are at liberty to come there.

A. V. COLBURN,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE POTOMAC,
September 2, 1862—11.40 a. m.

General ABERCROMBIE,
Commanding Brigade near Alexandria, Va.:

The commanding general directs that you at once march your brigade up on the south side the Potomac to a defensible position in the main road leading to the Chain Bridge, somewhere between Fort Ethan Allen and Fort Marcy. He also directs that if one of the reserve batteries which arrived at Alexandria this morning can be got ready to accompany you without detaining you, that you take it. If it will not be ready in time it will be ordered to follow on this side the river, and join you near Chain Bridge.

R. B. MARCY,
Chief of Staff.

HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE POTOMAC,
September 2, 1862—3.40 p. m.

General J. J. ABERCROMBIE,
Alexandria, Va.:

Please move at once with such troops of Couch's division as are at or near Alexandria, except those guarding the railroad. Also take the battery you mention and report precisely what will be the composition of your command as it leaves Alexandria. The general commanding expects that you will command other troops in the vicinity of Chain Bridge. You will receive instructions concerning this on your arrival there.

R. B. MARCY,
Chief of Staff.

HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE POTOMAC,
September 2, 1862.

Brigadier-General WHIPPLE, Arlington:

General Abercrombie is placed in command of the forts in the vicinity of Chain Bridge.

A. V. COLBURN,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

HEADQUARTERS,
Washington, September 2, 1862.

General A. W. WHIPPLE, Arlington:

A portion of General Pope's army will probably be in to-night. Caution your men not to fire on it and to keep on the alert. The men may be kept at work on the rifle-pits, though they must be instructed to be on the lookout, that they may readily be able to join their corps when occasion may require.

By command:

JAS. A. HARDIE,

[12.]

HEADQUARTERS,
Washington, September 2, 1862—5.30 p. m.

Col. R. O. TYLER,
First Connecticut Artillery, near Fort Worth:
(Care Capt. C. B. Ferguson, assistant quartermaster, Alexandria, who will at once send the message to Colonel Tyler.)

COLONEL: General Barnard reports that the siege guns on the barges have not yet been sent to the Washington Arsenal. It is highly important that this should be done immediately. The necessary towage must be furnished by Captain Ferguson immediately. Please acknowledge.

By command of Major-General McClellan:

JAS. A. HARDIE,

[12.]

WASHINGTON, D. C., September 2, 1862—11.10 p. m.

Col. R. WILLIAMS,
Alexandria, Va.:

Instructions as to the duty required of your command were sent to Major Higginson, of your regiment, a short time since. They were, in general terms, to watch all the fords on the Potomac between Great Falls and Harper's Ferry, as it is not improbable that the enemy may make an attempt to cross to-night. Not a moment must be lost in starting off your command, and it must go fast.

R. B. MARCY,
Chief of Staff.

WASHINGTON, D. C., September 2, 1862—11.40 p. m.

General J. E. WOOL,
Baltimore, Md.:

It has been reported here that the enemy threatens to cut the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad near Baltimore very soon by a sudden raid of cavalry.

R. B. MARCY,
Chief of Staff.

HARPER'S FERRY, September 2, 1862.

Lieut. Col. WILLIAM D. WHIPPLE,
Assistant Adjutant-General, Baltimore:

Colonel Faskin, Eighth-seventh Ohio, Point of Rocks, reports that Captain Cole, with his command and Means' company, attacked a rebel force near Leesburg about noon to-day; that the enemy overpowered our force, which retreated in every direction. Several were killed; twenty arrived at the Point of Rocks with four wounded; also, either Captain Cole or Captain Means was killed. Yesterday afternoon during the rain-storm a rebel force of twenty-five men dashed on a mounted picket of mine about two miles from here and captured, whilst dismounted and in houses, a non-commissioned officer and five privates.

D. S. MILES,
Colonel Second Infantry.

[12.]

GENERAL ORDERS, } HDQRS. DEFENSES OF WASHINGTON,
No. 6. } Washington, September 2, 1862.

The command of the fortifications of Washington and of the troops assigned to the defenses having been assumed by Major-General McClellan, the commanding officers of the troops within this command will receive their orders from and report to him through the usual channels.

By command of Brigadier-General Barnard:

J. BRICE SMITH,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

[12.]

HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE POTOMAC,
September 3, 1862—12 m.

Maj. Gen. D. N. COUCH,
Alexandria:

General McClellan is going to Alexandria at once. Please leave word at the telegraph office where you can be found.

A. V. COLBURN,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

[19.]

HEADQUARTERS,
September 3, 1862—12.20 p. m.

General A. E. BURNSIDE,
Aquia Creek:

General McClellan desires to know when he may expect you or any portion of your command. The general wishes you to report to him by telegraph at this place immediately on reaching Alexandria.*

S. WILLIAMS,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

[19.]

HDQRS. FIRST AND SECOND DIVS., NINTH ARMY CORPS,
Near Alexandria, September 3, 1862.

COMMANDING OFFICER OF CONFEDERATE TROOPS AT OR NEAR CHANTILLY:

SIR: I have just received information through Chaplain Ball, of Twenty-first Massachusetts Volunteers, that about 250 of our wounded are now lying upon the battle-field of 1st instant entirely destitute of medical attendance and provisions. I therefore respectfully request your permission to send forward, under flag of truce, Chaplain Ball and the medical director of this command, with the necessary medical stores and provisions for the comfort of these wounded, and to bring away such of them as are able to be removed.

I have the honor to be, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

J. L. RENO,
Major-General, Commanding.

[12.]

*For reply, see dispatch of 1 p. m., Vol. XIX, Part II, p. 170.
HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE POTOMAC,
September 3, 1862—12 m.

General J. Hooker:
(Care Captain Ferguson, assistant quartermaster, Alexandria.)

Your dispatch received. You will please leave word at the quartermaster's and telegraph office where you can be found for the next three hours. The commanding general will be at Alexandria in a short time, and wishes to visit your camp and to see you.

R. B. Marcy,
Chief of Staff.

[19.]

HEADQUARTERS,
Washington, D. C., September 3, 1862—1.05 p. m.

Captain Ferguson,
Assistant Quartermaster, Alexandria, Va.:

The following dispatch has just been received.† You will please see to this matter.

Rufus Ingalls,
Lieut. Col., Aide-de-Camp, and Chief Qmr., Army of the Potomac.

[19.]

HEADQUARTERS,
September 3, 1862—11.52 p. m.

Capt. C. B. Ferguson,
Assistant Quartermaster, Alexandria, Va.:

Please send the following at once to Maj. H. L. Higginson, commanding two battalions First Massachusetts Cavalry, now encamped near Alexandria. The commanding general wishes you to see that this command is provided forthwith with two days' rations of subsistence and forage. It is of the utmost importance that it should start out at once, and the general wishes you to give your personal attention to getting it off. If possible send a guide with the command:

Maj. H. L. Higginson,
Comdg. Battls. First Massachusetts Cavalry, near Alexandria:

The commanding general directs that you proceed forthwith with your command up the Potomac for the purpose of watching the various fords between the position already occupied by a portion of your regiment near Great Falls and the Point of Rocks. The service intrusted to you is of the highest importance, and not a moment must be lost in proceeding to the scene of your duties. You will take two days' rations of subsistence and forage, with which Captain Ferguson, assistant quartermaster at Alexandria, has been requested to see you provided. You must move without cooking your rations. You are not expected to engage the enemy, but simply to watch carefully his operations, and to give the commanding general timely notice should he appear in the quarter to which you are sent. The countersign to-night is Napoleon.

By command of Major-General McClellan:

S. Williams,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

* See Vol. XIX, Part II, p. 171.
† See Burnside to McClellan, 1 p. m., Vol. XIX, Part II, p. 170.
HARPER'S FERRY, September 3, 1862.

Major-General Wool,
Baltimore:

I have every thing in readiness for any demonstration of the enemy. General White evacuated his fortifications at Winchester last night, destroyed what he could not bring away, spiked those big guns, and, as I anticipated, left them. Part of the general's men, guard, sick, and baggage have arrived. He is at Summit Point. I have ordered troops on Winchester road to this place, and remnant of Cole's cavalry back to Berlin to cross Potomac and watch the enemy. We want forage and our requisitions for ordnance filled.

D. S. MILES,
Colonel Second Infantry.

HARPER'S FERRY, September 3, 1862.

Major-General Wool,
Baltimore:

Brigadier-General White has just arrived; the One hundred and fifteenth New York from Winchester road also. Colonel Davis' Eighth New York Cavalry near by. An intelligent private of Cole's command paroled at Leesburg has just come in from that place and reports Cole's loss 3 killed, 9 wounded, and 35 prisoners. Captain Hunter, First Lieutenant Milling, and Second Lieutenant Gallagher taken prisoners. The enemy had killed 1 captain, 2 lieutenants, 1 quartermaster-sergeant, and 1 negro soldier; a great many soldiers wounded. There was one company of negroes among the cavalry. This morning 12,000 infantry and artillery arrived at Leesburg; their pickets extend to Ball's Bluff, three miles east. Arrived to-day at Point of Rocks 1,400 paroled prisoners, at Charlestown this afternoon 200, and at this place 342.

D. S. MILES,
Colonel Second Infantry, Commanding.

BALTIMORE, September 3, 1862.

Col. D. S. MILES:

I have received your dispatch. I must leave the course you ought to pursue to your own sound discretion. Take care of your position and not expose it to surprise. Watchfulness, vigilance, and a sound discretion must be your guide at the present moment.

JOHN E. WOOL,
Major-General.

POINT OF ROCKS, September 3, 1862—2.03.

Colonel MILES:

Captain Cole sends me word that a strong force of rebels has left Gainesville to attack Harper's Ferry, the lines by way of upper line Manassas, thence to Strasburg. Are you aware of this movement? Send me two boxes spherical case-shot, two boxes canister-shot, one box solid shot.

JOHN FASKIN,
Lieutenant-Colonel, &c.
No. 221.

HEADQUARTERS OF THE ARMY,

No. 221.

HEADQUARTERS OF THE ARMY,

Washington, September 4, 1862.

By command of Major-General Halleck:

E. D. TOWNSSEND,

Assistant Adjutant-General.

HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE POTOMAC,

September 4, 1862.

Maj. Gen. A. E. BURNSIDE,

Aquia Creek:

General McClellan desires that you take steps to have the engines brought away from Aquia if it is possible to get them away. Do not remain there yourself to see them off.

A. V. COLBURN,

Assistant Adjutant-General.

HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE POTOMAC,

September 4, 1862—5.55 p. m.

General F. SIGEL,

Commanding Army Corps, Fort Ethan Allen:

General Morell, at Hall's Hill, 4.30 p. m., reports that the enemy has commenced an attack upon his pickets with artillery, infantry, and cavalry. Your pickets should be on the alert, and your command at once draw into the new position indicated to you this morning.

R. B. MARCY,

Chief of Staff.

HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE POTOMAC,

September 4, 1862—5.15 p. m.

General Cox, Upton's Hill:

If so, have they men to mount them? If not, have you men that can man them without interfering with your light artillery?

GEO. B. McCLELLAN,

Major-General.

HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE POTOMAC,

September 4, 1862.

Brigadier-General Cox, Upton's Hill:

On what roads and at what distance is the rebel infantry force reported by General Pleasonton? I do not care to engage them in front of your position. I think it is a feint to cover a crossing above. Please answer at once.

GEO. B. McCLELLAN,

Major-General.

* See 5.40 p. m., Vol. XIX, Part II, p. 176.
Brig. Gen. J. D. Cox,
_Upton's Hill:_

The general commanding directs, if you have not already done so, that you send the Eighth Pennsylvania and Eighth Illinois Cavalry to report at once to Brigadier-General Pleasonton.

S. WILLIAMS,
_Assistant Adjutant-General._

HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE POTOMAC,
Washington, September 4, 1862—6 p.m.

General Cox, _Upton's Hill:_

General McClellan desires that you inform him with the least possible delay what amount of firing there was on Pleasonton's pickets and in front of Morell, and all you know about the strength and position of the enemy.*

A. V. COLBURN,
_Assistant Adjutant-General._

HEADQUARTERS,
Washington, September 4, 1862.

Brig. Gen. J. J. ABERCROMBIE,
_Fort Ethan Allen:_

General McClellan directs that the two horse batteries (Benson's old battery and Robertson's) now with Couch's division at once proceed to Tennallytown and report to General Pleasonton for special service. It is most important that they should join him at once, without a moment's loss of time. If General Couch has joined you please show him this order. If he has not, please send an orderly with it to meet him. I'lease see that the order reaches General Couch. Please answer and report how many batteries will remain with Couch's division after the withdrawal of the horse batteries.

A. V. COLBURN,
_Assistant Adjutant-General._

HEADQUARTERS,
Washington, September 4, 1862—10.10 p.m.

Brig. Gen. E. B. TYLER,
_Alexandria:_

The commanding general directs you to report your command to Major-General Franklin.

S. WILLIAMS,
_Assistant Adjutant-General._

HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE POTOMAC,
Washington, September 4, 1862.

General A. PLEASONTON,
_Clouding Cavalry Brigade, Falls Church, Va.:_
The commanding general directs that you at once order all your force in camp, except a small support for your pickets, to march with what

---

* For reply, see dispatch of 6.45 p. m., Vol. XIX, Part II, p. 176.
subsistence and forage they can carry on their horses via the Aqueduct and thence to Tennallytown, to await further orders. General Bayard has been directed to relieve your command at Falls Church, but you will not await his arrival. You will leave a staff officer to turn over your orders to him and to inform him where your men are posted, so that those you leave behind may be relieved at the earliest practicable moment. Those men will then be directed by the staff officer to follow you. You will also send an officer to your old camp near Fort Albany to order any of your troops that may have been left there to follow you rapidly. You will please make arrangements to have six days' subsistence and forage follow you. If the wagons are not at your command this can be arranged here. After you have given the necessary instructions you will report at General McClellan's house for orders with the least practicable delay. The duty about to be intrusted to you is of the utmost importance.

R. B. MARCY,
Chief of Staff.

HEADQUARTERS,
Washington, September 4, 1862—5.40 p. m.

General J. BUFORD,
Commanding Cavalry Brigade, near Upton's Hill:
(Care General Cox.)

General Bayard has been ordered to relieve General Pleasonton at Falls Church and to scout the country in his front and flanks. You will please make use of your available force in scouting that part of the country to the left of General Bayard as far as our extreme left near Fort Lyon. The commanding general desires you to give your personal attention to this matter, and wherever you find any approach on Bayard's left that is not patrolled by cavalry that you supply such patrol, so that all the roads within your district may be carefully watched and any approach of the enemy promptly reported. Until further orders you will be held responsible that all the roads within your district are carefully watched.

R. B. MARCY,
Chief of Staff.

HEADQUARTERS,
Washington, September 4, 1862—5.40 p. m.

General J. BUFORD,
Commanding Cavalry:
(Care General Cox, Upton's Hill, Va.)

The order for you to scout on Bayard's left supersedes the order for your command to move over to this side the river, communicated to you by an aide this morning.

R. B. MARCY,
Chief of Staff.

HEADQUARTERS,
Washington, September 4, 1862.

Col. W. W. AVERELL,
Third Pennsylvania Cavalry:
(Care Capt. C. B. Ferguson, assistant quartermaster, Alexandria.)

Your brigade is designed for service on the Upper Potomac. General McClellan directs that you bring your regiment to Washington as early as possible in the morning and report at these headquarters for instructions. Leave orders for the rest of your brigade to follow as rapidly as possible. Acknowledge.

S. WILLIAMS,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE POTOMAC,
September 4, 1862—6.15 p. m.

Captain FERGUSON,
Alexandria:

Please send all of Burnside's command, as it arrives, to disembark at Washington or Georgetown, if it is possible for them to do it.

A. V. COLBURN,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

HEADQUARTERS EIGHTH ARMY CORPS,
Baltimore, Md., September 4, 1862.

Colonel TRUEx,
Commanding at Monocacy, Md.:

COLONEL: You will withdraw your regiment and supplies this side of the bridge toward Baltimore, if you learn that the enemy is at the Point of Rocks. You will be sustained by Colonel Cram, of my staff.

JOHN E. WOOL,
Major-General.

POINT OF ROCKS, September 4, 1862.

Colonel MILES:

The enemy has crossed the river with 30,000 strong. We have vacated the place.

J. FASKIN,
Lieutenant-Colonel Eighty-seventh Regiment Ohio Volunteers.

HEADQUARTERS,
Washington, September 5, 1862—11.30 a. m.

General J. POPE,
Arlington House:

The commanding general directs that you at once put your command in readiness to march, with three days' rations in haversacks, cartridge-boxes filled, and reserve ammunition in your wagons. You will please, when you are ordered to move from your present position, leave officers to forward to you such supplies as you are not able to procure before.

R. B. MARCY,
Chief of Staff.

(Also sent to General Heintzelman, Fort Lyon; General F. J. Porter, General Franklin, Alexandria.)

* For Pope's reply, see Vol. XIX, Part II, p. 182.
General F. J. Porter,

Hall’s Hill:

You will please retain Chaplain Walton until something more is known about the movements of the enemy.* General Sigel was directed to draw in the main line of his forces yesterday, so as to run from Fort Ethan Allen toward your right, and it was supposed that this would so shorten the line that he could connect with you. We are very short of cavalry just now, but will send you some soon. General Bayard will be directed to pick up stragglers.

R. B. MARCY,
Chief of Staff.

HEADQUARTERS,
Washington, September 5, 1862—12.25 p. m.

Brig. Gen. J. D. Cox,

Upton’s Hill:

General McDowell has been directed to send troops to relieve your command. As soon as your pickets are relieved, the commanding general directs that you put your command in motion, crossing the Aqueduct Bridge at Georgetown, and passing through K street, in Washington, to Seventh street, and along Seventh street to the Park Hotel, near which you will find General Reno’s headquarters. You will there report to General Burnside for orders.

R. B. MARCY,
Chief of Staff.

HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE POTOMAC,
September 5, 1862—1.15 p. m.

General A. PLEASONTON,

Darnestown, Md.:

Your dispatch of this morning received.† A regiment of cavalry will be ordered from here this morning to proceed to Mechanicsville and there to receive your orders. I shall endeavor to give you another regiment to be sent to Rockville to-day, and there await orders from you. Bayard’s and Buford’s cavalry are entirely used up, and have difficulty in doing the little service now required of them. They are not available for your service. You must do the best you can with what we are able to send you.

R. B. MARCY,
Chief of Staff.

HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE POTOMAC,
September 5, 1862—4.25 p. m.

Brig. Gen. A. PLEASONTON,
Darnestown, Md.:

The following has just been received from J. W. Garrett, president Baltimore and Ohio Railroad:

Our telegrams continue to state the passage over the Potomac by very large forces of the enemy, chiefly near the mouth of the Monocacy.

* See Porter to Marcy, 9.30 p. m., Vol. XIX, Part II, p. 178.
† See 11.30 a.m., Vol. XIX, Part II, p. 185.
General [Colonel] Miles telegraphs that A. P. Hill's division has crossed the Potomac.

A. V. COLBURN,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

HEADQUARTERS,
Washington, September 5, 1862—12 m.

Brigadier-General BAYARD,
Falls Church:

The general commanding directs that you send out parties to collect stragglers and dispatch them to their different commands. General Porter reports that stragglers line the roads. General Heintzelman is at Fort Lyon, General Franklin at Seminary, General Porter at Mary Hall's house, Reynolds near Fort Albany, Couch en route from Tennallytown on river road up the Potomac, McDowell near Ball's Cross-Roads, Banks at Rockville, Sumner en route for Rockville, Sigel near Fort Ethan Allen, Sturgis at Ball's Cross-Roads. You will also direct your patrols to check all driving of teams faster than a walk, and arrest every one who refuses to obey the order. Acknowledge receipt of this.

R. B. MARCY,
Chief of Staff.

HARPER'S FERRY, September 5, 1862.

Major-General WOOL,
Baltimore:

Captain Cole, just returned from Point of Rocks, says all the reports from there in regard to the enemy are false; none but cavalry has passed over the Potomac; that the canal has been cut at Noland's Ferry. Voss' cavalry yesterday toward Winchester had a brush with about fifty of the enemy's cavalry. Killed one and took a horse. We want our commissary requisitions filled. Please start the trains; I don't believe there is any danger.

D. S. MILES,
Colonel Second Infantry.

SPECIAL ORDERS, No. 3
Washington, September 6, 1862.

14. Instead of joining Porter's corps, as directed by paragraph 1 of this order, the One hundred and fourteenth Pennsylvania Volunteers, Colonel Collis, will at once proceed to join Banks' corps, at Rockville or in its vicinity.

By command of Major-General McClellan:

S. WILLIAMS,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

*See Vol. XIX, Part II, p. 197.
HARRISBURG, PA., September 6, 1862.
(Received 11.20 p.m.)

Hon. EDWIN M. STANTON,
Secretary of War:

The following has just been received from a messenger I sent out last night:

HAGERSTOWN, 6TH.

Governor A. G. CURTIN:

Parties who left Frederick City at 4 o'clock this afternoon, who have just arrived, say that 6,000 rebels arrived to-day there. Report main body on the way to Baltimore. Our troops still at Martinsburg; General White commanding. Only three companies Pennsylvania Twenty-ninth here. People greatly alarmed here; 14,000 Federals at Harper's Ferry. General White must be re-enforced heavily at Martinsburg or fall back to Williamsport. If not, his whole command will be captured. Troops in large numbers necessary in Cumberland Valley.

A. G. CURTIN.

HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE POTOMAC,
September 6, 1862—5.20 p.m.

Maj. Gen. F. J. PORTER,
Commanding Fifth Corps:

General McClellan directs me to say that Generals McDowell's and Franklin's corps have been ordered to this side of the river. You will relieve them with your command. The charge of all the forts from De Kalb to Hunting Creek are intrusted to you. Please have all the heavy guns withdrawn from Upton's Hill and vicinity to-night. That position will be held by an advance guard of infantry and artillery, which can retire on the appearance of the enemy in force. General Sigel will hold the forts at the Chain Bridge and connect with you. The division under General Sturgis will be at once concentrated and ordered to report to you. The line of works must be held by the force that can be left with you. Every man that can possibly be withdrawn is required on this side.

A. V. COLBURN,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

HEADQUARTERS,
Washington, September 6, 1862—6.40 p.m.

Major-General PORTER,
Hall's Hill:

The general commanding desires that General Sykes place his division in motion immediately and proceed to Tennallytown or vicinity and there encamp. General Sykes will report in person to the general commanding this evening after having taken all the steps necessary for the prompt movement of his division. Sykes' division will for the present move with the headquarters, reporting directly to the general commanding, and will constitute a reserve under the personal orders of the general. It will encamp with headquarters. The batteries of General Sykes move with him. Please acknowledge.

S. WILLIAMS,
Assistant Adjutant-General.
HEADQUARTERS,
Washington, September 6, 1862—11.15 p. m.

General F. J. Porter:

General McClellan says the interior line of works is to be held, including those at Chain Bridge, and from De Kalb to Forts Ward and Worth and Fort Lyon. The heavy guns are to be withdrawn from Upton's Hill to-night, and the work there occupied by an advance guard, which should hold it against any attack of pickets or inferior force. Munson's Hill had perhaps better be abandoned. You must use your own judgment as to the force necessary at the Seminary, but the forts in front of it must be securely held. McDowell's corps has orders to move at once, and you should take measures to relieve his pickets immediately. Reynolds' division is of necessity detached temporarily. The exigency leaves no alternative, but it will soon rejoin your command. General Whipple, at Arlington, and Colonel Tyler, at Fort Richardson, can give you all information about garrisons of the works. They can both be reached by telegraph. Please acknowledge.

S. WILLIAMS,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

HEADQUARTERS,
Washington, September 6, 1862.

Maj. Gen. F. J. Porter,
Commanding Fifth Corps, Hall's Hill:

Brig. Gen. E. E. Tyler's brigade has been ordered to report to you. This, with Piatt's brigade, constitutes Sturgis' division. This division the general commanding desires organized under the command of General Sturgis under your orders. General Sturgis will join in the morning.

S. WILLIAMS,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

GENERAL ORDERS,
HEADQUARTERS FIFTH ARMY CORPS,
No. 15.
Fort Corcoran, Va., September 6, 1862.

The charge of Forts Corcoran, Haggerty, Bennett, De Kalb, Woodbury, Cass, Tillinghast, Craig, Albany, Jackson, Runyon, Richardson, Barnard, Scott, Blenker, Ward, Worth, and Ellsworth having been assigned by Major-General McClellan to Maj. Gen. F. J. Porter, he hereby assumes command of these forts and of the troops designed to defend them. Commanding officers of the troops will at once send in a report of their commands and their locations. Officers will be sent from these headquarters to procure information of each command. Commanding officers will at once furnish the necessary information called for and take their men through such exercises as may be required. The major-general commanding calls upon every officer and soldier to exert himself to place the command to which he belongs in the most efficient condition, and by his example of obedience to orders and attention to duty prove to his country that he is here for her service alone, and to work with an earnest heart to save her in this her day of trial. Such examples will inspire their companions and bring to a happy conclusion this contest.

By command of Maj. Gen. F. J. Porter:

FRED. T. LOCKE,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

[19.]
HEADQUARTERS,
Washington, September 6, 1862—4.12 p. m.

General W. B. Franklin, or Senior Officer present with General Franklin's Corps,
Fairfax Seminary:

The commanding general directs that you put your corps in motion at once and march by the Chain Bridge to Rockville, passing Tennallytown. It is important that this movement should be made promptly. Please acknowledge receipt.

R. B. MARCY,
Chief of Staff.

[19.]

HEADQUARTERS,
Washington, September 6, 1862.

Major-General Franklin,
Theological Seminary, Alexandria:

The commanding general directs that Brig. Gen. E. B. Tyler's brigade proceed to Hall's Hill, there to be reported to Maj. Gen. F. J. Porter for consolidation with the division of General Sturgis.

S. WILLIAMS,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

[19.]

HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE POTOMAC,
September 6, 1862—1.45 p. m.

General Sigel,
Commanding Army Corps, Fort Ethan Allen:

The commanding general directs that you at once place your corps in position to occupy the line extending from Forts Marcy and Ethan Allen to the vicinity of Fort De Kalb. General F. J. Porter's corps will occupy the line from Fort De Kalb to Hunting Creek, and General Heintzelman the line from Hunting Creek to the river below Fort Lyon. General McDowell's and General Franklin's corps will be withdrawn to this side of the Potomac this evening. You will please post your pickets well out so as to give timely information of the approach of the enemy. Please acknowledge the receipt of this order.

R. B. MARCY,
Chief of Staff.

P. S.—Forts Marcy and Ethan Allen will be intrusted to your charge, and you will please connect your pickets with those of General Porter.

R. B. MARCY,
Chief of Staff.

[19.]

HEADQUARTERS,
Washington, September 6, 1862.

Brig. Gen. J. J. Abercrombie,
Fort Ethan Allen:

The general commanding ordered all of Couch's division to march, and supposed that all the troops of the division had gone with it. The general desires you to proceed at once to Brookeville with any troops of the division which may have been left behind. If you have any other troops under your command than those of Couch's division, please state what they are by telegraph. General Sigel is charged with the defense of the roads approaching the Chain Bridge. Please acknowledge.

S. WILLiAMS,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE POTOMAC,
Washington, September 6, 1862—12.05 p.m.

Brigadier-General Bayard,
Upton's Hill:

If your pickets have been withdrawn in accordance with General McDowell's order, the commanding general directs that you at once reoccupy the same picket-line. It was not intended that you should march with the Third Corps, and if not stated in the order it was an accidental omission.

R. B. MARCY,
Chief of Staff.

HEADQUARTERS,
Harper's Ferry, September 6, 1862.

Brigadier-General White,
Martinsburg, Va.:

Our communication with Baltimore and Washington cut off. I authorized the provost-marshal to exact the oath of allegiance to all persons who desired passes and to stop the many Belle Boys of Martinsburg from carrying news, as it was the grand focus and starting point for Southern mails by females. General A. P. Hill, with his division, is encamped at Lovettsville, about seven miles from here, and intrenching. I shall expect by to-morrow he will commence hammering at me. Frederick is occupied by the enemy in force. A report has reached me that a column is marching around somewhere to take Williamsport. Look out for squalls.

D. S. MILES,
Colonel Second Infantry.

HEADQUARTERS,
Harper's Ferry, Va., September 6, 1862.

Col. William P. Maulsby,
First Maryland Regt., Potomac Home Brigade, Knoxville, Md.:

Colonel: Captain Cole and his command will operate on the river as far as Berlin to keep open and up the communication from that point, of the whereabouts of the enemy, and this place. You must place your command on the river to guard the fords, and, as I previously directed, as near the ford of Sandy Hook as you can get to command it and the roads leading to Maryland Heights. Collect your regiment (the five companies, C, D, E, H, and G). Captain Faithful is marching to join you from Frederick. Send for Captain Yellott. Captain Bamford, I have been informed, abandoned his post at Berlin and has gone somewhere. There will be a day of reckoning with those who fail to obey orders or by abandonment of positions without orders or necessity. The position of Sandy Hook is to be held if it takes half of the force. at this post, and you will not abandon it. The cannon you ask for is with Colonel Banning, who will deliver them to you when he is obliged to retreat before the enemy as far as Sandy Hook. Obtain forage for your animals in your neighborhood, and if you can purchase any considerable quantity of corn do so, and notify Captain Rutherford, employing your teams to haul it to the railroad. Vermont and Maryland cavalry are stationed on Maryland Heights, reconnoitering roads leading off of it in every direction; don't mistake them for the enemy.
When Banning is obliged to retreat as far as Sandy Hook, you will retain Cole.

I am, colonel, your obedient servant,

D. S. MILES,
Colonel Second Infantry.

P. S.—I understand from Lieutenant Willman that there are a number of contraband negroes at Sandy Hook. Direct your provost guard to seize them, and march them up here for enrollment to work on fortifications. I want 500 if they can be found.

[19.]

HEADQUARTERS,
Harper's Ferry, September 6, 1862.

Colonel BANNING,
Eighty-seventh Ohio Regiment, Berlin, Md. :

COLONEL: Your communication received. General Hill has fortified Lovettsville as a place of deposit and is foraging. He will never offer to cross the river where there is a show of resistance. Hold on and give him a shell or so to let him know you are about; but defend your place as long as you can. Only at Berlin, near Knoxville, and at Sandy Hook can he pass. If you have to fall back, stop at Sandy Hook; that place is to be defended at all hazards. Colonel Maulsby is there and collecting his regiment. The two howitzers are to be left with him. Make the captains of the canal-boats bring their boats back to this place before the enemy should get them and burn them.
If they are loaded with grain (corn and oats) have them brought back anyhow; we want it. The refugee Virginians you must give protection to, and suffer them to pass into Maryland, but get them to subscribe to the oath of allegiance, and make yourself satisfied they are not spies.
Perhaps they have to run to keep from taking the Southern oath, and in fear if they take ours they will lose their property. In that case let them go, taking their obligation not to aid or abet those in rebellion.

I am, colonel, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

D. S. MILES.

[19.]

HEADQUARTERS EIGHTH ARMY CORPS,
Baltimore, September 6, 1862.

Maj. M. SCOTT,
Twenty-ninth Pennsylvania Volunteers, Hagerstown, Md. :

MAJOR: Have the stores moved at once to Chambersburg.

JOHN E. WOOL,
Major-General.

[19.]
Maj. M. Scott,

Twenty-ninth Pennsylvania Volunteers, Hagerstown:

MAJOR: Go with your supplies at once to Chambersburg if it is not too late. I have already telegraphed to Lieutenant Crosby to go there with his two Parrott guns and supplies. Tell him this, if he has not received my orders already.

JOHN E. WOOL,
Major-General.

HEADQUARTERS EIGHTH ARMY CORPS,
Baltimore, September 6, 1862.

Lieut. F. B. Crosby,

Hagerstown, Md.:

LIEUTENANT: Send the two Parrott guns and all surplus supplies to Chambersburg. You had better hasten as soon as possible to Chambersburg. I must leave the matter to your discretion, to be governed by the movements of the enemy. Answer immediately.

JOHN E. WOOL,
Major-General.

SPECIAL ORDERS,
No. 4.

Washington, September 7, 1862.

3. The One hundred and sixteenth Regiment Pennsylvania Volunteers is relieved from the operation of Special Orders, No. 3, of the 6th instant, from these headquarters, and will report for duty to Lieut. Col. J. A. Haskin, in charge of certain works around Washington.

5. During the absence of the chief quartermaster with the army in the field, Lieut. Col. Charles G. Sawtelle, assistant quartermaster, will act in his name in all matters requiring attention connected with the furnishing of supplies to the army from this point.

6. The One hundred and twenty-first Pennsylvania Volunteers, Col. Chapman Biddle, is assigned to Franklin's corps, which it will join without delay at or beyond Rockville.

7. During the absence of the major-general commanding from Washington the immediate command of the defenses of the capital is assigned to Maj. Gen. N. P. Banks, who while exercising said command will be relieved from the command of his corps.

9. Capt. Richard B. Irwin, aide-de-camp, will remain at headquarters in this city until further orders in charge, as acting assistant adjutant-general, of such matters as may require attention at this point. Commanders of troops in and near the defenses of Washington will for the present continue to make to headquarters in this city the returns and reports which by existing orders they are required to render.

By command of Major-General McClellan:

S. WILLIAMS,
Assistant Adjutant-General.
Maj. Gen. S. P. Heintzelman,
Commanding Third Corps, Fort Lyon:

General McClellan has been informed that the rebels intend making a raid to-night on Alexandria. Little reliance is placed on the information, but it is, nevertheless, suggested that it may be well, as a matter of precaution, to have your pickets, &c., more than usually on the alert.

By command:

S. WILLIAMS,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

HEADQUARTERS,
Washington, September 7, 1862.

Brig. Gen. E. B. Tyler,
Alexandria:

The headquarters of General Porter have been changed from Hall's Hill to Fort Corcoran. Report to him with your command at the latter place.

S. WILLIAMS,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE POTOMAC,
Washington, D. C., September 7, 1862—11.55 a. m.

General W. B. Franklin,
Tennallytown:

The commanding general directs that you move your command toward Rockville as soon as possible. It was his intention that you should remain at Tennallytown till this morning, but not longer, and no time should be lost in getting your troops in motion.

R. B. MARCY,
Chief of Staff.

HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE POTOMAC,
September 7, 1862—5 p. m.

Brig. Gen. John Buford:

The commanding general directs that you will turn over your command to the officer next in rank to you. You will report in person to these headquarters (General Marcy, who will remain in town till to-morrow) this evening.

R. B. MARCY,
Chief of Staff.

Telegraph operator will forward this order to General Whipple, at Arlington house, who will forward it to General Buford.
General G. D. Bayard,
Commanding Cavalry, Upton's Hill:

General Pleasonton reports that he was informed that 50,000 rebel troops were at Dranesville night before last. The general commanding desires you to push your scouts as far toward Dranesville as possible without incurring too much risk. Please report any information you may have or obtain.

R. B. Marcy,
Chief of Staff.

HEADQUARTERS EIGHTH ARMY CORPS,
Baltimore, September 7, 1862.

A. G. Curtin,
Governor of Pennsylvania, Harrisburg, Pa.:

GOVERNOR: I have ordered Lieutenant Crosby, if he left Chambersburg with his artillery, to go to Harrisburg. If he arrives there you can detain him.

John E. Wool,
Major-General.

Brigadier-General White,
Martinsburg:

(Via Philadelphia.)

Your success this afternoon is very gratifying and highly creditable to you. It is expected that no post will be surrendered, but that every officer and every man shall fight as if the fate of the Government depended upon him.

Edwin M. Stanton,
Secretary of War.

Martinsburg,
[September] 7, 1862—10.30 a.m.

Col. D. S. Miles:

My outposts are attacked this morning. What force there is in front of us I don’t know. You send strong reconnaissance on the road between here and your post, and I believe you should send up to my support my old brigade. I have but three pieces of cannon.

Julius White,
Brigadier-General.

HEADQUARTERS,
Harper's Ferry, September 7, 1862.

Lieut. Col. S. W. Downey,
Comdg. Third Regt. Maryland Potomac Home Brigade,
Kearneysville, Va.:

COLONEL: The colonel commanding directs me to say to you that he has learned that the enemy are in large force at Winchester. He has been informed by Brigadier-General White, at Martinsburg, that he would send out a cavalry reconnaissance in force to Smithfield to-morrow morning, and that he will send out a cavalry force to form a junction with the force from Brigadier-General White at Smithfield, and desires you to send your cavalry in that direction. Should there be an attack upon you in force you will fall back on Maryland Heights, by way of Shepherdstown. This may not become a necessity for a day or so, but by day after to-morrow he anticipates it will become a necessity. But hold on to the railroad to the last moment; it is important to get our supplies from Cumberland to-morrow evening.

I am, colonel, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

JNO. L. WILLMAN,
Lieutenant and Aide-de-Camp.

SPECIAL ORDERS,

HEADQUARTERS FIFTH ARMY CORPS,
No. 123.
Fort Corcoran, Va., September 8, 1862.

2. Brig. Gen. A. W. Whipple is assigned to the command of Sturgis' division, consisting of Piatt's and Tyler's brigades, now on or near Columbia turnpike, in rear of Fort Richardson. He will also until further orders include in his command the brigade of Colonel Allabach. Without waiting for the commanders to report, he will see that they are properly posted in compliance with instructions from the commanding general. The One hundred and twenty-third, One hundred and thirty-first, One hundred and thirty-third, and One hundred and thirty-fourth Pennsylvania Volunteers will be formed into a brigade, under the command of the senior colonel (Allabach). The brigade commander will at once see that his regiments are supplied with forty rounds of ammunition in cartridge-boxes, and have always on hand at least three days' provisions, and put in order for active service. An additional supply of forty rounds will be kept in wagons.

By command of Maj. Gen. F. J. Porter:

FRED. T. LOCKE,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

CIRCULAR.

HEADQUARTERS FIFTH ARMY CORPS,
Fort Corcoran, Va., September 8, 1862.

Brigadier-General Whipple has been assigned to the command of the division composed of Piatt's and Tyler's brigades and the control of Allabach's brigade at or near the Seminary. These brigades are designed to hold the rifle-pits and defend the works from Fort Craig through Forts Ward, Worth, &c., to Fort Ellsworth, the exterior line being the essential one. This division will be posted so that at very short notice it can occupy its line of battle, and at the same time be held ready to push out on the Columbia turnpike. Allabach's brigade will be similarly posted and held ready to push out on the Leesburg or Little River turnpike. Allabach will picket on the Little River pike and railroad, having the main guard at the crossing of Cameron and Holmes' Run. The advanced guard and pickets will be thrown well forward toward Annandale and Padgett's Tavern, where cavalry pickets will be stationed. Whipple's division will hold Bailey's Cross-Roads as an outpost and extend the advanced guard and pickets toward Padgett's Tavern and Munson's Hill. Morell's division will defend the forts and line the rifle-pits from Fort Craig to Fort De Kalb, and the brigades will be posted so as to move easily out on the Columbia pike or the road from Fort Corcoran to Upton's Hill. This division will hold Upton's Hill as an advanced post and picket to connect with guards from Forts Marcy and Ethan Allen. Bayard's cavalry will connect with Sigel's cavalry on the right and picket from Lewinsville to the dirt road to Fairfax Court-House and connect with Buford's cavalry on the left. Buford's cavalry will connect with Bayard's cavalry on the right and picket to Padgett's Tavern on Little River turnpike and thence to the Orange and Alexandria Railroad. The cavalry will patrol the roads and keep under observation the country in their front, as far as consistent with the strength of their animals, to ascertain the proximity and location of the enemy. The cavalry will communicate information of the approach of an enemy, Bayard to commander at Upton's Hill, Buford to commander at Cloud's Mill. Each commander will provide daily at the advanced guard of infantry messengers to communicate with the main guards in their rear. No persons will be permitted to pass out of the lines, except by authority of the major-general commanding or superior authority. All persons coming in will be taken to the nearest commander, and the name and circumstances of the arrest reported to these headquarters. If of importance the persons will be sent in under guard.

By command of Maj. Gen. F. J. Porter:

FRED. T. LOCKE,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

WASHINGTON, September 8, 1862—8.20 a. m.

General SYKES,
Commanding Regulars, Tennyallytown:
The commanding general directs that you move on with your command to Rockville this morning.

R. B. MARCY,
Chief of Staff.

WASHINGTON, D. C., September 8, 1862—9.30 p. m.

Col. D. S. MILES:
Keep us informed of whatever occurs in your vicinity.

H. W. HALLECK,
General-in-Chief.

HEADQUARTERS,
Rockville, Md., September 8, 1862—8.50 p. m.

His Excellency Governor CURTIN,
Harrisburg, Pa.:
I am endeavoring to get all the information about the movements of the rebel army possible, but as yet this information comes to me from unreliable sources, and is vague and conflicting. My army is in position to perform the best service in frustrating any schemes the enemy may have, whether they advance on Washington or into Pennsylvania. You may rely upon my using my best endeavors to defeat them wherever they go. You will confer an especial favor if you will take steps to obtain all possible information of the enemy's movements and communicate them to me should he advance toward your State.

GEO. B. McCLELLAN,
Major-General.
Governor A. G. CURTIN,
Harrisburg:

Telegram just received.* It agrees in the main with the information I have gathered, except that Jackson's headquarters are said to be to day at New Market; Stuart's at Urbana. My cavalry drove the enemy out of Barnesville to-day, taking eighteen prisoners, of whom three [are] commissioned officers; ran them two miles. We have retaken the Sugar Loaf Mountain. Captured to-day the standard of a rebel regiment of cavalry. My troops are now so posted as to [be] easily thrown in any required direction. Please keep me fully informed, as you have done, and rely upon my best efforts not only to protect Washington and Baltimore, but also Pennsylvania.

G. B. McCLELLAN,
Major-General.

---

SPECIAL ORDERS, } HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF VIRGINIA,
No. 3. } Leesborough, Md., September 9, 1862.

On the receipt of this order the Third Division will march and take post at Brookeville. As soon as it has passed, the First Division will follow it and encamp at Mechanicsville, and the Second Division will make its encampment as nearly in rear of the First as the character of the ground will permit. Major Houston will precede the corps to point out the respective sites for the camps.

By command of Major-General Hooker:

JOS. DICKINSON,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

---

SPECIAL ORDERS, } HEADQUARTERS FIFTH ARMY CORPS,
No. 124. } Arlington House, Va., September 9, 1862.

1. Colonel Price is hereby directed to take command of Buford's brigade and post it in such manner as may best enable him to carry out the instructions of the commanding general.

2. The following-named regiments are assigned to duty with Morell's division, and will report for duty as follows: Twentieth Maine Volunteers, Col. Adelbert Ames, to Butterfield's brigade, Col. T. B. W. Stockton commanding; One hundred and eighteenth Pennsylvania, Colonel Prevost, to Martindale's brigade, Col. James Barnes commanding; Second Regiment District of Columbia Volunteers, Colonel Alexander, to Griffin's brigade, Brig. Gen. Charles Griffin commanding.

By command of Maj. Gen. F. J. Porter:

FRED. T. LOCKE,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

---

HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE POTOMAC,
Camp near Rockville, September 9, 1862—11.30 a.m.

Major-General BURNSIDE:

What news have you this morning? Governor Curtin telegraphs that scout from Hagerstown this morning says no rebels nearer than

* Probably that of 10.30 a. m., Vol. XIX, Part II, p. 229.
Middletown, five miles from Frederick. He has positive information, however, that Lieutenant-Colonel Brum [Burks?], of Stuart's cavalry, intends making a raid upon Hagerstown. Nothing from Martinsburg. Road in both directions unprotected. They expect to reopen telegraph office at Hagerstown this evening, and will send about 400 cavalry from Carlisle to Hagerstown to-night, and patrol all that region to secure information. Please communicate fully and frequently with these headquarters.

By command of Major-General McClellan:

R. B. MARCY,
Chief of Staff.

HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE POTOMAC,
September 9, 1862—1.45 p. m.

General J. G. PARKE,
Chief of Staff, Leesborough, Va. [Md.]:

A telegraph dispatch was sent to General Burnside last night directing him to move his command this morning to Cracklinton and Goshen. The telegraph operator at Leesborough says he received the dispatch at 3 o'clock this morning. As no acknowledgment has been received of this dispatch, and as you say nothing of the movement in your telegrams, it is feared that the general did not get the order. The movement is an important one, taken in connection with the movements of other troops, and it is desirable that your troops should occupy the positions named to-night. Please inform me at once whether the order was received and at what time.

R. B. MARCY,
Chief of Staff.

HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE POTOMAC,
Camp near Rockville, September 9, 1862—3 p. m.

Major-General BURNSIDE, Leesborough:

Drive in enemy's pickets on turnpike and railroad as far as possible in the direction of Ridgeville and beyond by cavalry and section of horse artillery. Ascertain strength of enemy if possible; endeavor to cut off Captain Beardsley; take steps that no one shall pass along the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad or the National road without your knowledge; push reconnaissances north of the railroad as far as possible toward Westminster.

By command of Major-General McClellan:

R. B. MARCY,
Chief of Staff.

HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE POTOMAC,
Camp near Rockville, September 9, 1862—10 a. m.

Brigadier-General PLEASONTON,
Poolesville:

Major Myer, Chief Signal Officer, thinks the possession of Sugar Loaf Mountain as a signal station will be of great importance to us, and that its possession by the enemy is of great benefit to them. Will it be possible for us to get possession of it without incurring much risk?

R. B. MARCY,
Chief of Staff.

P. S.—A Lieutenant Rowley, signal officer, says he was at the mountain a day or two ago, and that there was no enemy there on Saturday.

R. B. M.

HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE POTOMAC,
Camp near Rockville, September 9, 1862—12 m.

Brig. Gen. ALFRED PLEASONTON, Poolesville:

What news have you this morning? Please communicate fully and frequently with these headquarters. A dispatch sent to you last evening was by mistake directed to Major Pleasonton, instead of General Pleasonton. Please comply with the directions therein contained to push your cavalry as far to the front as you may deem consistent with safety.

By command of Major-General McClellan:

R. B. MARCY,
Chief of Staff.

HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE POTOMAC,
Camp near Rockville, September 9, 1862—10 a. m.

Major-General KEYES, Yorktown:

Push forward Couch’s batteries immediately to Alexandria, with instructions to report by telegraph to Colonel Hunt, chief of artillery. They are much needed here.

By command of Major-General McClellan:

R. B. MARCY,
Chief of Staff.

HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE POTOMAC,
Camp near Rockville, September 9, 1862—6 p. m.

Maj. Gen. E. D. KEYES, Yorktown:

Push forward with all speed the embarkation of Peck’s division and artillery for Alexandria. It is needed.

By command of Major-General McClellan:

R. B. MARCY,
Chief of Staff.

HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE POTOMAC,
Rockville, September 9, 1862—12 m.

Maj. Gen. J. E. WOOL, Baltimore, Md.:

This army moved forward to-day to the line of the Seneca Creek, occupying for the night Darnestown, Middleburg, Cracklintown, and Unity, with pickets out at Ridgeville and beyond. No large forces of the rebels this side the Monocacy so far as I can learn. Have you anything from above Frederick this morning?

GEO. B. MCCLELLAN,
Major-General.
HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE POTOMAC,
Camp near Rockville, September 9, 1862—10 a. m.

Capt. C. G. Sawtelle,
Assistant Quartermaster, Washington:

The general commanding directs that you send forward all of Averell's cavalry as rapidly as possible to these headquarters as fast as it is disembarked.

R. B. MARCY,
Chief of Staff.

[19.]

HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE POTOMAC,
Camp near Rockville, September 9, 1862—6 p. m.

Capt. C. G. Sawtelle,
Assistant Quartermaster, Washington:

Push down, if necessary, transportation to bring up Peck's division and artillery.

By command of Major-General McClellan:

R. B. MARCY,
Chief of Staff.

[19.]

HEADQUARTERS,
Harper's Ferry, September 9, 1862.

Brigadier-General White,
Commanding, Martinsburg, Va.:

DEAR GENERAL: I send you an engine and two gondolas, that you may place a guard for protection of engine. No enemy in Shenandoah Valley but one regiment of about 400 cavalry close in to Winchester. None at Charlestown, Berryville, or Smithfield. A great fight commenced yesterday down the river; firing heard this morning. Our whole army, with General Wool from Baltimore, advancing. The report of Downey, that the enemy had advanced from Frederick to Hagerstown or to Boonsborough, is unfounded.

I am, general, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

D. S. MILES.

[19.]

HEADQUARTERS,
Harper's Ferry, September 9, 1862.

Colonel Ford:

Send out Major Corliss on Sharpsburg road to communicate with Captain Welsh at Shepherdstown, to direct Captain Welsh to inform Colonel Downey at Kearneysville immediately that the telegraph wire between this and Martinsburg has been broken; to send a party east and west to repair it. There is not over 400 rebel cavalry in Shenandoah Valley, and none but few scattering pickets this side of Winchester. You will allow no person to pass your outer pickets into Maryland unless signed by the colonel commanding the division.

I am, colonel, respectfully, your obedient servant,

D. S. MILES,
Colonel Second Infantry.
CORRESPONDENCE, ETC.—UNION.

HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE POTOMAC,
Washington, September 10, 1862—10.30 p. m.

Brig. Gen. S. Williams,
Assistant Adjutant-General, Headquarters near Rockville:

I sent copy of Captain King's order through General Porter and copy of Captain Walker's through Colonel Beckwith. I know that Captain Dandy is colonel of the One hundredth New York, and I hear Peck's division is ordered up. The point is how to reach Captain Dandy. Where is he now? Col. Thomas L. Kane (now brigadier-general of volunteers) reported this morning, and asked me to forward his regards to the general and all the staff. Before General Heintzelman was put in command on the other side it became necessary, in consequence of confusion in orders and troops, as well as in regard to digging and chopping, to limit General Abercrombie's responsibility to Forts Marcy and Ethan Allen and their approaches. This I forgot to tell you until the order about Heintzelman was published, which would have effected the same thing. General Banks wants to give General Abercrombie another regiment as soon as he can. The One hundred and nineteenth New York and Eleventh Vermont have gone to Haskin to-day and are posted near Forts Lincoln and Bunker Hill. The Fifth Maryland arrived after I reported Weber's brigade, and was by order of General Halleck directed to proceed to headquarters without delay and report to General McClellan. I will find out in the morning whether it has gone. A telegram just received from General Porter says that a scouting party passed through Fairfax Court-House, Vienna, Freedom Hill, and Union Church, but found no enemy. They were going on to find out about a picket which they heard of near Hunter's Mills and Dranesville. Your telegram of 10 p. m. about Hooker's order just received.

RICH. B. IRWIN,
Captain, Aide-de-Camp, and Acting Assistant Adjutant-General.

[19.]

HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE POTOMAC,
Camp near Rockville, September 10, 1862—3.15 a. m.

Maj. Gen. E. V. SUMNER,
Middlebrook:

GENERAL: General Burnside moves immediately with his command to Ridgeville. The major-general commanding directs that you immediately move one of your corps to Damascus and the other to Clarksburg. The one sent to Damascus must move so as to occupy that place as soon as it shall have been left by Burnside's troops. It is important that this place should be held continuously, and that no interval should intervene between the passing of Burnside's troops through it and its occupation by your forces. Franklin is ordered to march at once to Barnesville. Keep in communication with Burnside on your right and Franklin on your left, holding all important points. Send a staff officer to report here as soon as you shall have established your new headquarters.

By command of Major-General McClellan:

R. B. MARCY,
Chief of Staff.

[19.]
HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE POTOMAC,
Camp near Rockville, September 10, 1862—10.30 a. m.

Major-General SUMNER,
Middlebrook:

GENERAL: The general commanding directs that you suspend the movement ordered this morning till further orders, holding your command ready to move at short notice.

I am, general, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

R. B. MARCY,
Chief of Staff.

HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE POTOMAC,
Camp near Rockville, September 10, 1862—10.50 p. m.

Maj. Gen. E. V. SUMNER,
Commanding Corps, &c.:

GENERAL: General McClellan is now absent at Brookeville, with General Burnside, but will return to-night. Your dispatch announcing the positions of the troops under your command is received, and one of your orderlies is kept here to communicate as soon as possible any orders General McClellan may have for you on his return. Franklin arrived at Barnesville at 3 p. m. to-day, and has placed his corps in position at that point. There has been some rebel force at Sugar Loaf Mountain to-day and some skirmishing, and it is probable Franklin will attempt to drive them from the mountain in the morning.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

R. B. MARCY,
Chief of Staff.

GENERAL ORDERS, No. 31.
HEADQUARTERS SIXTH ARMY CORPS,
September 10, 1862.

By command of Major-General Franklin:

O. D. GREENE,
Assistant Adjutant-General and Chief of Staff.

HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE POTOMAC,
Camp near Rockville, September 10, 1862—3.20 a. m.

Major General FRANKLIN,
Darnestown:

Sumner is ordered to move at once, with his and Banks' corps, to occupy Damascus and Clarksburg. You will move your corps forward immediately, to occupy Barnesville. General Couch is directed to move his command to Poolesville, leaving sufficient force along the road to watch the river till other troops from Washington can be obtained to relieve him of this duty. Upon the arrival of these other troops, those now watching the river will rejoin the division. Keep up communication with Sumner on your right and Couch on your left, holding all important points. Send a staff officer to report at these headquarters as soon as you shall have established your troops in their new position.

By command of Major-General McClellan:

R. B. MARCY,
Chief of Staff.

HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE POTOMAC,
Camp near Rockville, September 10, 1862—10.30 a. m.

Major-General FRANKLIN,
Darnestown:

The general commanding directs you to suspend the movement ordered this morning till further orders, holding your command ready to march at short order. General Couch is ordered to move to Poolesville. General McClellan directs that you send a small force down to Seneca to watch that place. Should this force find any of General Couch's men at Seneca, such men will be directed to join their division at once.

I am, general, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

R. B. MARCY,
Chief of Staff.

HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE POTOMAC,
Camp near Rockville, September 10, 1862.

Maj. Gen. W. B. FRANKLIN,
Darnestown:

GENEAL: General Pleasonton has reported that the enemy have opened on his troops on Sugar Loaf Mountain with three guns and that they have some infantry with them. General Couch has been directed to hurry a brigade to the support of General Pleasonton, and if necessary, all of his command except enough to picket the roads from Poolesville to Seneca Mills, Edwards Ferry, and Conrad's Ferry.
The Sugar Loaf Mountain must be carried if possible, and Generals Couch and Pleasonton have been informed that you will support the movement if necessary. If General Conch should send to you for assistance you will please furnish it as rapidly as possible.

R. B. MARCY,
Chief of Staff.

HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE POTOMAC,
September 10, 1862—3 p. m.

General W. B. FRANKLIN,
Barnesville:

The commanding general directs that you take the control of the movement to carry Sugar Loaf Mountain, and accomplish the important object if it can be done without incurring the risk of losing your command. The general expects to visit you this afternoon. Please report often, and keep the general advised of everything important that occurs.

R. B. MARCY,
Chief of Staff.
HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE POTOMAC,
Camp near Rockville, September 10, 1862.

General W. B. FRANKLIN,
Barnesville:

General McClellan is now absent at Brookeville with General Burnside, but will be back to-night. Your aide, Captain Jackson, will remain here to-night. As soon as General McClellan returns he will communicate with you by telegraph. General Pleasonton's latest dispatches have been repeated to him. Banks' corps is within one mile of Damascus, and Sumner's corps is three miles east of Clarksburg, encamped for the night. Nothing new from the right to-day.

R. B. MARCY,
Chief of Staff.

HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE POTOMAC,
Camp near Rockville, September 10, 1862—3.30 a.m.

Major-General COUCH,
Seneca:

General Franklin is ordered to move at once to Barnesville. You will immediately move your command to Poolesville, leaving sufficient force along the road to watch the river. You will report the number and kind of troops required for this purpose, in order that they may be sent from Washington to replace those left by you. Upon being replaced your men will rejoin the division. Keep in communication with General Franklin. Send an officer to report at these headquarters as soon as your troops shall have been placed in their new position.

By command of Major-General McClellan:

R. B. MARCY,
Chief of Staff.

HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE POTOMAC,
Camp near Rockville, September 10, 1862—12.30 p.m.

Major-General COUCH,
Poolesville:

Pleasonton will take possession of Sugar Loaf Mountain, if possible. Furnish him infantry to assist him should he call upon you for any. If necessary, go to his assistance with your main force and assume charge yourself of the expedition. In such case you will leave sufficient force to watch Poolesville. Should you require additional troops call upon Franklin at Darnestown to furnish them.

By command of Major-General McClellan:

R. B. MARCY,
Chief of Staff.

HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE POTOMAC,
Camp near Rockville, September 10, 1862—1.45 p.m.

Maj. Gen. D. N. COUCH,
Poolesville:

General Pleasonton reports that the rebels have opened with three guns on his troops on Sugar Loaf Mountain, and that they have some infantry with them. The general commanding desires you to hurry forward a brigade to the support of General Pleasonton as rapidly as possible. His headquarters are at Barnesville. The mountain must be carried if it takes all your command, except sufficient to picket strongly the roads to Seneca Mills, Edwards Ferry, and Conrad's Ferry. General Franklin has been ordered to afford you any assistance that may be necessary to accomplish the object.

R. B. MARCY,
Chief of Staff.

HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE POTOMAC,
September 10, 1862.

General D. N. COUCH, Poolesville:

Received your two telegrams. Please draw in all but the five companies as you propose. You need not send the brigade to Pleasonton, unless called upon by General Franklin.

R. B. MARCY,
Chief of Staff.

HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE POTOMAC,
Camp near Rockville, September 10, 1862—11 a. m.

Major-General BURNSIDE, Brookeville:

The general commanding directs that you suspend the movement ordered this morning till further orders, holding your command ready to move at short notice. He also wishes you to send out a strong reconnaissance to Damascus and Ridgeville for the purpose of ascertaining if the position at Ridgeville can be turned on the right, or if the ridge between Ridgeville and Damascus admits of the passage of the enemy between the two places, and whether your command and Sumner's can hold the two points against a large force of the enemy.

R. B. MARCY,
Chief of Staff.

SPECIAL ORDERS, HDQRS. THIRD CORPS, ARMY OF VIRGINIA,

On receipt of this order Reynolds' division will resume its march, via Brookeville, on the old national road to Poplar Springs. Hatch's division will follow Reynolds as soon as the latter division is en route.
The wagons belonging to these divisions will precede or follow Ricketts' column, which will march by the same road to Cooksville. Owen's cavalry will precede the column which moves to Poplar Springs, and one troop of Harris Light Cavalry will follow each division as it marches to prevent straggling and depredations. The residue of this cavalry will follow up the rear of the corps. Major Houston will report to the headquarters of General Burnside for guides, and see that they are properly distributed; also to select and point out suitable encampments for the divisions of the corps.

By command of Major-General Hooker:

JOS. DICKINSON,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE POTOMAC,
Camp near Rockville, September 10, 1862—4 p.m.

Major-General BANKS,
Washington:

In your dispatch of 11.15 this morning, you say that it seems most probable that the main body of the enemy is not between Leesburg and the mountains. General McClellan desires to know whether the mountains referred to are the Bull Run Mountain or the Catoctin Mountain.*

R. B. MARCY,
Chief of Staff.

[19.]

HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE POTOMAC,
Camp near Rockville, September 10, 1862—3.30 a.m.

Brigadier-General PLEASONTON,
Poolesville:

Burnside is ordered to move at once to Ridgeville; Sumner with his and Banks' corps to Damascus and Clarksburg; Franklin to Barnesville, and Couch to Poolesville, keeping in communication with each other.

By command of Major-General McClellan:

R. B. MARCY,
Chief of Staff.

[19.]

HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE POTOMAC,
Camp near Rockville, September 10, 1862—11.15 a.m.

Brig. Gen. A. PLEASONTON,
Barnesville:

Your dispatch of 8.20 a.m. received. It is important to know what the movements you allude to across the Potomac mean. It is also important to occupy Sugar Loaf Mountain if it can be done without incurring too great risk. Your course in regard to obtaining supplies meets the entire approbation of the general commanding. You can continue this course at any time, giving receipts for what you procure. The reconnaissances you contemplate are in the highest degree desirable. Steps will be taken at once to get you the Sharps carbines. In the meantime can you not put the carbines you have temporarily into the hands of the serviceable regiments to relieve those that have been overworked? General Couch will move to Poolesville this morning, where he will be within supporting distance of you.

* For reply, see 8.30 p. m., Vol. XIX, Part II, p. 237.

R. B. MARCY,
Chief of Staff.

[19.]

HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE POTOMAC,
Camp near Rockville, September 10, 1862—11.30 a. m.

Brig. Gen. A. PLEASONTON,
Barnesville:

Exercise your own judgment about moving to Hyattstown. The movements of Generals Burnside, Sumner, and Franklin, ordered this morning, are suspended. General Burnside last night sent out scouts to Ridgeville and to within three miles of New Market. They only saw a few pickets of the enemy, and were told that Stuart's cavalry occupied New Market; that the main body of the enemy was at Frederick still. This information you will observe differs somewhat from yours. Burnside makes another reconnaissance in force to Ridgeville this morning.

R. B. MARCY,
Chief of Staff.

P. S.—Supplies of provisions will probably reach the mouth of Seneca Creek to-day by canal.

[19.]

HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE POTOMAC,
Camp near Rockville, September 10, 1862—12 m.

Brigadier-General PLEASONTON,
Barnesville:

Couch moved to Poolesville to-day, but Franklin's order to march is suspended till further orders. Send to Couch if you need infantry for Sugar Loaf. If he has not force enough he will call on Franklin. It is important to possess Sugar Loaf.

By command of Major-General McClellan:

R. B. MARCY,
Chief of Staff.

[19.]

HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE POTOMAC,
Camp near Rockville, September 10, 1862—1.40 p. m.

Brig. Gen. A. PLEASONTON,
Barnesville:

Your two dispatches of 11.30 a. m. received. General Couch will hasten a brigade to Barnesville at once. General Franklin will be directed to send more troops to your support upon your calling for them. The mountain must be carried if possible. General Couch to picket the roads you indicate. Communicate this to General Couch by special messenger. The order to him will be sent by telegraph from here. If the bulk of his forces are required he has been ordered to assume command.

R. B. MARCY,
Chief of Staff.
Brigadier-General WHITE,
Commanding, Martinsburg, Va.:

GENERAL: Yours of yesterday arrived during my absence on the lines, which prevented my answering. As there is no force of consequence that I can hear of in the Shenandoah Valley but straggling guerrillas, which a small force can resist, it is important that Downey's forces should remain in position to protect the railroad until I can obtain my supplies, particularly Opequon bridge. I have the utmost confidence that McClellan (who is General-in-Chief, Halleck being Secretary of War, Pope and McDowell removed) will drive the enemy across the Potomac, and whichever way he comes we must do our best to retard and harass him; any force over 15,000 [which] he brings, our united forces could do no more than take position, or [if] separated to dodge. My orders are with my command to hold this place at all hazards and to the last extremity. To divide my command would lead to the loss of this place and destruction of the detachment I should send out. This, then, could not be done without acting contrary to the orders and wishes of the Government. Should the enemy retreat on any other line than through this place it is my intention, having my base secure, to sally with what force I can spare and attack his leading columns, obstruct roads, &c. But I could not make a detachment to go to so open a place as Kearneysville, liable to be turned on both flanks by the enemy marching from Maryland, and could be cut off from any direction but one road to Winchester or Romney. My pickets and scouts have been very successful in grabbing those of the enemy, and making his whole army beat to arms, keeping him continually annoyed.

I am, general, with great respect, your obedient servant.

D. S. MILES,
Colonel Second Infantry.

MARTINSBURG, September 10, 1862.

Colonel MILES:

Colonel Downey reports to me from Shepherdstown that he encountered the enemy at or near Boonsborough to-day with a force of all arms advancing, but don't say whether toward Shepherdstown or Hagerstown. Better strengthen Shepherdstown with cavalry immediately and Kearneysville with infantry and artillery.

JULIUS WHITE,
Brigadier-General.

[19.]

WAR DEPARTMENT,
Washington, D. C., September 10, 1862.

THOMAS A. SCOTT, Esq., Philadelphia:

Your telegram just received* and exhibited to General Halleck, who will answer that part of it which relates to your request for guns and ammunition to be brought from Pittsburg and eastern points. I will see Colonel Wright on his arrival here. No general officer has been detailed for Pennsylvania, but the State being within General Wool's department, he has been ordered to go to Philadelphia, and will probably be there this evening.

EDWIN M. STANTON,
Secretary of War.

[19.]

* See Vol. XIX, Part II, p. 249.
THOMAS WEBSTER, MORTON McMICHAEL, JOHN W. FORNEY, Committee, Philadelphia:

Your telegram received.* I will do the best in my power for you. If you know or have heard of any officer coming up anywhere near your description of the one you need, please make me happy by naming him, and I will make you happy by assigning him to your city.*

EDWIN M. STANTON,
Secretary of War.

[19.]

PHILADELPHIA, September 10, 1862.
(Received 10 p. m.)

Major-General HALLECK:

All the forces of Pennsylvania have been forwarded by the Governor, as directed by the General Government. It is now a question of home defense for our own capital, and if you have surplus guns and ammunition in the West or East, it is believed that our citizens would rise en masse to protect the capital, provided you will give them any means of doing so.†

THOMAS A. SCOTT.

[19.]

HEADQUARTERS,
Washington, September 11, 1862—12.20 p. m.

Brig. Gen. S. WILLIAMS,
Asst. Adjt. Gen., Hdqrs. Army of the Potomac, beyond Rockville:

By direction of the General-in-Chief a battery (McMahan's, of Heintzelman's corps) was sent yesterday evening to the Relay House to report to the commanding officer there. General Casey is ordered this morning to send two additional regiments to General Abercrombie. Arrivals yesterday: Eleventh Vermont, assigned to Haskin; One hundred and thirtieth New York, for General Dix; One hundred and nineteenth New York, assigned to Haskin; and Thirty-seventh Massachusetts, Weber's brigade, and the Fifth Maryland couldn't get transportation and subsistence last night, but promise to march this morning. I will have them hurried up. Colonel Sawtelle says headquarters has moved.

RICHD. B. IRWIN,
Captain, Aide-de-Camp, and Acting Assistant Adjutant-General.

[19.]

HEADQUARTERS DEFENSES OF WASHINGTON,
September 11, 1862—12.45 a. m.

Maj. Gen. S. P. HEINTZELMAN,
Commanding Defenses, &c., Arlington:

General Barnard urges the necessity of cavalry patrols all over the country toward Vienna and Fairfax Court-House. The brigades of Bayard and Buford, now under General Porter, should give sufficient force to do this work thoroughly. The picket-line ought to be well established, especially in front of Sigel and Abercrombie, where there still seems to be some difficulty. Please order a battery to relieve Battery A, First Virginia Artillery, under General Slough, near Ellsworth, and direct the latter to join General Sigel, to whose corps it belongs. General Slough should be relieved from command in the front to enable him to give undivided attention to his duties as military governor of Alexandria. Please give the necessary orders to that effect. Please acknowledge.

---

†See Halleck to Scott, Vol XIX, Part II, p. 250.

By command of Major-General Banks:

RICH'D. B. IRWIN,
Captain, Aide-de-Camp, and Acting Assistant Adjutant-General.

[19.]

HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE POTOMAC,
Camp near Rockville, September 11, 1862—12 m.

Capt. C. G. SAWTELLE,
No. 221 Pennsylvania Avenue, Washington:

Instead of proceeding to Poolesville via Offutt's Cross-Roads and Seneca, Peck's division will march, immediately upon its arrival, to Rockville, where it will find orders for its further movements.

By command of Major-General McClellan:

R. B. MARCY,
Chief of Staff.

[19.]

HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE POTOMAC,
Camp near Rockville, September 11, 1862—1.15 p. m.

Major-General SUMNER:
(Via Clarksburg.)

GENERAL: The general commanding desires to know the state of affairs with you. He directs you to endeavor to co-operate with Franklin in taking the Sugar Loaf by pushing a brigade or two on its rear via Hyattstown, first ascertaining whether there is any strong force at Urbana. The road to Urbana should be examined with a view to moving there should Burnside reach New Market. You will not move there, however, till further orders, but still hold yourself ready for such a movement.

I am, general, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

R. B. MARCY,
Chief of Staff.

[19.]

HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE POTOMAC,
Camp at Middleburg, September 11, 1862—7 p. m.

Maj. Gen. E. V. SUMNER,
Clarksburg:

GENERAL: The general commanding wishes you, unless you receive other orders during the night, to move your corps and that commanded by General Williams to Urbana at daylight to-morrow morning. Franklin will move up to your left, Couch will occupy Barnesville. Franklin has taken Sugar Loaf Mountain. The commanding general wishes you to post General Williams near the point on the Monrovia and New Market road where the road to Ijamsville leaves it, about two miles from Urbana. Burnside will be at New Market and Franklin on your left to morrow. There is reason to believe that the enemy is moving from Frederick to Hagerstown.

Respectfully,

R. B. MARCY,
Chief of Staff.

P. S.—Do not take this report of the retreat of the enemy for granted. Be very cautious and careful to push out skirmishers and advance guards well to the front.

R. B. M.

---

HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE POTOMAC,
Camp near Rockville, September 11, 1862—1 a. m.

General GEORGE SYKES,
Commanding Regular Division:

GENERAL: The commanding general directs that you move your command from its present camp at a sufficiently early hour this morning to enable you to reach Clarksburg to-night, or as far in that direction as you can go without fatiguing your men unduly. He wishes your command kept as fresh as possible under the circumstances. Headquarters will move after you and encamp in your neighborhood at night.

Very respectfully, yours,

R. B. MARCY,
Chief of Staff.

[19.]

HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE POTOMAC,
Camp near Rockville, September 11, 1862—1 a. m.

Major-General FRANKLIN,
Barnesville:

The general commanding directs you to remain at Barnesville to-morrow and to put yourself in communication with General Sumner at Clarksburg. He further directs that you carry Sugar Loaf to-morrow if possible. Should you find the enemy there in very strong force, you will await the result of Sumner's advance on Hyattsville and communicate direct with General McClellan at Clarksburg, who will arrange to cut off the garrison of Sugar Loaf. The earlier Sugar Loaf is gained the better. Couch is directed to remain at Poolesville and watch all fords in vicinity. Acknowledge receipt.

By command of Major-General McClellan:

R. B. MARCY,
Chief of Staff.

[19.]

HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE POTOMAC,
Camp near Rockville, September 11, 1862—1 p. m.

Major-General FRANKLIN,
Barnesville:

GENERAL: The general commanding desires you to communicate all you know bearing on the propriety and possibility of our throwing a column over the Monocacy at its mouth to cut the retreat of the rebels. An officer has been sent to General Sumner to learn the state of things with him, to instruct him to co-operate with you in taking the Sugar Loaf by pushing a brigade or two on its rear via Hyattstown, first ascertaining whether there is any strong force at Urbana, the road to which should be examined with a view of moving thither should Burnside reach New Market. In this case the general would push Couch to Barnesville, yourself near Urbana, Banks moving to the same vicinity, but between Sumner and Burnside. The general desires to impress upon you the necessity of gaining the Sugar Loaf, if possible, and of your being ready to move to your right if necessary. Communicate by telegraph to this point, as also by courier to Middleburg and Clarksburg, as the general commanding may be at either one of these points to-night.

I am, general, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

R. B. MARCY,
Chief of Staff.

P. S.—Be ready to move to Urbana in case Burnside should reach New Market.

R. B. M.

[19.]

HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE POTOMAC,
Middlebrook, September 11, 1862—7 p. m.

Maj. Gen. W. B. FRANKLIN, Barnesville:

GENERAL: The commanding general directs that you move your corps at daylight to-morrow morning to a point about two miles from Urbana, on the road leading from Urbana to Buckeystown, where a road crosses it coming from the direction of Ijamsville. Sumner will be on your right, near Urbana; Williams on his right, upon the road leading to Monrovia and Ijamsville; Burnside at New Market, and Couch at Barnesville. It has been reported that the greater part of the enemy's forces at Frederick have moved toward Hagerstown, but the commanding general wishes you, in advancing from your present position, to keep scouts and advanced guards well to your front, and to move cautiously.

R. B. MARCY,
Chief of Staff.

[19.]

HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE POTOMAC,
Camp near Rockville, September 11, 1862—1 a. m.

Major-General COUCH, Poolesville:

Remain at Poolesville and watch all fords in vicinity. Franklin is ordered to carry Sugar Loaf if possible to-morrow.

By command of Major-General McClellan:

R. B. MARCY,
Chief of Staff.

[19.]

HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE POTOMAC,
Rockville, September 11, 1862—12.45 p. m.

General D. N. COUCH,
Commanding Division, Poolesville:

GENERAL: The general commanding desires to know how strongly you picket the Potomac. He also desires you to hold your command ready to move at short notice to Barnesville if you should receive the order. Please watch the fords well, and have your picket at the mouth of the Monocacy, ready to destroy the bridge across that stream if it should become necessary. Give us all the news of the enemy in your possession, and report by telegraph. These headquarters will be either here, at Middleburg, or Clarksburg to-night. Send anything of great importance to all of these places after 5 o'clock.

Respectfully,

R. B. MARCY,
Chief of Staff.

HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE POTOMAC,
Middlebrook, September 11, 1862—7 p. m.

Maj. Gen. D. N. COUCH, Poolesville:
The commanding general directs you, after leaving a brigade at the ford near the mouth of the Monacacy and your other guards at the other fords below, to move with the remainder of your division to Barnesville at daylight to-morrow morning. Generals Franklin, Sumner, and Williams will be on your right, near Urbana; General Burnside at New Market.

R. B. MARCY,
Chief of Staff.

HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE POTOMAC,
Camp near Rockville, September 11, 1862—12.05 p. m.

Maj. Gen. A. E. BURNSIDE,
Commanding Corps:

GENERAL: General Franklin reports last night that the rebels, with a force of about a brigade of infantry and twelve pieces of artillery, resisted General Pleasonton's attempt to carry Sugar Loaf Mountain. He is to make a reconnaissance this morning, and to carry it if possible. It has been reported here that the main rebel army extends from Frederick to Liberty. It will be necessary, therefore, in your movement of to-day, to look out well for your right and rear, to move with great care, feeling your way cautiously, and being always ready to concentrate with Sumner if it should become necessary. Please inform the commanding general what you think of the propriety of moving Sumner on Urbana, as soon as you obtain the information requisite to enable you to judge. Report often to this place by telegraph, and also by special messengers to Middleburg and Clarksburg, as the commanding general may be at either one of the three places to-night. Also communicate with Sumner at Clarksburg, and Franklin at Barnesville, by telegraph (Franklin will forward dispatches to Sumner from Barnesville). In case you reach New Market inform them of the fact at once, when they will immediately move on Urbana, and Couch will move to Barnesville, and Williams to the same vicinity, but between Sumner and you. General White, at Martinsburg, reports to General Wool this morning that 15,000 rebel cavalry, artillery, and infantry passed through Boonsborough last night in the direction of Hagerstown.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

R. B. MARCY,
Chief of Staff.

52 R R—VOL LI, PT I
Major-General BURNSIDE, Ridgerville:

GENERAL: General Sumner is ordered to Urbana to-morrow morning, with Banks' corps on his right at Ijamsville Cross-Roads; Franklin on his left at Licksville Cross Roads. The Sugar Loaf is in our possession. Our information is that enemy has abandoned Frederick and is moving toward Hagerstown. If the information you gain tends to confirm this, push on toward Frederick by the National pike and the railroad as rapidly as possible. We will do the same from Urbana. Keep your flanks and cavalry well out to the right toward Liberty, Westminster, &c. Be extremely cautious in your advance. Watch your front and flanks with care, and be careful to communicate fully with headquarters and the troops on your left. It is thought that the enemy has abandoned Frederick and moved toward Hagerstown. In any event, occupy Frederick to-morrow if you can possibly do so without too much exposing your command. A similar movement will be made from Urbana in force. Be careful to communicate with that place and Clarksburg before and after you move to-morrow, and base your movements upon what you hear from them.

By command of Major-General McClellan:

R. B. MARCY,
Chief of Staff.

SPECIAL ORDERS, \{ HDQRS. THIRD CORPS, ARMY OF VIRGINIA,
No. 7.  \} Unity, Md., September 11, 1862.

On the receipt of this order, Reynolds' division will resume its march and encamp at Poplar Springs. Hatch's division will follow to Lisbon and encamp at that point, and Ricketts' will march by the most direct route to Cooksville, where it will encamp. Owen's cavalry will precede Reynolds' division and encamp in rear of it.

By command of Major-General Hooker:

JOS. DICKINSON,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE POTOMAC,
Camp near Rockville, September 11, 1862—12.30 p. m.

Brigadier-General PLEASONTON, Barnesville:

GENERAL: The general commanding desires to know the position of all of your force—what you have left to watch the Potomac, &c. Please communicate all you know bearing on the possibility and propriety of our throwing a column over the Monocacy at its mouth, to cut the retreat of the rebels. Can you, without too much risk, send a small party to communicate with Harper's Ferry by the south side of the Monocacy? And can you push a reconnaissance across the mouth of the Monocacy and thence up toward Frederick?

I am, general, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

R. B. MARCY,
Chief of Staff.

P. S.—Send reports by telegraph to this point, as well as to Middleburg and Clarksburg, as the general commanding may be at either one of these points to-night.

R. B. M.
Brigadier-General PLEASONTON, Barnesville:

The general commanding desires you, after leaving pickets at the mouth of the Monocacy, and other fords below, if you think it necessary, to report to him at Urbana with the remainder of your force that is not required in scouting to-morrow. Headquarters will move to that point in the morning.

Respectfully,

[19.]

R. B. MARCY,

Chief of Staff.

Brigadier-General PLEASONTON, Barnesville:

Your dispatch of this evening received. The commanding general wishes you to report to him to-morrow morning with your disposable forces at Clarksburg instead of Urbana, as by instructions sent you by Captain Abert this evening. The reconnaissances which you speak of will be postponed until you see the commanding general.

[19.]

R. B. MARCY,

Chief of Staff.

General HALLECK, Washington:

My eastern front is threatened. My pickets at Solomon's Gap shelled out. The ball will open to-morrow morning. Force opposing me is estimated at ten regiments of infantry with proportionate artillery, before dusk; others have come into camp since. General White will abandon Martinsburg some time to-night, and I expect this will be the last you will hear of me until this affair is over. All are cheerful and hopeful. Good-bye.

[19.]

D. S. MILES,

Colonel Second Infantry.

Brig. Gen. JULIUS WHITE, Martinsburg, Va.:

GENERAL: The troops at Kearneysville are under your command, not Colonel Miles'.

[19.]

JOHN E. WOOL,

Major-General.

MARTINSBURG, September 11, 1862.

Colonel MILES:

I have sent out a strong reconnaissance of all arms toward Williamsport. I have no solicitude except for my camp equipage and subsistence stores. The brigade has only sixteen wagons. I think it prudent to send up the train you speak of by midnight if the telegraph should be cut. I cannot transport the Government property otherwise.

J. WHITE,

Brigadier-General.
Colonel Miles:

As near as I can learn I am being surrounded, and shall make immediate preparation to move toward you. If the train has not been sent, let it come at once. Send out a support to Kearneysville as you proposed. I shall march before daylight. There will be no difficulty in supporting me. What I most want is artillery and infantry. Don't fail me.

JULIUS WHITE.

Lieutenant-Colonel Downey, Commanding Third Maryland Infantry:

Sir: Your dash upon the enemy with nineteen cavalry at Boonsborough was hazardous and not called for. The reconnaissance was proper, but with your small force you should have kept at a distance and not encountered a larger force than your own. The enemy is scattered between Rohrersville and Boonsborough, foraging I expect. I cannot learn he has any disposition to advance this way. Should he do so it will be through Solomon's Gap or across the Potomac. If the former, and you will soon know it by the report of the heavy battery on Maryland Heights, get your regiment together, except that portion at Opequon bridge, and march by the Shepherdstown road to this place. If the river is crossed at Antietam before you know of the march of the enemy on that point your chance of reaching this place is lost. The command at the Opequon bridge is to hold on to that point and preserve the bridge to the last moment. It is all-important to get here the train to-day from Cumberland, and when the enemy advances on the bridge or on your force, if your chance of reaching here is jeopardized by his crossing the river, to fall back on Martinsburg and join General White. It is contemplated that the company at Opequon shall do so in any event, as you would not have time to get it when necessary to march to this point. It is desirable [and] important that the road should be kept open to-day or until the trains reach here from Cumberland. They will contain important supplies, which we must have. What is desirable to impress on you, not to abandon your positions without necessity, and when you do, at that particular time when you can reach this place or Martinsburg with safety. When you have to leave Shepherdstown have the ferry-boat broken up; in fact, I see no great necessity of retaining that post, and you can withdraw the company when you please.

D. S. MILES,
Colonel Second Infantry.

Colonel Miles, Commanding Division, Harper's Ferry, Va.:

Captain Russell has just returned from the neighborhood of Boonsborough, and reports that the enemy's line is twenty miles long, the advance in Williamsport. Union men living near the road told the captain that there were 20,000 yet to pass Boonsborough. Have you any news? What has become of General White?

Respectfully, yours, &c.,

THOS. H. FORD,
Colonel, Commanding Third Brigade.

[19.]

HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE POTOMAC,
Camp near Rockville, September 11, 1862—1.30 p. m.

J. W. GARRETT, Esq.,
President of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad, Baltimore:

Let me know how much injury was done to the railroad bridge over the Monocacy and how long it will take to repair it. Please have everything prepared to push the work with the greatest rapidity when needed.*

G. B. MCCLELLAN,
Major-General, Commanding.

[19.]

WAR DEPARTMENT,
Washington City, D. C., September 12, 1862—8 p. m.

Governor CURTIN, Harrisburg:

As General Sigel was in Washington enjoying his breakfast this morning at Willard's (the last time I heard of him, and his command is at Chain Bridge), it is not likely that he shelled the enemy at Frederick.†

EDWIN M. STANTON.

[19.]

HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE POTOMAC,
Camp near Urbana, September 12, 1862—7 p. m.

Maj. Gen. E. V. SUMNER, Commanding Corps:

GENERAL: The commanding general directs that you order Banks' corps to move at daylight to-morrow by Ijamsville and Crum's Ford to Frederick, halting one mile this side of the town, and reporting to you as soon as they have got into position. Burnside moves to-morrow morning to Frederick; Franklin to Buckeystown; and Couch to Licksville. General Porter is en route to join this army with his corps of 20,000 men. You will receive orders for your own movements during the night.

Yours, very respectfully,
R. B. MARCY,
Chief of Staff.

[19.]

HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE POTOMAC,
Near Urbana, September 12, 1862—11.45 p. m.

Major-General SUMNER, Near Urbana:

GENERAL: The commanding general directs you to move with your command at daylight to-morrow (by the direct road) to Frederick, Md., and there await further orders.

I am, general, very respectfully, your obedient servant,
R. B. MARCY,
Chief of Staff.

[19.]

* For reply, see Vol. XIX, Part II, p. 269.
HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE POTOMAC,
Near Urbana, September 12, 1862—11.45 p. m.

Maj. Gen. F. J. Porter,
Near Leesborough:

The commanding general directs that, unless you receive different orders hereafter, you march your command to Frederick by way of Clarksburg and Urbana, and not to New Market, as heretofore ordered.

R. B. MARCY,
Chief of Staff.

HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE POTOMAC,
Near Urbana, September 12, 1862—5.45 p. m.

Major-General Franklin,
Near Urbana:

GENERAL: The general commanding directs you to march at daylight to-morrow morning to Buckeystown and there await further orders, ready to move either to Frederick or Harper's Ferry, as may prove necessary. Upon starting you will please send a staff officer to these headquarters for further orders. General Couch is directed to move to Licksville at daylight to-morrow, leaving at Poolesville a force sufficient to watch Edwards and Conrad's Ferries. Captain Sanders (at or near Licksville) will place him in communication with you at Buckeystown.

I am, general, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

R. B. MARCY,
Chief of Staff.

HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE POTOMAC,
Camp near Urbana, September 12, 1862—6.30 p. m.

General D. N. Couch,
Commanding Division:

GENERAL: The commanding general directs that you move your command at daylight to-morrow to Licksville, leaving at Poolesville a force sufficient to watch Edwards and Conrad's Ferries. Probably the forces you have there now will be sufficient for this purpose. These troops to rejoin you as soon as relieved by new regiments from Washington. You will also request Captain Sanders, commanding cavalry at or near Licksville, to place you in communication with General Franklin at Buckeystown as soon as you reach Licksville. If your supply train has not come up, direct it to follow you and take all the rations you can with the wagons procured to-day. You will please send a staff officer to headquarters for further orders, as soon as your command moves.

Very respectfully, &c.,

R. B. MARCY,
Chief of Staff.

HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE POTOMAC,
Near Urbana, September 12, 1862—8.30 p. m.

Major-General Burnside,
Frederick, Md.:

GENERAL: The general commanding directs me to say that 500 cavalry and two pieces of artillery made a dash through Westminster last night. He wishes you to direct your cavalry to continue the pursuit vigorously, and to capture them if possible, and endeavor to keep between them and the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad. He wishes you to have your command ready at all times, until further orders, to move in any direction that may be required. Should you hear very heavy firing in the direction of Harper's Ferry you will move toward it at once with your command, and report your departure to these headquarters.

Very respectfully, &c.,

R. B. MARCY,
Chief of Staff.

HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE POTOMAC,
Camp near Urbana, September 12, 1862—6.15 p. m.

Maj. Gen. A. E. BURNSIDE,
Commanding Corps, &c.:

GENERAL: The commanding general directs that you move to-morrow morning at daylight and mass your troops at Frederick, leaving one brigade at the Monocacy crossing. Please have a staff officer here to receive orders at daylight to-morrow morning. Franklin moves to Buckeystown in the morning, Couch to Licksville. Porter, with his corps of 20,000 men, is en route to join this army. Banks' corps to move by Ijamsville and Crum's Ford to Frederick, halting one mile this side of the town. Headquarters will probably be at Frederick to-morrow night.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

R. B. MARCY,
Chief of Staff.

HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE POTOMAC,
Near Urbana, September 12, 1862—11 p. m.

Major-General BURNSIDE,
Frederick, Md.:

GENERAL: The general commanding directs you to ascertain if the enemy moved from Frederick by way of the National road. In case he took that direction, you will move with your command at daylight in the morning along the National road cautiously, and obtain possession, if possible, of the pass by which the National road passes through the Catoctin range of mountains, so as to allow General Pleasonton's cavalry to debouch into the Catoctin Valley beyond. Should you gain this pass, you will hold it for the purpose specified and report for further orders. Should you find the pass occupied by so strong a force of the enemy as to render the taking it by your command a matter of too much risk, you will report the fact at once to the commanding general at Frederick, who will send forward a sufficiency of troops to your assistance. The general desires you to learn, if possible, the condition of affairs in the direction of Harper's Ferry and to communicate the same to him. Governor Curtin telegraphs that he has advices that Jackson is crossing the Potomac at Williamsport to return into Virginia. Ascertain if this movement is being made by Jackson, and communicate with these headquarters the result of your investigations. Communicate the contents of this dispatch to Brigadier-General Pleasonton, who will co-operate with you as far as may be necessary. The staff officer who carries this will accompany you to-morrow and bring back a report of the result of your operations. Two orderlies are sent with him. Please communicate to these headquarters, by means of these orderlies, such information as you may deem important. The commanding general desires to impress upon you that he does not wish you to run too great a risk with your own command in taking the pass referred to. If the enemy has marched by the National road the pass must be taken, but the attack upon it must be made only with a sufficiency of troops.

I am, general, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

R. B. MARCY,
Chief of Staff.

SPECIAL ORDERS, } Hdqrs. Third Corps, Army of Virginia,
No. 8. ) Poplar Springs, Md., September 12, 1862.

On the receipt of this order Reynolds’ division will advance to Ridgeville and there await further orders. Hatch’s division will follow immediately in its rear, and that of Ricketts directly after it.

By command of Major-General Hooker:

JOS. DICKINSON,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

SPECIAL ORDERS, } Hdqrs. Third Corps, Army of Virginia,
No. 9. ) Ridgeville, Md., September 12, 1862.

Reynolds’ division will encamp at Monocacy bridge, Hatch’s division at New Market, and Ricketts at Ridgeville to-night. Headquarters will be at New Market.

By command of Major-General Hooker:

JOS. DICKINSON,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE POTOMAC,
Near Urbana, September 12, 1862—8.45 p. m.

Brigadier-General PLEASONTON,
Frederick, Md.:

GENERAL: Captain Sanders seemed to be under the impression that Jackson is marching on Harper’s Ferry. It is important to ascertain if this is so. The commanding general desires you to send out scouts to-night to endeavor to get information regarding this. Did Captain Sanders receive his order to push his scouts in the direction of Harper’s Ferry from Licksville? If not, please communicate them to him.

I am, general, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

R. B. MARCY,
Chief of Staff.

HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE POTOMAC,
Near Urbana, September 12, 1862—11.30 p. m.

Brigadier-General PLEASONTON,
Frederick, Md.:

The commanding general desires you to send out a cavalry force at daylight in the morning to Lewistown and Mechanistown, to ascertain if any force of the enemy has moved in that direction with a view of getting in our rear. General Burnside has been directed to march at daylight in the morning, should the main body of the enemy have moved toward Hagerstown along the National road, and to take possession, if possible, of the pass of that road through the Catoctin range of mountains, so as to enable your cavalry to debouch into the Catoctin Valley beyond. Please communicate and co-operate with him. Ascertain, if possible, the state of affairs at Harper's Ferry, and communicate the result of your investigations to these headquarters at Frederick.
Governor Curtin telegraphs that he has advices that Jackson is recross-ning the Potomac at Williamsport. Ascertain, if possible, if he is doing so.

I am, general, very respectfully, your obedient servant,
R. B. MARCY,
Chief of Staff.

[19.]

FORT ALBANY, September 12, 1862.
(Received 3.30 p. m.)

General HUMPHREYS,
345 Nineteenth Street, near I Street:

Colonel Allabach's brigade is here en route. I have sent back wagons to bring up his provisions, ammunition, &c. This brigade is supplied with Austrian rifles, about 900 being unserviceable. Yesterday morning I sent to the Ordnance Department requisitions for others, but they were refused. I have gathered about 300, perhaps more, serviceable arms here, and direct Colonel Allabach to stop here and take them, leaving the defective ones in their place. If you can enable him to leave the remainder of the defective Austrian guns in Washington as he passes through, and get good ones in their place, I would advise it. I have seized forty-five wagons sent by Captain Ferguson to move my division, and turn them over to your brigades to facilitate their march. There is no beef here on the hoof. Cattle must be obtained in Washington.
Colonel Allabach is not supplied with more than two days' rations.
Those also must be obtained in Washington. For how many days must he make requisition? General Tyler is supplied with good arms and ammunition, and I think he has five days' rations. Forage will probably be obtained in Washington.

A. W. WHIPPLE,
Brigadier-General.

[19.]

SPECIAL ORDERS, } HQRS. DEFENSES OF WASHINGTON,
No. 3. } September 12, 1862.

3. Brig. Gen. J. G. Barnard is assigned to the command of the troops for the immediate defense of Washington north of the Potomac. Brig.
Gen. D. P. Woodbury, commanding defenses east of the Eastern Branch, and Lieut. Col. J. A. Haskin, commanding defenses west of the Eastern Branch, will at once report to General Barnard for orders.

By command of Major-General Banks:

RICH. B. IRWIN,
Captain, Aide-de-Camp, and Acting Assistant Adjutant-General.

[19.]
HEADQUARTERS EIGHTH ARMY CORPS,
Baltimore, September 12, 1862.

Colonel JOHNSON,

Commanding Cavalry at Ellicott's Mills:

COLONEL: You will proceed to make a reconnaissance with your command along the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad from Elysville to Monocacy bridge for the purpose of ascertaining the condition of the track, culverts, bridges, &c., and report the result by telegraph to these headquarters.

By command of Major-General Wool:

W. D. WHIPPLE,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE POTOMAC,
Frederick, September 13, 1862—8.45 p. m.

Major-General SUMNER:

GENERAL: The commanding general directs me to say that he desires you to move punctually at 7 o'clock to-morrow morning. Ammunition wagons will move with the troops, ambulances in rear of all the troops, in order of corps. Please direct your quartermaster to report to Colonel Ingalls at these headquarters, before 6.30 o'clock to-morrow morning, for instructions as to your other wagons. Subsistence stores have been received and are in a railroad train on the other side of the Monocacy railroad bridge. By sending your disposable wagons there you can obtain such subsistence stores as you may require.

Respectfully, your obedient servant,

R. B. MARCY,
Chief of Staff.

HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE POTOMAC,
September 13, 1862—7.30 a. m.

Brigadier-General SYKES:

GENERAL: Come on with your command to Monocacy crossing and there await further orders. Communicate to Lieutenant-Colonel Hays the order to accompany you with his command.

Respectfully,

R. B. MARCY,
Chief of Staff.

HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE POTOMAC,
Camp near Frederick, September 13, 1862—6.20 p. m.

Maj. Gen. W. B. FRANKLIN,
Commanding Sixth Corps:

GENERAL:

Knowing my views and intentions, you are fully authorized to change any of the details of this order as circumstances may change, provided the purpose is carried out; that purpose being to attack the enemy in detail and beat him. General Smith's dispatch of 4 p. m. with your comments is received. If, with a full knowledge of all the circumstances, you consider it preferable to crush the enemy at Petersville before undertaking the movement I have directed, you are at liberty to do so, but you will readily perceive that no slight advantage should for a moment interfere with the decisive results I propose to gain. I cannot too strongly impress upon you the absolute necessity of informing me every hour during the day of your movements, and frequently during the night. Force your colonels to prevent straggling, and bring every available man into action. I think the force you have is, with good management, sufficient for the end in view. If you differ widely from me, and being on the spot you know better than I do the circumstances of the case, inform me at once, and I will do my best to re-enforce you. Inform me at the same time how many more troops you think you should have. Until 5 a.m. to-morrow general headquarters will be at this place. At that hour they will move upon the main road to Hagerstown.

* For portion of this communication here omitted, see Vol. XIX, Part I, p. 45.

I am, general, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

GEO. B. McCLELLAN,

Major-General, Commanding.

HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE POTOMAC,
Frederick, September 13, 1862—11.45 p. m.

Major-General BURNSIDE:
The rebel cavalry is reported to have been seen about 5 p. m. to-day, five or six miles from Frederick, on the Emmitsburg turnpike. The major-general commanding directs you to send out on this road five or six miles one regiment of cavalry and a section of artillery to ascertain as to the truth of this report. Should no cavalry appear to be in the neighborhood, the force detached by you will join the main body of your command on the National road.

Respectfully, your obedient servant,

R. B. MARCY,

Chief of Staff.

HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE POTOMAC,
Camp near Frederick, September 13, 1862—3.35 p. m.

Brig. Gen. J. D. Cox,

Commanding Division:

GENERAL: General McClellan directs me to say that it was the intention for you to proceed direct to Middletown, and desires that you will march to that place and support General Pleasonton. Pick up Rodney [Rodman], if you should find him, and take him with you to Middletown.

Very respectfully, yours,

R. B. MARCY,

Chief of Staff.

HEADQUARTERS NINTH CORPS,
Frederick, Md., September 13, 1862.

Brig. Gen. O. B. WILLCOX,

Commanding First Division, Ninth Army Corps:

GENERAL: Major-General Reno instructs me to direct you to put your column in motion for Middletown; also detail one company of infantry for provost duty and twenty men as hospital attendants, to report to Colonel Allen, provost-marshal.

I have the honor to be, respectfully, your obedient servant,

EDWARD M. NEILL,

Captain and Assistant Adjutant-General.

[19.]

SPECIAL ORDERS, No. 10.
HDQRS. THIRD CORPS, ARMY OF VIRGINIA,
New Market, Md., September 13, 1862.

On the receipt of this order Hatch's division will march to the Monocacy, and also Ricketts', with the exception of one regiment, which he will leave at Ridgeville to hold that place.

By command of Major-General Hooker:

JOS. DICKINSON,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

[19.]

SPECIAL ORDERS, No. 12.
HDQRS. THIRD CORPS, ARMY OF VIRGINIA,
Camp near Monocacy, Md., September 13, 1862.

Brigadier-General Meade will march his division in the direction of Middletown at daylight to-morrow morning. He will be followed by Hatch's and Ricketts' divisions on the same road and as closely as possible. It is expected that the march will be resumed with the utmost promptitude. The chief quartermaster of the corps will detach all the wagons from the train that can be spared, for the purpose of supplying the troops in their advanced position.

By command of Major-General Hooker:

JOS. DICKINSON,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

[19.]

HEADQUARTERS OF THE ARMY,
Washington, September 13, 1862. (Received 4.30 p. m.)

Unless General Humphreys immediately leaves to take command of his division in the field, he will be arrested for disobedience of orders.*

H. W. HALLECK,
General-in-Chief.

[19.]

[SEPTEMBER 13, 1862.]

General HUMPHREYS:

Please inform me where you will be to-night, if you can. Apply to Colonel McKeever, with General Heintzelman, to send you a squadron of the cavalry near him. There is some there which has been used for escort duty. I will try to communicate with you so soon as I once hear from you. March easy the first day.

F. J. PORTER,
Major-General, Commanding.

[19.]

HEADQUARTERS FIFTH ARMY CORPS,
On Road to Rockville, [September 13, 1862].

Brigadier-General HUMPHREYS:

If you are on the road from Washington to Leesborough, General Porter directs that you push on on the turnpike to Brookeville, and then as rapidly as possible, without fatiguing the men, to Urbana. If you have not left Washington, the general wishes you [to] march directly to Rockville by the Georgetown turnpike.

* The envelope containing this communication is addressed “General A. A. Humphreys, 345 Nineteenth street.”

By command of Major-General Porter:

ALEX. S. WEBB,
Chief of Staff.

[19.]

ROCKVILLE, September 13, 1862—9.30 a.m.

General HUMPHREYS,
Commanding Division:
(Care General Cullum.)

If your command has not left Washington, take the direct road to Rockville and thence on to Frederick. If you have gone to Leesborough, take the shortest road to Clarksburg, and push on to Frederick without fatigue to your men. Require the officers to stop straggling. Bring with you as much provisions and grain as your trains can carry, and I urge the leaving of knapsacks in store. Let me hear from you by every opportunity.

F. J. PORTER,
Major-General.

[19.]

HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE POTOMAC,
Frederick, September 13, 1862—3 p.m.

Brigadier-General PLEASONTON:

GENERAL: The following order of march of the enemy is dated September 9.* General McClellan desires you to ascertain whether this order of march has thus far been followed by the enemy. As the pass through the Blue Ridge may be disputed by two columns, he desires you to approach it with great caution.

I am, general, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

R. B. MARCY,
Chief of Staff.

P. S.—Ascertain if there is any truth in the report of Captain Sanders to you yesterday that the enemy has a force of 30,000 at Burkittsville.

R. B. MARCY,
Chief of Staff.

[19.]

HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE POTOMAC,
Frederick, September 13, 1862—9 p.m.

Brigadier-General PLEASONTON:

GENERAL: The commanding general directs you to fire occasionally a few artillery shots (even though no enemy be in your front to fire at), so as to let Colonel Miles at Harper’s Ferry know that our troops are near him. Subsistence stores have been received by rail. Upon sending your disposable wagons to the train on the other side of the railroad

*For order (here omitted), see paragraphs III to X, inclusive, Vol. XIX, Part II, pp. 603, 604. bridge at the Monocacy you can obtain such subsistence stores as you may require.

Respectfully, your obedient servant,

R. B. MARCY,
Chief of Staff.

P. S.—Your wagons will follow in rear of all the troops and ambulances.

R. B. M.

HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE POTOMAC,
Camp near Frederick, September 13, 1862—5:45 p. m.

Capt. W. P. SANDERS,
Commanding Sixth Cavalry:

The general commanding directs that you send at once one company of cavalry to Noland's Ferry to assist the force to be left there by General Couch in guarding that point. You will then push forward with your command to Jefferson. From this point you will throw out scouts as far as possible toward Harper's Ferry. You will also open communication with General Pleasonton, who will be found on the National road between Middletown and the South Mountain or Blue Ridge.

Very respectfully, yours,

R. B. MARCY,
Chief of Staff.

P. S.—Use your judgment whether to reach Jefferson via Point of Rocks or Adamstown. If the latter, leave a strong party at Point of Rocks until you have covered it west of the Catoctin.

HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE POTOMAC,
September 13, 1862—7:30 a. m.

COMMANDING OFFICER FIRST RHODE ISLAND CAVALRY:

The commanding general directs you to move at once with your regiment to Seneca and Poolesville to watch all the fords from Seneca to the mouth of the Monocacy.

Respectfully,

R. B. MARCY,
Chief of Staff.

SPECIAL ORDERS, HDQRS. DEFENSES OF WASHINGTON,
No. 4. Washington, September 13, 1862.

1. In compliance with instructions from the General-in-Chief, Brigadier-General Stoneman will report to Major-General Heintzelman, commanding defenses south of Potomac, for the command of Kearny's division, Fifth Corps.

2. Paragraph 3, of Special Orders, No. 3, of yesterday's date, from these headquarters, is revoked. Brig. Gen. J. G. Barnard is assigned to duty as chief engineer of the defenses of Washington, to date from the 3d instant.

By command of Major-General Banks:

RICH D. B. IRWIN,
Captain, Aide-de-Camp, and Acting Assistant Adjutant-General.
CHAP. LXIII.]

CORRESPONDENCE, ETC.—UNION.

831

SPECIAL ORDERS, } HQRS. ARMY OF THE POTOMAC,
No. 25. } September 14, 1862.

Brig. Gen. R. King is relieved from duty with Hooker's corps, and will report in person to the Adjutant-General. The command of the division will devolve upon Brig. Gen. J. P. Hatch.

By command of Major-General McClellan:

S. WILLIAMS,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE POTOMAC,
September 14, 1862—9 p. m.

Major-General Hooker:

General Reno has succeeded in carrying the heights on the left of the main pike. Please hold your present position at all hazards. General Richardson has been placed under your orders. Let me know at daybreak to-morrow morning the state of affairs in your vicinity, and whether you will need further re-enforcements. I presume, however, that Richardson's division is all that will be required by you. Franklin has had a severe contest with the enemy at pass in front of Jefferson, the result of which is not yet known to me.

GEO. B. McCLELLAN,
Major-General, Commanding U. S. Army.

HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE POTOMAC,
September 14, 1862—9 a. m.

Maj. Gen. E. V. SUMNER:

General: The commanding general desires you to take the Shookstown road to Middletown. Lieutenant Comstock, of the Engineers, will accompany you and communicate further instructions.

Respectfully,

R. B. MARCY,
Chief of Staff.

HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE POTOMAC,
September 14, 1862—9 p. m.

Major-General Sumner:

Leave Richardson's division where it now is, supporting Hooker.
Place it temporarily under Hooker's command, and direct General Richardson to obey Hooker's orders. This is but a temporary arrangement, made absolutely necessary by circumstances. You will then repair to the neighborhood of Bolivar, where you will find French's division, Sedgwick's division, and Williams' corps, and assume command of these three. Please be at Bolivar by daylight in the morning. Instruct Richardson to look out well for the safety of our right flank during the night and early in the morning.

Very respectfully,

GEO. B. McCLELLAN,
Major-General, Commanding.
General Halleck,

General-in-Chief:

Morell will be at Frederick to-night and move to-morrow early. Humphreys delayed to fit up properly. Command left Washington to-day. Am in sight of enemy, with General McClellan.

F. J. Porter,

Major-General.

HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE POTOMAC,

Bolivar, September 14, 1862—9.30 p.m.

Maj. Gen. F. J. Porter,

Middletown:

GENERAL: Please order Sykes' division to come forward to this point, starting at daylight to-morrow morning. General Morell at Frederick has been ordered to move to this place, starting at 3 o'clock to-morrow morning. Weber's brigade comes forward at the same time.

By command of Major-General McClellan:

GEO. D. Ruggles,

Colonel and Aide-de-Camp.

HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE POTOMAC,

Bolivar, September 14, 1862—10 p.m.

Major-General Morell,

Frederick:

GENERAL: General McClellan directs you to march for this place (three miles beyond Middletown, on the Hagerstown road) punctually at 3 o'clock to-morrow morning. Weber's brigade is also ordered forward at same hour to this place. To insure unity of action on the march General Weber is directed to report to you and will be under your orders during the march. Upon your arrival here you will report for duty to Major-General Porter. We have gained a handsome success to-day, carrying the heights of the Blue Ridge bordering on the National road beyond this place. The general commanding desires your troops for ulterior operations. Come on quickly. Start promptly at 3 o'clock.

I am, general, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

GEO. D. Ruggles,

Colonel, Assistant Adjutant-General, and Aide-de-Camp.

HEADQUARTERS FIFTH CORPS,

Batchelder's, near Leesborough, September 14, 1862—6 a.m.

Brigadier-General Humphreys,

Commanding Division:

The general commanding desires you to follow him by the first left-hand road after passing this point. You will proceed to Rockville via Urbana. At this house (the large house on the left near Leesborough, Mr. Batchelder's) you will find a guard of five men. The

*The reverse side of this paper is addressed to General Humphreys, or Commanding Officer Leading Brigade of his Division, or General Tyler, or Colonel Allabach. general desires you to put a guard on to relieve this one as soon as you arrive, your guard to remain until all your stragglers shall have passed, probably twelve to fourteen hours.

By command of Major-General Porter:

ALEX. S. WEBB,
Lieutenant-Colonel and Chief of Staff.

19.

MIDDLETOWN, Md., September 11, 1862—1.30 p. m.

General HUMPHREYS,
Near Leesborough:

Received dispatch. Lose no time, but bring up your men fresh. Glad you have fitted out provisions at railroad depot.

F. J. PORTER,
Major-General.

[19.]

HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE POTOMAC,
Middletown, September 11, 1862—11.45 a. m.

Major-General FRANKLIN:

GENERAL: The enemy occupies the main pass in front of Middletown with infantry and artillery. Pleasonton has silenced one battery and our infantry are now endeavoring to turn the pass by our left. I have just been informed that the enemy have about 1,500 cavalry and some artillery at Burkittsville, and that they are in considerable force in vicinity of Boonsborough. I learned this morning by a messenger direct from Colonel Miles that he had abandoned the Maryland Heights yesterday afternoon and occupied the Loudoun and Bolivar Heights and that the garrison of Martinsburg had joined him. Reno's corps is partially engaged in front of here and Hooker is arriving rapidly. Please lose no time in driving the rebel cavalry out of Burkittsville and occupying the pass. Have Sanders keep the communication open between us, and keep me informed of everything transpiring at the pass before you. Let me know first whether the enemy occupies the pass, and if so the strength of their force there. Continue to bear in mind the necessity of relieving Colonel Miles if possible.

I am, general, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

GEO. B. MCCLELLAN,
Major-General, Commanding.

[19.]

HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE POTOMAC,
September 14, 1862—1.30 p. m.

Brig. Gen. MAX WEBER,
Frederick:

GENERAL: It is reported that the enemy has pickets in the neighborhood of Frederick. Confer with Colonel Allen, First Maine Cavalry (now in Frederick), and send out pickets of cavalry and infantry in all directions. If any enemy is found engage and displace him. It is impossible that he can be in the neighborhood in any force.

By command of Major-General McClellan:

GEO. D. RUGGLES,
Colonel and Aide-de-Camp.

[19.]

* Not found.

53 R R—VOL LI, PT 1
Brig. Gen. Max Weber:

GENERAL: General McClellan directs you to march at 3 o'clock to-morrow morning punctually for this place via Middletown. General Morell is also ordered to move forward to this place at the same time. To insure a united and prompt movement of both division and brigade, you will report to General Morell, and, with your brigade, will be under his orders during the march to this place and till assigned here by the general commanding, to whom you will report immediately upon arrival.

We have gained a handsome success to-day by carrying the heights of the Blue Ridge bordering on the National pike beyond this place. It is desired by the general commanding that your brigade be here early in the morning to assist in ulterior operations.

I am, general, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

GEO. D. RUGGLES,

Colonel, Assistant Adjutant-General, and Aide-de-Camp.

HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE POTOMAC,
Bolivar, September 14, 1862—9.30 p. m.

Maj. Gen. J. Hooker, Commanding Corps:

GENERAL: The commanding general directs that if you can without much delay place Richardson's division in advance of your command you will do so, and allow your men to get supplies of rations from your trains before leaving your present position. If Sumner's command is closed up, you will allow it all to pass you and will follow him, taking advantage of the time consumed by his passing to get your supplies. The general is desirous of pushing the enemy as hard as possible, and therefore he would like to have you supply your command as rapidly as you can. Pleasonton has gone forward. The order will be communicated to General Richardson without delay.

Very respectfully, yours,

R. B. MARCY,

Chief of Staff.

HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE POTOMAC,
Bolivar, September 15, 1862—8.30 a. m.

Major-General Sumner:

GENERAL: The commanding general directs you to advance with your corps and Banks' to the crest of the mountain and take position either to attack the enemy or to defend the crest. He desires you to leave all your wagons except those containing . . Suspended.

(The line of the enemy reported beyond the crest proves to be our own people, and this dispatch will not, therefore, be sent.)

HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE POTOMAC,
Bolivar, September 15, 1862—8.45 a. m.

Major-General Sumner:

GENERAL: The commanding general directs you to move with your corps and Banks' on the main pike to Boonsborough, throwing out

* So recorded in McClellan's dispatch book. skirmishers well to the front and on your flanks till you arrive upon open ground. Pleasonton will be in front of you with cavalry. Richardson's division is moving in front of Hooker on your right. Burnside is ordered to advance on your left. Should you find Boonsborough to be deserted by the enemy upon your arrival there, you will occupy the town or take up some strong position in its vicinity. Should you find the enemy in force there, you will dispose your men for attack and report for further orders to the commanding general. The general does not wish you to make the attack without reporting to him, as he wishes first to give orders to insure the co-operation of the various other corps of this command.

I am, general, respectfully, your obedient servant,
GEO. D. RUGGLES,
Colonel and Aide-de-Camp.

P. S.—Should you require it, you will be well supported. Some citizens from Boonsborough have just reported to General Hooker that the rebel army is in a perfect panic. They are making for Shepherdstown Ferry. They say that Lee said publicly last night that they must admit they had been badly whipped. This, General Hooker says, is reliable.
If upon reaching Boonsborough you find this to be the case, push on after the enemy as rapidly and far as possible, keeping your corps well in hand and doing them all the injury possible.

By command of Major-General McClellan:

GEO. D. RUGGLES,
Colonel and Aide-de-Camp.

[SEPTEMBER 15, 1862.]

General HUMPHREYS,

En Route to Frederick via Brookeville:

Wait orders at Frederick, communicating your arrival by telegram if possible. Obtain supplies at the railroad depot on Monocacy, and keep your command ready to move at call.

F. J. PORTER,
Major-General.

Watch the country on your left and keep in communication with the signal parties.

F. J. P.

[Indorsement on envelope in handwriting of General Humphreys.]

Received at Frederick upon my arrival there, September —, 1862.
[19.]

HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE POTOMAC,

Bolivar, September 15, 1862—9.45 a. m.

Major-General FRANKLIN:

GENERAL: We have met with a complete success; have gotten possession of the pass in front of this place, and are pushing our forces forward in pursuit of the retreating enemy. General Hooker reports that he has received reliable information from citizens from Boonsbor-ough that the enemy is retreating in a perfect panic in the direction of Shepherdstown Ferry. They say that Lee openly acknowledged they had been shockingly whipped. Communicate with General Burnside at the intersection of the Rohrersville and Boonsborough roads, and if the intelligence of the retreat of the enemy toward Shepherdstown Ferry is confirmed, push on with your whole command (cautiously and keeping up communication with Franklin [Burnside]) to Sharpsburg, and endeavor to fall upon the enemy and to cut off his retreat. Use your cavalry with the utmost vigor in following up the pursuit. In this juncture much is left by the commanding general to your judgment, trusting that you will act promptly and vigorously and complete the success thus far gained.

By command of Major-General McClellan:

GEO. D. RUGGLES,
Colonel and Aide-de-Camp.

HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE POTOMAC,
September 15, 1862—1:20 p. m.

Major-General FRANKLIN:

GENERAL: Burnside's corps and Sykes' division are moving on Porterstown and Sharpsburg by the road about one mile south of Hagerstown pike, with orders to turn and attack a force of the enemy supposed to be at Centerville. I will instruct them to communicate with you at Rohrersville, and if necessary re-enforce you. It is important to drive in the enemy in your front, but be cautious in doing it until you have some idea of his force. The corps of Sumner, Hooker, and Banks are moving to Boonsborough on the main pike. At least one division has already passed down toward Centerville. I will direct a portion to turn to the left at the first road beyond the mountain (west), so as to be in position to re-enforce you or to move on Portersville. Sykes will be at the Boonsborough and Rohrersville road in about one hour and a half, Burnside following close. Thus far our success is complete, but let us follow it up closely, but warily. Attack whenever you see a fair chance of success. Lose no time in communicating with Sykes and Burnside.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

GEO. B. McCLELLAN,
Major-General.

HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE POTOMAC,
Boonsborough, September 15, 1862—4:30 p. m.

Maj. Gen. W. B. FRANKLIN, Commanding Sixth Corps:

GENERAL: The commanding general directs me to say to you that he is now in a position to cover your rear, and you had better withdraw the two brigades left at Rohrersville and order them [to] join you, doing your best to hold your position without attacking unless you should see a very favorable opportunity. It is his desire to concentrate everything this evening on the force at or near Sharpsburg, and he will be satisfied if you keep the enemy in your front without anything decisive until the Sharpsburg affair is settled, when he will at once move troops directly to your assistance, and also to endeavor to cut off the enemy in your front.

Yours, very respectfully,

R. B. MARCY,
Chief of Staff.

HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE POTOMAC,
Bolivar, September 15, 1862—8 a. m.

Major-General BURNSIDE, Bolivar:
The general commanding directs you to advance with your whole corps upon Boonsborough by the road which you followed yesterday, to the left of the main pike. Advance as far as the intersection of the Boonsborough and Rohrersville roads. Having arrived at that point, you will place yourself in communication with the troops who shall have advanced by the main pike, and also with General Franklin if he has reached Rohrersville, being prepared to lend such assistance as may be necessary in either direction, or if required to advance upon Centerville and Sharpsburg to cut off the retreat of the enemy. Headquarters and the body of the army will advance by the main pike, General Hooker on the right of the main pike. Being separated from you for the present by force of circumstances, he will, during such separation, report direct to these headquarters.

I am, general, &c.,

[GEORGE D. RUGGLES,
Colonel and Aide-de-Camp.]

P. S.—Hooker's corps will probably remain for some hours at the Mountain House, Richardson's division moving on in advance. Endeavor to keep the head of your column as near parallel as possible to that of Richardson. Move promptly, keeping your skirmishers well out on your front and flanks till you arrive at open ground. Gibbon is ordered to join his own corps.

[19.]

HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE POTOMAC,
September 15, 1862—9 a.m.

Major-General BURNSIDE:

GENERAL: General F. J. Porter's corps will follow you on the same road, and be ready to support you. General McClellan desires to impress upon you the necessity for the utmost vigor in your pursuit.

I am, general, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

GEORGE D. RUGGLES,
Colonel and Aide-de-Camp.

[19.]

HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE POTOMAC,
September 15, 1862—12.30 p.m.

General BURNSIDE:

GENERAL: General McClellan desires you to let General Porter's go on past you if necessary. You will then push your own command on as rapidly as possible. The general also desires to know the reason for your delay in starting this morning.

I am, general, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

GEORGE D. RUGGLES,
Colonel and Aide-de-Camp.

[19.]

HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE POTOMAC,
September 15, 1862—3.45 p.m.

Major-General BURNSIDE:

GENERAL: The last news received is that the enemy is drawn up in line of battle about two miles beyond Centerville, which will bring them on the west and behind Antietam Creek. They are represented to be in considerable force under Longstreet. Our troops are rapidly moving up. If not too late, I think you had better move on Rohrersville, communicating meantime with Franklin. If with your assistance he can defeat the enemy in front of him, join him at once. If, however, he can hold his own, march direct on Sharpsburg and co-operate with us, unless that place should be evacuated by the enemy. In that case, move at once to co-operate with Franklin. Porter, of course, will continue on his march to Sharpsburg.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

G. B. McC[LELLAN].

[19.]

HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE POTOMAC,
September 15, 1862—1:30 p.m.

Major-General BURNSIDE:

GENERAL: The commanding general directs you to move your command at once to Sharpsburg, via Porterstown, to assist in the attack upon the former place. The general will be there in person.

I am, general, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

GEO. D. RUGGLES,
Colonel and Aide-de-Camp.

[19.]

HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE POTOMAC,
Bolivar, September 15, 1862—10:45 a.m.

J. W. GARRETT, Esq.,
President of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad, Baltimore:

Please take measures to have the railroad bridge over the Monocacy repaired with the least possible delay.

GEO. B. MCCLELLAN,
Major-General, Commanding.

[19.]

HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE POTOMAC,
September 16, 1862.

General McCLELLAN:

GENERAL: Lieutenant Shunk has gone back to hurry up ordnance supplies of ammunition, &c. He informed me he had no supply of musket ammunition, but that there was plenty throughout the various division trains, and a supply might be taken for Morell's division from the trains wherever it could be found. He thought that Mansfield's corps was better supplied than any other.

Very respectfully,

S. WILLIAMS,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

[19.]

HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE POTOMAC,
September 16, 1862—9:30 a.m.

Major-General SUMNER:

GENERAL: General McClellan desires you to inform him the moment the head of Mansfield's corps comes up. The general will be for the present at General Hooker's headquarters.

I am, general, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

GEO. D. RUGGLES,
Colonel and Aide-de-Camp.

[19.]
Brevet Major-General Sumner:

GENERAL: General McClellan desires you to move Mansfield's corps across the fords and bridge over the Antietam and to take such position as may be designated for it by General Hooker. General McClellan desires that all the artillery, ammunition, and everything else appertaining to the corps, be gotten over without fail to-night, ready for action early in the morning. He also desires you to have the other corps of your command ready to march one hour before daylight to-morrow morning.

I am, general, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

GEO. D. RUGGLES,
Colonel, Assistant Adjutant-General, and Aide-de-Camp.

HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE POTOMAC,
September 16, 1862—7.30 p. m.

Major-General Sumner:

GENERAL: General McClellan desires you to place two batteries in position on the ridge in rear of general headquarters. These batteries are intended to guard the Antietam between the fords and this point. He desires that these batteries be established before daybreak to-morrow morning.

I am, general, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

GEO. D. RUGGLES,
Colonel and Aide-de-Camp.

HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE POTOMAC,
Centerville, September 16, 1862—7.45 a. m.

Major-General Franklin:

GENERAL: The man O'Sullivan, who passed through your lines yesterday as a bearer of dispatches to Colonel Miles, has returned, and informs me that Miles surrendered unconditionally at 8 o'clock yesterday morning, and that the rebels on this side of the river were rapidly recrossing to the Virginia side by our pontoon bridge at Harper's Ferry. He did not see this with his own eyes, but was so informed by persons in whom he has implicit confidence. I think the enemy has abandoned the position in front of us, but the fog is so dense that I have not yet been enabled to determine. If the enemy is in force here, I shall attack him this morning. The instant I know whether he is still here or not I shall inform you.

I would again caution you to watch Knoxville and Berlin with a small cavalry force, so that no enemy can get in your rear.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

GEO. B. McCLELLAN,
Major-General, Commanding.

HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE POTOMAC,
September 16, 1862—7.30 p. m.

Major-General Franklin:

GENERAL: General McClellan directs me to say that he still desires you to occupy Maryland Heights. If, however, this should prove impracticable, he thinks that you had better leave a small force at your present position, and join him with the remainder of your command.

I am, general, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

GEO. D. RUGGLES,

[19.] Colonel, Aide-de-Camp, and Assistant Adjutant-General.

HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE POTOMAC,
Near Centerville, September 16, 1862—9.30 p. m.

Major-General FRANKLIN:

GENERAL: General McClellan directs me to say that the enemy is still in force in front of us. What news have you? And what is the condition of affairs with you? Please answer.

I am, general, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

GEO. D. RUGGLES,

[19.] Colonel and Aide-de-Camp.

HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE POTOMAC,
September 16, 1862—3.45 p. m.

Brigadier-General PLEASONTON:

GENERAL: The commanding general desires you to collect all your cavalry, excepting such only as may be detached on important service, so as to have your command ready at a moment's notice, should it be required to make pursuit of the enemy.

I am, general, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

GEO. D. RUGGLES,

[19.] Colonel, Assistant Adjutant-General, and Aide-de-Camp.

SPECIAL ORDERS, HDQRS. DEFENSES OF WASHINGTON,
No. 7. September 16, 1862.

By command of Major-General Banks:

RICH. B. IRWIN,
Captain, Aide-de-Camp, and Acting Assistant Adjutant-General.

WAR DEPARTMENT,
Washington City, D. C., September 17, 1862—11.20 a. m.

JOHN W. GARRETT, Esq.,
President Baltimore and Ohio Railroad:

We want to load sixty or seventy cars here as fast as possible with subsistence to be sent round to Hagerstown as rapidly as possible to supply General McClellan's forces. Will you make arrangements to have them sent through. The cars will be loaded to-day at Alexandria. There will be three trains.*

P. H. WATSON,
Assistant Secretary of War.

WAR DEPARTMENT,
Washington City, D. C., September 17, 1862—11.35 p. m.
Mr. KOONTZ,
Washington Depot:
Can you have a train consisting of a locomotive and a single baggage car ready in say two hours to start for Hagerstown via Harrisburg? The car will be loaded with ammunition and it is of the utmost importance to run the train through at the highest possible speed so as to reach Hagerstown in the morning. This train must have the right of way on the whole route.

P. H. WATSON,
Assistant Secretary of War.

WAR DEPARTMENT,
Washington City, D. C., September 17, 1862—11.40 p. m.
Mr. KOONTZ,
Washington Depot:
Get ready a locomotive and baggage cars enough to carry 50,000 pounds of ammunition.

P. H. WATSON,
Assistant Secretary of War.

WAR DEPARTMENT,
Washington, D. C., September 17, 1862—11.30 p. m.
JOHN W. GARRETT, Esq.,
President, &c., Baltimore:
We are making up a train, to consist of a locomotive and one baggage car loaded with ammunition, which General McClellan wants in the morning at Hagerstown, if possible. This train must have the right of way on the entire route, and must be run as fast as any express passenger train could be run. It will be ready to start in two or three hours from this time. Can you make the necessary arrangements to push it through via Harrisburg?

P. H. WATSON,
Assistant Secretary of War.

CAMDEN STATION, September 17, 1862—11.10 p. m.
(Received 11.50 p. m.)
P. H. WATSON,
Assistant Secretary of War:
Your dispatch received for Mr. Garrett. We will do everything possible to secure result you desire.

W. P. SMITH.

* For reply, see Vol. XIX, Part II, p. 313.
Brigadier-General Ripley,
Chief of Ordnance:

If you can possibly do it, force some 20-pounder Parrott ammunition through to-night, via Hagerstown and Chambersburg, to use near Sharpsburg, Md.

GEO. B. McCLELLAN,
Major-General, Commanding.

[Indorsement in Ordnance Office.]

Attended to at once, September 17—11 p. m.

[19.]

WAR DEPARTMENT,
Washington City, D. C., September 17, 1862.

General McCLELLAN,
Near Hagerstown, Md.:
Telegram received. A special train will soon leave with the 20-pounder ammunition asked for. It will go in charge of an ordnance officer, and will be in Hagerstown to morrow morning. Other ammunition will follow to Frederick and Hagerstown as soon as possible.

JAS. W. RIPLEY,
Brigadier-General and Chief of Ordnance.

ORDNANCE OFFICE,
Washington, September 17, 1862.

Col. G. D. RAMSAY,
Washington Arsenal:
The following dispatch has just been received from General McClellan:

If you possibly can do it, force some 20-pounder Parrott ammunition through to-night, via Hagerstown and Chambersburg, to use near Sharpsburg, Md.

I have called on Colonel Rucker for the transportation. Get the ammunition ready and send it to the cars as soon as possible, and let an officer accompany it to its destination.

JAS. W. RIPLEY,
Brigadier-General and Chief of Ordnance.

HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE POTOMAC,
September 17, 1862—9.10 a.m.

General SUMNER:
GENERAL: General McClellan desires you to be very careful how you advance, as he fears our right is suffering.

I am, general, respectfully, &c.,
GEO. D. RUGGLES,
Colonel, &c.

P. S.—General Mansfield is killed and Hooker wounded in the foot.
G. D. R.

[19.]
Brigadier-General HUMPHREYS,
Frederick:

Push on to Boonsborough. Advise General Porter of the time of your approach in season to let him send orders upon your arrival.

By command of Major-General McClellan:

R. B. MARCY,
Chief of Staff.

HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE POTOMAC,
September 17, 1862.

Brigadier-General HUMPHREYS:
The commanding general desires you to lose not an instant in getting to the front. Hasten your command. Much depends upon our getting re-enforcements at once.
By command of Major-General McClellan:

S. WILLIAMS,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

SEPTEMBER 17, 1862—12.30 p.m.

General HUMPHREYS:

Push up to Centerville [Keedysville]. Give your men twenty additional rounds to carry in the pockets. All goes well, and we are driving enemy. Bring up your men so as to be as fresh as possible; but get here soon.

F. J. PORTER,
Major-General, Commanding.

Get up to-night if possible.

Send reply stating state and strength of command, and when you will be likely to get here.

A. S. WEBB,
Chief of Staff.

HEADQUARTERS FIFTH CORPS, ARMY OF THE POTOMAC,
September 17, 1862—2.30 p.m.

General HUMPHREYS:
We are in the midst of the most important and extended battle of the war. The rebels are desperate. We have driven them some distance, but it is of vital importance to get up all our troops. Come on as soon as possible, and hurry up with all haste. Do not render the command unfit for service, but force your march.*
By order:

ALEX. S. WEBB,
Chief of Staff.

* Written on the outside of envelope containing this dispatch is, "Humphreys on the road between this and Frederick. If not on the road, go to telegraph office and find where he is. Find him to-night." And in General Humphreys' handwriting is, "Received at sunset one mile beyond Frederick—that is, one mile nearer Antietam."
General HUMPHREYS:

5 p. m.—Get here before daybreak.

F. J. PORTER,
Major-General.

HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE POTOMAC,
September 17, 1862—12 midnight.

Maj. Gen. D. N. COUCH,
Commanding:

GENERAL: Major-General McClellan desires you to march with your command to-morrow morning in time to report with it to Major-General Franklin as soon after daylight as you can possibly do so. Franklin is on the left of General Sumner.

I am, general, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

R. B. MARCY,
Chief of Staff.

HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE POTOMAC,
September 17, 1862—9.10 a. m.

Major-General BURNSIDE:

GENERAL: General Franklin's command is within one mile and a half of here. General McClellan desires you to open your attack. As soon as you shall have uncovered the upper Stone bridge you will be supported, and, if necessary, on your own line of attack. So far all is going well:

Respectfully,

GEO. D. RUGGLES,
Colonel, &c.

HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE POTOMAC,
September 17, 1862—6.10 p. m.

Major-General BURNSIDE:

GENERAL: General McClellan directs me to say that whatever the result of your affair to-night may be, you must so guard the bridge with infantry and artillery as to make it impossible for the enemy to cross it.

I am, general, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

R. B. MARCY,
Chief of Staff.

HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE POTOMAC,
September 17, 1862—6.15 p. m.

Major-General BURNSIDE:

GENERAL: General McClellan directs me to inclose the accompanying dispatch* from signal officer, and to say that if there is any truth in it, he desires you to push the enemy vigorously. Let the general know if the enemy is retreating, and he will push forward with the center.

I am, general, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

R. B. MARCY,
Chief of Staff.

* Not found.
Brigadier-General Pleasonton:

GENERAL: General McClellan directs me to say he has no infantry to spare.
Confer with Major-General Porter, and if he cannot support your batteries, withdraw them.

I am, general, very respectfully, your obedient servant,
R. B. Marcy,
Chief of Staff.

Brigadier-General Pleasonton:

GENERAL: General McClellan directs you to send two squadrons of cavalry to report to Brigadier-General Meade. He will probably be found near the Pennsylvania Reserves, on our right.

I am, general, very respectfully, your obedient servant,
GEO. D. Ruggles,
Colonel and Aide-de-Camp.

Brigadier-General Wessells,

Commanding Brigade:

GENERAL: In accordance with instructions from Major-General Dix, the major-general commanding directs that you proceed forthwith by special boat to Fortress Monroe and report to the major-general commanding.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,
C. C. Suydam,
Lieutenant-Colonel and Assistant Adjutant-General.

P. H. Watson,

Assistant Secretary of War:

It will take four cars.

GEO. S. KOONTZ.

P. H. Watson,

Assistant Secretary of War:

Four cars of ammunition left at 4.55 o'clock.

GEO. S. KOONTZ.
WAR DEPARTMENT,
Washington City, D. C., September 18, 1862—9.40 a. m.

W. P. SMITH, Esq.,
Superintendent, &c., Baltimore, Md.:
At what hour did the ammunition train leave Baltimore?
P. H. WATSON,
Assistant Secretary of War.

CAMDEN STATION, Baltimore, September 18, 1862.
(Received 10 a. m.)

Hon. P. H. WATSON:

Instead of one baggage car with the ammunition as required in your dispatch of midnight, there were four cars which could not leave Washington until nearly 5 a. m. They arrived Camden Station 6.30 a. m., and we transferred them here through Howard Street to the Northern Central by 6.50 a. m. They left Bolton Station about 7 a. m. I have renewed my appeals to that company to urge them forward to Hagerstown and sent one of our men to accompany them through.

W. P. SMITH.

WAR DEPARTMENT,
Washington, September 18, 1862—10.15 a. m.

Hon. T. A. SCOTT,
Harrisburg:
The following dispatch just received, viz:

The cars arrived Camden Station 6.30 a. m., and we transferred them here through Howard Street to the Northern Central by 6.50 a. m. They left Bolton Station about 7 a. m. I have renewed my appeals to that company to urge them forward to Hagerstown, and sent one of our men to accompany them through.

W. P. SMITH.

Please telegraph when the train leaves Harrisburg.
P. H. WATSON,
Assistant Secretary of War.

HARRISBURG, September 18, 1862.
(Received 11.30 a. m.)

Hon. EDWIN M. STANTON:

Ammunition arrived at 10.20 this a. m. and has gone on to Hagerstown.

THOS. A. SCOTT,
Aide-de-Camp.

ARSENA L, September 18, 1862—1 a. m.

General RIPLEY:

Your dispatch just received. If I send men to the depot I can't possibly get on here. The laboring men live wide apart and I can't collect them after night. My work to-night is very heavy. I can only send a few men in compliance with your order.

GEO. D. RAMSAY,
Lieutenant-Colonel.
CHAP. LXIII.

CORRESPONDENCE, ETC.—UNION.

ARSENAI, September 18, 1862.
(Received 10 a. m.)

General RIPLEY:
The shipment of the ammunition for 20-pounders went last night by way of Hagerstown with Lieutenant Bradford. The total number of rounds of field ammunition to go via Frederick is now at the depot and the small-arm ammunition is now loading and will amount, agreeably to your telegraphic instructions, to 1,500,000, by the way of Frederick, and this large amount to be duplicated via Hagerstown. Shall the field ammunition be detained for the small-arms? It will take some time to get off so large an amount. We have not ceased to work since reception of instructions last evening from Captain Benton. Answer at once.

GEO. D. RAMSAY,
Lieutenant-Colonel, &c.
[19.]

HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE POTOMAC, September 18, 1862—9 a. m.

Brigadier-General MEADE:
GENERAL: The commanding general desires you to reorganize your corps as rapidly as possible, and get it in condition either to make an attack or to resist one. Please keep a good watch of the movements of the enemy, and report everything of importance.

I am, general, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

R. B. MARCY,
Chief of Staff.

HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE POTOMAC, Keedysville, September 18, 1862—7.40 p. m.

Brigadier-General MEADE:
GENERAL: The commanding general directs you to push forward your pickets at an early hour in the morning, and to ascertain whether the enemy is in force in your front. Please send a staff officer to these headquarters to report the result.

I am, &c.,

R. B. MARCY,
Chief of Staff.

(Verbal orders to same effect given General Burnside.)

[19.]

Brigadier-General HUMPHREYS,
Commanding Division:

General Williams thinks that the division should be on the ground as soon as possible, and that therefore, considering the emergency of the case, no long rests can be given—merely enough to keep the men from breaking down entirely. They may have an opportunity to rest on the field, and may not be called upon at all to-day. I will rejoin you as soon as possible.

Very respectfully,

CARSWELL MCCLELLAN.

[19.]
Major-General Franklin:

General: The commanding general directs that you send the First and Sixth Regiments of Cavalry and section of horse artillery that has been serving with them to report to Brigadier-General Pleasonton.

I am, general, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

R. B. MARCY,
Chief of Staff.

Headquarters Army of the Potomac, September 18, 1862—5 a. m.

Brigadier-General Pleasonton:

General: The commanding general directs you to send a small party of cavalry out to scout toward, and as far down as, Harper's Ferry. He also directs you to post a party of cavalry to watch the road crossing the Antietam at its mouth, and to send another small party of cavalry down along the bank of the Antietam as far as its mouth, to see that no one is crossing it. If cavalry cannot get down along the bank, infantry will be sent in its stead to accomplish the object specified.

I am, general, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

R. B. MARCY,
Chief of Staff.

P. S.—Push your pickets forward at an early hour in the morning to ascertain whether the enemy is in force in your front.

R. B. M., Chief of Staff. occupied by this army, and to communicate at once to these headquarters such information as may be obtained in relation to the strength, position, and movements of the enemy.

I am, general, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

R. B. MARCY,
Chief of Staff.

[19.]

HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE POTOMAC,
September 18, 1862—11.15 a. m.

Brigadier-General Pleasonton:

General: The commanding general directs that you send two squadrons of cavalry, one to scout on the east side of the Elk Ridge Mountain, and the other on the west side, from our present position to the Potomac. These troops will continue to scout up and down the country as specified until further orders.

I am, general, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

R. B. MARCY,
Chief of Staff.

HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE POTOMAC,
Keedysville, September 19, 1862—8.45 p. m.

The troops of this command will immediately be placed in position as follows, viz.: Franklin's corps on Hagerstown pike, Meade's corps between Franklin's and Potomac, Davis to examine country between Hagerstown pike and Potomac in front of Meade, Banks' corps on Franklin's left, Sumner to rest his left on Sharpsburg, Porter to rest his right on Sharpsburg, Burnside to take position on Porter's left, extending his left toward the Potomac.

By command of Major-General McClellan:

R. B. MARCY,
Chief of Staff.

(To Generals Summer, Franklin, Burnside, Porter, Meade, and Colonel Davis.)

HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE POTOMAC,
Sharpsburg, September 19, 1862—12.30 p. m.

General G. G. Meade,
Commanding Hooker's Corps:

General: The commanding general directs that you remain where you are until further orders, examining well the roads leading to the river.

Very respectfully, yours,

R. B. MARCY,
Chief of Staff.

[19.]

HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE POTOMAC,
September 19, 1862—4 a. m.

Major-General Sumner:

General: Your dispatch of 11.30 o'clock last night just received.
The commanding general directs you, if the enemy appears to be retiring, to mass your troops in readiness to move in any direction. The other corps commanders are directed to push forward their pickets, and if the enemy is retreating, to mass their commands. General Pleasonton is also directed in such an event to throw out small cavalry parties on the various roads leading from our position in the direction of the enemy's retreat, to ascertain the nature and the degree of the obstructions therein.

I am, general, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

R. B. MARCY,
Chief of Staff.

[19.]

HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE POTOMAC,
Sharpsburg, September 19, 1862—12.15 p. m.

Major-General SUMNER:

GENERAL: The commanding general directs you to send Banks' corps, via Rohrersville and Brownsville, toward Harper's Ferry, with instructions to occupy Maryland Heights.

I am, general, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

R. B. MARCY,
Chief of Staff.

[19.]

HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE POTOMAC,
Sharpsburg, September 19, 1862—5 p. m.

Maj. Gen. E. V. SUMNER,
Commanding Corps:

GENERAL: The commanding general directs that you select a camping ground near your present position, with good water, &c., and camp your command. General headquarters will be to-night at the same place as last night, at the east end of Keedysville. Please send an aide to report your position.

Very respectfully, yours,

R. B. MARCY,
Chief of Staff.

[19.]

HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE POTOMAC,
Keedysville, September 19, 1862—4.30 a. m.

Major-General FRANKLIN:
Brigadier-General MEADE:

GENERAL: General Sumner reports that the enemy is moving his artillery to the west, and felling trees behind him as elsewhere. The commanding general directs you to push forward your pickets, and if the enemy appears to be retiring, to mass your troops in readiness to move in any direction. The other corps commanders are instructed to do the same, and General Pleasonton is directed to throw out small parties of cavalry on the various roads leading from our position in the direction of the enemy's retreat, to ascertain the nature and the degree of the obstructions therein.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

R. B. MARCY,
Chief of Staff.
HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE POTOMAC,
Sharpsburg, September 19, 1862—11.45 a.m.

Maj. Gen. W. B. FRANKLIN,

Commanding Sixth Corps:

GENERAL: The commanding general directs that you move your corps into such a position that you can establish your batteries so as to enfilade the enemy's columns to as much advantage as possible, without exposing your men to the fire of the enemy's batteries on the other side of the river opposite the ford. Take all the prisoners you can and do the enemy all the damage possible, but do not attempt to cross the river without further orders.

Very respectfully, yours,

R. B. MARCY,

Chief of Staff.

[19.]

HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE POTOMAC,
Sharpsburg, September 19, 1862—11.45 p. m.

Maj. Gen. W. B. FRANKLIN:

GENERAL: The rebel General Stuart is reported as having moved on Williamsport with 4,000 cavalry and six pieces of artillery. Ten thousand infantry of the enemy are also reported advancing on Williamsport. General Couch is ordered to Williamsport with his division, and General Pleasonton, with two batteries of artillery and nearly half of his cavalry, is ordered to co-operate with him. It is the intention that these troops shall be at Williamsport at daylight to-morrow. General McClellan directs that you hold your corps in readiness to support this movement if required.

I am, general, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

R. B. MARCY,

Chief of Staff.

[19.]

HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE POTOMAC,
Sharpsburg, September 19, 1862—8.15 p. m.

Gen. D. N. COUCH,

Commanding Division:

GENERAL: The commanding general directs that you at once send a detachment from your division, of about 2,000 men, to proceed on the Hagerstown pike to Jones' Cross-Roads, where you will find Colonel Voss, with Twelfth Illinois Cavalry. The general in command of your detachment will order Colonel Voss to join him with his regiment, except one squadron to be left to guard the cross-roads, and the command will then proceed by the direct road toward Williamsport. On arriving near the town, where there is reported to be 1,000 rebel infantry and one piece of artillery, the commander will so dispose his forces as to surround and capture the troops in possession of the town. Please send one battery with this command. Cavalry scouts should be kept well in advance, after leaving the cross-roads, to determine, if possible, the exact nature of the force in possession of the town. The command should arrive before Williamsport very soon after daylight to-morrow.

Yours, very truly,

R. B. MARCY,

Chief of Staff.

[19.]
General D. N. Couch,

Commanding Division:

As it has been reported that Stuart, with 4,000 cavalry and six pieces of artillery, is marching on Williamsport, and that infantry have come down from Winchester to the same place, the commanding general directs that you march at once, with the remainder of your division, via Jones’ Cross-Roads, to Williamsport, and co-operate with General Pleasonton, who is ordered with a large force to the same place and to await your arrival at Jones’ Cross-Roads. General Reynolds, with 8,000 militia, is now between Hagerstown and Williamsport, and will co-operate with you in this movement if necessary. Please report the time of your departure, and also report as often as anything of importance occurs on your march. You will return to this army after you have driven the rebels back into Virginia.

Very respectfully,

R. B. MARCY,
Chief of Staff.

HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE POTOMAC,

September 19, 1862—9.30 p.m.

Brig. Gen. J. F. REYNOLDS:

GENERAL: The great mass of the enemy marched from Shepherdstown to-day, on the Winchester and Charlestown roads. A detachment of our cavalry was fired upon to-day by infantry at Williamsport. The captain in command reports them about 1,000 strong, with one field piece. This report is corroborated by a citizen who left Williamsport about 12 o’clock to-day. Two thousand infantry, a battery of artillery, and four squadrons of cavalry are ordered to march to-night, so as to reach Williamsport as soon after daylight as practicable, and to endeavor to capture the rebel force there. It would be well for you to co-operate with this command by marching down from Hagerstown.

I am, general, &c.,

R. B. MARCY,
Chief of Staff.

HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE POTOMAC,

Keedysville, September 19, 1862—4 a.m.

Brigadier-General PLEASONTON:

GENERAL: General Sumner reports that the enemy's artillery is moving to the west, and that he (the enemy) is felling trees behind him. The commanding general directs you to ascertain if the enemy appears to be retiring, and, if so, to mass your troops and to hold them ready to move in any direction. He also desires you to send out small cavalry detachments on the various roads leading from our position in the direction of the enemy’s retreat, to ascertain the nature and degree of the obstructions therein.

I am, general, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

R. B. MARCY,
Chief of Staff.
Brigadier-General Pleasonton:

GENERAL: Your two dispatches just received. General McClellan directs me to say that he does not propose to cross the river, and that he does not desire you to do so, unless you see a splendid opportunity to inflict great damage upon the enemy without loss to yourself.

I am, general, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

R. B. MARCY,
Chief of Staff.

Brigadier-General Pleasonton:

GENERAL: Colonel Hunt opened nineteen guns on the enemy just before dark and kept up his fire until night set in. The enemy scattered in all directions. An infantry force of about 400 men was crossed immediately, and it is believed that five or six guns have fallen, or will fall, into our possession. Colonel Hunt thinks that you should be at the river by daylight without fail, and that you should take your artillery with you. General McClellan concurs fully in this, and directs that you push your command forward after the enemy as rapidly as possible, using your artillery upon them wherever an opportunity presents, doing them all the damage in your power without incurring too much risk to your command. If great results can be obtained, do not spare your men or horses.

I am, general, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

R. B. MARCY,
Chief of Staff.

P. S.—Our troops will hold the heights on the opposite side of the river during the night.

R. B. M.

Brigadier-General Pleasonton:

GENERAL: The rebel General Stuart is reported to have moved to Williamsport with 4,000 cavalry and six pieces of artillery. It is also reported that 10,000 infantry of the enemy are approaching Williamsport from Winchester. Couch has been ordered to move to Williamsport so as to be there at daylight, picking up Colonel Voss' regiment of cavalry at Jones' Cross-Roads. General McClellan, therefore, directs that you send out immediately sufficient cavalry to scout all the roads on our right, to give timely notice of the approach to this point of any mounted force of the enemy. You will send two batteries with half of your entire cavalry force to report at daylight in the morning to Major General Porter at Shepherdstown. With the remainder of your cavalry and two batteries of artillery you will proceed at once to Jones' Cross-Roads, and there await the arrival of General Couch's command. From this point you will move on Williamsport with General Couch, and co-operate with him in capturing, if possible, or else in driving off, such force of the enemy as may be found there.

I am, general, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

R. B. MARCY,
Chief of Staff.
Major-General Halleck,

General-in-Chief, Washington:

I urgently request that the president of the Chesapeake and Ohio Canal Company be asked to repair that canal at once. That he should do so is indispensably necessary for ulterior military operations. I also request that all the small steamers plying on the canal may be sent to Harper's Ferry as soon as the repairs shall have been completed. By my direction my chief quartermaster telegraphed last evening a dispatch similar to this to General Meigs, who replied raising objections on the score of want of protection to the canal. I do not require suggestions of this kind. I shall be responsible that full protection is afforded it.

G. B. McClellan,

Major-General, Commanding.

---

HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE POTOMAC,

Centerville, September 20, 1862—9 a.m.

Maj. Gen. F. J. Porter,

Commanding Fifth Corps:

GENERAL: The reason why no cavalry reported to you this morning is that last night they were ordered by you back to their old camps to refit and to shoe their horses, much to the surprise of the commanding general. They were ordered out last night, and it is presumed must have reported to you before this time. General Couch's division and two brigades of cavalry have gone to Williamsport this morning to attend to a rebel force said to be in possession of and opposite to that town.

Yours, very respectfully,

R. B. Marcy,

Chief of Staff.

---

HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE POTOMAC,

Centerville, September 20, 1862—11 a.m.

Maj. Gen. W. B. Franklin,

Commanding Sixth Corps:

GENERAL: The commanding general directs that you put your command in readiness to move at a moment's notice and with as little delay as possible. General Porter reports that the enemy are attacking his position on the other side of the river, at Shepherdstown.

Yours, very truly,

R. B. Marcy,

Chief of Staff.

---

HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE POTOMAC,

Near Sharpsburg, September 20, 1862—8.30 p.m.

Maj. Gen. W. B. Franklin,

Commanding Sixth Corps:

GENERAL: An aide of General McClellan's has just returned from General Couch's position near Williamsport. The information he brings is of such a character as, in the opinion of the commanding general, to render it absolutely necessary for you to put your command in motion at once to re-enforce him. It is of the utmost importance that you should reach his position before daylight. A part of General Couch's division marched to the vicinity of Williamsport last night. The night march is therefore practicable. Captain Lowell, who has just returned from there, is of the opinion that the Sharpsburg and Hagerstown pike to Jones' Cross-Roads is the best road to take. You will find some of our cavalry at the cross-roads, who can inform [you] of General Couch's position. You will please assume command of all the troops in that vicinity, and endeavor to defeat and capture the rebel troops opposed to you. In addition to Couch's division, you will have under your command three brigades of Pleasonton's cavalry, three horse batteries, and a brigade of infantry from Hagerstown. It would be well for you to communicate with General Couch at once by a special messenger, informing him as to the probable time of your arrival.

Very respectfully, yours,

R. B. MARCY,
Chief of Staff.

HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE POTOMAC,
Centerville, September 20, 1862—10.15 a. m.

Maj. Gen. D. N. COUCH:

GENERAL: Your communication of 8.40 a. m. to-day is received. The commanding general directs me to say that he wishes you to occupy the town of Williamsport, if you can do it without risk, and to ascertain as definitely as you can what force of the enemy is in the vicinity. The ford should certainly be held to prevent passage by them, and it might even be well to threaten it yourself, as you suggest. This must be left to your judgment. General Pleasonton has probably joined you by this time.

Yours, very respectfully,

R. B. MARCY,
Chief of Staff.

HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE POTOMAC,
Near Sharpsburg, September 20, 1862—7.15 p. m.

Major-General COUCH:

GENERAL: Franklin is ordered to send you one division. Pleasonton is also directed to send you one brigade of cavalry and one horse battery. General Kenly, with the Maryland Brigade, is also ordered to join you from near Hagerstown. All these troops will be with you before daylight.

I am, general, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

R. B. MARCY,
Chief of Staff.

HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE POTOMAC,
Near Sharpsburg, September 20, 1862—8.30 p. m.

Major-General BURNSIDE:

General McClellan directs me to say that the force of the enemy in front of General Porter seems merely intended to cover retreat of wagon train, &c. There is some force of the enemy at Williamsport, against which Couch moved this morning, and Franklin is ordered to go to-night. Williams' (Banks') corps arrived at Maryland Heights at 1 p.m. to-day. The commanding general directs you to hold yourself in readiness to move in the same direction as soon as events have developed themselves here and at Williamsport.

I am, general, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

R. B. MARCY,

Chief of Staff.

HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE POTOMAC,

September 20, 1862—7 p.m.

Brigadier-General PLEASONTON:

GENERAL: The commanding general directs you to send one horse battery with the brigade of cavalry to be sent to General Couch. He also directs you to send two small regiments of cavalry and one horse battery to report to General F. J. Porter at daylight to-morrow morning. The officer who is to command the troops for General Porter will report to him to-night. General Franklin is directed to send Couch one division as re-enforcements.

I am, general, &c.,

R. B. MARCY,

Chief of Staff.

HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE POTOMAC,

September 21, 1862.

General MEADE,

Commanding Army Corps:

GENERAL: The commanding general directs that you march your corps at 9 o’clock to-morrow morning, via Rohrersville and Brownsville, to a point opposite Harper’s Ferry, and report your arrival at that point to these headquarters. General Sumner will march for the same place at daylight to-morrow, but will march by the river road. Please take supplies sufficient to last till you can send to the railroad terminus for others. You will remove your camp permanently.

Very respectfully,

R. B. MARCY,

Chief of Staff.

(Countermanded same date.)

HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE POTOMAC,

Camp near the Potomac, September 21, 1862—4.30 p.m.

Maj. Gen. E. V. SUMNER,

Commanding Corps:

GENERAL: The commanding general directs that you get your command in readiness to move at daylight to-morrow morning to a point opposite Harper’s Ferry, where you will remain until a pontoon bridge is placed across the river. You will then pass over the river and occupy Loudoun and Bolivar Heights and Harper’s Ferry. After accomplishing this you will direct the corps commanded by General Williams to cross the river and place it in position. You will please march by way of Sharpsburg, thence following the road which runs nearest to the Potomac. You will take steps to-night to procure supplies to last you until you can get them by the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad at Harper’s Ferry.

Yours, very respectfully,

R. B. MARCY,

Chief of Staff.
Maj. Gen. F. J. Porter,
Commanding Fifth Corps:

GENERAL: The commanding general directs that you occupy Shepherdstown as soon as it can be done with safety to your command. Previous to doing this, however, you will send out cavalry scouts on all the approaches to the place from the other side to determine whether there is any enemy near. The general commanding also desires that you will parole all the wounded rebels you may find in Shepherdstown as soon as it can be done.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

R. B. MARCY,
Chief of Staff.

Maj. Gen. W. B. Franklin,
Commanding near Williamsport:

GENERAL: Your dispatch of 8.30 this morning is received. General Reynolds can take his militia back to Pennsylvania. General Kenly's brigade will remain at Williamsport to guard the crossing. You will please remain in your present position till further orders, gaining all the information in your power about the enemy's movements, and using your own discretion about operating against any force that may show itself in your vicinity. Should you ascertain that the enemy have any cavalry on this side, you will, of course, endeavor to prevent their escape. The enemy's pickets are still on the river opposite us. Nothing else new.

Yours, very truly,

R. B. MARCY,
Chief of Staff.

Sir: The commanding general directs that you proceed at once to join General Franklin's command at Williamsport, with all the wagon train and equipage belonging to it. Your route will be along the Sharpsburg and Hagerstown pike (the only one leading north from Sharpsburg) to Jones' Cross-Roads, where it is crossed by the road from Boonsborough to Williamsport, and thence along the latter road to or near Williamsport. The empty wagons, if you have any, might be sent in advance of the rest of the train, as they will be needed to draw supplies from Hagerstown.

Yours, very respectfully,

R. B. MARCY,
Chief of Staff.

If you have wagons to arrive to-day with supplies you will leave or send directions for them to follow you.

[19.]
GENERAL ORDERS, HDQRS. 1ST (HOOKER'S) ARMY CORPS,
No. 3.
Near Sharpsburg, Md., September 21, 1862.

I. The troops of this command will move to-morrow to Harper's Ferry by the road via Rohrersville and Brownsville in the following order:

II. Seymour's division, followed by his ammunition, ambulance, and baggage trains.

III. Doubleday's division, followed by his train.

IV. Ricketts' division and train.

V. Captain Naylor, commanding cavalry battalion, will detail a company as heretofore to follow in the rear of each division and bring up stragglers. The fourth company will accompany headquarters.

VI. Commanders of divisions, brigades, and regiments are enjoined to exercise the utmost energy to keep the men in the ranks and prevent straggling, by rear guards and patrols on their flanks to prevent the men from wandering to and stopping at the houses on the road.

VII. The army corps headquarters trains will follow Seymour's ambulance trains.

VIII. The movement will be commenced by Seymour's division at 9 a.m. precisely.

By command of Brig. Gen. George G. Meade:

EDWARD C. BAIRD,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE POTOMAC,
Near Sharpsburg, September 22, 1862—5 p.m.

Brevet Major-General SUMNER,
Near Harper's Ferry:

GENERAL: The commanding general directs you to cover with your command the construction of the pontoon bridge at Harper's Ferry, throwing a force over the ford if necessary. As soon as the bridge shall have been constructed you will post one division of Williams' corps on Loudoun Heights, leaving one division of it on Maryland Heights. You will then establish your own corps on Bolivar Heights, and so post your artillery as to cover the three roads leading to Harper's Ferry.

General Burnside is ordered to send his boat howitzers at daylight to-morrow, to be placed on Loudoun Heights, and to hold his corps in readiness to move to Harper's Ferry. Pleasonton will also send at daylight to-morrow two regiments of cavalry and one battery of horse artillery to scout in direction of Charlestown and Martinsburg, and will hold his whole cavalry force in readiness to follow.

I am, general, &c.,

R. B. MARCY,
Chief of Staff.

HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE POTOMAC,
September 22, 1862—2 p.m.

Major-General FRANKLIN,
Near Bakersville:

GENERAL: The commanding general directs you to order General Kenly to occupy Clear Spring and to watch Clear Spring Ford, posting two to four guns there. You will furnish him with two or three squadrons of cavalry for this purpose. You will also direct him to patrol the river-bank toward Williamsport and in the direction of Hancock. You will send two or three squadrons of cavalry and a battery (say four guns of Kenly’s) to Hancock to watch the dam and ford there and to patrol down the river to meet Kenly. You will also examine the line of the Conococheague and make preparations to defend it should Jackson cross above it.

I am, general, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

R. B. MARCY,
Chief of Staff.

[19.]

HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE POTOMAC,
Camp near the Potomac, September 22, 1862.

Maj. Gen. W. B. FRANKLIN,
Commanding Sixth Corps, &c.:

GENERAL: As it will be necessary for you to remain with your command some little time in your present locality, the commanding general directs that you select a camp for your own corps and Couch’s division near Hagerstown, but between Williamsport and that place, in some place convenient for drawing your supplies from Hagerstown. Kenly’s brigade will remain at Williamsport for the present and guard the ford. You will keep your cavalry scouts well out in all directions along the river, and forward at once to these headquarters any information you may obtain.

Very respectfully, yours,

R. B. MARCY,
Chief of Staff.

[19.]

HEADQUARTERS,
Williamsport, Md., September 22, 1862.

Major-General FRANKLIN,
Commanding Sixth Army Corps:

GENERAL: From four or five different sources I have received information that the Federal troops at Back Creek have been attacked by the rebels and the bridge burned. This is on the line of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad, about twelve miles above here, and now, at 3.45 p. m., I learn that the enemy are crossing the river into Maryland. The force attacking the troops at the bridge is represented to be considerable, both infantry and cavalry; the number crossing the river not reported. The cavalry under my command consists of the Eighth New York Regiment, Lieutenant-Colonel Babbitt, and Captain Russell’s two companies of Maryland cavalry, the whole available force of which I have sent up the river to make a reconnaissance. I inclose notes just received.

I have the honor to be, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

JOHN R. KENLY,
Brigadier-General of Volunteers, Commanding Post.

[Inclosure.]

GENERAL: One of my men has just handed me this; I send it forward to you.

C. R. BABBITT,
Lieutenant-Colonel Eighth New York Cavalry.
Col. H. W. DELLINGER:

Dear Sir: Reliable information is just received that a considerable body of the rebel army has attacked the Federal troops near Back Creek, and as their force is small they will likely be defeated if reinforcement is not soon at hand. Could you not send word to Williamsport or Hagerstown of the danger which we are in if they cross the river, which they will do? You may expect a raid on your town by night.

Yours, in haste,

L. JACQUES.

[Indorsement.]

Colonel BABBITT:

Mr. Dellingar has just handed me this. The enemy are crossing the river. How much of a force I cannot say at present.

FRISBIE,

[19.]

Captain.

HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE POTOMAC,

September 22, 1862—1 p. m.

Brigadier-General PLEASONTON:

General: The commanding general directs you to send two regiments of cavalry and one battery of horse artillery at daylight to-morrow morning to Harper's Ferry to scout out in the direction of Charlestown and Martinsburg. That portion of the Fifth Cavalry now with General Burnside is ordered to join its regiment. The general desires you to leave General Burnside sufficient cavalry to watch the fords in his vicinity. He also desires you to have your whole cavalry force in readiness to move to Harper's Ferry to-morrow.

I am, general, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

R. B. MARCY,

Chief of Staff.

SPECIAL ORDERS,} HEADQUARTERS SEVENTH ARMY CORPS,
No. 108.} Fort Monroe, Va., September 22, 1862.

By command of Major-General Dix:

D. T. VAN BUREN,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

SPECIAL ORDERS, } HDQRS. ARMY OF THE POTOMAC,
No. 260. } Camp near Sharpsburg, Md., September 23, 1862.

By command of Major-General McClellan:

S. WILLIAMS,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE POTOMAC,
September 23, 1862.

Maj. Gen. H. W. Halleck,

General-in-Chief:

The conspicuous conduct of Capt. B. F. Davis, First Cavalry, in the management of the withdrawal of the cavalry from Harper's Ferry at the surrender of that place, merits the special notice of the Government. I recommend him for the brevet of major.

GEO. B. McCLELLAN,

Major-General, Commanding.

HEADQUARTERS FIFTH CORPS,
September 23, 1862.

Brigadier-General Humphreys,

Commanding Division:

I am directed by the general commanding to urge upon you the greatest vigilance to guard against surprise. Information received at these headquarters, corresponding to that received at general headquarters, leads the general to suppose that the enemy may attempt a crossing in your front.

I am, general, very respectfully, your obedient servant.

ALEX. S. WEBB,

Lieutenant-Colonel and Chief of Staff.

HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE POTOMAC,
Near Sharpsburg, September 23, 1862—9.15 a.m.

Maj. Gen. W. B. Franklin,

Commanding Sixth Corps, &c.:

GENERAL: There are good reasons for believing that Generals R. E. Lee and Jackson are still opposite to us; the former at a place called Leetown, between Shepherdstown and Martinsburg; the latter on the Opequon Creek, about three miles above its mouth, both having large forces. There are also indications of heavy re-enforcements moving in this direction from Winchester and Charlestown. In view of this the commanding general directs that you march your corps, via Downsville, to a cross-roads about one mile above Bakersville on the Williamsport and Bakersville road, or as near that point as you can find good camping ground. It is desirable to watch and guard the fords at Williamsport. If you think Kenly's brigade sufficient for that purpose you will direct General Couch to move his division to a point on the same road by which you are to march, a little this side of Downsville. You will please give instructions to him and to General Kenly to exercise great vigilance in watching all the fords in their vicinity, and for that purpose you will leave a small force of cavalry with each of them. Your position will be nearly opposite to where Jackson's headquarters are said to be. Please report your arrival at your new position and direct General Couch to do the same, and send all the information you can collect about the forces opposite.

Yours, very respectfully,

R. B. MARCY,

Chief of Staff.
Lieut. Col. S. E. Smith,

Commanding Fifth Pennsylvania Cavalry:

COLONEL: The commanding general desires me to say to you that the rumors of the approach of the enemy from Richmond are corroborated in such a manner as entitles them to credit. The general therefore desires that you will keep your command in a constant state of readiness and by unremitted vigilance prevent a surprise.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

C. C. Suydam,

[18.]

Lieutenant-Colonel and Assistant Adjutant-General.

HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE POTOMAC,

September 24, 1862—2.30 p. m.

General Franklin:

GENERAL: The commanding general directs me to say that in future General Meade will watch the river as high as Mercerville, and that you, with your corps and Couch's division, will watch it from that point to Williamsport.

I am, general, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

R. B. Marcy,

[19.]

Lieutenant-Colonel and Chief of Staff.

HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE POTOMAC,

September 24, 1862—10 a. m.

General A. Pleasonton,

Commanding Cavalry Division:

GENERAL: The commanding general directs that you send out small reconnoitering parties across the river in the direction of Charlestown and Martinsburg, in order if possible to ascertain where the enemy is in force. The officers commanding should be instructed to advance very carefully, throwing forward scouts so as to keep their main forces advised of any appearance of the enemy. Let one party cross near the mill below Shepherdstown, and notify General Porter when this party is to cross the river. I suggest that a squadron be detailed for this duty and that two or three small parties from it be sent across first, to feel the way.

Very respectfully,

R. B. Marcy,

[19.]

Lieutenant-Colonel and Chief of Staff.

SPECIAL ORDERS,

HDQRS. DEFENSES OF WASHINGTON,

No. 15. September 24, 1862.

4. In compliance with instructions from the headquarters of the army, the infantry and artillery of Milroy's brigade are detached from the Eleventh Corps, and will at once be put in readiness to proceed by railway to Western Virginia. Brigadier-General Milroy will report in person to the General-in-Chief for further orders.

By command of Major-General Banks:

RICHBD. B. IRWIN,

Captain, Aide-de-Camp, and Acting Assistant Adjutant-General.

[19.]
SPECIAL ORDERS, No. 263.

Camp near Sharpsburg, September 26, 1862.

2. Couch's division, Keyes' corps, is assigned to duty for the present with Franklin's corps, and will be reported accordingly.

By command of Major-General McClellan:

S. WILLIAMS,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE POTOMAC,

September 26, 1862—11 a.m.

General H. W. HALLECK,

General-in-Chief:

A cavalry reconnaissance made yesterday in the direction of Martinsburg from Shepherdstown found the enemy in force encamped about two miles out from Shepherdstown. One lieutenant-colonel, Thirty-fifth Virginia Volunteers, was captured, and 1 lieutenant, Fifth Virginia Cavalry, also. I go to Harper's Ferry this morning to look into the condition of things there.

GEO. B. McCLELLAN,
Major-General.

HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE POTOMAC,

September 26, 1862—10.30 p.m.

Brevet Major General SUMNER,
U. S. Army, Harper's Ferry, Va.:

The commanding general has just returned from a visit to Maryland Heights. He directs me to say to you that he regrets that his time did not permit him to visit Harper's Ferry. He has determined to fortify Maryland Heights and wishes you to furnish such assistance to the engineer officer who will have charge of this work as may be necessary. He has requested the General-in-Chief to send contrabands to Harper's Ferry to perform the labor required, if there are any disposable in Washington. There is nothing new to-day, except that it is believed that the enemy is extending his line of pickets up the Potomac above Williamsport.

R. B. MARCY,
Chief of Staff.

HEADQUARTERS FIFTH ARMY CORPS,
Near Sharpsburg, Md., September 26, 1862.

Brig. Gen. SETH WILLIAMS,
Asst. Adj. Gen., Headquarters Army of the Potomac:

GENERAL: I have the honor to present for the information of the major-general commanding reports from several subordinate commanders of some of the operations of portions of this corps before Richmond during the actions of the 26th, 27th, 28th, 29th, 30th of June and July 1, 1862. I have not received the reports of Major-General Morell nor those of Brigadier-Generals Martindale and Butterfield. The prolonged absence (presumed on account of sickness) of the former and the late illness and absence of the latter has prevented the completion of more detailed reports. I present them now, lest by retaining them longer I may delay justice to officers and commands, who, perhaps, have suffered from the non-presentation of these documents. My preliminary reports presented on the 8th and 9th of July* were to be followed by more detailed reports, but continued and almost uninterrupted activity since the receipt of the accompanying papers have precluded the possibility of preparing them. From time to time I have, as the merits of the officers and their services became known, presented their names for reward and promotion. I now renew my recommendations and respectfully beg to refer to the commendations of the respective brigade and division commanders as the grounds generally on which my applications were made. I was generally personally cognizant of the gallant and efficient services of the higher officers and of the staff officers recommended by me. I beg here to present to the consideration of the commanding general the services of Brig. Gen. Daniel Butterfield, conspicuous for gallantry and good conduct and efficiency at Hanover Court-House, Malvern, Gaines' Mill, and lately as division commander at Manassas, and ask for him a higher command than that lately exercised by him. I consider him one of the most efficient and deserving officers in the service and one who always equals and generally excels all expectations. I also present the name of Col. Charles W. Roberts, Second Maine Volunteers, for promotion to brigadier-general for gallantry and meritorious services at Hanover Court-House, Gaines' Mill, and at Manassas. I think the service will be much benefited, and shall be pleased to have him command the brigade to which he is now attached.

I am, general, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

F. J. PORTER,
Major-General, Commanding.

HEADQUARTERS FIFTH ARMY CORPS,
September 26, 1862.

Brig. Gen. Seth Williams,
Asst. Adjt. Gen., Headquarters Army of the Potomac:

GENERAL: In my recommendations for promotions by brevet, presented in July last, I unintentionally omitted the name of Col. Henry S. Lansing, Seventeenth New York Volunteers and captain Twelfth U. S. Infantry, for gallant and meritorious conduct at the battle of Hanover Court-House, May 27, 1862. He was conspicuous there in handling his regiment, which, with others, drove the enemy from their ground and captured one field piece and many prisoners. I omitted also to present the name of Col. E. G. Marshall, Thirteenth New York and captain Sixth Infantry, for gallant and good conduct at Hanover Court-House and Gaines' Mill. I wish now to correct these omissions. I desire also to present Brig. Gen. Daniel Butterfield, Twelfth Infantry; Brig. Gen. George Sykes, infantry; Lieutenant-Colonel Buchanan, infantry; Lieutenant-Colonel Chapman, infantry; Col. Gouverneur K. Warren, Fifth New York and captain Topographical Engineers; Major Lovell, Tenth Infantry; Capt. J. D. O'Connell, Fourteenth Infantry; Capt. J. D. Wilkins, Third Infantry; Capt. E. G. Marshall, Sixth Infantry; Capt. J. B. Collins, Fourth Infantry; Capt. H. Dryer, Fourth Infantry; Capt. D. B. McKibbin, Fourteenth Infantry, as having earned brevets, in addition to those for which heretofore recommended.

* See Vol. XI, Part II, pp. 221-231.
for conspicuously gallant and meritorious conduct in the battle of Manassas, August 30, 1862.

I am, general, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

F. J. PORTER,
Major-General, Commanding.

---

HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE POTOMAC,
September 26, 1862—10.30 p.m.

Brig. Gen. GEORGE STONEMAN,

Poolsville:

The commanding general directs that you communicate by telegraph every day with these headquarters, and also with General Sumner, commanding at Harper's Ferry, giving such information as you may obtain from time to time regarding the position and movements of the enemy. Please communicate also to these headquarters any changes that may be made in the position of the troops under your command. It is believed that the mass of the rebel army is concentrated between Williamsport and Martinsburg at the present time.

R. B. MARCY,
Chief of Staff.

---

HEADQUARTERS EIGHTH ARMY CORPS,
Baltimore, September 26, 1862.

Brig. Gen. B. F. KELLEY,
Cumberland, Md.:

GENERAL: Major-General McClellan while operating on the Upper Potomac has been directed to use any troops in his vicinity without regard to department lines. You will communicate with General McClellan and obey such orders as he may give you.

JOHN E. WOOL,
Major-General.

---

SPECIAL ORDERS,} HEADQUARTERS NINTH ARMY CORPS,
No. 6.} Mouth of Antietam Creek, Md., September 26, 1862.

The following is the order of march for to-day: First, Second Division, General Sturgis commanding; second, Kanawha Division, Col. E. P. Scammon commanding; third, Third Division, Col. E. Harland commanding; fourth, First Division, General Willcox commanding. Simmonds' battery, of the Kanawha Division, and one brigade of General Willcox's command to support it, will remain on the west side of Antietam Creek in position to be assigned by Lieutenant-Colonel Getty, chief of artillery. The march will commence at 11 o'clock this a. m., and will [be] on road toward Harper's Ferry. Position of new camp will be designated by staff officers. The wagons, &c., will follow in rear of the whole command in the order of the divisions to which they belong. At the hour assigned the march will be commenced by General Sturgis' command, and the rest will follow on without further orders.

By order of Brig. Gen. J. D. Cox, commanding:

G. M. BASCOM,
Captain and Assistant Adjutant-General.
His Excellency Governor A. G. Curtin:

Governor: I beg to avail myself of almost the first moment of leisure I have had since the recent battles, to tender to you my thanks for your wise and energetic action in calling out the militia of Pennsylvania for its defense when threatened by a numerous and victorious army of the enemy. Fortunately circumstances rendered it impossible for the enemy to set foot upon the soil of Pennsylvania, but the moral support rendered to my army by your action was none the less weighty. In the name of my army and for myself I again tender to you our acknowledgments for your patriotic course. The manner in which the people of Pennsylvania responded to your call and hastened to the defense of their frontier no doubt exercised a great influence upon the enemy.

I am, very respectfully and sincerely, yours,

GEO. B. MCCLELLAN.

HEADQUARTERS CALDWELL'S BRIGADE,
Sharpsburg, September 27, 1862.

Brig. Gen. W. S. Hancock,
Commanding Division:

General: I beg leave to reiterate the commendations bestowed upon the commanding officers of my regiments for good conduct in the recent battles. Colonel Barlow in particular cannot be praised too highly. Almost equal praise is due Lieutenant-Colonel Miles, of the Sixty-first New York Volunteers; Colonel Cross, of the Fifth New Hampshire Volunteers, and Major McKeen, of the Eighty-first Pennsylvania Volunteers, who behaved with the greatest gallantry. Captain Brestel, commanding the Seventh New York Volunteers, was cool and brave. Lieutenants Cross and Alvord, of my staff, are deserving of special mention for intrepidity and activity. For the names of company officers who distinguished themselves I beg leave to refer to the reports of the commanders of regiments, which have been forwarded.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

JOHN C. CALDWELL,
Brigadier-General, Commanding Brigade.

HEADQUARTERS FIFTH ARMY CORPS,
Sharpsburg, September 27, 1862.

Brig. Gen. Seth Williams,
Asst. Adjt. Gen., Headquarters Army of the Potomac:

General: In compliance with circular of this date from your headquarters, I have the honor to present the following names of officers whom I recommend to be promoted to be brigadier-generals: Col. Gouverneur K. Warren, Fifth New York, captain Topographical Engineers; Lieutenant-Colonel Buchanan, U. S. Infantry; Major Lovell, U. S. Infantry; Col. Charles W. Roberts, Second Maine Volunteers; Col. James McQuade, Fourteenth New York. All vacancies in volunteer regiments have been filled or the recommendations gone to the Governors of the States.

I am, general, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

F. J. PORTER,
Major-General, Commanding.
HEADQUARTERS FIFTH CORPS,
September 27, 1862.

Brig. Gen. SETH WILLIAMS,
Assistant Adjutant-General, Army of the Potomac:

GENERAL: The following officers were conspicuous for their bravery, coolness, gallantry, and efficiency at the battle of Manassas, and fully sustained the high reputation which they have earned on other battlefields and the recommendations they have justly deserved. As they have not received the promotion and rank their merits deserve, I respectfully present their names to the major-general commanding the Army of the Potomac, with the hope that his representations and the wants of the service may cause them to receive increased rank, and thus be thrown into commands of larger bodies of troops more appropriate to their abilities: Brig. Gen. Daniel Butterfield, commanding division; Brig. Gen. George Sykes, commanding division; Lieut.-Colonel Buchanan, commanding brigade; Col. Gouverneur K. Warren, Fifth New York, commanding brigade. I also present Col. Charles W. Roberts, Second Maine, at times commanding brigade of Morell's division, and distinguished at Hanover Court-House and Manassas, as worthy of promotion to a brigadier-generalcy, and one I would be pleased to have command the First Brigade, Morell's division.

I am, general, very respectfully, your obedient servant,
F. J. PORTER,
Major-General, Commanding.

HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE POTOMAC,
September 27, 1862–8.30 p. m.

Major-General FRANKLIN:

GENERAL: The commanding general directs you to assume command over the Fifty-fourth Regiment Pennsylvania Volunteers (late of Miles' brigade), now stationed along the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad from Back Creek to South Branch of the Potomac. He further directs that the cavalry force now on the Maryland side of the Potomac from Back Creek west be stationed from the point where the railroad crosses the Back Creek along the Jamesburg road southward between Third and North Mountain to where that road intersects the road running west to Bloomery, Springfield, and New Creek, as suggested by Colonel Campbell, commanding Fifty-fourth Pennsylvania Volunteers. The cavalry thus disposed will be placed under Colonel Campbell, who will receive instructions from you to retire on Hancock, with both his infantry and cavalry, should he be hard pressed by the enemy. Colonel Campbell will report either direct to you, or to you through General Kenly, as you may prefer. You will give such other orders as you may consider necessary in the case.

I am, general, very respectfully, your obedient servant,
GEO. D. RUGGLES,
Colonel, Aide-de-Camp, and Assistant Adjutant-General.

WASHINGTON, September 27, 1862.

Major-General HALLECK:

SIR: On Thursday, September 18, I was authorized and directed by Special Orders, No. 248, to do whatever I might deem expedient to facilitate the transportation of troops and supplies to aid the armies in the field in Virginia and Maryland. I immediately proceeded to Baltimore, where a conference was held with General Wool, Quartermaster Belger, President Garrett and Superintendent Smith, of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad. This conference resulted in changing the route for several regiments then ordered to the front and in the establishment of the following rule for future operations:

Rule.—All troops and supplies sent from Baltimore and points south thereof to the army in Maryland shall be forwarded by the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad, and all sent from points north of Baltimore by the York and Cumberland Railroad.

I was clearly of the opinion that it was expedient in general to operate the railroads used for military purposes by and through the regular officers and employés of said roads, using military authority only where necessary to render assistance to them in procuring rolling-stock or securing regularity in train movements. The efficiency of the management of the officers of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad, their readiness to give Government supplies the preference over all other transportation, and the capacity of the road, which is greater than any ordinary or even extraordinary demands that may be made upon it, left nothing more to be desired except the prompt return of cars from the advanced terminus; and having concluded all necessary arrangements, I proceeded the same night to Harrisburg, arriving in that city on Friday morning, September 19, at 3.30 a.m. The arrangement of sending supplies from Baltimore and points south thereof over the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad, relieving the Northern Central of its transportation of Government supplies northward, left no question as to the ability of this road to meet any anticipated demands upon it, and I therefore continued my journey at 7.30 a.m. over the York and Cumberland Railroad to Chambersburg, where, after many delays caused by passing trains, I arrived at 2.30 p.m. The amount of business on the York and Cumberland Railroad exceeded its capacity for prompt accommodation. About eighteen regiments of Pennsylvania militia had been sent forward and more were on the way, the Pennsylvania Railroad Company furnishing cars and engines and assisting, as I understood, in the management of the road. Under these circumstances the only action at that point which I considered expedient was to order that all private sidings should be vacated, and that all cars belonging to individuals and all others not required for military purposes should be either run off the tracks or sent to other stations where the sidings were not required for the use of the Government. I found a very efficient officer in charge of the depot and station at Chambersburg, Mr. J. D. Potts, formerly assistant superintendent on the Western Division of the Pennsylvania Railroad, to whom I gave such instructions as appeared to be necessary.

At Hagerstown the main track was blocked with cars. There was no adequate siding or warehouse accommodation, no competent person in charge, and much confusion existed. I found it necessary to assume military possession of the Trunk Line Railroad between Chambersburg and Hagerstown; attended personally to the duty of raising the blockade; cleared the track of some five or six trains that had accumulated at Hagerstown; placed Mr. Potts in charge as superintendent; directed him to procure a substitute in the Chambersburg office; left written instructions as to the future management, and also wrote to General Kenly, the officer understood to be in command at Hagerstown, informing him of the existing arrangement for transportation, and giving the names of the officers in charge. On Saturday, September 20, I rode from Hagerstown to Sharpsburg, where, after a half hour's interview with General McClellan, I repaired to Boonsborough and returned via Frederick City to Baltimore. At Monocacy I found about 200 loaded cars on the sidings, some of which had been standing nearly a week. General Wool, at my request, sent an efficient officer of his staff to insist upon the unloading and return of cars. On Monday, September 22, I returned to Washington and made a verbal report to you of my doings. On Tuesday, September 23, having received information that the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad Company were embarrassed in their operation in consequence of the non-return of cars, I sent two of our most experienced train dispatchers from the Camden and Amboy Railroad over the Northern Central, Pennsylvania, and connecting roads to search for and return cars of Baltimore and Ohio Railroad Company, and of the U. S. military railroads. The same evening I started for Baltimore and Harper's Ferry to render such assistance as might be in my power in opening communications with that post. I arrived at Harper's Ferry about noon on Wednesday, September 24, and remained until Thursday afternoon, September 25. The supply of material being insufficient, and the force of mechanics for the railroad bridge very small, I telegraphed for the construction corps of the Camden and Amboy Railroad, which was promptly forwarded, together with about 150,000 feet of long, square timber, which we fortunately had on hand at Alexandria, and which could not elsewhere have been procured in time.

About six days will complete the railroad trestle bridge and secure connection by rail with Harper's Ferry, but a much longer time will be required to replace the permanent structure. The trestle bridge will be in danger of destruction from freshets. The most certain reliance for the supplies in the event of such a contingency will be the pontoon bridge which has been reconstructed. With proper management at Harper's Ferry and Sandy Hook, the supply question presents no difficulty, even in the case the trestle bridge should be swept away. The embarrassments, irregularities, and blockades on the U. S. military railroads, which are so frequent and so annoying, result from three causes which can be and should be avoided. These are: First. Sending supplies to the advanced terminus before they are required. The supply of material being insufficient, and the force of mechanics for the railroad bridge very small, I telegraphed for the construction corps of the Camden and Amboy Railroad, which was promptly forwarded, together with about 150,000 feet of long, square timber, which we fortunately had on hand at Alexandria, and which could not elsewhere have been procured in time.

About six days will complete the railroad trestle bridge and secure connection by rail with Harper's Ferry, but a much longer time will be required to replace the permanent structure. The trestle bridge will be in danger of destruction from freshets. The most certain reliance for the supplies in the event of such a contingency will be the pontoon bridge which has been reconstructed. With proper management at Harper's Ferry and Sandy Hook, the supply question presents no difficulty, even in the case the trestle bridge should be swept away. The supply of material being insufficient, and the force of mechanics for the railroad bridge very small, I telegraphed for the construction corps of the Camden and Amboy Railroad, which was promptly forwarded, together with about 150,000 feet of long, square timber, which we fortunately had on hand at Alexandria, and which could not elsewhere have been procured in time.

About six days will complete the railroad trestle bridge and secure connection by rail with Harper's Ferry, but a much longer time will be required to replace the permanent structure. The trestle bridge will be in danger of destruction from freshets. The most certain reliance for the supplies in the event of such a contingency will be the pontoon bridge which has been reconstructed. With proper management at Harper's Ferry and Sandy Hook, the supply question presents no difficulty, even in the case the trestle bridge should be swept away. The supply of material being insufficient, and the force of mechanics for the railroad bridge very small, I telegraphed for the construction corps of the Camden and Amboy Railroad, which was promptly forwarded, together with about 150,000 feet of long, square timber, which we fortunately had on hand at Alexandria, and which could not elsewhere have been procured in time.

About six days will complete the railroad trestle bridge and secure connection by rail with Harper's Ferry, but a much longer time will be required to replace the permanent structure. The trestle bridge will be in danger of destruction from freshets. The most certain reliance for the supplies in the event of such a contingency will be the pontoon bridge which has been reconstructed. With proper management at Harper's Ferry and Sandy Hook, the supply question presents no difficulty, even in the case the trestle bridge should be swept away. The supply of material being insufficient, and the force of mechanics for the railroad bridge very small, I telegraphed for the construction corps of the Camden and Amboy Railroad, which was promptly forwarded, together with about 150,000 feet of long, square timber, which we fortunately had on hand at Alexandria, and which could not elsewhere have been procured in time.

About six days will complete the railroad trestle bridge and secure connection by rail with Harper's Ferry, but a much longer time will be required to replace the permanent structure. The trestle bridge will be in danger of destruction from freshets. The most certain reliance for the supplies in the event of such a contingency will be the pontoon bridge which has been reconstructed. With proper management at Harper's Ferry and Sandy Hook, the supply question presents no difficulty, even in the case the trestle bridge should be swept away. The supply of material being insufficient, and the force of mechanics for the railroad bridge very small, I telegraphed for the construction corps of the Camden and Amboy Railroad, which was promptly forwarded, together with about 150,000 feet of long, square timber, which we fortunately had on hand at Alexandria, and which could not elsewhere have been procured in time.

About six days will complete the railroad trestle bridge and secure connection by rail with Harper's Ferry, but a much longer time will be required to replace the permanent structure. The trestle bridge will be in danger of destruction from freshets. The most certain reliance for the supplies in the event of such a contingency will be the pontoon bridge which has been reconstructed. With proper management at Harper's Ferry and Sandy Hook, the supply question presents no difficulty, even in the case the trestle bridge should be swept away. The supply of material being insufficient, and the force of mechanics for the railroad bridge very small, I telegraphed for the construction corps of the Camden and Amboy Railroad, which was promptly forwarded, together with about 150,000 feet of long, square timber, which we fortunately had on hand at Alexandria, and which could not elsewhere have been procured in time.

About six days will complete the railroad trestle bridge and secure connection by rail with Harper's Ferry, but a much longer time will be required to replace the permanent structure. The trestle bridge will be in danger of destruction from freshets. The most certain reliance for the supplies in the event of such a contingency will be the pontoon bridge which has been reconstructed. With proper management at Harper's Ferry and Sandy Hook, the supply question presents no difficulty, even in the case the trestle bridge should be swept away. The supply of material being insufficient, and the force of mechanics for the railroad bridge very small, I telegraphed for the construction corps of the Camden and Amboy Railroad, which was promptly forwarded, together with about 150,000 feet of long, square timber, which we fortunately had on hand at Alexandria, and which could not elsewhere have been procured in time.

About six days will complete the railroad trestle bridge and secure connection by rail with Harper's Ferry, but a much longer time will be required to replace the permanent structure. The trestle bridge will be in danger of destruction from freshets. The most certain reliance for the supplies in the event of such a contingency will be the pontoon bridge which has been reconstructed. With proper management at Harper's Ferry and Sandy Hook, the supply question presents no difficulty, even in the case the trestle bridge should be swept away. The supply of material being insufficient, and the force of mechanics for the railroad bridge very small, I telegraphed for the construction corps of the Camden and Amboy Railroad, which was promptly forwarded, together with about 150,000 feet of long, square timber, which we fortunately had on hand at Alexandria, and which could not elsewhere have been procured in time.

About six days will complete the railroad trestle bridge and secure connection by rail with Harper's Ferry, but a much longer time will be required to replace the permanent structure. The trestle bridge will be in danger of destruction from freshets. The most certain reliance for the supplies in the event of such a contingency will be the pontoon bridge which has been reconstructed. With proper management at Harper's Ferry and Sandy Hook, the supply question presents no difficulty, even in the case the trestle bridge should be swept away. The supply of material being insufficient, and the force of mechanics for the railroad bridge very small, I telegraphed for the construction corps of the Camden and Amboy Railroad, which was promptly forwarded, together with about 150,000 feet of long, square timber, which we fortunately had on hand at Alexandria, and which could not elsewhere have been procured in time.

About six days will complete the railroad trestle bridge and secure connection by rail with Harper's Ferry, but a much longer time will be required to replace the permanent structure. The trestle bridge will be in danger of destruction from freshets. The most certain reliance for the supplies in the event of such a contingency will be the pontoon bridge which has been reconstructed. With proper management at Harper's Ferry and Sandy Hook, the supply question presents no difficulty, even in the case the trestle bridge should be swept away. The supply of material being insufficient, and the force of mechanics for the railroad bridge very small, I telegraphed for the construction corps of the Camden and Amboy Railroad, which was promptly forwarded, together with about 150,000 feet of long, square timber, which we fortunately had on hand at Alexandria, and which could not elsewhere have been procured in time.

About six days will complete the railroad trestle bridge and secure connection by rail with Harper's Ferry, but a much longer time will be required to replace the permanent structure. The trestle bridge will be in danger of destruction from freshets. The most certain reliance for the supplies in the event of such a contingency will be the pontoon bridge which has been reconstructed. With proper management at Harper's Ferry and Sandy Hook, the supply question presents no difficulty, even in the case the trestle bridge should be swept away. The supply of material being insufficient, and the force of mechanics for the railroad bridge very small, I telegraphed for the construction corps of the Camden and Amboy Railroad, which was promptly forwarded, together with about 150,000 feet of long, square timber, which we fortunately had on hand at Alexandria, and which could not elsewhere have been procured in time. to run the trains by schedule, and the telegraph, although valuable as an auxiliary, should not be used as a principal. It is desirable that uniformity should be introduced in the management of all railroads used for military purposes.

Very respectfully submitted.

H. HAUPTE,
Brigadier-General, Chief of Construction and Transportation, U. S. Military Railroads.

SPECIAL ORDERS, }  HDQRS. DEFENSES OF WASHINGTON,
No. 18. }  September 27, 1862.

9. All the cavalry south of the Potomac is placed under the orders of Brig. Gen. George D. Bayard, and will at once report accordingly. General Bayard will organize the cavalry into brigades and will take immediate measures to bring it as rapidly as possible into a state of efficiency. He will assign to the different corps and independent commanders south of the Potomac such force for orderly service as General Heintzelman may deem necessary for that purpose.

By command of Major-General Banks:

RICHD. B. IRWIN,
Captain, Aide-de-Camp, and Acting Assistant Adjutant-General.

GENERAL: Reports from several different sources, received at these headquarters during yesterday and to-day, induce the belief that the main rebel army is moving from the vicinity of Martinsburg toward Winchester. To gain more positive information upon this subject, the commanding general directs that you at daylight to-morrow morning take a force of about 1,500 cavalry and two batteries of horse artillery and, crossing at the ford in front of General Porter's position, proceed in the direction of Martinsburg as far as practicable without incurring great risk to your command. Should you meet with no force of the enemy sufficient to stop you this side of Martinsburg, and you find that the rebels have retreated, you will follow them until you come up with their rear, doing them all the damage in your power, by capturing stragglers, trains, artillery, &c. Please inform General Porter when you cross the Potomac, so that he may have his artillery placed in position and ready to cover your crossing if it should be necessary.

R. B. MARCY,
Chief of Staff.

SPECIAL ORDERS, }  HEADQUARTERS NINTH ARMY CORPS,
No. 8. }  Mouth of Antietam Creek, Md., September 28, 1862.

The following officers and enlisted men of this command have been honorably mentioned in the official reports of the engagement on the 17th instant, and their names are hereby published as a testimony to their gallant and meritorious conduct in the field and for efficiency in their departments: First Division—Capt. Robert A. Hutchins, assistant adjutant-general; Lieutenants Brackett, James W. Romeyn, and Dearborn, aides-de-camp on General Willcox's personal staff; Cols. B. C. Christ and Thomas Welsh, for the able manner in which they handled their brigades; Capt. William T. Lusk, acting assistant adjutant-general, of Colonel Christ's brigade; Lieut. Samuel N. Benjamin, commanding Battery E, Second U. S. Artillery; Lieut. John N. Coffin and Sergts. William Davis and Newall B. Allen, of the Eighth Massachusetts Battery. Second Division—Capt. H. R. Mighels, assistant adjutant-general; Capt. C. H. Hale, aide, and Capt. W. C. Rawolle, aide-de-camp and ordnance officer, all of General Sturgis' staff, for personal gallantry. Also Capt. N. Plato, assistant quartermaster; Capt. F. E. Berier, commissary of subsistence, and Brigade Surg. A. T. Watson, of General Sturgis' staff, for efficiency in their departments; Captain Clark, Battery E, Fourth Artillery; Lieutenant Hinkle, aide-de-camp to General Nagle, for activity and gallantry; Surgeon Reber, for devotion to his duty; Orderly Sergt. C. F. Merkle, Company E, Fourth Artillery, for gallant conduct and able handling of the battery after all the commissioned officers were disabled. Third Division—Lieutenant-Colonel Kimball, commanding Ninth New York Volunteers; Major Jardine, commanding Eighth-ninth New York Volunteers, and Major Ringold, One hundred and third New York Volunteers, for gallant conduct and able management of their commands. Kanawha Division—Lieuts. R. P. Kennedy, acting assistant adjutant-general, and J. L. Botsford, acting aide-de-camp, of Colonel Scammon's staff, for coolness and efficiency; Cols. George Crook, commanding Second Brigade, and Hugh Ewing, commanding First Brigade, for energy and skillful bravery; Lieutenants Furbay and Duffield, Thirtieth Regiment Ohio Volunteer Infantry, acting as aids to Colonel Ewing, and who were both killed; Lieut. Col. A. H. Coleman, commanding Eleventh Regiment Ohio Volunteer Infantry, killed while gallantly leading his men; Lieut. Col. J. D. Hines, Twelfth Regiment Ohio Volunteer Infantry; Color-Sergeants White and Carter, [Thirtieth Ohio Volunteers,] who were both killed, and Corporals Howerth, Company D, and Buchanan, of Company C, of the same regiment, for rescuing their regimental colors when the color-sergeants were shot. The general commanding takes this opportunity to mention the gallant and meritorious conduct of Capt. G. M. Bascom, assistant adjutant-general; Lieuts. S. L. Christie, J. W. Conine, and Theodore Cox, aides-de-camp on his personal staff; Brigade Surg. W. W. Holmes, for his thorough attention to the duties of the medical department, in the prompt organization of hospitals and systematic provision for the wounded; Surgeon Cutter, late medical director on General Reno's staff, for energetic attention during the action to the disposal of the wounded in the field; also to thank Capt. E. P. Fitch, assistant quartermaster and acting commissary of subsistence, for unwearied labor, by night as well as by day, in bringing forward supplies to the command under circumstances of great difficulty; also to thank Mr. F. Cuthbert, a civilian and employé in the quartermaster's department, for gallantry displayed in carrying dispatches and orders upon the field. The ability and gallantry displayed by the division commanders has already been noticed in the official report of the engagement.*

J. D. COX,
Brigadier-General, Commanding.

General W. B. Franklin,

Commanding Sixth Army Corps:

General: In reply to your communication of yesterday, the commanding general directs me to say that the recent supposed movement of the enemy in the direction of Winchester may cause a change in the positions of the different corps of this army, which he will probably be able to determine in a short time. He prefers that you should remain in your present position until he determines this question.

Very respectfully,

R. B. Marcy,
Chief of Staff.

[19.]

SPECIAL ORDERS,} HEADQUARTERS NINTH ARMY CORPS,
No. 48. } Mouth of Antietam, Md., September 29, 1862.

1. The general commanding announces to the Eleventh Regiment Connecticut Volunteers the death of their late commander, Col. H. W. Kingsbury. By this sad calamity the army mourns one of the most accomplished of those young officers who in a few months have become veterans in their country's service. After serving with distinction through the campaign in the Peninsula Colonel Kingsbury was promoted to his late command, and in that office, often occupying positions of great responsibility, he invariably proved himself equal to the occasion, displaying always a gallantry and skill that gave high promise for his future. He received his death wound while bravely leading his men at the battle of Antietam. As a near friend of Colonel Kingsbury, the commanding general wishes to add his testimony to his private worth, to the purity of his character, and to his possession of those high qualities of mind and heart that form the sterling man as well as the finished soldier.

* * * * *

By command of Major-General Burnside:

LEWIS RICHMOND,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

[19.]

HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE POTOMAC,
Camp near Sharpsburg, Md., September 30, 1862.

Brig. Gen. John F. Reynolds,
Commanding First Corps:

General: I am directed by the commanding general to acknowledge to you the receipt of General Meade's letter of the 23d instant,* inclosing a comparative statement of the strength of the First Corps on the 18th and on the 22d of September, exhibiting the increase within four days. From this statement it appears that Doubleday's division gained within these four days 30 officers and 1,253 men, Ricketts' division 192 officers and 4,973 men, and Seymour's, now Meade's, division, 70 officers and 2,357 men. To this shameful condition of things General Meade alludes in appropriate terms, and suggests as the only remedy a measure which, terrible as it may seem, is fully in accordance with the usages of war, and is entirely within the power of command. ing officers to execute in the exercise of a wise discretion. Yet it is far wiser to apply preventive measures, as far as their application will be serviceable, than to depend only upon the last but necessary resort above indicated. The careful and diligent application of every means that armies have found useful in promoting discipline is first pointed out as a necessary step toward the prevention of the evil under view. Here reliance must be placed upon the intelligence, industry, zeal, and perseverance of commanding officers. The general desires you to stimulate every commanding officer in your corps to the renewing of his efforts toward the promotion of the discipline of his command. Increase the number of daily drills, multiply the inspections, insist upon the scrupulous observance of the Regulations in all the minor details, and it is believed that before long habits of obedience and discipline will have interfered to have cured in a large measure the great mischief under contemplation. The general awaits the receipt of the returns and explanations from the division commanders required by you with much interest. He hopes particularly that the disproportion observable in the increase in Ricketts' division will have been made the subject of special investigation. Upon the receipt of these, the general commanding will direct such further and immediate steps to be taken to bring delinquent officers and soldiers to public and merited disgrace as may seem to him best suited to the purpose in view.

I am, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

R. B. MARCY,
Chief of Staff.

HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE POTOMAC,
September 30, 1862—9 a. m.

General A. PLEASONTON,
Commanding Cavalry Division:

GENERAL: The commanding general wishes you to send a command over to Shepherdstown and make an effort to parole the remainder of the rebel soldiers there to-day. If you have a force sufficient, he would like to have you continue the reconnaissance of yesterday toward Martinsburg, and if the rebels have but one regiment of cavalry and two pieces of artillery remaining it would not require a very large force. This is, however, left to your own judgment. Should your force be insufficient to-day, you may be better prepared to-morrow.

R. B. MARCY,
Chief of Staff.

HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE POTOMAC,
October 1, 1862—9 a. m.

General GEORGE STONEMAN,
Poolesville, Md.:

General Sumner sends this morning to Leesburg a brigade of infantry, a battery of artillery, and cavalry for the purpose of attacking the rebel forces at that place. These troops leave Harper's Ferry this morning. If you can co-operate in this movement with your own troops, or by giving the officer in command important information, the commanding general wishes you to do so.

R. B. MARCY,
Chief of Staff.
Brig. Gen. George Crook, late colonel Thirty-sixth Regiment Ohio Volunteers, and commandant of Second Brigade, Kanawha Division, having received his appointment as brigadier-general of volunteers, to rank from 7th of September, ultimo, will assume command of the Kanawha Division as ranking officer present, and will be obeyed and respected accordingly.

By command of Brig. Gen. J. D. Cox:

G. M. BASCOM,

Captain and Assistant Adjutant-General.

HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE POTOMAC,
Camp near Sharpsburg, Md., October 4, 1862.

His Excellency the GOVERNOR OF THE STATE OF MAINE:

In view of the reduced and shattered condition of the Seventh Regiment of Maine Volunteers, the result of arduous service and exposure during the campaigns on the Peninsula and in Maryland, I made, on the 2d instant, a special application to the War Department that the regiment should be sent to report to you in Maine, that it might be recruited and reorganized under your personal supervision. I yesterday received the necessary authority, and, as you will observe by the copy of Special Orders, No. 271, from these headquarters, inclosed herein,* I send the regiment to you for the purpose indicated, and I beg that when this purpose shall have been accomplished that the regiment may be ordered to report to me with all practicable dispatch. In returning this gallant remnant of a noble body of men, whose bravery has been exhibited on every field, almost, in the campaigns cited, to the State whose pride it is to have sent them forth, I feel happy that it has been in my power to signify, even in this insufficient manner, my appreciation of their services and of their value to this army. And I will venture on the latter account to ask Your Excellency's best endeavors to fill at once their diminished ranks, that I may soon again see their standard in the Army of the Potomac.

GEO. B. McCLELLAN,
Major-General, U. S. Army.

SPECIAL ORDERS, No. 21.

I. Brig. Gen. Nelson Taylor is assigned temporarily to the command of the Third Brigade (Hartsuff's) of the Second Division. He will report to Brigadier-General Ricketts.

By order of Brigadier-General Reynolds:

CHAS. B. LAMBORN,
Acting Assistant Adjutant-General.

SPECIAL ORDERS, No. 59.

III. The following regiments, recently assigned to this corps, are temporarily organized into a brigade, to be known as the Second

*See Vol. XIX, Part II, p. 381.
Brigade, First Division, Twelfth Army Corps: Twentieth Connecticut Volunteers, One hundred and twenty-third New York Volunteers, One hundred and twenty-seventh New York Volunteers, One hundred and thirty-seventh New York Volunteers, One hundred and thirty-eighth New York Volunteers, One hundred and forty-first New York Volunteers, One hundred and forty-fifth New York Volunteers, One hundred and forty-ninth New York Volunteers. Col. George L. Andrews, Second Massachusetts Volunteers, is assigned to duty as commander of said brigade. He will encamp the brigade until further orders in Pleasant Valley, east side of Maryland Heights. At least four hours' drill each day (either squad, company, or battalion) will be required, and such schools of theoretical instruction for officers and non-commissioned officers as the commander of the brigade may order. Col. G. L. Andrews will report in person at these headquarters for further directions.

* * * * * * *

By command of Brig. Gen. A. S. Williams, commanding corps: S. E. PITTMAN, Lieutenant and Acting Assistant Adjutant-General.

HEADQUARTERS FIFTH CORPS,
Near Sharpsburg, Md., October 5, 1862—8 p. m.

Brig. Gen. R. B. MARCY,
Chief of Staff, Headquarters Army of the Potomac:

GENERAL: It is reported to me that the enemy has planted two guns on the opposite bank of the Potomac within range of our batteries, and so posted as to sweep the ford. Also that their infantry has occupied the woods beyond the ford. To-morrow morning I shall take steps to obtain full information in the matter. Meanwhile every precaution will be observed to prevent any possibility of surprise. I have no doubt but that the movement is made with the design of preventing our cavalry from crossing the ford, as it has been in the habit of doing.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

F. J. PORTER,
Major-General, Commanding.

HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE POTOMAC,
October 5, 1862.

Brigadier-General KELLEY, Clarksburg, Va.:

General Averell has been informed of the contents of your dispatch of this morning,* by a telegram sent via Hagerstown. For fear this should not reach him, you had better send two or three special messengers by different routes, to make sure of his co-operation in the capture of Imboden. Please acknowledge receipt.

R. B. MARCY,
Chief of Staff.

HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE POTOMAC,
October 5, 1862.

Col. A. T. McREYNOLDS, Green Spring:

Colonel Averell was ordered last night to proceed from Williamsport to the vicinity of the Big Cacapon to operate against the rebel forces.

I have telegraphed to him via Hagerstown to move rapidly up to join you in the pursuit, but, as he may not receive my dispatch,* you will please send messengers out on the different roads to communicate with him as rapidly as possible, informing him of everything you know in relation to the enemy's movements and the movements of your own troops.

R. B. MARCY,
Chief of Staff.

[19.]

SPECIAL ORDERS,
HDQRS. TWELFTH (BANKS') ARMY CORPS,
No. 60.
Near Sandy Hook, Md., October 6, 1862.

I. Paragraph III of Special Orders, No. 59, is hereby revoked.

II. The following-named regiments, recently assigned to this corps, will constitute a new brigade, to be known as the Fourth Brigade, First Division: One hundred and twenty-seventh New York Volunteers, One hundred and thirty-seventh New York Volunteers, One hundred and thirty-eighth New York Volunteers, One hundred and forty-ninth New York Volunteers. Col. George L. Andrews, Second Massachusetts Volunteers, is assigned to the command of this brigade.

By command of Brig. Gen. A. S. Williams, commanding corps:

S. E. PITTMAN,
Lieutenant and Acting Assistant Adjutant-General.

[19.]

SPECIAL ORDERS,
HDQRS. SEVENTH ARMY CORPS,
DEPARTMENT OF VIRGINIA,
No. 122.
Fort Monroe, Va., October 6, 1862.

I. Brig. Gen. F. B. Spinola, volunteer service, with the One hundred and thirty-second New York Volunteers, Col. P. J. Claassen commanding, will proceed to Suffolk, Va., reporting for duty to Major-General Peck, commanding at Suffolk.

By command of Major-General Dix:

D. T. VAN BUREN,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

[18.]

HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE POTOMAC,
October 7, 1862.

General H. W. HALLECK,
General-in-Chief:

Your dispatch of to-day received;† Cox's division has been ordered to march at once for Clarksburg. Lieutenant McAlester has also been ordered to report to General Wright. The instructions regarding lists of officers, &c., for the Governor of New York, will be carried out as soon as possible. My cipher dispatch of this morning will explain to you my views regarding the new movement. I should be glad to learn from you as nearly as practicable the proportion of new and old troops I am to receive. I shall move my headquarters to-morrow to the vicinity of Knoxville.

GEO. B. MCCLELLAN,
Major-General.

* See 12.50 p. m., Vol. XIX, Part II, p. 385.
† See p. 874.
‡ See Vol. XIX, Part II, p. 393.
CHAP. LXIII.]
CORRESPONDENCE, ETC.—UNION.

HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE POTOMAC,
October 7, 1862—1.15 p. m.

COMMANDING OFFICER COX'S DIVISION:

SIR: The commanding general directs you to march your command at once, provided with five days' rations, to Cumberland, Md. Upon your arrival there you will find railroad transportation to Clarksburg, Va., provided by General Ingalls, chief quartermaster at these headquarters. Your wagons will be sent back from Cumberland and ordered to report to General Ingalls. Please report the hour of your departure from your present camp.

I am, sir, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

R. B. MARCY,
Chief of Staff.

HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE POTOMAC,
October 7, 1862—8.30 p. m.

Brig. Gen. GEORGE CROOK, Commanding Cox's Division:

GENERAL: The Little Cacapon bridge, on the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad, will be finished to-night. This will probably enable you to take the cars at Hancock instead of Cumberland with your command. Should this not be possible, you will be so informed on your arrival at Hancock.

I am, general, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

R. B. MARCY,
Chief of Staff.

SPECIAL ORDERS, No. 24.
HEADQUARTERS FIRST ARMY CORPS,
Camp near Sharpsburg, October 8, 1862.

II. The following new regiments now en route for this corps are assigned as follows: First Division (Gibbon's brigade), Twenty-fourth Michigan Volunteers. Second Division, One hundred and thirty-sixth Pennsylvania Volunteers. Third Division, One hundred and twenty-first and One hundred and forty-second Pennsylvania Volunteers.

By command of Brigadier-General Reynolds:

C. B. LAMBORN,
Acting Assistant Adjutant-General.

HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE POTOMAC,
October 10, 1862—10 p. m. (Received 10.55 p. m.)

Major-General HALLECK,
General-in-Chief, Washington:

Every disposition has been made to cut off the retreat of the enemy's cavalry that to-day made the raid into Maryland and Pennsylvania.

GEO. B. McCLELLAN,
Major-General, Commanding.
HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE POTOMAC,
October 10, 1862—10 p. m.

NOTE.—The following orders have just been issued through General Buford, chief of cavalry:

I. All of Pleasonton’s disposable cavalry to move to Hagerstown to follow up rebels.

II. Sixth Cavalry to move to Middletown, and watch all roads in direction of Chambersburg.

III. Party of Sixth Cavalry to be stationed in front of Burkittsville, to watch approaches to that place.

IV. Rush’s Lancers to watch in vicinity of Frederick, where they now are.

V. Davis to watch in front of Hagerstown, where he now is.

VI. All other available cavalry not required to watch the river and points south to be sent out.

GEO. D. RUGGLES,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

HAGERSTOWN, October 10, 1862—5 p. m.
(Received 8 p. m.

General DEVENS,
Commanding Division:

GENERAL: March at once one brigade and one battery of your command, via Williamsport, to the point where the rebel cavalry crossed the river this morning to endeavor to intercept its retreat. Be very watchful with the other brigades. Report everything of interest that occurs via Williamsport.

W. B. FRANKLIN,
Major-General, Commanding Sixth Corps.

Get guides from General Kenly.

W. B. F.

SPECIAL ORDERS, }  HDQRS. DEFENSES OF WASHINGTON,
No. 30.  }  October 10, 1862.

1. That portion of Stoneman’s division now serving under the command of Brigadier-General Birney will without delay be put in march to join the remainder of the division at Poolesville. Upon the arrival of Birney’s command General Stoneman will detach the Thirty-ninth Massachusetts and Tenth Vermont Volunteers for duty under the orders of the senior colonel in guarding the line of the Upper Potomac, for which he is now responsible, and will then report his division to Major-General McClellan for further orders. At the same time General Stoneman will detach Battery D, First Pennsylvania Artillery, and order it to rejoin Couch’s division at Downsville, Washington County, Md.

2. Whipple’s division will with as little delay as practicable proceed by railway to Knoxville, Md.; on arriving at which place Brigadier-General Whipple will report in person to Major-General McClellan for further orders. The quartermaster’s department will furnish the necessary transportation.
5. The One hundred and thirty-sixth, One hundred and fifty-fourth, One hundred and fifty-seventh, and One hundred and sixty-third Regiments of New York Volunteers are assigned to Sigel's corps, which they will join with as little delay as practicable at Fairfax Court-House.

7. Brig. Gen. J. B. Carr, on being relieved by Brigadier-General Cowdin, will assume command temporarily of the Third Brigade, Second Division, Third Corps.

8. Brig. Gen. Cuvier Grover is assigned to the command of the Independent Brigade on the Upper Potomac, now consisting of the Thirty-ninth Massachusetts and Tenth Vermont Volunteers, and will, when General Stoneman shall have reported his division to headquarters Army of the Potomac, relieve that officer in the duty of guarding the river. General Grover will at once report in person at these headquarters for further orders.

11. The following-named regiments are detached from the command of Brigadier-General Casey, and will be at once organized as follows into two brigades, which will be commanded for the present by the senior colonels, constituting a division, to be commanded by Brig. Gen. J. J. Abercrombie: First Brigade—Twenty-third New Jersey Volunteers, Col. J. S. Cox; Twenty-fourth New Jersey Volunteers, Colonel Robertson; Twenty-eighth New Jersey Volunteers, Colonel Wisewell. Second Brigade—Twenty-second Connecticut Volunteers, Colonel Burnham; Thirteenth New Hampshire Volunteers, Colonel Stevens; Eleventh Rhode Island Volunteers, Colonel Metcalf. General Abercrombie will use every exertion to organize his division with the least practicable delay, and will report it to Major-General Heintzelman, commanding Defenses south of the Potomac.

13. The One hundred and thirty-third New York Volunteers, Col. L. D. H. Currie, is substituted for the Thirteenth New Hampshire Volunteers in the organization of Abercrombie's division, directed by paragraph 11 of this order.

By command of Major-General Banks:

RICH. B. IRWIN,

Captain, Aide-de-Camp, and Acting Assistant Adjutant-General.

HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE POTOMAC,

October 11, 1862—5 p. m.

Brig. Gen. JOHN F. REYNOLDS,

Commanding First Corps:

GENERAL: The commanding general desires, to prevent all possibility of the enemy crossing a force to this side of the river, to make a diversion in aid of the escape of their cavalry now here, that you exercise special vigilance in watching the fords and all other possible crossing places on the Potomac picketed by your command. He also desires you to exercise equal vigilance should this cavalry movement prove a feint of the enemy to draw our attention and thus enable him to cross his army again without serious opposition. Please take every step in your power, in view of these possibilities, however remote, to prevent the crossing of any force of the enemy to this side.
I am, general, very respectfully, your obedient servant,
GEO. D. RUGGLES,
Colonel and Aide-de-Camp, Assistant Adjutant-General.

[19.]

HEADQUARTERS FIRST ARMY CORPS,
October 11, 1862—11 p. m.

Brigadier-General DOUBLEDAY,
Commanding First Division:

GENERAL: General Reynolds directs that you should send a brigade of your troops out to-night and occupy that strip of woods on the Sharpsburg turnpike at the Dunkard Church, near the center of the late battle-field. We have sent a few cavalry out to picket that road toward Hagerstown, and they are the only forces on the immediate approach to our rear in that direction. This force is desired to occupy the position indicated, that it may protect the batteries from an attack of cavalry in the event of an attempt to cross toward Mercerville.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,
CHAS. B. LAMBA, Acting Assistant Adjutant-General.

[Indorsement.]

HEADQUARTERS FIRST DIVISION, FIRST CORPS,
October 11, 1862.

Colonel Hofmann will proceed with his brigade and battery to comply with the within orders and directions.

By command of Brigadier-General Doubleday:
E. P. HALSTED,
Captain and Assistant Adjutant-General.

[19.]

HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE POTOMAC,
October 11, 1862—2.45 p. m.

Maj. Gen. W. B. FRANKLIN,
Hagerstown:
The commanding general approves your suggestion of sending two regiments and a section of artillery to Chambersburg, and you will accordingly do so. If it would in your judgment be advisable to send a force to Greencastle, you are authorized to do so, and to make other dispositions of your troops that you may think necessary from the information you receive from time to time.

R. B. MARCY,
Chief of Staff.

HEADQUARTERS,
Williamsport, October 11, 1862.

Lieut. Col. O. D. GREENE,
Assistant Adjutant-General, Sixth Army Corps:

Sir: I have the honor to inform you that I hear from good sources that the enemy, after burning considerable public and other property in Chambersburg, Pa., have gone in the direction of Waynesborough. In that case it is probable that they may seek to cross the river through Boonsborough, as Waynesborough is but nine miles from there.

I have the honor to be, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

JOHN R. KENLY,
Brigadier-General, Commanding at Williamsport.

FREDERICK, October 11, 1862—7.30 p.m.

Captain CADWALADER:
CAPTAIN: You will proceed with your company (twenty-five men) toward Middleburg and scout the country on each side of that road, in the general vicinity of Middleburg. Get any information you can of the rebels, their force and the direction in which they are moving. Communicate to General Pleasonton, at Mechanicstown, and to me at this place. The First Maine Cavalry will be scouting toward Westminster.

Very truly,

R. H. RUSH,
Colonel.

HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE POTOMAC,
October 11, 1862—7 p.m.

Capt. W. P. SANDERS,
Commanding Sixth Cavalry:

SIR: The commanding general directs that you move with your regiment, immediately on receipt of this, to Mechanicstown, passing through the Shookstown Gap to the turnpike leading from Frederick to Mechanicstown, and along the latter. On your arrival you will report to Brigadier-General Pleasonton, waiting for him if he has not reached there, and following him if he has left there. If you reach Mechanicstown before General Pleasonton, you will at once send out scouts, citizens if you can get them, in the direction of Gettysburg, and collect all the information you can of the enemy.

Yours, respectfully,

R. B. MARCY,
Chief of Staff.

Colonel Rush will be directed to send a squadron to Middletown, and you will, therefore, take your whole command.

[19.]

HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE POTOMAC,
October 12, 1862—6.20 p.m.

General G. STONEMAN, Poolesville, Md.:

By direction of the commanding general I telegraphed to you at 1 p.m. yesterday, informing you that a force of about 2,000 rebel cavalry had left Chambersburg at 9 o'clock yesterday morning, in the direction of Gettysburg, and that as they might be making for some ford opposite Leesburg, you would keep your cavalry scouts well out on the approaches from the direction of Frederick, so that you might receive notice in time to mass your troops at any point the rebels might attempt to cross. It does not appear either from your own dispatches, or from those of General Pleasonton, that, with the exception of a few companies of infantry, he received any support from you. His men had marched seventy-eight miles during the previous twenty-four hours, and he states that in consequence of having so little assistance after holding them in check for two hours, they were allowed to escape across the river. Troops were placed at other points to prevent the rebels getting back into Virginia, and the commanding general relied upon you to intercept them if they came in your immediate vicinity. He now requires from you a written explanation of the reasons why you did not carry out the instructions communicated to you in my dispatch of 1 p. m. yesterday.

R. B. MARCY,
Chief of Staff.

[19.]

HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE POTOMAC,
October 12, 1862—8.30 a. m.

Major-General Wool, Hanover Junction:

General Pleasonton, at Mechanicsville, reported 1.30 this morning that rebels passed through Woodsborough at 11 o'clock last night at a brisk trot, apparently going in the direction of mouth of Monocacy. The same intelligence received from Colonel Rush and General Paul, at Frederick. The intelligence was telegraphed at once to Stoneman, at Poolesville. Pleasonton started for Frederick at date of his dispatch this morning.

GEO. B. McCLELLAN,
Major-General, Commanding.

[19.]

HEADQUARTERS EIGHTH ARMY CORPS,
Baltimore, October 12, 1862.

Commanding Officer 141st New York Volunteers,
Laurel Station, Baltimore and Ohio Railroad, Washington Branch:

Sir: Keep well on your guard and look out for a raid upon the railroad. Keep your troops well in hand.

W. D. WHIPPLE,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

[19.]

HEADQUARTERS EIGHTH ARMY CORPS,
Baltimore, October 12, 1862.

Col. B. F. TRACY,
Commanding 109th New York Volunteers, Beltsville:

Colonel: Keep well on your guard and be prepared to meet any raid upon the railroad from the enemy. Keep your troops well in hand.

W. D. WHIPPLE,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

[19.]

HEADQUARTERS EIGHTH ARMY CORPS,
Baltimore, October 12, 1862.

Col. B. F. TRACY, Beltsville:

Colonel: The railroad is cut at Monrovia, the other side of Monocacy, and the telegraph reported cut five miles beyond Poolesville.

W. D. WHIPPLE,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

[19.]
HEADQUARTERS EIGHTH ARMY CORPS,
Baltimore, October 12, 1862.

Colonel Richards,
Commanding at Relay House, Md.:

Colonel: Keep well on your guard. Keep your men in hand and prepared to meet any raid from the enemy.

W. D. WHIPPLE,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

[19.]

HEADQUARTERS FIRST ARMY CORPS,
October 13, 1862.

Brigadier-General Doubleday,
Commanding First Division:

The general commanding having received information that the rebel cavalry under Stuart arrived near the mouth of the Monocacy yesterday about noon, directs that you recall the brigade from the Sharpsburg road.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

CHAS. B. LAMBORN,
Acting Assistant Adjutant-General.

[19.]

Colonel Hopmann,
Second Brigade:

Colonel: You will withdraw your brigade immediately.

By command of Brigadier-General Doubleday:
E. P. HALSTED,
Captain and Assistant Adjutant-General.

[19.]

SPECIAL ORDERS, HEADQUARTERS FIRST ARMY CORPS,
No. 28.
October 13, 1862.

1. Brig. Gen. Gabriel R. Paul, of volunteers, having reported for duty with this corps, is assigned to the First Division, and will report in person to Brigadier-General Doubleday.

[By command of Brigadier-General Reynolds:
CHAS. B. LAMBORN,
Acting Assistant Adjutant-General.]

[19.]

HEADQUARTERS FIFTH CORPS,
October 14, 1862.

Brig. Gen. Seth Williams,
Asst. Adjt. Gen., Headquarters, Army of the Potomac:

General: I respectfully present to the consideration of the commanding general the following recommendations for promotions, with the hope that they may be favorably presented to the honorable Secretary of War: Col. H. S. Lansing, Seventeenth New York Volunteers (captain Twelfth U. S. Infantry), to the rank of brigadier-general. The activity and energy of this officer from the commencement of the war commend him to the consideration of the commanding general for reward. His efficient services in the field, commanding his regiment and at times a brigade or an expeditionary force, prove his soldierly... qualities and his ability to fill the position. I would like to have him command a brigade of this corps. Col. James Barnes, Eighteenth Massachusetts Volunteers, to the rank of brigadier-general. By education and service Colonel Barnes is a soldier, and has proved his value in command of his regiment, and of the brigade, in camp, in siege, and in the field. I should be much pleased to have him assigned as brigadier-general to command a brigade of this corps.

I am, general, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

F. J. PORTER,
Major-General, Commanding.

[19.]

HEADQUARTERS SIXTH ARMY CORPS,
October 14, 1862—2.30 a.m. (Received 5 a.m.)

General DEVENS:
The general commanding is informed that General Howe's pickets at or near Clear Spring have been driven in and General Howe reports infantry crossing the river. The general commanding directs that you get a brigade in readiness at once to move, and send it to General Howe's assistance at daylight in case you hear artillery firing in that direction.

I am, general, very respectfully, &c.,

O. D. GREENE,
Assistant Adjutant-General and Chief of Staff.

[19.]

HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE POTOMAC,
October 14, 1862—7 p.m.

General GEORGE STONEMAN,
Poolesville, Md.:

In view of the reports that a large force of cavalry has been, or is being, concentrated in the neighborhood of Leesburg, the commanding general directs that you have all the fords from the mouth of the Monocacy as far down the river as your line extends closely watched by your troops, so that the rebel cavalry cannot cross into Maryland without being resisted. General Burnside will be directed to guard the fords above the mouth of the Monocacy. No report from you has been received in regard to the 300 rebel cavalry said by the colonel of the First Rhode Island Cavalry to have been on this side of the river last night. The commanding general desires this report at once.

R. B. MARCY,
Chief of Staff.

[19.]

HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE POTOMAC,
October 14, 1862—11 a.m.

General GEORGE CROOK,
Cumberland, Md.:

You will please retain your command at Cumberland until to-morrow, when, if there is no indication of the enemy moving in large force in that direction, you will proceed to carry out your original orders, by moving to Clarksburg, &c.

By order of General McClellan:

R. B. MARCY,
Chief of Staff.

[19.]

By command of Major-General Banks:

RICHD. B. IRWIN,

Captain, Aide-de-Camp, and Acting Assistant Adjutant-General.

[19.]

5. Capt. J. C. Duane, Corps of Engineers, is assigned to duty as chief engineer of the Army of the Potomac; this assignment to have effect from September 8, 1862.

By command of Major-General McClellan:

S. WILLIAMS,

Assistant Adjutant-General.

[19.]

Maj. Gen. FITZ JOHN PORTER,

Commanding Fifth Corps, near Sharpsburg:

GENERAL: The commanding general has received reports from signal stations which render it not improbable that the enemy's forces have left the vicinity of Bunker Hill and Winchester. General Hancock, with his own division and 1,500 additional infantry and a force of cavalry, has been ordered to make a reconnaissance tomorrow at daylight, moving his infantry as far as Charlestown and sending on his cavalry in the direction of Bunker Hill and Winchester until they find the enemy in force. A cavalry party is also to follow the line of the railroad as far as they can toward Opequon Creek. The commanding general directs that you send out a reconnaissance composed of the cavalry ordered in the telegraphic dispatch to you (1.45 p. m.) and 5,000 or 6,000 infantry, to proceed in the direction of Kearneysville, Leetown, and Smithfield, under command of a competent general officer. Please direct him to keep his cavalry scouting all the approaches from the direction of the Opequon on his right. The infantry will not go beyond Leetown. The cavalry will proceed as far as Smithfield, if practicable, and communicate with the cavalry under General Hancock from Harper's Ferry. The troops will move without knapsacks and with two days' rations. Please instruct the commanding officer to communicate frequently with you during the progress of the reconnaissance, and to open communication with General Hancock's command as soon as practicable after starting. On accomplishing these instructions the troops will return to their camps on this side of the Potomac. The accompanying map is sent for the use of the commanding officer during the reconnaissance.

Yours, very respectfully,

R. B. MARCY,

Chief of Staff.
General A. PLEASONTON,

Commanding Cavalry:

GENERAL: General Hancock is to make a reconnaissance in force from Harper's Ferry toward Bunker Hill to-morrow morning at day-light. I have ordered all the cavalry to him that we have here, but the general commanding does not think it sufficient. If you can fit out 200 or 300 men from your command to report to him or General Couch at Harper's Ferry by daylight to-morrow morning please do so, and send Farnsworth or some good colonel to command all the cavalry. Hancock takes about 5,000 infantry with him. Please answer.

Very respectfully,

R. B. MARCY,

Chief of Staff.

HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE POTOMAC,
October 15, 1862—10 a. m.

General KELLEY,

Commanding, Cumberland, Md.:

A rumor has reached here that the main portion of the Confederate army is crossing the Potomac at Cumberland. While no credence whatever is attached to this, it may be well to exercise particular vigilance in that vicinity, and be on the alert for any indication of such a design.

R. B. MARCY,

Chief of Staff.

HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE POTOMAC,
October 15, 1862—11.30 a. m.

Brig. Gen. W. W. AVERELL,

Commanding First Cavalry Brigade, near Downsville, Md.:

GENERAL: Your communication of 9 p. m. yesterday is received, reporting your return with your command.* You will remain in your present position until further orders, using every effort to reft your command, shoe your horses, and get in readiness for active service. You are authorized to organize the pack-mule train for your brigade as suggested.

Yours, very respectfully,

R. B. MARCY,

Chief of Staff.

CIRCULAR.

HEADQUARTERS FIFTH ARMY CORPS,
Camp near Sharpsburg, Md., October 16, 1862.

The major-general commanding, considering that the movement now going on may lead to a continued movement, directs that the division commanders be prepared to move at short notice, with provisions ready to issue at any moment, and at least one day's rations in haversack.

By command of Maj. Gen. F. J. Porter:

ALEX. S. WEBB,

Lieutenant-Colonel and Chief of Staff.

Brig. Gen. A. A. Humphreys,
Commanding Reconnaissance:

GENERAL: The commanding general wishes you to report every hour, or oftener, stating what you are doing, where you are, and what is opposed to you. To-day he has received but one direct communication from you. General Hancock met with considerable opposition at Charlestown, but is past that place and is moving on Bunker Hill. General McClellan was at that point throughout the day and was anxiously expecting to hear from you direct or through General Porter. To-morrow the general wishes you to push on with your infantry to Leetown and the cavalry toward Bunker Hill, and push the enemy vigorously. Make use of the cavalry assigned to you to report. They were sent for that purpose.

I have the honor to remain, very respectfully, your obedient servant,
ALEX. S. WEBB,
Lieutenant-Colonel and Chief of Staff.

HEADQUARTERS FIFTH CORPS,
October 16, 1862—9 p. m.

Brigadier-General Humphreys,
Commanding Reconnaissance:

The commanding general wishes you to be very careful to have out your best mounted cavalry on the roads toward Martinsburg, and keep a careful watch in that direction early in the morning and throughout the day. Should you receive any notice to retire, you will be obliged to watch that flank well. The enemy is reported to have kept twenty cavalry at Hardscrabble whilst you were advancing to-day. The general thinks that the cavalry opposed to you is probably clad in our uniform, so that you will have to require your own pickets to be on the alert not to be deceived. He has asked for 300 cavalry with fresh horses to report to you in the morning at daylight. Don't let any of your movements be delayed by waiting for these, since there is no certainty of procuring them. If you take any prisoners, let the general know the regiment to which they belong. From this information he will probably tell whose command is in the vicinity.

Respectfully, &c.,

ALEX. S. WEBB,
Chief of Staff.

HEADQUARTERS FIFTH CORPS,
October 17, 1862—10 a. m.

Maj. Gen. F. J. Porter:

You will please send orders at once to General Humphreys to withdraw his command to their old camp on this side of the river, leaving it to his discretion whether to return by the way of Harper's Ferry or by the way he went. General Hancock has been ordered to return to Harper's Ferry with his command. General Humphreys should communicate with General Hancock, so that the movement may be made simultaneously, supporting each other if necessary. The route of General Humphreys’ return should be controlled somewhat by the stage of water in the river.

For probable reply, see 8 p. m., Vol. XIX, Part II, p. 83.

R. B. MARCY,
Chief of Staff.

General Humphreys:
Please carry this out and continue your communications with me.
F. J. PORTER,
Major-General.

General A. A. Humphreys,
Commanding Division:

General: The general commanding directs me to say, get all your command over during the night if you can. He is very much gratified with your success, and when you return would be glad to see you.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

GEO. MONTEITH,
Captain and Aide-de-Camp.

Special Orders,
Headquarters Fifth Corps,
October 17, 1862.

General A. A. Humphreys,

HEADQUARTERS FIFTH CORPS,
October 17, 1862.

R. B. MARCY,
Chief of Staff.

General HUMPHREYS,

Commanding Division:

Please carry this out and continue your communications with me.

F. J. PORTER,
Major-General.

HEADQUARTERS FIFTH CORPS,
October 17, 1862.

General A. A. HUMPHREYS,

Commanding Division:

General HUMPHREYS: Please carry this out and continue your communications with me.

F. J. PORTER,

Major-General.

[19.]

General A. A. HUMPHREYS,

Commanding Division:

GENERAL: The general commanding directs me to say, get all your command over during the night if you can. He is very much gratified with your success, and when you return would be glad to see you.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

GEO. MONTEITH,

Captain and Aide-de-Camp.

[19.]

SPECIAL ORDERS,
HQRS. DEFENSES OF WASHINGTON,
No. 37, October 17, 1862.

3. The following-named regiments, now serving with the command of Brigadier-General Casey, will constitute the Third Brigade of Abercrombie's division, which they will proceed to join without delay: One hundred and forty-second New York, Col. R. W. Judson; One hundred and forty-third New York, Colonel De Witt; One hundred and forty-fourth New York, Colonel Hughston; One hundred and forty-sixth New York, Col. K. Garrard. The brigade will be commanded temporarily by the senior colonel. The First Brigade of Casey's division will, on the arrival of two of the above-named regiments, be relieved from duty at Upton's Hill and returned to its former camp.

* * * * *

By command of Major-General Banks:

RICHDL. B. IRWIN,

Captain, Aide-de-Camp, and Acting Assistant Adjutant-General.

[19.]

HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE POTOMAC,
October 18, 1862—1 p. m.

General B. F. KELLEY,

Cumberland:

If you have sent troops to Paw Paw, as ordered in my dispatch of 10 a. m. to-day, you need not withdraw them to send to Hancock in consequence of my dispatch of 12.30 p. m., but will hold them in readiness to move there or elsewhere, as may be needed. The commanding general authorizes you to act according to the information you may

* For reply, see 12.30 p. m., Vol. XIX, Part II, p. 84.
† See Vol. XIX, Part II, p. 447.
receive of the enemy's movements, and to make such further dispositions of your troops as may in your judgment be required. It is highly important that the rebels should be prevented from doing further damage to the railroad.

R. B. MARCY,
Chief of Staff.

4. Brigadier-General Abercrombie is authorized to transfer the three regiments of infantry constituting the auxiliary garrison of the position at the head of the Chain Bridge to his division, as follows: The One hundred and twenty-seventh Pennsylvania Volunteers to the First Brigade, the Fortieth Massachusetts Volunteers to the Second Brigade, the One hundred and twenty-seventh New York Volunteers to the Third Brigade; the One hundred and sixty-ninth New York Volunteers, assigned to the Third Brigade of Abercrombie's division in lieu of the One hundred and forty-sixth New York, will, with two new regiments to be hereafter assigned, constitute the auxiliary garrison of the Chain Bridge position, and will be reported accordingly.

By command of Major-General Banks:

B. CHD. B. IRWIN,
Captain, Aide-de-Camp, and Acting Assistant Adjutant-General.

Special Orders, } HEADQUARTERS FIRST ARMY CORPS, No. 34. } October 19, 1862.

The First Division, Brigadier-General Doubleday, will move at an early hour to-morrow morning, 20th, and encamp in the vicinity of Bakersville. They will take with them their entire camp equipage, tents, wagons, &c. The pickets from the First Division now along the river will be relieved by General Meade. On taking up the position at Bakersville, General Doubleday will send out a force and picket the Potomac River from Mercerville to the neighborhood of Dam No. 4, relieving the pickets from General Franklin's corps. These pickets will join on the left with those from Ricketts' division and on the right with the pickets from Franklin's corps.

By command of Brigadier-General Reynolds:

C. B. LAMBORN,
Acting Assistant Adjutant-General.

HEADQUARTERS,
Williamsport, October 20, 1862—8 p. m.

Lieut. Col. O. D. GREENE,
Assistant Adjutant-General:

COLONEL: There is evidently a very considerable force opposite my post, but I cannot learn anything certain about their numbers or character. The town is full of rumors, which are too vague to transmit. I am still on the search for a man to go over, but my former scouts are afraid to venture to-night.

Very respectfully,

JOHN R. KENLY,
Brigadier-General, Commanding.

[19.]

[19.]
Pursuant to Special Orders, No. 282, headquarters Army of the Potomac, the undersigned hereby assumes command of this corps. Lieut. Col. H. C. Rodgers is announced as assistant adjutant-general.

H. W. SLOCUM,

Major-General of Volunteers.

HEADQUARTERS,
Williamsport, October 21, 1862—8 a. m.

Lieutenant-Colonel GREENE,
Assistant Adjutant-General, &c., Hagerstown:

COLONEL: The most reliable information I gained during the night is that the troops which reached Martinsburg Saturday last (say fifteen regiments) marched on to Hammond’s farm next day, Sunday. This farm is near Hedgesville and one mile this side of the North Mountain Station. The main body of the troops was still near Bunker Hill. The impression here is that if the enemy designs crossing the river it will be here or at Dam No. 5. The object of the raid would seem to indicate an attack upon one of our trains passing up. I feel well assured that there is a considerable body of troops on the Martinsburg road between here and Falling Waters. All quiet here during the night.

I am, colonel, very respectfully, yours,

JOHN R. KENLY,
Brigadier-General, Commanding.

CHERRY RUN, October 22, 1862.

Major-General FRANKLIN,
Hagerstown:

(Through headquarters Army of the Potomac.)

The news that I have from refugees and other sources during the day indicates positively that the enemy had left Martinsburg yesterday and have proceeded, perhaps, either toward Williamsport or Shepherdstown. Your circular received and contents noted in regard to Williamsport. You had better regard this news. Note sent also through General McClellan’s headquarters by telegraph to you to the same effect.

Respectfully, your obedient servant,

JOHN NEWTON,
Brigadier-General, Commanding Third Division, Sixth Corps.

P. S.—I have telegraphed several times the substance of this news, but doubt whether a horse would not be more expeditious even at this late hour.

HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE POTOMAC,
October 23, 1862.

His Excellency A. LINCOLN,
President of the United States:

I have already recommended that Captain Duane, now chief engineer of this army, be made a colonel by brevet for services on the Peninsula. I now urgently request that he be brevetted a brigadier-general

[19.]

J. N.
for the battle of Antietam. I ask the same well-merited reward for LieutenantaColburn, chief of my personal staff, already recommended as a colonel by brevet, and now recommended as a brigadier-general by brevet for Antietam. I ask this as a personal favor, feeling sure that they are well deserved.

G. B. McCLELLAN,
Major-General.

[19.]

HEADQUARTERS FIFTH ARMY CORPS,
October 23, 1862.

Colonel ALEXANDER,
Commanding Second District of Columbia Volunteers:

COLONEL: I am directed by Maj. Gen. F. J. Porter, commanding the corps, to assure you of his regret at your separation from his command. Although he recommended the return of the regiment to Washington, in consequence of the implied agreement made with the members of it, that they should not be removed from the District, he bears cheerful witness to the manner in which they have conducted themselves since leaving Fort Corcoran, in attention to duty and obedience to orders, and in discipline equal to the other regiments of the command.

I am, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

ALEX. S. WEBB,
Lieutenant-Colonel and Chief of Staff.

[19.

CHERRY RUN, October 23, 1862—10 a. m.

Lieut. Col. O. D. GREENE,
Assistant Adjutant-General and Chief of Staff:

COLONEL: I have no further news of any importance. I do not place much reliance upon the report of the enemy concentrating at Williamsport Neck. If they do, however, it places me in a very critical position, of which to relieve myself I might at once invade Virginia and proceed to Harper's Ferry via Martinsburg and Charlestown, or through Falling Waters and Shepherdstown. To march to Williamsport would involve a distance of twelve miles, equals four hours, and perhaps be too late except to be cut off. To fall upon the rear of the enemy, should a considerable portion of them cross the Potomac, might be the safest as well as the decisive plan. My men are held in readiness to march, as by your orders. I shall every day in future, if practicable, have an orderly at your headquarters at 12 m.

Very respectfully,

JOHN NEWTON,
Brigadier-General, Commanding Division.

[19.

HEADQUARTERS FIFTH CORPS,
Camp near Sharpsburg, Md., October 25, 1862.

His Excellency JOHN A. ANDREW,
Governor of Massachusetts, Boston:

GOVERNOR: I have the honor to present to Your Excellency the name of Capt. Augustus P. Martin, Battery C, Massachusetts Artillery, for promotion to a field officer, his State having a right to an artillery officer of that grade by virtue of the number of batteries she has now in the field. Captain Martin is now in command of four of the batteries of this corps, and he will be placed in charge of a number corresponding to his new rank, should Your Excellency see fit to confer it on him, even though it should be higher than that of major. He has, in the opinion of his superior officers, earned the promotion suggested by gallant service in action and by his general efficiency in all duties heretofore intrusted to his charge. By conferring the favor I am confident Your Excellency would benefit the service.

I am, with great respect, Your Excellency's obedient servant,

F. J. PORTER,
Major-General, Commanding.

HEADQUARTERS FOURTH CORPS,
Yorktown, Va., October 25, 1862.

Brig. Gen. L. THOMAS,
Adjutant-General U. S. Army:

SIR: On a former occasion I recommended Brig. Gen. S. Casey, U. S. Volunteers, colonel of the Fourth U. S. Infantry, for a brevet for gallant conduct in the battle of Fair Oaks, Va. That recommendation having failed, as I am informed, to reach the War Department, I have the honor again to recommend that officer for a brevet for good conduct and gallantry in the battle of Fair Oaks, fought May 31 and June 1, 1862, to date the same as other brevets conferred for that battle.

I have the honor to be, sir, your most obedient servant,

E. D. KEYES,
Major-General, Commanding.

HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE POTOMAC,
October 26, 1862—10 a. m.

Brigadier-General REYNOLDS,
Sharpsburg:

The commanding general directs you to move your command to Berlin by Crampton’s Pass and Burkittsville. If possible to do so, he desires you to start to-day (Sunday) and march a few miles. If not, you will start to-morrow and march as far as possible without breaking down your men. Please send a quartermaster in advance to make requisitions and to provide for the wants of your corps. Please acknowledge this dispatch upon its receipt.

R. B. MARCY,
Chief of Staff.

For Operator:

Note.—Send this to-night if possible; if not, then the first thing after daylight.

GENERAL ORDERS,
HEADQUARTERS FIRST ARMY CORPS,
No. 26.
October 26, 1862.

The troops of this corps will march to-day in the following order: First, the Third Division (Meade) at 11 a. m., taking the road to Berlin, via Crampton’s Pass and Burkittsville, and will proceed, if possible, as far as Burkittsville; second, the Second Division (Ricketts) will follow Meade at 12 o’clock and encamp in the vicinity of Meade; third, the First Division (Doubleday) at 11 a.m. will take the road from Bakersville to Crampton’s Pass, via Rohrersville, and encamp in that vicinity. The division commanders will send their quartermasters in advance to arrange for supplies, &c.

By order of Brigadier-General Reynolds:

CHAS. B. LAMBORN,
Acting Assistant Adjutant-General.

---

HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE POTOMAC,
October 26, 1862—2.15 a.m.

Major-General PORTER,
Near Sharpsburg:

Brigadier-General AVERELL:
(Care of General Franklin, Hagerstown.)

The commanding general directs you to hold your command in readiness to march at six hours’ notice.

R. B. MARCY,
Chief of Staff.

---

HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE POTOMAC,
October 26, 1862—2 a.m.

Major-General FRANKLIN,
Hagerstown:

The commanding general directs that General Newton’s division move to Williamsport, or as much farther this way as may be directed to-morrow (Monday), and that the other divisions of your command be held in readiness to move at six hours’ notice.

R. B. MARCY,
Chief of Staff.

---

GENERAL ORDERS, HEADQUARTERS TWELFTH ARMY CORPS,
No. 5. Near Sandy Hook, Md., October 26, 1862.

The following regiments of this command are hereby transferred, viz: The One hundred and twenty-fourth and One hundred and twenty-fifth Pennsylvania Volunteers from the First Brigade, First Division, to the Second Brigade, Second Division; the One hundred and fortieth and One hundred and forty-fifth New York Volunteers from the Second Brigade, First Division, to the Second Brigade, Second Division; the One hundred and thirty-seventh and One hundred and forty-ninth New York from the Fourth Brigade, First Division, to the Third Brigade, Second Division; the Sixtieth New York, Third Delaware, and Purnell Legion from the Third Brigade, Second Division, to the Second Brigade, Second Division; the One hundred and ninth and One hundred and eleventh Pennsylvania Volunteers from the Second Brigade, Second Division, to the Third Brigade, Second Division. Brig. Gen. N. J. Jackson, Col. G. L. Andrews, and Col. Thomas H. Ruger will immediately report to Brig. Gen. J. W. Geary for assignment to the command of brigades of his division. Brigade commanders will take measures to concentrate their commands at the earliest possible day.

By command of Maj. Gen. H. W. Slocum:

H. C. RODGERS,
Assistant Adjutant-General.
Brigadier-General PLEASONTON,

Commanding Cavalry Brigade:

GENERAL: The commanding general directs you to move your command by the direct road to Berlin, so as to arrive at the pontoon bridge at that place, and to be ready to cross it at 9 o'clock this (Sunday) morning. One of General Burnside's divisions will precede you across the bridge, the other two will follow you. You will move to day to Lovettsville and a little in advance, and to morrow to Purcellville, being re-enforced by General Devens. The general commanding desires you to leave on this side all your ineffective force, with such portion of your command as may hinder or impede your operations for three days after crossing. He also desires you to leave such orders as may be necessary to insure the delivery to your command of your remount horses as rapidly as they may come in, and to send forward such of your force at present unfit for duty as may be hereafter made available. He also desires you to procure as much of your forage as possible from the other side of the river.

I am, general, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

R. B. MARCY,

Chief of Staff.

Brigadier-General NAGLEE,

Commanding Brigade:

GENERAL: The major-general commanding instructs me to say to you that it is reported, upon information believed to be reliable, that parties of the enemy are hovering about the lines on the other side of York River. A body of thirty cavalry were at brick house, some eight miles from Gloucester Point, last evening; some infantry and cavalry are said to be at Gloucester Court-House. In view of these facts the general desires that great caution be observed so as to prevent against a surprise of the outposts and the picking up of stragglers.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

U. C. SUYDAM,

Lieutenant-Colonel and Assistant Adjutant-General.

By order of the Secretary of War:

L. THOMAS,

Adjutant-General.
SPECIAL ORDERS, Hdqrs. Army of the Potomac, No. 299. Camp near Knoxville, October 27, 1862.

12. Capt. S. T. Cushing, Second Infantry, is announced as chief signal officer of this army until further orders.

By command of Major-General McClellan:

S. WILLIAMS, Assistant Adjutant-General.

HEADQUARTERS NINTH ARMY CORPS, Pleasant Valley, Md., October 27, 1862.

Brig. Gen. S. D. Sturgis, Commanding Second Division:

GENERAL: The commanding general directs that you move with your division at 12 o'clock this day to Lovettsville, Va., crossing the river at Berlin.

ROBT. A. HUTCHINS, Captain and Assistant Adjutant-General.

SPECIAL ORDERS, Hdqrs. Defenses of Washington, No. 47. October 27, 1862.

1. The Eleventh Corps will be reorganized by its commanding general as follows: First Division, to be commanded by Brigadier-General Stahel. First Brigade, to be commanded by Col. Leopold von Gilsa, Forty-first New York—Forty-first, Fifty-fifth, Eighth, and Fifty-fourth New York; Second Brigade, to be commanded by Col. N. C. McLean, Seventy-fifth Ohio—Twenty-fifth, Fifty-fifth, Seventy-fifth, and Eighty-second Ohio. This division, with the three batteries constituting the reserve artillery of the corps and the cavalry attached to the corps, will constitute the division of reserve. Second Division, to be commanded by Brig. Gen. A. von Steinwehr. First Brigade, to be commanded by Colonel Buschbeck, Twenty-seventh Pennsylvania—Twenty-seventh and Seventy-third Pennsylvania, Twenty-ninth and One hundred and fifty-fourth New York; Second Brigade, to be commanded by Colonel Smith, Seventy-third Ohio—Sixty-first and Seventy-third Ohio, Thirty-third Massachusetts, and One hundred and thirty-sixth New York. Artillery of the division, two batteries. Third Division, to be commanded by Brig. Gen. Carl Schurz. First Brigade, to be commanded by Colonel Schimmeleffing, Seventy-fourth Pennsylvania—Seventy-fourth Pennsylvania, Sixty-eighth, One hundred and thirty-sixth, and One hundred and fifty-seventh New York; Second Brigade, to be commanded by Col. W. Krzyzanowski, Fifty-eighth New York—Fifty-eighth and One hundred and nineteenth New York, Seventy-fifth Pennsylvania, Twenty-sixth Wisconsin. Artillery of the division, two batteries. The commanding general of the Eleventh Corps will immediately report to these headquarters what batteries he assigns to the reserve and to each division, with the names of the battery commanders and the number and caliber of guns.

By command of Major-General Banks:

RICHD. B. IRWIN, Captain, Aide-de-Camp, and Acting Assistant Adjutant-General.

[19.]
General Seth Williams,

Headquarters Army of the Potomac:

Through special sources I am of impression General R. E. Lee is not far distant and General Stuart within an hour's reach. The same number of cavalry regiments as usual is opposite. Enemy moved from Bunker Hill toward Shannondale to-day. Hardee, Longstreet, Pemberton, Polk, Kirby Smith are lieutenant-generals. Desire for peace strongly expressed and the question started how it was possible. Gold in Richmond 300 per cent. premium and silver 180. Have a Richmond Examiner of 24th and will send anything of importance. Ford is excellent. Enemy under impression that their men deserting have to take up arms.*

F. J. Porter,

Major-General, Commanding.

[19.]

HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE POTOMAC,
October 27 [28], 1862—2 p. m.

Major-General Franklin,

Commanding Sixth Corps:

General: The following dispatch has been received from Maryland Heights by signals, viz:

An immense wagon train is moving in the direction of Shannondale from toward Bunker Hill. The head of the train is now about twelve miles to the left (from Maryland Heights) of Charlestown. The troops are also moving by the same road, but it is so smoky that we cannot distinguish their character.

Hall and Taylor,

Lieutenants and Acting Signal Officers.

The commanding general desires you to direct General Averell, with a strong force, to make a reconnaissance at once toward Martinsburg, to ascertain whether the main force of the enemy has left that vicinity. Should the enemy have nothing but cavalry left and you think the main body has gone to Winchester, you will move with your command to-morrow morning for Berlin, taking care to proceed by such roads as to leave others clear for the movement of General Porter's corps from vicinity of Sharpsburg to Harper's Ferry. The general also desires that you hold your command in readiness to march to-morrow morning in case such orders should be sent from these headquarters. General Sigel telegraphs from Fairfax Court-House that the enemy occupies Upper-ville with eight or nine thousand men, and it is reported that he will [fall] back to Gordonsville.

GEO. D. Ruggles,

Colonel and Assistant Chief of Staff.

[19.]

HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE POTOMAC,
October 28, 1862—12.45 p. m.

Major-General Burnside,

Commanding Ninth Corps, &c.:

General: The commanding general directs me to forward the following dispatch, just received by signals from Maryland Heights, with

* For reply see Marcy to Porter, October 29, 12.30 a. m., Vol. XIX, Part II, p. 505.
instructions for you to communicate it to General Pleasonton and other commanders to the front, viz:

An immense wagon train is moving in the direction of Shannondale from toward Bunker Hill. The head of the train is now about twelve miles to the left (from Maryland Heights) of Charlestown. The troops are also moving by the same road, but it is so smoky we cannot distinguish their character.

HALL AND TAYLOR,
Lieutenants and Acting Signal Officers.

I am, general, very respectfully, your obedient servant,
GEO. D. RUGGLES,
Colonel and Assistant Chief of Staff.

SPECIAL ORDERS, }
No. 49. }

HDQRS. DEFENSES OF WASHINGTON, October 28, 1862.

2. The One hundred and thirty-third New York Volunteers, Col. L. D. H. Currie, is detached from the Second Brigade of Abercrombie's division, and will, with the One hundred and sixty-second New York Volunteers, form the nucleus of a brigade, to be commanded for the present by the senior colonel and to be attached temporarily to Abercrombie's division. General Casey will direct the One hundred and sixty-second New York to report to General Abercrombie without delay.

By command of Major-General Heintzelman:

RICH'D. B. IRWIN,
Captain, Aide-de-Camp, and Acting Assistant Adjutant-General.

HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE POTOMAC, October 29, 1862—2 p. m.

His Excellency the President:

In reply to your dispatch of this morning, I have the honor to state that the accounts I get of the enemy's position and movements are very conflicting. A dispatch I have just received from General Kelley, at Cumberland, says three ladies, just in at Cherry Run from Martinsburg, report that Generals Hill, Jackson, and Hampton are encamped near there, with a regiment of cavalry at Hedgesville. General Pleasonton reports from Purcellville yesterday that information from Union people places Hill's command at Upperville, and that troops have been passing there for some days; that their pickets extend as far as the Snicker'sville and Aldie turnpike, over which they allow no one to pass, north or south. Pleasonton reports this morning that a Union Quaker, who escaped from the rebels yesterday, says he saw Longstreet at Upperville day before yesterday; that he had 18,000 men with him. Pleasonton also states that it is reported to him that Stuart with two brigades was at Berryville; that Walker's brigade was at Upperville. A Union man told him that Longstreet was at Upperville, Bloomfield, and Middleburg. General Couch reports yesterday that a contraband who came into Harper's Ferry from beyond Charlestown says Hill's division came back from near Leetown on Sunday, and that the cavalry told him Jackson was coming with his whole force to attack Harper's Ferry. He is confident that there is infantry back of Charlestown, as he heard the drums beating last night. General Porter reports last night that, through several sources, he is under the impression that R. E. Lee is not far distant from him, and that Stuart is within an hour's march; that there are the same number of cavalry regiments opposite him as usual, and that the enemy moved from Bunker Hill toward Shannondale yesterday. I ordered General Averell to make a reconnaissance to Martinsburg, but he has not yet reported his return. General Pleasonton has his scouts well out toward Middleburg, Upperville, and Aldie, and I will soon have more reliable information. In the meantime I am pushing forward troops and supplies as rapidly as possible. We will occupy Waterford and Wheatland to-day. There is now no further difficulty in getting supplies of clothing. Reynolds' corps and Whipple's division have been fully supplied, and are being sent forward. Couch's corps moves forward from Harper's Ferry to-day around the Loudoun Heights.

* See 11.15 a. m., Vol. XIX, Part II, p. 504.

GEO. B. McCLELLAN,
Major-General, Commanding.

GENERAL ORDERS,} HEADQUARTERS FIRST ARMY CORPS,
{ No. 28.} Berlin, October 29, 1862.
Capt. Charles Kingsbury, jr., having reported for duty, is announced as assistant adjutant-general of the First Army Corps. All communications to these headquarters will be addressed accordingly.

By order of Brigadier-General Reynolds:

CHAS. B. LAMBORN,
Acting Assistant Adjutant-General.

GENERAL ORDERS,} HEADQUARTERS FIRST ARMY CORPS,
{ No. 28.} Berlin, October 29, 1862.

V. Capt. R. H. Lamborn, volunteer aide-de-camp to the general commanding, is at his own request relieved from duty. The general takes this occasion to express his sincere thanks to Captain Lamborn for the very efficient and able services he has rendered and greatly regrets that his duties compel him to leave at this time.

VII. This corps will cross the river to-morrow morning. Meade's division will move at 7.30 o'clock, Ricketts' division at 9 o'clock, and Doubleday's division at 11 o'clock.

By command of Brigadier-General Reynolds:

C. KINGSBURY, JR.,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

OCTOBER 29, 1862.

General R. B. MARCY,
Headquarters Army of the Potomac:
The report that enemy moved from Bunker Hill toward Shannondale was given by signal officer. A fugitive negro reported a portion of the enemy broke camp four miles south of Martinsburg and moved in that direction; that General Lee was reported near Winchester and Stuart near Martinsburg. An effort was made to get the bodies of two men buried on Virginia side and from that it leaked out that the application must go to General Lee or Stuart, and in an hour the latter would reply. The men on picket along the river belong to First, Third, Fourth, Fifth, and Ninth Virginia Cavalry and some North and South Carolina regiments, all of which are of Stuart's command.*

F. J. PORTER,
Major-General.

HEADQUARTERS FIFTH ARMY CORPS,
October 29, 1862—3.30 p. m.

General R. B. MARCY,
Headquarters Army of the Potomac:
The cavalry now opposite me is part of Fourth Virginia Cavalry, and is denominated Black Horse Cavalry. Major Kirkland, who has just returned from that side, having been over in connection with the removal of the wounded, thinks that is the only force in the immediate vicinity, and from the application for the bodies of deceased soldiers not having been replied to, that it has gone to General Lee, who must be farther off than suspected. This impression is derived from conversation with the officer in command, though nothing directly to the point was stated or inquired.

F. J. PORTER,
Major-General.

HEADQUARTERS NINTH ARMY CORPS,
Bolington, Va., October 29, 1862.

General S. D. STURGIS:
Will please start your command to Wheatland at daylight to-morrow morning and take a position on the right of the Purcellville road, so as to communicate with the troops of General Whipple's division, which will be near Hillsborough. You will please move promptly, as the divisions of Getty and Whipple will be marching on the same road, and it is desirable that you do not impede their advance.

By command of Brigadier-General Willcox:

ROBT. A. HUTCHINS,
Captain and Assistant Adjutant-General.

HEADQUARTERS NINTH ARMY CORPS,
Near Lovettsville, Va., October 29, 1862.

General GETTY,
Commanding Third Division:
GENERAL: The brigadier-general commanding directs that you move your command this afternoon to Bolington.

I am, sir, very respectfully, your obedient servant,
ROBT. A. HUTCHINS,
Captain and Assistant Adjutant-General.

*This in reply to Marcy, of October 29, 12.30 a. m., Vol. XIX, Part II, p. 505.
Brig. Gen. George W. Getty,
Commanding Third Division:

GENERAL: You will please detach Captain Edwards' battery; order it to move at daylight to morrow morning to Waterford to report to Colonel Leasure, and relieve Benjamin's battery, which will join you at Wheatland. You will march your division to Wheatland, starting at daylight, and take a position on the left of the road so as to hold communication with Leasure's command at Waterford.

By command of Brigadier-General Wilcox:
Very respectfully,
ROBT. A. HUTCHINS,
Captain and Assistant Adjutant-General.

HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE POTOMAC,
October 29, 1862—2 p. m.

Brigadier-General Pleasonton,
Commanding Cavalry Brigade:

GENERAL: General Stoneman's force is posted near where the Leesburg and Snickersville pike crosses the Catoctin Range; two divisions of Burnside's corps will to-day occupy Wheatland Post-Office (where North Fork of Catoctin crosses Berlin and Purcellville pike), and one division will take position at Waterford. Measures will be taken to strengthen this line, extended through Hillsborough to-morrow. General Stoneman will be directed to have his cavalry connect with yours.

I am, general, very respectfully, your obedient servant,
R. B. MARCY,
Chief of Staff.

HEADQUARTERS FOURTH ARMY CORPS,
Yorktown, Va., October 29, 1862.

Captain Faith,
Commanding Fifth Pennsylvania Cavalry:

SIR: The report that 700 rebels are advancing on the Jamestown road may be exaggerated. Nevertheless you must be ready for any emergency. Take care to have all wagons and ambulances harnessed and your men in a fighting condition. If the enemy is in large force, fall back in a soldierly manner; otherwise show a bold front and drive him away. Keep me notified. I send back the operator.

In haste, your obedient servant,
E. D. KEYES,
Major-General, Commanding Fourth Corps.

CIRCULAR.

HEADQUARTERS FOURTH ARMY CORPS,
Yorktown, Va., October 29, 1862.

The whole command will be kept on the alert to-night, as the enemy are reported to be but a few miles above Williamsburg. The guards will be vigilant and the men ready to turn out at a moment's notice.

By command of Major-General Keyes:
C. C. SUYDAM,
Lieutenant-Colonel and Assistant Adjutant-General.

By command of Major-General Heintzelman:

RICHD. B. IRWIN,
Captain, Aide-de-Camp, and Acting Assistant Adjutant-General.

[19.]

GENERAL ORDERS, \{ HEADQUARTERS FIFTH ARMY CORPS, No. 21. \}
Camp near Sharpsburg, Md., October 30, 1862.

In compliance with instructions from headquarters Army of the Potomac, Sykes' and Humphreys' divisions will march as follows: First, Sykes' division 1 p.m., taking the road over the Antietam, passing over what is termed Burnside's bridge into Pleasant Valley and camp near Brownsville. Second, Humphreys' division at 1 p.m., taking the road through Sharpsburg, Portersville, and Brownsville. Whichever division is in advance on arrival at the junction in Pleasant Valley of these two roads will keep in advance. The other division, if possible, will take to the fields to the side of the road, and each will go into camp at suitable positions after having made a reasonable march. Should the troops in either division arrive at the junction of the roads while the troops of the other are passing, the troops of the former will take precedence of the wagons of the latter. The commander of each division will see that the trains are well closed and do not interfere with the rights of others. Headquarters will move to-day. Directions will be given to the division commanders where the commanding general may be found.

By command of Maj. Gen. F. J. Porter:

FRED. T. LOCKE,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

[19.]

CIRCULAR.

HEADQUARTERS SIXTH CORPS,
Hagerstown, October 30, 1862.

The troops of this command will march to-morrow morning at the time and by the roads hereafter specified. The First Division (General Brooks') at 5 o'clock by the shortest road to Keedysville (or Centerville) thence to Boonsborough. The Third Division (General Newton's) at 5 o'clock via Fair Play, Tilghmantown, to the intersection of that road produced with the Williamsport and Boonsborough pike, thence to the pike and Boonsborough. The Second Division (General Smith's) will march at 7 o'clock, and proceed by the Williamsport pike to Boonsborough. Should it so happen that the head of the Second Division arrives at the intersection of the roads whence the Second and Third Divisions take the same road, the Second will be halted until the Third has cleared the way. General Smith will leave one brigade of his division in its present camp to support Kenly at Williamsport in case of necessity. This brigade will march early in the morning of day after to-morrow (unless it receives further orders) by the same road taken by the remainder of the division, and will endeavor to overtake the corps at the earliest practicable moment.

By command of Major-General Franklin:

O. D. GREENE,
Assistant Adjutant-General and Chief of Staff.

HEADQUARTERS FIFTH ARMY CORPS,
October 30, 1862—1 p. m.

Brig. Gen. R. B. MARCY,
Chief of Staff:

General Sykes' and General Humphreys' divisions will be on the march at 2 o'clock. They have orders to encamp as near Brownsville as possible. General Morell will not move until to-morrow morning, unless it is necessary to make a night march. Will this do? Please reply at once.

F. J. PORTER,
Major-General, Commanding.

[19.]

General MARCY:

My own camp to-night will be near Weverton. I expect to report to you to-night in person. Think the troops cannot get beyond Brownsville before or by dark.

F. J. PORTER,
Major-General.

[19.]

General FRANKLIN,
Hagerstown:

If I move to the left, shall go through Sharpsburg, Rohrersville, and Burkittsville, via Crampton's Pass. My picket-line of infantry extends about two miles above Shepherdstown; beyond that no one can cross, I believe, till near Shepherd's Island. The cavalry of Averell is there and watchful. When do you move? Signal from Maryland Heights says large force at Charlestown.*

F. J. PORTER,
Major-General.

[19.]

HEADQUARTERS NINTH ARMY CORPS,
Near Wheatland, Va., October 30, 1862.

Lieutenant-Colonel RICHMOND,
Assistant Adjutant-General:

COLONEL: Both divisions were up and in position before 10 a. m. The distance from this point to Waterford is only from three to three miles and a half. Sturgis' division occupies the intersection of the

* For reply, see 3 p. m., Vol. XIX, Part II, p. 512.
Lovettsville, Hillsborough, Purcellville, Leesburg, and Waterford roads, with artillery on the front and flanks. Getty's division is in reserve, one mile to the left and rear, at the intersection of the Waterford and Lovettsville roads, in a position to support Sturgis' division, at the same time to communicate easily with Waterford and Lovettsville. Would it not be well at so central a point to establish a depot for supplies that would serve at the same time for Waterford, Wheatland, and Hillsborough?

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

O. B. WILLCOX,
Brigadier-General, Commanding Corps.

HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE POTOMAC,
October 30, 1862—10.45 p. m.

Brigadier-General PLEASONTON,
Commanding Cavalry:

GENERAL: The commanding general directs me to say that he does not desire you to attack the enemy at Snicker's Gap until a stronger force of this army shall have crossed to the Virginia side of the Potomac. He desires you, however, to send out strong reconnoitering parties to ascertain the position and strength of the enemy, so that an attack may be made in due time, should it be required.

I am, general, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

R. B. MARCY,
Chief of Staff.

HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE POTOMAC,
October 31, 1862—7 p. m.

Brigadier-General REYNOLDS,
Commanding First Corps:

GENERAL: The commanding general directs you to move your command to-morrow to the front, passing the troops of General Burnside, and to take up a position with your right resting on Purcellville and your left along the Snickersville road to Hamilton. General Couch is ordered to move to Woodgrove, and between that place and the road to Snickersville, and to rest with his left on Woodgrove and his right on the road to Snickersville.

I am, general, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

R. B. MARCY,
Chief of Staff.

P. S.—General Pleasonton will move to-morrow to Philomont, picketing the Snickersville road, the Aldie road, and also the road from Purcellville as near Snickersville as possible. If possible, he will also picket Bloomfield and Upperville.

[19.]

III. This command will move to-morrow morning as follows: The First Division, General Doubleday commanding, will move at 9 o'clock (passing the troops of General Burnside), taking position with his right at Purcellville, his left along Snickersville road toward Hamilton; the Second Division, General Ricketts commanding, at 9 o'clock on Water- ford road to Hamilton and along the road from Hamilton to Purcellville until his right joins General Doubleday's left on that road; the Third Division, General Meade commanding, at 10 o'clock on the best road for artillery, from his present position through Waterford to Hamilton, joining General Ricketts' left.

By command of Brigadier-General Reynolds:

O. KINGSBURY, JR.,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE POTOMAC,
October 31, 1862—7:45 p. m.

Major-General COUCH,
Commanding Second Corps:

GENERAL: The commanding general directs you to move your command to-morrow to Woodgrove and between that place and the road that runs to Snickersville, resting your left on Woodgrove, and your right on the road to Snickersville. General Reynolds will move to-morrow to Purcellville, with his right on Purcellville and his left extending along the Snickersville road to Hamilton. General Pleasonton will move to-morrow to Philomont, picketing the Snickersville road, the Aldie road, and the road from Purcellville as near Snickersville as possible. He will also picket to Bloomfield and Upperville, if he can do so.

R. B. MARCY,
Chief of Staff.

SPECIAL ORDERS, HEADQUARTERS FIFTH ARMY CORPS,
No. 165. Camp near Weverton, Md., October 31, 1862.

1. Humphreys' division will cross the Potomac and Shenandoah at Harper's Ferry and move on the road taken by Couch's corps as far as it can without crowding. It will then camp and await further orders. Sykes' and Butterfield's divisions will camp to-day on Maryland side of the river as near to Harper's Ferry as possible, Sykes in advance. As soon as there is sufficient space on the Virginia shore these divisions will cross and follow Humphreys. The trains of each division will, till further orders, follow it. Quartermasters and commissaries will procure at Harper's Ferry all supplies necessary, and division commanders will require as much provision as possible to be packed in each wagon, and cattle to be driven. If possible, ten days' bread and small rations will be carried. Wherever grain and hay can be procured in Virginia it will be taken possession of by corps, division, and brigade quarter-masters for the benefit of the command, and care be taken that there is no waste. Receipts will be always given.

By command of Maj. Gen. F. J. Porter:

FRED. T. LOCKE,
Assistant Adjutant-General.
HEADQUARTERS FIFTH ARMY CORPS,
Near Sandy Hook, October 31, 1862.

General S. WILLIAMS,

General: Be pleased to inform the major-general commanding that my command is as follows: Humphreys is in motion to cross the river and follow Couch. Sykes is in motion, and will camp as near as possible to Harper's Ferry on this side. Griffin, commanding Butterfield's division, in rear of Sykes, and will camp near him. Each command will try to fit out with clothing. Some have clothing here in canal boats, which they are directed to get to-day. Each wagon will be filled with as much provision (bread and small rations) as they can carry. Beef will be driven. As soon as Sykes can cross the river he will move and be followed by Butterfield. My headquarters are on the direct road from Berlin to Sandy Hook, just [sic] of Mr. Miller's house (General Slocum's headquarters) on the left side of the road. Business keeps me here at present, but if I am well enough and the commanding general does not pass by here to-day I will be down this afternoon.

I am, general, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

F. J. PORTER,
Major-General, Commanding.

HEADQUARTERS FIFTH ARMY CORPS,
October 31, 1862.

General MARCY,
Chief of Staff, Headquarters Army of the Potomac:

General: Humphreys and Griffin will be over the river and about three miles up the valley by sundown. I shall send Sykes over to-morrow, to go beyond Humphreys, close to Couch, if circumstances permit. I would like to be informed if the general desires me to push up and keep closed to Couch, and if Couch is to continue on toward Snicker's Gap. If there be no impropriety in it, I would like for General Couch to notify me or his rear division commander where he will march the following day, and if there is the slightest necessity of a force joining or support being required he will inform me without having to pass through general headquarters. If I am notified of what is passing in front, as the information goes to you, I shall act understandingly, and there [will] be no delay. He should be informed of what he has to rely upon, or supports him. I shall cross to-morrow and join the advance. At sundown I will inform you of the location of each division and the condition of their supplies.

I am, general, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

F. J. PORTER,
Major-General, Commanding.

Please inform if the commanding general desires to see me, by telegraph if in working order.

[19.]

F. J. P.

HEADQUARTERS FIFTH ARMY CORPS,
October 31, 1862.

Brigadier-General SYKES,
Commanding Division:

General: Major-General Porter directs that early in the morning you proceed with your division through Harper's Ferry and over the pontoon bridge near the mouth of the Shenandoah out on the Hillsborough turnpike, passing the present camps of Generals Butterfield and Humphreys. The general has some doubts about Colonel Garrard's joining General Warren.

I remain, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

[19.]

ALEX. S. WEBB,

Lieutenant-Colonel and Chief of Staff.

HEADQUARTERS FIFTH CORPS,

October 31, 1862—9 p.m.

Brigadier-General BUTTERFIELD,

Commanding Division:

General Sykes will march his division past you in the morning and will encamp beyond General Humphreys and near to General Couch. While continuing to supply your command with what it needs, you will hold it in readiness for active operations. General Porter's headquarters will be near General Humphreys.

By command of Major-General Porter:

ALEX. S. WEBB,

[19.]

Lieutenant-Colonel and Chief of Staff.

HEADQUARTERS FIFTH CORPS,

October 31, 1862—10 p.m.

Brigadier-General BUTTERFIELD,

Commanding Division:

GENERAL: The orderly from General Griffin has just arrived. Your wagon train is here and will move out early in the morning. As there will probably be no movement other than that of General Sykes, who will move out in front of General Humphreys, there will be abundance of time, the general hopes, for you to-morrow to complete your arrangements.

Respectfully, your obedient servant,

ALEX. S. WEBB,

[19.]

Lieutenant-Colonel and Chief of Staff.

HEADQUARTERS FIFTH CORPS,

October 31, 1862—9 p.m.

Brigadier-General HUMPHREYS,

Commanding Division:

General Sykes will march past you and encamp beyond you near to General Couch to-morrow. While continuing to supply your command with what it needs, you will hold your command in readiness for active operations. General Porter's [headquarters] will be near you.

By command of General Porter:

ALEX. S. WEBB,

[19.]

Lieutenant-Colonel and Chief of Staff.
HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE POTOMAC,
October 31, 1862—7.30 p. m.

Brig. Gen. ALFRED PLEASONTON,
Commanding Cavalry:

The commanding general has decided to make an advance to-morrow morning, as follows: General Reynolds' corps goes to the position now occupied by you, with his left at Hamilton. Couch advances to Woodgrove, with his right on the road to Snickersville. You will please move your headquarters to Philomont, picketing the Snickersville and Aldie road as near Snickersville as practicable. If you can throw scouts out to Bloomfield and Upperville, do so. Burnside will advance beyond Reynolds on the 2d. This movement need not make any change in the orders for your reconnaissances with Bayard. I think we shall continue to advance from to-morrow. I send by the bearer some paper.

R. B. MARCY,
Chief of Staff.

[19.]

HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE POTOMAC,
November 1, 1862—4 p. m.

Major-General COUCH,
Commanding Second Corps:

GENERAL: The commanding general directs you to march your command early to-morrow morning to Snickersville. On your arrival there, if you find the enemy is still holding Snicker's Gap, you will attack and carry it at once. General F. J. Porter will follow you with his corps, and he will be instructed to furnish you assistance, should you require it. Should there be no force of the enemy at Snicker's Gap, you will leave one regiment there to hold it till General Porter comes up, and send one division of your corps to the Aldie and Ashby's Gap road, in the direction of Upperville. You will then move your remaining divisions in the same direction, as far as they can march. General Porter will establish his corps on the Aldie and Snickersville road. General Burnside will occupy Bloomfield, Union, and Philomont. General Reynolds will be on the left of General Burnside, and between the Aldie and Snickersville and Aldie and Ashby's Gap roads. General Pleasonton will to-morrow occupy Springfield, on the Manassas Gap Railroad.

I am, general, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

GEO. D. RUGGLES,
Assistant Chief of Staff.

[19.]

HEADQUARTERS FIFTH ARMY CORPS,
Neersville, Six Miles from Harper's Ferry, November 1, 1862—2 p. m.

General R. B. MARCY, Chief of Staff:

My advance (Sykes) is close up to Couch (Sedgwick) and I am with it. The remainder of the corps is within one mile of me. Know nothing of O'Rorke's regiment. Considerable artillery firing in advance, apparently at Snicker's Gap, though sounding farther off. How shall I communicate with you, and where do you move to? Many of the wagons are getting provisions at Harper's Ferry and will be in camp to-night, though the broken bridge will cause delay.*

F. J. PORTER,
Major-General, Commanding.

[19.]

* For reply, see 3 p. m., Vol. XIX, Part II, p. 526.
General McCLELLAN:

Shall move two divisions to Couch's rear where Hillsborough road to Woodville joins this. Rear of his train left this camp at 4. Nothing unusual.

F. J. PORTER,
Major-General.

HEADQUARTERS FIFTH ARMY CORPS,
November 1, 1862—10 p. m.

General McCLELLAN,

Headquarters Army of the Potomac:

Couch says he holds gap, and citizens in the mountains insist that Jackson is between Shenandoah and mountain, three miles over.

F. J. PORTER,
Major-General.

GENERAL ORDERS,
HDQRS. FIFTH ARMY CORPS,
Camp near Neersville, Va., November 1, 1862.

In obedience to Special Orders, No. 305, headquarters Army of the Potomac, Maj. Gen. George W. Morell is relieved from duty with this corps to assume command of a separate force operating on the Upper Potomac. In accepting the independent command thus tendered him by the general-in-chief, Major-General Morell enters upon a wider and more responsible sphere of duty. While regretting this separation from the corps, the commanding general can but congratulate General Morell on the assumption of these increased responsibilities, and hopes that he will meet with the same honorable success in their discharge that has attended his efforts in the command which he has exercised in this corps.

By command of Maj. Gen. F. J. Porter:

FRED. T. LOCKE,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

SPECIAL ORDERS,
HEADQUARTERS FIFTH ARMY CORPS,
No. 166. Camp near Neersville, Va., November 1, 1862.

1. Sykes' and Humphreys' divisions will march to-morrow, the former at 6 and the latter at 6:45 a.m. Each will be followed by their respective ambulance trains. Sykes' wagon train will follow Humphreys' ambulances, and Humphreys' train Sykes'. One regiment will form the rear guard to each division. Quartermasters must see that their trains run into the roads, so as to cause no delay, and keep closed, and on arriving at camp go quickly into camp.

2. Butterfield's division will be held ready to move at short notice, and if not called to-morrow will march at 6 a.m. on the 3d instant and join the corps, taking the road to Snicker's Gap.

3. Butterfield's division will march at 7:30 a.m. to-morrow, following the ambulance train of Humphreys' division. The wagon trains will follow Butterfield's ambulances in the following order: Sykes', Humphreys', Butterfield's. A regiment as rear guard will accompany each division train. Three days' provisions will be carried, and the cartridge-boxes will be filled with ammunition. Ammunition trains will precede baggage trains of each division.

By command of Maj. Gen. F. J. Porter:

FRED. T. LOCKE,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

[19.]

GENERAL ORDERS, \hspace{1cm} HDQRS. 1ST DIV., 5TH ARMY CORPS,
{ ARMY OF THE POTOMAC, \hspace{1cm} November 1, 1862. \hspace{1cm} \\

In compliance with Special Orders, No. 305, from headquarters Army of the Potomac, the undersigned hereby assumes command of this division. Lieut. Henry W. Perkins is appointed acting assistant adjutant-general; Capt. H. W. Ryder is appointed acting aide-de-camp; Lieut. R. L. Livingstone is appointed acting aide-de-camp; Lieut. George A. Batchelder is appointed acting ordnance officer. They will be obeyed and respected accordingly.

DANL. BUTTERFIELD,
Brigadier-General.

[19.]

NEERSVILLE, November 1, 1862—7.45 p. m.

General COUCH,
Commanding Second Corps:

I have just received a dispatch from General Marcy of the same tenor, I presume, as yours, \textit{i.e.}, to render assistance to you if you wish it on finding Snicker's Gap occupied by the enemy, and to go forward myself, &c. I shall move at 6 a. m., and shall hope from time to time to receive information from you which will enable me to execute my instructions. I also ask that special pains may be taken to keep your wagons so as not to interfere with my marching, and in all cases to keep well to one side of the road in case I have to pass. Your train did not leave camp till 4 p. m., so from this you will see that if I am wanted you must keep the road clear. Please let me know where you are and how moving, and oblige,

Yours, truly, \hspace{1cm} F. J. PORTER, \hspace{1cm} Major-General.

[19.]

November 1, 1862.

General COUCH,
Commanding Second Corps:

GENERAL: Your note by Lieutenant Wetmore, of cavalry, is received. I congratulate you and hope you will continue successful. I shall keep as close to you as possible and give you all the aid you wish, if the wagons are not in the way. I send you my instructions. I shall be up as soon as possible. Am near Gorman's camp. Signal from Maryland Heights says:

We saw more tents and wagons at Berryville this afternoon than heretofore. Smokes in that vicinity about the same. A small camp seen about four miles south of Charlestown.

*See 3 p. m., Vol. XIX, Part II, p. 526.
I would suggest you hold the gap strongly till I get up. Will send an officer forward to you in the morning. Please keep me informed of your movements, opposition, and success. I doubt that Jackson is near, though I think some force is there to strike our rear if left unguarded. God speed and prosper you.

Yours, truly,

F. J. PORTER,
Major-General.

[19.]

HEADQUARTERS FIFTH ARMY CORPS,
November 1, 1862—6 p.m.

[General Humphreys:]

My Dear General: We move about six miles to the front to-morrow, and I wish you and Sykes close together in case we should be called upon to give aid in advance. Butterfield remains to get in complete order. To march this short distance too much labor is expended moving a whole corps and too much time. Couch's rear wagons left camp at 4.30 p.m., his advance at 7 a.m. I hope to keep all right to-morrow, and to have no cutting into you by trains. The distance between the commands will enable you to keep straight on, giving a short rest every hour, without causing delay or being delayed by the advance. Send an ambulance up here for a mail. We are on the right of the road, first camp immediately on the road. If you wish to send back to your camp to-morrow for stores left in it, you will have time. Feed your animals well, use hay, fodder, &c.; it is abundant; give receipts. The whole people are secesh.

Yours, truly,

F. J. PORTER.

[19.]

HEADQUARTERS NINTH ARMY CORPS,
Near Wheatland, Va., November 1, 1862.

General Sturgis,
Commanding Second Division:

GENERAL: The brigadier-general commanding directs me to instruct you to have your command in readiness to march early to-morrow morning.

I am, general, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

ROBT. A. HUTCHINS,
Captain and Assistant Adjutant-General.

[19.]

HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE POTOMAC,
November 1, 1862—5 p.m.

Brigadier-General Pleasonton,
Commanding Cavalry Brigade:

The commanding general directs you to march your command forward to-morrow, and to occupy the Manassas Gap Railroad at Springfield and vicinity. General Couch will move to Snickersville, and attack and carry Snicker's Gap, should the enemy still hold it. Should there be no force of the enemy there, he will send one division to occupy the Aldie and Ashby's Gap road, in the direction of Upperville, and move up his remaining divisions in the same direction, as far as they can march. General F. J. Porter will establish his corps on the Aldie and Snickersville road; General Burnside will occupy Bloomfield, Union, and Philomont; General Reynolds will be on General Burnside's left, and between the Aldie and Snickersville and Aldie and Ashby's Gap roads.

Respectfully, your obedient servant,

R. B. MARCY,
Chief of Staff.

HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE POTOMAC,
November 1, 1862—9 p.m.

General A. PLEASONTON,
Commanding Cavalry, Philomont, Va.:

GENERAL: General Averell left Berlin for the Virginia shore to-day.
In view of the large force you seem to have before you, Averell has been ordered to join you to-morrow with a horse battery. He will have over 1,000 men, and I think with them you should hold Mr. Stuart somewhat uneasy. I do not know the exact position of Averell to-night, but I think my orderly will find him. You will have a plenty of infantry to-morrow.

Respectfully,

R. B. MARCY,
Chief of Staff.

HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE POTOMAC,
November 1, 1862—8.45 p.m.

General W. W. AVERELL,
Commanding Cavalry Brigade:

GENERAL: General Pleasonton has been ordered to move forward to-morrow morning to the Manassas Gap Railroad, near Springfield. General Couch, now at Woodgrove, will move on to Snickersville, and if he finds Snicker's Gap occupied by the enemy he will attack and carry it, being supported by General Porter's corps in his rear. General Couch will then throw forward one division to the Ashby's Gap and Aldie road, near Upperville. General Burnside will occupy Bloomfield, Union, and Philomont, with General Reynolds' corps on his left and one division advanced to Middleburg. The commanding general directs that you throw forward your cavalry early in the morning to ascertain if the enemy hold Snicker's Gap, and give General Couch the information. If you should not be necessarily detained at Snicker's Gap, you will please push on to Ashby's Gap, and examine that locality, so as to give General Couch information concerning that. Should you find that General Pleasonton is engaged with the enemy in advance of you, you will push on to his assistance.

R. B. MARCY,
Chief of Staff.

HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE POTOMAC,
November 1, 1862—9.15 p.m.

Brigadier-General AVERELL,
Commanding Cavalry Brigade:

GENERAL: General Couch, now at Woodgrove, will move on to Snickersville to-morrow morning, and if he finds Snicker's Gap occupied by the enemy, he will attack and carry it, being supported by General Porter's corps in his rear. General Couch will then throw forward one division to the Ashby's Gap and Aldie road, near Upperville, following with the rest of his command as far as it can march. General Burnside will occupy Bloomfield, Union, and Philomont, with General Reynolds on his left, and one division of the latter's corps advanced to Middleburg. General Pleasonton has been ordered to move forward to-morrow morning to the Manassas Gap Railroad, near Springfield. A report just received from him states that he has been skirmishing in front of Philomont to-day with Stuart, who outnumbers him and has also infantry troops with his command. The commanding general therefore directs you to march at an early hour to-morrow morning, to re-enforce General Pleasonton at or near Philomont. Upon coming up with him, you will accordingly report to him with your command for duty.

I am, general, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

R. B. MARCY,
Chief of Staff.

SPECIAL ORDERS, \{ HDQRS. DEFENSES OF WASHINGTON, \\
No. 53. \} November 1, 1862.

2. Lieut. Col. Chauncey McKeever, assistant adjutant-general, is assigned to duty at these headquarters, to take effect this day.

By command of Major-General Heintzelman:

RICHD. B. IRWIN,
Captain, Aide-de-Camp, and Acting Assistant Adjutant-General.

HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE POTOMAC,

November 2, 1862—11 a. m.

Brigadier-General REYNOLDS,
Commanding First Corps:

GENERAL: The commanding general directs you to move your corps as soon as you can get the road, and to establish it to-night on the left of General Burnside's corps, and between the Aldie and Snickersville and Aldie and Ashby's Gap roads, with one division thrown forward to Middleburg. Please move by such roads, if any, to the left, as will not interfere with General Burnside's corps. General Burnside has already indicated to you the positions of the troops on your right. Please send an aide to headquarters at Wheatland to-night.

I am, &c.,

R. B. MARCY,
Chief of Staff.

SNIKERSVILLE, VA., November 2, 1862—1.30 p. m.

General MARCY,
Chief of Staff:

I arrived in person at 12.30 p. m., and found General Couch in position in the gap with Hancock's division, he deeming it necessary that the most of it should be there, in consequence of the enemy moving two columns of troops up the mountain in three brigades. Since that he has asked of General Couch more guns, and in case of firing more infantry. I have informed him that I am ready to relieve him and await his reply, in the meantime have Sykes (the advance) moving up to relieve him. He will probably inform you of his decision after hearing from Hancock (Sykes relieves him). My command will all be up to-night. I have ordered a regiment to relieve one left [by] General Couch in Gregory's Gap. The passes to the rear and I think the whole line of road should be watched by other troops, and if you have a force at Hillsborough would respectfully suggest that it show itself on this road to Harper's Ferry near to Woodgrove. I have arranged to guard this pass and await orders. Artillery shots are heard in the gap from Hancock.

Very respectfully,

F. J. PORTER,
Major-General.

HEADQUARTERS FIFTH ARMY CORPS,
Snickersville, November 2, 1862—4 p. m.

General R. B. MARCY,
Chief of Staff:
I have sent Sykes to relieve Hancock, and in few minutes shall go to the top of the mountain. Sykes is nearly up. General Couch has gone at the head of Gorman's division for Bloomfield and Upperville. The inclosed memoranda of forces was received from a Union man. He adds that Jackson and Hill are in the opposite valley and the object of moving to Berryville was to defend this gap. I do not believe that Hancock and Gorman (Couch) will get far to-night. I send an officer to receive orders. I presume I am to wait here till further orders, as my instructions say nothing of going farther, and the enemy would like this inlet.

F. J. PORTER,
Major-General.

HEADQUARTERS FIFTH ARMY CORPS,
November 2, 1862.

General COUCH,
Commanding:
Your dispatch received. Four other divisions are close by here. General McClellan is here and desires me to say he sent orders by your staff officer to halt where you are and to send here at daybreak an officer for orders. For myself I have to say look out for enemy toward Upperville, as there, or at Ashby's Gap, I think he will make his stand and annoyance. Enemy still in force in Winchester valley opposite me, but some are moving south. Stuart only is here on this side of Ashby's Gap.

Yours, truly,

F. J. PORTER,
Major-General.

WOODGROVE, November 2, 1862—10 a. m.

Generals BUTTERFIELD and HUMPHREYS,
Commanding Divisions:

General Humphreys will move up and form his troops outside the road, to enable Butterfield to come up and form to camp at Woodgrove, beyond which it is doubtful if he can go farther on account of the blocked roads. Humphreys will transfer to Butterfield the order to relieve a regiment of Couch's in the gap near Woodgrove. As soon as the road is sufficiently clear, or it can be ascertained that Sykes and Humphreys can move on, they will continue to advance toward Snickersville. Butterfield will bivouac, allow the trains to pass through, and move on to-morrow morning—all this in case he gets no other orders. The one to march on to-day may be given. The road from Worthington house is blocked, but if possible I wish to get Sykes and Humphreys to Snickersville and Butterfield within reach.

F. J. PORTER,
Major-General, Commanding.

The regiment left by Butterfield to take its place in the gap to relieve Couch's will be relieved only in case there is no enemy there to-morrow. Messengers will be sent to communicate with the regiment.

[19.]

F. J. P.

HEADQUARTERS FIFTH ARMY CORPS,
November 2, 1862—12.30 p. m.

Brigadier-General BUTTERFIELD,
Commanding Division:

GENERAL: Enclosed herein please find map showing Woodgrove and Snickersville. The general commanding directs that you camp at Woodgrove to-night and move to Snickersville to-morrow. You will find a house on the left side of road containing some secesh women—at Woodgrove. The general wants you to keep your trains well up.

Respectfully, your obedient servant,

GEO. MONTEITH,
Captain and Aide-de-Camp.

P. S.—Hancock has carried Snicker's Gap and is pushing forward.

[19.]

HEADQUARTERS NINTH ARMY CORPS,
Near Wheatland, November 2, 1862.

Col. DANIEL LEASURE,
Commanding First Division:

COLONEL: You will at once march your command for Philomont. You will take up a position on your left on the pike at Philomont, with your right stretching toward Union. General Getty's division will be at, or as near as possible to, Union, with General Sturgis at Bloomfield. General Stoneman will follow up your left. You will send Captain Means, with his company, to these headquarters, keeping a few of his men with you for guides.

I am, colonel, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

ROBT. A. HUTCHINS,
Captain and Assistant Adjutant-General.

[19.]

HEADQUARTERS NINTH ARMY CORPS,
Near Wheatland, Va., November 2, 1862.

Brig. Gen. S. D. STURGIS,
Commanding Second Division:

GENERAL: You will march your command without delay as near as possible to Bloomfield, and take up a position facing toward Snickersville and curving round toward Union. Please send an aide to these headquarters immediately.

I am, general, very respectfully,

ROBT. A. HUTCHINS,
Captain and Assistant Adjutant-General.

HEADQUARTERS NINTH ARMY CORPS,
Near Wheatland, Va., November 2, 1862.

Brig. Gen. GEORGE W. GETTY,
Commanding Third Division:

GENERAL: You will without delay march your command as near as possible to Union. General Sturgis will be on your right near Bloomfield, Colonel Leasure will be on your left at Philomont toward Union. You had better establish communication with these two divisions.

I am, general, very respectfully,

ROBT. A. HUTCHINS,
Captain and Assistant Adjutant-General.

HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE POTOMAC,
Wheatland, November 2, 1862—10.30 p. m.

Major-General SLOCUM,
Commanding, Harper's Ferry:

The commanding general directs that you send two regiments at once to Keys' Gap and two regiments to the crossing of the Shenandoah near Shannondale, to remain there for two or three days until the enemy are out of that valley. In view of the operations now progressing, it would perhaps be better for you to defer your visit to Frederick. It is rumored that the enemy have crossed in some force near Downsville.

R. B. MARCY,
Chief of Staff.

HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE POTOMAC,
Wheatland, November 2, 1862—10.30 p. m.

Major-General MORELL,
Commanding at Hagerstown:

A report has reached here that the enemy have crossed in some force near Downsville. The commanding general desires that you will ascertain at once if there is any truth in this, and forward immediately all information by telegraph.

R. B. MARCY,
Chief of Staff.

HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE POTOMAC,
November 2, 1862—4.20 p. m.

Brigadier-General PLEASONTON:

GENERAL: Firing is heard in direction of Snicker's Gap. General McClellan is going there. He will return if the engagement is not a serious one; if it is, he will remain. He desires you to keep him informed of everything of interest, directing your communications to General Reynolds, who will remain at Purcellville and move forward to-morrow to a position between Aldie and Snickersville and Aldie and Ashby's Gap roads, with one division thrown forward to Middleburg. General Reynolds will forward these communications to General McClellan, and will be ready to move to your assistance, if necessary. If you need immediate assistance call upon General Willcox at Philomont. You will be informed during the night of the movements for to-morrow. It is not yet known whether General Couch has yet passed Snicker's Gap. You will be informed to-night of the position of troops on the right.

I am, general, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

GEO. D. RUGGLES,
Colonel and Assistant Chief of Staff.

HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE POTOMAC,
Wheatland, November 2, 1862—11 p. m.

Brigadier-General PLEASONTON,
Commanding Cavalry, &c.:

GENERAL: Your dispatch of 6.30 p. m. is received. General McClellan is to-night at Snickersville. Headquarters will move to Purcellville to-morrow and perhaps farther. The ammunition for Pennington's battery was sent this afternoon to Union, to which place you had better send for it if it has not reached you. Hancock has possession of Snicker's Gap, and has dispersed a column of 5,000 or 6,000 infantry that advanced to retake it, by his rifled guns.

Yours, respectfully,

R. B. MARCY,
Chief of Staff.

By WM. F. BIDDLE,
Captain and Aide-de-Camp.

HEADQUARTERS CAVALRY BRIGADE,
Philomont, November 2, 1862—8 a. m.

Colonel HOFMANN:

COLONEL: The general directs me to say that he has knowledge of a force of the enemy at Union. He is going there and wishes you to move forward your forces to support him at that place.

By command of Brigadier-General Pleasonton:

J. C. ROUSSEAU,
Lieutenant and Aide-de-Camp, in the Field.

HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE POTOMAC,
Snickersville, November 3, 1862.

Brig. Gen. R. B. MARCY, Chief of Staff:

Couch and Burnside have been ordered to the vicinity of Upperville, and Couch has been ordered to reconnoiter Ashby's Gap. Reynolds has been ordered to the vicinity of Bloomfield and Union. Please direct Pleasonton to scout well toward Ashby's Gap, to ascertain what enemy there is there. Headquarters had better move at once to the point where the Mount Gilead road comes into the Snickersville and Aldie pike. We will meet you there. The general desires that you send back to hurry Franklin up.

A. V. COLBURN,
Assistant Adjutant-General.
Brig. Gen. John F. Reynolds,
Commanding First Corps:

General McClellan directs that you move your corps on Bloomfield and Union, reaching those points, if it is possible, to-day. At least get as far as the Aldie pike. Porter remains at Snickersville in possession of the gap. Couch moves to Ashby's, and Burnside goes to the vicinity of Upperville. Headquarters to-night will be near you.

A. V. Colburn,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

Brigade will probably be at Bloomfield to-night.

[19.]
General McCLELLAN:

I send the inclosed dispatches from signal officers and General Sykes, the only information I have.* The only force on this side of the river is a small party of cavalry, and the reconnoitering party of Sykes is engaged with it. Firing is frequent. I can see that a large force must be in the valley from the quantity of smoke oozing from top of woods, and this smoke comes from every clump. An officer (aide to General Sykes) says a very large camp is visible beyond Berryville; with a glass he can distinguish between tents and shelter-tents. This is from the mountain at Warren's station. I am going up there, and will send you a report this evening. It is generally believed that Jackson and Hill are here. Have sent a party to see if ridge road extends south. Infantry, I learn, can cross the mountain anywhere, but cavalry in places; artillery not. Several fords between this and Ashby's Gap.

Very respectfully,

F. J. PORTER,
Major-General.

[19.]

HEADQUARTERS FIFTH ARMY CORPS,
November 3, 1862—6 p. m.

General R. B. MARCY,
Chief of Staff:

GENERAL: A reconnaissance of cavalry and infantry was made, under the charge of Lieutenant-Colonel Sargent, Massachusetts cavalry, to Snicker's Ferry, to ascertain the strength of the enemy on this side of the river and the character of the country between. Anxious to catch the cavalry force of the enemy (about fifty men) before crossing the river, into which they were pressed and plunging, the cavalry and a portion of the infantry rushed within range of a battery of eight guns posted on the opposite bank and of a mass of sharpshooters posted in a house. In addition to the loss of several excellent men, we mourn the loss of a brave soldier and elegant gentleman in Captain Pratt, First Massachusetts Cavalry, and the wounding of an excellent and promising young officer of the Twelfth [Fourteenth] U. S. Infantry, Lieutenant Perry. The enemy displayed on the opposite bank of the river one regiment and a half of infantry, a mass of sharpshooters in a house, and fifty cavalry, independent of the eight pieces of artillery. After the party was withdrawn I saw from the mountain top five large regiments, with more in rear, coming to the support of the first-mentioned command. I also saw ambulances approaching to carry off their wounded. From the mountain top I saw one large camp near Berryville and immense smokes toward Winchester. At Ashby's Gap, very heavy and extensive smokes, and in the gap opposite Trap, extensive smokes and increasing rapidly. From reports, a part of which I forwarded and the remainder I inclose, I learn that numerous wagons have been seen during the day moving toward Ashby's Gap and Front Royal and from Bunker Hill toward Winchester, and fires have been springing up along the roads running south, as if from parties in motion southward. The same was noticed last night. The inclosed dispatches are of some interest.

I examined the ridge road for some two miles and a half, and now have a party examining, with directions to ascertain the extent of the * Signal dispatches not found. For Sykes to Porter, see Vol. XIX, Part II, p. 540.

fires at the gap between this and Trap and the force. The road is narrow, as also the ridge, practicable with difficulty for artillery (as far as I went), and I hear from a citizen that is so as far as the gap and probably so far as Ashby's Gap. The hill-top is at intervals open and woody and intersected with ravines. The road and country is practicable for cavalry and infantry as far, I presume, as Ashby's Gap. Your dispatch of 1.30 p. m. was received during my absence, and a copy at once sent to Colonel Couch. The receipt is acknowledged and just received from him, two miles this side of Upperville, in camp. A deserter now in my possession gives the accompanying statement, which I condense while it is being written up: Longstreet's command left one week since, and is believed to have gone to the Rappahannock or Rapidan; at all events he is at or beyond Front Royal and Piedmont. D. H. Hill, of Jackson's corps, left Woodville at 12 yesterday for Middleburg; got within three miles of Upperville, and fell back to Ashby's Gap, posting one brigade on Lost Mountain, one on opposite side of road, and two farther back in the gap. The trains (quartermasters and ordnance) were turned back and to the south. The baggage wagons were to move to-day (probably those seen by us). A. P. Hill's division is at Berryville. The remainder of Jackson's force had not yesterday left vicinity of Bunker Hill. (We must have seen some in motion to day.) Walker's division followed Longstreet, and is beyond his hearing. If Ashby's Gap is carried and Hill whipped, Jackson will be cut off. All feel confident of success. Men badly shod and indifferently fed. Men believe the line of the Rappahannock or Rapidan is to be held and this part of the country abandoned. Stuart lost two pieces yesterday, owing to pickets failing to report; we occupied a place he did the day before. Our battery killed all the horses. The road from Ashby's Gap to Trap is almost impassable. Will send him down to-morrow.

I am, general, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

F. J. PORTER,
Major-General, Commanding.

HEADQUARTERS FIFTH ARMY CORPS,
November 3, 1862.

General Sykes,

Commanding, Snicker's Gap:

Dispatch, inclosing one from General Tyler of 11 a. m., received.† Information from the gap opposite Woodgrove tends to show the enemy retiring and covering the fords to prevent injury. If after examining the ground you conclude it safe or proper to put artillery (if it can be done) to help the enemy on their course, act on your own judgment.

Yours, truly,

F. J. PORTER.

Snickersville, Va., November 3, 1862—12 m.

General A. A. Humphreys,

Commanding Division:

General: The enemy are moving trains southward and have posted troops at every ford and ferry; those opposite Snicker's Gap, in large numbers, apparently acting on the defensive. Such gathering of force may be designed to defend the fords of the Shenandoah, as it has been asserted that they so intended. Information has been received showing that Ashby's Gap is strongly defended or the ford opposite. An attempt will be made to carry it and a reconnaissance will be pushed that way to-day from Upperville. As the ridge directly in your front is part of the one in which the gap is, General McClellan is anxious to have the ridge examined as far as infantry can do so, to ascertain its character for infantry and artillery movements. I went about two miles on it from Snicker's Gap and found a ridge road, finally branching east and west. He desires to know if troops can move along the ridge. Can you do anything to get this information? My cavalry are all out in front on a reconnaissance, but to-morrow I will be able to push beyond where the infantry (if you send out a small party) goes to-day. This party may see the enemy's motions if they have a glass and pick up their cavalry pickets. I just learn that two or three brigades are moving back to Berryville; I presume relieved of guard at ford. I have given you all the news in my possession.

* See Vol. XIX, Part II, p. 539.

Yours, truly,

F. J. PORTER,
Major-General.

HEADQUARTERS FIFTH CORPS,
November 3, 1862—10 p. m.

Brigadier-General HUMPHREYS,
Commanding Division:

General Porter directs that in case no order shall reach you before reveille to move your command, you are to send a party of about forty men along the ridge to the Trap road about four miles from this place. At this point the general and myself saw fires this afternoon. The ridge road is reported practicable as far as Ashby's Gap, and it is at this time highly important to determine whether or not this is the case, since this road will probably be used in the taking of Ashby's Gap to-morrow or the next day. This party must move with the expectation of meeting some of the enemy's pickets and make their best endeavor to capture them. This afternoon the general and myself rode along the ridge and met the advance of your reconnaissance with thirty men as we returned. This reconnaissance was not pushed far enough. Do not make the catching of the pickets an especial object, but make the reconnaissance quietly with the view of determining whether or not the Trap road is occupied by the enemy or not.

Your obedient servant,

ALEX. S. WEBB,
Lieutenant-Colonel and Chief of Staff.

HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE POTOMAC,
November 3, 1862.

Maj. Gen. A. E. BURNSIDE:

General Couch has been ordered to move to Upperville from his present position, he now having one division at Bloomfield and two at Snickersville. You will please move Whipple's division and the Ninth Corps by the most direct roads to the vicinity of Upperville, resting your right on the pike near that place, and so posting the troops as to be able to support Couch at Ashby's Gap, as well as to cover Paris and the turnpike from the south. Please order General Stoneman to the vicinity of Middleburg to communicate with General Schurz, who is to be at Thoroughfare Gap to-day. Porter remains at Snicker's Gap. to-day, the enemy being still in the Shenandoah Valley opposite. Reynolds will occupy a position near your present position, viz, near Philomont, to be ready to support if required. The commands should move as soon as possible after the order is received.

By order of General McClellan:

A. V. COLBURN,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE POTOMAC,
Bloomfield, November 3, 1862—5 p.m.

Maj. Gen. A. E. BURNSIDE:
GENERAL: The following dispatch has just been received from Pleasonton:

I have been fighting Stuart all day. He is retreating by Ashby's Gap, but his train is going the road to Manassas Gap. I don't think there are any rebels this side nearer than Manassas. Have seen no infantry to-day. Please say to the general commanding that I shall push a force toward Manassas this evening; also that Stoneman's cavalry should cover Aldie and Hopewell Gap.

A. PLEASONTON.

The general desires that you give the necessary order to Stoneman.

By order:

A. V. COLBURN,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE POTOMAC,
November 3, 1862—10 a.m.

Brig. Gen. A. PLEASONTON,
Commanding Cavalry Brigade:

GENERAL: Couch's corps is ordered to Paris and vicinity to-day; Burnside to Upperville and vicinity; Stoneman to Middleburg; Reynolds to Bloomfield and Union. Porter remains at Snickersville. I would be glad to have you make a strong reconnaissance toward Ashby's Gap, to ascertain whether it is occupied and by what force. If it is not, please send a strong party through, to ascertain what is going on near Millwood. Having accomplished this, or at the same time if practicable, I would like to have a reconnaissance made in the direction of Springfield, Manassas Gap, and Front Royal. It may be necessary to employ Bayard's force in this expedition; if so you will please meet him and arrange the details. As soon as possible some cavalry, perhaps Stoneman's, should occupy White Plains, in order to cover the Hopewell Gap. Headquarters will probably be at Bloomfield to-night. Some of the enemy are in sight from Snicker's Gap, near Berryville, and this side of it. Wagon trains visible.

Truly yours,

G. B. McCLELLAN,
Major-General, Commanding.
Middleburg, Va., and that Beardsley's brigade of cavalry be directed to picket in front of Washington. Please acknowledge.

S. WILLIAMS,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE POTOMAC,
Ashby's Gap, November 4, 1862—3 p. m.

His Excellency the President:
We hold Ashby's Gap; our cavalry advance is at Piedmont, on Manassas Gap Railroad.

GEO. B. MCCLELLAN,
Major-General, Commanding.

HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE POTOMAC,
November 4, 1862.

Brig. Gen. J. F. REYNOLDS,
Commanding First Corps:

General McClellan directs that you move your corps at 9 a. m. to-morrow, on the road from Millville to Rectortown, and take position between Rectortown and White Plains. General Burnside will move his command early in the morning, and take the line from Piedmont to Salem. General Franklin will take position on the Aldie pike east of Upperville. Headquarters to-morrow night will be on the road from Millville to Rectortown, near Rectortown. Generals Couch and Porter will remain where they are to-morrow.

A. V. COLBURN,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

GENERAL ORDERS, Headquarters First Army Corps,
No. 32. Camp near Bloomfield, November 4, 1862.

The troops of this corps will move to-morrow morning as follows: The First Division (Doubleday's) will march at 9 o'clock by way of Millville to Rectortown and take post with its right at that point, its left extending in the direction of White Plains. The Second Division (Gibbon's) will follow in rear of the First and take position on its left. The Third Division (Meade's) will march at 9 o'clock to White Plains, by way of Middleburg, and take position with its left at the former place and right in the direction of Rectortown. The road will be given to the artillery, and the infantry to march alongside as much as possible. General Burnside's position will be from Piedmont to Salem.

JNO. F. REYNOLDS.

SPECIAL ORDERS, Headquarters First Army Corps,
No. 44. Camp near Purcellville, November 4, 1862.

III. Brig. Gen. John Gibbon, First Division, will assume command of the Second Division of this corps, lately commanded by General Ricketts.

By order of Brigadier-General Reynolds:

C. KINGSBURY, JR.,
Assistant Adjutant-General.
Lieutenant-Colonel Hofmann,
Commanding Second Brigade:

Colonel: The general is very happy over your success and congratulates you and your command. He directs that you remain until the division comes up. We are expecting to move to-day.

I am, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

E. P. Halsted,
Captain and Assistant Adjutant-General.

Headquarters First Division, First Corps,
November 4, 1862.

Headquarters Army of the Potomac,
November 4, 1862.

Lieutenant-Colonel Hofmann,
Commanding Second Brigade:

Colonel: The general is very happy over your success and congratulates you and your command. He directs that you remain until the division comes up. We are expecting to move to-day.

I am, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

E. P. Halsted,
Captain and Assistant Adjutant-General.

Headquarters First Corps, First Division,
November 4, 1862.

Headquarters Army of the Potomac,
November 4, 1862.

Major Gen. D. N. Couch,
Commanding Second Corps:

General: The commanding general desires you to remain for the present with your corps in the position now occupied by it, watching carefully Ashby's Gap. You will, however, please keep your command in readiness to march south should orders be given for such a movement. The general directs me to say that no more wagon trains will be sent to the Potomac, and that trains now on the way from that river will be brought up as soon as possible. Supplies will hereafter be obtained by Orange and Alexandria and Manassas Gap Railroads.

I am, general, &c.,

GEO. D. Ruggles,
Colonel and Assistant Chief of Staff.

[19.]

Headquarters Army of the Potomac,
November 4, 1862—5 p. m.

Major-General Porter,
Commanding Fifth Corps:

General: We have possession of Ashby's Gap; there is no evidence of any enemy in force in front of it. The commanding general directs me to say that if there is no enemy in front of you at Snicker's Gap and vicinity, he desires you to withdraw the Forty-fourth New York and other troops of your corps and to move to vicinity of Upperville to-morrow, unless you receive further orders. If you deem best you will leave one or two regiments or a brigade at Snicker's Gap, to be withdrawn hereafter. Please send a staff officer or orderly to headquarters this afternoon with a report of the condition of affairs in your front. Send him in time to return to you before daylight with further orders if necessary.

I am, general, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

GEO. D. Ruggles,
Colonel and Assistant Chief of Staff.

[19.]

Headquarters Army of the Potomac,
November 4, 1862—2.45 p. m.

Major-General Porter,
Commanding Fifth Corps:

General: We have possession of Ashby's Gap; there is no evidence of any enemy in force in front of it. The commanding general directs me to say that if there is no enemy in front of you at Snicker's Gap and vicinity, he desires you to withdraw the Forty-fourth New York and other troops of your corps and to move to vicinity of Upperville to-morrow, unless you receive further orders. If you deem best you will leave one or two regiments or a brigade at Snicker's Gap, to be withdrawn hereafter. Please send a staff officer or orderly to headquarters this afternoon with a report of the condition of affairs in your front. Send him in time to return to you before daylight with further orders if necessary.

I am, general, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

GEO. D. Ruggles,
Colonel and Assistant Chief of Staff.

[19.]

Headquarters Fifth Army Corps,
November 4, 1862—7 p. m.

Col. George D. Ruggles,
Aide-de-Camp:

Your communication of 2.45 by Major Kirkland is just received. The directions to move being based on the supposition that there is no enemy in force opposite Snicker's Gap leaves me in doubt of the intention of the commanding general to move me in case he is in force. I have, in anticipation that the move will be ordered, directed General Sykes to withdraw from the gap his division and to post General Tyler's brigade for its defense; Sykes then to move his command to this place prepared to march at a moment's notice; Humphreys' division to remain here to secure the pass, but prepared to move at a moment's notice; Butterfield to be ready to move at short notice to-morrow morning, following Sykes. My design is, if directed to move, to leave Humphreys here, but to follow the following day. Shall be prepared to carry out the instructions returned by the bearer, Captain McQuade. I have trains on the road to-night and to-morrow from Harper's Ferry with provisions and clothing which could not be obtained earlier. I do not like to leave the route unprotected till they return. The force I know to be opposite consists of at least five regiments (large) and a battery of ten guns. These regiments have been in or near the road to Berryville all day, and the battery posted to sweep the ford and part of the road on this side of the river. The battery relieved a battery of eight guns early this morning, the latter retiring to a camp behind timber. Four regiments moved to the river-bank this morning and the same number were seen to withdraw. The woods into which they went have been full of men all day. A large camp (wall-tents, shelter-tents, and A tents, and about twenty wagons) has been visible all day and men moving in it. This camp is partly in the woods, and has been visible all the time. Cavalry has been on the road all day in small parties, and the same men on picket yesterday returned to-day. These regiments and other parties have been seen by several persons from different points. If the batteries are not in position to-morrow morning I shall move without further orders, but if there I think it imprudent to move without leaving Humphreys. If the trains get up, and the commanding general designs abandoning this line, Humphreys and the Forty-fourth can join by night march, sending the wagons in advance with the rest of the column. The party sent to Ashby's Gap along ridge road has not returned. I have about twelve wounded men, some badly. I expect Captain McQuade to return by daybreak, which will be time enough for me to issue the necessary orders to move, being prepared.

I am, colonel, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

F. J. PORTER,
Major-General, Commanding.

| 19. |

SPECIAL ORDERS,} HEADQUARTERS FIFTH ARMY CORPS,
No. 168. } Camp near Snickersville, Va., November 4, 1862.

4. Brigadier-General Sykes will at daybreak withdraw his division from the position now occupied by it in Snicker's Gap, posting in its place, for the defense of the gap, the brigade of General Humphreys' division, now on the Blue Ridge, giving to the latter such information and instructions as shall govern it until the command of it shall be resumed by General Humphreys. General Sykes will then march his command to Snickersville, and there bivouac in readiness to march at short notice. General Humphreys will resume command of the brigade.

* For reply, see Colburn to Porter, November 5, 1.20 a. m., Vol. XIX, Part II, p. 546. posted in Snicker's Gap and will hold the pass, keeping his division in readiness to move at short notice.

By command of Maj. Gen. F. J. Porter:

FRED. T. LOCKE,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE POTOMAC,
Bloomfield, November 4, 1862.

Maj. Gen. W. B. FRANKLIN,
Commanding Sixth Corps:

General McClellan directs that you move your command via Bloomfield to Union, as far toward Upperville as you can move without too much fatiguing your men. Please report for orders at Upperville, as headquarters will be there.

A. V. COLBURN,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE POTOMAC,
November 4, 1862—10.30 p. m.

Maj. Gen. W. B. FRANKLIN,
Commanding Sixth Corps:

GENERAL: The commanding general directs that your command to-morrow take position on the Aldie pike, east of Upperville. One division will move to its destination via Bloomfield. He also desires me to say that no more wagons will be sent to the Potomac for stores. Those on their way from that river will be brought up as rapidly as possible. Supplies will hereafter be obtained by the Orange and Alexandria and Manassas Gap Railroads. General Burnside's command (the Ninth Corps and Stoneman's and Whipple's divisions) will to-morrow take post between Piedmont and Salem. General Reynolds will proceed to-morrow and next day to take position on General Burnside's left and rear, extending from Rectortown to White Plains. General Porter's corps will, on Thursday, move by the Aldie pike through Middleburg to White Plains. General Couch will remain to-morrow at Ashby's Gap. General headquarters will be established to-morrow at some point between Millville and Rectortown.

I am, general, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

GEO. D. RUGGLES,
Colonel and Assistant Chief of Staff.

HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE POTOMAC,
November 4, 1862.

Brig. Gen. A. PLEASONTON,
Commanding Cavalry Division:

General McClellan directs me to say that General Burnside's command will move early in the morning and take the line between Piedmont and Salem. Reynolds takes the line in rear and on the left of Burnside from Rectortown to White Plains. Couch and Porter will remain where they are to-morrow, unless otherwise ordered hereafter. Franklin closes upon the Aldie pike. Headquarters will be near Rectortown on the road from Millville to Rectortown. Please push as far forward as you safely can toward Chester Gap, and the road thence to Culpeper Court-House, and inform him how much more cavalry is necessary to carry out his purposes, bearing in mind what he told you to-day. Please report as early as possible what Averell's losses have been.

A. V. COLBURN,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

[19.]

HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE POTOMAC,
November 4, 1862—8.45 p.m.

Brig. Gen. GEORGE D. BAYARD,
Commanding Cavalry Brigade:

GENERAL: The commanding general directs you to detach one of your weakest regiments to scout to-morrow and next day between Upperville and Berlin, and to protect our wagon trains from straggling parties of the enemy's cavalry, should such parties make their appearance in the neighborhood of the roads between the two places mentioned.

I am, general, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

GEO. D. RUGGLES,
Colonel and Assistant Chief of Staff.

[19.]

HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE POTOMAC,
November 4, 1862.

Brig. Gen. G. D. BAYARD,
Commanding Cavalry Brigade:

The commanding general directs me to inform you that General Burnside's command will move early in the morning, and take the line between Piedmont and Salem. Reynolds will take position on the left and rear of Burnside, extending from Rectortown to White Plains. Franklin will take position on the Aldie pike east of Upperville. Porter and Couch will remain where they are to-morrow. Headquarters will be on the road from Millville to Rectortown, near Rectortown. You will please move with your brigade at daylight to Salem, and take a position in front of it, so as to be in readiness to support Pleasonton or to move on Warrenton. Please leave a staff officer at headquarters to communicate orders to you. It is important that you start at the time ordered.

A. V. COLBURN,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

[19.]

HEADQUARTERS FOURTH ARMY CORPS,
Yorktown, Va., November 4, 1862.

Major-General Dix,
Commanding Seventh Military Department:

SIR: It was reported on the night of the 28th ultimo that a force of rebel cavalry was coming down on a raid to Williamsburg. It was afterward ascertained that such was the fact, and 800 finely mounted rebel cavalry, under Colonel Shingler, approached to within a short distance of the town. The Fifth Pennsylvania Cavalry were, however, on the alert. They captured a rebel picket five miles out and made such dispositions that no attack was made. On Sunday last (2d instant) the Fifth captured a lieutenant of the Fifteenth Virginia Cavalry, killed his companion, and captured both their horses, some fourteen miles above Williamsburg. I report the above as an evidence of improvement, and to say that there is in the Fifth Pennsylvania Cavalry the material for a very good regiment.

I remain, respectfully, your most obedient servant,

E. D. KEYES,
Major-General, Commanding Fourth Corps.

HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE POTOMAC,
Camp near Rectortown, November 5, 1862.

Mr. ECKERT,
Washington, D. C.:

The general desires that you have the telegraph pushed forward to this place as soon as possible, by the railroad line; also that arrangements be made to repair the line on the Orange and Alexandria road. Pleasonton had an elegant cavalry fight to day with a superior force of cavalry and whipped them beautifully. Colonels Gregg, Davis, and Farnsworth, and all the troops, did splendidly. Davis' horse was killed under him.

E. P. HALSTED,
Captain and Assistant Adjutant-General.

HEADQUARTERS FIRST DIVISION, FIRST ARMY CORPS,
In the Field, November 5, 1862.

[Colonel Hofmann:]

Colonel: The general is ordered to Rectortown through Millville. Join him as quick as you can.

I am, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

E. P. HALSTED,
Captain and Assistant Adjutant-General.
Rectortown, you will see by the map, lies on the railroad. We are to reach it to-night if possible. I have your brigade mail.

Respectfully,

[19.]

E. P. HALSTED.

HEADQUARTERS FIFTH ARMY CORPS,
Snickersville, Va., November 5, 1862.

Col. GEORGE D. RUGGLES,
Assistant Chief of Staff:

COLONEL: The only indication of change on opposite side of the river apparent this morning is the display of eight additional pieces (two separate batteries), which came to vicinity of the ford and are posted so as not to be seen from our points of observation. General Tyler reports the fires opposite Ashby's Gap as increasing during the night. I send my wagon trains in advance to-day sufficiently far to be out of the way to-morrow, and at daybreak shall have all in motion. The advance will be in immediate vicinity of White Plains to-morrow night. A deserter from Ewell's force just in from opposite side says Ewell was at Millwood last night, and he was told that Hill (D. H.) was on this side of the river near Ashby's Gap. This 11 a. m. is reported five battalions of the usual size relieved the enemy's pickets this morning and was followed by eight guns. The deserter states Longstreet is said to be down about Culpeper Court-House.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

F. J. PORTER,
Major-General.

HEADQUARTERS FIFTH ARMY CORPS,
Snickersville, Va., November 5, 1862—2 p. m.

Col. GEORGE D. RUGGLES,
Aide and Assistant Chief of Staff:

Your dispatch of 12.15 just received.* I have previously sent a report under the impression headquarters had moved. To-day eighteen guns have been exhibited in front of the ferry, and six are visible. The same exhibition of force to-day that we have seen heretofore, variously estimated at 4,000 to 6,000 men, and if there is a regular relief daily the number is double. After five battalions, of about 400 each, had emerged from the woods in front of the ford the woods seemed filled with them. The camp remains the same, with wagons loaded with hay and wagons hauling forage to it. Every officer says there is no apparent change, and reports come from various points and officers from generals down. A deserter from Ewell's division (so he says) stated at 11 a. m. that it was at Millwood last night, and he was told that D. H. Hill was on this side of the Shenandoah near Ashby's Gap. He says he came through Trap Gap to avoid Hill. Longstreet, he says, is at or near Culpeper Court-House, but does not know, and Hill (A. P.) is at Berryville. The same report comes from the Forty-fourth New York in regard to enemy's apparent force. General Tyler says the fires opposite Ashby's Gap increased last night. I have sent my trains to Middleburg (fifteen miles), Humphreys guarding. This is to enable the infantry to get well forward to White Plains (twenty-three miles) to-morrow. The citizens of Loudoun County (or, perhaps, the Loudoun County Cavalry, returned through some passes north of us) have appeared on the road hence to Harper's Ferry, and attacked one train. They roam the road unarmed, but at favorable opportunity resume their arms concealed on the roadside. I have sent cavalry on the road as far as Neersville. The command marches at daylight via Mountville, Middleburg, &c., toward White Plains. Humphreys will be there; the others close by. I think it advisable to warn all messengers against mounted citizens.

I am, general, very respectfully,

F. J. PORTER,
Major-General.

CIRCULAR.

HEADQUARTERS FIFTH ARMY CORPS,
Camp near Snickersville, Va., November 5, 1862.

Humphreys' division will march to-day as soon as practicable; take the road to White Plains via Philomont, Mountville, Middleburg, &c., and camp to-night between Mountville and Middleburg. To-morrow he will move to and camp near White Plains. In order to relieve the road to-morrow, all wagons of the other divisions which will not be required for the service of the troops to-night will be sent with Humphreys' train under the general direction of the chief quartermaster, Butterfield leading. Butterfield will march at 5.30 to-morrow, taking the same road as Humphreys, and camp as near as possible to him. Sykes will withdraw his command from the gap in time to follow Butterfield and camp near him. Unless otherwise directed the trains which do not go to-day of these two divisions will precede their commands. The train of the Forty-fourth New York will rejoin its brigade early to-day and the regiment by dark. No communication hereafter with Harper's Ferry, and wagons now on the way must join to-night.

By command of Maj. Gen. F. J. Porter:

FRED. T. LOCKE,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE POTOMAC,
Camp near Rectortown, November 5, 1862—11.05 p. m.

Brig. Gen. A. PLEASONTON:

General McClellan directs that you concentrate the whole of Averell's brigade with your own and move upon Little Washington and Sperryville, as it is possible that the infantry and trains of the enemy may still be passing through Thornton's Gap. From Sperryville you are authorized to move upon Culpeper or any point between that and Warrenton where in your judgment you can be of service. Should you be satisfied that there is no large force in Culpeper or north of it, a reconnaissance as far as the line of the Rapidan will be of great value; in any event it is important to know whether the enemy hold the line of the Rappahannock in force. General Sigel reports that his cavalry at New Baltimore were attacked by and repulsed the enemy's cavalry and that the attempt was renewed to-day by 1,500 cavalry and four guns with similar results. General Burnside will be instructed to send to the vicinity of Markham all the cavalry that may be necessary. Averell's entire force can be withdrawn without waiting for other cavalry to arrive. Your dispatches of 6.30 and 8 p. m. are this moment received. Leave nothing undone to cut off the enemy's trains. The general gives you carte blanche, provided you do not unduly risk the loss of your command. Bayard will be instructed to-morrow to move toward Warrenton. When you reach Sperryville the general desires that you send him the latest news. He will send infantry in the direction of Culpeper as soon as possible, but do not calculate on it. Depend upon your own resources. You will be kept fully posted as to the position of the troops.

A. V. COLBURN,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE POTOMAC,
Camp near Rectortown, November 5, 1862.

Major-General Sigel,

Thoroughfare Gap:

General McClellan directs me to inform you that the troops are in the position indicated in my dispatch of last evening. General Franklin's corps will be in the vicinity of and in front of White Plains to-morrow. General Pleasonton, with his brigade of cavalry, met a superior force of the enemy's cavalry at Barbee's to-day, drove them back, and the last report we had from [him] said that he was following the enemy toward Chester Gap.

P. S., 11.20 p. m.—The general desires me to add that he has just received a dispatch from General Pleasonton, near Sandy Hook, who says that he thinks the enemy's cavalry that he defeated to-day are going to Warrenton, although they made for Chester Gap, and that the greater part of their infantry have passed Sandy Hook. He apprehends that they may attempt to strike you a blow near Warrenton. General McClellan thinks it may be well for you to look out in that direction, although he is in position to give you any support that may be necessary. General Pleasonton will probably be thrown in rear of Warrenton to-morrow.

A. V. COLBURN,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE POTOMAC,
Camp near Rectortown, November 6, 1862.

His Excellency A. LINCOLN,
President United States of America:

I have this minute received a dispatch from General Pleasonton near the mouth of Chester Gap.† His information indicates that Jackson is there with his force to defend it. Thirty-six of the enemy's dead in the fight of yesterday have been found on the field.

G. B. McCLELLAN,
Major-General, Commanding.

HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE POTOMAC,
Camp near Rectortown, November 6, 1862.

Brig. Gen. H. HAUPT,
Superintendent of Railroads:

General McClellan desires me to say that we are in possession of Warrenton. General Sickles has been directed to push troops forward to Warrenton Junction, and to cover any working parties that you may have on the railroad. The road should be put in running order as soon as possible, in order that the movement of the troops need not be delayed.

A. V. COLBURN,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE POTOMAC,
November 6, 1862—1.30 a. m.

Brigadier-General REYNOLDS,
Commanding First Corps:

GENERAL: The commanding general directs you to move your corps to-morrow as far as possible in the direction of Warrenton, keeping your command well closed up.

I am, general, very respectfully, your obedient servant,
GEO. D. RUGGLES,
Colonel and Assistant Chief of Staff.

P. S.—If headquarters move to-morrow, they will be established in the neighborhood of your corps.

G. D. R.,
Colonel, &c.

HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE POTOMAC,
Camp near Rectortown, November 6, 1862—2.30 p. m.

Brig. Gen. JOHN F. REYNOLDS,
Commanding First Corps:

Your dispatch of 12.30 is received, and General McClellan desires me to say that he has reliable information that General Lee is at Gordonsville and that G. W. Smith is at Warrenton. It is said that there is no force at Warrenton except cavalry, and there is reason to believe that such is the case. General Sigel has been ordered to move two divisions to New Baltimore to-day, which will be in position to support you. If you require more troops than your own corps to take Warrenton, you are authorized to call for any assistance you require from any troops in your vicinity; but you will remain in command of all, unless General Burnside should arrive. I send this by a staff officer, who will remain with you for the purpose of bringing any communication you may have to send to the commanding general. The general is anxious that you take possession of Warrenton, provided the enemy is not too strong for you to accomplish it.

A. V. COLBURN,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

Major-General COUCH,
Commanding Second Corps:

GENERAL: The commanding general directs you to move your command as soon after daylight this morning as possible in the direction of Rectortown and Waterloo. You will please follow General Burnside's movement, to support him, if necessary. He is directed to move upon Waterloo and to occupy that place with at least one division. General Reynolds will move to-day as far as possible in the direction of Warrenton. General Franklin will move to-day to White Plains. General Bayard moves to-day to Warrenton, to turn it and to gain, if possible, the line of the Rappahannock. General Pleasonton will move to Little Washington and Sperryville, and thence to Culpeper or to such point between that place and Warrenton as he may find advisable. General Porter will move to-day as far as possible in the direction of White Plains.

I am, general, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

GEO. D. RUGGLES,
Colonel and Assistant Chief of Staff.

WHITE PLAINS, November 6, 1862—3.30 p.m.

Col. G. D. RUGGLES,
Assistant Chief of Staff:

I have to report for the information of the commanding general my arrival at this place and the following location of the troops: Humphreys here; Butterfield five miles this side of Middleburg (nine miles distant); Sykes immediately behind him. The last two cannot get farther to-night on account of the trains in advance of them. Both will be here early to-morrow. I left Snickersville at 8.30, at which time the rear guard was left in the gap and Sykes was getting into motion, trains in advance. His report of the appearances on opposite [side] of river was “no change.” My aides saw their guns and troops this morning. The pickets report the rolling of vehicles to the right or left all night, ceasing before daybreak. The enemy’s pickets were very watchful. At 12 m. I was in sight of the gap, and all was quiet; the rear guard was coming down the mountain. A Confederate surgeon from Aldie applied to me for a pass to Winchester, which he “believed was in our possession, and by this time much within our lines.” I would not give it, and required him to return to Aldie for three days. His impression was derived from Confederates passing by. Yesterday some 2,000 paroled prisoners and convalescents were sent up from Harper’s Ferry to join the army. They were (they said) in charge of two officers. They straggled and strung from my camp to Harper’s Ferry. Their presence delayed the marching [of] the rear guard. I tried to protect them and urge them forward, and all masses will arrive safe in camp. I had to turn back to-day wagons going to Harper’s Ferry for supplies from corps in front, and hurry up some behind Snickersville. I believe the road is clear, except I am informed that the rebel cavalry have been in the woods all the time, and belong to the home guard of Loudoun County. Franklin is here with his corps. I hear that Reynolds marched to-day. I believe I am rationed for five to seven days with bread, sugar, &c., and beef many days longer. I send Lieutenant McIntyre for orders.

I am, general, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

F. J. PORTER,
Major-General, Commanding.

WHITE PLAINS, November 6, 1862—5.50 p.m.

Colonel RUGGLES,
Assistant Chief of Staff:

I avail myself of the opportunity of two signal officers going to headquarters to report arrival here, though I did so by an aide this afternoon. But lest there should be a failure to reach the commanding general, I repeat in part my letter of to-day: Humphreys is here; Butterfield and Sykes about five miles toward Middleburg; trains here; have five to six days' provisions, and generally four days' grain. Nothing new in rear; all quiet. Enemy still the same (apparently) at Snicker's Ford. Vehicles were heard running all night.

Very respectfully,

F. J. PORTER,
Major-General.

WHITE PLAINS, VA., November 6, 1862.

[Colonel Ruggles:]

COLONEL: I send Lieutenant Weld for orders. All my command is up. I notified you of the number of days' provisions the trains carried or was on hand. It was about all they could carry. I shall have all that I can get and require (probably) in the course of a few hours. Grain will be scarce. Please send me order, if any there be, in writing, relating to movements.

Very respectfully,

F. J. PORTER,
Major-General.

HEADQUARTERS FIFTH ARMY CORPS, Snicker's Gap, November 6, 1862—8 a. m.

General GEORGE SYKES,
Commanding Division, Snicker's Gap:

GENERAL: I shall move on slowly and expect to be with Butterfield's rear till late to-day. He is all in motion. Monteith has just returned from you. Just before the command leaves, please learn if any of the enemy's troops have been seen and in what force. I learn about 2,000 unarmed men were started yesterday from Harper's Ferry for this army. Many if not most of them have passed. I have sent to hasten up the remainder. Please give directions to the rear guard to push them up, sending those for Couch to Overton, Burnside on his left, Reynolds on his left, near White Plains. Cavalry went down the road yesterday (300) to look after guerrillas. If I meet them to-day shall try to put them in your rear. Wherever you camp to-night, push on early to-morrow, and I will have parties to conduct you to camp. From reports received the impression exists at headquarters that the main force of the enemy has gone south. Their artillery has been heard rolling past Ashby's Gap. Please direct the cavalry to rejoin to-night, or such portion of it as you do not require for rear guard. I will be near White Plains by dark.

Yours, truly,

F. J. PORTER,
Major-General.

HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE POTOMAC, November 6, 1862—12:45 a. m.

Maj. Gen. AMBROSE E. BURNSIDE:

General McClellan directs me to say that Pleasonton has been ordered to move in the morning to Sperryville and Little Washington with his entire command. You will please furnish the cavalry necessary to watch Manassas Gap from Devin's regiment. The infantry brigade sent to-day will remain at the gap until further orders. Watch your immediate front with your own cavalry. Bayard has been ordered to move toward Warrenton and endeavor to turn it, and if possible to gain the line of the Rappahannock. Stoneman has been directed to picket his front with his own cavalry and to connect with Sigel. General Couch has been ordered to move toward Rectortown, to follow you up and support you. You will please move in the direction of Waterloo, occupying that position by at least a division to-night, with the remainder of your command closed up as much as possible. You will draw your supplies from Salem and White Plains. Please send a staff officer to headquarters as soon as your command moves. Porter has been ordered to move in the morning by White Plains to support you. If there is no sign of the enemy at Manassas, you are authorized to withdraw the brigade, and to withdraw the cavalry at night.

A. V. COLBURN,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

[19.]

HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE POTOMAC,
November 6, 1862—11.45 a. m.

Major-General SIGEL,

Commanding Eleventh Corps:

GENERAL: The commanding general desires you to occupy New Baltimore with two divisions of your corps, and to hold Thoroughfare Gap with one division. General Burnside is moving to-day with his command toward Waterloo and Warrenton. General Reynolds' corps is following toward Warrenton. General Couch's corps is following General Burnside to support him if necessary. General Franklin's corps will move to-day to White Plains. General Porter's corps will leave Snicker's Gap and proceed to-day in the same direction. General Pleasonton is pushing forward to Little Washington, Sperryville, and Culpeper, or some point, if found more advisable, between that place and Warrenton. General Bayard is moving on Warrenton to turn it, and to gain, if possible, the line of the Rappahannock.

I am, general, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

GEO. D. RUGGLES,
Colonel and Assistant Chief of Staff.

P. S.—The commanding general has just received reliable information that General G. W. Smith is at Warrenton, General Lee at Gordonsville, and that a captain is commanding the post at Culpeper.

G. D. R.,
Colonel, &c.

[19.]

HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE POTOMAC,
Camp near Rectortown, November 6, 1862—9.30 p. m.

Major-General SIGEL,

Commanding Eleventh Army Corps:

General McClellan directs me to inform you that we are in possession of Warrenton. He desires that you hold your troops in their present position until further orders, but be ready to move on the shortest notice.

A. V. COLBURN,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

[19.]
Maj. Gen. H. W. Slocum,

Commanding Defenses Harper’s Ferry:

GENERAL: The commanding general directs me to inform you that from the best information that can be obtained he is of opinion that there is very little force of the enemy remaining in the Winchester valley. A small force was reported yesterday in front of Snicker’s Gap. Nothing has been heard from there this morning. The general desires you to communicate with General Morell, in order that all the available cavalry belonging to your command and to his may be sent out at once to scout toward Winchester, Charlestown, and Martinsburg. Please communicate immediately the result of the reconnaissances herein ordered.

I am, general, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

GEO. D. RUGGLES,

Colonel and Assistant Chief of Staff.

HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE POTOMAC,
Camp near Rectortown, November 6, 1862.

Brig. Gen. D. E. Sickles,

Commanding Division:

General McClellan directs me to inform you that two corps (Burnside’s and Reynolds’) are moving on Warrenton and Waterloo; they will hardly be able to reach Warrenton to-night. General Sigel has been directed to send two divisions to New Baltimore to-day. Bayard with his cavalry brigade is moving on Warrenton. Pleasonton with a division of cavalry is moving toward Thornton’s Gap. The general desires that you cover the repairs of the Orange and Alexandria Railroad as far to the front as possible.

A. V. COLBURN,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

[19.]

P. S.—The general commanding directs me to add that he has this minute received reliable information that General Lee is at Gordonsville. General Smith is in command at Warrenton. It is reported that there are no troops at that place, except cavalry. The post at Culpeper is commanded by a captain, indicating that there is no large force there.

A. V. COLBURN,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE POTOMAC,
Camp near Rectortown, November 6, 1862—9 p.m.

Brig. Gen. D. E. Sickles,

Manassas Junction:

General McClellan directs me to say that we are in possession of Warrenton, and he desires that you push a portion of your force forward to Warrenton Junction and furnish all the assistance in your power in repairing the railroad.

A. V. COLBURN,
Assistant Adjutant-General.
HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE POTOMAC,
November 6, 1862—1 a. m.

Brigadier-General STONEMAN,

Salem:

The commanding general directs me to inform you that General Bayard has been directed to move to Warrenton to endeavor to turn it and to gain if possible the line of the Rappahannock. You will therefore be obliged to picket your front with your own cavalry. Endeavor to maintain your communication with General Sigel's cavalry on your left and with that of the Ninth Army Corps on your right.

I am, general, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

GEO. D. RUGGLES,

Colonel and Assistant Chief of Staff.

HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE POTOMAC,
Camp near Rectortown, November 6, 1862.

Brig. Gen. A. PLEASONTON,
Commanding Cavalry Division:

General McClellan says do your best to hold Jackson in check if he is there, or at Loura [Luray] if he goes there, but do not lose sight of the importance of cutting the Loura [Luray] road, which is a matter of great necessity. Reynolds will probably be in Warrenton to-night or early to-morrow morning. Please send a party to communicate with Reynolds at that point to-morrow morning, but tell them to be careful and not get caught, as we may not gain possession before to-morrow.

A. V. COLBURN,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

A. V. COLBURN,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE POTOMAC,
Camp near Rectortown, November 6, 1862.

Brig. Gen. A. PLEASONTON,
Commanding Cavalry Division:

The general commanding desires me to inform you that he has reliable information that Lee is at Gordonsville. G. W. Smith is in command at Warrenton, and it is reported that there is nothing but cavalry there. A captain is in command at Culpeper, so it is reasonable to suppose that the force there is small. Burnside and Reynolds are moving on Warrenton, but will probably not reach there before to-morrow. Burnside's right will rest on Waterloo. Sigel sends two divisions to-day to New Baltimore. Franklin at White Plains and Couch near you.

A. V. COLBURN,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE POTOMAC,
November 6, 1862—12:45 a. m.

Brigadier-General BAYARD,

Salem:

GENERAL: General Pleasonton has been ordered to move to-morrow to Little Washington and Sperryville, and thence to Culpeper or any point between it and Warrenton, as he may find advisable. As soon as you are joined by your battery please move in the direction of Warrenton, endeavoring to get to the west of and behind that place, so as to cut off whatever may be there. General Sigel reports his cavalry at New Baltimore were attacked yesterday by the enemy's cavalry, who were repulsed. The attempt was renewed today with 1,500 cavalry and four guns. The enemy were again driven back. If you are able to gain possession of Warrenton and to cut off whatever forces are in front of it, at once reconnoiter and hold if possible the line of the Rappahannock as far as Kelly's Ford. If you gain possession of the line you will be promptly re-enforced by a large force of artillery and infantry. Be sure to communicate frequently. Run no undue risk, but undertake anything that promises successful results.

By command of Major-General McClellan:

GEO. D. RUGGLES,

Colonel and Assistant Chief of Staff.

[19.]

SPECIAL ORDER.

HARRISBURG, PA., November 7, 1862.

Brig. Gen. Andrew Porter is hereby appointed provost-marshal-gen-
Canby are assigned to the command of the camps of drafted men at Philadelphia and Pittsburg, respectively.

By order of the Secretary of War:

L. THOMAS,

Adjutant-General.

[19.]

HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE POTOMAC,
Near Rectortown, November 7, 1862.

Brigadier-General HAUTP,
Superintendent Military Railroads, Washington:

The commanding general directs me to say that Gainesville will have to be his depot for all the troops until the Orange and Alexandria Railroad can be repaired. Please repair the road to Gainesville from the junction so that it may be in good running order. The troops will be moved down as rapidly as possible to the Orange and Alexandria road. Please repair the Broad Run bridge at once, and be ready to put the rest of Orange and Alexandria road in order, as far as the Rappahannock, as fast as it is covered by the troops. Warrenton is in our possession.

GEO. D. RUGGLES,

Colonel and Assistant Chief of Staff.

[19.]

HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE POTOMAC,
November 7, 1862—4 p. m.

Brig. Gen. H. HAUTP,
Superintendent Military Railroads:

Your dispatch of yesterday just received. As no cars reached this army until 10 a. m. today, I do not comprehend your statement that cars are not unloaded with sufficient promptitude.

It does not look well for the future working of the road that you anticipate accusations of delays that have not yet occurred. The delay thus far has resulted from the non-arrival of the cars. Wagon trains have been waiting since yesterday morning for them. At 12 m. to-day only three cars had reached Salem, and eleven White Plains.

G. B. McCLELLAN,
Major-General, Commanding Army of the Potomac.

[19.]

HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE POTOMAC,
November 7, 1862.

Maj. Gen. A. E. BURNSIDE,
Commanding Left Wing:

General McClellan directs me to say that Piatt's brigade has been relieved at Piedmont by a brigade from Couch's corps, and has been ordered to join his division by way of Salem, stopping at that point for commissary supplies. The squadron of cavalry will have to remain at Piedmont until some other cavalry can be found to relieve it.
General Bayard has been ordered to scout the line of the Rappahannock from Waterloo to the Orange and Alexandria Railroad; and the general wishes that, with Stoneman's cavalry and any other you may have at hand, you will scout the right flank from Waterloo to Orleans.

A. V. COLBURN,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

[19.]

HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE POTOMAC,
November 7, 1862.

Brig. Gen. J. F. REYNOLDS,
Commanding First Corps:

General McClellan directs me to say that General Bayard, with his cavalry, has been ordered to scout on the line of the Rappahannock from Waterloo to the line of the Orange and Alexandria Railroad, and that General Burnside, with Stoneman's cavalry and any other he may have, has been ordered to scout the right flank from Waterloo to Orleans. The general directs that you use your cavalry in the best manner you can to obtain information and to keep your flanks scouted.

A. V. COLBURN,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

[19.]

HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE POTOMAC,
November 7, 1862—3.30 p. m.

Major-General SUMNER,
Commanding Second Corps:

GENERAL: The commanding general directs you to move your corps to the intersection of the direct road from Salem to the Cat-tail Branch of Cedar Run with the Centerville and Warrenton turnpike. This movement will be commenced to-morrow and completed the following day. The general desires the march for to-morrow to be an easy one.
Upon arriving at the Centerville and Warrenton pike you will please camp your command on the right of it, and on the Cat-tail Branch of Cedar Run. General Porter's command will go into camp about the same time on the left of the turnpike at the same point. General Franklin will move day after to-morrow to New Baltimore. General Burnside's command is posted in neighborhood of Warrenton and Waterloo. General Reynolds is in front of Warrenton. General Bayard is probably over the Rappahannock in the direction of Waterloo. General Pleasonton is probably near Sperryville. Your depot for supplies will be Gainesville until further orders. Supplies from there will be obtained by Centerville and Warrenton turnpike.

I am, general, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

GEO. D. RUGGLES,
Colonel and Assistant Chief of Staff.

P. S.—General headquarters will move to-morrow to Warrenton or vicinity. I inclose a sketch of the country for reference to-morrow and next day.

G. D. R.

PP. S.—The general desires me to add that the brigade at Piedmont will follow your command as a rear guard, either by way of Rectortown or by way of Salem, as you may judge best. The route by Salem, however, is deemed preferable. The cavalry of General Burnside, near Manassas Gap, will follow the movement of the entire command, and join General Burnside.

GEO. D. RUGGLES,
Colonel, &c.

WHITE PLAINS, November 7, 1862—12 m.

General MCCLELLAN,
Near Rectortown:

Sykes is in, and reports the enemy the same at Snicker's Ferry as heretofore. Scouts followed him a long distance off. Stragglers are coming in from Harper's Ferry and report a large number there to come up from the Alexandria camp; also wagons. Enemy will certainly take a large number, and I recommend cavalry be sent to protect them. Mine have been and still are driving the men up.

F. J. PORTER,
Major-General.

SPECIAL ORDERS, ¶ HEADQUARTERS FIFTH ARMY CORPS,
No. 170. ¶ Camp near White Plains, Va., November 7, 1862.

4. This corps will move to-morrow to New Baltimore via Georgetown in the following order: First Division (Butterfield's), 6 a. m.; Second Division (Sykes'), 7.30 a. m.; Third Division (Humphreys'), 8.30 a. m. The baggage wagons will move in the rear of Third Division in the order of the divisions. The ammunition and supply trains will follow in the same order in rear of the baggage trains, the officers of the quartermaster's and subsistence departments procuring such grain and subsistence as can be drawn at this depot before it is the turn of the supply trains to enter the column. If grain is to be had here it will be drawn, and three days' placed in each of the supply and ordnance wagons. Supplies will be drawn after to-morrow from Gainesville by the pike to Warrenton. A guard will accompany the ordnance and supply trains.

By command of Maj. Gen. F. J. Porter:

FRED. T. LOCKE,
Assistant Adjutant-General.
HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE POTOMAC,
November 7, 1862—2 p.m.

Major-General FRANKLIN,
Commanding Sixth Corps:

GENERAL: The commanding general directs you to move your corps day after to-morrow to New Baltimore by way of Georgetown, so as to arrive that day at the first-mentioned place. Your supplies will, after leaving White Plains, and until further orders, be drawn from Gainesville by the turnpike to Warrenton. General Porter moves to-morrow to New Baltimore, and the following day to the Cat-tail Branch of Cedar Run, about one mile and a half northeast of Warrenton, and will encamp on the left of the turnpike. General headquarters will move to-morrow to Warrenton or vicinity by the direct road.

I am, general, very respectfully, your obedient servant,
GEO. D. RUGGLES,
Colonel and Assistant Chief of Staff.

HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE POTOMAC,
Rectortown, November 7, 1862.

Major-General SIGEL,
Commanding Eleventh Corps, Gainesville, Va.:

General McClellan directs me to say that the disposition of your troops, as represented in your communication of to-day, is approved, and he desires that they remain so posted until further orders. General Porter's corps moves to-morrow to New Baltimore, and General Franklin's to the same place the day after. Porter, on the next day, will move to the vicinity of Warrenton, and Franklin the day after.
Couch will move direct on Warrenton to-morrow, and headquarters will move by the same route and camp near Warrenton to-morrow night.

A. V. COLBURN,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE POTOMAC,
Camp near Rectortown, November 7, 1862—11 a.m.

Major-General SIGEL,
Commanding Eleventh Corps:

General McClellan desires that you send a portion of your cavalry to scour the country from Thoroughfare to Snicker's and Ashby's Gaps, in rear of the army. Any cavalry that you have in the direction of New Baltimore can be withdrawn from there, as there are troops in front.

A. V. COLBURN,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE POTOMAC,
November 7, 1862—6 p.m.

Maj. Gen. F. SIGEL,
Commanding Eleventh Corps:

Your dispatch of to-day received. General McClellan desires that you will send a cavalry force, if possible, toward Fredericksburg, to ascertain and report the damage done to the railroad bridges across Accokeek and Potomac Creeks, and their exact present condition.

A. V. COLBURN,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

[19.]

HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE POTOMAC,
November 7, 1862.

Brig. Gen. D. E. SICKLES,
Commanding Division, Manassas Junction:

General Burnside's corps, together with Whipple's and Stoneman's divisions, are in, and in the vicinity of, Warrenton. Two divisions of Sigel's corps are at New Baltimore. Porter's and Couch's corps will move to New Baltimore to-morrow and Franklin's the day after, and will proceed the next day from there to the vicinity of Warrenton. If, as you represent, there is a large force at Warrenton Junction, the commanding general desires you to move very cautiously. The main object of your movement in that direction is to cover the reconstruction of the bridges on the Orange and Alexandria Railroad. Headquarters to-morrow night will be in, or in the vicinity of, Warrenton. Your dispatches heretofore have been very clear and have given much valuable information. The general desires that you will continue to get all the information you can, and will communicate frequently and fully.

A. V. COLBURN,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

[19.]

HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE POTOMAC,
November 7, 1862.

Brig. Gen. G. D. BAYARD,
Commanding Cavalry Brigade:

The general commanding desires that you scout the country on the line of the Rappahannock from Waterloo to the Orange and Alexandria Railroad and, as far as possible, toward Fredericksburg, and that you will push patrols as far as safe on the farther side of the Rappahannock to pick up information.

A. V. COLBURN,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

[19.]

HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE POTOMAC,
November 7, 1862—6 p. m.

Brigadier-General BAYARD,
Commanding Cavalry Brigade:

General McClellan desires that you will send a force down the Richmond, Fredericksburg and Potomac Railroad to ascertain the condition of the bridges across Accokeek and Potomac Creeks. Report immediately the amount of damage done to them and their exact condition at present.

A. V. COLBURN,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

CIRCULAR.] HEADQUARTERS FIFTH ARMY CORPS,
Camp near New Baltimore, Va., November 8, 1862.

The command will march to-morrow as follows: First Division, 5.30 a. m.; Second Division, 7 a. m.; Third Division, 8 a. m. It will camp on the left of the road and this side of Warrenton on the Cat-tail Branch of Cedar Run, as represented in the accompanying sketch,* and each command will camp in the order named above, right toward Warrenton. The particular portion of ground assigned to each division will be designated by an officer of the staff. The baggage trains of each division will follow in the order named in rear of the whole; the supply trains will follow the rear baggage train and in the order of the divisions.

The commands must be prepared for a longer march, as circumstances may compel it. Headquarters will be at Mr. Horner's house, to the right of Butterfield's division.

By command of Maj. Gen. F. J. Porter:

FRED. T. LOCKE,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

---

CIRCULAR.

HEADQUARTERS FIFTH ARMY CORPS,
November 8, 1862—8 p. m.

Instead of moving as directed in circular of this afternoon, the First Division will march at 6 a.m.; Second Division will march at 8.30 a.m.; Third Division will march at 10 a.m. Each division will be followed by its train, which, if in the way of the rear division, will be required to take the right of the road. The troops will take to the fields on the left of the road. The camps and wagons will be on the left of the road. The right of the road is assigned to Sumner's corps. Every effort must be made to-morrow to procure supplies (forage and provisions), which can be obtained at Gainesville.

By command of Maj. Gen. F. J. Porter:

FRED. T. LOCKE,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

---

CIRCULAR.

HEADQUARTERS SIXTH CORPS,
November 8, 1862.

The Third Division (General Newton commanding) will march at 6.30 a.m. to-morrow, proceeding by the Georgetown road to New Baltimore, where it will halt. The First Division (General Brooks commanding) will follow the division of General Newton to the same point. The Second Division (General Smith commanding) will march at 7 a.m. on the Warrenton road to the same point.

By command of Major-General Franklin:

O. D. GREENE,
Assistant Adjutant-General and Chief of Staff.

---

HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE POTOMAC,
November 8, 1862—4.50 p. m.

Major-General SIGEL,
Commanding Eleventh Corps:

GENERAL: The commanding general directs you to occupy Thoroughfare Gap with one division, and Hopewell and Aldie with a brigade at each place. The rest of your corps will remain as now posted. He also directs you to keep your cavalry well out, and to scout thoroughly from your position to Leesburg on the right and to General Heintzelman's troops on the left.

* Omitted.

I am, general, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

GEO. D. RUGGLES,
Colonel and Assistant Chief of Staff.

HEADQUARTERS FOURTH ARMY CORPS,
Yorktown, Va., November 8, 1862.

Brigadier-General NAGLEE,
Commanding Brigade:

GENERAL: The major-general commanding the Fourth Army Corps has instructed me to inform you that he has this day left Yorktown on leave of absence for two weeks, and that during his absence you will assume command of all the forces at Yorktown, Williamsburg, and Gloucester.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

C. C. SUYDAM,
Lieutenant-Colonel and Assistant Adjutant-General.

SPECIAL ORDERS,
HDQRS. FIRST DIVISION, FIRST CORPS,
No. 155. November 9, 1862.

3. Col. W. P. Wainwright, Seventy-sixth New York Volunteers, having reported for duty, is hereby assigned to command the Second Brigade of this division, now commanded by Lieutenant-Colonel Hofmann.

By command of Brigadier-General Doubleday:

E. P. HALSTED,
Captain and Assistant Adjutant-General.

HEADQUARTERS NINTH ARMY CORPS,
Gaskins' Mill, Va., November 9, 1862—5.45 p. m.

Major-General PARKE,
Chief of Staff, Army Headquarters:

GENERAL: Nothing further received from General Pleasonton. Whipple's scouts report no signs of the enemy's cavalry toward Flint Hill, &c., to-day. The signal officers have been trying all day to establish communication, but fail to attract attention to their flag, although they see the one near Warrenton distinctly. They will try to-night. I respectfully inclose copy of the orders to General Sturgis, hoping they will be approved. Have picketed a regiment between camp and Miller's Ford and toward Orleans to supply the place of Sturgis' division. Have also desired General Stoneman to furnish further assistance to Pleasonton or Sturgis if they require it. Forage in the neighborhood used up. Can I send wagons ten miles for it to-morrow?

Very respectfully,

O. B. WILLCOX,
Brigadier-General, Commanding Corps.
Brigadier-General STURGIS,

Commanding Second Division:

GENERAL: By direction of the general commanding I send you here-with a copy of General Pleasonton’s dispatch.* You will please pro-ceed with the least possible delay with the remaining brigade and artillery of your division and assume command of your whole division, so co-operating with General Pleasonton as will enable him to carry out his instructions. You will send the two regiments at Amissville to join General Ferrero at Jefferson. The general commanding relies upon your prompt and efficient services in this matter, as an important movement is pending. You will not wait for your wagons, but leave directions for them to follow with a rear guard.

I am, general, very respectfully,

ROBT. A. HUTCHINS,

Captain and Assistant Adjutant-General.

[19.]

HEADQUARTERS NINTH ARMY CORPS,
Gaskins’ Mill, November 9, 1862.

General PLEASONTON,

Commanding Cavalry Brigade:

GENERAL: Your dispatch is received.* In accordance with your wish I have ordered General Sturgis to Amissville with his other brigade and two batteries. He is directed to assume command of the division and co-operate with you, so as to enable you to carry out your instructions. He will send the two regiments at Amissville to Jefferson. Should you need further assistance, send a dispatch to me through General Stoneman at Waterloo, who has thrown a bridge over the river at that place.

I am, general, very respectfully,

O. B. WILLCOX,

Brigadier-General, Commanding Ninth Army Corps.

[19.]

HEADQUARTERS FIRST ARMY CORPS,
No. 48. November 10, 1862.

II. Upon being relieved by Brig. Gen. C. C. Augur from the com- mand of the First Division of this corps, Brig. Gen. A. Doubleday will resume command of his old brigade.

By command of Brigadier-General Reynolds:

C. KINGSBURY, JR.,

Assistant Adjutant-General.

[19.]

HEADQUARTERS FIRST ARMY CORPS,
No. 38. Near Warrenton, November 11, 1862.

II. The troops of this corps will move at 11 a. m. to-day. The Third Division will march to Fayetteville and take position at the cross-roads; * See 6.30 a. m., Vol. XIX, Part II, p. 118.
the Second Division will march to Bealeton and take position there; the First Division will march to Fayetteville and take position at that place.

[By command of Brigadier-General Reynolds:]

C. KINGSBURY, JR.,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

HEADQUARTERS FIFTH CORPS,
November 12, 1862.

Maj. Gen. JOSEPH HOOKER, U. S. Army,
Warren Hotel, Warrenton, Va.:

GENERAL: In compliance with what seems to be an order from the President of the United States, received from you this morning, I have the honor to state that I will be prepared to turn over the command of the Fifth Army Corps to you at 12 m. to-day, at which hour the division commanders of the corps will be present at these headquarters.

I remain, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

F. J. PORTER,
Commanding.

HEADQUARTERS FIFTH ARMY CORPS,
Camp near Warrenton, Va., November 12, 1862.

Brigadier-General BUTTERFIELD,
Commanding Division:

GENERAL: The commanding general desires your presence at these headquarters at 12 m. to-day to meet Major-General Hooker, who will then assume the command of the Fifth Army Corps.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

JOHN F. MCQUADE,
Captain and Aide-de-Camp.

(Same to Generals Sykes and Humphreys.)

GENERAL ORDERS,} HEADQUARTERS FIFTH ARMY CORPS,
No. 1. } Camp near Warrenton, Va., November 12, 1862.

In obedience to the orders from the President of the United States, dated War Department, November 10, 1862,* the undersigned assumes command of the Fifth Corps of the Army of the Potomac. The fol-

* See Vol. XIX, Part II, p. 569.
General D. P. Woodbury,
Engineer Brigade, near Navy-Yard, Washington:

General Burnside wishes to have the second pontoon train sent by water to Aquia Creek, as proposed by General Halleck.

C. B. Comstock,
Lieutenant of Engineers.

HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE POTOMAC,
November 15, 1862.

HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE POTOMAC,
November 16, 1862.

The troops of this corps will move to-morrow as follows: The First Division (Doubleday's) will march at 7 o'clock, taking the road toward Warrenton Junction, and thence following the Second Division toward Bristersburg. The Second Division (Gibbon's) will march at 7 a.m., taking the road from Bealeton toward Warrenton Junction and thence to Bristersburg. The Third Division (Meade's) will march at 8 a.m., and follow the First Division, its train in advance, to join the rear of Doubleday's train. Commanders of divisions will instruct their division quartermasters to cause their trains to move on the proper routes, and to draw up and park off the road whenever there is any halt caused by coming up with the troops. General Gibbon will leave an officer at the place where the road turns off to Bristersburg to direct the march of the column in rear, who will be replaced by an officer from the First Division to direct the Third Division. Lieutenant-Colonel Douty, First Maine Cavalry, will report with his regiment (except such portion as is now on duty at headquarters) to General Bayard, who is charged with covering the flank and rear of the column. General Gibbon will take the brigade of General Taylor with his division, directing its trains to move in advance of the brigade until it joins the column.

By order of Brigadier-General Reynolds:

C. Kingsbury, Jr.,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

GENERAL ORDERS, HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE POTOMAC,
No. 41.
November 16, 1862.

I. By virtue of General Orders, No. 184, paragraph IV, dated headquarters Army of the Potomac, near Warrenton, Va., November 14, 1862, the undersigned hereby takes command of the Third Corps, Army of the Potomac.

II. The following officers are announced as having been selected to fill the positions on the staff of this corps, viz: First Lieut. A. J. Alexander, Third Cavalry, acting assistant adjutant-general; Capt. W. E. Morford, assistant quartermaster of volunteers, chief quartermaster; Surg. George L. Pancoast, medical director; First Lieut. E. V. Sumner, First Cavalry, senior aide-de-camp.

III. The command of the First Division will, until further orders, devolve upon Brigadier-General Birney, volunteers.

George Stoneman,
Brigadier-General of Volunteers, Commanding Corps.
Brigadier-General PLEASONTON,
   Commanding Cavalry:

   GENERAL: I am informed by Major-General Hooker, commanding Center Grand Division, that a portion of your command will cover the advance of this corps to-morrow. The head of the column will leave its present encampment at 5 a.m. The rear, General Sykes' division, will be in motion at 8.30 a.m. I have ordered General Sykes, who will communicate with you. As General Sykes has very few mounted orderlies at his disposal, I would request you to send to him. His camp is on the turnpike about a mile from Warrenton toward New Baltimore.

   DANL. BUTTERFIELD,
   Brigadier-General, Commanding Corps.

   ---

   GENERAL ORDERS, Headquarters Fifth Army Corps, Commanding Corps, November 16, 1862.

   In accordance with General Orders, No. 1, headquarters Fifth Army Corps, the undersigned assumes command of the First Division. Col. J. B. Sweitzer, Sixty-second Pennsylvania Volunteers, will assume command of the Second Brigade. The following staff officers are announced and will be obeyed and respected accordingly. Capt. C. B. Mervine, assistant adjutant general; Capt. A. C. Weeden, acting assistant quartermaster; Capt. George A. Batchelder, acting division ordnance officer; First Lieut. C. H. Ross, aide-de-camp; First Lieut. T. C. Case, aide-de-camp.

   By command of Brig. Gen. Charles Griffin:

   C. H. ROSS,

   ---

   HEADQUARTERS FIRST ARMY CORPS, Commanding Corps, November 17, 1862.

   The divisions of this corps will move forward to-morrow morning at 8 o'clock punctually.

   By order of Brigadier-General Reynolds:

   C. KINGSBURY, JR.,
   Assistant Adjutant-General.

   ---

   HEADQUARTERS THIRD CORPS, Commanding Corps, November 17, 1862—10.30 a.m.

   Brigadier-General PLEASONTON,
   Commanding Cavalry:

   GENERAL: By direction of the general commanding this grand division, I have the honor to report to you that the rear of my corps will leave the vicinity of Warrenton about 11.30 a.m. We have been detained by bad roads. I would suggest that you keep the line of the Northern Branch of the Rappahannock well scouted by your cavalry, and beg that you will give me the earliest information of the presence of the enemy on our right flank, as the line is unavoidably much extended, owing to bad roads. Any information you may receive of interest to myself will be thankfully received. Please acknowledge receipt of this by bearer, with any suggestions you may think proper to make.

Respectfully, &c.,

GEORGE STONEMAN,
Brigadier-General, Commanding Corps.

HDQRS. FIFTH ARMY CORPS, ARMY OF THE POTOMAC,
Encamped at Warrenton Junction, November 17, 1862.

GENERAL SYKES:

GENERAL: Griffin camps about two miles below here on Elk Run road crossing. Humphreys camps here east of the Orange and Alexandria road, near where you camped when here before. Would like to have you get your trains over across the railroad and parked for the night, camping west of the railroad station on the run that crosses the road just before you get to the station, or near enough thereto for water. We move to-morrow toward Spotted Tavern. See McDowell’s map.

I am, very respectfully, yours, &c.,

H. W. PERKINS,
Acting Assistant Adjutant-General.

HDQRS. FIFTH ARMY CORPS, ARMY OF THE POTOMAC,
Near Doctor Sumac’s House, November 17, 1862.

GENERAL: Inclosed is a rough sketch from the McDowell map, which will show you where we are to camp to-morrow night, and your route and the route of Griffin and Humphreys. A guide will be sent you at 6 a.m., an orderly from Fifth Regiment Cavalry, who has been sent out to find a short cut to Weaversville. There is said to be a road to the right of the road through Bristersburg, said to be a better road. If you prefer you can move on one with your troops, the other with your wagons. Stoneman will be at Bealeton to-night and Morrisville to-morrow night. Pick up all the forage you can to-morrow before you start at the station; two car-loads were ordered set apart for you this afternoon.

Yours,

BUTTERFIELD,
Brigadier-General, Commanding Fifth Corps.

HDQRS. FIFTH ARMY CORPS, ARMY OF THE POTOMAC,
November 17, 1862.

Brigadier-General GRIFFIN,
Commanding Second Division:

Inclosed is a rough tracing from the McDowell map, showing you where to camp to-morrow night. Humphreys will start at same time you do, and it will require you to be prompt to keep out of his way. Sykes takes the other road. Stoneman should be at Bealeton to-night and Morrisville to-morrow night. If you run on the Ninth (Willcox's corps) double up your train in fields, and double up your brigades to clear room for Humphreys. I shall probably move down to Bristersburg to headquarters Spotted Tavern or below.

Yours,

BUTTERFIELD.
HDQRS. FIFTH ARMY CORPS, ARMY OF THE POTOMAC,
November 18, 1862.

Brigadier-General SYKES,
Commanding Division:

GENERAL: General Butterfield directs me to say that General Humphreys in his movements to-morrow will take the road indicated by the red dotted lines on inclosed sketch; the road will therefore be clear for you. If you can start your trains earlier than the hour mentioned in the orders for march without trouble, he prefers that you would move them any time after 8 o’clock and before 9. He will be at Hartwood Church to locate your camp, and desires that a staff officer may be at the head of your train when it arrives at Hartwood Church.

I am, very respectfully, yours, &c.,

H. W. PERKINS,
Acting Assistant Adjutant-General.

P. S.—As Stoneman’s corps will be getting close in that vicinity about noon, it will be well to get your trains parked and ground selected before his arrival.

[21.]

HDQRS. FIFTH ARMY CORPS, ARMY OF THE POTOMAC,
November 18, 1862.

Brigadier-General HUMPHREYS,
Commanding Division:

GENERAL: General Butterfield directs me to say that you will move by the route which Captain Sterling (Seventh Ohio Volunteers), of General Tyler’s staff, has examined to the vicinity of Hartwood Church, at the hour mentioned in the order of this evening. General Butterfield will be at Hartwood Church upon your arrival in that vicinity by the route indicated, and desires you to send a staff officer there at the head of your train, to whom he will point out your camping grounds. The general is obliged for the prompt and full report of a communication to-day with Generals Pleasonton and Averell.

I am, very respectfully, yours, &c.,

H. W. PERKINS,
Acting Assistant Adjutant-General.

[21.]

GENERAL ORDERS,
HEADQUARTERS FIRST ARMY CORPS,
No. 45.
November 20, 1862.

General Meade will picket with his division from the road coming in on his right between his camp and Stafford Court-House over to the Skinner’s Store road. General Gibbon, with his division, will picket from the Skinner’s Store road to Potomac Run, and General Doubleday will picket with his division from Potomac Run to the right of General Willcox or the corps next on his left, all facing north.

By command of Brigadier-General Reynolds:

C. KINGSBURY, JR.,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

[21.]

GENERAL ORDERS,
HEADQUARTERS FIRST ARMY CORPS,
No. 50.
November 21, 1862.

The divisions of this corps will move to the vicinity of Brooke’s Station as early to-morrow morning as practicable, in the following... order: First, Meade's division; second, Gibbon's division; third, Doubleday's division. A sufficient rear guard will be left to accompany the trains. The provisions on hand will be carried in the knapsacks of the men.

By command of Brigadier-General Reynolds:

C. KINGSBURY, JR.,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

Brigadier-General Griffin:

GENERAL: General Sykes is camped near Wallis' house, about three miles from your camp, at Hartwood. He will move at 7.30 a.m. sharp, he writes. Have directed him to move at 7 if possible—that is, if Whipple is out of his way. Captain Tucker reports that you would move at daybreak. I fear you will be delayed by the occupation of the road in advance of you, starting at so early an hour. There is no haste necessary in your getting here other than that involved in the supply question, and you are supplied to the 26th. Take it comfortably and make your camp here in fair time, which you will be able to do starting at same time with Sykes. Longstreet is said to be at Fredericksburg with guns in position. Our pontoon train at Dumfries coming by land. Roads bad to Belle Plain. The supply question most difficult one put at present. Graze your animals all you can and keep a sharp lookout for forage.

Yours,

BUTTERFIELD.

Brigadier-General Sykes:

GENERAL: Move as much earlier than 7.30 as you can to clear your rear for Griffin. The bearer, after going to Griffin, will return to your camp and pilot you down here. Longstreet said to be at Fredericksburg with guns in position. General Hooker says indications of a large force there, judging by the smoke of camp-fires. I send you Baltimore Clipper of to-day. Humphreys' supply train may be winding through your camp to-night.

Yours,

BUTTERFIELD.

Brigadier-General Humphreys,

Commanding Third Division:

GENERAL: The order for the march of the corps has been countermanded. Your division, being under way, will proceed to the vicinity of Henry's house and camp, keeping well toward Potomac Creek and the railroad, so as to leave room for the other two divisions, which will probably move to-morrow.

Yours,

DANL. BUTTERFIELD,
Brigadier-General, Commanding Corps.
III. Brig. Gen. Solomon Meredith, having reported for duty at these headquarters, is assigned to duty with the First Division, General Doubleday, and will report accordingly for assignment to the command of the Fourth (or Wisconsin) Brigade of that division.

By order of Brigadier-General Reynolds:

C. KINGSBURY, JR.,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

By command of Major-General Burnside:

LEWIS RICHMOND,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

CHARLESTON, VA., November 28, 1862.

Lieut. Col. J. R. HALL,
Thirteenth Virginia, Red House:

Put yourself in communication with Lieutenant-Colonel Oley, at Coalsmouth, immediately. If your forces united, after leaving a sufficient camp guard, can be at the intersection of the road ten miles in front of Winfield to-morrow, sufficiently strong without risks to engage the enemy, do so. If not, keep your scouts well out on that side of the river and report anything of importance to these headquarters.

By command of Brig. Gen. George Crook:

R. P. KENNEDY,
Captain and Assistant Adjutant-General.

1. The following-named troops of this command will be in readiness to move at a moment's notice: Col. E. F. Applegate, Twenty-ninth New Jersey Volunteers; Col. Alexander P. Berthoud, Thirty-first New Jersey Volunteers; Lieut. Col. Alexander Douglas, Twenty-second New Jersey Volunteers; Maj. F. C. Miller, One hundred and forty-seventh New York Volunteers; Col. H. M. Bossert, One hundred and thirty-seventh Pennsylvania Volunteers; Col. A. E. Donaldson, Thirtieth New Jersey Volunteers, now under the command of Colonel Haskin, in charge of the defenses north of the Potomac, are to take the advance under command of the senior colonel.

2. Colonel Jennings' brigade of infantry to move next, now under command of Brigadier-General Abercrombie.

3. Colonel Wright's brigade of infantry to move next in order, now under command of Brigadier-General Casey.

4. The troops are to take two days' cooked rations in haversacks and five days' rations in wagons, with 100 rounds of small-arm ammunition. to each man. They will be governed by existing orders as to baggage and transportation.

5. The senior colonel of each brigade will send a staff officer to these headquarters for instructions as to the route and destination.

6. The troops of this command that have been ordered to move at a moment's notice will march at the following-named hours precisely:

Those from Colonel Haskin's command at 7 o'clock to-morrow morning; those from General Abercrombie's command at 9 o'clock to-morrow morning; those from General Casey's command at 12 o'clock to-morrow. The staff officers from the senior colonels commanding will report at these headquarters for instructions as soon as possible.

By command of Major-General Heintzelman:

CARROLL H. POTTER,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

HEADQUARTERS ELEVENTH CORPS,
Fairfax Court-House, November 30, 1862—11 p. m.

Brigadier-General STAHEL:

Commanding Division:

GENERAL: The following dispatch is just received from General Burnside:

General SIGEL:

Your dispatches of 6 p. m. and 7.30 p. m. received.* The commanding general desires me to tender his thanks to Brigadier-General Stahel, and the officers and men of his command, for the brilliant success they have achieved.

JNO. G. PARKE,
Chief-of-Staff.

T. A. MEYSENBURG,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE POTOMAC,
December 2, 1862.

Lieut. R. S. MACKENZIE,
General Sumner's Headquarters:

General Burnside wishes you to select at Banks' and United States Fords good positions for batteries to cover crossings at those places. One position should, if practicable, be at some distance above, and the other some distance below, the ford to be covered, in the woods, if possible. Look carefully to the approaches to these positions, especially to the upper position at United States Ford. Before the batteries are placed in position, if these positions are wooded they will have to be cleared up, but a screen of trees should be left to hide what we are doing till the last moment. No work will be done until specially ordered, but you should decide on a plan of operations, size of working party, &c., so as to be ready to begin at once when the order is given. Get all the information you can about depth of water and character of fords, especially about the approach on the other side of United States Ford, which seems to cross a canal.

C. B. COMSTOCK,
Lieutenant of Engineers and Chief Engineer Army of the Potomac.

* See Vol. XXI, p. 17.
The troops of this command will move to-morrow in direction of the White Oak Church on the road to King George Court-House as follows: The Third Division (Meade's) will move at 6 a. m.; the First Division (Doubleday's) at 9 a. m.; the Second Division (Gibbon's) at 12 m. Each division will send a pioneer party in advance, under an efficient officer, to repair the road and crossings of the streams. General Meade will send out the pioneers of his division this afternoon, directing them to camp on the road. All supplies will be carried, so that there will be no sending back after them, unless it be for the commissary stores, which some of the divisions may not be able to carry. If there are any such they will be placed together in one place and a small guard left with them. As much forage will be carried as possible. Each team will have at least three days'. The brigade of Colonel Gavin will remain on the duty it is now on until further orders.

2. The movement of this corps, as directed in paragraph 1, General Orders, No. 61, of this date, is postponed until further orders, but all preparations for the march will be made so as to move as soon as the road permits. Division commanders will be careful to keep up their supplies of quartermaster's and commissary stores. General Doubleday, commanding First Division, will establish his line of pickets to the front, and General Meade, commanding Third Division, his, from Accokeek Creek to the river.

By command of Major-General Reynolds:

C. KINGSBURY, JR.,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

---

General Orders,} HDQRS. FIRST DIV., 1ST ARM. CORPS,
No. 105. } Near Brooke's Station, Va., December 5, 1862.

General Doubleday having received leave of absence, the command of the division devolves upon Brigadier-General Paul, who hereby assumes command.

By order of Brigadier-General Paul:

HENRY T. LEE,

---

Special Orders,} HDQRS. DEFENSES OF WASHINGTON,
No. 86. } December 5, 1862.

6. Brig. Gen. E. H. Stoughton having, in accordance with instructions from the General-in-Chief, reported for duty to these headquarters, is assigned to the command of the Vermont brigade (Second Brigade), Casey's division. He will report in person without delay to Brig. Gen. Silas Casey.

By command of Major-General Heintzelman:

CARROLL H. POTTER,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

---

General Orders,} HDQRS. SIXTH ARM. CORPS,
No. 45. } December 6, 1862.

Capt. R. B. Ayres, Fifth Artillery, is hereby announced as acting chief of the artillery of the Sixth Army Corps. He will be obeyed and respected accordingly. Lieut. James A. Sayles will report as soon as possible to Capt. R. B. Ayres, acting chief of artillery of Sixth Corps, for duty as adjutant of artillery.

By command of Major-General Smith:

CHAS. MUNDEE,
Major and Assistant Adjutant-General.

SPECIAL ORDER.

HDQRS. FIRST DIVISION, ELEVENTH CORPS,
ARMY OF THE POTOMAC,
December 6, 1862.

Colonel Wyndham will remain with his original brigade in Center-ville, sending out a detachment of his men to Chantilly and Hunter's Mill. Colonel Di Cesnola will march early to-morrow morning with his entire command, including the First Virginia Cavalry, under Major Krepps, to Brentsville, and from there across Cedar Run, where he will remain until further orders, leaving a strong picket at Brentsville.

By order of Brig. Gen. Julius Stahel, commanding First Division:

A. G. LAWRENCE,
Captain and Aide-de-Camp.

GENERAL ORDERS,

HDQRS. FIRST DIVISION, ELEVENTH CORPS,
No. 62.
December 7, 1862.

General Meade's division will move to-morrow morning as directed in General Orders, No. 61, from these headquarters, dated December 5, 1862. General Gibbon's division will follow the next day, and General Doubleday's the day after Gibbon's. Each division will send out parties to find the best roads and crossings and to repair them. The headquarters of the corps will move with Meade's division to-morrow morning.

By command of Major-General Reynolds:

C. KINGSBURY, JR.,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE POTOMAC,
December 8, 1862.

Lieutenant Mackenzie,
Engineers:

I wish you would examine the stone dam a mile above Falmouth across the Rappahannock, and see if it is possible to drain the pond above either by digging around the end of the dam on our side, digging through the dam, or damming it up while enemy hold the other bank, and report at once.

Respectfully,

C. B. COMSTOCK,
Lieutenant of Engineers and Chief Engineer Army of the Potomac.

Memoranda for General Parke.

Each of the five bridges to be covered by a regiment of infantry; commanding officer to consult officer throwing bridge as to posting his troops, and give him any assistance he asks for. At lowest bridge (below Deep Run), in addition to the infantry, there should be one battery of light 12-pounders, in addition to the guns from the reserve artillery.

At each bridge there will be held in readiness one pontoon wagon loaded with material for bridge twenty-six feet long, for use of commanders of grand divisions.

C. B. COMSTOCK.

DECEMBER 9, 1862.

(Last paragraph erased. Spoke to General Woodbury, who promised to attend to it, at General Burnside's tent, this evening, December 9.)

Brigadier-Generals PAUL and TAYLOR,

Commanding First and Second Divisions:

GENERALs: The commanding general directs that you move forward early to-morrow morning your commands on the road you are now on, toward General Burnside's headquarters, so as to be as near up as possible to the Belle Plain road, which runs in front of the general headquarters and on which General Meade's division is encamped. You will send at daylight in the morning a staff officer to these headquarters, to whom will be shown your positions. This is not to be construed as the order in which company commanders are ordered to issue the twenty rounds of extra ammunition.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

C. KINGSBURY, JR.,

Assistant Adjutant-General.

MEMORANDUM

HEADQUARTERS SIXTH ARMY CORPS,

ORDERS. } Camp near White Oak Church, Va., December 9, 1862.

This command will be held in readiness to march at a moment's notice to-morrow. The officers and men will be provided with three days' cooked rations, commencing to-morrow morning. A careful inspection will be had to-day of cartridge-boxes, and all will be filled to the number of forty rounds. Additional ammunition will be issued to captains of companies, who will distribute the same, and before the march to-morrow, to their men at the rate of twenty rounds, to be carried in pockets. Division commanders will see that their batteries and ammunition trains are supplied with three days' forage. Subsequent orders will be issued as to the disposition to be made of the other trains, of the order and hour of march, and of the points to take position.

By command of Major-General Smith:

CHAS. MUNDEE,

Major and Assistant Adjutant-General.

WAR DEPARTMENT,

Washington, D. C., December 10, 1862—10.15 a.m.

Major General BURNSIDE, Falmouth:

I beg of you not to telegraph details of your plans nor the times of your intended movements. No secret can be kept which passes through so many hands.

H. W. HALLECK,

General-in-Chief.
General D. P. Woodbury,

Commanding Volunteer Engineer Brigade:

The following order of march for pontoon trains is proposed for to-night, to prevent confusion: Spaulding's trains for two upper bridges to move by Phillips house across railroad to Lacy house; the other three trains, Cross' leading, then Magruder's and last Spaulding's, lower bridge, to move to position by turning to the left from the suspension bridge road a little beyond the Wallace house. Chiefs of grand divisions wish to get at bridges one or two bays of bridge flooring to take with them, and two men with each bay to attend to lashings.

Very respectfully,

C. B. Comstock,

Lieutenant of Engineers and Chief Engineer Army of the Potomac.

[21.]

HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE POTOMAC,
December 10, 1862—9 a. m.

Lieutenant Cross,

U. S. Engineers:

You will move your bridge equipage from its present position so as to arrive at the place where the bridge is to be thrown at 3 a. m. to-morrow. You will park your train and send away the teams, and then proceed to unload and throw the bridge. You may corduroy that part of the marsh which needs it before or after moving the pontoons over it, as you deem best. The bridge will be covered by a regiment of infantry. You will confer with its commander as to posting his regiment, and are authorized by General Burnside to call on him for any assistance. You are authorized to confer with the commander of the batteries as to opening fire if the enemy's fire should be too hot.

Very respectfully,

C. B. Comstock,

Lieutenant of Engineers and Chief Engineer Army of the Potomac.

[21.]

GENERAL ORDERS, HEADQUARTERS FIRST ARMY CORPS,
No. 64. December 10, 1862.

The divisions of this corps will be under arms and move punctually in the following order: Gibbon's (Second) division, Meade's (Third) division; Doubleday's (First) division, at 3 o'clock to-morrow morning on the road leading to the river on the left of General Burnside's headquarters. Each division commander will have the forge team of one of his batteries in readiness at the crossing to take pontoon wagon across with the battery. The forge will be left at the crossing, where it can be sent for when wanted. The twenty rounds of extra ammunition required will be issued to-night.

By command of Major-General Reynolds:

C. Kingsbury, Jr.,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

[21.]
CHAP. LXIII.]  CORRESPONDENCE, ETC.—UNION.  957

WAR DEPARTMENT,  Washington, December 11, 1862—9.34 p. m.

Major-General BURNSIDE,
Falmouth:

Permit me to suggest the importance of pushing re-enforcements across during the night, so as to be able to resist any attack during the morning. This seems to me of vital importance.

H. W. HALLECK,
General-in-Chief.

[21.]

HEADQUARTERS FIFTH ARMY CORPS,
Camp near Fredericksburg, Va., December 12, 1862—12 m.

General SYKES,
General GRIFFIN,
General HUMPHREYS,
Commanding Divisions:

A change has been made in the crossing of the divisions of the Third (Stoneman's) Corps. General Whipple's division crosses the right (upper) bridge, General —— the center, and General —— the left. This will not change the dispositions of this corps. General Sykes will follow the division of Stoneman's corps, whichever it may be, that crosses the upper bridge. General Humphreys the center, as above, General Griffin the left. General Griffin will be careful not to follow General Whipple when he (Whipple) changes position to cross the upper bridge. General Whipple's division holds Fredericksburg and the bridge-heads. No definite orders are as yet published for our movements after crossing the river. The general disposition of the Center Grand Division is at present understood to be to support the Right and Left Grand Divisions, or pursue as circumstances may require.

DANL. BUTTERFIELD,
Brigadier-General, Commanding.

[21.]

HEADQUARTERS FOURTH ARMY CORPS,
Yorktown, Va., December 14, 1862.

Brigadier-General NAGLEE,
Commanding Reconnaissance, &c.:

GENERAL: The following telegram has this moment (4.30 p. m.) been received from Fortress Monroe:

Major-General Keyes:
We may want your whole force at Yorktown. General Naglee's expedition having accomplished the object, his force had better be recalled.

JOHN A. DIX,
Major-General.

In accordance therewith the major-general commanding directs that you return to Yorktown immediately with all your force.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

C. C. SUYDAM,
Lieutenant-Colonel and Assistant Adjutant-General.

[18.]
WASHINGTON, December 15, 1862.

Major-General BURNSIDE,
Falmouth:

I have seen your aide, Major Goddard. You will be fully sustained in any measures you may adopt in regard to unreliable officers. In regard to movements we cannot judge here. You are the best judge. Anything you may want will be supplied as soon as possible. General Dix will assist by diversions. We have every confidence in your judgment and ultimate success.

H. W. HALLECK,
General-in-Chief.

Washington, December 15, 1862.

Major-General BURNSIDE,
Falmouth:

I have seen your aide, Major Goddard. You will be fully sustained in any measures you may adopt in regard to unreliable officers. In regard to movements we cannot judge here. You are the best judge. Anything you may want will be supplied as soon as possible. General Dix will assist by diversions. We have every confidence in your judgment and ultimate success.

H. W. HALLECK,
General-in-Chief.

HDQRS. ELEVENTH CORPS, ARMY OF THE POTOMAC,
Stafford Court-House, Va., December 15, 1862.

Colonel CESNOLA,
Commanding Cavalry:

The general directs you to march with your cavalry to Falmouth, where you will draw forage and provisions, and march to Hartwood. Your picket on Potomac Creek will march at once to Hartwood, leaving a picket of ten men at the creek. From Hartwood this picket will send patrols to Richards' Ford and toward Morrisville. (See diagram.)*

Very respectfully,

T. A. MEYSENBURG,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

HEADQUARTERS FOURTH ARMY CORPS,
Yorktown, Va., December 16, 1862.

Lieutenant-Colonel LEWIS,
Commanding Fifth Pennsylvania Cavalry:

COLONEL: The commanding general is informed of a threatened attack by General Wise upon your command, with the intent to "surround and capture you." He desires, therefore, that you will take every precaution to prevent a surprise. He desires further that tomorrow you send out a reconnaissance (provided your horses are in condition) in the direction of New Kent Court-House, Diascund Bridge, Long Bridge, and Providence Forge, to see if there are any movements in that direction. You will please make report to these headquarters of the success of the reconnaissance and of any facts that you may learn.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

C. C. SUYDAM,
Lieutenant-Colonel and Assistant Adjutant-General.

HDQRS. ELEVENTH CORPS, ARMY OF THE POTOMAC,
Near Falmouth, Va., December 16, 1862.

Colonel CESNOLA,
Commanding Cavalry Brigade:

The general commanding directs you to march at 6 a.m. tomorrow to the camp about half a mile on the other side of Stafford Court-House, with your right wing 100 strong at Aquia and your left 150 strong resting on Potomac Creek, sending patrols and scouting parties to the west toward Garrisonville, Spottedville [Spotted Tavern], and Hartwood Church. Fifty men will report to Brigadier-General Stahel, commanding First Division, at 6 a.m. to-morrow.

* Omitted.

Very respectfully,

T. A. MEYSENBURG,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

(See diagram.*)

[21.]

HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE POTOMAC,
December 17, 1862.

General D. P. WOODBURY:

As our crossing the river by pontoon bridges and then recrossing it in perfect safety, and directly in the face of a large army opposed to us, is among the rarest operations of war, I have thought that a record of it on file in the Engineer Department might not be without interest, or perhaps of future use. If you will let me have copies of the reports of the different officers commanding bridge parties I will compile such a record, and, with permission of commanding general, forward it to the Engineer Department.†

Very truly, yours,

C. B. COMSTOCK,
Lieutenant of Engineers and Chief Engineer Army of the Potomac.

[21.]

HEADQUARTERS FIFTH ARMY CORPS,
December 17, 1862.

Hon. E. M. STANTON,
Secretary of War, &c.:

SIR: I beg leave most respectfully to recommend for promotion as brigadier-generals of volunteers Capt. S. H. Weed, Fifth Artillery, and Col. Strong Vincent, Eighty-third Pennsylvania Volunteers, for gallantry and good services in the attack of December 13 and the subsequent operations to this date. Captain Weed's judgment, energy, and bravery were beyond praise. His merits as an educated and experienced officer are well known. He seeks the post of honor and danger on the field, and has proven his capacity for the promotion. Colonel Vincent has been long under my command, and has by gallantry and devotion to duty richly merited promotion. I would ask that these officers may be promoted and assigned to duty with me.

I am, very respectfully, yours, &c.,

DANL. BUTTERFIELD,
Brigadier-General, Commanding Fifth Corps.

[21.]

HEADQUARTERS FIFTH ARMY CORPS, CENTER GRAND DIVISION,
December 17, 1862.

Major-General SIGEL, Commanding, &c.:

GENERAL: I understood from my staff officer who called upon you last evening that you were to cover our right from Potomac Creek in front of Stafford Court-House to the river or Aquia Creek. I have sent out a strong picket of infantry to connect from your line at Potomac

* Omitted.
Run or Creek to General Sumner’s line, on my left. I think this line necessary, as I learn accidentally that some of the spies of the enemy were inside our lines last night. I would most respectfully suggest that the line from Potomac Creek in your front be, if not already done, established at once and made very perfect to prevent the enemy from getting any further information of our movements. You will pardon my suggestions thus direct to you, as some delay always occurs in communicating through proper channels, and it seems to be most desirable that this should be done at once. One of my staff officers, who is the bearer of this, will ascertain from you where the left of your infantry picket-line will reach Potomac Run, in order that our communication may be perfect.

I am, very respectfully, yours,

D. BUTTERFIELD,
Commanding Fifth Corps, Army of the Potomac.

---

SPECIAL ORDERS,

Stafford Court-House, Va., December 18, 1862.

During my temporary absence Brigadier-General Stahel will take command of the troops stationed between Potomac and Chopawamsic Creeks, and will send his reports to the headquarters Army of the Potomac. Brigadier-General Steinwehr, stationed near Falmouth, will also report directly to the headquarters Army of the Potomac, and will send copies of his reports to Lieutenant-Colonel Meysenburg, assistant adjutant-general, at these headquarters.

F. SIGEL,
Major-General, Commanding.

---

HDQRS. ELEVENTH CORPS, ARMY OF THE POTOMAC,
Stafford Court-House, December 19, 1862.

COMMANDING OFFICER DUMFRIES:

Scouts who came in just now report the enemy’s cavalry under Hampton at Brentsville, where they are said to have had a skirmish with our cavalry. One division of the enemy's infantry is reported will reach Brentsville to-day, and information less reliable mentions the whole of Jackson's corps on the march in that direction. Have your scouts well out toward Brentsville, Catlett's Station, and Maple Valley, and patrol the country with the utmost vigilance in that direction. Communicate with General Slocum and learn from him what information he has gained and report the same with your information at once. Send a patrol, on receipt of this, to this place with orders to report here. Communicate with the forces at Wolf Run Shoals by patrols. Please forward all information without delay.

By order of Major-General Sigel:

T. A. MEYSENBURG,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

---

HDQRS. ELEVENTH CORPS, ARMY OF THE POTOMAC,
Stafford Court-House, Va., December 19, 1862.

Colonel CESNOLA,
Commanding Cavalry:

The general commanding directs you to patrol and scout the country from Stafford Court-House and Aquia westward toward Elkton, Warrenton Junction, Catlell's Station, and Brentsville with the utmost vigilance, as the enemy's cavalry is reported to be over that country in large scouting parties. Send a patrol to Chopawamsic Creek, on the road to Purcell's Mill, and three or four miles beyond. Send also a patrol to Dumfries, over the Telegraph road, who will report to the commanding officer at Dumfries and hand to him the inclosed letter, which may also serve for your private information. Close the letter after you have read it.

Very respectfully,

T. A. MEYSENBURG,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

P. S.—The patrols going toward Dumfries must order all trains to this place at once, without mentioning anything about the enemy.

T. A. M.,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

HEADQUARTERS EIGHTH ARMY CORPS,
Baltimore, Md., December 22, 1862.

Hon. E. M. STANTON,
Secretary of War:

SIR: I have to-day reported through the Adjutant-General my assumption of the command of the Middle Department and Eighth Army Corps. In the exercise of a proper courtesy under the circumstances ward General Wool, and consulting our mutual convenience, although I came here on Friday last, the command was not formally turned over until to-day. I find that up to this time there has been no transfer of the troops now at or near Harper's Ferry to this command. General Kelley has not reported, and indeed General Wool does not understand that his command of any forces along the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad extends farther west than the Monocacy bridge, or perhaps the Point of Rocks, nor that this military department as to Maryland now includes more than the Eastern Shore and four other counties. I beg leave to suggest the propriety of immediately issuing a general order from the War Department defining the extent and exact limits of this department and command and designating the troops that compose the corps.* I am entering upon the discharge of my duties here under serious disadvantages from the want of an organized staff. May I also request, therefore, that as early action may be had as possible upon the recommendations for appointments and assignments which I filed in the Adjutant-General's Office on the 18th instant.

I am, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

ROBT. C. SCHENCK,
Major-General, Commanding.

[21.]

HEADQUARTERS EIGHTH ARMY CORPS,
Baltimore, December 22, 1862.

Brig. Gen. L. THOMAS,
Adjutant-General U. S. Army, Washington, D. C.:

SIR: I have the honor to report that in obedience to your Special Orders, No. 207, and in pursuance of the instructions of the General-in-

* For reply, see Vol. XXI, p. 874.
Chief of the Army, I have this day assumed the command of the Middle Department and Eighth Army Corps, thus relieving Maj. Gen. John E. Wool. I inclose herewith a copy of my first general order, announcing myself to the troops of the corps. I arrived here on the 19th instant, but consulting the mutual convenience of General Wool and myself, there was no formal turning over of the command to me until to-day. In the meantime I have been endeavoring, as far as has been possible, to inform myself of the condition of affairs in the department and to commence some organization of my staff.

I have the honor to be, general, your most obedient servant,

ROBT. C. SCHENCK,
Major-General, U. S. Volunteers.

---

SPECIAL ORDERS, No. 101.

HDQRS. DEFENSES OF WASHINGTON, December 22, 1862.

2. The Fourth New York Artillery, One hundred and eighteenth, One hundred and fifty-second, and One hundred and sixty-ninth New York Volunteers are hereby formed into and will constitute temporarily a brigade, of which the senior colonel will assume the command.

By command of Major-General Heintzelman:

CARROLL H. POTTER,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

HEADQUARTERS EIGHTH ARMY CORPS,
Baltimore, December 23, 1862.

Col. S. H. ALLEN,

Commanding at Frederick City, Md.:

SIR: Your communication of yesterday has been received at these headquarters. It is not deemed advisable to increase any force there may now be at Frederick City. The regiment now stationed at Monocacy bridge will be in part removed so as to be stationed and distributed for the better protection of the line of railroad and for guarding the fords on the Potomac. A regiment of cavalry, the Thirteenth Pennsylvania, Colonel Galligher commanding, has been to-day ordered to Point of Rocks, and will patrol the railroad and scout on both sides of the river. This arrangement will give you more security and protection against raids of rebels at Frederick than any increase of the number of your troops there. The whole of the State of Maryland being now within this department, your reports will henceforth be made to these headquarters. The general commanding thinks that the title of "Military Governor of Frederick" had better be dispensed with. You are probably in command as the senior officer stationed at Frederick, but not knowing the particular troops now there, I am not aware of what regiment you are the colonel commanding, nor whether of cavalry or infantry. Your returns hereafter will of course explain.

I am, sir, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

WM. D. WHIPPLE,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

[21.]

* See Vol. XXI, p. 873.
Brigadier-General Naglee,
Commanding Brigade:

GENERAL: The commanding general directs that you place yourbrigade, consisting of the Fifty-second Pennsylvania, Fifty-sixthNew York, Ninety-eighth New York, Eleventh Maine, Eighty-first New York, One hundredth New York, and One hundred and fourth Pennsylvania Volunteers, in readiness to move by water at a moment's notice. The general directs that all details conflicting with the execution of the above be suspended.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

C. C. Suydam,
[18.]
Lieutenant-Colonel and Assistant Adjutant-General.

HEADQUARTERS FOURTH ARMY CORPS,
Yorktown, Va., December 24, 1862.

Brigadier-General Naglee,
Commanding First Brigade:

GENERAL: The commanding general desires me to inform you thatit may be necessary to send the Fifty-second Pennsylvania Volunteers to Gloucester Point to-night. He desires, therefore, that you will directthem to be in readiness to move at a moment's notice.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

C. C. Suydam,
[18.]
Lieutenant-Colonel and Assistant Adjutant-General.

HEADQUARTERS FOURTH ARMY CORPS,
Yorktown, Va., December 24, 1862.

Capt. Foxhall A. Parker,
Commanding U. S. Steamer Mahaska:

The commanding general desires me, in acknowledging the receipt of your communication, to state that the dispositions of the land forces for to-night (and the prospects for an attack at Gloucester Point) are such as to require the May Queen to be at the dock on the other side. At the same time he directs me to say that in case of absolute need you may call upon Captain Clark for its use, to be returned to him, however, as soon as you can possibly do so.

I have the honor to be, your obedient servant,

C. C. Suydam,
[18.]
Lieutenant-Colonel and Assistant Adjutant-General.

HEADQUARTERS FOURTH CORPS,
Yorktown, December 25, 1862.

Col. D. T. Van Buren,
Assistant Adjutant-General:

SIR: I deem it my duty to inform Major-General Dix that in view ofthe extent of the works to be defended here and at Gloucester Pointthe force present is not sufficient. The four regiments of conscripts are inadequately armed, and they are so destitute of military instruction that no certain reliance can be had in them. If an attack should be made, I will do all that can be done with the means in my power to repel it.

I am, very respectfully, your most obedient servant,

E. D. KEYES,
Major-General, Commanding Fourth Corps.

NOTE.—This supposes the departure of Naglee's brigade.

[18.]

HEADQUARTERS EIGHTH ARMY CORPS,
Baltimore, December 26, 1862.

Brigadier-General KELLEY,
Cumberland, Md.:

I will send to-day to Harper's Ferry all the re-enforcement available or to spare from here, to wit, six companies of Sixth New York Artillery from Fort McHenry, two large siege guns, and an independent battery, 103 men and six rifled guns. I have communicated directly with General Kenly because of the emergency seeming to require it.

ROBT. C. SCHENCK,
Major-General, Commanding.

[21.]

HEADQUARTERS EIGHTH ARMY CORPS,
Baltimore, December 26, 1862.

Brig. Gen. B. F. KELLEY,
Commanding, Cumberland, Md.:

Proceed immediately on receipt of this to Harper's Ferry and take command in person. I do not like the tone of General Kenly's last dispatch;* there seems trepidation in it.

ROBT. C. SCHENCK,
Major-General, Commanding.

[21.]

HEADQUARTERS EIGHTH ARMY CORPS,
Baltimore, December 26, 1862.

Brig. Gen. J. R. KENLY,
Harper's Ferry, Va.:

I understand, through some of the railroad people, that there is a purpose of abandoning Harper's Ferry. From all yet communicated to me I can see no sufficient reason for withdrawing to the Maryland side. You will remember that it is of vital importance to hold the position and preserve the bridge, railroad, and public property.†

ROBT. C. SCHENCK,
Major-General, Commanding.

[21.]

HEADQUARTERS EIGHTH ARMY CORPS,
Baltimore, December 26, 1862.

Colonel SCHOONMAKER,
Comdg. Fourteenth Pennsylvania Cavalry, Hagerstown, Md.:

You will immediately proceed with your command to Harper's Ferry and report for duty to Brigadier-General Kelley from that point. You * Probably 7 p. m., Vol. XXI, p. 890.

† For reply, see 1:30 p. m., Vol. XXI, p. 888. will march carefully, to save your horses' feet. Horseshoes and nails will be forwarded to Harper's Ferry for you to-day.

ROBT. C. SCHENCK,
Major-General, Commanding.

GENERAL ORDERS, } HDQRS. FIRST DIV., FIRST ARMY CORPS,
No. 110. } December 27, 1862.

In accordance with Special Orders, No. 82, from headquarters First Army Corps, dated December 22, 1862, I assume command of this division. Maj. Clinton H. Meneely and Capt. Timothy E. Ellsworth are announced as aides-de-camp, and will be obeyed and respected accordingly.

JAS. S. WADSWORTH,
Brigadier-General.

HEADQUARTERS EIGHTH ARMY CORPS,
Baltimore, Md., December 28, 1862—9.30 a. m.

Maj. Gen. H. W. HALLECK,
General-in-Chief:

I have just received, through General Kelley, a dispatch from General Cluseret advising me that he was safe at Winchester, and that the enemy had fallen back to Woodstock.

ROBT. C. SCHENCK,
Major-General, Commanding.

HEADQUARTERS EIGHTH ARMY CORPS,
Baltimore, December 28, 1862—9.30 a. m.

Brig. Gen. B. F. KELLEY,
Harper's Ferry, Va.:

I cannot meet you to-day. Am to be in Philadelphia to-morrow.
Will come to Harper's Ferry Tuesday evening or Wednesday morning.
In the meantime look around; consider everything and be prepared, that we may have a full conference as to future dispositions and operations.

ROBT. C. SCHENCK,
Major-General, Commanding.

HDQRS. ELEVENTH CORPS, ARMY OF THE POTOMAC,
Stafford Court-House, Va., December 28, 1862—1 a. m.

Colonel CESNOLA,
Commanding Cavalry:

Your dispatch received. Hold your command in readiness to march at a moment's notice. The enemy's cavalry which passed through Stafford Store or Springs did not number more than 500 men, from what I can learn. The general directed fifty men to report to Colonel Schimmelfennig, in addition to the detachment already with him, which was formerly stationed at Aquia.

Respectfully,

T. A. MEYSENBURG,
Assistant Adjutant-General.
MD., E. N. C., PA., VA., EXCEPT S. W., & W. VA. [CHAP. LXIII.]

HDQRS. ELEVENTH CORPS, ARMY OF THE POTOMAC,
Stafford Court-House, Va., December 28, 1862—12.30 p.m.

Col. L. P. Di Cesnola,
Commanding Cavalry Brigade:

Col: General Stahel desires me to say, in answer to your communication just received, that you will probably receive instructions from Colonel Meyenburg, who has gone out on the road toward Dumfries. In case you do not receive instructions from him you will fall back this evening to Garrisonville and encamp there for the night. You will guard against a surprise, but in case of an attack you will act as the circumstances may dictate. I send your communication, with a copy of this order, to Colonel Meyenburg.

I am, colonel, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

R. M. Rogers, Acting Assistant Adjutant-General.

HEADQUARTERS EIGHTH ARMY CORPS,
Baltimore, December 30, 1862—2.55 p.m.

Hon. Edwin M. Stanton,
Secretary of War, Washington, D.C.:

Your dispatch of yesterday received to-day as to building telegraph from Martinsburg to Winchester. I have not answered sooner because so busy providing to meet the raid of rebel cavalry. Stuart has, it seems, slipped through the Army of the Potomac, and was reported crossing the Potomac to-day at Harrison's Island. I have forces scattered and very insufficient for heading him off or catching him, but will do the best I can. See dispatch to General Halleck. I suspend decision as to the telegraph line for General Kelley until this affair is over. I did not come to Washington Saturday because your permission came too late, and last night I went to Philadelphia to the marriage of one of my aides.

Robt. C. Schenck, Major-General, Commanding.

HEADQUARTERS EIGHTH ARMY CORPS,
Baltimore, Md., December 30, 1862—1 p.m.

Maj. Gen. H. W. Halleck, General-in-Chief:

What general is in command of the south side of the Potomac in the vicinity of Harrison's Island, and what information has he of the movements of Lee's cavalry?

Robt. C. Schenck, Major-General

HEADQUARTERS EIGHTH ARMY CORPS,
Baltimore, December 30, 1862—3 p.m.

Brigadier-General Kelley, Commanding, Harper's Ferry:

I have just learned that my staff officer who was directed to dispatch to you this morning information as to the rebel cavalry crossing and

*For reply, see 9.10 p.m., Vol. XXI, p. 921.
orders to take measures to meet them, addressed my telegram to General Keuly instead of to yourself. I trust this has made no difference in the action taken. I send up the road to-day in direction of Monocacy bridge a regiment of infantry (One hundred and fiftieth New York), three companies of the Eighteenth Connecticut Volunteers, and two sections of Chalfin's battery, Fifth Artillery. I think if the rebels reach the road it will be at or near New Market, and they may attempt not only to destroy the road, but to pass to the north of Frederick. My reliance to prevent him must be mainly on the Thirteenth Pennsylvania Cavalry and such cavalry and artillery as you may have sent.

ROBT. C. SCHENCK,
Major-General, Commanding.

HEADQUARTERS EIGHTH ARMY CORPS,
Baltimore, December 30, 1862—1 p. m

Brig. Gen. B. F. KELLEY,
Commanding at Harper's Ferry:

The information as to the crossing of the rebels at Harrison's Island was received at 11.30 to-day by dispatch from Colonel Galligher at Point of Rocks, as follows:

I have information that Stuart is crossing at Harrison's Island, fifteen miles below; commenced at 2 o'clock this morning.

WM. D. WHIPPLE,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

[21.]

HEADQUARTERS EIGHTH ARMY CORPS,
Baltimore, December 30, 1862—6.15 p. m.

Brigadier-General KELLEY,
Commanding, Harper's Ferry:

General Schenck intended to go to meet you at Harper's Ferry to-day, but could not leave headquarters while telegraphing and directing as to this apprehended rebel raid. He still proposes to meet you there. No further intelligence from Colonel Galligher.

WM. D. WHIPPLE,
Lieutenant-Colonel and Assistant Adjutant-General.

[21.]

HEADQUARTERS EIGHTH ARMY CORPS,
Baltimore, December 30, 1862—6.30 p. m.

Brigadier-General KELLEY,
Commanding, Harper's Ferry:

The general commanding says "All right." He confides in you. Keep prepared and on the alert, but do not move your cavalry until you have positive information.

WM. D. WHIPPLE,
Lieutenant-Colonel and Assistant Adjutant-General.

[21.]

HEADQUARTERS EIGHTH ARMY CORPS,
Baltimore, December 30, 1862.

Col. W. S. TRUEX,
Commanding at Monocacy Bridge, Md.:
Stuart's force is reported to be 1,000 cavalry and four pieces artillery.

ROBT. C. SCHENCK,
Major-General, Commanding.

[21.]
Headquarters Eighth Army Corps,
Baltimore, December 30, 1862.

Colonel Galligher,
Cmdg. Thirteenth Pennsylvania Cavalry, Point of Rocks, Md.:

No intelligence from you since your telegram received at 11 a.m. to-day informing of rebel cavalry crossing.* Let me hear from you immediately. The general commanding believes that the information you received and communicated could hardly have been reliable.

WM. D. Whipple,
Lieutenant-Colonel and Assistant Adjutant-General.

[21.]

Headquarters Eighth Army Corps,
Baltimore, December 30, 1862.

Col. William G. Ely,
Commanding Eighteenth Connecticut Volunteers and Expedition up the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad:

The major-general commanding directs that you proceed with your command with great caution from the time that you leave Ellicott City, procuring information as you proceed, and that you act according to circumstances in resisting this raid of the enemy. You will find Colonel Truex, Fourteenth New Jersey Volunteers, with his regiment and two pieces of artillery at Monocacy bridge. There is also a force of 680 men at Frederick under command of Colonel Allen, First Maine Cavalry.

WM. D. Whipple,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

[21.]

Headquarters Eighth Army Corps,
Baltimore, December 30, 1862—6.30 p. m.

Colonel Sumwalt,
Commanding, Relay House:

It has been reported that a force of rebel cavalry and artillery has crossed the river near Leesburg. It may not be true, but you will instruct your troops along the Washington Branch to be especially on the alert to-night.

By order of Major-General Schenck:

WM. D. Whipple,
Lieutenant-Colonel and Assistant Adjutant-General.

[21.]

Headquarters Eighth Army Corps,
Baltimore, Md., December 31, 1862.

Col. William G. Ely,
Monrovia, Baltimore and Ohio Railroad:

You will return with your command to this city without delay. Colonel Belger has been ordered to furnish you transportation in time for you to reach this city by daylight to-morrow. The three companies of the Eighteenth Connecticut will take post at Steuart's woods on their arrival here.

WM. D. Whipple,
Lieutenant-Colonel and Assistant Adjutant-General.

[21.]

* See 10.45 a. m., Vol. XXI, p. 919.
2. The following-named regiments, now serving as a provisional brigade, under command of Brig. Gen. Silas Casey, are hereby assigned to his regular division and will be reported accordingly: Thirty-ninth, One hundred and twenty-fifth, One hundred and twenty-sixth Regiments New York Volunteers, and One hundred and fifty-first Regiment Pennsylvania Volunteers.

By command of Major-General Heintzelman:

CARROLL H. POTTER,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

HEADQUARTERS EIGHTH ARMY CORPS,
Baltimore, Md., January 1, 1863.

Colonel TRUEX,
Monocacy Bridge:

Send back Colonel Ketcham with the eight companies of his regiment, One hundred and fiftieth New York, now with him; also the two sections of Chalfin's battery. Let them leave Monocacy as early in the day to-morrow as transportation is provided.

WM. D. WHIPPLE,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

HEADQUARTERS FOURTH CORPS,
Yorktown, January 2, 1863.

Brigadier-General BUSTEED,
Commanding Brigade:

SIR: I have ordered a reconnaissance to be made to-night and to-morrow on the Gloucester side of York River with cavalry under Major Hall. He will land at Cappahosic and come down and enter our lines above the Point. I have ordered signals to be arranged by Lieutenant Andrews, signal officer, and I wish you to instruct Colonel Grimshaw to be on the alert to give assistance in case of need, and to make sure his pickets do not fire on our own men.

I remain, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

E. D. KEYES,
Major-General.

HEADQUARTERS FOURTH ARMY CORPS,
Yorktown, January 2, 1863.

Major HALL,
Sixth New York Cavalry:

SIR: It is supposed that a picket of rebel cavalry, amounting to fifty or sixty in number, are lying somewhere between Cappahosic Creek and Gloucester Point. I desire that you shall capture all or a portion of that picket. You will take with you 170 troopers, which is all you think are necessary, and with that force you will be landed during the night at Cappahosic. Guides which have been selected by Captain Parker, of the gun-boats, will accompany you. Use your best discretion, and be careful not to allow your party to be surprised or cap
Brig. Gen. H. H. Lockwood, _Drummondtown, Va._:

The general commanding directs that you come to these headquarters as soon as the condition of your command will permit. He desires to assign you to the command of a brigade which may give you more active service, and also to confer with you in relation to Eastern Shore matters. You will turn over your present command temporarily to your officer next in rank.

By order of Major-General Schenck:

W. M. D. WHIPPLE,
_Lieutenant-Colonel and Assistant Adjutant-General._

HEADQUARTERS FOURTH ARMY CORPS,
_Yorktown, Va., January 4, 1863._

Col. D. T. Van Buren,
_Assistant Adjutant-General:

SIR: I have the honor to report that a reconnaissance ordered by me on the 2d instant, composed of a squadron of Fifth Pennsylvania Cavalry, and a squadron of Sixth New York Cavalry, all under Maj. W. P. Hall, Sixth New York Cavalry, returned last night. The party landed at Cappahosic, some sixteen miles above Gloucester Point, and in the course of a little more than twenty-four hours made an extensive examination of the country on the left bank of the York River, extending to Gloucester Court-House and beyond. The reconnaissance was conducted with spirit, and resulted in the capture of one prisoner, a trooper of the Fifth Virginia Cavalry, and seven horses. No trace of the enemy in force was discovered, and the country was found nearly bare of stock and the men capable of bearing arms were mostly absent. Inclosed is a copy of Major Hall's report.*

I have the honor to be, sir, your obedient servant,

E. D. KEYES,
_Major-General._

---

SPECIAL ORDERS,}
_Hqrs. Defenses of Washington,
No. 3.}
_January 5, 1863._

3. Brig. Gen. Alexander Hays, having reported for duty to these headquarters in accordance with instructions from the General-in-Chief, is hereby assigned to the brigade now commanded by Col. F. G. D’Utassy, and will report immediately in person to Brig. Gen. Silas Casey, commanding division.

By command of Major-General Heintzelman:
CARROLL H. POTTER,
_Assistant Adjutant-General._

---

* Not found.
CHAP. LXIII.]

CORRESPONDENCE, ETC.—UNION. 971

SPECIAL ORDERS, No. 6.

HDQRS. DEFENSES OF WASHINGTON,

January 8, 1863.

4. Brig. Gen. R. O. Tyler, having reported for duty to these headquarters in accordance with instructions from the General-in-Chief, is hereby assigned to the brigade composed of First Connecticut Regiment of Heavy Artillery and Nineteenth Regiment Connecticut Volunteers; also the First Wisconsin Independent Company of Heavy Artillery.

By command of Major-General Heintzelman:

CARROLL H. POTTER,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

HEADQUARTERS FOURTH CORPS,
Yorktown, January 8, 1863.

COMMANDING OFFICER OF GUN-BOAT COUR DE LION:

SIR: It is this moment reported to me by telegraph from Williamsburg that heavy cannonading is heard in the direction of West Point. I wish you to go up there and give any assistance or bring back news to me with as little delay as possible.

I remain, respectfully, your obedient servant,

E. D. KEYES,
Major-General, Commanding Fourth Corps.

DUMFRIES, January 9, 1863.

General STAHEL:

My scouting party of 150 cavalry returned from Brentsville. On their arrival there, found out that a party of the First Michigan Cavalry, consisting of one commissioned officer and seven men, had a skirmish in the place about 12 m. The commissioned officer was taken prisoner whilst reading a paper, being dismounted. Two men killed, 1 mortally wounded, 3 taken prisoner, 1 escaped. They were all dismounted save the one who escaped, and were surprised. Party went within two miles and a half of Catlett's Station; no force there; returned via Independent Hill. All quiet.

CHAS. CANDY,
Colonel.

HEADQUARTERS FOURTH ARMY CORPS,
Yorktown, Va., January 12, 1863.

Maj. Gen. JOHN A. DIX,
Commanding Department of Virginia:

SIR: It is probably known to you that from the Fifth Pennsylvania Regiment and the detachment of the Sixth New York Cavalry, under my command, I can only muster about 600 well-mounted troopers. With those I have repeatedly scoured the country up this peninsula, that between the Pamunkey and Mattapony Rivers, and the country on the left bank of the York River. Infantry has often been sent out with the cavalry, and all our scouts and raids have been successful. The rebels are at last aroused and are determined to catch us or to be avenged. When the party under Major Hall returned the 8th instant from the White House they had but just left West Point to come to Yorktown when a detachment of upward of 200 rebel cavalry arrived at that point. The secrecy and rapidity of the raid, and the fact that my people were at the moment of setting out impressed with the idea that they were destined for another point, alone saved Major Hall and his party. I am almost certain that there is above 1,000 rebel cavalry on this side the Chickahominy, and I am and shall be obliged to keep my small forces nearer home or they will be captured. It must be borne in mind that all the six regiments of infantry under my command were only a few weeks ago perfectly raw. They are making astonishing improvements in their exercises, and will be in a short time among the best regiments in the army. But there is not enough infantry to line the ramparts of the forts, much less to do that and at the same time to furnish detachments for service far away from our works. I have plans in view which would, I think, if carried out, damage the enemy to a very great extent, but I do not think it worth while to explain those plans, unless I can have a considerable force placed at my disposal. I think it absolutely necessary, however, to enable me to annoy the enemy to any considerable extent, that I should have another full regiment of infantry and another full regiment of good cavalry. I could then place a small garrison of infantry and artillery in Fort Magruder, below Williamsburg, to guard against what may now at any time be expected—an attack on that city and on the camp of the Fifth Pennsylvania Cavalry, a few miles below it. Should you approve the contents of this letter, will you please to submit it to the Headquarters of the Army? I have the honor to be, sir, your most obedient servant,

E. D. KEYES,
Major-General.

HEADQUARTERS FOURTH ARMY CORPS,
Yorktown, Va., January 12, 1863.

Brigadier-General Busteed,

Commanding Brigade:

GENERAL: The commanding general desires that you will have 100 men of the Fourth Delaware Volunteers (properly officered) fully equipped, but in light marching order, at the dock at Gloucester to-morrow morning (January 13) at 8 o'clock. They are designed for a short expedition. Captain Clark, post quartermaster, has been instructed to send the ferry-boat Winnisimmet for the party. They will be instructed to get on board as rapidly as possible, as the boat must return to its wharf on this side before finally leaving. The expedition will return in the afternoon.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

C. C. SUYDAM,
Lieutenant-Colonel and Assistant Adjutant-General.

SPECIAL ORDERS, \{ Hqrs. Defenses of Washington,\nNo. 11. \} January 13, 1863.

2. Brig. Gen. J. T. Copeland is hereby assigned to the command of the Fifth and Sixth Regiments of Michigan Cavalry, and will report immediately in person to Brig. Gen. Silas Casey, commanding division.

By command of Major-General Heintzelman:

CARROLL H. POTTER,
Assistant Adjutant-General.
SPECIAL ORDERS, No. 12.

HDQRS. DEFENSES OF WASHINGTON, January 14, 1863.

4. Brig. Gen. R. O. Tyler, commanding artillery brigade, will immediately assume command of Fort Lyon and its dependencies in addition to his present command.

By command of Major-General Heintzelman:

CARROLL H. POTTER,

Assistant Adjutant-General.

HEADQUARTERS FOURTH ARMY CORPS,
Yorktown, Va., January 14, 1863.

Admiral S. P. Lee,
Commanding North Atlantic Blockading Squadron,
Hampton Roads, Va.:

SIR: In the course of my service here my attention has been necessarily called on many occasions to the manner in which the gun-boats on York River co-operate with the land forces. I have particularly noticed the admirable manner in which Capt. Foxhall A. Parker has exercised his office of immediate commander of the naval forces in this neighborhood. That officer certainly combines in his character caution and enterprise in a remarkable degree, and I trust I do not infringe any rule of service when I solicit for him a full measure of your confidence, and such an amount of discretion in the discharge of his duties as will enable him to act in concert with me, as is often necessary, at a moment’s notice.

I remain, with high respect, your most obedient servant,

E. D. KEYES,

Major-General.

HEADQUARTERS LEFT GRAND DIVISION,
Camp near White Oak Church, January 16, 1863.

Major-General Smith,

Commanding Sixth Corps:

In compliance with orders from headquarters Army of the Potomac, the general commanding directs that your command be ready to march at an early hour on the morning of the 17th instant, with three days’ cooked rations and your supply train loaded with hard bread and small commissary stores. Sixty rounds of ammunition will be carried by each man. The hour of starting will be indicated to you to-day. In the meantime the general commanding desires that you will not communicate these orders, but simply hold everything in readiness as directed.

I am, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

M. T. McMAHON,

Lieutenant-Colonel and Assistant Adjutant-General.

GENERAL ORDERS, No. 10.

HEADQUARTERS FIRST ARMY CORPS,
January 17, 1863.

2. Lieutenant-Colonel Crane, Twenty-third New York Volunteers, acting assistant inspector-general of the corps, having been relieved from duty at these headquarters, will report to the commanding officer of his regiment (Colonel Hoffman) for orders. In returning Colonel Crane to his regiment the major-general commanding takes this occasion to render his sincere thanks for the very efficient manner in which he has performed the duties of assistant inspector-general, as well as for the valuable assistance rendered him in carrying his orders on the battle-field.

By command of Major-General Reynolds:

C. KINGSBURY, JR.,
Lieutenant-Colonel and Assistant Adjutant-General.

---

SPECIAL ORDERS,
HEADQUARTERS FIRST ARMY CORPS,
No. 15.

January 18, 1863.

2. Brigadier-General Doubleday, commanding Second Brigade, First Division, will at once assume command of the Third Division, First Army Corps.

3. Maj. H. R. Stoughton, Second U. S. Sharpshooters, having reported with his regiment to this corps, will report to Brigadier-General Wadsworth, commanding First Division, for assignment in his command.

By command, &c.:

C. KINGSBURY, JR.,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

---

HEADQUARTERS EIGHTH ARMY CORPS,
Baltimore, January 18, 1863.

Brigadier-General KELLEY,
Commanding, &c., Harper's Ferry, Va.:

The general commanding wants you to say to General Milroy that he thinks his scouts must be fools, or else too nervous in their alarms to be reliable. They cry "Wolf, wolf," when there is no wolf, and by and by the wolf may come in fact, and we shall not believe them.

WM. D. WHIPPLE,
Lieutenant-Colonel and Assistant Adjutant-General.

---

GENERAL ORDERS,
HEADQUARTERS FIRST ARMY CORPS,
No. 11.

January 19, 1863.

The divisions of this corps will move at 12 m. to-morrow with their baggage trains only, in the following order: Third Division, Second Division, and First Division. The ambulances, ammunition, and supply trains will follow the divisions at daylight the next morning, under charge of division quartermasters, to the river crossing. Commanders of divisions will direct their quartermasters to ascertain the route to the crossing and form their park in some secure place. The route of the troops will be near the crossing by White Oak Church to general headquarters, thence to Stoneman's Switch. A staff officer will be sent from each division to the head of the column to learn of the commanding general their location for the night.

By command of Major-General Reynolds:

C. KINGSBURY, JR.,
Lieutenant-Colonel and Assistant Adjutant-General.
Major-General Smith, Commanding Sixth Corps:

GENERAL: In compliance with instructions from headquarters Army of the Potomac the commanding general directs that the following-named batteries will report in marching order by 9 a.m. to-morrow, the 20th instant, at General Burnside's headquarters: Snow's, McCartney's, Hall's (First Pennsylvania), Williston's, Hexamer's, Cowan's. Their commanders will immediately on the arrival of the batteries report to Major Tompkins at the tent of Brigadier-General Hunt, chief of artillery. The order for the commanders of those batteries to report to General Hunt to-night is countermanded.

I am, general, yours, very respectfully,

M. T. McMahon,

Lieutenant-Colonel and Assistant Adjutant-General.

---

[21.]

SPECIAL ORDERS,

HEADQUARTERS ELEVENTH CORPS,

ARMY OF THE POTOMAC,

No. 16.

Stafford Court-House, Va., January 19, 1863.

16. The Seventeenth Regiment Pennsylvania Volunteer Cavalry is hereby assigned to the cavalry brigade of this corps, and will report for duty to Colonel Di Cesnola, commanding the brigade, at once.

By command of Brigadier-General Stahel:

H. Baldwin, Jr.,

Acting Assistant Adjutant-General.

---

[21.]

SPECIAL ORDERS,

HDQRS. DEFENSES OF WASHINGTON,

No. 16.

January 19, 1863.

1. The following disposition of troops on the defenses will go into effect immediately:

2. Brig. Gen. A. Hays' brigade: At Centerville, two regiments and a battery; at Union Mills, two regiments and a battery; at Fairfax Court-House, one regiment.

3. Brigadier-General Stoughton's brigade: At Fairfax Station, three regiments and a battery; at Wolf Run Shoals, two regiments and a battery. Another battery will be directed by Brigadier-General Barry to report to General Stoughton. The brigadier-generals are authorized to establish their headquarters at the points most convenient to their commands.

By command of Major-General Heintzelman:

Carroll H. Potter,

Assistant Adjutant-General.

---

[21.]

HEADQUARTERS EIGHTH ARMY CORPS,

Baltimore, January 20, 1863.

Lieut. Col. William O. Redden, Frederick City, Md.:

Colonel Truex, Fourteenth Regiment New Jersey Volunteers, now at Monocacy bridge, has been ordered to assume command at Frederick. You will turn it over to him.

By order of Major-General Schenck: WM. D. Whipple,

Lieutenant-Colonel and Assistant Adjutant-General.
SPECIAL ORDERS, No. 18.

HEADQUARTERS ELEVENTH CORPS,

ARMY OF THE POTOMAC,

Stafford Court-House, January 21, 1863.

1. The troops comprising the Eleventh Army Corps will be held in readiness to march from their respective positions at an hour's notice, with three days' cooked rations in their haversacks.

2. In the event of an attack by the enemy, or other pressing emergency, the commanders of the Second Division and the cavalry brigade of this corps will for the time being report to Brigadier-General Schurz, commanding Third Division.

By order of Brigadier-General Stahel:

H. BALDWIN, JR.,
Acting Assistant Adjutant-General.

HEADQUARTERS GRAND RESERVE DIVISION,

Stafford Court-House, January 21, 1863.

Maj. Gen. H. W. Slocum,
Commanding Twelfth Corps, Dumfries:

GENERAL: In taking your position at Stafford Court-House the general desires you to post one division on the north side and one on the south side of the town, front toward the west and southwest. Two regiments of infantry must be put on picket half a mile west of the road leading from Potomac Creek by Stafford Court-House to Aquia Church, this line extending from Potomac Creek to Aquia Creek. Your cavalry will encamp between Aquia Church and Stafford Court-House, about two miles north of Stafford Court-House, throwing their pickets and vedettes out to the west in front of the infantry pickets.

I am, general, your obedient servant,

T. A. MEYSENBURG,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

HEADQUARTERS EIGHTH ARMY CORPS,

Baltimore, January 21, 1863.

Brig. Gen. B. F. Kelley,
Commanding, &c., Harper's Ferry, Va.:

GENERAL: I have ordered you to-day to send Colonel Pierce's Twelfth Pennsylvania Cavalry immediately from Kearneysville to the front at Winchester. Situated as he is, General Milroy needs cavalry more perhaps than any one else. I know the importance of looking after the crossing of the Shepherdstown road at Kearneysville, but Colonel McReynolds will have to attend to that for the present by detachment from Martinsburg. As soon as the river rises and promises to keep fairly and steadily up I shall send you, or send to the front, also the Thirteenth Pennsylvania Cavalry from the Point of Rocks, and have you send down in its place an infantry regiment, perhaps Colonel Schley's Fifth Maryland. And yet it may be possibly better to take one from another State, for I do not think that Maryland troops are the best fitted for that kind of guard duty. I am giving my attention to the subject of improving and securing the railroad bridge at Harper's Ferry, so as to make it fit and safe for the crossing of troops. A vast deal may depend upon that. I was glad you sent General Kenly down; he has doubtless made full report to you of our interview.
He desires to keep his brigade on Maryland Heights, but I still think that the Sixth New York as heavy artillerists would be most appropriately transferred to the Heights. I am a good deal bothered about putting the troops together satisfactorily in divisions and brigades, and I wish I had more of your help. General Buford has not yet been ordered here.

I am, general, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

ROBT. C. SCHENCK,

Major-General, Commanding.

HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE POTOMAC,

January 22, 1863—3.30 p.m.

General A. E. BURNSIDE,

Aquia Creek:

The weather was so thick at Seddon's that I could not tell whether the camp-fires back of Hayfield have disappeared or not. The camp-fires near Mansfield and in the valley of the Massaponax seem unchanged. I thought I could see a camp opposite Seddon's, but was not certain. Our pickets report the other side still strongly picketed by infantry.

C. B. COMSTOCK,

Lieutenant of Engineers and Chief Engineer Army of the Potomac.

HEADQUARTERS ELEVENTH CORPS, ARMY OF THE POTOMAC,

Stafford Court-House, Va., January 22, 1863.

Colonel Di CESNOLA,

Commanding Cavalry Brigade:

COLONEL: As your cavalry force is so small you will send at once, under a sufficient guard, the New York Flying Battery to report to Brigadier-General Schurz and remain under his command until further orders.

By order of Brigadier-General Stahel:

H. BALDWIN, JR.,

Acting Assistant Adjutant-General.

HEADQUARTERS FOURTH ARMY CORPS,

Yorktown, Va., January 22, 1863.

Major-General DIX,

Commanding Department of Virginia:

SIR: I have the honor to report that in obedience to your orders the One hundred and fifteenth New York Volunteers embarked this day on board the steamship Matanzas, with instructions to call for orders at Fort Monroe. The withdrawal of the One hundred and fifteenth from my command reduces the forces here to a point much below the necessities of this front. The infantry remaining with me are new in service and poorly armed. I urgently request that additional regiments may be sent here with the least possible delay.

I remain, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

E. D. KEYES,

Major-General.
DUMFRIES, January 23, 1863.

Colonel MEYSENBURG:

Information received from reliable source that General Jackson’s command is at Port Royal, on Rappahannock. A mail came from there yesterday, and I am making arrangements to intercept one which I am informed will leave here Saturday.

CHAS. CANDY,
Colonel.

[21.]

DUMFRIES, January 23, 1863.

General SIGEL:

I must have more cavalry. The enemy are following, picking up men on the road, and the cavalry I have cannot do the work required of them in patrolling and keeping the roads secure. I have only 150.

CHAS. CANDY,
Colonel.

[21.]

HEADQUARTERS LEFT GRAND DIVISION,
January 26, 1863.

OFFICERS AND MEN OF THE LEFT GRAND DIVISION:

In obedience to the order of the highest authority the undersigned relinquishes the command of the Left Grand Division. He does so with sincere regret. His connection with the command has ever been pleasant. The prompt obedience and cheerful co-operation you have at all times rendered, your patient endurance upon the march, your steady bravery upon the field, the manly determination with which you have encountered and overcome the dangers and hardships of several trying campaigns command his admiration and gratitude. All of you are endeared to him by gallant conduct and loyal service, and most of you by the memories of many battle-fields and the proud recollection that from none of them have you been driven back. By these common memories he exhorts you to prove true and fight gallantly in the future, as you have ever done in the past, for the great cause in which you are engaged, believing that for yourselves you will win imperishable fame, for your country final and enduring victory. In severing a connection which you have made so dear, he asks that no one will believe that he voluntarily parts with you in the face of the enemy.

W. B. FRANKLIN,
Major-General of Volunteers.

[25.]

HDQRS. MIDDLE DEPARTMENT, EIGHTH ARMY CORPS,
Baltimore, January 29, 1863.

Brigadier-General MILROY,
Commanding, &c., Winchester, Va.:

I have directed General Kelley to send the Thirteenth Pennsylvania Cavalry, a full regiment, from the Point of Rocks, to report to you for duty.

By order of Major-General Schenck:

WM. D. WHIPPLE,
Lieutenant-Colonel and Assistant Adjutant-General.

[25.]
Major-General Dix, Fort Monroe, Va.:

What iron-clads, if any, have gone out of Hampton Roads within the last two days?*

A. LINCOLN.

General D. BUTTERFIELD, Chief of Staff:

SIR: I have the honor to submit some considerations on the defense of Aquia Creek Landing. That defense might be necessary in two cases. First, in case of embarkation with our rear guard strongly pressed by the enemy; second, in case of an advance from it as a base, to resist raids. The first case is the one which would require the strongest resistance, as the last 6,000 or 8,000 men might be pressed by a superior force, and their embarkation, with the hill overlooking Aquia Creek occupied by the enemy's artillery, rendered very difficult. This difficulty can be overcome by occupying a defensive line running from the point where Accokeek Creek becomes impassable nearly north to Aquia Creek. This line would still leave a hill near the Watson house outside of it, from which Aquia Creek Landing could be seen by the enemy's artillery. That hill should be occupied by a small redoubt for 100 men and no guns. The line in question should consist of a slashing, with short portions of breast-works of logs and earth at points where they would see the slashing well, and three small redoubts. The largest of these redoubts would be on the road from Aquia Landing to Stafford Court-House, about a mile from the landing, and should cover six guns. The other two should be between this and the railroad and should each cover about six guns. The line would be about a mile and a half in length and should be held by 3,000 men against a strong attack. No reference has been made to the point of land on the north side of Aquia Creek and between it and the Potomac, as it is believed that the gun-boats control this. The redoubts will require about ten days for their construction; the other work could be done in four. To finish the work rapidly there should be a working party of 1,500 men, the party not to be changed during the work. Second. In case of advance from Aquia Creek as a base, it and all vulnerable points on the railroad will be liable to raids. Such raids would not probably be made by a force stronger than 2,000 cavalry with six guns. If the gun-boats were withdrawn and not more than 1,000 men left at Aquia Creek Landing, two of the redoubts referred to would be needed, one on the Stafford Court-House road and one near the railroad. But it is believed that a brigade, with the gun-boats, need no additional strength against any probable raid. At Potomac Creek bridge and Accokeek Creek bridge, however, redoubts should be built, each capable of holding 250 men and two guns. The construction of each of these redoubts would require 400 men for ten days.

Very respectfully,

C. B. COMSTOCK,
Lieutenant of Engineers and Chief Engineer Army of the Potomac.

*For reply, see Vol. XVIII, p. 530.
Lieut. Col. N. Bowen having reported at these headquarters in obedience to Special Orders, No. 37, from the Adjutant-General's Office, is hereby announced as assistant adjutant-general of the Sixth Corps. He will be obeyed and respected accordingly.

By order of Brigadier-General Brooks:

JAMES A. SCRYMSER,
Lieutenant and Acting Assistant Adjutant-General.

HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE POTOMAC,
February 3, 1863.

Sir: I submit, as desired, a notice of the places on the Rappahannock River between Skinker's Neck and the United States Ford, which have been examined as possible places for crossing Skinker's Neck. The river at this place bends irregularly through three-fourths of a circle for nearly a mile radius, giving a neck a mile and a half across. The peninsula so inclosed is generally low, not more than ten or twenty feet above the river, but on the northwest side of the Neck the ground rises abruptly from the river to a height of 100 feet, and this high ground runs like a spur into the peninsula, as shown on the sketch here- with. The edge of this bluff is about 1,800 yards from the best place for crossing, and as it curves around is surmounted by six earth-works, some of which look like simple artillery parapets, and some like redans or closed works. In front of this line, on the slope of the hill, are long rifle-pits. The bluff sees nearly the whole of the peninsula, and while occupied in force by the enemy would make the crossing of very doubtful practicability. On our side of the river the ground is generally a plateau, forty or fifty feet above the river, rising into hills from half a mile to a mile and a half back from the river. The bluff referred to is higher than anything on our side within a mile and a half of it. On the opposite side of the river the ground rises rather rapidly from the river bottom to wooded hills, which come close to the river above and below the Neck. The approach to the crossing on this side for 200 yards from the river is through a wooded marsh. The peninsula is generally cleared.

Seddon's and Hayfields.—On the opposite side of the river the plateau is some forty feet above the water, slopes gradually down to it, and is from half a mile to a mile and a half in width, rising then to wooded hills, of which the slopes toward us are generally cleared. On this side the plateau is of about the same height, also cleared, and opposite Hayfields descends abruptly to the river bottom. Near Seddon's the hills narrow the plateau on our side, coming within half a mile of the river. The high ground near Seddon's and the gentle slope from the river up to the plateau on the other side, that slope being thoroughly seen from this side, are the main advantages of this place. Some of the objections are, first, that at the place proposed for the lower bridges a mass of woods on the bank of the river is occupied by the enemy, and they would have to be driven from it before these bridges could be built; second, on the other shore the Port Royal road, running nearly parallel to the river and half a mile from it, gives in places a good defensive line; third, at a mile from the proposed upper bridges a spur with apparently some light earth-works on it to cover guns comes within three-quarters of a mile from the river, and would be very annoying to our right flank if we did not succeed in crossing it at once. At the place proposed for the upper bridges General Woodbury has already built one corduroy approach through the marsh. There should be one more built here and one at the lower bridges before crossing.

Franklin's Crossing.—There is here a long line of hills on our side which see well the plateau on the other side, that plateau being one or two miles wide, then rising into hills, generally wooded. Bridges would be perfectly covered from enemy’s artillery. Objections are that it is central to enemy’s line, and that the enemy may have formed a defensive line in the woods since Franklin’s attack.

Banks’ Ford.—Here both shores of the river begin rising almost at the water's edge, abruptly on our side, gradually in places on the other side, but to a greater height than on ours. Artillery on this side cannot generally see far on the other side, which in places is wooded to the water's edge, and it is believed that unless the crossing was a surprise, it would be very difficult, if not impracticable.

United States Ford.—This place is inferior to Banks’ Ford so far as roads leading to it are concerned. The shore on our side rises at once into bluffs sixty feet high, while the other shore rises gradually, and has a large clearing which is well seen from this side. Its advantages are that the other side is pretty well seen from this; that it is the left of the enemy’s line, and that the ford, believed to be a pretty good one, could be used for crossing troops while the bridges were being built.
The main objection is difficulty of access and want of room. There was originally a narrow road leading down to the ford. Another has been built by General Woodbury for artillery, and one for infantry, thus giving approaches to three bridges.

Very respectfully,

C. B. COMSTOCK,
Lieutenant of Engineers and Chief Engineer Army of the Potomac.

[25.]

SPECIAL ORDERS, } HEADQUARTERS FIRST ARMY CORPS,
No. 29. } February 5, 1863.

3. In accordance with orders from headquarters Army of the Potomac, the Third Division of this corps (Pennsylvania Reserves) will embark at Belle Plain for Alexandria as soon as transportation is furnished, there to report to Major-General Heintzelman. The sick and all the baggage of the troops will be taken with them. The division staff, Captains Hoyt and Reid, commissaries, and Captain Patton, assistant quartermaster, will remain; also the One hundred and twenty-first and One hundred and forty-second Regiments Pennsylvania Volunteers and the three batteries of artillery (Captains Cooper’s, Amsden’s, and Lieut. R. B. Ricketts’). The division quartermaster will report at once to the corps quartermaster to arrange details for embarkation. The different quartermasters will turn in all their transportation and ambulance trains to the division quartermaster. The troops will be supplied with three days’ cooked rations. No public animals of any kind will accompany the division. In separating from the Pennsylvania reserve Corps, with which the commanding general has been so closely allied for the past eighteen months, he cannot but express his deep regrets. They are, however, lessened by the hope that soon their thinned ranks will be filled, and they, once more restored and reorganized, will be returned to the field prepared to add new luster to a name already endeared to our patriotic State.

JNO. F. REYNOLDS,
Major-General, Commanding.

[25.]
In compliance with General Orders, No. 6, headquarters Army of the Potomac, the undersigned hereby relinquishes command of this corps to the senior general officer present. In parting with the corps, the undersigned begs leave to assure it that he does so with no little regret, as his intercourse with it, both officially and socially, has uniformly been of the most pleasant and satisfactory nature. The undersigned returns his heartfelt thanks to both officers and men for the cordial manner in which they have ever endeavored to second him in all his efforts, and assures them that it will in after life be a subject of great pride to be recognized as one of its former commanders.

GEORGE STONEMAN,
Brigadier-General.

---

1. The Signal Officer of the Army announces to the corps that while the issue of battle-flags to officers distinguished in battle will be continued, the numerous battles have rendered so many changes necessary that hereafter the flags will be retained at the office and decorated at the end of the war with the battle names ordered for each and then issued.

2. During the war officers named for battle-flags will carry and use a common signal flag with a plain star.

3. Officers now having battle-flags of silk are requested to deposit them in the office of the Signal Officer for safe-keeping.

4. It is the wish of the Signal Officer of the Army that worthy officers shall receive at the close of the war this memento of the corps and of the battles in which they have served.

By order of Maj. A. J. Myer:

W. R. HARTSHORNE,
First Lieutenant and Signal Officer.

---

Colonel JOHNSON,
Commanding 178th Pennsylvania Drafted Militia:

COLONEL: The commanding general instructs me to inform you that there are movements of the enemy a short distance above Williamsburg which indicate the possibility of an attack. He desires you to be prepared to answer a call to arms in case of necessity.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

C. C. SUYDAM,
Lieutenant-Colonel and Assistant Adjutant-General.

---

By command of Major-General Hooker:

S. WILLIAMS,
Assistant Adjutant-General.
Memoranda in reference to crossing.

February 8, 1863.

January 15 there were at Baltimore fifty-eight boats, thirty-six feet long, six feet beam, three feet deep, or of two-thirds greater capacity, nearly, than the common pontoon. These boats were intended for a double roadway bridge, the floor timbers six inches by eight inches and thirty-six feet long, the floor plank two inches thick. At that time the bridge was not supplied with anchors, cordage, &c. If to be used, these should be obtained at once. This material would form a heavy, substantial bridge; too heavy to be thrown across a stream very rapidly, if the boats were separate. If the bridge were put together at the mouth of the river, it might be towed up by steam-boats, at what rate the officers of the navy should be able to judge. A similar bridge of pontoons, the boats being thirty feet long, would tow somewhat easier. If the navy thought they could not tow the bridge as a whole, the boats all towing sideways, perhaps they might tow it in parts, the boats endwise. These parts could be put together more rapidly if the common pontoon was used—an hour should be enough for the pontoons. The officers on picket along the river should report any sunken canal-boats or other obstructions from Port Royal up. If the bridge was towed at the rate of four miles an hour, it would take twelve hours between Urbana and Port Royal, three hours more to Skinker's Neck, and two more to Seddon's. If it passed Urbana in the daytime the enemy might, perhaps, get notice of it by way of West Point, or White House and Richmond, in four or five hours. The best time for the bridge to reach its place would be about an hour before daylight. This would require passing the most crooked part of the river in the night, and passing Port Royal about 11 p.m. The alarm might, perhaps, be given at this time by the enemy's pickets at that place. If the cause of the alarm was sent at once to Skinker's Neck, the enemy would have an hour and a half to get guns into the works to prevent the passage of the bridge and steamers. It would then be much better that the navy should take tows so small that they could move them at the rate of six miles an hour; then the bridge might reach any point before the cause of the alarm was known at that point, unless the enemy have a telegraph or very good signals. A part of the pontoons should go without beams or floor planks, so as to be used at once for crossing troops to cover putting the bridge together. The division to cross in these boats should be drilled at entering and leaving the boats. If the navy will guarantee to have the boats at the chosen point at a given hour; if this was done so rapidly that the bridge was at its place before the enemy had made any preparation to meet it; if the party thrown across in boats was able at once to cover the construction of the bridge, we should probably get the bridges towed by the steamers across in a time less by two or three hours than that necessary to unload the boats on the bank of the river, put them in the water, and then throw the bridge. On the other hand there would be the chance of failure from the steamers being driven back by the enemy's fire, or from delay by getting aground, giving the enemy time to get ready at the best points for crossing. It is believed that a good pilot can take seven feet of water up to Skinker's Neck, and five feet to Seddon's, both at low water; at high water two feet more.

C. B. Comstock,

Lieutenant of Engineers and Chief Engineer Army of the Potomac.

(Handed General Hooker.)

[25.]
Lieut. C. E. Cross,

Commanding Engineer Battalion:

You will take charge of the works about to be constructed for the defense of Aquia Creek, calling on the commanding officer of the brigade detailed for the purpose for the necessary parties as soon as he has tools and is in readiness for work. The work to be done will be a redoubt near Watson's, another near where the Bruce house stood, and a third on the bluff at the south end of the line pointed out a few days ago. At the Bruce house cover should be prepared for three guns to fire along the Stafford Court-House road, and at the south redoubt for three guns so placed as to control as well as possible the Falmouth road and yet be covered from the guns across the ravine. You are authorized to call on Lieutenants Mackenzie and Suter for any assistance you may need.

Very respectfully,

C. B. Comstock,
Lieutenant of Engineers and Chief Engineer Army of the Potomac.

HEADQUARTERS Eleventh Corps,
Stafford Court-House, Va., February 8, 1863.

Brig. Gen. J. Stahel,
Commanding First Division:

GENERAL: By direction of the commanding general the cavalry at Allcock's will be withdrawn and will encamp near Stafford Court-House.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

T. A. Meyenburg,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

SPECIAL ORDERS, HDQRS. DEPARTMENT OF WASHINGTON,
No. 2. February 10, 1863.

2. The Pennsylvania Reserves, having been assigned to duty in this department, will take post as follows: The Third Brigade, Col. J. W. Fisher, will relieve General Cowdin's brigade at Minor's Hill; the Second Brigade, Col. H. G. Sickel, will relieve Colonel Gurney's brigade at Upton's Hill; the First Brigade, Col. William McCandless, will take post at Fairfax Court-House. On being relieved General Cowdin's brigade will occupy a camp near Arlington, and Colonel Gurney's near the Seminary, the positions to be selected by General Abercrombie. The Provisional Brigade, General Abercrombie's division, will be broken up, and the One hundred and eighteenth, One hundred and fifty-second, and One hundred and sixty-ninth New York Regiments composing it will report to General Martindale, commanding Military District of Washington, for duty. The One hundred and fifty-first Pennsylvania Volunteers, General Hays' brigade; One hundred and forty-third Pennsylvania Volunteers, Colonel Gibson's brigade; Company B, Twenty-sixth Pennsylvania; Company F, Twenty-seventh Pennsylvania; the One hundred and thirty-fifth, One hundred and forty-ninth, and One hundred and fiftieth Pennsylvania Volunteers,
General Martindale’s district, are now relieved from duty on the military defenses of Washington, and will without delay report to General Joseph Hooker, commanding Army of the Potomac. The quartermaster’s department will furnish the necessary transportation.

By command of Major-General Heintzelman:

CARROLL H. POTTER,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

HEADQUARTERS FIRST ARMY CORPS,
February 12, 1863.

Colonel FAIRCHILD,
Commanding Detail Second and Sixth Wisconsin Regiments:
I send inclosed instructions for an expedition with your command, with a slight sketch* of the peninsula. Supposing the transportation to be in readiness to-day, you will embark your command before dark and sail for the landing near Heathsville, which you should make by daylight; disembark and march at once for Heathsville; take possession of whatever supplies are at the supposed depot (a mail may probably be intercepted at this point), and after gathering up everything, as indicated in instructions from headquarters Army of the Potomac, in the neighborhood and loading them upon the boat, send the boat up to some landing at Nomini Bay, and proceed to march your command by land to that point, gathering in all the forage, soldiers on parole, contrabands, &c., seizing for this purpose such transportation as you may find in the country. Much must be left to your judgment in conducting the expedition, and depend upon the information you gain on the spot as to the direction in which you move your command, &c. It is probable that our cavalry will occupy Westmoreland Court-House to cover embarkation of what you bring up to that point. You will enforce the strictest discipline, and exact from all a strict compliance with orders upon the march, and summarily punish any unauthorized plundering, it being understood that everything taken is for the use of the Government. Anything more than this is nothing less than robbery.

Yours, &c.,

JOHN F. REYNOLDS,
Major-General of Volunteers.

HEADQUARTERS FIRST ARMY CORPS,
February 12, 1863.

Colonel GAVIN,
Commanding Seventh Indiana Regiment:
I inclose copies of instructions from headquarters Army of the Potomac, with a sketch* of the peninsula below. Supposing the boats to be ready at Belle Plain to-day, you will embark your command and sail through the night for some landing near Mattox Creek, and proceed to carry out the instructions contained therein with regard to forage, rebel soldiers, contrabands, &c. Proceeding, intercept a mail and go on down to some landing at Nomini Bay, to which point you will direct the boat to meet you. If you can learn of anything at Leedstown which will make that place worth while visiting, you can do so; you might possibly find a mail there. You will enforce the strictest discipline and obedience upon the part of every one, and punish summarily any unauthorized plundering. Everything taken is for the use of the Government; anything other than this is robbery. It is probable that some of our cavalry will be sent to Westmoreland Court-House.

* Not found.

Yours, &c.,

JOHN F. REYNOLDS,
Major-General of Volunteers, Commanding.

HEADQUARTERS FIRST ARMY CORPS,
February 12, 1863.

Brigadier-General PLEASONTON,
Commanding Cavalry Division:

GENERAL: I am directed to send down an infantry expedition (to be absent three or four days) as far as Heathsville, and to come up along the river for the purpose of gathering in forage and breaking up any depots they may find, &c. I expect them to get off this evening so as to land to-morrow morning early, the 13th, and was directed to notify the cavalry in my front. It is important that none of the citizens should know of the movement. Will you please notify your cavalry of this in such a manner as to avoid its being made public, and if you have no direct instructions in the matter, would like a regiment of cavalry sent down as far as Westmoreland Court-House to cover the embarkation of such property as may be brought in at Nomini Bay. I send this by my aide-de-camp, Captain Wadsworth, who will carry any order you may have to the cavalry and accompany any party you may send out.

J. F. REYNOLDS,
Major-General.

GENERAL ORDERS, HEADQUARTERS FIRST ARMY CORPS,
No. 1.

In obedience to General Orders, No. 6, paragraph 1, headquarters Army of the Potomac, current series, the undersigned assumes command of the Third Army Corps. The following staff are announced: Capt. O. H. Hart, assistant adjutant-general; Lieut. Robert H. Torre, acting aide-de-camp; Surg. Thomas Sim, medical director; Capt. H. D. F. Young, ordnance officer; Capt. Van B. Bates, provost-marshal, who will be respected and obeyed accordingly. The headquarters of the corps are established at Boscobel, formerly occupied as headquarters of the Second Division.

D. E. SICKLES,
Brigadier-General, Commanding Third Corps.

HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE POTOMAC,
February 15, 1863.

Lieut. R. S. MACKENZIE,
Engineers:

(Through Lieutenant Cross.)

The work to be done at Potomac Creek will consist of (1) a small redoubt thirty or forty feet square on the highest point shown you; (2) an oblong closed work, with two or perhaps three barbettes for field guns in the lower position, the length of this work about forty yards; (3) the palisading with parapet toward the river at the end of the bridge, and (4) a semicircular work to cover the block-house on the left bank of the creek. If the block-house can be sunk two or three feet it should be done, as it would save work. The work covering the block-house from artillery fire should be at least twelve feet from it and with a banquette. A working party of 600 men is ordered. To employ this force it will be necessary to begin on all the works. The working party will be under your control. Lieutenant Cross will furnish you any assistance he can.

C. B. COMSTOCK,

Lieutenant of Engineers and Chief Engineer Army of the Potomac.

[25.]

HEADQUARTERS THIRD ARMY CORPS,

February 26, 1863—12 m.

Brig. Gen. S. WILLIAMS,

Assistant Adjutant-General, Army of the Potomac:

GENERAL: Colonel Bailey, commanding outposts, reports that after examining the dragoons whom he arrested yesterday for shamefully passing through his lines to the rear when attacked by the enemy, and finding some of them hurt by falling from their horses and one wounded, he let them go. The orders received last night will be strictly observed in the case of other stampedes who fall into Colonel Bailey’s hands. Colonel Bailey reports a large force of our cavalry passing his post about 3 o’clock this morning. Colonel Bailey expresses confidence in the means at his disposal to repel any attack which may be made by Lee’s cavalry.

I am, general, very respectfully, your most obedient servant,

D. E. SICKLES,

Brigadier-General, Commanding.

[25.]

GENERAL ORDERS, No. 16. HDQRS. 1ST DIV., 1ST ARMY CORPS,

ARMY OF THE POTOMAC,

Near Belle Plain, March 1, 1863.

The undersigned hereby assumes command of the First Division, First Army Corps, Army of the Potomac.

G. R. PAUL,

Brigadier-General of Volunteers, Commanding.

[25.]

HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE POTOMAC,

March 1, 1863.

Captain POTTER,

Assistant Adjutant-General, Defenses of Washington:

Having marched ninety miles in less than forty-eight hours in endeavoring to accomplish the object for which it was sent out, it would be advisable to let my command rest for the day, where they have plenty of forage, at Falmouth Station. Will march at 6 o’clock to-morrow. If absolutely necessary can start immediately. If so, please telegraph.

Roads very bad.*

P. WYNDHAM,

Colonel, Commanding.

[25.]

*For reply, see Heintzelman to Butterfield, Vol. XXV, Part II, p. 115.
HDQRS. MIDDLE DEPARTMENT, EIGHTH ARMY CORPS,
Baltimore, March 4, 1863.

Brig. Gen. W. L. ELLIOTT, Carlisle, Pa.:
You will proceed without delay to Winchester, Va., there to report for duty to Brigadier-General Milroy.

By command of Major-General Schenck:

WM. D. WHIPPLE,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

[25.]

HEADQUARTERS FOURTH ARMY CORPS,
Yorktown, Va., March 7, 1863.

Major-General DIX,
Commanding Department of Virginia:

SIR: As yet I have obtained no reliable information concerning the landings on the Pamunkey. The change of commanders of the gunboats has caused some unavoidable delay. Commander Creighton thinks he will get some news from that quarter shortly, and I will go up to West Point to-morrow with him and point out such features of the country as I am acquainted with. He has spies out at this time. One of the two scouts sent out from the Fifth Pennsylvania Cavalry was left sick by his companion in the woods. He has not yet returned, and I fear he has fallen into the hands of the enemy. It is very difficult to penetrate the enemy's lines, and the reports brought by refugees are too conflicting to be relied upon. It appears to be nearly certain that the enemy has a force at the White House, at or near Slatersville, and at Diascond bridge. Their pickets guard the shore of the Pamunkey from the White House down to the mouth, and we shall not be able to land without their notice, and perhaps not without their opposition. The new regiments are doing well in their drill generally, and it will be dangerous to trust them before the enemy until they reach a certain point of discipline and instruction.

I remain, &c.,

E. D. KEYES,
Major-General.

[18.]

HEADQUARTERS NINTH ARMY CORPS,
Newport News, Va., March 8, 1863.

Brig. Gen. O. B. WILLCOX:

GENERAL: I have the honor to inform you that in consequence of the temporary absence of Major-General Smith the command of the corps devolves upon you.

By command of Major-General Smith:

NICOLAS BOWEN,
Lieutenant-Colonel and Assistant Adjutant-General.

[25.]

HDQRS. MIDDLE DEPARTMENT, EIGHTH ARMY CORPS
Baltimore, March 8, 1863.

Brigadier-General KELLEY,
Commanding, &c., Harper's Ferry, Va.:

GENERAL: In view of the present state of affairs in Western Virginia the general commanding appreciates your preference of a command west of Harper's Ferry. He will organize the First Division, therefore, for you, to consist of the Fourth, Fifth, and Sixth Brigades named on the plan submitted to you, leaving the other three brigades at Maryland Heights, Harper's Ferry, and Martinsburg, to constitute a division for Brigadier-General Roberts. The objection to this assignment for you is that it will reduce your command below what you ought to have. However, besides its political importance you will be expected to claim and add to it all or most of the regiments of General Moor's brigade, sending only to Brigadier-General Milroy the two Virginia regiments which formerly belonged to his division. With a view to this it is desirable that you should as soon as possible communicate with Brigadier-General Moor, and send to these headquarters a memorandum of the forces which may be properly claimed as belonging to the Eighth Army Corps, to be organized into a fourth brigade for you. Ascertain and state also where those several regiments are now stationed and by whom severally commanded. With reference to this change you had better, perhaps, in anticipation of it as soon as convenient after Brigadier-General Roberts has arrived and is settled at Maryland Heights, return again and establish your headquarters at Cumberland, or at such point west of Martinsburg or Cumberland as seems best to you. Before you leave Harper's Ferry, however, you will proceed to make the changes heretofore indicated by the general commanding in the disposition of the troops at that point, putting Brigadier-General Kenly's brigade, consisting of four or five regiments of Maryland infantry, the Fourteenth Pennsylvania Cavalry, the Baltimore battery of light artillery, and Seventeenth Battery Indiana Light Artillery, on the Virginia side of the river, and the rest of the forces there, including the New York and Massachusetts heavy artillery, on Maryland Heights and Maryland side. The general commanding will postpone announcement of any new organization until the Senate adjourns, which must be in a few days. This is on account of Col. B. F. Smith and Colonel Morris being nominated, as he understands, for brigadier-generals. If Colonel Morris is confirmed, he can command a brigade on Maryland Heights under Brigadier-General Roberts, and thus relieve from the objection of Colonel Staunton, Colonel Schley, or another Maryland colonel having that command.

I have the honor to be, your most obedient servant,

W. H. CHESEBROUGH,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

---

Brigadier-General MILROY,
Commanding Second Division:

GENERAL: The general commanding having sent the Twelfth Pennsylvania Cavalry, heretofore stationed at Martinsburg and Kearneysville, to report to you and become a part of your command, there is now no cavalry remaining upon that part of the railroad except the four companies of the Potomac Home Brigade. He advises, therefore, that the scouting of your cavalry should be frequently westward, so as to cover the approaches toward Martinsburg, Kearneysville, and that direction generally.

I am, very respectfully, your most obedient servant,

W. H. CHESEBROUGH,
Assistant Adjutant-General.
Lieut. Col. L. H. Pelouze,
Asst. Adjt. Gen., Seventh Army Corps, Dept. of Virginia:

COLONEL: I have the honor to report, in addition to the testimony furnished by the deserter from the enemy yesterday, that a negro in the employ of Captain Coffin, post commissary, was in Gloucester County on the evening of the 6th instant. He reports that when about five miles out from the point he saw a large force, composed of cavalry and artillery. Of the latter there were five pieces, one large gun drawn by eight horses. Of the others, two at least were brass. When he saw them they were moving toward Gloucester Court-House. He afterward was at the house where General Lee (he described him as an old looking man) dined or took tea, and from the servants he learned that Lee had told the mistress of the house that he had 5,000 men with him. The negro thought that there were not so many; that he had come down with the intention of making an attack at Gloucester Point, but had retreated because he could not discover where the pickets were, either from want of proper guides or some other reason; that he intended to return to the attack, and meantime had left two men to ride around and gain all possible information about our pickets, &c.; that he intended to place the large gun somewhere above the Gloucester Point and shell Yorktown. One reason assigned for this falling back was that some of his men had deserted, and he was afraid they would bring information of the movement to us. It will be seen that this testimony fully corroborates that furnished by the deserter, and seems to place beyond a doubt the fact that the enemy are planning an attack in considerable force upon our lines at Gloucester Point.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,
E. D. Keyes,
Major-General, Commanding Fourth Army Corps.

P. S.—The above is the substance of an account given by an intelligent contraband. It corroborates the information brought by Smith, the deserter.

HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE POTOMAC,
March 9, 1863.

General D. Butterfield,
Chief of Staff:

Sir: The works for the defense of Aquia Creek Landing and Accokeek Creek railroad bridge having been finished to-day, I have no further need of details from General Geary's division.

Very respectfully,
C. B. Comstock,
Lieutenant of Engineers and Chief Engineer Army of the Potomac.

[25.]
HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE POTOMAC,
March 9, 1863.

COMMANDING OFFICER SIXTH ARMY CORPS:

GENERAL: The commanding general expects that you will have your command in complete readiness for service at any day; that the supply of arms, clothing, equipments, pioneers' tools, ammunition, and all the necessary material will be so complete that by no possibility can there be the slightest delay, in consequence of want of preparation, whenever you may be ordered to move. The general will hold you responsible in the premises.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

JOS. DICKINSON,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

HDQRS. MIDDLE DEPARTMENT, EIGHTH ARMY CORPS,
Baltimore, March 9, 1863.

Brigadier-General MONTGOMERY,
Philadelphia:

Lieut. Col. W. D. Whipple has been ordered to Philadelphia to take the command at that post, of which you have been relieved by the War Department, and you will turn everything over to him when he arrives.

By order of Major-General Schenck:

W. H. CHESEBROUGH,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

HEADQUARTERS FOURTH ARMY CORPS,
Yorktown, Va., March 9, 1863.

Col. D. T. VAN BUREN,
Assistant Adjutant-General, Department of Virginia:

SIR: It having been reported to me from several sources that a considerable force of the enemy's cavalry and artillery had approached to the neighborhood of Gloucester Point, I crossed the lines this morning, attended by Brigadier-General Busteed and an escort of troopers, and discovered the ground they had occupied. Along a space of a little more than a mile in the road to Gloucester Court-House the enemy's cavalry and artillery remained in column from 12 o'clock Friday night till Saturday morning at dawn and then turned back. The head of their column was within a mile and a half of our pickets, and the remains of fires every twenty or thirty yards corroborate their presence. An old intelligent contraband who met the column and passed along its whole length told me they filled the road, and that it was General Fitzhugh Lee's cavalry. He was questioned continually by the rebels, and after examining him carefully myself I am convinced that they were under the command of that officer and that they numbered about 2,000 cavalry and two pieces of artillery. It has been reported by two contrabands that General Robert E. Lee came down with the cavalry. This report I do not altogether credit, though it is stated with great assurance that the old general was riding about with his two sons.

I remain, with great respect, your most obedient servant,

E. D. KEYES,
Major-General.
Major-General Sickles, Commanding Third Corps:

General: One of our scouts brings information of an intended raid by the enemy. There may be no truth in it. It will be well, however, to have vigilance enjoined upon pickets, reserves, &c., the troops kept generally in camps and arrangements made to forward prompt and reliable information of any movement.

I am, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

S. WILLIAMS,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

S. WILLIAMS,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

HEADQUARTERS THIRD ARMY CORPS,
March 12, 1863.

Brig. Gen. S. WILLIAMS,
Assistant Adjutant-General, Army of the Potomac:

General: I have the honor to report that the enemy are busily engaged constructing an earth-work within short musket range of my pickets on the opposite bank of the river. This work faces the river and commands what appears to be a practicable ford.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

D. E. SICKLES,
Major-General, Commanding.

D. E. SICKLES,
Major-General, Commanding.

HEADQUARTERS NINTH ARMY CORPS,
Newport News, Va., March 12, 1863.

Brig. Gen. B. F. KELLEY,
Commanding First Division, Harper's Ferry, Va.:

I go to New York for three days, leaving Brigadier-General Morris, by authority of the President, in command during my absence.

ROBT. C. SCHENCK,
Major-General, Commanding.

ROBT. C. SCHENCK,
Major-General, Commanding.

HEADQUARTERS NINTH ARMY CORPS,
Newport News, Va., March 12, 1863.

Brig. Gen. G. W. GETTY,
Commanding Third Division, Ninth Army Corps:

General: You will please hold your division in readiness to go to Suffolk immediately. Steamers are expected by 9 o'clock to-morrow morning to take off 2,000 or 3,000. You will take tents and camp equipage.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

O. B. WILLCOX,
Brigadier-General, Commanding Corps.

O. B. WILLCOX,
Brigadier-General, Commanding Corps.

General STURGIS, Commanding Second Division:

You will have your division prepared to move at a moment's warning.

By command of Brigadier-General Willcox:

N. BOWEN,
Lieutenant-Colonel and Assistant Adjutant-General.

N. BOWEN,
Lieutenant-Colonel and Assistant Adjutant-General.
HEADQUARTERS NINTH ARMY CORPS,
Newport News, Va., March 17, 1863.

Colonel HAWKINS:
The Ninth Regiment New York Volunteers will remain at Newport News till further orders.

By command of Brigadier-General Willcox:

[18.]

Lieutenant-Colonel and Assistant Adjutant-General.

N. BOWEN,

SPECIAL ORDERS, \ HEADQUARTERS DISTRICT OF KANAWHA,
No. 36. \ Charleston, Va., March 17, 1863.

The Fifth and Thirteenth Regiments Virginia Volunteer Infantry, Lieutenant Witcher's company, Third Virginia Cavalry, are hereby attached to the First Brigade, District of Kanawha, and will immediately report to Col. R. B. Hayes, commanding.

By command of Brig. Gen. E. P. Scammon:

[25.]

JAS. L. BOTSFORD,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

SPECIAL ORDERS, \ HEADQUARTERS MIDDLE DEPARTMENT, EIGHTH ARMY CORPS,
No. 36. \ Baltimore, March 19, 1863.

Brigadier-General ROBERTS, Comdg., &c., Harper's Ferry, Va.:
You will order the Sixth Maryland and the Sixty-seventh Pennsylvania back to Harper's Ferry.

By order of Major-General Schenck:

[25.]

W. H. CHESEBROUGH,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

SPECIAL ORDERS, \ HEADQUARTERS DEPARTMENT OF WASHINGTON,
No. 36. \ March 21, 1863.

5. The troops of General Casey's division will immediately take post as follows: First Brigade, Colonel Fessenden, at Chantilly; Second Brigade, three regiments at Wolf Run Shoals and two regiments at Union Mills; Third Brigade, General Hays, at Centerville, where General Casey will establish his headquarters. One battery of this division will be stationed at Wolf Run Shoals, one battery at Union Mills, and two batteries at Centerville.

7. Maj. Gen. J. Stahel is assigned to the command of the division of cavalry south of the Potomac, to be composed of the following brigades: First Brigade, Brig. Gen. J. T. Copeland, Fifth, Sixth, and Seventh Michigan Cavalry; Second Brigade, Col. R. Butler Price, Second Pennsylvania Cavalry, First Vermont Cavalry, First Michigan Cavalry, squadron First Ohio Cavalry; Third Brigade, Col. T. M. Bryan, Fifth New York Cavalry, First Virginia Cavalry, Eighteenth Pennsylvania Cavalry.

9. The brigade of cavalry under General J. T. Copeland is relieved from duty with General Casey's division and will report to Major-General Stahel.

10. The Ninth Michigan Battery, horse artillery, Captain Daniels, is relieved from General Barry's command, and is assigned for duty with cavalry division under Major-General Stahel.
11. Maj. Gen. Julius Stahel will establish his cavalry reserves and his own headquarters at Fairfax Station, and will make the necessary dispositions to cover with his forces the whole front from the Occoquan along Bull Run to the mouth of Goose Creek.

12. Commanders of divisions and separate brigades south of the Potomac will apply to Major-General Stahel, commanding cavalry division, for orderlies and mounted men necessary for their headquarters.

13. Col. Percy Wyndham is relieved from duty in this department and will join his command in the Army of the Potomac. The major-general commanding seize this occasion to express his high appreciation of the energy, gallantry, and devotion to the service of Colonel Wyndham, and to thank him for his services while in command of a cavalry brigade in this department.

By command of Major-General Heintzelman:

CARROLL H. POTTER,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

SPECIAL ORDERS, } HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE POTOMAC,
No. 80. } Camp near Falmouth, March 23, 1863.

By command of Major-General Hooker:

S. WILLIAMS,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

SPECIAL ORDERS, } HEADQUARTERS FIRST ARMY CORPS,
No. 76. } March 24, 1863.

8. Commanding officer of First Division will detail 200 men, with a complement of officers from the Fourth Brigade, to proceed under the command of Colonel Fairchild, Second Wisconsin Volunteers, on an expedition (with two days' cooked rations and three days' small rations and bread, the latter to be sent to the landing in wagons; greatcoats, blankets, and haversacks) to be ready to move at 4 p. m. on the 25th instant. Colonel Fairchild will report at headquarters First Division at 10 a. m. to-morrow for orders.

By command of Brigadier-General Wadsworth:

T. E. ELLSWORTH,
Captain and Aide-de-Camp.

SPECIAL ORDERS, HEADQUARTERS FIRST ARMY CORPS,
No. 77. March 25, 1863.

5. Brig. Gen. Lysander Cutler, volunteer service, having reported for duty to these headquarters, will report to the commanding officer of First Division for assignment.

By command of Major-General Reynolds:

C. KINGSBURY, JR.,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

By order of the Secretary of War:

E. D. TOWNSEND,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

7. Brig. Gen. Thomas A. Rowley, volunteer service, will report in person to the major-general commanding First Corps for assignment to a brigade.

By command of Major-General Hooker:

S. WILLIAMS,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

Instead of the Twelfth Pennsylvania Cavalry, send the First New York Cavalry, with Colonel McReynolds, to Berryville. Also send one regiment of infantry with him. Notify me of their moving, and I will send one or two regiments of infantry from Harper's Ferry. I want to establish a third brigade of your division at Berryville under command of Colonel McReynolds.

R. C. SCHENCK,
Major-General, Commanding.

The Sixty-seventh Pennsylvania Volunteer Infantry and Sixth Maryland Volunteer Infantry will be transferred permanently to your command and ordered to Berryville; also Captain Means' company of cavalry. Send with Colonel McReynolds to Berryville a section of light artillery.

W. H. CHESEBROUGH,
Lieutenant-Colonel and Assistant Adjutant-General.
Maj. Gen. Milroy reports four regiments rebel cavalry and a battery near Front Royal.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

R. C. SCHENCK,
Major-General, Commanding.

HEADQUARTERS EIGHTH ARMY CORPS,
Baltimore, Md., March 27, 1863.

Major-General MILROY,
Commanding, &c., Winchester, Va.:

Instruct Colonel McReynolds to watch and guard carefully the fords of the Shenandoah and to scout the gaps.

Very respectfully,

W. H. CHESEBROUGH,
Lieutenant-Colonel and Assistant Adjutant-General.

HEADQUARTERS MIDDLE DEPARTMENT, EIGHTH ARMY CORPS,
Baltimore, Md., March 27, 1863.

Brig. Gen. B. F. KELLEY,
Commanding, &c., Cumberland, Md.:

GENERAL: By General Orders, No. 19,* which will be issued to-morrow, you are assigned to the command of the First Division of this army corps, specially charged with the protection and defense of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad from Monocacy bridge to the Ohio River. You will proceed immediately to Harper’s Ferry, where you will at present make your headquarters and relieve Brigadier-General Roberts, who has been assigned to the command of the Fourth Separate Brigade. You will confer freely and fully with General Roberts, who is not so familiar with the country in which he is to operate as you are, and give him all the information you can as he may desire in relation to that locality, the people, and the points where troops are stationed and their connections.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

WM. H. CHESEBROUGH,
Lieutenant-Colonel and Assistant Adjutant-General.

Brigadier-General ROBERTS,
Commanding, &c., Harper’s Ferry, Va.:

GENERAL: Brig. Gen. A. Moor (colonel Twenty-eighth Regiment Ohio Volunteer Infantry) not having been confirmed by the Senate, it becomes necessary to assign another officer to a command west of the mountains. General Orders, No. 20,† organizes the Fourth Separate

* See Vol. XXV, Part II, p. 158.
† See Vol. XXV, Part II, p. 163.
Brigade of this corps, composed principally of the troops which were under General Moor, and the command of that brigade is assigned to you. Your headquarters may be for the present at Buckhannon, but to be transferred to Beverly or elsewhere as the season advances and as the exigencies and conveniences of the service may, in your judgment, require. The other troops of General Cox's command which were transferred to this department with the District of Western Virginia will remain under the command of Brig. Gen. E. P. Scammon.
General Cox himself will not remain in or return to Western Virginia.
Brigadier-General Kelley is familiar with the geography, people, and location of troops within the district of country or region wherein your operations will be, and you are directed to confer with him in order to obtain the fullest information he can give you. On consultation with the Secretary of War and General-in-Chief at Washington, and considering the special character of the service, it has been thought best that all the troops employed on the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad from the Monocacy to the Ohio River should be under one command, and that General Kelley, who has been so long on the duty, should be placed in charge of that protective force. Your command will be an independent one, reporting directly to these headquarters.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

WM. H. CHESEBROUGH,

[25.] Lieutenant-Colonel and Assistant Adjutant-General.

SPECIAL ORDERS, }
No. 79. }
HEADQUARTERS FIRST ARMY CORPS,

March 27, 1863.

3. Brig. Gen. Thomas A. Rowley, volunteer service, will report in person to Brigadier-General Doubleday, commanding Third Division, for assignment to a brigade.

By command of Major-General Reynolds:

C. KINGSBURY, JR.,

[25.] Lieutenant-Colonel and Assistant Adjutant-General.

HEADQUARTERS THIRD ARMY CORPS,

March 30, 1863.

His Excellency the President:

Sir: I have the honor to commend to the attention of Your Excel-leny the services of Prince Salm, of Prussia, a colonel in the Eighth New York Volunteers, with reference to his promotion. This distinguished officer has shared with us for more than a year the fortunes of our eventful war. He brought to our cause the experience of several campaigns in Europe and the professional advantages of a thorough military education. This is the first instance in which I have ventured to address a recommendation to the Government in behalf of any officer not serving in my own command, nor should I feel justified in this devation from the rule hitherto prescribed for myself unless I had enjoyed the opportunity to assure myself of the eminent ability and worth of Colonel Salm. If he has not before been brought more directly to the notice of Your Excellency it is none the less flattering to his unobtrusive merit. And I am sure that it will be gratifying to the people of his country to see that the zeal and devotion of one who, following the illustrious example of La Fayette and Steuben, has been signalized by that recognition which, fairly earned in the field and generously bestowed by those in authority, confers upon a soldier a recompense not more welcome than just. The regiment which Colonel Salm commands will be mustered out of service in the latter part of April. Unless promoted to the rank of brigadier-general, for which he is abundantly qualified, the service will lose in his unwilling retirement one of its most accomplished and faithful officers.

I am, sir, very respectfully, your most obedient servant,

D. E. SICKLES,
Major-General, Commanding.

HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE POTOMAC,
March 31, 1863.

Major-General BUTTERFIELD,
Chief of Staff:

SIR: In case a siege of Richmond is deemed among the possibilities of the coming campaign, I think the chief quartermaster should be notified that he may be called on to furnish on our arrival in front of Richmond 10,000 shovels, 5,000 picks, 5,000 axes, and 2,000 shingling hatchets; that the Engineer Department should hold in readiness 30,000 sand bags, and that the secret service should, if possible, obtain authentic maps of the defenses of Richmond, either through their agents or by the public offer of large rewards. Such maps would be of no less value in case of an assault than in case of a siege. In the first case they would save valuable time that would otherwise be spent in selecting the proper point of attack, or might indicate at once that point. Such maps are undoubtedly in existence. Copies or originals may perhaps be obtained. It is believed to be impossible to compile such maps here from information given by persons who enter our lines, so as to obtain with sufficient accuracy either the strength of the works or the character of the ground around them.

Very respectfully,

C. B. COMSTOCK,
Lieutenant of Engineers and Chief Engineer Army of the Potomac.

HEADQUARTERS THIRD ARMY CORPS,
March 31, 1863.

Brigadier-General BIRNEY:

GENERAL: It is reported from the outposts that the enemy is approaching our lines in considerable force. You will please hold your command in readiness for a prompt movement.

By command of Major-General Sickles:

O. H. HART,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

(Same to Brigadier-General Whipple.)

HEADQUARTERS THIRD ARMY CORPS,
March 31, 1863.

Major-General BERRY,
Commanding Second Division:

GENERAL: Have your picket and grand guard on the alert, and see that the commanding officer of your outpost is in communication with the advance guard of cavalry and with the general officer of outposts on your right and left.

By command of Major-General Sickles:

O. H. HART,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

EXECUTIVE MANSION,
Washington, April 3, 1863.

Major-General Hooker:

Our plan is to pass Saturday night on the boat; go over from Aquia Creek to your camp Sunday morning; remain with you till Tuesday morning, and then return. Our party will probably not exceed six persons of all sorts.

A. LINCOLN.

HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE POTOMAC,
April 3, 1863.

To His Excellency the President of the United States:

Your telegram of to-day has just been received by me. I am rejoiced to learn that you have appointed a time to visit this army, and only regret that your party is not as large as our hospitality. Your wishes will be secured at Aquia on your arrival.

I have the honor to be, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

JOSEPH Hooker,
Major-General, Commanding.

[25.]

APRIL 3, 1863.

As General Halleck did not oppose General Humphreys' promotion, but on the contrary supported General Burnside's recommendation for such promotion, the whole motive of General Humphreys' complaints falls to the ground.

H. W. HALLECK,
General-in-Chief.

HEADQUARTERS FOURTH ARMY CORPS,
Fort Yorktown, Va., April 4, 1863.

Brig. Gen. Rufus King,
Commanding Brigade:

General: The commanding general directs me to state that he desires to have an expedition sent into Gloucester County early to-morrow morning, for the purpose of reconnoitering the country, to discover if possible the movements of the enemy, who are reported to be hovering about our lines, and also to bring in a quantity of grain known to be collected for the rebel army. The force will consist of 300 infantry from the Fourth Delaware Volunteers, the battalion of the Second Massachusetts Cavalry now at Gloucester Point, and 100 cavalry from the Sixth New York and Fifth Pennsylvania Cavalry, who will be sent across the river at 6 in the morning, the whole to be under command of Col. A. H. Grimshaw, Fourth Delaware Volunteers, to whom the commanding general desires you will give the necessary instructions. These will be to start as soon as the cavalry from this side report to him, to scour well the country, observing all necessary precaution to prevent a mishap; to have always an advance guard and flankers well out, so that if approached by an overwhelming force they can easily fall back, for it is not expected that they will be taken. In any event, it is not the general's desire that they go farther than where the grain is stored—Colonel Tabb's. The post quartermaster has been directed to furnish each cavalryman, to the extent of his ability, with a grain sack; this to the end that as much as possible may be loaded and brought in, and the general desires that all that cannot be taken away in that manner be destroyed. The men should be provided with one day's cooked rations.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

C. C. SUYDAM,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

HEADQUARTERS FOURTH ARMY CORPS,
Fort Yorktown, Va., April 5, 1863.

Lieutenant-Commander GILLIS, U. S. Navy,
Senior Officer at Yorktown:

SIR: I have to acknowledge the receipt of your report of the 2d instant to Acting Rear-Admiral S. P. Lee of your recent successful expedition to Mobjack Bay. I also acknowledge your letter to me of the 4th instant. It is exactly in accordance with my wishes to continue my co-operation with you in destroying the resources of the rebels. In order that no time may be lost, will you do me the favor to come on shore at once, and we will arrange an expedition for to-morrow.

I remain, very respectfully and truly, your obedient servant,

E. D. KEYES,
Major-General.

[18.]

NAVY DEPARTMENT,
Washington, D. C., April 6, 1863—8 p. m.

Major-General Hooker,
Headquarters:

There is reasonable ground to expect important news hourly from Charleston via Richmond. Will you be on the qui vive for anything from the enemy opposite.

G. V. FOX,
Assistant Secretary.

HEADQUARTERS DEPARTMENT OF VIRGINIA,
Fort Yorktown, Va., April 7, 1863—6 a.m.

Colonel GRIMSHAW,
Commanding, &c.:

SIR: Your orders were given with a view to your return to Gloucester Point to-night. It was supposed you might otherwise be subject to capture by the enemy's cavalry. If you can make such arrangements as to be certainly protected by the gun-boats, you are authorized to remain out till to-morrow night. The enemy's cavalry are so numerous that I do not think it at all prudent for you to remain all night, unless you can have their full protection. You must retire from any point before an overwhelming force.

I remain, respectfully, your obedient servant,

E. D. KEYES,
Major-General.

HEADQUARTERS FOURTH ARMY CORPS,
Fort Yorktown, Va., April 9, 1863.

Maj. Gen. H. W. HALLECK,

General in-Chief:

GENERAL: I have the honor to send for your information the following extract from the testimony of two refugees from the South, citizens of Prussia, who have just come through Richmond, on their way from South Carolina to Europe. They state:

That at about 10 a.m. on Friday, the 3d instant, a vast assemblage of women, numbering at least 4,000, congregated in the park in front of the capitol and clamorously demanded bread for their starving families. Jeff. Davis appeared on the steps of the capitol and made a speech to the crowd, promising them money, which they declared to be worthless, and his voice was drowned amid cries for “bread!” “the Union!” “No more starvation!” &c. The crowd then proceeded to the general commissary depot, which was broken into and a large quantity of stores carried off by the people. Davis remarked that such disgraceful affairs were worse than Union victories.

This account so entirely corroborates those published in the papers of yesterday, and is besides so much more minute than those reports, that I deemed its communication to the Headquarters of the Army as of sufficient importance.

I have the honor to be, general, your obedient servant,

E. D. KEYES,
Major-General, Commanding Department of Virginia.

APRIL 10, 1863.

Another copy of this communication was indorsed by me to the Secretary of War. No further action seems necessary.

H. W. HALLECK,
General-in-Chief.

SPECIAL ORDERS, }
No. 55. }
HDQRS. DEPARTMENT OF WASHINGTON,
April 11, 1863.

7. The following designated troops will be immediately prepared to take the field. They must be ready by the morning of the 13th instant: Twenty-fifth and Twenty-seventh Maine Volunteers; Twelfth, Thirteenth, Fourteenth, Fifteenth, Sixteenth, and Tenth Vermont Volunteers; Thirty-ninth, One hundred and eleventh, One hundred and twenty-fifth, One hundred and twenty-sixth, One hundred and eighteenth, One hundred and forty-first, One hundred and twenty-seventh, One hundred and forty-second, One hundred and forty-third, and One hundred and seventeenth New York Volunteers; Second Connecticut Battery; First Rhode Island Light Artillery, Company H; Keystone (Pennsylvania) Battery; Eleventh and Ninth Massachusetts Batteries; Thirty-ninth, Fortieth, and Thirty-fourth Massachusetts Volunteers; Fourteenth New Hampshire Volunteers; Tenth New Jersey Volunteers; Twenty-second and Nineteenth Massachusetts Volunteers; Seventeenth, Twelfth, Sixteenth, Nineteenth, and Twenty-seventh New York Batteries; Twenty-sixth Michigan Volunteers; Eleventh Rhode Island Volunteers, and First Delaware Battery.

8. Each regiment of infantry will provide itself with forty rounds of ammunition in cartridge-boxes and sixty rounds in wagons to each man. Each battery of artillery will have its ammunition boxes filled and 200 rounds in wagons.

9. The allowance of tents will be as follows: For each division and brigade commander, one wall-tent; to every two officers of their staff, one wall-tent; to the colonel, field and staff officers of each full regiment, three wall-tents; to each officer commanding a battery, one wall-tent; to each company officer, one shelter-tent; to every two non-commissioned officers and soldiers, one shelter-tent. Commanders of regiments will draw immediately shelter-tents as prescribed, but no issue thereof will be made to the men without orders from these headquarters. The authorized allowance in each case will correspond with the proportionate strength of the regiment.

10. Officers’ baggage will be limited to blankets, a small valise or carpetbag, and a reasonable mess kit.

11. The troops will have seven days’ rations, of which three cooked will be carried in the haversack.

* * * * * * *

By command of Major-General Heintzelman:

CARROLL H. POTTER, Assistant Adjutant-General.

Memoranda in reference to crossing Rappahannock.

APRIL 12, 1863.

It is assumed that the force of the enemy within fifteen miles of Fredericksburg is probably 40,000 men and does not exceed 60,000. Cross 30,000 men at Port Royal, with instruction to move out to Bowling Green and Fredericksburg road. If the enemy is retreating by Telegraph or Bowling Green road, to attack him in flank; if not, to move toward Fredericksburg and attack him in rear. Simultaneously with this cross the balance of the army at Franklin’s crossing and Smithfield. If the enemy could be persuaded to wait an attack anywhere, it would probably be in their old position, and yet prisoners say that nothing has been done to strengthen the place since the day after the fight. Attacked by nearly double his force, it is thought the position could be carried even if the enemy did not know there was a large detachment on his line of communications. If the navy can guarantee to have the pontoons in rafts of three or four boats at Port Royal at daylight in the morning, the bridge should be finished in three hours, and at night the detachment should be in position on the Bowling Green and Fredericksburg road and watching the Telegraph road. At Franklin’s crossing the bridges should be ready at 8 a.m. Cavalry, with two or three brigades of infantry to clear the way, should cross at United States Ford or at Banks’ Ford, if possible, and act on the enemy’s flank and rear. If it were deemed impracticable for the cavalry to force a passage at these points, as they would have a long detour to make, they should start the preceding day. In case of the crossings mentioned, the enemy would seem to have three courses to follow—first, to fall back at once; second, to send a detachment to meet ours toward Port Royal and to fight us at Franklin’s crossing; third, to leave a rear guard at Franklin’s crossing and throw his main force on our detachment near Port Royal. In the first case both our main body and detachment should follow at once; in the other two, both main body and detachments should attack as soon as they are in presence of the enemy. The cavalry should be prepared for the possibility of the enemy’s falling back toward Gordonsville. It would seem that nothing decisive would be effected by crossing the army at Banks’ or United States Ford. The crossing would be on the enemy’s left flank and he could not concentrate rapidly, but, on the other hand, if he fell back we should be seven or fifteen miles from his central masses when across the river. Prisoners have stated that when the attempt was made to cross at Banks’ Ford very few of the enemy’s troops were moved up, as they did not believe we could cross there. May not the true reason have been that they intended to fall back if we crossed and proposed only to resist the building of the bridges?

C. B. COMSTOCK,

Captain of Engineers and Chief Engineer Army of the Potomac.

(Handed General Hooker April 12.)

[25.]

HEADQUARTERS FOURTH ARMY CORPS,
Fort Yorktown, Va., April 12, 1863.

Maj. WILLIAM P. HALL,
Commanding Sixth New York Cavalry:

MAJOR: As Colonel West may be attacked in force at Fort Magruder at any time and your and our communication with him be cut off, the commanding general desires you to be governed by the following instructions until further orders: You will keep yourself constantly advised of the movements on the front, patrolling the country well to your front and flanks to detect any attempt of the enemy to get to the rear of Fort Magruder. In case you find your communication with Colonel West cut off, you will report the fact at once to these headquarters. Captain Paul will then be ordered to report at once to you, and with your command thus strengthened you will exercise the utmost care and vigilance in watching the enemy’s movements. You will not retire to this fort until actually compelled to do so to insure the safety of your command, but will constantly patrol the roads and country generally, and will make frequent reports to these headquarters of everything that occurs.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

C. C. SUYDAM,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

[18.]
CAMP NEAR FALMOUTH, VA., April 13, 1863.

[General GEORGE B. McCLELLAN:]

GENERAL: I read with great surprise recently that portion of your report upon the battle of Antietam, in which, when giving your reasons for not renewing the battle on the morning of the 18th and referring to the time of arrival of re-enforcements, you state—and Humphreys' division of new troops, fatigued with forced marches, were arriving throughout the day, but were not available until near its close.*

This statement does me and my command great injustice, and in connection with the circumstances under which I took command of that division in Washington and marched it to the Army of the Potomac, it has, I believe, done me a serious injury at the War Department. I know that the commander of an army of 100,000 men cannot, from personal observation, be acquainted with the movements and condition of each division, yet there were facts connected with the time at which my division joined the army at Antietam and the number of men present when it lay in position in the rear of General Morell's division, and the time at which it occupied Morell's position when he vacated it, that I thought would have prevented any misapprehension or forgetfulness as to those points. First, as to the time at which my division arrived. It was not later than 7 o'clock on the morning of Thursday, the 18th of September, when I reached your headquarters, having halted my command a quarter or third of a mile from it. I reported at once to General Williams, but some fifteen minutes elapsed before I was introduced to your tent, where apparently you had just finished breakfast. The breakfast I partook of at your invitation refreshed me to such a degree that I shall not soon forget it. I mention it to recall the time to your recollection. Your inquiries were directed to the strength of my division, their ammunition, number and kind of pieces of artillery and their ammunition, my replies to which appeared to give you great satisfaction. The fact of their having marched all night and from about 4 or half past 4 the preceding afternoon, was of course well known to you, and to my remark that many had fallen out of the ranks and that the division would need a couple of hours of rest and refreshment before it could be worth much, you replied that they could have during the day, to get them to the ground occupied by General Porter's corps. You stated briefly to me some of the chief events of the day before—particularly the position of General Burnside toward the close of the day—and at that time and in conclusion mentioned that you had not yet decided whether to renew the battle that morning. Between half an hour and an hour after leaving your tent I marched my division past your headquarters, and while it was passing through the cluster of houses called Keedysville you passed it on your way from your headquarters (to General Burnside's position I supposed). During the halt of an hour or an hour and a half, while I was at your headquarters, the greater part of those who had fallen out on the march came up, and my division was about 6,000 strong when you passed it. Troops in Keedysville delayed its progress, but at 9.30, or at latest 10 o'clock, it was in position 400 or 500 yards in rear of Morell's division on the reverse slope of the hill, the apex of which was occupied by General Porter and his staff. About an hour later General Morell evacuated his position and my division occupied it, filing past you as they did so. This was before midday, and I believe not later than 11 o'clock. My division, all told, consisted of nearly 7,000 men. The morning report on the 20th of September shows that about 500 men, sick and others, had been left behind by the brigades before they reported to me in Washington. There were therefore about 500 stragglers, or men who had been unable to keep up during the night march of more than twenty-three miles, or rejoin their regiments when my division marched past your headquarters and took up the position in rear of Morell. As to the condition of my men for battle and their spirit, it is to be remarked that, unused to fatigue, their making such a march with the object of being up in time for the expected battle that day was good evidence before trial that they would do their duty, and they have proved it since. Refreshed by two hours' rest and by food, they were ready to do their part in the expected encounter. Having, I hope, recalled the facts to your mind upon the points of time of arrival and numbers present, I now wish to present to you those respecting the forced marches I had made. In reality I had made but one—the night march that brought me to the Army of the Potomac. On Sunday, the 14th of September, at daylight, I marched from Washington and reached Monocacy depot, three miles from Frederick, on Tuesday afternoon, having marched each day about fourteen or fifteen miles. Here I received orders from General Porter, commanding the corps to which my division was attached, to take post in front of Frederick, in order to cover it and to watch my left. I passed the next morning in examining my ground and country in front of Frederick, and making the necessary arrangements with the military governor of that town, &c., and was returning to camp to move my division when, at about 3.30 o'clock in the afternoon of Wednesday, the 17th, I received an order from you, signed by General Marcy, directing me to join the army. I set my division in motion immediately, and at sunset, after marching five miles, received a communication from General Porter informing me of the battle at Antietam, going on as he wrote, and directing me to march all night and join the army by daylight if possible. The effect with which I carried out those directions I have just stated. I and my command thought we had done our duty under great difficulties in a manner that entitled us to approval. Nothing but the spirit of heroism would have carried men who had recently entered the service and who were unused to fatigue and hardship through that march. Their mortification at finding their acts not recognized, one sensitive to approbation may imagine. I am responsible for their acts, and your report would make me as a laggard, and as such I am convinced it is received at the War Department. Under this conviction I have recited to that Department the facts I have just repeated to you,* with the hope you will do me and my command the justice of correcting the error I have pointed out.

* See Vol. XIX, Part I, p. 32.

I am, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

A. A. HUMPHREYS,

Brigadier-General.

SPECIAL ORDERS, { HDQRS. DEPARTMENT OF WASHINGTON,
No. 57. } April 14, 1863.

7. The following troops will embark at daylight to-morrow morning for Norfolk, reporting at Fort Monroe: The Second Brigade, General Abercrombie's division, with the exception of the Sixteenth Virginia Volunteers; the Third Brigade, General Abercrombie's division; the One hundred and seventeenth New York Volunteers, of Colonel Haskin’s division; the Eleventh Rhode Island Volunteers, from the Convalescent Camp, and the One hundred and sixty-ninth New York Volunteers, from General Martindale’s command.

By command of Major-General Heintzelman:

CARROLL H. POTTER,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

---

SPECIAL ORDERS,} HDQRS. DEPARTMENT OF WASHINGTON,

No. 58. }

April 15, 1863.

By command of Major-General Heintzelman:

CARROLL H. POTTER,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

3. Brig. Gen. J. J. Abercrombie is relieved from the command of his division, and will assume command of the division heretofore commanded by Major-General Casey.

4. General Abercrombie will establish his headquarters as designated in Special Orders, No. 36, current series, from these headquarters.

5. The Ninth Massachusetts Battery and Seventeenth New York Battery are detached from General Abercrombie’s command, and will report to Col. H. G. Sickel, commanding Pennsylvania Reserves.

7. The Sixteenth Regiment Virginia Volunteers is temporarily attached to Brig. Gen. R. O. Tyler’s command.

---

WAR DEPARTMENT,

Washington City, April 16, 1863—3.30 p. m.

Major-General Dix:

Thanks for your note and the newspapers just received. You shall have every man that can be spared. I am with you in the hope you can strike a good blow.

EDWIN M. STANTON.

---

SPECIAL ORDERS,} HDQRS. ARMY OF THE POTOMAC,

No. 104. }

Camp near Falmouth, April 16, 1863.

By command of Major-General Hooker:

S. WILLIAMS,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

By command of Major-General Heintzelman:

CARROLL H. POTTER,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

NEWPORT BARRACKS,
April 17, 1863—7 p. m.

Major-General Peck:

I have been out since daylight this morning reconnoitering Swansborough and vicinity and have just returned, finding my scouts just in via Bogue Banks. They report that day before yesterday all the Georgians left excepting fifteen men. The reports that have been widely circulated of an increased force being sent this way is said in Swansborough to have been meant to cover the retirement of troops to Richmond. There is no one at Jacksonville, no one at Piney Green; the twenty men at Palo Alto have been cut down to eight, and three remain at Smith's Mills. Some dismounted cavalry in Onslow County are reported to have been sent to Virginia as infantry. There are two men from Kingston, at home in Swansborough on furlough, fishing. All can easily be captured and I respectfully and earnestly beg permission to go over to-morrow night and do it—or go up to-morrow to New Berne and submit to you a plan that has been long in preparation to do it. It can be done with no risk, I think.

EDW. H. RIPLEY,
Colonel.

Please reply to-night.

[18.]
5. The First Heavy Artillery (Eleventh Vermont Volunteers) will report for temporary duty to Brig. Gen. J. H. Martindale, military governor of Washington, D. C.

By command of Major-General Heintzelman:

LEAVITT HUNT,
Major and Acting Assistant Adjutant-General.

NEW YORK, April 21, 1863.

Brig. Gen. A. A. HUMPHREYS,
Fifth Corps, Army of the Potomac, Falmouth, Va.:

GENERAL: Your letter of the 13th instant is received. It will afford me pleasure to make the corrections your letter suggests in the full and final report I am now preparing. My impression has been that your command was not in condition to be thrown into action until near the close of the 18th, if then; but I never attributed any blame to you or your troops for it, regarding it as the necessary result of circumstances beyond your control. I do not now see that any censure upon yourself could be implied from the paragraph you quote. None was intended.

I am, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

GEO. B. McCLELLAN,
Major-General, U. S. Army.

SPECIAL ORDERS, No. 64. (Department of Washington, April 21, 1863.}

6. The One hundred and fifty-second New York Volunteers will embark at once from foot of Sixth street, Washington, D. C., for Fortress Monroe, and will report to Maj. Gen. John A. Dix. One sergeant and ten men will remain as a guard of its Government property until it can be properly disposed of.

By command of Major-General Heintzelman:

CARROLL H. POTTER,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

SPECIAL ORDERS, No. 186. (Headquarters of the Army, Adjutant-General’s Office, Washington, April 24, 1863.}

Brig. Gen. J. H. Van Alen, U. S. Volunteers, will report to the commanding general Army of the Potomac for assignment to duty.

By command of Major-General Halleck:

E. D. TOWNSEND,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

GENERAL ORDERS, No. 51. (Headquarters First Army Corps, April 24, 1863.}

The commanding general takes occasion to thank the Twenty-fourth Michigan and Fourteenth Brooklyn Regiments, under Colonels Morrow and Fowler, for the prompt manner in which they accomplished the object of the expedition to Port Royal.* The endurance shown by their march of nearly thirty-six miles in twenty-four hours, during the very inclement weather of yesterday, proves their value as tried and experienced soldiers, and entitles them to the highest admiration and praise.

By command of Major-General Reynolds:

C. KINGSBURY, JR.,

*Lieutenant-Colonel and Assistant Adjutant-General.

---

HDQRS. MIDDLE DEPARTMENT, EIGHTH ARMY CORPS,

Baltimore, April 24, 1863.

Major-General HALLECK,

*General-in-Chief, Washington, D. C.:

By telegram from Major-General Milroy I learn that the expedition under Brigadier-General Elliott is a success. Captured about 20 prisoners and some 30 horses; 9 rebels killed; lost 2 in killed.

ROBT. C. SCHENCK,

Major-General, Commanding.

---

HDQRS. MIDDLE DEPARTMENT, EIGHTH ARMY CORPS,

Baltimore, April 25, 1863.

Brigadier-General KELLEY,

*Harper's Ferry, Va.:

Governor Peirpoint authorizes the calling out of Wheat's brigade of militia to aid Colonel Wilkinson, if needed. You will let me know accordingly, if wanted. I think it will not be necessary.

ROBT. C. SCHENCK,

Major-General, Commanding.

---

HDQRS. MIDDLE DEPARTMENT, EIGHTH ARMY CORPS,

Baltimore, April 25, 1863.

Brigadier-General BRIGGS,

*Commanding, &c.:

GENERAL: You will immediately cause the One hundred and fifty-first Regiment New York Volunteer Infantry, of your command, to proceed without delay to Monocacy bridge, there to remain with the Fourteenth New Jersey Volunteer Infantry, prepared for any movement that may be determined upon. They will go in light marching order, taking with them only their overcoats and blankets. Each man must be supplied with sixty rounds of ammunition and will carry two days' rations in his haversack. Lieutenant-Colonel Donaldson will furnish the necessary transportation.

I am, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

W. H. CHESEBROUGH,

Assistant Adjutant-General.

---

See Vol. XXV, Part I, p. 137.
CHAP. LXIII.]

CORRESPONDENCE, ETC.—UNION. 1011.

CAMP STEVENSON, HDQRS. 44TH REGT. MASS. VOL. MILITIA,
New Berne, April 25, 1863.

Col. HENRY T. SISSON,
Commanding Fifth Regiment Rhode Island Volunteers:

COLONEL: At a meeting of the field, staff, and line officers, held in Washington, N. C., on Tuesday evening, April 21, Col. F. L. Lee presiding, the following resolutions were unanimously adopted:

Whereas, during the late siege of Washington, N. C., when the town had been bombarded and all its communications cut off for fifteen days, after several ineffectual attempts had been made to relieve the garrison and the enterprise had been virtually pronounced impracticable, Colonel Sisson volunteered the services of his regiment, and succceeded, against every obstacle and discouragement, in running the blockade with the steamer Escort, thus bringing to the besieged forces the much-needed re-enforcements, ammunition, and supplies:

Resolved, That in this achievement Colonel Sisson, with his brave regiment, has performed one of the most heroic acts of the war, and that this act, by so disheartening the enemy that within ten days he was led to retire, was the immediate cause of the raising of the siege.

Resolved, That the members of the Forty-fourth Regiment Massachusetts Volunteer Militia feel that thanks are particularly due from them to their comrades in arms, who so generously volunteered their services and met so great risks in carrying succor to a brother regiment.

Resolved, That as an expression of their gratitude and admiration, if it meet the wishes of the Fifth Rhode Island Regiment, a set of colors be presented to them, bearing a device commemorative of their act of gallantry.

FRANCIS L. LEE,

[18.]

HEADQUARTERS DEPARTMENT OF WASHINGTON,
April 26, 1863—2 p. m. (Received 2.25 p. m.)

Major-General SCHENCK,
Commanding, Baltimore:

I have the following: On the 21st Jones was at Harrisonburg and Imboden not far off; their whole force about 6,000. They had just issued ten day's rations and it was understood that they were intending to turn Milroy and destroy the railroad bridges on the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad at the mouth of South Branch of Potomac and Cacapon River, which has heretofore been done by Imboden.

GEO. STONEMAN,
Major-General.

[25.]

HDQRS. MIDDLE DEPARTMENT, EIGHTH ARMY CORPS,
Baltimore, April 26, 1863.

Capt. CARROLL H. POTTER,
Assistant Adjutant-General, War Department, Washington:

In the valley in General Milroy's command I have three brigades—
General Elliott's, Colonel Hay's, and Colonel McReynolds'. General
Elliott has gone with his toward Moorefield; Colonel Hay remains still at Winchester, and Colonel McReynolds at Berryville. I have but three full regiments of cavalry. Two, the Twelfth and Thirteenth Pennsylvania, have gone with General Elliott; the other, the First New York, is with Colonel McReynolds, and has been directed to scout up the valley and along the Blue Ridge.

ROBT. C. SCHENCK,
Major-General, Commanding.

[25.]

HDQRS. MIDDLE DEPARTMENT, EIGHTH ARMY CORPS,
Baltimore, April 26, 1863.

Maj. Gen. R. H. MILROY,
Commanding, &c., Winchester, Va.:

GENERAL: The general commanding desires to express through you to Colonel McReynolds his great satisfaction at the success which attended the recent expedition for the capture of the guerrilla chief Leopold, and his high appreciation of the energy, boldness, and discretion of the justly praised officers Lieutenants Powell, Wyckoff, and Means, as also of the brave men who were charged with its execution.

I am, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

W. H. CHESEBROUGH,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

[25.]

HDQRS. MIDDLE DEPARTMENT, EIGHTH ARMY CORPS,
Baltimore, April 26, 1863.

Brigadier-General KELLEY, Harper's Ferry, Va.:

You have anticipated the general's desire. He was about to request you to go to New Creek. Report by telegram from different points as you proceed west. General Kenly must keep up dispatches from Harper's Ferry.

WM. H. CHESEBROUGH,
Lieutenant-Colonel and Assistant Adjutant-General.

[25.]

HDQRS. MIDDLE DEPARTMENT, EIGHTH ARMY CORPS,
Baltimore, April 26, 1863—10 a. m.

Col. WILLIAM S. TRUEX,
Commanding at Frederick City, Md.:

You will hold the Fourteenth New Jersey Volunteers in readiness for movement at a moment's notice in light marching order, taking only overcoats and blankets. Two days' cooked rations will be at once prepared and sixty rounds of ammunition for issue. The One hundred and fifty-first New York Volunteers, Colonel Emerson, left by rail at 9.30 this morning, and will report to you on its arrival at Monocacy bridge. Acknowledge the receipt of this.

H. S. BRIGGS,
Brigadier-General, Commanding.

[25.]

HDQRS. MIDDLE DEPARTMENT, EIGHTH ARMY CORPS,
Baltimore, April 26, 1863.

Colonel TRUEX,
Commanding, &c., Frederick or Monocacy Bridge, Md.:

The One hundred and fifty-first New York, Colonel Emerson, and all available portion of the Fourteenth New Jersey, must be kept ready to move westward whenever called for by Brigadier-General Kelley.

WM. H. CHESEBROUGH,
Lieutenant-Colonel and Assistant Adjutant-General.
General WHEAT,
Wheeling, W. Va.:

I have Governor Peirpoint's authority for calling out your brigade, but I see as yet no necessity for it. I only request you to hold all the force you can in readiness to come out if required.

ROBT. C. SCHENCK,
Major-General, Commanding.

[25.]

General JAMES S. WHEAT,
Wheeling, W. Va.:

If you have howitzers with your brigade and can man and work them take them along. Let me hear from you.

ROBT. C. SCHENCK,
Major-General, Commanding.

[25.]

CIRCULAR.
HEADQUARTERS FIFTH ARMY CORPS,
Near Hartwood Church, April 27, 1863.

1. Col. Adelbert Ames, Twentieth Maine Volunteers, is assigned to temporary duty on the staff of the major-general commanding. He will be obeyed and respected accordingly.

By command of Major-General Meade:

FRED. T. LOCKE,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

[25.]

HDQRS. MIDDLE DEPARTMENT, EIGHTH ARMY CORPS,
Baltimore, April 26, 1863.

Major-General MILROY,
Winchester, Va.:

I gave you General Halleck's own words as to General Elliott. I understand him as assenting to the movement up the valley, if deemed judicious by you and by him, who are there on the spot, and you have my permission to act at your discretion, from what you know of the probable movements and position of the enemy.

ROBT. C. SCHENCK,
Major-General, Commanding.

[25.]

COMMANDING OFFICER, MONOCACY BRIDGE:

The One hundred and fifty-first Regiment New York Infantry and what portion of the Fourteenth New Jersey can be spared from the bridge will proceed at once to Maryland Heights and report to Brigadier-General Morris.

WM. H. CHESEBROUGH,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

[25.]
SPECIAL ORDERS, No. —.

HEADQUARTERS FIFTH CORPS, April 28, 1863.

The order of march for to-morrow, 29th instant, will be as follows: First, Griffin's division; second, Sykes' division; third, Humphreys' division. Brigadier-General Griffin will be prepared to move at 7 a.m. He will send a staff officer at daylight to communicate with Major-General Slocum, in order to ascertain the earliest moment at which the road to Kelly's Ford will be open. Major-General Sykes will move at 7 a.m. and close up on Griffin's division. He will place his battery in front of his column, prepared to move forward, to report to General Griffin in case its services are required. Brigadier-General Humphreys will move immediately after General Sykes. He will furnish the necessary details to Captain Comstock to take up the pontoon bridge. When taken up, he will place the pontoon train in his own train between his brigades, and so dispose his artillery as to cover to the best advantage the rear of the column, the protection of which he has the especial charge. All officers are earnestly enjoined to keep their commands well closed and prevent all straggling. Under instructions of the commanding general this command will be called on to-morrow to make a long and rapid march. The major-general commanding fully relies upon every man cheerfully submitting to the exertions he will be called upon to make for the purpose of securing the success which it is earnestly hoped and believed will attend the movement.

By command of Major-General Meade:

FRED. T. LOCKE,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

CIRCULAR.

HEADQUARTERS SIXTH ARMY CORPS, April 28, 1863.

The troops of this command will move to the river-bank near the place where General Franklin crossed and will take position in rear of the point designated, out of view of the enemy, before dark. The right division will leave camp immediately upon receipt of this order. The First, Second, and Third Divisions will commence to move at such time and by such practicable routes as will enable each, by an easy march, to reach the position designated before night fall. Care must be taken to avoid interference on the march and to conceal the movement as far as possible from the enemy. Ambulances and trains will be parked in the rear and concealed behind the hills ready to move when desired. Trains will be loaded with supplies of forage and provisions to include at least eight days' short forage for the animals. Whenever an opportunity occurs without interference the supplies that may have been consumed will be replaced. The troops will have the eight days' rations as heretofore provided in orders. When the troops have crossed the river the ammunition trains and ambulances will be held in readiness to move first. The wagons with intrenching tools will move with the ammunition trains. The batteries will be posted under the direction of the chief of artillery of the Army of the Potomac and the chief of artillery of the corps. Division commanders will send a staff officer to report at these headquarters at the commencement of the march and also upon occupying the positions herein indicated. No fires will be lighted to-night. Division quartermasters will report in person to the chief quartermaster of the corps to receive directions in relation to the movement and parking of trains.

By command of Major-General Sedgwick:

M. T. McMAHON,
Assistant Adjutant-General.
HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE POTOMAC,
April 28, 1863.

Major-General SEDGWICK,
Commanding, &c.:

GENERAL: The major-general commanding has left for the scene of operations above. I have received the following report from Professor Lowe, who has been instructed to get all the possible information of the enemy's movements from the balloon:

CAMP NEAR FALMOUTH, VA., April 28, 1863—9 a.m.

GENERAL: I am sorry to state that the wind has been so high thus far this a.m. that I have been unable to ascend with the balloon. The first opportunity shall be improved and reports made. A heavy storm is apparently near at hand.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,
T. S. C. LOWE,
Aeronaut.

Signal officers have been directed to be vigilant and watchful and to report everything. I shall keep you fully advised of everything that is reported here. Have you any wishes or commands?

I am, very respectfully, your obedient servant,
DANL. BUTTERFIELD,
Major-General and Chief of Staff.

P. S.—The night before last, April 26, Rodes' (D. H. Hill's) division had not moved; A. P. Hill's and Trimble's also; and there are no signs of a move. This from deserters who have just come in.

[25.]

HEADQUARTERS SIXTH ARMY CORPS,
April 28, 1863.

Brigadier-General BROOKS,
Commanding Division:

GENERAL: Major-General Sedgwick directs that you will have your division in the immediate vicinity of Franklin's crossing at 11 p.m. ready to cross in boats and hold the ground on the opposite side until the bridges are completed. You will not move from the heights on this side of the river until you have the cover of the darkness. The crossing in the boats must be effected with the utmost celerity and in the strictest silence. General Benham will indicate to you the exact time and place of crossing.

I am, general, very respectfully, your obedient servant,
M. T. McMahan,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

[25.]

HEADQUARTERS MIDDLE DEPARTMENT, EIGHTH ARMY CORPS,
Baltimore, April 28, 1863.

Governor A. G. CURTIN,
Harrisburg, Pa.:

I have no reliable information of any rebels at Morgantown, and doubt the rumor of their reaching that point or getting to the north of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad in any considerable force. All mischief done has been between Oakland and Grafton, which places we now hold. An empty train of stock cars was captured, which we have recovered in good order, and the bridge over Youghiogheny west of Oakland burnt, which we are to-day rebuilding. The raid was of cavalry and I hope to intercept their retreat.

ROBT. C. SCHENCK,
Major-General, Commanding.

HDQRS. MIDDLE DEPARTMENT, EIGHTH ARMY CORPS,
Baltimore, April 28, 1863.

Hon. J. K. MOORHEAD,
Pittsburg, Pa.:

See my telegram to Governor Curtin repeated to Colonel Cross. Since then I learn that all the works at Rowlesburg and Cheat River are safe. I have communication and the railroad open all but twenty miles between Grafton and Rowlesburg. I have no confirmation yet of the rebel force extending to Morgantown, but it may be so.

ROBT. C. SCHENCK,
Major-General, Commanding.

[25.]

HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE POTOMAC,
April 29, 1863—6.30 p. m.

General COUCH, or COMMANDING OFFICER UNITED STATES FORD:

[The] major-general directs that a messenger [be sent] to run his horse to Kelly's Ford, starting with this dispatch to Captain Comstock or the officer in charge of the bridges there. These orders [are that] not a wagon must cross the bridges after this line reaches Captain Comstock. The bridges will be immediately taken up and removed to Ely's Ford. The wagons must return to United States Ford. The general prefers that not a dragoon should cross the river rather than the bridge should have been made use of by them.

By command of Major-General Hooker:

S. WILLIAMS,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

[25.]

HDQRS. MIDDLE DEPARTMENT, EIGHTH ARMY CORPS,
Baltimore, April 29, 1863.

Brig. Gen. B. F. KELLEY,
Commanding, &c., Harper's Ferry, Va.:

GENERAL: I inclose you copies of the correspondence* by telegraph between Colonel Wilkinson and myself, and call your attention particularly to what relates to the burning of the bridge six miles east of Clarksburg. If the colonel does not ask for a court of inquiry I think I shall have to submit the matter to a court-martial. Two bridges near Burton, on the railroad between Grafton and Wheeling, are reported to have been burnt by the citizens of the neighborhood. You will institute, if such be the case, a rigid investigation, to ascertain who were concerned in the act. If they were disloyal persons, who did it in aid of the rebels, they must be at once arrested for punishment. If they were Union citizens, who resorted to it as a means of cutting off the

* See Vol. XXV, Part II, pp. 296, 297. approach of the enemy to Wheeling, it only affords another proof of the disastrous panic spread by the cowardly telegraph operators who deserted their posts at Grafton and Fairmont.

I am, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

ROBT. C. SCHENCK,
Major-General, Commanding.

HDQRS. MIDDLE DEPARTMENT, EIGHTH ARMY CORPS,
Baltimore, April 29, 1863.

Brigadier-General KELLEY,
New Creek, Va.:

The most reliable information I have of the number of the rebels who have been at Fairmont makes the estimate from 600 to 1,000. Let Mulligan know.

WM. H. CHESEBROUGH,
Lieutenant-Colonel and Assistant Adjutant-General.

HDQRS. MIDDLE DEPARTMENT, EIGHTH ARMY CORPS,
Baltimore, April 29, 1863.

Brigadier-General KELLEY,
New Creek, Va.:

Railroad people reported yesterday that our troops had evacuated Rowlesburg. I do not understand that the Cheat River trestles must still be protected. Have you sent force beyond Oakland? Mulligan reported to Wheeling yesterday the enemy in strong force at Morgantown. Where exactly is Greenland Gap? It is not on map. When you can do it, get the names of all officers and men who fought so bravely at Greenland Gap, with special report. You may find Major Showalter deserves particular mention also.

ROBT. C. SCHENCK,
Major-General, Commanding.

HEADQUARTERS FIFTH CORPS,
Ely's Ford, April 30, 1863—5.30 a.m. (Received 7 a.m.)

Brigadier-General HUMPHREYS,
Commanding Third Division:

GENERAL: The major-general commanding directs me to inform you that we have crossed the Rapidan at Ely's Ford, with the exception of the batteries, which are preparing to cross now. The major-general commanding is of the opinion that, in consequence of the force we have across the river, there is no necessity for keeping the whole of your command with the train. He thinks one regiment ought to suffice. You are desired, therefore, to push forward with all speed possible with the rest of your command, in order to join the column. The major-general commanding directs me to say that now time is precious and the most must be made of every moment, and it is of the highest importance that the whole corps should be united as rapidly as possible.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

FRED. T. LOCKE,
Assistant Adjutant-General.
The major-general commanding, after reading this note, desires me to say that he is perfectly satisfied that you have made every exertion to get up. It is only his anxiety to push ahead that induces him to write you as above.

F. T. L.

[25.]

APRIL 30, 1863—8.15 a. m.
(Received 9.40 a. m.)

General HUMPHREYS,

Commanding Third Division:

General: The major-general commanding directs me to inform you that he has gone on to Hunting Run, at the head of General Griffin's column. You will follow on at once. The order of march this morning is, Sykes first, then Griffin, on the road to Chancellorsville.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

FRED. T. LOCKE,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

[25.]

CHANCELLORSVILLE,
April 30, 1863—2 p. m.

Brigadier-General HUMPHREYS,

Commanding Third Division, Fifth Corps:

General: Bring your command on as far as you can without destroying entirely their efficiency. We are going into camp near this place, and I would like you to get up as far at least as the crossing of Hunting Creek by the road from Ely's Ford. Report where and when you go into camp.

G. G. MEADE.

[25.]

HEADQUARTERS FIFTH ARMY CORPS,
Chancellorsville, April 30, 1863—9.30 p. m.

Brigadier-General HUMPHREYS,

Commanding Third Division:

General: The major-general commanding directs you to come forward to this place to-morrow morning. You will march by early daylight, as it is all important that you report with your command at the earliest possible moment. Headquarters are at Mrs. Chancellor's house at this place.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

FRED. T. LOCKE,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

Brigadier-General HUMPHREYS:

The orderly who brings this will remain with you to-night to communicate with the commanding general.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

FRED. T. LOCKE,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

[25.]
HDQRS. MIDDLE DEPARTMENT, EIGHTH ARMY CORPS,
Baltimore, April 30, 1863.

Maj. Gen. A. E. BURNSIDE,

Cincinnati:

Thanks for your promptness. You have done more than I could have expected or asked. Any help you send will be more likely needed from Parkersburg this way than at Wheeling. Scammon may soon need up the Kanawha aid which I cannot give him. My trouble on the railroad has been want of cavalry.

ROBT. C. SCHENCK,
Major-General, Commanding.

HDQRS. MIDDLE DEPARTMENT, EIGHTH ARMY CORPS,
Baltimore, April 30, 1863—4 a.m.

Brigadier-General KELLEY,
Commanding, &c., New Creek:

The Fifth New York Volunteer Heavy Artillery, 600 men, will leave for Harper's Ferry at 9 a. m.

WM. H. CHESEBROUGH,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

NEW CREEK, April 30, 1863—8.30 p. m.

Lieutenant-Colonel CHESEBROUGH,
Assistant Adjutant-General, Baltimore:

Nothing new from Grafton; all quiet at 3 p. m. No communication by telegraph with Clarksburg since 5 o'clock. Presume Jones crossed the railroad and cut the wires. Troop trains will be here about 12 o'clock to-night. Will not be detained at Youbigouhney. Bridge will be completed by daylight in the morning.

B. F. KELLEY,
Brigadier-General.

HDQRS. MIDDLE DEPARTMENT, EIGHTH ARMY CORPS,
Baltimore, April 30, 1863.

Col. JAMES A. MULLIGAN,
Grafton, Va.:

General Roberts telegraphs from Clarksburg the advance of Jones at Shinstown, seven miles north of him, and the advance of Imboden and Jackson eleven miles from him on the Philippi road. General Kelley will have you supported from the east, when you can support Roberts, I hope.

ROBT. C. SCHENCK,
Major-General, Commanding.

Reply of Maj. Gen. William B. Franklin, to the report of the Joint Committee of Congress on the Conduct of the War, submitted to the public on the 6th of April, 1863, with a map.*

On the 6th day of April last a report, purporting to be signed by the members of the Joint Committee on the Conduct of the War, was published in many of the leading papers in the United States. The

*For acknowledgment of receipt of the pamphlet by Halleck, see Vol. XXI, p. 1007.
Thirty-seventh Congress expired by constitutional limitation on the 4th of March previous. Some of the testimony embodied in the report has been taken since that time, and consequently this document has been spread before the country without having been submitted to either branch of Congress. I do not refer to this irregular proceeding of a committee which had ceased to have a legal existence as a defense against the charges of which they have convicted me, but as one of the facts fairly to be considered in connection with the report itself and the purposes it was intended to subserve. The committee have not devoted much space to me, either in citations of testimony or in statements of their own; but in that limited space they have presented me before the country as responsible for the loss of the battle of Fredericksburg in consequence of my disobedience of the orders of General Burnside. If this be true I have been guilty of the highest crime known to the military law, for the commission of which my life is forfeit and my name consigned to infamy. Justice to the country, to the Administration which has given me important commands in its armies, and to myself, demands that I meet these grave allegations as promptly as possible; while, from the peculiar circumstances of the case, the mode I adopt is the only one open to me. Since the publication of the report I have received an answer to an inquiry at the Adjutant-General's Office, informing me that there are no charges on file against me at the Department to which as a soldier I am amenable. I am not at liberty to ignore a report which has already reached the hands of a majority of the loyal people of the United States, emanating from a committee of their representatives in Congress, because the legislative department of the Government has taken upon itself duties that belong to the Executive. I cannot shut my eyes to the magnitude of the question in its immediate public aspect. If it affected only myself, I might be well contented with the verdict which history will pass upon the transaction under the sacred law which governs the ultimate triumph of the truth. For two years we have been struggling to subdue a rebellion so enormous in its proportions and so persistent in its purposes that it has become a revolution.

This Government has put into the field over 700,000 men. To discipline these men and to lead them in the field the country must depend upon such as have been educated, to some extent at least, in military science. Hence it is a public question of the highest possible importance whether an officer who has held important commands since the beginning of the war is entitled to the confidence of the people or has justly forfeited his claim to it. It is a sad commentary upon the disjointed condition of the times, that at the very moment when the nation is offering its blood and treasure without stint in the effort to preserve inviolate the principles of civil liberty, a citizen of that nation, however humble, shall be accused, tried, and condemned of an infamous crime, before a tribunal sitting in secret session, without notice, or even an intimation, of the charges made against him; without the opportunity to confront or examine the witnesses brought against him; to be himself called and interrogated, in utter ignorance that he is under trial; and, finally, to be denied permission to produce witnesses, when the fact became apparent to him that he was, for some unexplained reason, in danger of condemnation. Since the time when the corner stone of all civil liberty was laid under that Government from which we derive our laws, which gives to the meanest subject or the greatest criminal the right to meet his accusers face to face and to confront his witnesses, no parallel can be found in the history of constitutional governments.
so startling in its violations of all that is sacred in personal rights as are the proceedings of the secret tribunals created by the Congress which has just expired. The report in question has been given to the press, but no part of the evidence is published, except such extracts as the committee have seen fit to embody in the report itself. Of my own testimony given before the committee but a small part is printed. I shall therefore submit to the public some facts stated by me to the committee which they have not published, and some of the proofs which I requested the committee to take, but which they declined, upon the ground that they had not the time to take the testimony. Among the facts submitted by me to the committee which they have not noticed are some which I must repeat in substance here.

On the 12th day of December last, when I crossed the Rappahannock, I was in command of the Left Grand Division of the Army of the Potomac, which numbered about 40,000 men. It was entirely crossed and posted in line of battle by 3 o'clock of that day. My command consisted of two corps of three divisions each. At 5 o'clock General Burnside came to my headquarters, where he met, with me, Generals William F. Smith and John F. Reynolds, corps commanders. The subject of conversation was a proposed attack upon the enemy on the following morning, when I strongly advised General Burnside to make an attack from my division upon the enemy's right with a column of at least 30,000 men, to be sent in at daylight in the morning. At that time two divisions of General Hooker's command were on the north side of the river, near the bridges that I had crossed. In order to make such an attack as I advised I informed General Burnside that these two divisions must be crossed during the night. I reiterated my request that I should receive my orders as early as possible, that I might make the necessary dispositions of the troops before daylight. He stated at one time that I should have my orders in any event before midnight, and at another that I should have them in two or three hours. He left my headquarters about 6 p.m., and I awaited his orders during the night. None reached me until 7.30 o'clock in the morning. At midnight I sent an aide to ask for them and received the reply that they were being prepared and would be sent forthwith. The order which I received was brought by General Hardie, of General Burnside's staff, well known in the service as an able and zealous officer. It reached my hands at 7.30 on the morning of the 13th. My command was then in the same position as when General Burnside left my headquarters the evening previous. The night had passed without orders, and General Hooker's two divisions were still on the other side of the river. With the light furnished by this state of facts, General Burnside's order, though incongruous and contradictory on its face, admitted of but one interpretation, viz, that he intended to make an armed observation from the left to ascertain the strength of the enemy—an interpretation also given to it by both of my corps commanders. The order is as follows:

HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE POTOMAC,

December 13—5.55 a.m.

Major-General Franklin,

Commanding Left Grand Division, Army of the Potomac:

General Hardie will carry this dispatch to you and remain with you during the day. The general commanding directs that you keep your whole command in position for a rapid movement down the old Richmond road; and you will send out at once a division at least to pass below Smithfield, to seize, if possible, the heights near Captain Hamilton's on this side of the Massaponax, taking care to keep it well supported and its line of retreat open. He has ordered another column of a division or more to be moved from General Sumner's command up the plank road to its intersection with the Telegraph road, where they will divide, with a view to seizing the heights on both of those roads. Holding these heights with the heights near Captain Hamilton's, will, he hopes, compel the enemy to evacuate the whole ridge between these points. He makes these moves by columns, distant from each other, with the view of avoiding the possibility of a collision of our own forces, which might occur in a general movement during the fog. Two of General Hooker's divisions are in your rear, at the bridges, and will remain there as supports. Copies of instructions given to Generals Sumner and Hooker will be forwarded to you by an orderly very soon. You will keep your whole command in readiness to move at once as soon as the fog lifts. The watchword, which, if possible, should be given to every company, will be "Scott."

I have the honor to be, general, very respectfully, your obedient servant,
JOHN G. PARKE,
Chief of Staff.

Thus it will be seen that after ordering me to keep my whole command in readiness for a rapid movement down the old Richmond road,
I was directed to send out at once a division at least to seize the hill at Hamilton's. After referring to the order to General Sumner, he reiterates the direction to keep my whole command in readiness for the Richmond road movement. For three hours before the order reached me
I was satisfied that General Burnside had given up the idea (if he ever entertained it) of making an attack in force from the left, for the delay in sending the orders made such an attack impossible with any reasonable chance of success. And in this connection it is not improper in me to state that a map, made by the rebel General Jackson's topographical engineer, has fallen into the hands of our officers since General Hooker has been in command, from which it is apparent that the enemy's position could not have been carried by any force less than that recommended by me on the afternoon of the 12th. General Burnside knew the strength in numbers and position, as well as the desperate determination of the rebel army. Had he intended a movement in force, his orders both to myself and General Sumner would have been commensurate with such a purpose. Had he expected me to make such an attack upon an enemy whom I had met too often to be guilty of the folly of underrating, he would have given me the night in which to make a disposition of my troops for the conflict of the morrow, instead of leaving me to pass it in sleepless anxiety in my tent. General Burnside ought to have known, and doubtless did know, that to make his "main attack," and thereby bring on a general engagement on my front, under an order of this description, sent after daylight in the morning, was to send his troops to a useless and unavailable slaughter; and therefore he could not have intended it. I acted upon the order at once, as nearly according to its literal directions as was in my power. The attack was ordered to be led by General Meade, one of the ablest officers in our service, supported by General Gibbon on his right, and General Doubleday in reserve. These three divisions formed one of the two corps (General Reynolds') under my command on the south side of the river. Shortly after Meade advanced, the enemy's cavalry appeared on the left, accompanied by artillery, and Doubleday was ordered to drive them away. Soon after these troops were advanced, finding that the enemy was in force on all sides, I sent to General Stoneman to cross with one of his divisions, and before that had entirely crossed his second division was also ordered over. The crossing of these divisions (which should have been made during the previous night, had an attack in force been contemplated) occupied at least three hours. While this was going on, one of General Smith's divisions was also ordered to report to General Reynolds. Of these several movements General Burnside was kept informed by reports made by General Hardie to him at intervals during the day; and between 7.40 a.m. and 3.40 p.m. it was reported to him, by an officer of his own staff, that out of the eight divisions composing my entire command, including the two divisions that had been ordered across the river, six divisions had been employed in making the effort to seize Hamilton's Hill, keeping the attacking force supported, and in checking the advance of the enemy, while but two divisions were left to protect the bridges, the right and the center, and to keep the line of retreat open, and which two divisions were actually attacked during the day. After my testimony had been taken by the committee, and they had declined to call General Hardie as a witness, I asked permission to hand them copies of the reports made by him to General Burnside during the day. This request was granted; and, although it is impossible to overstate the value of the testimony contained in these dispatches, fourteen in number, sent from the field of battle by an officer of the staff of General Burnside, who could have had no motive at the time to state anything but the exact truth, as the events were transpiring under his own eyes, yet no mention of or reference to these dispatches is made by the committee in their report. As they present a statement of the transactions of the day upon the left, as seen by a competent and impartial witness, I present them in full, in the order in which they were sent. It will be noticed that the first dispatch is dated at 7.40 a.m. This dispatch is as follows, viz:

HEADQUARTERS FRANKLIN'S GRAND DIVISION,
December 13—7.40 a.m.

General Burnside:

General Meade's division is to make the movement from our left, but it is reported that the enemy's skirmishers are advancing, indicating an attack upon our position on the left.

JAS. A. HARDIE,
Brigadier-General of Volunteers and Assistant Inspector-General.

The telegraph station connecting with General Burnside's headquarters was about one-third of a mile from my headquarters, so that by 8 o'clock of that morning General Burnside was informed by his assistant inspector-general of the fact that I had sent General Meade's division to make the movement directed by him. I submit, with entire confidence, that had General Burnside, upon the receipt of General Hardie's first dispatch, discovered that I had either misapprehended his order, or was sending too small a force to its execution, he would at the moment have corrected my misapprehension. So far from that, General Burnside did not communicate with me in any manner from that time until 2.25 p.m. of that day, when he sent me an order in writing, in which it was stated that my instructions of this morning were so far modified as to require an advance upon the heights immediately in my front. General Hardie's dispatch upon the receipt of this order is as follows:

HEADQUARTERS LEFT GRAND DIVISION,
December 13—2.25 p.m.

General Burnside:

Dispatch received. Franklin will do his best. New troops gone in. Will report soon again.

JAS. A. HARDIE,
Brigadier-General of Volunteers.

Later in the day, and after 3 o'clock, when every regiment that I could spare was engaged in various parts of the field (as will appear by referring to Hardie's reports and General Burnside's own testimony hereafter given) with an enemy that greatly outnumbered us, and when all my energies were directed to save the wing from being overpowered, and its line of retreat cut off, I received a verbal message from General Burnside, by one of his staff, that General Sumner's troops were being hard pressed, with a request to make a diversion in his favor if I could. To this I also responded that I would do my best. For the details of what was done by me during the day I leave General Hardie's dispatches to speak for themselves. He was at my side from shortly after sunrise until sunset. He not only knew of every order and movement made by me, or under my direction, but was a perfectly competent judge of their wisdom and sufficiency. In the performance of an act of common justice he has placed these dispatches at my disposal. The following are copies of all those sent by him on the 13th of December, the day of the battle:

HEADQUARTERS FRANKLIN'S GRAND DIVISION,

December 13—7.40 a.m.

General Burnside:

General Meade's division is to make the movement from our left, but it is just reported that the enemy's skirmishers are advancing, indicating an attack upon our position on the left.

9 a.m.

General Meade just moved out. Doubleday supports him. Meade's skirmishers engaged, however, at once with enemy's skirmishers. Battery opening on Meade, probably from position on old Richmond road.

11 a.m.

Meade advanced half a mile and holds on. Infantry of enemy in woods in front of extreme left; also in front of Howe. No loss so far of great importance. General Vinton badly but not dangerously wounded.

Later.—Reynolds has been forced to develop his whole line. An attack of some force of enemy's troops on our left seems probable, as far as can now be judged. Stoneman has been directed to cross one division to support our left. Report of cavalry pickets from the other side of the river that enemy's troops were moving down the river on this side during the latter part of the night. Howe's pickets reported movements in their front, same direction. Still they have a strong force well posted, with batteries there.

12 m.

Birney's division is now getting into position. That done, Reynolds will order Meade to advance. Batteries over the river are to shell the enemy's position in the woods in front of Reynolds' left. He thinks the effect will be to protect Meade's advance. A column of the enemy's infantry is passing along the crest of the hills, from right to left as we look at it.

12.05 p.m.

General Meade's line is advancing in the direction you prescribed this morning.

1 p.m.

Enemy opened a battery on Reynolds, enfilading Meade. Reynolds has opened all his batteries on it; no report yet. Reynolds hotly engaged at this moment; will report in a few moments again.

1.15 p.m.

Heavy engagements of infantry. Enemy in force where battery is. Meade is assaulting the hill; will report in a few minutes again.

1.25 p.m.

Meade is in the woods in his front; seems to be able to hold on. Reynolds will push Gibbon in, if necessary. The battery and woods referred to must be near Hamilton's house. The infantry firing is prolonged and quite heavy. Things look well enough. Men in fine spirits.

1.40 p.m.

Meade having carried a portion of the enemy's position in the woods, we have 300 prisoners. Enemy's battery on extreme left retired. Tough work; men fight well. Gibbon has advanced to Meade's right; men fight well, driving the enemy. Meade has suffered severely. Doubleday, to Meade's left, not engaged.

---

a In addition to the forces referred to in these dispatches, a division from General Wilcox's corps reported to me late in the afternoon, and was put in the vicinity of the bridges; too late, however, to aid in any of the operations on the extreme left.
Gibbon and Meade driven back from the woods. Newton gone forward. Jackson's corps of the enemy attacks on the left. General Gibbon slightly wounded. General Bayard mortally wounded by a shell. Things do not look as well on Reynolds' front; still we'll have new troops in soon.

Dispatch received. Franklin will do his best. New troops gone in. Will report soon again.

Reynolds seems to be holding his own. Things look better somewhat.

Gibbon's and Meade's divisions are badly used up, and I fear another advance on the enemy on our left cannot be made this afternoon. Doubleday's division will replace Meade's as soon as it can be collected, and if it be done in time of course another attack will be made. The enemy are in force in the woods on our left toward Hamilton's, and are threatening the safety of that portion of our line. They seem to have detached a portion of their force to our front, where Howe and Brooks are now engaged. Brooks has some prisoners, and is down to the railroad. Just as soon as the left is safe our forces here will be prepared for a front attack, but it may be too late this afternoon. Indeed, we are engaged in front anyhow. Notwithstanding the unpleasant items I relate, the morale generally of the troops is good.

The enemy is still in force on our left and front. An attack on our batteries in front has been repulsed. A new attack has just opened on our left, but the left is safe, though it is too late to advance either to the left or front.

I am willing to abide by this testimony, to determine whether I lost the battle of Fredericksburg in consequence of my disobedience of an order directing me "to attack with a division at least and to keep it well supported." On the night following I was with General Burnside at his headquarters, when he informed me that he intended to renew the attack from the right and to lead the Ninth Corps in person. At two interviews during that night (which lasted at least two hours) he did not intimate to me any disapprobation of my conduct, or of that of my officers and men, during that day. Again I urged upon him that if the attack was to be renewed, to renew it from the left, but with such force and preparations as would command success. An order, however, for an attack from the right was given by him. On the following day I had another interview with General Burnside, at his request, in which he informed me that strong protests were made against a renewal of the attack by Generals Sumner and Hooker, and he abandoned the plan of another attack with expressions of the greatest reluctance. I was with him for two or three hours on that occasion; and during that interview he did not express or intimate, in his language or deportment toward me, that he was not entirely satisfied with my conduct and that of my officers and men. On the Wednesday or Thursday following I had another interview with him, in which, so far from expressing any dissatisfaction with me, he stated very distinctly that I alone of his generals had "held up his hands" (as he expressed it); that he had fully determined to resign his command, and to recommend me as his successor, as the commanding general of the Army of the Potomac. From that time until I was relieved from the command of the Left Grand Division, although frequently called into consultation by General Burnside, he never told me, or gave me to understand, that I had either misconstrued or disobeyed his orders, or was in any way responsible for the disaster of the 13th, or had in the least lost his confidence. Indeed, had he believed that I had disobeyed his orders on the 13th, he could not have discharged his duty to the country without preferring charges against me to that effect.

It was during the period of time last referred to that the General Order, No. 8, to which the committee have made reference in their report, was directed to be issued by General Burnside. The committee state that this order dismissed some officers from the service, subject to the approval of the President, and relieved others from duty with the Army of the Potomac; that General Burnside asked the President to sanction the order, or accept his resignation as major-general; that the President acknowledged that General Burnside was right, but declined to decide without consulting with some of his advisers. As I was relieved from duty with the Army of the Potomac almost immediately after this interview with the President, I shall assume that I was one of the officers thus relieved in the order; an assumption I could not make from any evidence derived from General Burnside's conduct to me when we were together, but which I am compelled to make, because I have been so informed by two gentlemen of high character who have seen and read the order. It further appears from the report that the committee had that order before them; and as they have seen fit to visit upon me solely the responsibility for the loss of the battle of Fredericksburg, without referring in any manner to the repulse on the right, or stating its fearful loss in killed and wounded, I feel at liberty to state, on the authority of these same gentlemen who have seen Order No. 8, that under that order General Hooker was one of the officers dismissed from service, subject to the approval of the President. If, therefore, that order is invoked as a record of conviction, and by it General Hooker is dismissed while I am only relieved, I have the right to state the fact, and leave the public to judge of the motives of the committee in stating that they have not considered it essential to report upon the operations of the right wing in this battle. Not only so, but I have the right to challenge the verity of the statement "that the President acknowledged General Burnside was right," when it was known to the committee that in the same order in which the President relieved General Burnside from the command of the Army of the Potomac he made General Hooker his successor.

But I shall not accept it as conclusive against my conduct that General Burnside did recommend that I should be relieved. It is a part of the history of the times that after the failure of his attempt upon the rebel army behind the heights of Fredericksburg, he addressed a letter to General Halleck relieving the Secretary of War and the General-in-Chief from all responsibility for that movement; and it is equally true, though not so publicly known, that shortly after that letter was published General Burnside made quite as formal and earnest a request to the President to remove the Secretary of War and the General-in-Chief from the positions severally occupied by them as he did to dismiss certain of his officers in the Army of the Potomac. If it was true that the movement was his own, it was but an act of common justice to assume its responsibility. Without intending to reflect upon that kind of magnanimity that takes the responsibility of a failure from the shoulders of those above us and places it upon those below us, I will prove by documentary evidence from General Burnside's hand that his plan as given to the committee was not the plan on which he conducted the operations of the battle. The committee have printed General Burnside's plan of attack as given by him. By the side of this, I print an extract from the letter of

*See Vol. XXI, p. 998.
General Burnside to General Halleck, dated December 19, six days after the battle, by which it appears that he intended to make his "vigorous attack," as he there calls it, over two miles from my front and upon the heights in the rear of the town of Fredericksburg, and that part of his order to me in which he informed me of the orders which he had given to General Sumner, showing that General Sumner's movement was to be simultaneous with mine. In this he states the measures taken to avoid a collision between General Sumner's forces and mine, while in the plan before the committee he is represented as testifying that he did not mean that General Sumner should move until I had taken the position designated in the order.

General Burnside's plan of attack, as given by the committee.

The enemy had cut a road along in the rear of the line of heights where we made our attack, by means of which they connected the two wings of their army, and avoided a long detour around through a bad country. I obtained from a colored man, from the other side of the town, information in regard to this new road which proved to be correct. I wanted to obtain possession of that new road, and that was my reason for making an attack on the extreme left. I did not intend to make the attack on the right until that position had been taken, which I supposed would stagger the enemy, cutting their line in two; and then I proposed to make a direct attack on their front and drive them out of their works.

Extract from General Burnside's order to me, informing me of General Sumner's orders.

He has ordered another column of a division or more to be moved from General Sumner's command up the plank road to its intersection of the Telegraph road, where they will divide, with a view to seizing the heights on both of those roads. Holding these heights with the heights near Captain Hamilton's, will, I hope, compel the enemy to evacuate the whole ridge between these points. He makes these moves by columns, distant from each other, with a view of avoiding the possibility of a collision of our own forces, which might occur in a general movement during the fog.

The statements in General Burnside's letter to General Halleck, his statement in the order of the 13th to me, and his statement of his plan before the committee all agree upon one point at least—that he did not mean to make his "main attack" under either of those orders. Under the orders he issued he designed seizing, first, the heights in rear of the town; next, the heights near Captain Hamilton's, which he supposed would stagger the enemy, and then he proposed to make a "direct attack" in the enemy's front and drive him out of his works. The orders not only agree in this, but the fact, in all the significant proportions of its results in killed and wounded, was before the committee. that General Sumner's command did actually move to seize "those heights on the crest in rear of the town," almost as soon as I did. At that time I had not only not taken the position at Captain Hamilton's, but was crossing troops from the other side of the river to save those who had been sent to make the attempt. General Burnside was informed of all this by General Hardie as the effort progressed. How, then, is it to be accounted for that General Burnside could have so far forgotten his intentions as to say "that he did not intend making the attack on the right until that position (my position) had been taken?" If he did not intend to do so, why did he make the attack before the contingency happened? He knew that the position on the left was not taken; why, then, did he order General Sumner forward if his intention was to keep him back until it was taken? If he did not intend that General Sumner should move until I had taken the heights at Captain Hamilton's, what does this language in his order to me mean—"he has ordered another column of a division or more to be moved from General Sumner's command up the plank road to its intersection with the Telegraph road, where they will divide, with a view of seizing the heights on both of those roads?" Holding these heights with the heights near Captain Hamilton's will, he hopes, &c. He makes these moves by columns, distant from each other, with a view of avoiding the possibility of a collision of our own forces, which might occur in a general movement during the fog."

This is the language of a simultaneous movement, and that no doubt may be left about it, he gives as a reason why he keeps the moving columns distant from each other that they might not encounter each other in a fog. If both columns were not to be moved at the same time it is difficult to see how they could have collided in a fog. It is, therefore, perfectly evident that under both orders issued that morning by General Burnside he imagined that he could seize certain heights over two miles distant from each other with the comparatively small force of a division sufficiently supported for each column, and that when these were taken he expected to follow up by orders for a main attack with the "whole command," which I was to keep in "position for a rapid movement down the old Richmond road." In the execution of these orders the enemy discovered himself in force so much greater than General Burnside anticipated that the plan proved totally inadequate to its expected results. The disaster which followed is a matter of history, and, considering the pressure to which the mind of the commanding general must have been subjected since that time, it is not difficult to find a reason why his present recollection of his plan differs so materially from the orders which he gave before the movement was made, but I submit that is an insufficient reason for visiting the consequences of the failure upon his subordinates in command.

After reciting the order, the committee state that when last before them I considered the meaning of the order to be an armed observation to ascertain where the enemy was. They then proceed as follows:

In his (Franklin's) testimony given when your committee were at Falmouth he says: "I put in all the troops that I thought it prudent and proper to put in. I fought the whole strength of my command as far as I could and at the same time keep my connection with the river open."

These two statements seem to be presented under the idea that they convict me of an inconsistency, and in the report furnished by the committee to one of the newspapers, printed in pamphlet form, entitled "Tribune War Tract, No. 1," this statement of the committee is headed in capital letters, "Franklin's inconsistent statements." What inconsistency is there between my interpretation of the second clause of the order that it was for an armed observation to ascertain where the enemy was and in the statement that in sending in this armed force of observation I had ascertained where the enemy was, and had been compelled to fight the whole strength of my command as far as I could, and at the same time keep my communication with the river open in resisting a superior force which had discovered itself on three sides of me? But the committee in quoting my testimony, for some reason satisfactory to themselves, have omitted to state what was testified by me in the same connection. By referring to the testimony given by me at Falmouth (which has heretofore been made public) I find that the words immediately following the quotation made by the committee in their present report are as follows: "The reason that we failed was that we had not troops enough to carry the points where the attack was made under the orders that were given." Why the committee have omitted that part of my evidence, while from the quotation marks the reader is led to suppose the whole sentence is given, I shall not stop to inquire.

The next statement in the report refers to the number of troops with which the attack was made by me, under the orders to send out "a division at least," to seize the heights near Captain Hamilton's, and that is headed in the tract in the same conspicuous manner, "Franklin responsible for the defeat." The committee's statement on this subject occupies but a few lines, and admits the sending out by me, under this order, of four divisions, numbering 16,500 men, as stated by them, without giving the number of Doubleday's division, which was nearly 7,000 more. The committee name only Meade's, Gibbon's, Doubleday's, and Birney's divisions, as those by which the attack was made and supported. They had it in proof, and in General Hardie's reports, that Newton's and Sickles' divisions also aided in that movement, while the divisions of Howe and Brooks also engaged the enemy during the day. However easy of explanation it may be that the employment of Newton's division was not referred to in the report, it is difficult to understand why Sickles' division should be omitted, when the only evidence they have published on this subject discloses the fact that Sickles' division was also engaged. The committee further say, "that the attack was in reality made by one of the smallest divisions in my command, the division of General Meade, numbering about 4,500 men." They have omitted to state in that connection what was in evidence before them—that Meade's division was posted on the extreme left of my line, and the order being to attack at once, was consequently best posted for the attack. The Army of the Potomac had no braver soldier or better officer than General Meade to lead his division to the attack. The committee next say, that "General Burnside, upon hearing of the small force ordered to attack the enemy, sent an order to General Franklin to make a vigorous attack with his whole force." The committee do not state when General Burnside sent to me any order after that received at 7.30 a. m.; but if the ordinary construction is to be put upon their language, they intend to be understood that a second order was sent to me immediately after the receipt of General Hardie's first dispatch to General Burnside, dated at 7.40 a. m., in which he was informed of what I proposed to do under the order. As before observed, this dispatch must have been received by General Burnside by 8 a. m. So that, according to the report, General Burnside sent me a second order to make a "vigorous attack with my whole force" shortly after 8 a. m.
By referring to General Hardie's reports, it will be seen that the first dispatch from General Burnside, after that brought by him, is dated 2.25 p.m., in which he states:

December 13—2.25 p.m.

Dispatch received. Franklin will do his best. New troops gone in. Will report soon again.

This order, so far from being an order to make "a vigorous attack with my whole force," directed me as follows: "Your instructions of this morning are so far modified as to require an advance upon the heights immediately in your front." The response made to this modification of the order is shown by General Hardie's dispatch to his chief just given. The committee then proceed: "Several of the witnesses testified that had the attack then been renewed with all the available force under General Franklin's command, it would have been successful." Who these witnesses are is not stated, nor is a word of their testimony given. If any one upon whose opinion the public would place any reliance had been found to express such an opinion, it has been given in ignorance of the orders under which I was acting during the day, or upon the assumption that such an order as the committee state I did receive was issued to me in the early part of the day. I have shown that no such order was issued, and that the second order that was issued was received at 2.25 p.m. In connection with this modified order it is necessary to state, that immediately in front of one of my divisions was a narrow valley, held on both sides by the enemy, and protected by abatis, and troops entering it were necessarily subjected to a fire from both sides. It is patent from an examination of this last order, that so far from being an order to renew the attack upon the hill at Captain Hamilton's, it was a virtual abandonment of that attempt. I was not allowed the opportunity to examine those witnesses, nor to produce those I named to the committee, who were with me during the day, and who alone were sufficiently acquainted with all the facts to form a respectable opinion on the subject. But whatever opinions may have been expressed before the committee by witnesses, whose names they have not given, the same committee submitted a report to the Senate on the 23d day of December last, containing the evidence taken by them on the 19th of that month, in which the testimony of General Burnside, taken immediately after the battle, is given. This has been printed by order of the Senate. From this document I make the following extract (referring to the battle of Fredericksburg):

Question (by committee). What causes do you assign for the failure of your attack here?

Answer. It was found to be impossible to get the men up to the works; the enemy's fire was too hot for them; the whole command fought most gallantly; the enemy themselves say they never saw our men fight so hard as on that day.

Question. Were the enemy's works very strong?

Answer. Their works are not strong works, but they occupy very strong positions. It is possible that the points of attack were wrongly ordered; if such is the case, I can only say I did to the best of my ability.

Question. Do I understand you to say that you expected General Franklin to carry the point at the extreme left of the ridge in the rear of the town, and thereby enable our troops to storm and carry their fortifications?

Answer. I did expect him to carry that point, which being done would have placed our forces in rear of their extreme left, and which I thought at the time would shake their forces to such an extent that the position in front could be easily stormed and carried.

Question. To what do you attribute his failure to accomplish that?

Answer. To the great strength of the position and the accumulation of the enemy's forces there.
General Burnside then explained that the delay in building the bridges gave the enemy time to accumulate his forces before he was able to order the attack.

Question. What was the conduct of the officers and men during the attack?
Answer. With the exception of a single regiment it was excellent.

Question. Will you state, as nearly as you can, the whole number of our troops that were engaged?
Answer. We had about 100,000 men on the other side of the river.

Question. What part of that number were actually engaged in battle?
Answer. Every single man of them was under artillery fire and about half of them were at different times formed in columns of attack. Every man was put in column that could be got in.

With this evidence of the general commanding the army before them, a committee of Congress, in a report submitted to the public without the testimony, deliberately state:

The testimony of all the witnesses before your committee proves most conclusively that had the attack been made upon the left with all the force that General Franklin could have used for that purpose, the plan of General Burnside would have been completely successful, and our army would have achieved a most brilliant victory.

The committee continue (still referring to the order which they say was to make a "vigorous attack with my whole force," and was sent by General Burnside upon his hearing of the small force which I had ordered to the attack):

General Franklin testifies that it was not an order, but a request, and that when he received it it was too late to renew the attack, and therefore he did not do it. General Franklin testifies as follows—

Gibbon's and Meade's divisions are badly used up, and I fear another advance on the enemy on our left cannot be made this afternoon. Doubleday's division will replace Meade's as soon as it can be collected, and if it be done in time of course another attack will be made. The enemy are in force in the woods on our left toward Hamilton's, and are threatening the safety of that portion of our line. They seem to have detached a portion of their force to our front, where Howe and Brooks are now engaged. Brooks has some prisoners, and is down to the railroad. Just as soon as the left is safe our forces here will be prepared for a front attack, but it may be too late this afternoon. Indeed, we are engaged in front anyhow. Notwithstanding the unpleasant items I relate, the morale generally of the troops is good.

Keeping in mind the fact that the divisions of Howe and Brooks, which General Hardie reported to General Burnside were then actually engaged, were the two divisions upon which I had to rely to protect my right, center, and bridges, and that every other division of my command was at that moment already in support of the left, and that this dispatch of General Hardie's was a piece of the evidence before a committee supposed to be in search of the truth in regard to a subject of such magnitude as the loss of the battle of Fredericksburg, it seems incredible that the next paragraph of their report, following the extract from my testimony which they have given, is the one already quoted, that—

The testimony of all the witnesses before your committee proves most conclusively that had the attack been made upon the left with all the force that General Franklin could have used for that purpose, the plan of General Burnside would have been completely successful, and our army would have achieved a most brilliant victory.

This sweeping statement is made without giving a word of testimony in support of the conclusion, or the name of a witness. I am necessarily in ignorance of what has been testified to by others before the committee, but I know that General Burnside and myself were at least two of “all the witnesses,” and that he, when he was first examined, testified to the contrary of any such statement. I know that General Hardie’s words, written from the battle-field to his chief, were in evidence, and that the facts shown by these witnesses prove the conclusions of this committee to be as unfounded as they are unmerited.

Standing, as I do, thus arraigned and condemned by the committee, I have no fear that my countrymen will adopt their verdict until I have been heard in my own behalf. They have thus far inhaled with the air they breathe that vital principle of fair-play that hears before it condemns. As a people, they have no purpose to serve in striking down a public servant, unless he has proved to be unfaithful to his trust, and to their sense of justice I appeal, though the circumstances attending my accusation compel me to add to my statement a few words personal to myself. My profession is that of arms. I was educated to it as a pupil of the nation. My duty and inclination leading in the same path, with the feeling that stirred the nation’s pulse when its flag was torn down by parricidal hands, I dedicated my life and whatever was enwrapt within my life to the defense of my country. I did not underrate the proportions of the rebellion, and I accepted my line of duty with the conviction that the nation would require of its loyal children determined purpose, and perhaps great sacrifices, before its unity would be restored. With these convictions I took command of a brigade in the Army of the Potomac in June, 1861. From that time until I was relieved from duty with the Army of the Potomac, on the 25th day of January, 1863, I have been trying to do my duty in camp and upon the field. That I have not altogether failed, the brave men who have grown up with me have proved on the battle-fields of Virginia and Maryland, and it is but common justice to those of them who yet live, and to the memory of those who are dead, to say that they never failed me in the time of trial. My time has been passed with my command. Including a period of illness, I have been absent from it but twenty-one days. This has left me but little time to look after matters personal to myself. Having no political associations of influence, I must content myself as best I can with the reflection that the committee believed that the failure at Fredericksburg demanded a victim, and that, being of no consequence except as a soldier, it was most available to order me to that duty. I have had no friendships which have stood in the way of the performance of my duty.

When General Burnside took command of the Army of the Potomac, and up to the time he left it, I gave a hearty obedience to every order he gave me, as well as a full and frank expression of my opinion when he invited me to his councils. I supposed that we were attached friends, and that we were both looking only to those means which would achieve success. I agreed with him fully in the propriety of crossing the Rappahannock at Fredericksburg at the time proposed by his original plan. After that failed, whatever advice I gave to him in council sprang from the honest convictions of my judgment, and I should have been recreant to my duty, to my country, and my own conscience had I given him any other. When the crossing was determined upon, with what alacrity I obeyed the order, the time within which my troops were crossed and placed in line of battle, is the best evidence. This done and our troops posted on the enemy's side of the river, with nothing but frail pontoon bridges between them and their destruction as an army, I proposed that an assault should be made upon the enemy's position with a column strong enough to command success (naming the number of at least six divisions), with the request that I might be allowed to make immediate dispositions to carry it out. After waiting through the night I was ordered to take a particular height with one division and to keep my whole command in readiness for some contemplated movement. In obeying this order according to its letter and spirit, a force of the enemy upon my left, my right, and my center, discovered itself, sufficient to engage during the day every division in my command. Our failure was the natural consequence of the insufficient preparation and the inadequate provision for an attack upon an army like that in front of us. This being the state of the facts, so far as I am concerned, without a hearing or the opportunity of defense, a report from the legislative branch of the Government has been spread through the newspapers and in pamphlets before my countrymen, stating that had I obeyed the orders given me by General Burnside on that day our army would have achieved a most brilliant victory. Instead of a brilliant victory, it was a sad and fearful disaster, in which many brave men fell—men to whom I was attached by two years' association, and for this disaster, and for the blood of these comrades, this committee say I am responsible. I place these facts by the side of their report, perfectly willing to abide by the verdict which the public will pass upon me.

WM. B. FRANKLIN.

[21.]

MAY 1, 1863—1.50 P. M.

Major-General SEDGWICK:

Deserters just received from Early's division, Hays' brigade, Jackson's corps. Their division relieved A. P. Hill, who marched up to our right. You have, I should judge from their statements, one less division to-day than yesterday in your front, when they left. The table of regiments, &c., given you is confirmed by all statements yet received.
Respectfully,

DANL. BUTTERFIELD,

Major-General and Chief of Staff.

The general wants to hear from the balloon.

[25.]

HEADQUARTERS LEFT WING,
MAY 1, 1863—8.40 P. M.

Major-General BUTTERFIELD, Chief of Staff:

General Reynolds reports that the result of demonstration was that the enemy got under arms. He adds: "From what I have told you, you will understand that I could not move without bringing on an engagement."*

JOHN SEDGWICK,
Major-General, Commanding.

* For Reynolds' dispatch in full, see Vol. XXV, Part II, p. 340.
General BUTTERFIELD:

Have received dispatch countermanding order for demonstration.*

JOHN SEDGWICK,
Major-General, Commanding.

MAY 2, 1863.

Major-General HUMPHREYS,
Commanding Third Division:

GENERAL: The major-general commanding desires, as soon as you are supported by Brigadier-General Mott—and before if in your judgment it is practicable—a small force, to be left to your discretion, should be sent up the river road, with directions to proceed cautiously and ascertain if there is any appearance of the enemy in your immediate front. Particular instructions should be given to them, in case they are driven in, to return in such manner as not to mask the fire of the batteries. Major-General Couch reports indications of the enemy massing in General Hancock’s front, which is on the plank road and old turnpike.

FRED. T. LOCKE,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

MAY 2, 1863—8.55 o’clock.

Major-General BUTTERFIELD,
Chief of Staff:

General Reynolds’ movement will be a little delayed in consequence of the heavy shelling they have given him. His infantry have been in motion for some time, and the whole movement will be pushed.

JOHN SEDGWICK,
Major-General.

HEADQUARTERS FIRST ARMY CORPS,
May 2, 1863—11.05 a.m.

General SEDGWICK:

The troops are all across and moving up the road. The bridge is on this side and being taken apart. The enemy interfered in no way except with his artillery, one shot striking the bridge while the troops were crossing, delaying us until a new boat could be put in. I report that pontoon bridge will be piled on this side and left. There are no trains to haul them off.

JNO. F. REYNOLDS,
Major-General.

MAY 2, 1863.

Major HANCOCK,
Assistant Adjutant-General:

The hill in front of General Zook’s picket-line and to the left of the road I think can be easily taken by a strong skirmish line; if it was gained it would be a very important point, as there is an open field

*See 8.50 p. m., Vol. XXV, Part II, p. 343.
beyond the wood. A party of sharpshooters, Eleventh Massachusetts Volunteers, are now trying to gain the crest, but are not strong enough to hold it. I would respectfully request that a staff officer be sent to examine the position.

Very respectfully,

NELSON A. MILES,
Colonel Sixty-first New York Vols., Division Officer of the Day.

MAY 2, 1863—4.15 p. m.

Major-General BUTTERFIELD,
Chief of Staff:

The enemy have entirely withdrawn their advanced line with the exception of a small picket force.

T. S. C. LOWE,
Aeronaut.

CUMBERLAND, May 2, 1863—3.30 p. m.

Lieutenant-Colonel CHESEBROUGH,
Assistant Adjutant-General, Baltimore:

Just arrived here on my way to Harper's Ferry. Will be detained here till 6 p. m. The Fourteenth Pennsylvania are on their way back to the Ferry. The Twelfth are expected here in about an hour. Will push it on to Roberts as fast as possible. We will have to look out for Jones on his return, as he has remounted his men with fresh horses stolen from the people in Western Virginia. I have effectually blocked the Northwestern turnpike from North Branch to Stony Run and ordered Smith to fall back to New Creek and assume command, which I think will make that important point safe.

B. F. KELLEY,
Brigadier-General.

UNITED STATES FORD, May 3, 1863.

General BUTTERFIELD:

Do not expect dispatches much from General Hooker at present. He wishes to hear constantly from you but he is too engaged. He has been slightly hurt, but not at all severely. No firing for an hour. Am just back from Hooker's headquarters. The slaughter has been fearful on both sides. The enemy must have suffered most as he has been forced to attack every time. Your last dispatch is received and forwarded.

RUFUS INGALLS,
Chief Quartermaster.

SEDGWICK'S HEADQUARTERS,
May 3, 1863.

General BUTTERFIELD:

The enemy's infantry is very light along the whole line opposite here, and especially immediately in rear of Fredericksburg. I can see no troops moving this way on any of the roads. Heavy cannonading has just commenced on the right toward Chancellorsville.

T. S. C. LOWE.
General HUMPHREYS,
Commanding Third Division:

The major-general commanding directs that the last order be obeyed, and that the regiments be sent, as General Mott's brigade is ordered to the front. Everything goes well. Sedgwick has Fredericksburg. Sickles is in Jackson's rear.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,
FRED. T. LOCKE,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

SPECIAL ORDERS,} WAR DEPT., ADJT. GENERAL'S OFFICE,
No. 201. } Washington, May 4, 1863.

By order of the Secretary of War:
E. D. TOWNSEND,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

HEADQUARTERS FIFTH ARMY CORPS,
May 4, 1863.

Brigadier-General VAN ALEN,
Aide-de-Camp, Headquarters Army of the Potomac:

GENERAL: Major-General Meade directs me to acknowledge the receipt of your communication,* and to say that the Third Division of this corps (Brigadier-General Humphreys commanding) has been ordered to re-enforce Major-General Reynolds in case that officer needs support. A staff officer has been sent to General Reynolds to give him this information. Major-General Meade directs me to write this because General Humphreys' division comprises all the troops he has in reserve, Griffin's and Sykes' divisions being already in position on the line ordered to be held by this corps by the major-general commanding the Army of the Potomac.

I have the honor to be, very respectfully, your obedient servant,
FRED. T. LOCKE,
Lieutenant-Colonel and Assistant Adjutant-General.

HEADQUARTERS THIRD ARMY CORPS,
In the Field, May 5, 1863—12 m.

Brig. Gen. S. WILLIAMS,
Assistant Adjutant-General:

GENERAL: I deem it my duty to report that the distinguished conduct of Brigadier-General Birney, Brigadier-General Pleasonton, Col. S. B. Hayman, and Col. William Blaisdell, in the engagements with the enemy on the 2d and 3d instant, merit the prompt recognition of the Government. The conspicuous gallantry and ability which they * Probably that of 3.45 p. m., Vol. XXV, Part II, p. 401. evinced entitle them to promotion. The vacancies made by the death of Major-General Berry and Brigadier-General Whipple should, I respectfully suggest, be filled by promotions from the troops of the same army corps, considering that promotions have been so nobly earned in this corps. I earnestly solicit for these recommendations the notice of the general-in-chief of this army, in order that the service may have all the advantage to be derived from judicious and discriminating promotions, and the value of these, it may be superfluous to add, is doubled when they are promptly conferred.

I am, general, your most obedient servant,

[25.]

D. E. SICKLES,
Major-General, Commanding.

HDQRS. MIDDLE DEPARTMENT, EIGHTH ARMY CORPS,
Baltimore, May 5, 1863.

Brigadier-General ROBERTS,
Clarksburg:

Very little indeed. Perhaps the Fourteenth Pennsylvania Cavalry and a small re-enforcement of cavalry. But I doubt the enemy's design to return to Grafton or Clarksburg. He is perhaps maneuvering for the railroad beyond you, Parkersburg and the Kanawha. Hooker is understood to be going on gloriously.∗

[25.]

ROBT. C. SCHENCK,
Major-General, Commanding.

CENTERVILLE, May 6, 1863.

Brigadier-General STANNARD,
Union Mills:

It is important to hold Rappahannock Station. You will therefore order a regiment from Union Mills to hold that front and the railroad in its rear. You will apply immediately for transportation by railroad.
Please acknowledge receipt of this.

By order of General Abercrombie:

[25.]

SAML. APPLETON,
Lieutenant and Aide-de-Camp.

HDQRS. MIDDLE DEPARTMENT, EIGHTH ARMY CORPS,
Baltimore, May 7, 1863—1.15 a. m. (Received 1.40 a. m.)

Maj. Gen. R. H. MILROY,
Winchester, Va.:

You will bring back your forces from Edenburg and Woodstock. A portion of your command must be sent to the relief of General Roberts.
Let the Ninth and Tenth Regiments Virginia Infantry be held ready for immediate movement to Martinsburg.

ROBT. C. SCHENCK,
Major-General, Commanding.

∗ This in reply to Roberts of May 5, embodied in Schenck to Kelley, Vol. XXV, Part II, p. 429.
HDQRS. MIDDLE DEPARTMENT, EIGHTH ARMY CORPS,
Baltimore, May 10, 1863—12 m.

Brigadier-General KELLEY,
Grafton, Va.:

The Eighty-seventh Pennsylvania Infantry left Martinsburg last night under orders to proceed to report to you at Grafton. The Twelfth Virginia Infantry will follow, and a battery, being all of Hay's brigade at Winchester. I think it will not be necessary to send you more force, but give me frequent reports of the situation. Do you credit the report of a rebel force in Tyler County, or going toward Wheeling? Can they go in there and escape you without being cut off?

ROBT. C. SCHENCK,
Major-General, Commanding.

---

HDQRS. MIDDLE DEPARTMENT, EIGHTH ARMY CORPS,
Baltimore, May 10, 1863.

Brigadier-General KELLEY,
Grafton, Va.:

If you have enough re-enforcement at the west you may order the Tenth Virginia Infantry and Battery B, First Virginia Artillery, to stop at any points on the railroad east of Grafton where you want them. We must hold all Milroy's troops ready to return if needed; but I think of sending the Ninth Virginia to Scammon, on the Kanawha, and giving Milroy something from here in exchange for it. The battery will leave Harper's Ferry between 12 and 2 to-night, and the regiment of infantry perhaps not until near noon to-morrow.

ROBT. C. SCHENCK,
Major-General, Commanding.

---

HDQRS. MIDDLE DEPARTMENT, EIGHTH ARMY CORPS,
Baltimore, May 10, 1863—10 p. m.

Brigadier-General KELLEY,
Grafton, Va.:

Another regiment, the Tenth Virginia Infantry, and Battery B, First Virginia Artillery, will leave Harper's Ferry for Grafton to-night. I think from your reports you can hardly want more troops in that direction. What is your opinion? We may next require them east of you. It is absolutely necessary that you find out something certain of the movements, position, and number of the rebels. They may suddenly move to the valley or east of the mountains, concentrate, and come down that way.

ROBT. C. SCHENCK,
Major-General, Commanding.

---

HEADQUARTERS DEPARTMENT OF WASHINGTON,
May 10, 1863—5.30 p. m.
(Received 9.45 p. m.)

General ABERCROMBIE,
Centerville:

General Stoneman has been ordered by General Hooker to picket the Orange and Alexandria Railroad from Rappahannock Station to Cedar Run. General Stahel has been advised. As soon as his troops occupy the ground the general commanding directs that you withdraw your troops to this side of Cedar Run.

S. H. LATHROP,

Lieutenant-Colonel and Assistant Inspector-General.

HEADQUARTERS,
Charleston, May 12, 1863.

Col. R. B. HAYES,

Commanding Brigade Opposite Charleston:

Your note is just received and all is right. There is, of course, great commotion in town. All will think it horrible, but they have been playing the game of treachery and must take the result. I have ordered 100 men to be brought over as a firing party. Hope the rebels will not come in, but if they do Charleston must be destroyed. I have been reading the treacherous correspondence of the people here for the last three months, and I think that our wives and children deserve as much consideration as those of Charleston.

Very respectfully, &c.,

E. P. SCAMMON,

Brigadier-General, Commanding.

CHARLESTON, May 12, 1863.

Colonel HAYES:

I have already given you the “scare.” Think there is truth in it. Will probably be over before morning. Meantime, I direct you to have guns in readiness to fire on Charleston. If rebels come in here Charleston shall be destroyed, for it is the work of disloyal citizens.

E. P. SCAMMON,

Brigadier-General.

HDQRS. FIRST BRIG., THIRD DIV., EIGHTH ARMY CORPS,
Camp White, Va., May 12, 1863.

Maj. J. P. MCILRATH,

Comdg. Twenty-third Ohio Vol. Infty., Camp White, Va.,

[AND OTHER SUBORDINATE COMMANDERS:]

Sir: I am directed by General Scammon to have all in readiness for an attack. I do not think it necessary to awaken the men at present, but you will see that sentinels are on the alert, and such preparations are made as will enable you to have your men ready for an attack on the shortest notice. Captain Simmonds and Lieutenant Austin, in case of alarm, will put their guns in position to bear on Charleston.

Respectfully, &c.,

R. B. HAYES,

Colonel Twenty-third Ohio Volunteer Infantry, Commanding.

HDQRS. MIDDLE DEPARTMENT, EIGHTH ARMY CORPS,
Baltimore, May 13, 1863.

Brigadier-General KELLEY,

Commanding, &c., Grafton, Va.:

Have requested General Burnside to send the gun-boat now at Parkersburg up the Kanawha to Charleston. Report anything you may ascertain in regard to movements of the enemy.

W. H. CHESEBROUGH,

Assistant Adjutant-General.

[25.]
HEADQUARTERS THIRD ARMY CORPS,
May 14, 1863.

Brig. Gen. S. Williams,
Assistant Adjutant-General:

GENERAL: I have the honor to solicit the attention of the general-in-chief of this army to the distinguished conduct of Brigadier-General Pleasonton, commanding division of cavalry, on Saturday, May 2. This accomplished officer, by his gallant and able co-operation while temporarily under my command, assisted materially in averting the disaster which threatened the army on that day through the failure of the Eleventh Army Corps to resist the attack of the enemy on our right flank. I respectfully suggest that General Pleasonton should be promoted for his brilliant services on that occasion.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,
D. E. SICKLES,
Major-General, Commanding.

HEADQUARTERS THIRD ARMY CORPS,
May 14, 1863.

Brig. Gen. S. Williams,
Assistant Adjutant-General:

GENERAL: I have the honor to recommend the promotion of Col. S. B. Hayman, commanding brigade, First Division, to be brigadier-general. This to fill the vacancy to be made by the promotion of Brigadier-General Birney, or the actual vacancy made by the death of Brig. Gen. A. W. Whipple, mortally wounded on May 4, near Chancellorsville, and I respectfully request that this promotion be conferred upon Colonel Hayman for distinguished conduct in the battles and operations of the 2d and 3d of May, 1863.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,
D. E. SICKLES,
Major-General, Commanding.

HEADQUARTERS THIRD ARMY CORPS,
May 14, 1863.

Brig. Gen. S. Williams,
Assistant Adjutant-General, &c.:

GENERAL: I have the honor to recommend the promotion of Brig. Gen. D. B. Birney, commanding First Division, to the vacancy created by the death of Major-General Berry, commanding Second Division, killed in action on the 3d instant in the battle of Chancellorsville, and I respectfully request that this promotion be conferred upon General Birney for distinguished conduct in the battles and operations of the 2d and 3d of May, 1863.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,
D. E. SICKLES,
Major-General, Commanding.

HEADQUARTERS THIRD ARMY CORPS,
May 14, 1863.

Brig. Gen. S. Williams,
Assistant Adjutant-General, Headquarters Army of the Potomac:

GENERAL: I have the honor to recommend that Col. William Blaisdell, of the Eleventh Massachusetts Volunteers, commanding First Brigade, Second Division, of this corps, be promoted to be brigadier-general, to date from May 3, 1863, for gallant and meritorious services in the battles and operations of the 1st, 2d, and 3d of May, 1863.
Colonel Blaisdell has served with distinction and fidelity in all the campaigns of this army, and is an officer of great merit.

Very respectfully, your most obedient servant,

D. E. SICKLES,
Major-General. Commanding.

HEADQUARTERS ELEVENTH CORPS,
May 14, 1863.

Brig. Gen. S. WILLIAMS,
Assistant Adjutant-General, Army of the Potomac:

GENERAL: I have the honor to recommend for appointment to the position of brigadier-general, Col. A. Buschbeck, Twenty-seventh Pennsylvania Volunteers, commanding First Brigade, Steinwehr's division.
For nearly two weeks he commanded a brigade near Kelly's Ford, which is 30 miles away from the rest of the army, in a manner most satisfactory. On the march and during the battle Colonel Buschbeck gained respect and encomium from all. More than any other officer, he, with his brigade, checked the pursuing enemy. I believe him to be a man of integrity and ability. Second. I recommend Capt. H. Dilger, Battery I, First Ohio Artillery, for a lieutenant-colonelcy by brevet for gallant and meritorious conduct during the late battle. He handled his battery as well as a man could and receives my highest commendation.

I am, general, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

O. O. HOWARD,
Major-General, Commanding.

HEADQUARTERS GENERAL HEINTZELMAN,
May 14, 1863—11 a. m.

Major-General SCHENCK,
Commanding Middle Department, Baltimore:

Maj. Gen. J. Stahel has sent out a force of 400 of the First Michigan Cavalry to try and intercept Mosby, which is all the available force we could send, and as there are 400 of the enemy reported near Leesburg and 500 near Upperville, it is not considered safe to allow them to proceed too far, and in consequence will be of little assistance to the detachment of the First New York sent out by you, as our forces are so far apart.

S. P. HEINTZELMAN,
Major-General, Commanding.

HEADQUARTERS GENERAL SCHENCK,
Baltimore, May 14, 1863.

Brig. Gen. W. H. MORRIS,
Harper's Ferry:

Four hundred rebel cavalry are now reported near Leesburg and 500 near Upperville. Have Colonel Schley and Captain Means keep a sharp lookout on and across the river. There may be a raid designed, but let our people beware of any vain rumors.

ROBT. C. SCHENCK,
Major-General, Commanding.
GENERAL ORDERS,} HEADQUARTERS THIRD ARMY CORPS,
No. 10. } May 18, 1863.

The following officer is assigned to duty on the staff of the major-general commanding: Capt. LeGrand Benedict, assistant adjutant-general. He will be obeyed and respected accordingly.

By command of Major-General Sickles:

O. H. HART,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

SPECIAL ORDERS, } HDQRS. DEPARTMENT OF WASHINGTON,
No. 91. } May 23, 1863.

to the command of the Defenses south of the Potomac, headquarters Arlington house. Col. T. R. Tannatt, on being relieved, will assume command of his regiment.

By command of Major-General Heintzelman:

CARROLL H. POTTER,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

HEADQUARTERS CAVALRY FORCE,
Bristoe, via Warrenton, May 28, 1863.

Maj. H. BALDWIN,
Assistant Adjutant-General, Fairfax Court-House:

Force sent to White Plains returned. Party by way of Warrenton met small squad at Salem that escaped toward Waterloo. Party by Hopewell Gap and Middleburg met several small squads that fled, after a little skirmishing, to the mountains. Party via New Baltimore and Georgetown met nothing. Force sent to hold Thoroughfare Gap had pickets driven in from this side, but held place until arrival of the united columns from Plains, when a sharp skirmish ensued, resulting in our dislodging and dispersing them in every direction. The enemy numbered sixty. Fight lasted twenty minutes; 2 rebels known to be killed; 3 wounded, 1 mortally. We brought in 6 prisoners. Our loss, 2 horses killed and 2 wounded. The various parties brought in 15 horses. This expedition demonstrated no considerable force from Warrenton to Middleburg, but Mosby is said to have now, somewhere in or about Aldie, a piece of artillery taken in yesterday from way of Waterloo. All quiet this way.

W. D. MANN,
Colonel, Commanding Cavalry.

GENERAL ORDERS, } WAR DEPT., ADJT. GENERAL'S OFFICE,

A medal of honor has been awarded to Private Samuel Johnson, of Company G, Ninth Pennsylvania Reserves, for having, by individual bravery and daring, captured from the enemy two colors at the battle of Antietam, September 17, 1862, and received in the act a severe wound. He will be transferred to the Invalid Corps as a commissioned officer.

By order of the Secretary of War:

E. D. TOWNSEND,
Assistant Adjutant-General.
WASHINGTON, May 30, 1863.

General STAHEL:

The general evinced much satisfaction at your success. He trusts your cavalry are on the alert and that the capture of Mosby's guns will be followed by yet more gratifying achievements.

S. H. LATHROP, Lieutenant-Colonel, Assistant Inspector-General.

[25.]

CIRCULAR.

HEADQUARTERS FIRST ARMY CORPS, May 31, 1863.

Major-General Reynolds having gone to Washington for a few days, the undersigned assumes temporary command of the First Army Corps.

A. DOUBLEDAY, Major-General of Volunteers.

[25.]

FAIRFAX COURT-HOUSE, May 31, 1863—2 p. m.

Colonel MANN, Bristoe:

(Via Warrenton Junction.)

The general commanding directs me to convey to you and the officers and men in your command his grateful acknowledgments for the valuable service which you have rendered in routing the enemy and capturing their artillery in the fight of yesterday. He will take pleasure in recommending all engaged to the favorable consideration of the commanding general.

By order of Major-General Stahel:

H. BALDWIN, JR., Assistant Adjutant-General.

[25.]

SPECIAL ORDERS, HDQRS. DEPARTMENT OF WASHINGTON, No. 99. June 1, 1863.

2. Brig. Gen. S. W. Crawford, U. S. Volunteers, is hereby assigned to the command of the First and Third Brigades, Pennsylvania Reserves, the Third Brigade to be stationed at Upton's Hill and First Brigade at Fairfax Station, where General Crawford will establish his headquarters.

By command of Major-General Heintzelman:

CARROLL H. POTTER, Assistant Adjutant-General.

[25.]

SPECIAL ORDERS, HDQRS. ARMY OF THE POTOMAC, No. 152. June 4, 1863.

2. Brig. Gen. Alexander Shaler, U. S. Volunteers, will report to the commanding general of the Sixth Corps for assignment to a brigade in that command.

By command of Major-General Hooker:

S. WILLIAMS, Assistant Adjutant-General.
Major-General Sykes,

Commanding Second Division:

GENERAL: By direction of the major-general commanding you will without any delay move with your division and take position on the Rappahannock River, posting one brigade at Banks' Ford, one brigade at United States Ford, with a detachment from the latter to be sent to Richards' Ford and posted there for its protection. You will post the other brigade of your division in reserve at Benson's Mills, that being a central point from whence roads lead to Richards', United States, and Banks' Fords, and from which any portion of your line can be easily re-enforced. The major-general commanding directs me to inclose here-with copies of telegrams received from the commanding general; also a map of the section of the country to be occupied. The major-general commanding directs that you take with you the intrenching tools of the supply train, and direct your subordinate officers to immediately prepare defenses, such as rifle-pits, epaulements for batteries, and to make every disposition to check, retard, and prevent the crossing of the river at the points whose defense is intrusted to them. There are now two batteries of light 12s posted at Banks' and United States Fords. Two rifled batteries have been ordered to these points to report to you. The major-general commanding directs that you will instruct the several commanding officers at each of the places occupied to immediately make themselves acquainted with the woods, paths, &c., leading from their posts up and down the river and back into the country, to keep up communications with the posts on their right and left, and you will discuss and arrange with them a plan of operations in case the enemy should force a passage at any point, in which case you will concentrate all your command within striking distance as rapidly as possible, and hold the enemy in check the longest possible time, falling back, when pressed, on the main army at this place. You will be careful to see that your command takes with it a full supply of ammunition, and you will issue rations so as to have always two days' cooked on hand, being thus prepared for immediate movement. You will be particularly careful to require your commanders to keep all wagons well in rear, and caution them to consider themselves on advance picket duty, requiring the utmost vigilance and activity. The major-general commanding desires that you will give your personal attention to the posting of your troops in their respective positions.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

FRED. T. LOCKE,

Assistant Adjutant-General.

HEADQUARTERS THIRD ARMY CORPS,
June 5, 1863.

HEADQUARTERS THIRD ARMY CORPS,
June 4, 1863.

HEADQUARTERS THIRD ARMY CORPS,
June 5, 1863.

COMMANDERS OF DIVISIONS AND ARTILLERY BRIGADE:

GENERAL: Your division will be held in readiness to march at day-light to-morrow morning.

By command of Major-General Birney:

J. HAYDEN,

Lieutenant-Colonel and Acting Assistant Adjutant-General.
HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE POTOMAC,
June 5, 1863—11 a.m.

Maj. Gen. JOHN SEDGWICK,
Commanding Sixth Corps:

The major-general commanding directs that when the bridge Brigadier-General Benham is ordered to throw across the river to-day shall have been laid, you hold it with such force as may be necessary for the purpose.

I am, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

S. F. BARSTOW,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE POTOMAC,
June 5, 1863.

Major-General HOWARD:

We are shelling the enemy's rifle-pits in front of Franklin's Crossing where we propose to lay a bridge.

S. WILLIAMS,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

CIRCULAR.]

HEADQUARTERS SECOND ARMY CORPS,
June 6, 1863.

Maj. Gen. D. N. Couch having returned, he directs me to say to you that he has assumed command of the Second Army Corps.

By command of Major-General Couch:

JNO. S. SCHULTZE,
Captain and Acting Assistant Adjutant-General.

COUCH'S HEADQUARTERS,
June 6, 1863.

General WILLIAMS:

My corps officer of the day reports the following:

The enemy have retired their line of pickets from the river and established a new line back of the city. Their earth-works are full of men, and they are mounting heavy guns and moving artillery.

D. N. COUCH,
Major-General.

HEADQUARTERS FIFTH ARMY CORPS,
June 6, 1863—6.15 p.m.

Major-General BUTTERFIELD,
Chief of Staff:

The following has just been received from General Barnes:

Colonel Vincent reports that at Kemper's Ford the pickets yesterday were weak and few appeared. This morning they are stronger and show themselves in considerable numbers. Last night two supports were heard to move nearer the river, being moved back at daylight. It was not possible to ascertain whether they were cavalry or infantry. At Ellis' Ford the enemy makes no attempt to conceal his movements; has but small force, and there is apparently but little, if any, strengthening the line.

GEO. G. MEADE,
Major-General.
Maj. Gen. G. Sykes,
Commanding Second Division:

GENERAL: Telegram sent for your information and guidance. As this dispatch is inconsistent with the one from General Butterfield requiring the enemy's strength to be felt, I have telegraphed to know whether it supersedes the former, also for explanation as to the expression "pickets not to be withdrawn," and asking whether small parties are to be left at the various points at this time occupied. Please prepare for orders for immediate movement, and arrange so that details may be left to occupy as pickets the different points you are now defending and guarding, making these as small as possible, and selecting some independent command and officer to take charge in case of the withdrawal of the command.

By command of Major-General Meade:

FRED. T. LOCKE,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE POTOMAC,
June 7, 1863.

Maj. Gen. J. SEDGWICK,
Commanding Sixth Corps:

GENERAL: The commanding general desires that you send at once all your intrenching tools to the bridges at Franklin's Crossing. It is the intention to throw up a field-work to cover the bridges.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

S. WILLIAMS,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE POTOMAC,
June 7, 1863.

Maj. Gen. J. SEDGWICK,
Commanding Sixth Corps:

GENERAL: The commanding general directs that you order Brig. Gen. D. A. Russell to report in person at these headquarters without delay, to receive instructions for special duty.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

S. WILLIAMS,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

SPECIAL ORDERS, HDQRS. ARMY OF THE POTOMAC,
No. 156. Camp near Falmouth, Va., June 8, 1863.

By command of Major-General Hooker:

S. WILLIAMS,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

* See Williams' dispatch of 9 p. m., Vol. XXVII, Part III, p. 17.
CONFIDENTIAL.

HEADQUARTERS CAVALRY CORPS,
Warrenton Junction, Va., June 8, 1863.

Brig. Gen. D. McM. Gregg,
Commanding Second and Third Cavalry Divisions:

GENERAL: You will move your command to-day in such manner as to be able to act with them at daylight in the morning (to-morrow) to cross the Rappahannock River at Kelly's Ford. On arriving at Kelly's Ford you will find Brig. Gen. D. A. Russell, with a command of 1,500 infantry and one horse battery, which force will be under your orders for ensuing operations. At daylight of the 9th instant you will cross your whole command of infantry, cavalry, and artillery over the Rappahannock River at Kelly's Ford as expeditiously as possible. A couple of boats will be at the ford under your orders, to enable you to cross some infantry above or below the ford, to drive away the enemy's pickets attempting to annoy you. Unless there is the most urgent necessity for it, do not use your artillery in effecting a crossing, as it would only apprise the enemy of your advance. Have no bugle or other calls sounded until further orders. As soon as you have crossed the river, move on as rapidly as possible, keeping your force well in hand, and masking the infantry with your cavalry and by the forests to prevent the enemy from observing it. When your infantry have crossed Kelly's Ford, direct it to move on Brandy Station. The cavalry will extend to the right as far as that point, with its line in the direction and as far as Stevensburg. It is expected that by the time your right is near Brandy Station, you will be in communication with the other forces of the expedition. If this is the case, you will then, while moving forward your right in the direction of Culpeper, swing round your left to envelop such of the enemy's forces as may be east and south of Culpeper. Brigadier-General Russell's command will act with General Ames' command on reaching Brandy Station, and form a distinct command under the orders of Brigadier-General Russell. General Russell's command will follow the cavalry movement to Culpeper. General Barnes, of the Fifth Corps, at Kelly's Ford, will be directed to cross 500 men to the opposite side of the river and put themselves in communication with your force at Stevensburg, to protect your flank from attack. You will place in position at Stevensburg at least one regiment of cavalry and two pieces of artillery, with especial instructions to look out for Raccoon Ford. You will also throw out strong pickets in the direction of Ely's and the Germanna Fords, who will give timely notice to Barnes' infantry of any approach of the enemy in that direction. Should you hear very heavy firing with troops not of your command, hasten to their assistance. Headquarters will move with the infantry and cavalry on the right until they arrive at Brandy Station. After that the headquarters will be with the infantry command, unless circumstances require a change, when you will be duly notified. Endeavor to communicate with the command on your right as soon after crossing as possible. It gives me great pleasure to state, general, you have my entire confidence in the execution of these duties. Keep me fully advised of your progress.

I am, general, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

A. PLEASONTON,
Brigadier-General, Commanding.
Brigadier-General Barnes,

Commanding First Division:

GENERAL: The major-general commanding has read your reports, and directs me to say that your arrangements to co-operate with General Pleasonton’s cavalry are satisfactory. The information given by Colonel Vincent is corroborative of what he has already heard. You can send in your reports, instead of every three or four hours, say every six hours—about 7 a. m., 1 p. m., &c. Very important information will of course be sent in as soon as received.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

FRED. T. LOCKE,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

GENERAL: The major-general commanding directs that you immediately send to the support of General Pleasonton, at Brandy Station, 1,000 infantry from your command. They should have their three days’ cooked rations in haversacks, and be supplied with forty rounds in boxes and twenty-five on their persons. No wagons or vehicles to accompany them except a few ambulances. Let no time be lost in pushing forward this command, and assign to its direction an intelligent and active officer. It would be well, if practicable, to send the whole of the brigade from which the 500 were taken this morning; but upon this point I leave details to your discretion. General Pleasonton must be promptly re-enforced without the least delay, and the nearest troops should be sent to him, supplying their places with your reserves. The map I furnished you will indicate the road from Kelly’s Ford to Brandy Station. Hold your posts on the river in force, and put all your artillery in position to cover the withdrawal of General Pleasonton’s command in case the same should be necessary. Just as I had completed the above the accompanying telegram was received from headquarters suspending for the present the order to re-enforce General Pleasonton. You had better, however, be prepared for the receipt of such orders, getting the command required ready at Kelly’s Ford, and your reserve ready to move down and take its place. I regret I have so frequently to call your attention to the necessity of keeping me promptly and frequently advised of what is transpiring in your front. The last and only dispatch this day received from Kelly’s Ford is dated 7 a. m., and a fast horse can certainly traverse the distance in two hours and a little over. It is impossible for me to answer the numerous calls from headquarters if you do not co-operate by keeping me posted up. Let me know by bearer, Captain Jay, aide-de-camp, your proposed arrangements and all that has occurred in your front.

Respectfully yours,

GEO. G. MEADE,
Major-General.

P. S.—A telegraph line is now being put up to your headquarters. Will reach there about midnight. Please take care of the operator sent up.
E. M. STANTON,
Secretary of War:

SIR: I have four brigades in this corps commanded by colonels. The impression prevails that all promotions come from outside the corps. Now, in order to strengthen the command and insure its efficiency, I recommend for promotion to the rank of brigadier-general: Col. Adolphus Buschbeck, Twenty-seventh Regiment Pennsylvania Volunteers, and Col. Orland Smith, Seventy-third Ohio Volunteers. I can vouch for these officers' loyalty, energy, and peculiar fitness as military men. If these worthy officers can be promoted I believe it will serve to allay much of the irritation that seems to exist in this corps.

I have the honor to be, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

O. O. HOWARD,
Major-General, Commanding.

HEADQUARTERS THIRD DIVISION,
June 10, 1863.

Lieut. Col. M. T. MCMAHON,
Assistant Adjutant-General, Sixth Corps:

COLONEL: I have given the instructions suggested to the commanding officer on the left, General Wheaton, and particularly warned him against any surprise. I did not feel any alarm, not having the brigade in reserve, but would feel much stronger were my lines not so much constrained by the rifle-pits. I regard the rifle-pits as at present laid out a positive weakness in compelling me to occupy a certain line, and by not allowing me to use my own discretion and make my own dispositions. For the information of the general commanding the corps and to satisfy my own sense of duty, I am obliged to state the line of rifle-pits is virtually no reserve, is by no means a strong one, but under any circumstances the commanding general may be assured the troops under my command will do their duty to the last extremity.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

JOHN NEWTON,
Major-General, Commanding.

HEADQUARTERS FOURTH ARMY CORPS,
Fort Magruder, June 10, 1863.

Captain GILLIS,
U. S. Navy:

SIR: The infantry will be at the Jamestown Island wharf at or before midnight. I have no reason to suppose they will have any difficulty in getting there. If they do not get there it would not be worth while to march to Barrett's Ferry to-night, and they would return here. If you find them on the wharf, and I doubt not you will, please go on rapidly, and if possible land them at two points on the Chickahominy. If you do not find the infantry, I trust you will not fail to steam up the Chickahominy past the mouth of the Diascond, as I wish to give the enemy an idea that we are coming in on the rear of the bridge. Go as far up that river as you think prudent, in any event.

Yours, truly,

E. D. KEYES,
Major-General.
Major-General REYNOLDS,
Commanding First Corps:

GENERAL: The commanding general directs me to say that you will camp in the vicinity of Berea Church; that you will move to the support of General Meade, who holds the line from Banks' to Kelly's Ford, or to General Birney, who will hold the line from Kelly's to Beverly Ford, as circumstances may require. Put yourself in telegraphic communication with headquarters and with Generals Meade and Birney, the latter at Bealeton, the former near Grove Church. Orders concerning your pickets will be sent upon receipt of your reply as to number of men, &c.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

DANL. BUTTERFIELD,
Major-General and Chief of Staff.

HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE POTOMAC,
June 11, 1863.

Major-General BIRNEY,
Commanding Third Corps:

GENERAL: The major-general commanding directs that you move your corps to the vicinity of Bealeton at once, the march to be made in such a manner as to conceal the movement of your troops and trains from the observation of the enemy. To have your corps at Bealeton by to-morrow evening. You will guard the river from General Meade's right at Kelly's Ford to Beverly Ford. You will gain much information as to these fords from the commanding and other officers of the Cavalry Corps now in that vicinity. Your column must be made as mobile as possible and divested of everything in excess of regulations and prescribed orders.

I am, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

DANL. BUTTERFIELD,
Major-General and Chief of Staff.

HEADQUARTERS FOURTH ARMY CORPS,
Fort Magruder, June 11, 1863.

Captain GILLIS,

U. S. Navy:

SIR: I regret the non-arrival of the gun-boats, but do not wish to abandon the expedition. I have sent down to order the Smith Briggs up, and will have the infantry at the wharf at 12 to-night. Don't let the Smith Briggs go very far up the Chickahominy; not quite so far as I would have sent her to-day, but still some distance.

Yours, in haste,

E. D. KEYES,
Major-General.

HEADQUARTERS FOURTH ARMY CORPS,
Fort Magruder, near Williamsburg, June 11, 1863.

Captain GILLIS,
U. S. Navy, Commanding Gun-Boats:

SIR: I shall expect you to be at the Jamestown Island wharf at midnight to-night with three gun-boats and two transports. As you pass
CHAP. LXIII.]

CORRESPONDENCE, ETC.—UNION. 1051

send a boat in to the King's Mill wharf, which is a mile or so below the mouth of College Creek and directly opposite this place. I will have a letter there for you, and a party there on the lookout. Show lanterns on the starboard side only till you get my note; after that go as dark as possible, as the enemy have lookouts on both sides of the river above.
I shall send about 1,200 infantry with two days' rations, and I wish them to land at one or two points on the right bank of the Chickahominy, as you may think most prudent, and that they should march briskly up the roads and make their presence known. I should like to have them ashore on that side from early morning till near night, you taking them on board before dark and landing them on the same Jamestown Island wharf, where you will wait till you learn the bridge across the stream to the mainland has not been destroyed during your absence. Should you not find any infantry at the wharf on your way up, wait there a short time and then steam up into the mouth of the Chickahominy; remain some time after daylight, and if my men are not there return to Yorktown.
Keep a good lookout for enemy's vessels and examine the river closely.
If anything specified herein should not occur as foreseen, you must act in accordance with your own sound discretion. Send me a note, stating what vessels you have, from King's Mill wharf, &c.

I remain, very sincerely, your obedient servant,

E. D. KEYES,
Major-General.

HEADQUARTERS FOURTH ARMY CORPS,
Near Williamsburg, Va., June 11, 1863—3.30 p.m.

Brigadier-General GORDON,
Commanding Division:

SIR: I have not yet succeeded in communicating with the gun-boats.
Shall not abandon the effort till dark, and am now going down to the Jamestown Island landing myself. As seven gun-boats (two monitors) have passed up, I think you can remain out another day or two.
We shall stir up the enemy when we succeed in landing some infantry above the Chickahominy. If you think you can remain out I will send out some loads of meat, bread, coffee, &c., as you may desire, early in the morning. In no case do I wish you to return until late to-morrow evening if you can possibly avoid it.

Yours, very respectfully,

E. D. KEYES,
Major-General.

HEADQUARTERS THIRD ARMY CORPS,
June 12, 1863.

Brigadier-General HUMPHREYS,
Commanding Second Division:

GENERAL: The major-general commanding directs that you take the road hence to Kelly's Ford and picket thence to Beverly Ford, detailing one of your brigades for this purpose and using the other for a reserve. A battery will be ordered to report to you and will be attached to your reserve. You will establish your pickets between the points above mentioned, and by the use of rifle-pits and abatis you will enable your men to render the fords impassable to the enemy. You will establish communication with General Meade, who is on your left, and with General Pleasonton, who is upon your right. The headquarters of the corps will be established at Bealeton, and you will communicate with them on the right if you find that you cannot do so with Pleasonton to-night. You will use every endeavor to carry out these instructions before dark, and report the result of your efforts to these headquarters this evening in person. The train of your division will be sent to Bealeton; your ambulances will accompany the division. The tools of your pioneers are supposed to be sufficient for your use, but should it be thought necessary to increase the strength of the working parties you will obtain the necessary tools at these headquarters. It is, however, necessary that the tools be used as economically as possible, and none taken from these headquarters if it can be avoided. Lieutenant Briscoe (the bearer) will accompany you as a guide, and you will avail yourself of his intimate knowledge of the country in establishing your picket-line.

I am, general, yours, respectfully,

J. HAYDEN,
Lieutenant-Colonel and Acting Assistant Adjutant-General.

[27.]

HEADQUARTERS FOURTH ARMY CORPS,
Near Fort Magruder, Va., June 12, 1863—11 a. m.

Brigadier-General GORDON,
Commanding Division:

Sir: The major-general commanding directs me to say that he has just received a communication from Major-General Dix informing him that General Peck has moved in the direction proposed. It is the desire of General Dix, as well as of General Keyes, as he notified you last night, that you should keep your command out longer than to-day if you can do so without hazarding its safety, and he thinks you ought to be able to learn something of the enemy's numbers and position. The general commanding requests that you will send in your requisitions for such supplies as you may require, and that if possible an officer may be sent to attend to forwarding them for your whole command, including Colonel West's. He wishes to be informed of anything that occurs of importance, and he will be glad if you determine that it is prudent to remain out at least one day longer after to-day.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

OSWALD JACKSON,
Acting Assistant Adjutant-General.

[27.]

HEADQUARTERS FOURTH ARMY CORPS,
Williamsburg, Va., June 12, 1863.

Brigadier-General GORDON,
Commanding Division:

Sir: I have your note of to-day. Have ordered up to you two days' rations, as I am not certain it is expedient for you to return to-morrow. I think it better not to hurry back, and to feel the enemy a little more. I have been waiting impatiently all day to get word from Colonel Johnson and the gun-boats, and will write you the news I may receive. My orders cannot be positive at this distance, and you must be the judge as to whether you can hold your ground or not; but I think it highly important that you should remain out a while longer.

I am, respectfully, your obedient servant,

E. D. KEYES,
Major-General, Commanding Fourth Army Corps.

[27.]
5. Brig. Gen. G. K. Warren is assigned to the general charge of the troops designated to cover the withdrawal of the sick and supplies from Potomac Creek and Aquia depots. He will be guided in this duty by the special instructions he has received from the commanding general, and his orders will be obeyed by all concerned.

By command of Major-General Hooker:

S. WILLIAMS,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

HEADQUARTERS THIRD ARMY CORPS,
June 13, 1863—12.15 p.m.

Brigadier-General HUMPHREYS,
Commanding Second Division:

GENERAL: The major-general commanding directs me to say that he is in receipt of your note of this morning, relating to the defenses of the fords, and that he desires that you take immediate measures to carry out the instructions of yesterday, but while doing so that you also use every precaution necessary to avoid observation.

I am, general, yours, respectfully,

J. HAYDEN,
Lieutenant-Colonel and Acting Assistant Adjutant-General.

[27.]

HEADQUARTERS FIFTH ARMY CORPS,
Camp, Berea Church, June 13, 1863.

Major-General SYKES:

You will concentrate your division (trains and batteries) at Hartwood Church, and there await the relief of your pickets on the river. Those at Banks' Ford will be relieved by Major-General Hancock; those at United States Ford by cavalry to be sent by Major-General Reynolds. So soon as your pickets are relieved you will proceed as rapidly as possible to Warrenton Junction from Hartwood Church, taking the right-hand road, so as to avoid General Barnes' division moving from Morrisville to the same point through Elk Run. I shall proceed from hence to Grove Church, and will leave with you at Hartford an operator to telegraph to Grove Church so long as I remain there.

Respectfully, yours,

GEO. G. MEADE,
Major-General, Commanding.

[27.]

HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE POTOMAC,
June 13, 1863.

Major-General SEDGWICK,
Commanding Sixth Corps:

GENERAL: The major-general commanding directs that you send a competent officer, with instructions, with the trains to keep them moving on and out of the way and to keep the road clear. That you take a position on the north side of Potomac Creek, if necessary on the high ground, until Hancock's trains have passed; all trains to keep in motion until near Dumfries and across Occoquan River. You will send a staff officer to-morrow p. m. to Dumfries, to report to headquarters for orders.

Very respectfully,

S. F. BARSTOW,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

HDQRS. CAVALRY CORPS, ARMY OF THE POTOMAC,
Warrenton Junction, Va., June 13, 1863.

Major-General Birney,
Commanding Third Corps, Bealeton, Va.:

GENERAL: General Pleasonton directs me to communicate all the information of interest to you concerning the movements of our troops. General Gregg has been ordered to send a brigade to Warrenton with instructions to scout toward Amissville, Little Washington, and beyond. General Buford has been instructed to send a brigade to Salem with instructions to scout west into the valley if possible. We have no positive information of the movements of the enemy, but have reason to believe that the enemy is making a movement with a view to turning our right. Any information will be promptly communicated to you. The cavalry was ordered to report to you and should have been there early this morning.

I have the honor to be, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

A. J. ALEXANDER,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

HDQRS. MIDDLE DEPARTMENT, EIGHTH ARMY CORPS,
Baltimore, June 13, 1863.

Brigadier-General Kelley,
Harper's Ferry:

The general commanding wishes to impress upon General Kelley the importance of concentrating at Martinsburg Colonel Smith's brigade, which Brigadier-General Tyler will be in Martinsburg on special train to take command of. Are the lines in working order to Winchester?

DONN PIATT,
Lieutenant-Colonel and Chief of Staff.

HDQRS. MIDDLE DEPARTMENT, EIGHTH ARMY CORPS,
Baltimore, June 13, 1863.

Brigadier-General Briggs,
Frederick, Md.:

Milroy attacked in force; rebels approaching Maryland. It is necessary to be on the alert and watch telegraph and bridges.

DONN PIATT,
Lieutenant-Colonel and Chief of Staff.

HEADQUARTERS RIGHT WING,
June 14, 1863.

Brigadier-General Pleasonton,
Commanding Cavalry Corps:

GENERAL: You will relieve the pickets in command of General Birney at Beverly, Rappahannock, and Kelly's Ford, stationing strong reserves at each of these places. You will hold these positions, taking charge of all the pickets until Monday morning, 15th instant, at which time you will fall back in the direction of Manassas and Centerville. General Hooker's headquarters will be at Dumfries to-night. You will be charged with covering the withdrawal of this wing of the army to the line of the Orange and Alexandria Railroad.

By command of Major-General Reynolds:

C. KINGSBURY, JR.,

[27.]

Lieutenant-Colonel and Assistant Adjutant-General.

WASHINGTON, D. C., June 14, 1863—1 p. m.

General SCHENCK,

Baltimore:

Get Milroy from Winchester to Harper's Ferry if possible. He will be gobbled up if he remains, if he is not already past salvation.

A. LINCOLN.

[27.]

HDQRS. MIDDLE DEPARTMENT, EIGHTH ARMY CORPS,

Baltimore, June 14, 1863.

Major-General COUCH,

Comdg. Department of the Susquehanna, Chambersburg, Pa.:

Ewell, with Jackson's old division and in force, has been fighting us since last night at Winchester, and is pressing on to Martinsburg. I have not the means to check him at the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad or at the Potomac River. I shall concentrate all I can to hold Maryland Heights.

ROBT. C. SCHENCK,

Major-General, Commanding.

[27.]

HDQRS. MIDDLE DEPARTMENT, EIGHTH ARMY CORPS,

Baltimore, June 14, 1863.

Brigadier-General TYLER,

Harper's Ferry or Martinsburg:

Received the following from Major-General Halleck:

It is reported that Longstreet's and Ewell's corps have passed through Culpeper to Sperryville toward the valley.

Be cautious.

DONN PIATT,

[27.]

Lieutenant-Colonel and Chief of Staff.

HDQRS. MIDDLE DEPARTMENT, EIGHTH ARMY CORPS,

Baltimore, June 14, 1863.

Brigadier-General KELLEY,

Harper's Ferry:

All troops, stores, &c., west of Martinsburg must be carried to Grafton, where Averell is ordered also to concentrate. This order must be promptly carried into effect.

By order of Major-General Schenck:

DONN PIATT,

[27.]

Lieutenant-Colonel and Chief of Staff.
Brigadier-General Briggs, Frederick, Md.:

Concentrate rapidly as possible your forces at Harper's Ferry. Rebels attacking Milroy at Winchester, while detached forces are pressing on to Martinsburg and Harper's Ferry.

By order of Major-General Schenck:

DONN PIATT,

Lieutenant-Colonel and Chief of Staff.

HEADQUARTERS FOURTH ARMY CORPS,
Camp near Williamsburg, Va., June 14, 1863.

Brigadier-General Gordon,

Commanding Division, near Nine-Mile Ordinary:

Sir: Your note of this morning was duly received. I am glad you have possession of Diascond bridge. You do not mention in your note the name of the officer who commanded the force which took possession of the bridge. While I was up at your headquarters yesterday you told me, as I understood, that Colonels Porter and Grimshaw were both out, and I would like to know which first crossed the bridge. Your arrangements appear to be good and your activity sufficient. In following out the programme "to feel the enemy constantly," I must require greater caution in proportion as you advance farther up the Peninsula. The reports I have received that some of Longstreet's corps are not far from the White House, on the other side of the Pamunkey, renders the caution necessary. The next move I make to facilitate and aid your movements will depend on the answer I receive from General Dix and Admiral Lee. The moment I determine on anything I shall notify you.

I remain, respectfully, your obedient servant,

E. D. KEYES,

Major-General.

HEADQUARTERS RIGHT WING,
June 15, 1863.

Major-General Birney, Commanding Third Corps:

GENERAL: The commanding general directs that, with your corps, you move to Manassas to-day and remain there until the troops and trains coming up on the right have crossed the Occoquan. You will take such position at Manassas as to cover the railroad, using any of the old fortifications that may be of benefit to you. My headquarters to-night will be at Centerville.

C. KINGSBURY, JR.,

Lieutenant-Colonel and Assistant Adjutant-General.

HDQRS. MIDDLE DEPARTMENT, EIGHTH ARMY CORPS,
Baltimore, June 15, 1863.

Hon. JOHN L. CHAPMAN, Mayor of Baltimore:

The State of Maryland having been called on to furnish 10,000 troops for six months as her contingent of the 100,000 asked for by the President's proclamation issued to day, I doubt not the loyal people of Baltimore will at once do their part to help fill the requisition. In this I am told that the ever-patriotic members of your city council are anxious and ready to co-operate. But the council being now adjourned over to the 29th instant, I take the liberty of suggesting whether, in order to afford them an opportunity of promptly acting, it may not be advisable for you to summon that body to meet immediately, that the subject may be laid before them for consideration.

I am, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

ROBT. C. SCHENCK,
Major-General, Commanding.

HDQRS. MIDDLE DEPARTMENT, EIGHTH ARMY CORPS,
Baltimore, June 15, 1863.

Brigadier-General AVERELL,
Colonel MULLIGAN, or OFFICER IN COMMAND AT GRAFTON:

Instead of remaining at Grafton as the point of concentration you will push eastward with all the force you can, and all the means of transportation you can command, to New Creek. The enemy this morning is believed to be in Martinsburg, but we hold Harper's Ferry and Winchester.

By order:

DONN PIATT,
Chief of Staff.

HDQRS. MIDDLE DEPARTMENT, EIGHTH ARMY CORPS,
Baltimore, June 15, 1863.

Capt. WILLIAM H. BOYD,
First New York Cavalry, Chambersburg, Pa.:

You will immediately proceed with your command, together with all other cavalry from this department that may have arrived at Chambersburg, and go by way of Emmitsburg and Frederick to Harper's Ferry, there to report to Brigadier-General Tyler for duty.

By order of Major-General Schenck:

DONN PIATT,
Chief of Staff.

SPECIAL ORDERS, No. 148.
HEADQUARTERS FIRST ARMY CORPS,
June 16, 1863.

2. Brigadier-General Paul, First Division, will report without delay to Brigadier-General Robinson, commanding Second Division, for assignment to the First Brigade of that division.

3. Brigadier-General Cutler, commanding First Brigade, First Division, is assigned to the command of the Second Brigade of that division.

By command of Major-General Reynolds:

C. KINGSBURY, JR.,
Lieutenant-Colonel and Assistant Adjutant-General.
Major-General HALLECK,

General-in-Chief, Washington:

General Couch telegraphs me his latest information is that the enemy took possession of Chambersburg with 600 to 800 men. He hopes to have more certain information in an hour or so.

ROBT. C. SCHENCK,

Major-General, Commanding.

HDQRS. MIDDLE DEPARTMENT, EIGHTH ARMY CORPS,

Baltimore, June 16, 1863.

Brigadier-General BRIGGS,

Relay House:

Push out as rapidly as possible to Harper's Ferry. Leave at Monocacy bridge guard enough to man the block-houses. At what hour will you be ready to move? Keep me advised.

By order:

DONN PIATT,

Chief of Staff.

[27.]

HDQRS. MIDDLE DEPARTMENT, EIGHTH ARMY CORPS,

Baltimore, June 16, 1863.

Brigadier-General BRIGGS,

Relay House:

Get ready, but do not start until further orders.

By order:

DONN PIATT,

Chief of Staff.

[27.]

HDQRS. MIDDLE DEPARTMENT, EIGHTH ARMY CORPS,

Baltimore, June 16, 1863.

Brigadier-General LOCKWOOD,

Point Lookout, Md.

Steamer leaves here for Point Lookout to fetch your troops. Please hasten their embarkation.

By order:

DONN PIATT,

Chief of Staff.

[27.]
HDQRS. MIDDLE DEPARTMENT, EIGHTH ARMY CORPS,
Baltimore, June 16, 1863.

Colonel TRUX,
Comdg. 14th New Jersey and 138th Pennsylvania,
Relay House, or at first station on road:

General Tyler telegraphs that trains must not approach Harper's Ferry except in broad daylight. You must go slowly, and stop at Monocacy and wait until daylight; then telegraph General Tyler, and take his orders about approaching him. Send forward an officer, and scouts also, immediately on reaching Monocacy, to communicate with General Tyler. Keep steam up all the time and trains ready to move. Do not permit a man to leave the cars. If wires are down and you cannot telegraph to and from General Tyler, you must not proceed until you can hear through your officer and scouts and get communication with him in that way. Be very careful and watchful. I will telegraph General Tyler to send cavalry patrols along the road from Harper's Ferry to Point of Rocks. Answer immediately on receiving this dispatch.

DONN PIATT,
Chief of Staff.

WAR DEPARTMENT,
Washington City, June 16, 1863—10.15 a.m.

Major-General COUCH:

What description of force is at Chambersburg; in what numbers, and under whose command? Such particulars are very necessary to be known here in determining the operations of Hooker's force. No pains should be spared to get accurate information in detail and report it here. The people being friendly, there would seem that with proper diligence and system accurate and full information might be had not only of the movements being made, but who and what number is making them.

EDWIN M. STANTON.

SPECIAL ORDERS,
HDQRS. ARMY OF THE POTOMAC,
No. 163.
Fairfax Station, Va., June 17, 1863.

1. The Twentieth and Ninety-fourth New York Regiments will proceed without delay to take post at the mouth of the Monocacy for the purpose of protecting the bridges and fords at that point. They will receive special instructions from Brigadier-General Warren after reaching their destination. Until the arrival of General Warren the senior officer will assume command, and will give whatever instructions may be necessary. These regiments will move from Alexandria by land and take with them their wagons and equipage.

By command of Major-General Hooker:
S. WILLIAMS,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

* For reply, see 11.20 a.m., Vol. XXVII, Part III, p. 161.
Major-General COUCH,

Harrisburg, Pa.

The rebel Imboden to-day invested Cumberland with two regiments of infantry, one of cavalry, and a battery. He may try to get west on National road to Wheeling. I have General Kelley looking after him. General Tyler reports the enemy gone from Harper's Ferry, but about 8,000 infantry and cavalry at Williamsport, destroying canal, &c., while their cavalry has gone into Pennsylvania. What can you tell me now of the raid in that direction? Has Carlisle been visited? I have my vedettes out, but can hear nothing yet of any coming in this direction.

ROBT. C. SCHENCK,

Major-General, Commanding.

[27.]

HDQRS. MIDDLE DEPARTMENT, EIGHTH ARMY CORPS,

Baltimore, June 17, 1863.

Major-General BROOKS,

The rebel Imboden was to-day at Cumberland with two regiments of infantry, one of cavalry, and a battery. I have directed General Kelley, at New Creek, to look after him, but he may make a push by the National road through Uniontown toward Wheeling. There ought to be a gun-boat at Wheeling, one at Parkersburg, and one in the Big Kanawha. Have you any above Cincinnati?

ROBT. C. SCHENCK,

Major-General, Commanding.

[27.]

CIRCULAR.

HEADQUARTERS SECOND ARMY CORPS,

Wolf Run Shoals, June 17, 1863.

The command will move at 8 this a.m. in the following order: First Division, Second Division, Third Division. The First Division will assign a brigade as an escort to the train. The commander of the brigade thus assigned will report to the general commanding the corps when we reach Fairfax Station. The Third Division will furnish a brigade for rear guard. A section of artillery will be added to it. At Fairfax Station the troops will halt for some time and have access to their wagons. The disposition of the artillery the same as on the previous march.

By order of Major-General Hancock:

W. G. MITCHELL,

Aide-de-Camp and Acting Assistant Adjutant-General.

[27.]

CIRCULAR.

HEADQUARTERS THIRD ARMY CORPS,

June 17, 1863.

This corps will move promptly at 3 p.m. to-day, the Second Division leading. Ambulances will follow brigades, and great care taken in admitting only sick men to them. The trains will follow Second Division, and each division will detail a sufficient guard for its train. The route will be through Centerville, Gum Spring, and by the old Carolina road to Leesburg. Officers leading the column will, whenever practicable, lead it through fields, avoiding the dusty roads, and will halt sufficiently often to keep it well closed. In this, as in all future marches, the corps will, in case of attack, march to the sound of the heaviest firing. At all considerable halts the column and trains will be massed, if practicable. Officers are charged with the responsibility of keeping their commands together, and it is hoped that the emergency will interest all in making every possible effort to expedite the column. Existing orders as to position of officers during the march will be respected.

By command of Major-General Birney:

O. H. HART,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

HEADQUARTERS FIFTH ARMY CORPS,
Gum Spring, June 18, 1863—4.30 a. m.

Major-General BUTTERFIELD,
Chief of Staff:

GENERAL: I have the honor to report that my headquarters were located yesterday p. m. at Gum Spring. General Reynolds is at Guilford Station; General Howard at Trappe Rock. Yesterday about 4 p. m. General Pleasonton had a sharp engagement with the enemy near Aldie. He met Fitzhugh Lee with his brigade of cavalry, caused him to retire, and took prisoners 9 officers and 66 men. General Pleasonton intended to follow after the enemy this morning. The prisoners were received here last evening, and are now on their way to the provost-marshall-general. Your orders to remain in position here were received about 10 o'clock last night. I send two orderlies, one to return immediately, the other to wait till afternoon.

By order of Major-General Meade:

FRED. T. LOCKE,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

P. S.—Captain Jay, aide-de-camp, has just this moment returned. Your dispatch of 1 a. m. received; copies will be sent in a few minutes to Generals Howard and Pleasonton.

F. T. L.

HEADQUARTERS ELEVENTH CORPS,
June 18, 1863.

Major-General BUTTERFIELD,
Chief of Staff:

GENERAL: I have patrolled to the north, west, and east of this position to-day. In Leesburg Captain Sharra, First Indiana Cavalry, with sixteen men came in sight of about twenty rebel cavalry, who instantly left toward Harper's Ferry. The patrol down Goose Creek, which has just reported, say that nothing is seen. I expected General Slocum was to move to Leesburg to-day, but there are no signs of him. A party of guerrillas or Mosby's cavalry picked up some stragglers between me and General Meade this morning. These parties are patrolling about us, but without cavalry I cannot prevent or capture them. A single squadron would relieve me very much here. The inhabitants say that Harper's Ferry is in the hands of the rebels, but I do not believe it.

My aide-de-camp, Lieutenant Miller, and an orderly started for your headquarters at 2 p. m. yesterday. He has not been heard from since.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

O. O. HOWARD,
Major-General, Commanding.

[27.]

ORDERS FOR MARCH.

June 19, 1863—7 a. m.

Major-General Birney:

General: The major-general commanding directs that you move your command to Gum Spring. General Meade has been ordered to move to Aldie. You will support General Meade if required and keep up communication with him. The country is reported full of guerrillas. Your dispatches and couriers should have escorts of ten or twelve men.

I am, very respectfully, your most obedient servant,

O. H. HART,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

[27.]

SPECIAL ORDERS,

WAR DEPT., ADJT. GENERAL'S OFFICE,
No. 277.

WASHINGTON, June 23, 1863.

By order of the Secretary of War:

E. D. TOWNSEND,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

[27.]

WAR DEPARTMENT,
Washington City, June 23, 1863.

Major-General HALLECK:
(Care of Major-General Schenck, Baltimore.)

General Hooker is here. When will you return?

EDWIN M. STANTON.

[27.]

BALTIMORE, June 23, 1863.

Hon. E. M. STANTON, Secretary of War:
I shall leave here at 3 p. m.

H. W. HALLECK,
General-in-Chief.

[27.]

HEADQUARTERS FIRST BRIGADE,
June 24, 1863.

Captain Ryan,
Acting Assistant Adjutant-General:

Captain: I have the honor to state, in reply to your note, that from information received from a scout (Davis) there is reason to believe that Mosby's gang will rendezvous in the mountains on our left and front to-night. I have, therefore, sent Captain Freedley (but a short time since and he is but a short distance on his way) with 100 men to endeavor to entrap him. No other orders have been given.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

R. B. AYRES,
Brigadier-General, Commanding.

ORDERs.]

HDQRS. TWELFTH CORPS, ARMY OF THE POTOMAC,
June 25, 1863.

This corps will move, via the upper bridge at Edwards Ferry, to-morrow morning, crossing the Monocacy at its mouth and proceeding up the Potomac toward Trammelstown and Point of Rocks.

Order of march: First, ambulances of Second Division; second, ambulances of First Division; third, baggage of Second Division; fourth, baggage of First Division, at 3 a. m.; fifth, Second Division Infantry; sixth, two batteries of artillery; seventh, First Division Infantry; eighth, two batteries of artillery, at 4.30 a.m. After crossing the bridge at Edwards Ferry the infantry will precede, the ambulances following the division to which they belong, and the baggage taking the rear of the column.

By command of Major-General Slocum:

H. C. RODGERS,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

CIRCULAR.

HEADQUARTERS THIRD ARMY CORPS,
Gum Spring, June 26, 1863.

Corps headquarters and its train will start for Jefferson by direct road to-morrow at 6 a. m. General Humphreys will move promptly at 7 a. m., bivouacking near Jefferson. Brigade artillery will follow at 8 o'clock. General Ward will move at 9 a. m. for Jefferson, bivouacking on the road to Middletown beyond Jefferson. The trains will move promptly at 10 a. m., keeping well closed up. The direct road to Jefferson will be taken and the columns kept well closed.

By command of Major-General Birney:

O. H. HART,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

HDQRS. TWELFTH CORPS, ARMY OF THE POTOMAC,
June 26, 1863—11.30 p. m.

Brig. Gen. A. S. WILLIAMS,
Commanding Division:

The major-general commanding directs that you march with your column to Knoxville, starting at 5 a. m. to-morrow. The order of march will be the same as that of to-day, General J. W. Geary in advance. The supply train will be sent to Middletown.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

H. C. RODGERS,
Assistant Adjutant-General.
HEADQUARTERS FIRST ARMY CORPS,
June 27, 1863—6.45 a. m.

Major-General Howard,
Commanding Eleventh Corps:

You will please move a division up into the Boonsborough Gap at once.

WILLIAM RIDDLE,
Major and Aide-de-Camp.

HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE POTOMAC,
June 28, 1863.

Brigadier-General Humphreys,
Commanding Division, Third Corps:

GENERAL: The major-general commanding desires that you report here in person, as he would like to see you for a few moments.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

DANL. BUTTERFIELD,
Major-General and Chief of Staff.

[Indorsement in the handwriting of General Humphreys.]

JUNE 28, 1863.

Butterfield. Passed several hours at General Meade's headquarters near Frederick. He invited me to be chief of staff, Army of the Potomac. Declined or deferred it.

[27.]

GENERAL ORDERS, HEADQUARTERS FIRST ARMY CORPS,
No. 70. June 29, 1863.

The First Corps will march this morning at 4 a. m. in the following order: The Second Division, the Third Division, the First Division, by Lewistown and Mechanicstown to Emmitsburg, keeping to the left of the road from Frederick to Lewistown between J. P. Kramer's and where the road branches to Utica and Creagerstown, to enable the Eleventh Corps to march parallel to it. Headquarters will be at Middleburg to-night. Strong exertions are required and must be made to prevent straggling. The First Division will furnish the guard for the train, and the commanding officer of it will report here for orders at 4 a. m. He will be furnished by the division commander with a copy of the orders issued to-day from these headquarters in reference to the march of the rear guard. The artillery will march in the rear of the leading division, which is the Second, detailing a section of rifled guns to report to the commanding officer of the rear guard.

By command of Major-General Reynolds:

WILLIAM RIDDLE,
Major and Acting Assistant Adjutant-General.

ORDERS.]

HDQRS. TWELFTH CORPS D'ARMÉE,
ARMY OF THE POTOMAC,
June 29, 1863.

The corps will move to Littlestown to-morrow as follows: First Division at 5 a. m.; two batteries at 5 a. m.; Second Division at 7 a. m.; two batteries at 7 a. m.; the ambulances and baggage as heretofore. The command will pass the Third Corps.

By command of Major-General Slocum:

H. C. RODGERS,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

[27.]

SPECIAL ORDERS, \{ WAR DEPT., ADJT. GENERAL'S OFFICE, \}
No. 288. \} Washington, June 30, 1863.

By order of the Secretary of War:

E. D. TOWNSEND,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

[27.]

CIRCULAR.

HEADQUARTERS FIRST ARMY CORPS,
June 30, 1863.

The divisions of this corps will move at 8 o'clock this morning on the Gettysburg road in the following order: First Division taking the lead, then Third Division, then Second Division. The artillery will move in rear of all the troops.

By command of Major-General Reynolds:

E. C. BAIRD,
Captain and Assistant Adjutant-General.

[27.]

UNION, June 30, 1863—10 a. m.

General AYRES,
Commanding Second Division:
A long march is before us, and every effort must be made to keep the command together and well closed up, as the enemy is not far from us. Strong exertions must be made to prevent straggling and to make the men keep in ranks. Your division will follow the First Division, which has gone on this road.

By order of Major-General Sykes:

FRED. T. LOCKE,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

[27.]

HEADQUARTERS LEFT WING,
June 30, 1863.

General BUFORD,
Commanding Cavalry Division, Gettysburg, Pa.:
Have you ascertained positively about the infantry force of the enemy at Fairfield, whether they have fallen back or are still in the position they occupied about P. N. Speilman's farm? Send me word by bearer.

Yours, &c.,

JOHN F. REYNOLDS,
Major-General of Volunteers, Commanding.

[27.]

By command of Major-General Meade:

S. WILLIAMS,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

---

This command will march at once for Gettysburg in the following order, viz: The Third Division will march first; the Artillery Brigade second; the Second Division third; the First Division fourth. There will be an advanced guard of one brigade from the leading division, and a battery of artillery, which will march a mile and a half in advance of the column. The pickets will be immediately withdrawn. The rear guard will be furnished by General Stannard, and will consist of two regiments. The command will move at once without further orders.

By command of Major-General Doubleday:

H. T. LEE,
Lieutenant and Aide-de-Camp.

---

Major-General Sickles:

When you reach Emmitsburg take position this side of town on the high ground commanding the road that leads from Fairfax [Fairfield] to Emmitsburg and below and toward the college, along the mountain. Howard will be on the road to Gettysburg. You ought to be to the left of the Gettysburg road with the most of your corps.

JOHN F. REYNOLDS, Commanding.

---

Brigadier-General Humphreys,

Commanding Second Division:

GENERAL: You will move your command immediately to Gettysburg, closing up on General Birney's division, and report to Major-General Howard, who is engaged with the enemy at that place. Move up with the utmost dispatch. Three batteries will join you.

By command of Major-General Sickles:

O. H. HART,
Lieutenant-Colonel and Assistant Adjutant-General.

---

The colonel commanding the Third Brigade takes great pleasure in complimenting the officers and men of this command for their gallantry displayed in previous engagements with the enemy. Their names are indelibly written on the tablets of history. The devotion of this brigade to the great cause of the Union and their noble deeds on many battlefields is the pride of the States which we represent, and spoken of by the whole North with admiration and joy. When again we are brought face to face with the enemy, who has invaded our territory, let us meet him with the same spirit and determined zeal as heretofore, so that he may here receive his just reward. Let us do our part toward crushing this terrible rebellion. Commandants of regiments will use every effort to encourage their commands, inspire them with the magnitude of the issue at stake.

GEO. C. BURLING,
Colonel Sixth New Jersey Volunteers, Commanding Brigade.

[27.]

HEADQUARTERS ELEVENTH CORPS,
July 1, 1863—10 p. m.

Major-General BUTTERFIELD,
Chief of Staff:

The loss of my corps is about 3,000 killed, wounded, and missing. In the two corps we have lost one piece of artillery. This position is plenty good for a general battle unless you fear it being turned at considerable distance from Gettysburg.

Respectfully,

O. O. HOWARD,
Major-General, Commanding.

[27.]

HDQRS. MIDDLE DEPARTMENT, EIGHTH ARMY CORPS,
Baltimore, July 1, 1863.

Commodore DORNIN,
Commandant Naval Station, Baltimore:

COMMODORE: Your communication of yesterday was received. I have to thank you for your prompt co-operation in the measures for defense here by the disposition you have made of the gun-boats that you had available. Please inform me if you should find it necessary on any account to change the vessels or their respective stations. I think we are getting this city and its approaches so under our guns on water and land that rebeldom could be held very uneasy.

I am, respectfully, your obedient servant,

ROBT. C. SCHENCK,
Major-General, Commanding.

[27.]

HDQRS. MIDDLE DEPARTMENT, EIGHTH ARMY CORPS,
Baltimore, July 1, 1863.

Captain CANNON,
Comdg Co. Delaware Cav., just in from Conowingo Bridge, at or near Bel Air, or on the way here:

CAPTAIN: You will on receipt of this, instead of pursuing your march as heretofore ordered by telegraph, march by the best route to Havre de Grace on the Philadelphia, Wilmington, and Baltimore Railroad, and on your arrival at that point report for duty to Major Hounsfield, of the Fifth Delaware Volunteer Infantry. On your way you will continue to collect the horses of disloyal citizens as heretofore ordered, giving receipts for them with proper description and bringing them in to be turned over to the quartermaster's department. In doing this you are to receive none but good horses, fit for cavalry or artillery use, and if you should fall in with Captain Means, of Virginia, who with Quartermaster Lacey is in Harford County collecting horses, you will turn over any that you may then have to Captain Means or Captain Lacey, the quartermasters, taking receipts therefor. You will also on your way to Havre de Grace arrest and carry with you all suspicious persons or known active or mischievous secessionists or rebel sympathizers in that part of the country.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

W. H. CHESEBROUGH,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

WAR DEPARTMENT,
Washington City, July 2, 1863.

S. M. SHOEMAKER, Esq.,
Baltimore:

You will please accept the thanks of this Department for your prompt and energetic organization of an express to General Meade's headquarters.

EDWIN M. STANTON,
Secretary of War.

HEADQUARTERS FOURTH ARMY CORPS,
Baltimore Store, Va., July 2, 1863—7.10 p. m.

Col. R. M. WEST,
Commanding, &c.:

Colonel: I send forward Colonel Porter, with his brigade and a fraction of a battery, to support you. If the enemy attacks in large force, fight your way back to this place. Let me know how matters stand.

Yours,

E. D. KEYES,
Major-General.

JULY 3, 1863—8 a. m.

General SEDGWICK:

The general directs me to say that, from information received from General Warren and General Howard of the movements of the enemy, it is their intention to make the attempt to pierce our center. He desires that, if any portion of your force is available and can be spared, they be massed in a central position near where they can support Howard or be thrown to the right or left, as required. He is under the impression that you have three brigades in reserve, and thinks perhaps two of them might be disposed as above.

I am, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

DANL. BUTTERFIELD,
Major-General and Chief of Staff.
CHAP. LXIII.

CORRESPONDENCE, ETC.—UNION.

HEADQUARTERS ELEVENTH CORPS,
July 3, 1863—2.15 p. m.

Major-General Meade,
Commanding Army of the Potomac:

The fire has been concentrated upon this point about an hour with no great effect. The batteries on our right do not reach us, and in center invariably overshoot us.

Respectfully,

[27.]

O. O. Howard,
Major-General, Commanding.

HDQRS. MIDDLE DEPARTMENT, EIGHTH ARMY CORPS,
Baltimore, July 3, 1863.

J. W. Garrett, Esq.,
President of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad:

DEAR SIR: I received this evening your communication, covering report of your master of machinery, announcing the completion of the iron-clad cars which you were requested to construct for our better defense of your railroad. The promptness with which this call on you has been met and complied with is indeed most creditable to your company and its employes. When the alterations suggested by Lieutenant Meigs, engineer, have been made, I desire to confer with you as to the immediate disposition of these iron-clads for effective use.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

ROBT. C. SCHENCK,
Major-General, Commanding.

HDQRS. CAVALRY BRIGADE, FRENCH'S CORPS,
ARMY OF THE POTOMAC,
Frederick, Md., July 4, 1863.

Lieut. W. F. A. Torbert,
Acting Assistant Adjutant-General, &c.:

LIEUTENANT: It affords me great pleasure to report for the information of the major-general commanding that the expedition under Major Foley has been entirely successful. The pontoon bridge is effectually destroyed. The boats were too damp to burn, and they were destroyed by axes. Its destruction occupied two hours and a half. There were but a lieutenant and sixteen men of the Twelfth Virginia Cavalry guarding it, and they have been all captured. The major learning of the laying of another bridge immediately at Williamsport, sent the prisoners here with a guard of twelve men. They came by way of Boonsborough without interruption, and proceeded to Williamsport for the purpose of destroying the bridge in progress there. They captured three wagon loads of ammunition for small-arms, and destroyed it by throwing it into the river. The depth of water at the point where the bridge was destroyed is ten feet. The prisoners say that the pontoon-boats destroyed were captured from General McClellan on the Peninsula.

I have the honor to be, lieutenant, your obedient servant,

ANDW. T. McREYNOLDS,
Colonel First New York Cavalry, Commanding.
Brig. Gen. S. Williams,
Assistant Adjutant-General, Army of the Potomac:

GENERAL: I have the honor to send herewith a sword and flag captured from the enemy. From the best information I can obtain I believe the sword to have been taken from the body of the rebel General Barksdale on the field of battle. The flag was captured by Brigadier-General Kilpatrick in the fight at Hanover.

I am, general, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

GEO. SYKES,
Major-General, Commanding.

HEADQUARTERS TWELFTH CORPS D'ARMÉE,
ARMY OF THE POTOMAC,
July 5, 1863.

Brig. Gen. A. S. Williams,
Commanding First Division:

You will move your command at once by way of Littlestownto Taneytown, encamping at the latter place for the night. The following will be the order of march: Second Division Infantry; First Division Infantry; Artillery Brigade; Second Division ambulances; First Division ambulances; Second Division baggage trains; First Division baggage trains.

By command of Major-General Slocum:

E. W. GUINDON,
Major and Aide-de-Camp.

ORDERS.

HEADQUARTERS TWELFTH CORPS D'ARMÉE,
ARMY OF THE POTOMAC,
July 5, 1863.

The corps will move in the direction of Frederick via Taneytown to-morrow morning in the following order: The First Division, with its ambulances and two batteries, at 5 o'clock; the Second Division, with its ambulances and two batteries, at 6 o'clock. The baggage train will follow the column at 6 o'clock, leaving the road clear for the reserve artillery, which will start at 7 o'clock.

By command of Major-General Slocum:

H. C. RODGERS,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

HEADQUARTERS RIGHT WING,
Fairfield, Pa., July 6, 1863—5.30 p. m.

Major-General Birney,
Commanding Third Corps:

GENERAL: You will proceed at 3 o'clock to-morrow morning with your command, by Emmitsburg direct road, Mechanicstown, Lewistown, Hamburg, to Middletown. Your trains will move with your corps. The Sixth Corps moves to-night at dark from this point, via Emmitsburg, &c., to the same place. If this corps should not have passed Emmitsburg when the head of your column arrives there, you will halt until it has passed and follow in rear.

By command of Major-General Sedgwick:

M. T. McMAHON,
Assistant Adjutant-General and Chief of Staff.
ORDERS.

HEADQUARTERS TWELFTH CORPS D'ARMÉE,

ARMY OF THE POTOMAC,

July 6, 1863.

The corps will march toward Frederick via Taneytown, starting at 4 o'clock to-morrow morning, the order of march being the same as that published for to-day, except that the whole corps will start at 4 o'clock and the artillery reserve following at 5.

By command of Major-General Slocum:

H. C. RODGERS,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

WASHINGTON, July 7, 1863.

His Excellency the President of the United States:

Mr. President: After having complied with my instructions on being relieved of the command of the Army of the Potomac, I came to Washington for the purpose of seeking an interview with yourself and the Secretary of War. This morning I have been placed in arrest by order of the major-general commanding the Army for visiting Washington without a pass. It is almost unnecessary for me to add that in my previous visits to this city this rule was never enforced in my case. Under the usages of service it is not considered proper to call on superior officers except with their consent, and I therefore request that His Excellency will have me informed whether or not he will grant me an audience for half an hour, and if so, appoint the time I can have the honor of meeting him.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

JOSEPH HOOKER,
Major-General.

MECHANICSTOWN, July 7, 1863.

Brigadier-General WARD,

Commanding First Division:

GENERAL: You will march your command at 5 a.m. to-morrow, July 8, toward Lewistown. Your division will take the lead. The same batteries of artillery will report to you that were with you to-day. The same orders as this morning.

By command of Major-General Birney:

O. H. HART,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

HEADQUARTERS RIGHT WING, SIXTH ARMY CORPS,

Near Emmitsburg, July 7, 1863.

Major-General Birney,

Commanding Third Corps:

GENERAL: The Sixth Corps is now here (one mile beyond Emmitsburg) and will fall in behind the First Corps which is passing at this time. If you arrive at this point before the Sixth Corps is on the road you will please halt your command and follow in rear. Please send a staff officer to report to-night upon going into camp.

By command of Major-General Sedgwick:

M. T. McMahan,
Assistant Adjutant-General and Chief of Staff.
It is General Sedgwick's intention to reach Middletown with the First and Sixth Corps if possible to-night, and he desires that you should encamp as near that point as practicable.

Very respectfully,

M. T. McM AHON,
Assistant Adjutant-General and Chief of Staff.

HEADQUARTERS SIXTH ARMY CORPS,
July 7, 1863—6 p. m.

Major-General Birney,

Commanding Third Corps:

GENERAL: Since sending the dispatch in relation to the different roads for your infantry and trains, General Sedgwick has decided that you will not be able to cross the mountain to-night. He desires that you go into camp at any suitable point in the vicinity of Lewistown. You will resume your march at an early hour to-morrow to Middletown without awaiting further orders on the subject.

By command of Major-General Sedgwick:

M. T. McM AHON,
Assistant Adjutant-General and Chief of Staff.

ORDERS.] HEADQUARTERS TWELFTH CORPS D'ARMÉE,
ARMY OF THE POTOMAC,
July 7, 1863.

The corps will move at 5 a. m. to-morrow via Frederick and encamp near Middletown. The same order of march as of to-day—General Williams in advance, &c.

By command of Major-General Slocum:

H. C. RODGERS,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

SPECIAL ORDERS, \{ WAR DEPT., ADJT. GENERAL'S OFFICE,\}
No. 302. \} \} Washington, July 8, 1863.

15. Brig. Gen. O. S. Ferry, U. S. Volunteers, is hereby relieved from duty in the Department of the South, and will report in person without delay to Maj. Gen. D. N. Couch, commanding Department of the Susquehanna, for duty.

By order of the Secretary of War:

E. D. TOWNSEND,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

CAVALRY HQRS., DEPARTMENT OF THE SUSQUEHANNA,
July 9, 1863.

Colonel WYNKOOP,
Commanding Twentieth Pennsylvania Cavalry:

The major-general commanding expresses his thanks to the officers and men of Captain Singiser's company for their success in the recent expedition, resulting in the capture of 50 rebels and 2 commissioned officers.

By command of Major-General Stahel:

H. BALDWIN, JR.,
Major and Assistant Adjutant-General.
HDQRS. FIRST BRIG., THIRD DIV., 8TH ARMY CORPS,
Camp White, W. Va., July 9, 1863.

Lieutenant-Colonel Comly,
Commanding Twenty-third Regiment Ohio Volunteer Infantry:

COLONEL: Be ready to move this p. m. at 6 o'clock, with all of your command except Company B. This company will, with Lieutenant Austin's artillery, guard the works on the hill. Instruct Captain Sperry that he must scout the roads leading east and south from town daily, and enforce the strictest discipline. The company of the Second Virginia Cavalry, now in Charleston, will be in his command.

By order of Col. R. B. Hayes:

M. P. Avery,
Captain and Acting Assistant Adjutant-General.

CIRCULAR.

HEADQUARTERS THIRD ARMY CORPS,
Near Keedysville, July 10, 1863.

Pursuant to orders from headquarters Army of the Potomac, the Third Corps will be massed in the vicinity of Antietam bridge, on the Boonsborough and Williamsport turnpike, about the center of the line of advance, and held in readiness to move at a short notice.

By command of Major-General French:

O. H. Hart,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

SPECIAL ORDERS, }
No. 186. }
HDQRS. ARMY OF THE POTOMAC,
July 11, 1863.

1. Brig. Gen. F. B. Spinola, U. S. Volunteers, having reported to the commanding general, is assigned to duty temporarily with the Third Corps, and will report to Major-General French, commanding same, for further instructions.

By command of Major-General Meade:

S. Williams,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

GENERAL ORDERS, }
No. 17. }
HEADQUARTERS THIRD ARMY CORPS,
Antietam, July 11, 1863.

The following officers are announced on the staff of the major-general commanding the corps: Capt. W. F. A. Torbert, aide-de-camp and acting assistant adjutant-general; Maj. S. B. Hayman, commissary of musters, subject to approval of Secretary of War; Lieut. William H. French, jr., Lieut. H. Y. Russell, aides-de-camp; Lieut. E. D. Spooner, acting aide-de-camp. They will be respected and obeyed accordingly.

By command of Major-General French:

O. H. Hart,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

CIRCULAR.

HEADQUARTERS THIRD ARMY CORPS,
Near Antietam Bridge, July 11, 1863.

Division and brigade commanders will be ready to move at any time after 12 m. If there are any supplies up they will be issued immediately.
Brig. Gen. A. S. WILLIAMS,
Commanding Division:

GENERAL: The major-general commanding directs that you send one brigade of your division to relieve a brigade of cavalry (Colonel Huey) on the Boonsborough and Williamsport pike, a little in advance of Jones' Cross-Roads. The cavalry may be already withdrawn except the picket, which is about half a mile in advance of the infantry picket on that road. Colonel Curtis (of the First Massachusetts Cavalry) will be there to point out the position to be occupied. The infantry is merely to hold that position already gained by the cavalry.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

H. C. RODGERS,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

HEADQUARTERS DEPARTMENT OF WASHINGTON,
Washington, July 11, 1863.

Maj. Gen. J. STAHEL,
Comdg. Cavalry, Department of the Susquehanna, Harrisburg:

GENERAL: I regret that when you left my command I did not know what disposition would be made of the cavalry. I have seen General Hooker and many of the officers of his command, and they have expressed themselves in the most unqualified praise of the splendid condition of your cavalry. They declared it the best they had ever seen. Their good condition and efficiency are owing to the able manner in which you have commanded them. I can assure you that I parted with you and them with many regrets.

I am, general, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

S. P. HEINTZELMAN,
Major-General.

SPECIAL ORDERS, ) HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE POTOMAC,
No. 187.
July 12, 1863.

1. The brigade commanded by Brigadier-General Tyndale is assigned to the Eleventh Corps, which it will join with as little delay as practicable.

2. The One hundred and twenty-seventh and One hundred and forty-third Regiments New York Volunteers, en route to this army, are assigned to General Tyndale's brigade and will join the Eleventh Corps.

3. The brigade under the command of Brigadier-General Briggs is assigned to the First Corps, which it will join with as little delay as practicable.

By command of Major-General Meade:

S. WILLIAMS,
Assistant Adjutant-General.
HEADQUARTERS THIRD ARMY CORPS,

July 12, 1863.

Brigadier-General ELLIOTT,

Commanding Third Division:

GENERAL: The enemy are in force behind Marsh Run, from Hagerstown to Downsville. The Third Corps will mass behind the Second and Fifth, facing the Hagerstown pike and 600 yards at least in rear of Jones' Cross-Roads. Withdraw your marked lines and conform to the above general instructions. Show General Morris this note should you be in his way.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

W. H. FRENCH,
Major-General, Commanding.

[27.]

CIRCULAR.
HEADQUARTERS THIRD ARMY CORPS,
In the Field, Md., July 12, 1863.

The major-general commanding the army will attack the enemy this morning. The troops will be immediately formed and held well in hand ready to move forward at a moment's notice. Let the formation be expeditious.

By command of Major-General French:

O. H. HART,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

[27.]

HEADQUARTERS ELEVENTH CORPS,
July 12, 1863.

Brig. Gen. S. WILLIAMS,
Assistant Adjutant-General, Army of the Potomac:

GENERAL: I notice that a brigade of new troops has re-enforced the First Corps this morning. I think mine now is the only corps that has not been strengthened, but however that may be it will increase the efficiency of this corps more than proportionally to the number of troops sent. If I could have only one regiment to a division it would do me much good, so that if it is possible for me to be re-enforced I entreat this for the benefit of the service. I have one regiment whose time is out on the 14th instant.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

O. O. HOWARD,
Major-General, Commanding.

[27.]

SPECIAL ORDERS, }
No. 188.
HDQRS. ARMY OF THE POTOMAC,
July 13, 1863.

1. The One hundred and forty-first Regiment New York Volunteers is assigned to the Eleventh Corps, which it will join as soon as practicable.

3. The Fortieth Regiment Massachusetts and the One hundred and forty-fourth Regiment New York Volunteers are assigned to the First Corps and will join as soon as practicable.

4. The One hundred and sixty-eighth New York, the One hundred and sixty-ninth and One hundred and seventy-second Pennsylvania Volunteers, composing a part of the brigade commanded by Brigadier-General Tyndale, are assigned to the Eleventh Corps.
6. The following assignments of regiments to the different corps are made, which they will join with as little delay as practicable: One hundred and sixty-seventh Pennsylvania Volunteers to the First Corps; One hundred and seventy-third Pennsylvania Volunteers to the Eleventh Corps; One hundred and seventy-seventh Pennsylvania Volunteers to the Twelfth Corps; First Battalion New York Sharpshooters to the First Corps.

By command of Major-General Meade:

S. WILLIAMS,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

CIRCULAR.] JULY 13, 1863—3.15 p. m.

Commanders of corps are hereby directed to advance their line of pickets till the pickets of the enemy are encountered, and report the character of the country in front.

By order of the commanding general:

A. A. HUMPHREYS,
Major-General and Chief of Staff.

HEADQUARTERS THIRD ARMY CORPS,
In the Field, Md., July 13, 1863.

Brigadier-General ELLIOTT,
Commanding Brigade, Third Division, Third Corps:

GENERAL: I am directed by the major-general commanding to instruct you to assume command of the Third Division, Third Corps, composed of the independent brigades known as Morris', Elliott's, and Smith's brigades. In assuming command of the division you will retain a general supervision over the brigade now commanded by you.

Very respectfully, your most obedient servant,

O. H. HART,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

COLEMAN'S EUTAW HOUSE,
Baltimore, July 13, 1863.

His Excellency ABRAHAM LINCOLN,
President of the United States:

DEAR SIR: I appeal to your known generous nature and high sense of justice to pardon me for again intruding upon your notice. I am sure if you could see the anguish occasioned me by injustice and forced inactivity amid the mighty drama that is going on from which I have been expelled, you would not repel, but hear me. You stated in your kind letter of the 29th ultimo that prima facie the fault is upon you (me).
My official report, which was approved by General Schenck and forwarded by him to General Halleck five days ago, will show conclusively that the fault is not upon me; that I acted strictly in conformity to the orders of Major-General Schenck, and that I am the victim of a prima facie case that has no existence in fact. I pray you look at my report.
My destiny is in your hands. I ask nothing but justice. Having been denied the privilege of participating in the glorious battle of Gettysburg and that which will complete the destruction of Lee's army, adequate justice cannot now be done me, but do not continue me in the position of a disgraced officer before the country, as unworthy of command. If I cannot be restored to my old command, give me some other. Even that of a crowd of raw niggers would be preferable to this agonizing inactivity, and as a further act of justice I would respectfully ask the privilege of publishing my official report.

I am, Mr. President, with great respect, your most obedient servant,

R. H. MILROY,
Major-General.

SPECIAL ORDERS, \{ HDQRS. ARMY OF THE POTOMAC,\}
No. 189. \{ July 14, 1863.\}

1. The One hundred and thirtieth New York Volunteers, Col. Alfred Gibbs, is assigned to the Fifth Corps, which it will join with as little delay as practicable.

By command of Major-General Meade:

S. WILLIAMS,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

CIRCULAR.] HEADQUARTERS SIXTH CORPS,\{ July 14, 1863—4 a.m.\}

This corps will be under arms promptly at 7 o'clock this morning, the 14th instant. At that hour precisely a reconnaissance will be commenced by Brigadier-General Wright in front of the position of the corps, to be conducted in conjunction with similar reconnaissances ordered to be made by the Fifth, Second, and Twelfth Corps. The object of these reconnaissances is to obtain a view of the enemy's defensive arrangements, to ascertain the character of the ground, the facilities it affords, and the obstacles it opposes to the movement of troops and artillery, as well as its advantages for offensive and defensive operations. The enemy's pickets, supports, and guards will be driven in until this object is accomplished. If practicable, and should it be necessary, the enemy will be made to display his line of battle. The reconnoitering force will consist of the First Division and two batteries, the artillery to be advanced according to General Wright's discretion. General Wright will communicate with the general commanding the reconnoitering parties from the Fifth Corps, so as to secure concert of action. The strength, position of defensive works and batteries, the number and arrangements of troops of the enemy, will be carefully noted and a written report made. Colonel Tompkins will direct his batteries to report to Brigadier-General Wright before the hour named. Cavalry is to co-operate on the flanks.

By command of Major-General Sedgwick:

M. T. McMAHON,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE POTOMAC, \{ July 14, 1863. \} (Received 10.30 a.m.)

Major-General SEDGWICK:

The major-general commanding directs me to say that it was intended that the reconnoitering force should form the advance in pursuit of the enemy, to be followed by the corps, and in your case by the Eleventh and First Corps, with such lines of march in the case of the Eleventh Corps as you suggested, if you deemed it advisable, and that every effort should be made to overtake and attack the enemy before he crosses.

A. A. HUMPHREYS,
Major-General and Chief of Staff.

HDQRS. MIDDLE DEPARTMENT, EIGHTH ARMY CORPS,
Baltimore, July 14, 1863.

Col. ALEXANDER DOULL,
Inspector of Artillery &c., Baltimore:

Colonel: Your announcement that the special service as member of a court-martial which has detained you in Baltimore is over, and that you are about to return to your duties with the Army of the Potomac, reminds me so forcibly of the great help you have rendered me in a time of emergency that I cannot let you go without thus repeating my acknowledgments. A large portion of the new works of defense which now cover the approaches to this city will remain to attest your energy, your untiring industry, your skill and judgment as an engineer, and above all your patriotic devotion to our country's common cause, which induced you as a zealous volunteer to add so much effective performance to what the Government required of you. At a time when my need was pressing, and sufficient engineer officers not at hand to devise and carry out fully a plan of protection which I desired for Baltimore, I should have fallen far short of the accomplishment of that object but for your assistance so cheerfully tendered and given. That assistance has been invaluable to the public service. For myself and in behalf of the Government I thank you for it. And now, in parting from you, colonel, after the brief but agreeable intercourse we have had, I can only add that I should have nothing but good augury for our country and its future interests if they were always sustained by as willing hearts and as active heads and hands as yours.

I am, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

ROBT. C. SCHENCK,
Major-General, Commanding.

SPECIAL ORDERS,

HDQRS. ARMY OF THE POTOMAC,
No. 190.
July 15, 1863.

1. The One hundred and fifty-eighth, One hundred and sixty-eighth, and One hundred and seventy-first Regiments of Pennsylvania Volunteers will proceed to Frederick, Md., and there await further orders. These troops on arriving at Frederick will be reported to Col. E. Schriver, commanding at that place.

2. Battery B, First New Jersey Artillery, and Battery E, Rhode Island Artillery, will at once march to the vicinity of Harper's Ferry, encamping in Pleasant Valley, and there await the arrival of the Third Corps, which they will join.

By command of Major-General Meade:

S. WILLIAMS,
Assistant Adjutant-General.
CHAP. LXIII.]
CORRESPONDENCE, ETC.—UNION.

CIRCULAR.

HEADQUARTERS THIRD ARMY CORPS,
Williamsport Turnpike, Md., July 15, 1863—3.15 a. m.

The corps will march in the following order, viz: First Division leading, Second Division following, and Third Division bringing up the rear; the whole to move at daylight, or as soon thereafter as possible; First Division moving off promptly.

By command of Major-General French:

O. H. HART,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

CIRCULAR.

HEADQUARTERS FIRST ARMY CORPS,
July 17, 1863.

The corps will move to-morrow a. m., the 18th instant, at 4 o'clock, cross the Potomac at Berlin, and passing to the left of Lovettsville will take the road to Waterford and bivouac in the vicinity of that town. The following order of march will be observed: First Division, General Cutler; Third Division, General Kenly; Artillery Brigade, Colonel Wainwright; Second Division, General Robinson; ambulance train; ammunition train; baggage train. Division commanders will detail an effective rear guard and under no circumstances permit any straggling. Division commanders will send a staff officer to these headquarters to-night to obtain the correct time.

By command of Maj. Gen. John Newton:

WM. RUSSELL, JR.,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

ORDERS.

HEADQUARTERS FIRST ARMY CORPS,
July 18, 1863.

The corps will move to-morrow a. m., the 19th instant, at 6 o'clock, through Waterford to the vicinity of Hamilton, where it will bivouac for the night. The following order of march will be observed: Third Division, General Kenly; Second Division, General Robinson; Artillery Brigade, Colonel Wainwright; First Division, General Cutler; ambulance train; ammunition train; baggage train.

By command of Maj. Gen. John Newton:

WM. RUSSELL, JR.,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

HEADQUARTERS ELEVENTH CORPS,
Near Berlin, July 18, 1863.

A. LINCOLN,
President of the United States:

SIR: Having noticed in the newspapers certain statements bearing upon the battle of Gettysburg and subsequent operations which I deem calculated to convey a wrong impression to your mind, I wish to submit a few statements. The successful issue of the battle of Gettysburg was due mainly to the energetic operations of our present commanding general prior to the engagement and to the manner in which he handled his troops on the field. The reserves have never before during this war been thrown in at just the right moment. In many cases when points were just being carried by the enemy a regiment or brigade appeared, to stop his progress and hurl him back. Moreover, I have never seen a more hearty co-operation on the part of general officers as since General Meade took the command. As to not attacking the enemy prior to leaving his stronghold beyond the Antietam, it is by no means certain that the repulse of Gettysburg might not have been turned upon us. At any rate the commanding general was in favor of an immediate attack, but with the evident difficulties in our way, the uncertainty of a success, and the strong conviction of our best military minds against the risk, I must say that I think the general acted wisely. As to my request to make a reconnaissance on the morning of the 14th which the papers state was refused, the facts are that the general had required me to reconnoiter the evening before and give my opinion as to the practicability of making a lodgment on the enemy's left, and his answer to my subsequent request was that the movements he had already ordered would subserve the same purpose. We have, if I may be allowed to say it, a commanding general in whom all the officers with whom I have come in contact express complete confidence. I have said this much because of the censure and of the misrepresentations which have grown out of the escape of Lee's army.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

O. O. HOWARD,
Major-General.

Orders.

HEADQUARTERS FIRST ARMY CORPS,

July 19, 1863.

The corps will move to-morrow a. m., the 20th instant, at 4 o'clock, in the following order: Second Division, General Robinson; battalion sharpshooters, Captain Arnold; First Division, General Cutler; Artillery Brigade, Colonel Wainwright; Third Division, General Kenly; ambulance train; ammunition train; baggage train. The route of march will be indicated in the morning. The regiment from the Second Division now on duty with the wagon train will so remain until relieved by orders from these headquarters.

By command of Maj. Gen. John Newton:

WM. RUSSELL, JR.,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

Circular.

HEADQUARTERS SIXTH ARMY CORPS,

July 22, 1863.

This corps will move immediately in the direction of Rectortown to the crossing of the Aldie and Ashby's Gap pike, and encamp on the ground now occupied by the Fifth Corps. Brigadier-General Bartlett will take the advance, starting immediately upon receipt of this order. Brigadier-General Wright and Brigadier-General Howe and Colonel Tompkins will follow in the order named. The infantry will as far as practicable march on the side of the road. The wagon trains will follow the artillery.

By command of Major-General Sedgwick:

M. T. MCMAHON,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

Circular.

HEADQUARTERS FIRST ARMY CORPS,

July 23, 1863.

The troops of this command will be in readiness to move as soon as the men have had their breakfast. A staff officer will report to these headquarters when the troops are in readiness to move. The order of march will be as follows: General Cutler, commanding First Division, will proceed to Warrenton with the wagon train, via New Baltimore;
Colonel Wainwright, chief of artillery, will detail one battery to report to General Cutler; the Second and Third Divisions, with two batteries in the center of each, will proceed to Warrenton by the direct road.
Division commanders will at once recall all parties now out of camp.

By command of Maj. Gen. John Newton:

EDWARD C. BAIRD,
Captain and Assistant Adjutant-General.

---

SPECIAL ORDERS, \{
SPECIAL ORDERS, \{
No. 196. \}
No. 196. \}
Warrenton, Va., July 25, 1863.
Warrenton, Va., July 25, 1863.

1. Pursuant to instructions which have been received from the General-in-Chief, the Second, Fifth, and Twelfth Regiments of New Hampshire Volunteers are placed under the orders of Brig. Gen. G.
Marston for duty in Saint Mary's District, Md. It is the intention of the General-in-Chief that these regiments shall return to this army as soon as they are filled up with drafted men.

* * * * * * *

By command of Major-General Meade:

S. WILLIAMS,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

---

CIRCULAR.
CIRCULAR.

HEADQUARTERS FIRST ARMY CORPS,
HEADQUARTERS FIRST ARMY CORPS,
July 25, 1863.
July 25, 1863.

The troops of this command will be under arms ready to move at daylight this morning. The men will be wakened in time to have coffee before moving. The following will be the order of march: Second Division, with one regiment interpolated with every fifty wagons;
Colonel Wainwright will order one battery to report to General Robinson; General Robinson will throw out an advance guard ahead of the column; battalion sharpshooters; Third Division; four batteries; First Division. The ambulances of each division will accompany their divisions. A staff officer will report to these headquarters when the troops are in readiness to move.

By command of Maj. Gen. John Newton:

E. C. BAIRD,
Captain and Assistant Adjutant-General.

---

CIRCULAR.
CIRCULAR.

HEADQUARTERS THIRD ARMY CORPS,
HEADQUARTERS THIRD ARMY CORPS,
July 25, 1863.
July 25, 1863.

The corps will move together at 5 o'clock to-morrow morning: Second and Third Divisions on the right and left of the road; First Division with two brigades on one side, and one brigade on the other side of the road; artillery occupying the road, the leading battery marching in line with the heads of the infantry column; ambulances following artillery; ammunition train coming next, and the order of march for the rest in accordance with circular of July 22, 1863. The artillery, ambulances, and trains will not be governed by the movements of the infantry columns, but will advance steadily upon the road, making no halts other than those which occur from necessity.

By command of Major-General French:

W. F. A. TORBERT,
Acting Assistant Adjutant-General.

[27.]

GENERAL ORDERS, (HEADQUARTERS FIRST CORPS,
No. 77. } July 31, 1863.

The corps will move to-morrow as follows: The Second Division punctually at 5 a.m. to Rappahannock Station; arrived there, the commanding officer is particularly cautioned not to allow any display which would indicate to the enemy the presence of a force in the vicinity. The First Division will move at 5 a.m. to Beverly Ford, taking position there. The Third Division will move at 6 a.m. to Bealeton, guarding the railroad from Rappahannock Station to Warrenton Junction, and garrisoning the block-houses along the line, leaving one regiment here as guard to the general supply train. The artillery here will march at 5 a.m., following the First Division. Arrived at Bealeton, the battery there will join in the column. The battery at Rappahannock Station will remain there. The trains of the corps will be parked at Bealeton, with the exception of the ammunition and necessary baggage wagons for the different divisions and brigade headquarters, which will follow the divisions. The ambulances will accompany each division.

By command of Major-General Newton:

C. KINGSBURY, JR.,
Lieutenant-Colonel and Assistant Adjutant-General.

[27.]

HEADQUARTERS SECOND ARMY CORPS,
July 31, 1863.

Brig. Gen. ALEXANDER HAYS,
Commanding Third Division:

GENERAL: The general commanding directs that you move your division to Elk Run to-morrow morning at 6 o'clock. On your arrival at Elk Run one brigade of your division will proceed to Bristersburg. The commandant of the Artillery Brigade has been directed to furnish one battery to accompany you. The Eleventh Corps is to occupy Greenwich, Bristoe Station, Brentsville, and a point on Cedar Run four or five miles from the railroad. Your brigade at Bristersburg will connect with the detachment at the point on Cedar Run by pickets and patrols. You will connect by pickets and patrols between Elk Run and Bristersburg, and the division remaining here will connect with you at Elk Run. Depots are established at Warrenton Junction and Bealeton. One division of the First Corps is at Bealeton and on the railroad between Warrenton Junction and the river. Herewith is inclosed a copy of the special instructions for your guidance.

I am, general, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

C. H. MORGAN,
Lieutenant-Colonel and Chief of Staff.

[27.]

CIRCULAR.

HEADQUARTERS THIRD ARMY CORPS,
Near Warrenton, Va., July 31, 1863.

The following movements of the corps will take place with as little delay as practicable:

1. The First Division will move to Sulphur Springs and encamp between that point and Sandy Ford, picketing the river connecting with the Sixth Corps on the right and the Third Division, Third Corps, on the left.

II. The Second Division will march and encamp between Freeman's Ford and Beverly Ford, its left near the latter place. It will picket the river connecting with the Third Division, Third Corps, on the right and the First Corps on the left.

III. The Third Division will take a position between the First and Second Divisions, connecting its pickets with them on the right and left. The sites for camps will be taken with a view to a defensive line. The positions for the artillery will be assigned by special instructions.

By command of Major-General French:

W. F. A. TORBERT,
Acting Assistant Adjutant-General.

---

SPECIAL ORDERS, No. 205.
HDQRS. ARMY OF THE POTOMAC,
August 2, 1863.

5. The One hundred and thirtieth Regiment New York Volunteers, Col. A. Gibbs, having been converted by Special Orders, No. 335, of the 28th ultimo, from the War Department, into a regiment of cavalry, will proceed to Manassas Junction and there form a camp of instruction, for the purpose of being reorganized and receiving its horses, arms, and equipments. It will be put in a condition for active service in the field with the least delay practicable. The regiment is attached to the Cavalry Corps, and reports and returns will hereafter be rendered accordingly.

By command of Major-General Meade:

S. WILLIAMS,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

---

SPECIAL ORDERS, No. 206.
HDQRS. ARMY OF THE POTOMAC,
August 3, 1863.

5. Brig. Gen. H. D. Terry, U. S. Volunteers, having reported in compliance with the instructions of the General-in-Chief, is assigned to the command of the Third Division, Sixth Corps, which he will join with as little delay as practicable.

By command of Major-General Meade:

S. WILLIAMS,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

---

HEADQUARTERS ELEVENTH CORPS,
August 3, 1863.

Maj. Gen. A. A. HUMPHREYS,
Chief of Staff:

GENERAL: I have concentrated my corps as ordered; my Third Division on south bank of Cedar Run between Weaversville and Warrenton Junction; Second Division on Cedar Run near Catlett's Station; the First Division between Walnut and Cedar Runs, west side of railroad; artillery, between First Division and Cedar Run.
Have left one regiment at Brentsville; one at Bristoe Station; one at Cedar Run Crossing, three or four miles east of railroad, with orders to patrol the rear of the army; also one at Greenwich. I shall have a thin picket-line from Auburn Mills, extending on to the rear and ending in the vicinity of Bristersburg. I am guarding the railroad from Warrenton to Manassas Junction.

Very respectfully,

O. O. HOWARD,
Major-General, Commanding.

P. S.—My headquarters are at Catlett's house, west side of the railroad, about a mile from Catlett's Station.

Respectfully,

O. O. HOWARD,
Major-General, Commanding.

___

HEADQUARTERS FIFTH ARMY CORPS,
August 5, 1863.

Brig. Gen. R. B. Ayres,
Commanding Second Division:

GENERAL: In compliance with instructions from headquarters Army of the Potomac,* your division will take position to hold Beverly Ford, where a regiment of the First Corps is now stationed. This regiment will be relieved by your division as soon as it gets in position.

By command of Brigadier-General Crawford, commanding corps:

FRED. T. LOCKE,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

[27.]

HEADQUARTERS FIRST CORPS,
August 5, 1863.

Brig. Gen. H. S. Briggs having, in accordance with orders from headquarters Army of the Potomac, reported for duty to these headquarters, is assigned to the command of the First Division and will at once assume command.

By command of Major-General Newton:

C. KINGSBURY, JR.,
Lieutenant-Colonel and Assistant Adjutant-General.

[29.]

SPECIAL ORDERS, } HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE POTOMAC,
No. 216. } August 12, 1863.

3. Maj. Gen. G. K. Warren having reported for duty to the major-general commanding is assigned temporarily to the command of the Second Army Corps.

By command of Major-General Meade:

S. WILLIAMS,
Assistant Adjutant-General.
CHAP. LXIII.]  CORRESPONDENCE, ETC.—UNION.  1085

HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE POTOMAC,
August 17, 1863.

Major-General Warren:
Concentrate the Third Division at Elkton and patrol from Elkton to Warrenton Junction.

A. A. Humphreys,
Major-General and Chief of Staff.

HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE POTOMAC,
August 20, 1863.

Major-General Warren:
The major-general commanding directs that you hold your command in readiness to support General Kilpatrick in the event of his requiring it.

A. A. Humphreys,
Major-General and Chief of Staff.

HEADQUARTERS SECOND ARMY CORPS,
August 20, 1863.

Brig. Gen. William Hays,
Commanding First Division:
The commanding general directs that your division get under arms at once and await further orders.

I am, general, very respectfully, your obedient servant,
Francis A. Walker,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

SPECIAL ORDERS,
No. 225.
August 21, 1863.

By command of Major-General Meade:

S. Williams,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

SPECIAL ORDERS,
No. 384.
Washington, August 27, 1863.

16. Maj. Gen. N. J. T. Dana, U. S. Volunteers, is hereby relieved from duty in the Department of the Susquehanna, and will report in person without delay for duty with corps of Major-General Ord, Department of the Tennessee, now serving in the Department of the Gulf.

By order of the Secretary of War:

E. D. Townsend,
Assistant Adjutant-General.
HARTWOOD CHURCH, August 28, 1863.

Major-General WARREN:

The rebel guerrillas are again at work. They killed one orderly to-day at 12 m., and captured four others at 1 p.m. Parties are after them. They were last seen three miles southwest of Spotted Tavern. If the telegraph is in working order please telegraph the above to headquarters of Cavalry Corps.

J. KILPATRICK,
Brigadier-General.

SPECIAL ORDERS,}
No. 393.}

HEADQUARTERS OF THE ARMY,
ADJUTANT-GENERAL'S OFFICE,
Washington, September 1, 1863.

By command of Major-General Halleck:

E. D. TOWNSEND,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

HEADQUARTERS ELEVENTH CORPS,
September 12, 1863.

Major-General HUMPHREYS,

Chief of Staff, Army of the Potomac:

GENERAL: Last night I heard that Gregg's pickets were attacked. The peculiar manner of the citizens in this quarter, the lurking of spies and guerrillas in the neighborhood, and the extreme quiet of the enemy have excited my suspicion that a raid or larger movement of the enemy is contemplated. I have sent scouting parties through Thoroughfare Gap toward Salem, toward Aldie, to Brentsville, and that region. In case of a raid on Manassas Junction, Bristoe, Catlett's, or Warrenton Junction, please remember I have a small force and much scattered; in fact, but three brigades and one regiment altogether. Have you any specific instructions for me in either case?

O. O. HOWARD,
Major-General.

HEADQUARTERS ELEVENTH CORPS,
September 12, 1863—6 p. m.

General A. A. HUMPHREYS,

Chief of Staff, Army of the Potomac:

GENERAL: Scouts from Bristersburg, Stafford Springs, Turner's Store, Howison's Ford, and Brentsville report no enemy or guerrillas. They could only learn of two rebel scouts passing through Stafford Springs night before last. Our cavalry left Bristersburg this a.m. The scouts from Aldie report that eighteen of Mosby's men returned from Centerville through Hopewell Gap last night, having two Union prisoners in their charge; also that a squad of six of his men came down from Bull Run Mountains this a.m., advancing toward Sudley Springs and Centerville. They report no force at Aldie. Lieutenant Carr, with a patrol of fifteen men of the First Indiana Cavalry, encountered a squad of Mosby's men at 9 a.m. at White Plains. He gives the number to have been about sixteen men, probably the same squad that passed through Hopewell Gap last night. Lieutenant Carr had a skirmish with them. One of his men was wounded, capturing one horse and equipments. He could not learn of any force in that vicinity.

O. O. HOWARD,
Major-General.

WASHINGTON CITY, D. C., September 13, 1863.

DEAR Sir: I hope you will pardon this intrusion upon your valuable time. I know you would if you could see my motives. There are many things I wished to say to you this morning which my want of self-esteem and your apparent desire to end the interview prevented. God knows that my strongest desire is to assist you to the best of my ability in your mighty task, the most important that ever devolved on man, that of saving and restoring the great model Government of earth. I will but briefly allude to a few of the most important points which I desired to speak of. You in your exalted station can only be informed of army matters through official sources, which through selfishness are often unreliable, and therefore are not made aware of many things that need reform. The use of intoxicating liquors as a beverage is prohibited to soldiers; why not also prohibit its use to officers. The use of intoxicating liquor in our army is enormous among the officers, and drunkenness among them from the generals to second lieutenants very common, and a very great evil to the service, and should be reformed.

I would suggest that a general order be issued prohibiting its use by any person in the service of the United States as a beverage under penalty, if an officer, of prompt dismissal from service, and get rid of some of these "bulls" extra. Another point I wished to mention is the vast importance of holding the Shenandoah Valley. Having been campaigning two years in the vicinity of that valley and west of it, I know it to be the Egypt of Virginia, from whence the greater part of the subsistence of Lee's army is drawn. It should be seized and held from Martinsburg to Staunton, a matter I would be pleased to do if provided with a proper command. Again, in your letter to me of June 29, you speak of my "chafing against acting the part assigned" me by my superior officers. I wish to say on this point that you have been misinformed and don't know me. I have believed that the best interests of the country required that the rebellion should be speedily crushed and peace restored, and that this could only be attained by following up our blows upon the enemy one after the other with rapidity, never giving them time to recover. You are aware that this is Hoosier and Sucker tactics, but I have discovered that it is not West Point science. I confess I have often expressed and felt great impatience at being restrained from striking, and at the slow progress made in the great work of striking a blow and waiting six months to study its effect. Another point is, I would be greatly pleased to be restored to the command of my old division. All its commissioned officers with two or three exceptions have petitioned you asking it, as also the Union citizens of the valley. If this cannot be granted, I would for many reasons desire a command in Texas. I have traveled through and resided there for a time and became a naturalized citizen there before the annexation. I would be greatly pleased to help avenge the terrible wrongs of Union citizens. on the monsters there, and desire to be down there when the rebellion ends, to be ready to pitch into the French in Mexico. Another point is, if you leave my assignment to a command to General Halleck I will get none. I pray you order this yourself or direct the Secretary of War to do it. I will take any command rather than be idle.

With great respect, your most obedient servant,

R. H. MILROY,
Major-General.

CIRCULAR.]
HEADQUARTERS FIRST ARMY CORPS,
September 15, 1863.

Division commanders will withdraw from the south side of the river all their troops excepting the pickets. Until further orders the troops will be kept in readiness to move at short notice. Trains, haversacks, and cartridge-boxes must be immediately inspected and the troops fully prepared to move.

By command of Major-General Newton:
C. KINGSBURY, JR.,
Lieutenant-Colonel and Assistant Adjutant-General.

CIRCULAR.]
HEADQUARTERS THIRD ARMY CORPS,
September 15, 1863.

Commandants of divisions will mass their commands near Fox's Ford, prepared to cross the river. The Third Division will mass with its right at the ford, the First Division with its left at the ford, the Second Division on the left of the Third. The order of passage, if required, will be: First, Third Division; second, Second Division; third, First Division. Trains will take the same order. The artillery will be governed by the standing orders for the march.

By command of Major-General French:
WILLIAM H. HILL,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

CEDAR MOUNTAIN SIGNAL STATION,
September 15, 1863—2.30 p. m.

General MEADE:
The enemy have increased their infantry force at Rapidan Station, and are making rifle-pits and other preparations to defend the crossing. They still continue their firing at Raccoon and Somerville Fords. My people are well sheltered and do not reply, except some picket-firing on the river.

PLEASONTON.

CASTLE'S SIGNAL STATION,
September 15, 1863—4 p. m.

General MEADE:
Two deserters of the Forty-seventh Georgia Infantry came in this a.m. and report that A. P. Hill's corps are at Orange Court-House and Ewell's corps at Spotsylvania Court-House, and that General R. E. Lee reviewed Hill's corps on Friday last. The prisoners have been sent to General Warren.

A. PLEASONTON.
CHAP. LXIII.]

CORRESPONDENCE, ETC.—UNION. 1089

WATERY MOUNTAIN SIGNAL STATION,
September 15, 1863—7.20 p.m.

Captain NORTON:
A guerrilla party is lurking just beyond this mountain. They are very active in watching our movements about Warrenton.

TAYLOR.

[29.]

CIRCULAR.

HEADQUARTERS FIRST ARMY CORPS,
September 16, 1863.

This corps will move at 5 o'clock this morning in the following order: The First Division in front, the artillery next, the Second Division next, the Third Division in rear. The pickets will be withdrawn at 3 a.m. and join their divisions. The pickets extending to Wheatley's Ford on this side of the river will be withdrawn at once. The ambulances will follow in rear of the Third Division. The ammunition trains will follow in rear of the ambulances. The remainder of the trains will follow in the order of the divisions. All guards and other details not already mentioned above will be withdrawn at once. The corps will move to a position midway between Stevensburg and Culpeper.

By command of Major-General Newton:

C. KINGSBURY, JR.,
Lieutenant-Colonel and Assistant Adjutant-General.

PONY MOUNTAIN SIGNAL STATION,
September 16, 1863—7.30 p.m.

General WILLIAMS, Stevensburg:
My command is at this place.

SLOCUM.

[29.]

HDQRS. TWELFTH CORPS, ARMY OF THE POTOMAC,
September 16, 1863—1 a.m.

Brig. Gen. A. S. WILLIAMS,
Commanding Division:

You will move your division to Stevensburg at 7 o'clock this a.m., crossing at Kelly's Ford. Two batteries will accompany you.

By command of Major-General Slocum:

H. C. RODGERS,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

SPECIAL ORDERS,}
HDQRS. ARMY OF THE POTOMAC,
No. 251.
September 17, 1863.

By command of Major-General Meade:

S. WILLIAMS,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

69 R R—VOL LI, PT I
Major-General HUMPHREYS,

Chief of Staff, Army of the Potomac:

A small sutler's train without guard was attacked by rebel cavalry between this and Bristoe, very near the railroad, about noon. They succeeded in capturing three teams out of nine. All the wagons were recaptured. The guard on the railroad fired on them. The rebels carried off eight fine horses.

O. O. HOWARD,

Major-General.

GENERAL ORDERS, HEADQUARTERS THIRD ARMY CORPS,

No. 38. Culpeper, Va., September 18, 1863.

Maj. John M. Norvell, assistant adjutant-general, having been assigned to duty at these headquarters, is hereby announced and will be obeyed and respected accordingly.

By command of Major-General French:

WILLIAM H. HILL,

Assistant Adjutant-General.

O. O. HOWARD,

Major-General.

HEADQUARTERS ELEVENTH CORPS,

September 19, 1863.

Major-General HUMPHREYS,

Chief of Staff, Army of the Potomac:

The Thirty-third New Jersey Regiment has just arrived, having marched directly from Centerville to Warrenton and thence here. It reports having driven about fifty rebel cavalry out of Warrenton. I have located it as desired. I will supply the regiment. I would be glad to have it.

O. O. HOWARD,

Major-General.

HEADQUARTERS ELEVENTH CORPS,

September 20, 1863—9 p. m.

Major-General HUMPHREYS,

Chief of Staff, Army of the Potomac:

Scouts from Greenwich, Gainesville, and Auburn report no news. The scouts and patrols toward Warrenton and Germantown report a party of forty guerrillas at the latter place today, which has been there every day since our forces left. Patrols to Bristersburg report that the inhabitants saw a camp of twenty-five rebel cavalry at Elk Run last night. All quiet in the neighborhood of Brentsville and Howison's Ford.

10 p.m.—A reconnoitering party of the Eighty-second Ohio Volunteers just returned from Warrenton. They did not enter the town, but found about seventy or eighty rebel cavalry in possession of the same.

O. O. HOWARD,
Major-General.

[29.]

SPECIAL ORDERS,}
{ HEADQUARTERS FIRST ARMY CORPS,
No. 223.  }

September 21, 1863.

1. Brig. Gen. L. Cutler, having reported to these headquarters for duty, will assume command of the First Division.

2. Brig. Gen. J. C. Rice, on being relieved by General Cutler, will assume command of the Second Brigade, First Division.

By command of Major-General Newton:
C. KINGSBURY, JR.,
Lieutenant-Colonel and Assistant Adjutant-General.

[29.]

HEADQUARTERS ELEVENTH CORPS,
September 21, 1863.

COMMANDING OFFICER,
Manassas Junction:

Information has been received from headquarters Army of the Potomac that a dispatch has been intercepted from the rebels which stated that Fitz. Lee's cavalry brigade is about to make a raid around the left of the army. Be on your guard. Strengthen your pickets and keep your patrols well out. Acknowledge dispatch.

O. O. HOWARD,
Major-General.

(Same to commanding officer Fourteenth U. S. Regulars.)

[29.]

HEADQUARTERS ELEVENTH CORPS,
September 22, 1863.

Major-General HUMPHREYS,
Chief of Staff, Army of the Potomac:

The scouts from Morrisville Post-Office and Stafford Springs report no enemy, except a small squad of about seventy or eighty men going to Dumfries day before yesterday. The patrols to Greenwich and Buckland Mills met no rebels. The patrols to Warrenton, however, met a squad of twenty-five guerrillas near Auburn Mills. Watching them closely they saw them unite with another squad of about thirty rebels about three miles this side of Warrenton and followed them up to that place. They learned that Mosby is well again and in command of these guerrillas. There is a rebel signal station opened on Watery Mountain, but I have no officer who understands the code of the enemy.

O. O. HOWARD,
Major-General.

[29.]
Major-General HOWARD,
Commanding Eleventh Corps:

Nothing more has been heard from Fitz Lee's cavalry. Two regiments of our cavalry are at Hartwood.

A. A. HUMPHREYS,
Major-General and Chief of Staff, Army of the Potomac.

HEADQUARTERS ELEVENTH CORPS,
September 22, 1863.

Col. J. Wood,
Commanding, Manassas Junction:

Hold out against any ordinary force. If overpowered withdraw to Bristoe.

O. O. HOWARD,
Major-General.

HEADQUARTERS TWELFTH CORPS D'ARMÉE,
ARMY OF THE POTOMAC,
September 24, 1863.

Brig. Gen. A. S. WILLIAMS,
Commanding First Division:

GENERAL: You will please hold your command in readiness to move, on being relieved by First Corps.

By command of Major-General Slocum:

WM. W. MOSELEY,
Captain and Aide-de-Camp.
June 30, 1863: As an introduction to this report it may not be improper to revert to the last week of April, 1861, and briefly to allude to the events which have since transpired in connection with the history of this depot. Upon arriving in Washington I found the city garrisoned by a few detachments of the Regular Army hastily summoned for its defense, provided with none of the appliances necessary for their comfort or subsistence except those which every soldier in the field is furnished. No organization of a depot of supplies had been instituted, and not a wagon, an animal, or an article of camp or garrison equipage was on hand for use or issue. The three-months' volunteers called from the daily avocations of civil life, totally ignorant of the detail of military affairs, were arriving in large numbers, and to the duty of providing for them was superadded that of general instructor upon almost every conceivable subject connected with their new position. Many, and indeed most of them, expected to be provided with all the comfort to which they had been accustomed, and a refusal to comply with their often unreasonable requests involved long explanations of law and regulations, which were rarely satisfactory to the disappointed applicant. Having the assistance of but two commissioned officers—Capts. (then lieutenants) E. E. Camp and A. W. Putnam—from the want of material with which to work and from the impossibility of procuring competent clerical force, the labor of the first two months I was stationed here far exceeded that of any subsequent period of equal duration, although the actual results were comparatively small.

On the 6th of July, 1861, Capt. Edward L. Hartz, assistant quartermaster, U. S. Army, reported for duty under my direction, and about the same time Lieut. Edward Ross, Seventh U. S. Infantry, was assigned to this post as an acting assistant quartermaster and Capt. George Gibson, jr., as military store-keeper. With these four gentlemen as my assistants I commenced the organization of this depot upon as large a scale as the exigencies of the service then seemed to require, and succeeded in fitting out the army which, under command of General McDowell, fought the first battle of Bull Run. The disastrous result of this battle and the consequent necessity of refitting that army, as well as supplying the additional forces which were assembling at this point, again tasked to their utmost the energy, zeal, and capacity of every officer here and involved a large increase of the clerical and other force. Up to the 21st of July, 1861, no thought had been entertained of establishing the main depot of the army at Washington. Looking upon the capture of Richmond as a consequence of the advance of our army, and anticipating the placing of the depot of supplies at that point to sustain it in its operations farther south, no effort was made, with a view to a permanent establishment, to systematize our operations here. All the store-houses, stables, and other buildings which had been erected were of the cheapest and most temporary character, suited only for a short summer campaign, but it having become evident that the war was to be of a longer duration than had been anticipated arrangements were made for the permanent accommodation and protection of the public animals and stores. The building known as the "Corcoran Art Building" was taken for the use of the clothing department, large store-houses were erected, commodious stores built, and the organization of the depot perfected, although even at this time had it been supposed that it would have attained its present magnitude, or that the necessity for it would have so long existed, the buildings erected would have been of a more substantial character and more appropriate sites would have been selected. In fact, I am now of the opinion that it would have been better originally to have selected without the limits of the city some locality easily accessible by river and rail, and there to have constructed wharves and buildings of a permanent character. By this means everything could have been arranged upon a far better and more convenient system. The uncertainty of continuing the depot at this point has also exercised a controlling influence upon the manner in which supplies to meet the wants of the army have been procured. It not being deemed advisable to accumulate for a long period at one locality the vast quantity of stores necessary to the supply of such an army as that of the Potomac, only such quantities are purchased from time to time as are necessary to fill the orders which the current wants or exigencies of the service demand.

To Capt. E. L. Hartz was assigned the duty of receiving and issuing forage, fuel, stationery, and miscellaneous quartermaster's stores. Capt. A. W. Putnam took charge of the public animals, wagons, and other means of transportation, together with the class of stores appertaining thereto. To Capt. E. E. Camp was committed the task of receiving and providing with quarters all officers and troops, while Lieut. Edward Ross was retained as an office assistant. On the 15th of August Capt. George Gibson, jr., having received an appointment in the Eleventh Regiment U. S. Infantry, was relieved by Capt. D. G. Thomas, military store-keeper. On the 20th of August, 1861, Capt. E. S. Allen, First Regiment District of Columbia Volunteers, was detailed for duty as an acting assistant quartermaster, and stationed at the railroad depot to assist Captain Camp in the reception and care of troops. In addition to my duties as chief of the depot, I made all contracts and disbursements, except the payment of employes, and retained personal control of railroad and water transportation. September 7, 1861, Capt. J. J. Dana, assistant quartermaster, U. S. Army, was ordered to report to me, and was at once placed in charge of the transportation department, vice Putnam, relieved. Having at the very outset perceived the necessity of there being, under the exclusive charge of this department, sufficient wharf room to receive such stores as might be sent to this point by water, one of my first official acts was to rent the wharves at the foot of G street, then occupied by the New York and Virginia Steamship Company, that being by far the most desirable point in the city, combining at once large frontage, good depth of water, and convenience of access. The occupation of these wharves has continued up to this date, and the principal store-houses for commissary stores are now located at that point.

In the autumn of 1861 it was found necessary to establish some point below the Long Bridge for the shipment of supplies to Alexandria, and in November the property at the foot of Sixth street was rented, the wharves repaired, store-houses erected, and a connection made with the track of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad, by which loaded cars could be brought to the water's edge, and their contents transferred either to vessels or the store-houses without the necessity of wagon transportation. The blockade of the river by the rebel batteries established on the Potomac at this time, and consequent interruption of water communication with the North, necessitated the transportation by railroad of all the supplies for the large army which had then been collected in the vicinity of Washington, and taxed to its utmost the capacity of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad. Sixth Street Wharf was made the principal depot for the receipt of commissary stores, while the quartermaster's stores were unloaded at the Government warehouse near the Capitol. This arrangement was found fully to meet the exigencies of the case, and by means of the enlarged facilities thus secured sufficient dispatch was attained in unloading the cars to enable the railroad company to accomplish the extraordinary and entirely unforeseen amount of business thus suddenly forced upon it. To facilitate the prompt loading and unloading of cars, and to prevent conflict between the agents of the railroad and the various civil employés of this department, I relieved Captain Allen from duty with Captain Camp and placed him in charge of all the details connected with that branch of the depot, with full authority to give such orders as in his judgment would best insure the attainment of the object in view. When General McClellan advanced to Manassas with his army the movement was so suddenly made as to involve the necessity of the abandonment of almost all the stores which had accumulated in the camps during the previous winter, as well as the tents of the whole command, in some instances whole regiments leaving without even the officers taking any steps for the preservation of their personal effects. To collect and preserve this property was a task of the greatest magnitude, and for over a month several hundred wagons were constantly employed in hauling it to the city, independently of those working at Alexandria under the direction of Captain Ferguson. Capt. W. A. Hawley, assistant quartermaster, U. S. Volunteers, having reported to me for duty, I on the 14th of March, 1862, placed him in charge of the abandoned camps of Smith's division. Lieutenant Ross was placed in charge of the camps of the Pennsylvania Reserve Division, and to Captain Allen was intrusted the duty of collecting the abandoned property from the camps north of the Potomac. The property thus collected was turned over to Captain Hartz, under whose supervision it was assorted and disposed of, either by transfer to its appropriate department or by storage in the warehouses under his control. Having collected and turned in the property of the Pennsylvania Reserve Division, Lieutenant Ross was sent to Mattawoman Creek with several barges and a sufficient force to gather and transport to this city the abandoned property of Hooker's division.

The transfer of the Army of the Potomac to the Peninsula again changed the nature of operations at this point. The blockade having been raised, railroad transportation became a matter of secondary consideration, and the river was filled with every variety of transport, from the ocean steamer Constitution, with a carrying capacity for 5,000 men, to the smallest tide-water barge. The great body of the troops were embarked at Alexandria, while the supplies were principally drawn from this point. From Sixth Street Wharf alone were sent 1,000 army wagons, with drivers and teams complete, while every available point in the city was taken to facilitate the loading of stores. I had relieved Captain Allen from his duties in connection with the railroad, and given him the general charge of the shipments from this city, and under his immediate supervision everything was conducted with the greatest possible dispatch, and fortunately without a single accident. On the 31st day of March a branch of the depot of army clothing and equipage was established at Alexandria, and Captain Hawley placed in charge. General McDowell having occupied Fredericksburg, on the 20th day of April I directed Lieutenant Ross to proceed to Aquia Creek, Va., for the purpose of establishing and superintending a depot of supplies at that point. Under his supervision warehouses were erected and arrangements commenced for the receipt, handling, and protection of stores; and the U.S. Military Railroad Department having constructed wharves, relaid the track, and rebuilt the bridges on the road from Aquia Creek to Fredericksburg, no difficulty was experienced in promptly answering all the demands of the army stations in that vicinity. Lieutenant Ross remained in charge of the Aquia Creek depot until about the 7th of July, 1862, when, having contracted a fever, he was removed to this city, where he died on the 23d of the same month. July 14, 1862, Capt. George Ely, assistant quartermaster, U. S. Volunteers, was assigned to duty at the Washington Arsenal, in charge of the transportation of ordnance stores. During the month of July the Army of Virginia, under the command of General Pope, was fitted out from this depot, and in the latter part of the month advanced on the line of the Orange and Alexandria Railroad, drawing its supplies from this point. To insure promptness in forwarding stores, a warehouse was erected in Maryland avenue, contiguous to the track of the military railroad to Alexandria, and was supplied with the necessary platforms and other appurtenances. It has answered the purpose for which it was constructed, and by means of the facilities thus afforded, I then was and have since been enabled, in every instance, without the least delay, to fill all requisitions for stores to be delivered on that line of road. The retreat of General Pope and the disastrous battles of the 28th, 29th, and 30th of August, throwing back upon this city the combined armies of Virginia and of the Potomac, destitute of clothing and equipage, with broken-down transportation and disabled horses, again involved an immense and unforeseen amount of labor. The troops, reorganized, and under the command of General McClellan, were rapidly pushing through in their pursuit of the invading rebel army, without waiting for the supplies so urgently required, merely stopping while in transit to draw such articles as were absolutely indispensable, and to turn in the almost worthless material with which they were encumbered. All were in haste, and for a few days the offices of the depot were thronged with division, brigade, and regimental quartermasters, each anxious that his particular wants should be first supplied, and insisting upon the extreme urgency of the necessities of that portion of the army for which he was to provide, apparently forgetting that all had shared the same ill-fortune. The worry, perplexity, and consequent impediments to the transaction of business occasioned by this confusion were soon obviated. Operating at a distance from this depot, the supplies were, on the requisitions of General Ingalls, or upon those of other officers bearing his approval, forwarded in bulk to the depots which he established at Frederick, Harper's Ferry, and other points, every requisition being promptly filled; to accomplish which the whole force of the depot worked late into the night and without regard to any days of rest.
1096 ML., E. N. C., PA., VA., EXCEPT S. W., & W. VA. [CHAP. LXIII.

To the extraordinary energy, zeal, and efficiency of the managers and agents of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad—shown not only upon this occasion but also during the blockade of the Potomac, and more recently during the late campaign of General Meade in Pennsylvania—is due much of the success which has attended the efforts of the officers of this department to supply the different armies operating in Northern and Eastern Virginia. Without the hearty and earnest co-operation which these gentlemen have evinced upon every emergency many important operations would have been seriously imperiled, if not actually frustrated. On the 4th of September, 1862, Capt. James M. Robinson, assistant quartermaster, U. S. Volunteers, was ordered to report to me for duty, and was at once placed in charge of receiving and issuing forage, relieving Captain Dana, who remained in charge of the transportation department, which had by that date attained such a magnitude as to require the exclusive attention of the officer in charge.
About the middle of September the work of unloading the vessels in which the supplies for the Army of the Potomac had been stored during the Peninsular campaign was commenced. This was a long and laborious undertaking, as many of them contained assorted cargoes, articles of all kinds being mingled in the utmost confusion. The different classes of stores were carefully separated and turned over to their appropriate departments, additional buildings were erected for the protection and preservation of regimental and private property, and in a comparatively short time the fleet, which at one time was so large as almost to interdict the safe navigation of the river, entirely disappeared. About September 10, Capt. A. R. Eddy, assistant quartermaster, U. S. Army, was ordered to report to me, and, upon his doing so, I placed him in my office to assist me in the examination and approval of requisitions. On the 11th of October he was relieved and ordered to Memphis, Tenn. During the months of September and October the railroad track was extended from Sixth Street Wharf to the Arsenal. October 11, Capt. Charles H. Tompkins, assistant quartermaster, U. S. Army, reported to me for duty and was directed to relieve Captain Camp of the duty of providing transportation for troops, in addition to which I transferred to him the entire department of railroad transportation and the payment of all chartered or hired vessels, barges, &c. On the 14th of October [November] the Army of the Potomac, then under the command of General Burnside, being about to occupy Falmouth and vicinity, arrangements were made to rebuild the wharves and store-houses at Aquia Creek, which had been destroyed by fire on the occasion of its abandonment in September. Barges were sent to serve as temporary landings, material was furnished with which to construct the necessary buildings, and the subject of water transportation again became one of the greatest importance, it being necessary to transport all the supplies for the army in barges, canal-boats, and vessels of the lightest draft. November 18, Capt. J. J. Dana, by my order, resumed control of the forage department, relieving Captain Robinson. December 8, Capt. S. L. Brown, assistant quartermaster, U. S. Volunteers, having reported to me for duty, was placed in charge of the forage department, relieving Captain Dana. The same day I relieved Captain Allen of the charge of so much of the water transportation as centered at Sixth Street Wharf, stationing him at G street and Captain Robinson at Sixth Street Wharf.

January 12, 1863, Lieut. James M. Moore, Nineteenth Pennsylvania Volunteers (now captain and assistant quartermaster, U. S. Volunteers), was assigned to duty as assistant to Captain Hartz. February 1 Captain Dana, having been appointed lieutenant-colonel and chief quartermaster, First Army Corps, was relieved by Captain Tompkins, who in turn was relieved of the charge of railroad transportation and the payment of charters, &c., by Capt. Walter Curtis, assistant quartermaster, U. S. Volunteers. On the 5th of March, 1863, Capt. H. B. Lacey, assistant quartermaster, U. S. Volunteers, reported to me for duty, and was at once ordered to report to Capt. C. H. Tompkins as inspecting officer of the transportation department. From the date of the occupation of Aquia Creek in October [November], 1862, to the 15th of June, 1863, the operations of this depot were but little affected by the movement of the army. The successive engagements on the line of the Rappahannock were sufficiently remote from the city to obviate the possibility of the junior officers of the army presenting their requisitions in person, and the large estimates of the officers in charge of the depots at Aquia Creek. and Falmouth were easily and promptly filled without hurry or confusion. From the 15th to the 26th of June the supplies for the army then marching to the north through Virginia were forwarded by the Orange and Alexandria Railroad. From the 26th to the 30th they were sent by the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad. June 22, 1863, Capt. E. M. Camp, assistant quartermaster, U. S. Volunteers, reported to me for duty. He had for some time previously, while a captain in the Thirty-fifth Regiment New York Volunteers, been in charge of what is known as the Soldiers' Rest, near the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad depot, and his services being particularly valuable at that point, I made no change in his position. Under the second section of the order calling for this report, I have the honor to present two tabular statements, the first showing my individual property accountability for the fiscal year; the second being a consolidated statement of the leading articles of expenditure and issue in the whole depot during the same period.

D. H. RUCKER,
Brigadier-General and Quartermaster, U. S. Army.

[2, 5, 11, 12, 19, 21, 25, 27.]

SPECIAL ORDERS,
No. 266.
October 3, 1863.

4. Pursuant to instructions from the General-in-Chief, Brig. Gen. Washington L. Elliott is relieved from duty with this army, and will immediately proceed to report to Major-General Rosecrans, commanding the Department of the Cumberland.

By command of Major-General Meade:

S. WILLIAMS,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

GENERAL ORDERS,
HEADQUARTERS THIRD ARMY CORPS,
No. 43.
October 3, 1863.

Upon the call of General Rosecrans for the services of Brigadier-General Elliott, commanding the Third Division of this corps, which takes him from the Army of the Potomac and from the division which he has so ably commanded, the general commanding the corps deems it a duty to state his regret at losing so valuable an officer. General Elliott was with General Lyon at the battle of Springfield; he commanded a cavalry brigade of Iowa and Michigan troops on the first and successful raid of this war upon the Ohio and Mobile Railroad at Boonville, Miss., and was engaged and wounded at the second battle of Bull Run, 1862, at the head of his command. In connection with the services of this gallant officer, the occasion presents itself to mention other officers of the Third Division of this corps. Colonel Keifer, commanding Second Brigade, served under Rosecrans and Buell in Kentucky, Tennessee, and at Corinth. In command of the One hundred and tenth Ohio, with other troops, at Winchester he gallantly resisted attack, and on the retreat this regiment, now in this corps, assaulted

* Omitted.
the pursuing enemy with the bayonet, crossing two walls on either side of Martinsburg pike, reserving its fire until the regiment had crossed both walls, when the enemy were driven from their batteries. Colonel Smith, commanding the Third Brigade, Third Division of this Third Corps, commanded the First Ohio at the battle of Shiloh, and was tendered by the Governor of Ohio his regiment—the one hundred and twenty-sixth Ohio. The general now commanding the corps of Hooker, Sickles, Berry, and, as his near friend, dares to raise the shroud of the chivalric Kearny, needs nothing further to convince the brave and intelligent soldiers of this corps that the efforts for preference are unjust over the reputation of brother soldiers, no matter what State or what army may claim them; when they have proved themselves true and faithful to our Union, to our glorious flag (these troops), ought and must be admitted to the position to which by their gallantry they are entitled.

By command of Major-General French:

JNO. M. NORVELL,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

CIRCULAR.]

HEADQUARTERS THIRD ARMY CORPS,
October 6, 1863.

It has just been signaled that Stuart's entire cavalry force is on the other side of the Hazel River, and that he has established pickets opposite to our own. Division commanders will make such a disposition as will prevent a surprise in that quarter. The regiment at the church (Third Division) should place itself in position and be on the alert.

WM. H. FRENCH,
Major-General of Volunteers.

CIRCULAR.]

HEADQUARTERS THIRD ARMY CORPS,
October 7, 1863.

The general commanding directs that you hold your division ready to march at a moment's notice at any hour to-morrow. Should heavy firing be heard, the troops will be formed and await orders. Three days' rations in haversacks and sixty rounds of ammunition.

By command of Major-General French:

JNO. M. NORVELL,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

THOROUGHFARE MOUNTAIN SIGNAL STATION,
October 8, 1863—9.30 a. m.

General Kilpatrick:

Indications this a. m. that the enemy withdrew last night portion of troops from the line of the Rapidan. Camps have disappeared from different points between Rapidan Station and Barnett's Ford. Railroad trains were very busy during the night. A large wagon train has just moved into Orange Court House from direction of Barnett's Ford. See no force of cavalry near Robertson's River. Madison Court-House and vicinity appears perfectly clear of any force of enemy. Saw smoke this a. m. rising from woods southwest from this mountain. a mile or two beyond the Madison Court-House and Gordonsville pike. Have seen no smoke in that locality before. See nothing of a threatening nature. Will send to your signal officer anything I may see or learn of importance to you.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

P. A. TAYLOR,
Captain and Signal Officer.

(Same to Captain Norton.)

[29.]

CIRCULAR.

HEADQUARTERS FIRST ARMY CORPS,
October 9, 1863.

The commanding general directs that you have your command in the vicinity of Morton's Ford by daylight to-morrow morning. No reveille will be sounded.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

HARRY C. EGBERT,
Lieutenant and Acting Assistant Adjutant-General.

THOROUGHFARE MOUNTAIN SIGNAL STATION,
October 9, 1863—12 m.

General KILPATRICK:

Enemy is moving in force on two roads toward Madison Court-House. Madison and Gordonsville pike is full of wagons. Column infantry seen.

TAYLOR.

THOROUGHFARE MOUNTAIN SIGNAL STATION,
October 9, 1863—1.30 p. m.

Captain Norton:

Enemy is moving on two roads toward Madison Court-House. About one division infantry seen. Trains have halted about five miles from Madison Court-House, and fires have sprung up in woods along the roads. Wagon train now coming through Orange Court-House toward the Rapidan.

TAYLOR.

THOROUGHFARE MOUNTAIN SIGNAL STATION,
October 9, 1863—7 p. m.

Captain Norton:

The trains reported in motion halted at 1.30 p. m. At dark were parked from two to six miles from Madison Court-House, and animals grazing in the fields. Extensive and very dense smokes rising from woods where columns have halted, extending from vicinity Beautiful Run to within about one mile of Madison Court-House. At 5 o'clock small wagon train and squadron cavalry moved into Orange Court-House from direction the Rapidan.

TAYLOR,
Signal Officer.
PONY MOUNTAIN SIGNAL STATION,
October 9, 1863—10.45 p.m.

Captain TAYLOR:
Was the force you saw a movement of army toward Madison Court-House? Were there infantry, cavalry, and artillery, and how numerous?

NORTON.

THOROUGHFARE MOUNTAIN SIGNAL STATION,
October 10, 1863—1 a.m.

Captain NORTON:
Saw only about one division infantry; no cavalry or artillery. Roads are lined with timber; more might have passed unobserved.

TAYLOR.

HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE POTOMAC,
October 10, 1863.

Major-General NEWTON, Commanding First Corps:
The major-general commanding has changed the hour for the movement of your corps. You will hold yourself ready to move to Kelly's Ford, but will not move until the Third and Fifth Corps begin to move, of which you will be informed from these headquarters.

A. A. HUMPHREYS,
Major-General and Chief of Staff.

THOROUGHFARE MOUNTAIN SIGNAL STATION,
October 10, 1863—10.45 p.m.

Major-General NEWTON, Commanding First Corps:
The major-general commanding directs that as soon as you have crossed the river at Kelly's Ford that you mass your corps and hold it ready to move, in the event of its services being required, to aid the corps covering the withdrawal if they are attacked. You will remain massed until you learn that the army has crossed the Rappahannock.

A. A. HUMPHREYS,
Major-General and Chief of Staff.

THOROUGHFARE MOUNTAIN SIGNAL STATION,
October 10, 1863—8.15 a.m.

General KILPATRICK:
Enemy is moving in force through Madison Court-House toward our right. Pickets are engaged on our right. Columns halted yesterday are in motion.

TAYLOR.

THOROUGHFARE MOUNTAIN SIGNAL STATION,
October 10, 1863—9.35 a.m.

Captain NORTON:
Enemy is moving in force through Madison Court-House toward our extreme right. Cavalry is now passing through. The rebel sharpshooters are now advancing to the foot of this mountain.

TAYLOR,
Captain.
Pony Mountain Signal Station,
October 10, 1863—2.30 p.m.

Captain Norton:

A train of ten wagons is moving to our right around Clark's Mountain. Enemy show no signs of occupying their works between Raccoon and Morton's Fords. Too smoky for extensive observations.

CLARKE.

Special Orders, HQs, Army of the Potomac,

Major-General Sedgwick will, in addition to his own corps, take command of the Fifth Corps and Buford's division of cavalry, and advance immediately to Brandy Station and take position on the heights there, driving in the enemy and holding the position. He will report his progress to the commanding general and also the force, position, and movements of the enemy.

By command of Major-General Meade:

S. WILLIAMS,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

Circular.
HQs, First Army Corps, Army of the Potomac,
October 12, 1863.

This corps will move at once to Warrenton Junction in the following order: First Division, Second Division, Third Division. The trains will move in advance of the entire column in the order above named. The ambulances, with the exception of ten to each division, which will follow them, will move in advance. The artillery will move one-half between the First and Second Divisions, and one-half between the Second and Third Divisions. This movement is of the utmost importance and must be made with the greatest dispatch.

By command of Major-General Newton:

C. KINGSBURY, JR.,
Lieutenant-Colonel and Assistant Adjutant-General.

Circular.
HQs, First Army Corps, Army of the Potomac,
October 14, 1863.

The corps will march at once to Centerville in the following order: First, Second Division leading; second, three batteries of artillery; third, First Division; fourth, four batteries; fifth, three brigades of the Third Division; sixth, ambulances; seventh, ammunition; eighth, First Brigade, Third Division, rear guard. All the pioneers of the corps will at once be sent to report to General Robinson at the head of the column. Division commanders will throw out flankers and look to them constantly. The corps as far as Manassas will march on the north side of the railroad.

By command of Major-General Newton:

C. KINGSBURY, JR.,
Assistant Adjutant-General.
Major-General NEWTON,
Commanding First Corps:

The major-general commanding directs that you send a division to hold Bull Run bridge on the Centerville pike. General Kilpatrick, at Buckland Mills, says at 10 a.m. saw the enemy's infantry advancing on the Centerville pike from Warrenton.

A. A. HUMPHREYS,
Major-General and Chief of Staff.

[29.]

HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE POTOMAC,
October 14, 1863—2.15 p.m. (Received 3.25 p.m.)

Major-General NEWTON,
Commanding First Corps:

The major-general commanding directs that the division you send to guard Bull Run bridge picket down to meet French's pickets.

A. A. HUMPHREYS,
Major-General and Chief of Staff.

[29.]

HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE POTOMAC,
October 14, 1863.

[General NEWTON:]

GENERAL: The position I am directed to hold is untenable. The enemy with one battery planted on the hill opposite would drive us out of here in ten minutes.

Very respectfully, yours, &c.,

JNO. C. ROBINSON,
Brigadier-General, Commanding Division.

If you can relieve me to-day I hope you will.

[29.]

ROBINSON.

HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE POTOMAC,
October 15, 1863—3.30 p.m.

Major-General NEWTON, Commanding:

The major-general commanding considers that the line of pickets in your front should be in advance of Cub Run, unless there is some special reason for their being along the run, which is not known to him.

A. A. HUMPHREYS,
Major-General and Chief of Staff.

[29.]

HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE POTOMAC,
October 15, 1863—6.15 p.m.

Major-General NEWTON,
Commanding First Corps:

The major-general commanding directs that you send a brigade to the Bull Run bridge to support the cavalry now holding it. The cavalry will remain there.

A. A. HUMPHREYS,
Major-General and Chief of Staff.

[29.]
Lieutenant-Colonel Kingsbury, Jr.,
Assistant Adjutant-General, First Army Corps:

Colonel: I am directed by General Robinson to say that the officer of the day reports that he can find no picket on our right or left; that we picket to the mouth of Cub Run, on the left, and he has been three miles up Bull Run without finding pickets.

Respectfully, your obedient servant,

S. M. Morgan,
Lieutenant and Acting Assistant Adjutant-General.

HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE POTOMAC,
Signal Station, October 15, 1863.

Major-General Newton,
Commanding First Corps:

Colonel Smith, First Maine Cavalry, reported the enemy's cavalry at Manassas, and that their infantry are apparently moving to the Centerville pike.

A. A. Humphreys,
Major-General and Chief of Staff.

CIRCULAR.

HEADQUARTERS THIRD ARMY CORPS,
Union Mills, Va., October 15, 1863.

First Division will move immediately to Fairfax Station to cover and hold that point. It will take its ambulances and ammunition train and three batteries of artillery. The Second and Third Divisions and the remainder of the artillery and trains will move to Union Mills.

By command of Major-General French:

Jno. M. Norvell,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

SPECIAL ORDERS, HEADQUARTERS OF THE ARMY,
ADJUTANT-GENERAL'S OFFICE,
Washington, October 16, 1863.

By command of Major-General Halleck:

E. D. Townsend,
Assistant Adjutant-General.
2. Brig. Gen. S. Meredith is hereby relieved from duty with the Army of the Potomac and will report for orders to the Adjutant-General of the Army at Washington.

By command of Major-General Meade:

S. WILLIAMS,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE POTOMAC,

October 17, 1863.

Major-General NEWTON, Commanding First Corps:

General Kilpatrick pickets across from Sudley Springs to the Aldie pike.

A. A. HUMPHREYS,
Major-General and Chief of Staff.

HEADQUARTERS FIFTH ARMY CORPS,

October 17, 1863.

Brig.Gen. R. B. AYRES, Commanding Second Division:

GENERAL: The major-general commanding directs that you move your command on toward Centerville at 9.30 a. m. and join the rest of the corps.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

FRED. T. LOCKE,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

(Same to Colonel McCandless, Third Division, and Captain Martin, Artillery Brigade.)

CASTLE'S SIGNAL STATION,

October 17, 1863—5 a. m.

General SEDGWICK:

What is the infantry about? Sent an aide to you nearly two hours since. Your dispatch was received. The general of the Fifth Corps at Fairfax Court-House reports that some of the enemy's cavalry was seen on the Chantilly road between him and you.

HUMPHREYS,
General.

SIXTH CORPS SIGNAL STATION,

October 17, 1863—10.30 a. m.

General HUMPHREYS:

I sent cavalry beyond Frying Pan. They have returned and report that the force which attacked our pickets was 1,000 cavalry and two pieces of artillery. After attacking the picket they halted at Gum Spring to-day. No infantry seen.

SEDGWICK,
General.

70 R R—VOL LI, PT I
HEADQUARTERS SIGNAL STATION,
October 17, 1863—12 m.

General SEDGWICK:
A brigade of cavalry will be sent in the morning to picket the road in your front and toward the bridge.

[29.]

MEADE,
General.

HEADQUARTERS FIRST ARMY CORPS,
October 18, 1863.

This corps will move at 6 o’clock to-morrow morning, 19th instant, to Hay Market, in the following order: First, First Division; second, Fourth Division; third, Third Division; fourth, three batteries artillery; fifth, Second Division; the four regiments at Bull Run falling in as the column passes.

By command of Major-General Newton:
C. KINGSBURY, JR.,
Lieutenant-Colonel and Assistant Adjutant-General.

HEADQUARTERS SIGNAL STATION,
October 18, 1863—2 p. m.

General SEDGWICK:
The commanding general directs that you order two regiments of cavalry now with you to report to General Gregg at Fairfax Court-House.

HUMPHREYS,
General.

SIXTH CORPS SIGNAL STATION,
October 18, 1863—2.30 p. m.

General HUMPHREYS:
I have ordered back the two cavalry regiments. They only number 150 men.

SEDGWICK,
General.

CIRCULAR.
HEADQUARTERS FIRST ARMY CORPS,
ARMY OF THE POTOMAC,
October 19, 1863.

To-night no fires will be allowed. The troops must be in line of battle, and at least one-third of them constantly awake ready to receive an attack. In case of an attack the troops will rise and fire, holding the ground they have, but not attempt an advance. All artillery and teams and ambulances must be hitched up and ready to move. The entire command will be under arms at 5 o’clock. No fires will be made before daylight.

By command of Major-General Newton:
C. KINGSBURY, JR.,
Lieutenant-Colonel and Assistant Adjutant-General.
Correspondence, etc.—Union.

CIRCULAR.

HEADQUARTERS THIRD ARMY CORPS,

Union Mills, Va., October 19, 1863.

The Third Corps will march this morning at 6 o'clock, keeping on the south side of the railroad, and take position on Broad Run near Bristoe. The order of march will be in conformity with circular dated July 22, 1863, from these headquarters: Second Division leading, then Third Division, and the First Division bringing up the rear.

By command of Major-General French:

O. H. HART,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

HEADQUARTERS THIRD ARMY CORPS,

Union Mills, Va., October 19, 1863.

Brigadier-General WILLIAMS,

Asst. Adjt. Gen., Headquarters Army of the Potomac:

GENERAL: The head of this corps is at Broad Run, near Bristoe Station. The right is on the railroad, near the left of the Second Corps. My pickets in front are across Broad Run, occupying the high ground on the left; they are pushed out toward Brentsville. I recommend that place for cavalry. Several deserters, taken to-day, confirm the accounts of yesterday. One of them says that it is hoped the time to relay the railroad track will enable the re-enforcements sent to Bragg to finish there and return before we can open the road again.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

W. H. FRENCH,
Major-General, Commanding.

Brigadier-General WILLIAMS,

Asst. Adjt. Gen., Headquarters Army of the Potomac:

GENERAL: The head of this corps is at Broad Run, near Bristoe Station. The right is on the railroad, near the left of the Second Corps. My pickets in front are across Broad Run, occupying the high ground on the left; they are pushed out toward Brentsville. I recommend that place for cavalry. Several deserters, taken to-day, confirm the accounts of yesterday. One of them says that it is hoped the time to relay the railroad track will enable the re-enforcements sent to Bragg to finish there and return before we can open the road again.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

W. H. FRENCH,
Major-General, Commanding.

Headquarters Army of the Potomac,

October 19, 1863—12.30 a.m.

General HUMPHREYS:

I have sent an aide to say that the enemy have infantry pickets in front of my line.

SEDGWICK,
General.

Major-General NEWTON,

Commanding First Corps:

The major-general commanding directs that you move through Thoroughfare Gap and halt for the night at Georgetown. Headquarters will be at Gainesville to-night.

A. A. HUMPHREYS,
Major-General and Chief of Staff.

CIRCULAR.

HEADQUARTERS THIRD ARMY CORPS,

Greenwich, October 20, 1863.

This corps will move toward Buckland Mills (following the Second Corps) at 6 o'clock this a. m. The movement will be made in double columns of infantry, with artillery between. The First Division will move first, followed by the Third, the Second Division bringing up the rear. Commanding officers will be particularly careful to keep their commands well closed up and in hand for any emergency that may arise. The order of march will be as usual with the above exceptions.

By command of Major-General French:

O. H. HART,
Assitant Adjutant-General.

[29.]

CIRCULAR.]
HEADQUARTERS THIRD ARMY CORPS,
Camp at Greenwich, October 20, 1863.

This corps will march to-morrow morning to the vicinity of Catlett's. The Third Division will march at 6 a.m., Second Division at 7 a.m., and the First Division at 8 a.m. Division and other commanders will see that supplies required by existing orders are kept up.

By command of Major-General French:

O. H. HART,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

WATERY MOUNTAIN SIGNAL STATION,
October 22, 1863—5.30 p.m.

Captain NORTON:
Too smoky to-day to see anything south of the Rappahannock. Guerrillas seen on Carter's Mountain.

[29.]
TAYLOR.

CIRCULAR.]
HEADQUARTERS FIRST ARMY CORPS,
October 23, 1863.

The troops of this corps will move at 7 o'clock to-morrow morning, the 24th instant, to Bristoe Station.

By command of Major-General Newton:
C. KINGSBURY, JR.,
Lieutenant-Colonel and Assistant Adjutant-General.

HEADQUARTERS THIRD ARMY CORPS,
October 24, 1863.

Brig. Gen. JOSEPH B. CARR,
Commanding Third Division:

GENERAL: The major-general commanding directs that you detail one brigade to proceed immediately to Bealeton to support the cavalry of Colonel Devin. His headquarters are at Liberty. He reports that after driving in the enemy's pickets this morning at the Rappahannock Station they advanced a brigade of cavalry and one of infantry toward Bealeton. General Birney will picket the line vacated by Colonel Smith's brigade.

By command of Major-General French:

O. H. HART,
Lieutenant-Colonel and Assistant Adjutant-General.

WATERY MOUNTAIN SIGNAL STATION,
October 24, 1863—5 p.m.

Captain NORTON:
Enemy's camps reported yesterday p.m. unchanged. Smokes indicating small camp south-southwest from this mountain near Muddy Run.

[29.]
TAYLOR.
HEADQUARTERS THIRD ARMY CORPS,

October 25, 1863.

Major-General Birney:

General: The major-general commanding directs that you change the position of your troops in such a manner as to face a line parallel to and near the railroad. General Prince will at once remove his division to this side of the creek.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

O. H. Hart,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

(Copies to Brigadier-Generals Prince and Carr.)

HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE POTOMAC,

October 26, 1863—8.15 o’clock.

Major-General Newton:

General headquarters will move to Auburn at 8 a. m. to-morrow.

S. Williams,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE POTOMAC,

October 26, 1863—5 p.m.

Major-General Newton, Commanding:

Hold yourself in readiness to move up to Catlett’s to-night.

A. A. Humphreys,
Major-General and Chief of Staff.

CIRCULAR.

HEADQUARTERS THIRD ARMY CORPS,

Catlett’s, October 26, 1863.

The major-general commanding has received information that a force of the enemy are advancing by way of Bealeton. Division commanders will have their commands on the alert and be ready at a moment's notice for any emergency that may arise. Wagon trains will be moved at once and parked on the north or west side of the railroad, so that they may not interfere with the movement of the First Corps, which will move up on the south and east side of the road during the night.

By command of Major-General French:

O. H. HART,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

HEADQUARTERS THIRD ARMY CORPS,
Catlett's, October 26, 1863.

The troops of this corps will be under arms at daylight to-morrow morning and ready to move at a moment's notice. Should an engagement become imminent, all teams, except ammunition, hospital stores, and ambulances, will proceed to Gainesville.

By command of Major-General French:

O. H. HART,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

WATERY MOUNTAIN, October 26, 1863.

Captain Norton:
The force reported moving toward Bealeton Station has all passed. About one large regiment of cavalry or mounted infantry passed an open space little north of Rappahannock Station. About two regiments infantry passed fort on south side river, following cavalry, but think it halted at Rappahannock Station, as they did not pass opening north of river.

TAYLOR.

WATERY MOUNTAIN SIGNAL STATION,
October 26, 1863—5.30 p. m.

Captain Norton:
Enemy's camps between Brandy Station and Culpeper remain the same. Smokes have just sprung up near Little Washington, indicating a small force of some kind in that direction.

TAYLOR,
Captain.

HEADQUARTERS THIRD ARMY CORPS,
October 27, 1863—2.15 p. m.

Major-General Humphreys,
Chief of Staff, Auburn:

General: An aide-de-camp sent by me to the front has just returned. General Buford reports no enemy in front. He is at Bealeton. He has sent out a reconnoitering party which has not yet returned. The infantry force in front yesterday was two brigades of Johnson's division; it has fallen back to Rappahannock Station.

W. H. French,
Major-General of Volunteers.
Captain NORTON:

Enemy's camps on line railroad in direction Stevensburg still the same. Battalion drills this p. m. near Brandy Station. Appearance of intrenching at Rappahannock Station. Horse grazing and two army wagons are near Little Washington.

[29.]

TAYLOR.

WATERLY MOUNTAIN SIGNAL STATION,
October 27, 1863—5 p. m.

Captain NORTON:

No change seen in enemy's camps. Camp smokes very dense in vicinity of Stevensburg and Brandy Station, extending nearer Culpeper than heretofore. Dense line of smokes below Rappahannock Station about opposite Kelly's Ford.

[29.]

TAYLOR.

HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE POTOMAC,
October 27, 1863.

Major-General NEWTON:

The major-general commanding directs that you send a brigade to Kettle Run bridge to guard and that you guard the railroad as far as Catlett's Station. Headquarters will be to-morrow near Three-Mile Station, Warrenton Branch Railroad.

A. A. HUMPHREYS,
Major-General and Chief of Staff.

[29.]

CIRCULAR.

Headquarters Third Army Corps,
Catlett's, October 29, 1863.

The troops of this corps will be under arms ready to march to-morrow morning, October 30, in the following order: First Division will march at 7 o'clock precisely; Third Division will follow the First; Second Division will follow the Third. Each division will be accompanied by a battery. The Reserve Artillery, ammunition, ambulance, and supply trains will follow the movement, and take such position in the rear as may be hereafter assigned to them. The commanding officer of the Second Division will detail one brigade with instructions to remain and guard the depot at Catlett's Station, Cedar Run bridge, and the railroad from Catlett's to Warrenton Junction. The working parties will remain on the railroad.

By command of Major-General French:

O. H. HART,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

[29.]

SPECIAL ORDERS, WAR DEPT., ADJT. GENERAL'S OFFICE,
No. 484.   Washington, October 30, 1863.

By order of the Secretary of War:

E. D. TOWNSEND,
Assistant Adjutant-General.
CIRCULAR.

HEADQUARTERS THIRD ARMY CORPS,
Catlett's, October 30, 1863.

The First Division will march at 7 a. m. and take position at Warrenton Junction, on Licking Run Heights, right resting upon or near the railroad. The Third Division will form the center of the line, taking position on the left of the First Division. The Second Division will take position on the left of the Third Division.

The formation of the lines will be in each division as follows: First line deployed, brigade front; Second and Third Brigades, in battalions at half distance, taking deploying intervals.

By command of Major-General French:

O. H. HART,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

WATERY MOUNTAIN SIGNAL STATION,
October 31, 1863—12 m.

Captain NORTON:
Very clear atmosphere. No change whatever in position of enemy. Camp smokes below Rappahannock Station the same.

TAYLOR.

[29.]

WATERY MOUNTAIN SIGNAL STATION,
October 31, 1863—2 p. m.

Captain TAYLOR:
Can you see any indications of the enemy at the following points: Ammissville, Jefferson opposite Freeman's Ford, Rixeyville, Rappahannock Station, Stevensburg, Culpeper Court-House, Brandy Station, and Kelly's Ford? Answer carefully. Your dispatch was received.

NORTON,
Captain.

[29.]

WATERY MOUNTAIN SIGNAL STATION,
November 1, 1863.

Captain NORTON:
Too smoky to-day for observation in direction of enemy. Camp smokes appear diminished at this time at vicinity indicated and are unusually heavy around Pony Mountain.

TAYLOR.
WATERY MOUNTAIN SIGNAL STATION,

November 2, 1863—4 p. m.

Captain Norton:

Enemy's camp smokes still appear the same. The atmosphere still continues too thick to observe any slight change.

TAYLOR.

[29.]

HEADQUARTERS SIGNAL STATION,

November 3, 1863—12.30 p. m.

Captain Taylor:

Report to me in future twice a day—forenoon and afternoon. Do you observe any change in the enemy's camps?

NORTON.

[29.]

WATERY MOUNTAIN SIGNAL STATION,

November 3, 1863—1 p. m.

Captain Norton:

Not clear enough to see enemy's camps. No other change observed in camp smokes than that they are thicker about Culpeper.

TAYLOR.

[29.]

WATERY MOUNTAIN SIGNAL STATION,

November 3, 1863—5 p. m.

Captain Norton:

Excellent view this p. m. Enemy's camps and wagons north of and along the line of railroad between Brandy Station and Culpeper very distinct. See no change whatever since last good view. Five regiments seen drilling near camps. Two wall-tents and four wagons in woods on hill between Gaines' Cross-Roads and Flint Hill, and cavalry lookout post upon Jobbers' Mountain. Squadron cavalry on field in front of tents and wagons, and smokes rising from behind hill.

TAYLOR,

Captain and Signal Officer.

GREGG'S SIGNAL STATION,

November 3, 1863—11.40 a. m.

Colonel Smith:

All quiet. A scout sent last night to Orleans and Salem could find nothing of the enemy.

D. McM. GREGG.

[29.]

CAVALRY CORPS SIGNAL STATION,

November 3, 1863—12 m.

Col. C. R. Smith:

Colonel Jones, commanding pickets near Waterloo, reports hearing drums distinctly across the river. A lookout is ordered to be kept on our right. Although such is the colonel's report, he may be mistaken.

D. McM. GREGG.
Wilson's Signal Station,
November 3, 1863—9 p.m.

Col. C. R. Smith:

All quiet. Colonel Gregg reports infantry pickets opposite Beverly Ford.

[29.]

D. MCM. Gregg.

Watery Mountain Signal Station,
November 3, 1863—9 p.m.

Captain Norton:

Enemy's camps easily traced this a.m. by smokes settled over them. One line of smoke north of railroad, stretching from point in front Brandy Station along Muddy Run to Warrenton and Culpeper road. Another line little south of railroad, extending from Brandy Station to near Pony Mountain. A third line below Rappahannock Station, stretching toward Stevensburg, which, with small smokes at Rappahannock Station, comprise all that are visible from this point. At 8 a.m. a train of five wagons seen going into Chester Gap.

[29.]

Taylor.

Watery Mountain Signal Station,
November 4, 1863—9 a.m.

Captain Norton:

Enemy's camp smokes remain the same. Lieutenant reports nothing new and no change this p.m.

[29.]

Taylor.

Sixth Corps Signal Station,
November 4, 1863.

General Gregg:

Is there a mistake in reporting infantry pickets at Beverly Ford? Infantry pickets have been in front of Beverly Ford all along. Were the pickets this side of the river, or was it some other ford? Please answer as soon as possible.

[29.]

C. R. Smith.

Gregg's Signal Station,
November 4, 1863—12.45 p.m.

Col. C. R. Smith:

The infantry pickets are on the other side of the river at Beverly Ford. It was intended to convey the idea that the infantry had not left there.

[29.]

D. MCM. Gregg.

Watery Mountain Signal Station,
November 5, 1863—10 a.m.

Captain Norton:

Too smoky this a.m. to see anything south of Rappahannock. Southerly wind drives smoke this way, filling the valley.

[29.]

Taylor.
CHAP. LXIII.]
CORRESPONDENCE, ETC.—UNION. 1115

WATERY MOUNTAIN SIGNAL STATION,
November 5, 1863—5 p. m.

Captain Norton:
Enemy's camps visible this p. m. See no change. Tents, wagons, and smokes reported between Gaines' Cross-Roads and Flint Hill have disappeared.

P. A. Taylor,
Captain and Signal Officer.

[29.]

CAVALRY CORPS SIGNAL STATION,
November 5, 1863.

Col. C. R. Smith:
All quiet. No change here.

[29.]

GREGG.

CIRCUAR.]
HEADQUARTERS FIRST ARMY CORPS,
November 5, 1863.

The First and Second Divisions and artillery will move at once to Catlett's in the following order: Second Division, artillery, First Division. The Third Division will guard the railroad from Manassas to Warrenton Junction, as follows: One brigade at Bristoe; one at Warrenton Junction to protect that depot; the other brigade will be distributed to guard the bridge over Cedar Run and Kettle Run. The small bridges and culverts must be guarded by detachments. The road from Manassas to Warrenton Junction must in addition be patrolled, if it is practicable, with the force assigned to the duty of protecting the road. The ambulances and trains of the two divisions and artillery will move in the rear of the column, ambulances leading. Pickets will be withdrawn at once and the detachments along the road taken up as the column passes, but without waiting for them.

By command of Major-General Newton:

C. Kingsbury, Jr.,
Lieutenant-Colonel and Assistant Adjutant-General.

SPECIAL ORDERS, hdqrs. army of the potomac,
No. 288. November 6, 1863.

3. Brig. Gen. J. J. Bartlett, U. S. Volunteers, is assigned temporarily to duty with the Fifth Army Corps, and will report to the corps commander early to-morrow morning.

By command of Major-General Meade:

S. Williams,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

WATERY MOUNTAIN SIGNAL STATION,
November 6, 1863—9 a. m.

Captain Norton:
A movement of enemy now going on. Seventy wagons and two regiments of cavalry have passed a point about two miles and a half southwest from Jefferson coming toward that place. More are coming. No change in enemy's camps heretofore reported.

Taylor.

[29.]
WATERY MOUNTAIN SIGNAL STATION,
November 6, 1863—10 a. m.

Captain Norton:
Trains and cavalry have all passed. Only one more regiment seen. The whole disappeared behind woods beyond and near Jefferson. Five wagons near Sandy Hook moving in direction Gaines' Cross-Roads.

P. A. Taylor,
Captain and Signal Officer.

WATERY MOUNTAIN SIGNAL STATION,
November 6, 1863—11 a. m.

Captain Norton:
Large smokes have just sprung up from behind woods near Rixeyville Ford. No change whatever in camps and camp smokes heretofore reported. Had good view of them this a. m.

TAYLOR.

WATERY MOUNTAIN SIGNAL STATION,
November 6, 1863—5 p. m.

Captain Norton:
No change discovered since morning report. Enemy's smokes very heavy about Stevensburg. Large columns smokes seen this p. m. south-southeast from this mountain, distant forty miles or more.

P. A. Taylor,
Captain and Signal Officer.

HEADQUARTERS SIGNAL STATION,
November 6, 1863—8 p. m.

Captain Taylor:
To-morrow morning we move to a point just halfway between Bealeton and Morrisville. Look for our flag there or near Bealeton. You will remain on the mountain until further orders. General Sedgwick's guard will stay with you until one is sent you by General Buford.

NORTON.

WATERY MOUNTAIN SIGNAL STATION,
November 6, 1863—8.15 p. m.

Captain Norton:
Communication between this and the point you mention will be very uncertain.

TAYLOR.

SIXTH CORPS SIGNAL STATION,
November 6, 1863—11.45 a. m.

General Gregg:
It is reported that two regiments of enemy's cavalry are moving toward Jefferson and more following. The general wishes you to find out if there is a movement of the enemy in that direction and send word in.

C. R. Smith,
Chief of Staff.
Col. C. R. SMITH:
All quiet.
[29.]

D. McM. GREGG.

SIXTH CORPS SIGNAL STATION,
November 6, 1863—5.45 p. m.

General GREGG:
The general commanding directs that you send a sufficient force, on receipt of this, to relieve Sedgwick's infantry at Watery Mountain, this detachment to remain there to protect the signal station until relieved by General Buford.

C. R. SMITH,
Chief of Staff.

[29.]

GREGG'S SIGNAL STATION,
November 6, 1863—8.40 p. m.

Col. C. R. SMITH:
Colonel Gregg reports considerable firing on his pickets near Beverly Ford. All tents in sight on the other side have been struck, and unusually large columns of smoke seen in woods opposite.

D. McM. GREGG.

[29.]

SIXTH CORPS SIGNAL STATION,
November 6, 1863—9.10 p. m.

General D. McM. GREGG:
Did you receive my dispatch as regards further movements? Orders will be sent up by an aide to-morrow a. m.

C. R. SMITH.

[29.]

CAVALRY CORPS SIGNAL STATION,
November 6, 1863.

Colonel SMITH:
Your dispatch concerning movements not received. Colonel Gregg reports the movement of a brigade of rebel infantry back from Beverly Ford. Infantry pickets still at the ford.

GREGG.

[29.]

CAVALRY CORPS SIGNAL STATION,
November 6, 1863.

Col. C. R. SMITH:
General Sedgwick sends me word that he moves at daylight. Will any troops move to Warrenton? It is important that I should have some information, and if no other troops are coming, make some other disposition in that direction.

GREGG.
Brigadier-General Crawford,

Commanding Third Division:

GENERAL: In a short time, say three-quarters of an hour, the line will move to the front. In the first line two brigades of the First Division will be on the right, resting on the railroad, one brigade of Ayres connecting with Bartlett on the same line and one brigade of Crawford on the same line connecting with Ayres. The second line will be composed of the other brigades of the three divisions, and be about 400 yards in rear. Three batteries will move in rear of the First Division and three in rear of the Third, all ready to move to the front when wanted. The lines will be governed in their movement from the right. The battalions will move forward in division columns, ready to deploy before coming under fire. Division commanders must themselves judge of the time to make the deployment. Silence, regularity, and absence of confusion must be preserved. A bugle sounded from the right and taken up by the other commands will be the signal for the advance.

GEO. SYKES,

Major-General, Commanding.

(Same to Generals Ayres and Bartlett.)

[29.]

November 7, 1863—10.15 p. m.

General Humphreys:

GENERAL: Norman's Ford is understood to be within easy range of the ridge opposite the lower crossing, and though bridge may be thrown under cover of darkness, it is doubtful whether troops can cross while the enemy holds the ridge. If we can drive him from the works opposite us we can cross near the upper crossing under cover.

JOHN SEDGWICK,

Major-General.

[29.]

Major-General Humphreys:

To hold the three fords in this vicinity, viz, Norman's, Rappahannock, and Beverly, it would be desirable to have the entire corps. General Wright agrees with me in this opinion.

JOHN SEDGWICK,

Major-General.

[29.]

Headquarters Sixth Army Corps,

November 8, 1863—2.40 a. m.

Major-General Humphreys,

Chief of Staff:

Dispatch of 11.30* received directing Fifth Corps to Kelly's Ford; and shall I send any artillery there?

JOHN SEDGWICK.

[29.]

*See Vol. XXIX, Part II, p. 434.
General HUMPHREYS:

Dispatch of 8.30 a. m. received.† Dispatch just sent.† General Shaler, at Norman's Ford, reports large column infantry (enemy) going to our right. I have ordered a bridge laid.

JOHN SEDGWICK,
Major-General.

HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE POTOMAC,
November 8, 1863—11 a. m.

Major-General SEDGWICK:

The major-general commanding directs that you move up to Brandy Station, connecting on your left with Third Corps. Leave Shaler's brigade at Rappahannock Station to protect trains and bridges.

A. A. HUMPHREYS,
Major-General and Chief of Staff.

November 8, 1863—12 m.

Major-General HUMPHREYS,
Chief of Staff:

GENERAL: Your dispatch directing me to send forward to ascertain if the enemy were in force at Brandy Station was not received by me till after my arrival at the station. Seven of the battle-flags taken last night are in possession of Colonel Upton, commanding Second Brigade, First Division. He desires to present them at some future time to the chief of staff in person. Another flag taken by a sergeant of the Sixth Maine I respectfully ask permission for him to present at the same time.

JOHN SEDGWICK,
Major-General.

HEADQUARTERS,
November 8, 1863—6.30 p. m.

Major-General SEDGWICK:

What is the condition of affairs in your front?‡ Does the enemy still appear in force?

A. A. HUMPHREYS,
Major-General and Chief of Staff.

* See Vol. XXIX, Part II, p. 437.
† See 9.05 a. m., Vol. XXIX, Part II, p. 926.
‡ For reply, see 12.30 p. m., Vol. XXIX, Part II, p. 438.
§ See 1 p. m., Vol. XXIX, Part II, p. 437.
Major-General Humphreys,

Chief of Staff:

The enemy are still in front, but it is so hazy that we cannot see how strong. I am ready to open, and will, as soon as the fog rises.

JOHN SEDGWICK,

Major-General.

[29.]

November 8, 1863—6.55 p. m.

Major-General Sedgwick:

Birney is ordered to Providence Church and is likely there. He is directed to communicate with you.

WM. H. FRENCH,

Major-General.

[29.]

Near Rappahannock Station,

November 8, 1863.

Maj. J. C. Duane,

Chief Engineer, Headquarters Army of the Potomac:

We have built two pontoon bridges across the river at this point. In one of them we have four pontoons taken from the rebels. They are some of the boats we lost on the Chickahominy. I have no wagons or teams to take them from here when the bridges are removed.

I. Spaulding,

Lieutenant-Colonel, Volunteer Engineers.

[29.]

General Orders, 1 Headquarters First Army Corps,

No. 100.

November 10, 1863.

The following disposition of troops will be made to protect the railroad as it is being constructed, and the wagon road over which supplies will be hauled. Brigadier-General Kenly, Third Division, will guard from Warrenton Junction to a point one mile toward Bealeton. Brigadier-General Robinson, Second Division, will guard one mile beyond Bealeton toward Rappahannock. Brigadier-General Cutler, First Division, will guard to Rappahannock Station. Strong parties will be posted on all roads running at right angles with the railroad, and so posted on either side as to resist an attack of small bodies of cavalry. They will throw out sufficient pickets to protect themselves. The pickets on guard must be posted to-day and should remain on for three days, and be regularly relieved thereafter. Each bridge on the railroad will have an independent guard, and each detachment for this purpose will be securely posted. If necessary artificial means must be had for the purpose. The troops remaining in camp will likewise be guarded against surprise.

By command of Major-General Newton:

C. Kingsbury, Jr.,

Lieutenant-Colonel and Assistant Adjutant-General.

Pony Mountain Signal Station,

November 10, 1863.

Captain Norton:

Enemy's camp smokes opposite the different fords from Rapidan Station to Stringfellow's Ford. Between the latter and Morton's Ford tents are seen in woods. Smokes are thick and dense toward Orange Court-House. See no activity on river front. Too smoky to see distinctly.

TAYLOR.

[29.]

SIGNAL STATION,

November 10, 1863—4.30 p. m.

General PLEASONTON:
The Second Brigade is in camp near Culpeper, on the road to Madison; pickets toward Sperryville; Reserve Brigade near Culpeper, toward Slaughter Mountain. First Brigade just arrived, and will encamp on left of Reserve Brigade, picketing toward Rapidan and connecting with Kilpatrick.

BUFORD, General.

[29.]

PONY MOUNTAIN SIGNAL STATION,
November 11, 1863.

Captain Norton:
See camps of enemy in woods opposite Raccoon, Morton's, and Stringfellow's Fords. Camp smokes four or five miles beyond Raccoon Ford behind the east front of Clark's Mountain, and numerous ones beyond Rapidan Station and Orange Court-House. Smokes in woods little north of Fox Mountain and near Battle Mountain. Smokes from fires on this mountain prevent good view toward Orange Court-House. I have no map of the Rapidan country.

TAYLOR.

[29.]

CAVALRY DIVISION SIGNAL STATION,
November 11, 1863.

Captain Taylor:
General Buford wishes to know if you can see anything on Cedar Mountain.

JEROME.

[29.]

PONY MOUNTAIN SIGNAL STATION,
November 11, 1863.

Lieutenant Jerome:
Too smoky to see plainly. Will keep watch. See smokes rising near Wayland's Mill.

TAYLOR.

[29.]

SPECIAL ORDERS,
HEADQUARTERS FIRST ARMY CORPS,
No. 269.
November 12, 1863.

1. Brig. Gen. S. Meredith, having reported for duty to these headquarters, is hereby assigned to the command of the First Division, relieving Brigadier-General Cutler.

71 R R—VOL LI, PT 1
2. Brig. Gen. L. Cutler, on being relieved by Brig. Gen. S. Meredith, will assume command of the First Brigade, First Division.

By command of Major-General Newton:

H. C. EGBERT,

Lieutenant and Acting Assistant Adjutant-General.

PONY MOUNTAIN SIGNAL STATION,
November 12, 1863—9 a. m.

Captain NORTON:

Can see nothing but smokes from this mountain at present. Come near being driven off last night by fire which is raging in the woods around our station. Good rain is required to clear up.

[29.]

PONY MOUNTAIN SIGNAL STATION,
November 12, 1863—5 p. m.

Captain NORTON:

Enemy strengthening works opposite Morton's Ford; six guns in position. Men in intrenchments and redoubts opposite Raccoon Ford. Camps seen between latter ford and Stringfellow's Ford have disappeared; think moved behind woods. Smokes near Robertson's River, direction Madison Court-House. Camp smoke between Rapidan Station and Orange Court-House, opposite Raccoon and Stringfellow's and Morton's Fords, and about Clark's Mountain, as before reported. Three rebel signal flags on Clark's Mountain; two working toward Rapidan Station and the other down the river.

TAYLOR.

12th.—Too smoky greater portion of the day and evening for communication with headquarters.

[29.]

SPECIAL ORDERS, WAR DEPT., ADJT. GENERAL'S OFFICE,
No. 504. Washington, November 13, 1863.

By order of the Secretary of War:

E. D. TOWNSEND,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

HEADQUARTERS SIXTH CORPS,
November 13, 1863.

Maj. Gen. A. A. HUMPHREYS,
Chief of Staff:

Brigadier-General Terry with the two brigades from Kelly's Ford rejoined yesterday. The other brigade of the division arrived the day before.

JOHN SEDGWICK,
Major-General.
PONY MOUNTAIN SIGNAL STATION,
November 13, 1863—9 a.m.

Captain Norton:
See nothing and have nothing to report this a.m.

TAYLOR.

PONY MOUNTAIN SIGNAL STATION,
November 14, 1863—2.30 p.m.

Captain Norton:
Unable yesterday and thus far to-day to see the other side Rapidan. Called headquarters twice last night to report.

TAYLOR.

HEADQUARTERS SIGNAL STATION,
November 11, 1863.

Captain Taylor:
General Humphreys wants to know if you see smoke south in direction United States Ford, Hartwood Church, or between Hartwood Church and Morrisville.

TAYLOR.

PONY MOUNTAIN SIGNAL STATION,
November 11, 1863.

General Humphreys:
See no smoke in direction mentioned. Could not easily distinguish camp smokes to-day so great a distance unless they were large.

TAYLOR.

PONY MOUNTAIN SIGNAL STATION,
November 15, 1863.

Captain Norton:
The firing was at Raccoon Ford; enemy apparently trying range of guns. Intrenchments opposite Morton's Ford are filled with infantry, and artillery horses standing harnessed near redoubts. One brigade infantry just came down hill in rear of works opposite Raccoon Ford. Parties soldiers on the hill witnessing firing. Enemy's camps are nearly all concealed from our view. Camp smokes off Raccoon Ford, behind the hills toward Orange Court-House and in direction Germanna Ford. Small smokes opposite Morton's and Stringfellow's Fords. Very little open country seen from this point south of river.

TAYLOR.
woods in latter direction; in one or two places quite numerous, and in other places very scattering. Smoke indicates small camp opposite Morton's Ford. See no smoke of any extent below Morton's Ford. Guns in position at Raccoon, Morton's, and Somerville Fords. No further movement seen.

P. A. TAYLOR,
Captain and Signal Officer.

PONY MOUNTAIN SIGNAL STATION,
November 15, 1863.

Captain Norton:
The last firing was the enemy shelling our cavalry at Raccoon Ford, but without effect, the shells passing over their heads.

TAYLOR.

PONY MOUNTAIN SIGNAL STATION,
November 16, 1863—11 a.m.

Captain Norton, Chief Signal Officer:
I see no change on the river front. A brigade of infantry has just occupied the intrenchments opposite Morton's Ford. Camps in the direction of Orange Court-House appear the same. Wagons passing up and down opposite Raccoon Ford.

TAYLOR.

PONY MOUNTAIN SIGNAL STATION,
November 16, 1863—5 p.m.

Captain Norton:
Enemy's camp smokes are considerably increased opposite Morton's Ford and diminished behind east front Clark's Mountain. Wagons passing up and down on river road at intervals nearly all day. Train of twenty wagons and small herd cattle passed below Morton's Ford. No change on river front from Somerville to Morton's Ford. Castle reports from Buford that he cannot go to the mountain until 7 a.m. to-morrow.

TAYLOR.

PONY MOUNTAIN SIGNAL STATION,
November 17, 1863—9.50 am.

Captain Norton:
Too thick to see far this morning. Can see no change along the river.

TAYLOR.

PONY MOUNTAIN SIGNAL STATION,
November 17, 1863—5 p.m.

Captain Norton:
I see no change since last report except that tents have appeared in woods little above Raccoon Ford. Appearance to-day confirms my report of last evening that camps have diminished behind east front Clark's Mountain.

TAYLOR.
GARNETT'S MOUNTAIN SIGNAL STATION,
November 17, 1863—3 p.m.

Captain Norton:

I cannot discover any signs of the enemy between Barnett's Ford and Madison Court-House except a picket along Robertson's. A large body of horses grazing between Robertson's and Rapidan and near the mouth of Robertson's. Heavy smokes between Orange Court-House and Gordonsville. Quite a large camp back of Rapidan Station, and camps between Rapidan Station and Barnett's Ford. Few guns in position at station.

[29.]

HEADQUARTERS FIFTH ARMY CORPS,
November 18, 1863—10.15 p.m.

Brigadier-General Bartlett,

Commanding First Division:

GENERAL: The major-general commanding directs that you move your division to this side of the river at 8 o'clock to-morrow morning and camp upon any good ground you may find behind Crawford's division. You will leave a sufficient guard to protect the bridges until they are taken up. The substance of the above was telegraphed you at 4 p.m. to-day.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

FRED. T. LOCKE,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

[29.]

TAYLOR.

November 18, 1863—11.15 a.m.

Captain Norton:

I can discern no change along enemy's lines. Atmosphere too hazy to see distinctly.

[29.]

TAYLOR.

November 18, 1863—6 p.m.

Captain Norton:

Heavy columns smoke this p.m. three miles northeast from Criglersville. Camp smoke in direction of Orange Court-House and Barnett's Ford unusually heavy. No change observed opposite Somerville, Raccoon, and Morton's Fords. Enemy's signals on Clark's Mountain are concealed from us. Saw upper part of light working toward other side of mountain.

[29.]

TAYLOR.

HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE POTOMAC,
November 19, 1863—8 p.m.

Major-General Warren,

Commanding Second Corps:

I would like to see you to-morrow morning between 9 and 10 a.m. Bring Captain Roebling with you.

GEO. G. MEADE,
Major-General.
Captain Norton:
Atmosphere too thick this a. m. for observations in direction of the enemy.
[29.]

PONY MOUNTAIN SIGNAL STATION,
November 20, 1863—12 m.

TAYLOR.

Captain Norton,
Chief Signal Officer:
Cannot see off this mountain in direction of Rapidan.
[29.]

PONY MOUNTAIN SIGNAL STATION,
November 20, 1863—9.35 a. m.

TAYLOR.

Captain Norton:
See no change whatever in position of the enemy. A regiment digging to-day opposite Morton's Ford.
[29.]

PONY MOUNTAIN SIGNAL STATION,
November 20, 1863—5 p. m.

TAYLOR.

Captain Norton,
Chief Signal Officer:
Nothing to report as yet this a. m.
[29.]

PONY MOUNTAIN SIGNAL STATION,
November 21, 1863—9.30 a. m.

TAYLOR.

Captain Norton:
The enemy's camps and fires opposite Raccoon and Morton's Fords and along the hills in direction of Rapidan Station and Orange Court-House remain the same. See no change whatever in the situation. Timber being cut away brings his camps more in view.

P. A. TAYLOR,
Captain and Signal Officer.

PONY MOUNTAIN SIGNAL STATION,
November 22, 1863—10.30 a. m.

TAYLOR.

Captain Norton:
Nothing new. No change observed.
[29.]

PONY MOUNTAIN SIGNAL STATION,
November 22, 1863—5.30 p. m.

TAYLOR.

CIRCULAR.
HEADQUARTERS FIRST ARMY CORPS,
November 23, 1863.

The following will be the order of movement for to-morrow, 24th instant, beginning at daylight: The Second Division in advance, the artillery following; the First Division in rear, the Third Division remaining to guard the railroad. The column will move by the way of Paoli Mills, following the route of the Fifth Corps, crossing the Rapidan at Culpeper Ford, and if practicable will move to the Orange and Fredericksburg plank road. The ammunition trains, the ambulances, including the brigade medicine wagons, the spring wagons or ambulances authorized for the several headquarters, will move in the rear of the column, but will not cross the river, excepting one-half the infantry ammunition wagons (thirty rounds per man). Ambulances in the proportion of those of one brigade for each division and the spring wagons or ambulances authorized for the several headquarters. These trains will follow the First Division, ambulances in advance. The trains not already specified will be parked in the vicinity of Richardsville, under the direction of the chief quartermaster. The trains must be so moved as under no circumstances to interfere with the Reserve Artillery, which follows the First Corps.

By command of Major-General Newton:

C. KINGSBURY, JR.,

Lieutenant-Colonel and Assistant Adjutant-General.

---

CIRCULAR.]

HEADQUARTERS THIRD ARMY CORPS,

Brandy Station, Va., November 23, 1863.

The Third Corps will move at daylight to-morrow morning, November 24, 1863, crossing Mountain Run at Ross' Mills, enter the Germanna plank road at the first cross-road leading to it (past Halley's) and diverge from it between Mitchell's and Willis' and cross the Rapidan by the bridges in the vicinity of Jacobs' Mill. Should the passage of the river be disputed the Third Corps will co-operate with the Second Corps in forcing it. Having crossed the river the Third Corps will move on the Jacobs' Ford and Robertson's Tavern road and take post on the right of the Second Corps on the road from Raccoon Ford to Robertson's Tavern, covering the right from approach in the direction of Bartlett's Mill.

By command of Major-General French:

O. H. HART,

Lieutenant-Colonel and Assistant Adjutant-General.

---

CIRCULAR.]

HEADQUARTERS THIRD ARMY CORPS,

Brandy Station, Va., November 23, 1863.

Pursuant to orders from headquarters Army of the Potomac, the Third Corps will move to-morrow morning, November 24, 1863, upon the Rapidan at Jacobs' Mill; Second Division, Third Division, First Division, left in front. Second Division: The order of march will be one regiment, one section of rifled guns, pontoon train, the remainder of the brigade, battery of light twelves, remainder of division, remainder of rifled battery. Third Division and one battery, First Division and one battery, Reserve Artillery. Upon approaching the ford, the commanding officer of the leading division will throw out one brigade toward Mitchell's Ford on his right, covering the roads on the flank in that direction; he will push forward the leading brigade. If the passage is seriously resisted he will force the passage by placing his batteries in position and throwing troops in boats to the other side. The other division commanders will move their infantry outside of the road, leaving it open for artillery and such vehicles as are mentioned in general orders. Upon approaching the ford they will prepare for resistance from the right. After crossing the ford the leading division commander will take such position (in the absence of specific orders from the corps commander) as will enable the other divisions to cross. Their positions will be relieved successively until the Sixth Corps crosses, when all of the corps will proceed by the route indicated on the map toward Robertson’s Tavern. Each division must adhere to the three-line formation, first and second lines deployed, third line in column of attack ready to move to any point. Division commanders will connect with each other toward the ford, if attacked. It is the intention of the corps commander (in the absence of instructions to the contrary) to keep his corps in the advance, should the disposition of the enemy forewarned make it practicable. The chief of artillery will select such positions for his batteries at the ford as may be necessary, also as the troops advance, demanding an adequate support from the nearest division commander. The headquarters of the corps will be at the ford near Jacobs’ Mill. Division commanders will be careful to have their pioneers in front in readiness for duty on the road when called upon.

By command of Major-General French:

O. H. HART,

Lieutenant-Colonel and Assistant Adjutant-General.

HEADQUARTERS FIFTH ARMY CORPS,
Camp near Paoli Mills, Va., November 23, 1863.

Brig. Gen. J. J. BARTLETT,

Commanding First Division:

GENERAL: The major-general commanding directs me to inform you that the corps will move at a very early hour to-morrow morning, 24th instant. Have everything ready so that there will be no delay. The order of march will be as follows: Third Division, Second Division, First Division, artillery. It is important that the movement should be kept as quiet as possible.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

FRED. T. LOCKE,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

(Copy furnished General Ayres, Second Division; General Crawford, Third Division; Captain Martin, Artillery Brigade.)

PONY MOUNTAIN SIGNAL STATION,
November 23, 1863—9.30 a. m.

Capt. L. B. NORTON,

Chief Signal Officer:

Nothing to report as yet this a. m.

TAYLOR.

PONY MOUNTAIN SIGNAL STATION,
November 23, 1863—5 p. m.

Captain NORTON:

Good view this p. m. of enemy’s camps opposite Raccoon and Morton’s Fords, and in direction Orange Court-House. All quiet; no change whatever. An incessant drumming this a.m. and forepart p. m. within enemy’s lines.

P. A. TAYLOR,
Captain and Signal Officer.

HEADQUARTERS SIGNAL STATION,
November 23, 1863—8.40 p. m.

Captain TAYLOR:
You will remain where you are until further orders, or until the cavalry leaves you. Keep a lookout for flags to-morrow in all directions.

NORTON.

HEADQUARTERS SIGNAL STATION,
November 23, 1863—9.30 p. m.

Captain TAYLOR:
Look for different corps to-morrow on the other side of Rapidan, between Raccoon and Germanna Fords.

NORTON.

PONY MOUNTAIN SIGNAL STATION,
November 24, 1863—6 p. m.

Captain NORTON,
Chief Signal Officer:
Excellent view of the enemy’s position. His camps remain the same. No unusual stir about them. Horses grazing on the flats. Small working parties in the trenches opposite Morton’s Ford. Infantry pickets extend lower down than heretofore observed. Thinning out of forests discloses still more camps behind Morton’s Ford, which now appear quite extensive. A park of artillery seen.

TAYLOR.

CIRCULAR.
HEADQUARTERS FIRST ARMY CORPS,
November 25, 1863.

The First and Second Divisions and artillery will move at 6 o’clock to-morrow morning. Further orders will be sent.

By command of Major-General Newton:

C. KINGSBURY, JR.,
Lieutenant-Colonel and Assistant Adjutant-General.

PONY MOUNTAIN SIGNAL STATION,
November 25, 1863—7 p. m.

Captain N[ORTON]:
All quiet. I see no change in enemy’s position. About 200 men working to-day on fortifications behind Morton’s Ford. See line of intrenchments little below the ford, apparently extending toward Mountain Run perpendicularly to the river. Gloskoski reports musketry firing, discharging of pieces in the cavalry division.

TAYLOR.
Brigadier-General Prince,

Commanding Second Division:

General: You will move forward at daylight in the same order as yesterday, keeping well closed up. You will throw out cavalry and infantry pickets upon all cross-roads. You will look well to your right flank, moving with a strong force of flankers well out.

By command of Major-General French:

O. H. Hart,

Lieutenant-Colonel and Assistant Adjutant-General.

Brigadier-General Prince,

Commanding Second Division:

General: You will direct General Mott to rejoin his division at once with his brigade.

By command of Major-General French:

O. H. Hart,

Lieutenant-Colonel and Assistant Adjutant-General.

Brigadier-General Prince,

Commanding Second Division:

General: The brigade of General Sedgwick's corps now supporting the batteries on your line is relieved. You will take measures to supply its place.

By command of Major-General French:

O. H. Hart,

Lieutenant-Colonel and Assistant Adjutant-General.

CIRCULAR.

Brigadier-General Prince,

Commanding Second Division:

General: The major-general commanding directs that you hold your command in readiness to accompany Major Duane, engineer, headquarters Army of the Potomac, upon a reconnaissance at daylight this a.m. The troops will be under arms at 5.30 a.m.

By command of Major-General French:

O. H. Hart,

Lieutenant-Colonel and Assistant Adjutant-General.
CIRCULAR.]

HEADQUARTERS THIRD ARMY CORPS,

December 1, 1863—1.45 p. m.

At 6 o'clock, or as soon thereafter as it is sufficiently dark to conceal the movement from the enemy, General Prince will move off with his division in accordance with the directions received this p. m. from these headquarters, right in front. General Carr will move his division immediately after and following well closed up on General Prince's division. General Birney will follow immediately in rear of General Carr's division.

By command of Major-General French: O. H. HART,

Lieutenant-Colonel and Assistant Adjutant-General.

CIRCULAR.]

HEADQUARTERS THIRD ARMY CORPS,

Culpeper Ford, December 2, 1863—7.05 a. m.

The corps will resume its march to-day in the same order as the march of last night. Division commanders will have their commands in readiness to move as soon as the Second Corps passes, following the Second Corps.

By command of Major-General French: O. H. HART,

Lieutenant-Colonel and Assistant Adjutant-General.

NOTE.—Captain Randolph received his orders in person from the major-general commanding the corps.

O. H. H.

CIRCULAR.]

HEADQUARTERS THIRD ARMY CORPS,

December 2, 1863—7.30 a. m.

The troops will follow the Second Corps, General Prince directing the head of the column on the Richardsville road. The column will leave the Stevensburg road at Madden's house, cross Mountain Run at Stone's Ford, one mile below Ross' Mill, and proceed to their old camps at Brandy Station, when they will re-establish the old picket-line. Divisions will file off into their old camps as they arrive at them, respectively.

By command of Major-General French: O. H. HART,

Lieutenant-Colonel and Assistant Adjutant-General.

SPECIAL ORDERS, } HDQRS. ARMY OF THE POTOMAC,
No. 310. } December 5, 1863.

4. By direction of the General-in-Chief, Brig. Gen. Kenner Garrard is relieved from duty with the Army of the Potomac, and will report to the Adjutant-General in person without delay.

By command of Major-General Meade: S. WILLIAMS,

Assistant Adjutant-General.
Capt. T. C. Bacon,
Assistant Adjutant-General:

CAPTAIN: I have directed Captains Sweitzer and Clark to make written reports of their reconnaissances and information of the movements of the enemy last night and to-day, as to the movements of their trains, &c. Captain Leib, Fifth U. S. Cavalry, has just sent in a messenger. He has advanced to within two miles and a half of James City, and was still pushing on. The enemy had been at that place this morning, but the messenger, a soldier, does not know in what force, how composed, or the direction of their line of march. I will send the information as fast as I get it to your office.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

ALFRED GIBBS,
Colonel, Commanding Brigade.

Lieutenant Myers heard and made a note of all the information learned from Captains Sweitzer and Clark relative to the movements of the enemy for the information of the general.

A. G.

DECEMBER 5, 1863—6.20 p. m.

General W. Merritt,
Commanding:

GENERAL: Captain Leib, Fifth U. S. Cavalry, has just sent in another messenger. He reports that his advance had reached within half a mile of James City, and found the enemy there, apparently in pretty large force, judging from the number of camp-fires. He had been reached by Lieutenant Murphy, the officer you directed to be sent after him, and was, in compliance with the orders sent to him, going, when the messenger left, in the direction of Madison Court-House. His messages are all verbal, so I cannot send them to you, but I give them verbatim. Nothing was said about any wagons.

Respectfully, your obedient servant,

ALFRED GIBBS,
Colonel, &c.

NEAR SOMERVILLE FORD,

December 5, 1863—10 a. m.

Lieut. Gamaliel S. Taylor,
Acting Assistant Adjutant-General:

SIR: The enemy crossed some force at Somerville Ford and made a descent on the pickets of the Second New York, capturing one or two, and the balance at that point fell back on us, reporting the enemy crossing, as I reported this morning. I was not informed at that time of the particulars, but sent in the report as received, and came down here after making preparations to contest the picket-line. There is evidently no advance contemplated. I will inform you further if anything occurs. The Second New York have not yet resumed their former picket-line. Nothing was seen yesterday toward Rapidan Station except two horse-men in the distance.

Yours, very respectfully,

D. R. CLENDENIN,
Lieutenant-Colonel, &c.
General W. MERRITT,

Commanding First Cavalry Division, Culpeper, Va.:

GENERAL: Major Scott has just returned and reports as follows. His written report will be sent as soon as received: The cavalry went through James City, drove out a few pickets there, cleared out the signal station on Thoroughfare Mountain. Went as far as Robertson's River and ascertained satisfactorily that the enemy have no force on this side the Rapidan, except a few very small scouting parties. The Second Virginia Cavalry is picketing on the other bank of the Rapidan. General Fitzhugh Lee's division of cavalry is reported to be at Wickham's Mills, six miles this side of Orange Court-House. No force in Madison Court-House, and none has been there lately. Small forage trains have and are frequently passing to and fro in search of forage. Lieutenant Emmons reports that although the pickets on the left are within hailing distance with Colonel Chapman's right in the day, [they] are open at night, and he has closed them up so as to be close together at day and night.

Respectfully, your obedient servant,

ALFRED GIBBS,

Colonel, Commanding, &c.

HEADQUARTERS CAVALRY RESERVE BRIGADE,

December 7, 1863—9 p. m.

[Brig. Gen. W. MERRITT:]

GENERAL: Major Scott, First New York Dragoons, with a squadron of his regiment went out this p. m. to try and capture some of the signal party on Thoroughfare Mountain. He found about his own force there of the enemy prepared, dismounted, to receive him. He charged and ran off the whole party, but could not get any of them. He, however, brought in their signal flag, which I send by the bearer, not from its intrinsic value, but with the hope that its loss may cause some of the rebel fair sex to sleep cooler to-night.

Very respectfully,

ALFRED GIBBS,

Colonel, &c.

HDQRS. THIRD DIVISION, DEPT. OF WEST VIRGINIA,

Charleston, W. Va., December 8, 1863.

Brigadier-General DUFFIE,

Commanding Cavalry:

SIR: You will move with all your mounted troops and one section Simmonds' battery this p. m., en route for Lewisburg; timing your march so as to reach Gauley to-morrow evening, and encamp on the Tompkins farm, two miles and a half above the bridge. The troops will take hard bread, sugar, coffee, and salt for three days. The same rations for seven days will be transported under the direction of the division quartermaster; forty rounds ammunition to be taken in cartridge-boxes and sixty to be transported by wagon. Send immediately to this office report of number of men with which you can move, and number for duty remaining in camp.

By command of Brigadier-General Scammon:

JAS. L. BOTSFORD,

Assistant Adjutant-General.
Brigadier-General DUFFIE,

Commanding Cavalry:

SIR: You will move to-morrow to Tyree's, where you will be joined by Colonel White's command. Colonel Hayes' infantry will leave here at 5 a.m. You had better march at daylight, so as to keep in the advance of the infantry.

By order of Brigadier-General Scammon:

JAS. L. BOTSFORD,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

HDQRS. ARMY OF THE POTOMAC,
December 10, 1863.

SPECIAL ORDERS,
No. 315.

4. Robertson's brigade of horse artillery now serving with Cavalry Corps will at once be relieved by Graham's brigade of horse artillery. On being relieved Captain Robertson will report with his brigade to the commanding officer Artillery Reserve.

By command of Major-General Meade:

S. WILLIAMS,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

The command will move on the Lewisburg road in the following order, viz: First, four companies of infantry followed by thirty pioneers with axes, spades, and picks; second, cavalry, Third Brigade, will move at 7.10 precisely; third, Colonel White's brigade will follow immediately after the cavalry; fourth, First Brigade, Colonel Hayes, will move at the same hour, so as to close on the Second Brigade; fifth, the train to remain at Meadow Bluff until further orders with a guard of two companies infantry to be detailed from First Brigade, Colonel Hayes, and twenty mounted men from Third Brigade; sixth, Colonel White will direct the pioneers from his brigade to report to General Duffié at 6.30 a.m.

By order of Brigadier-General Scammon:

JAS. L. BOTSFORD,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

ORDERS.
HDQRS. THIRD DIV., DEPT. OF WEST VIRGINIA,
Meadow Bluff, W. Va., December 11, 1863.

By order of the Secretary of War:

E. D. TOWNSEND,
Assistant Adjutant-General.
HDQRS. THIRD DIV., DEPT. OF WEST VIRGINIA,
Meadow Bluff, W. Va., December 15, 1863.

The First and Second Brigades will move at 7 to-morrow morning on the Gauley road in the following order: First, First Brigade, Col. R. B. Hayes; second, train; third, Second Brigade, Col. C. B. White. Brigade commanders will see that the troops are kept well closed and the flanks and rear carefully guarded. Before passing the intersection of the roads with the turnpike, the road on either side will be carefully reconnoitered to prevent the possibility of bushwhacking. So, also, in passing roads bordered by woods. Skirmishers must be invariably sent through to scour the woods before the head of the column enters the pass.

By order of Brigadier-General Scammon:

JAS. L. BOTSFORD,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

SPECIAL ORDERS,
HDQRS. ARMY OF THE POTOMAC,
No. 332.

December 23, 1863.

By command of Major-General Meade:

S. F. BARSTOW,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

HEADQUARTERS FIRST ARMY CORPS,
December 23, 1863.

The following movement of the corps is ordered for to-morrow, commencing with the Second Division, Brigadier-General Baxter, at 5 a.m., crossing Mountain Run and proceed by the way of Stevensburg and thence south of Pony Mountain; one brigade to Mitchell's Station, the other to a point about one mile and a half north of the station near the railroad, the exact position to be designated by the staff officer from these headquarters accompanying the division. The brigade at the station will picket the open ground in its front and connect with the cavalry picket on the right and left. The brigade in rear will have on strong camp guards. The First and Third Divisions and artillery will march via Brandy Station to Culpeper Court-House, starting at early daylight, the First Division being in advance, Third Division following, artillery in rear. The pickets will be withdrawn at daylight and join their respective divisions. The ambulances and trains of the Second Division will follow it, while the ambulances and trains of the First and Third Divisions and artillery will proceed by the best road to Brandy Station and on to Culpeper under the direction of Captain Jones, acting chief quartermaster, taking care to avoid interfering with the march of the troops. The commanding officer of First Division will leave one large regiment to guard the hospitals of the corps until they are removed. The commanding officer of the regiment will consult with Surgeon Mitchell, acting medical director of the corps, in regard to the hospitals to be guarded. On the hospitals being removed the regiment will rejoin its brigade.

By command of Major-General Newton:

C. KINGSBURY, JR.,
Lieutenant-Colonel and Assistant Adjutant-General.

By command of Major-General Halleck:

E. D. Townsend,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

HDQRS. FOURTH DIVISION, DEPT. OF WEST VIRGINIA,
Martinsburg, January 2, 1864.

Brig. Gen. B. F. Kelley,
Commanding Department, at Cumberland:

I have learned that four regiments have arrived at Harper’s Ferry. I should be glad if you could come here and spend a few hours, in order to arrange their distribution properly and satisfactorily.* Major Gibson reports (12 m.) that patrol reports that Imboden left Winchester yesterday evening on the Romney road. A report came to him by a citizen, not reliable, that a division of rebel infantry were to be in Winchester last night. The cold weather was extremely severe upon the pickets last night.

WM. W. AVERELL,
Brigadier-General.

HDQRS. FOURTH DIVISION, DEPT. OF WEST VIRGINIA,
Martinsburg, January 4, 1864.

Brig. Gen. B. F. Kelley,
Commanding Department, at Cumberland:

All is quiet in my front; nothing new. The approaches to New Creek can be held very easily, and if Rosser was at Burlington it would take him till to-morrow noon to reach the railroad. His horses cannot stand the storm long. I do not know where Colonel Oley is. If you do, please ask him if his ammunition is all right. There is a rumor here, brought by a citizen from Winchester, that Kilpatrick has come onto the enemy’s flank and rear near Strasburg. The enemy must come or go soon on account of the weather. If I had 6,000 infantry here I would try and make Fitz. Lee sorry. You remember the Franklin road is blockaded, and he must return through Briery Gap, which is almost impassable now. If the enemy does not come here to-morrow I shall conclude he has changed his mind. I expect to hear from good scouts to-night. Excuse the length of this dispatch, and please let me hear from you often.

WM. W. AVERELL,
Brigadier-General.

* For reply, see 5 p. m., Vol. XXXIII, p. 329.
HDQRS. FOURTH DIVISION, DEPT. OF WEST VIRGINIA,
Martinsburg, January 5, 1864.

Brig. Gen. B. F. Kelley,
Commanding Department, at Cumberland:

Scout returned from Bloomery Gap and Cacapon bridge; reports that no rebels have passed over that road. A solitary rebel was seen there about two weeks ago.

WM. W. AVERELL,
Brigadier-General.

HDQRS. FOURTH DIVISION, DEPT. OF WEST VIRGINIA,
Martinsburg, January 5, 1864.

Brigadier-General Kelley,
Commanding Department, at Cumberland:

Nothing in Winchester last night, or nearer than eight miles beyond. Please let Colonel Oley's regiment come to this place. His men are suffering for the want of clothing. No tents have been sent here from any direction, and my men, without sufficient clothing, are lying out in the snow. Cannot the tents be hurried forward?

WM. W. AVERELL,
Brigadier-General.

HDQRS. FOURTH DIVISION, DEPT. OF WEST VIRGINIA,
Martinsburg, January 7, 1864.

Brig. Gen. B. F. Kelley,
Commanding Department, at Cumberland:

Detachment returned from Winchester reports skirmish took place with rebels about Newtown last evening. Rebel Captain Blackford was killed. Rebel force, 7,000 strong, reported above Strasburg. Patrol to Pughtown saw or heard nothing. Two regiments Pennsylvania Reserves arrived here this morning. Another detachment expected to-night. Are these forces newly arrived under my command?

WM. W. AVERELL,
Brigadier-General.

HDQRS. SECOND BRIGADE, FIRST DIVISION, FIRST CORPS,
Camp near Culpeper Court-House, Va., January 8, 1864.

Brig. Gen. S. Williams,
Assistant Adjutant-General:

GENERAL: I desire to respectfully call the attention of the commanding general to the extreme destitution of the inhabitants in this vicinity occasioned by the hardships and misfortunes of the war, a destitution which, if not promptly relieved, must result before the close of the winter in the most intense suffering. I desire also to respectfully suggest such measures as I apprehend might be properly adopted within the spirit of the tenth section, General Orders, No. 100, War Department, April 24, 1863, for the amelioration of the painful condition of these people, and to point out the reasons which prevent a large majority of them from seeking relief under the fourth section of Gen-

*For reply, see Vol. XXXIII, p. 354.
eral Orders, No. 11, headquarters Army of the Potomac, February 11, 1863. It is scarcely necessary to describe to the commanding general the full extent of this destitution, since no one can better understand than he the rigorous extremity to which a community, strictly agricultural in its character and unfortunately situated between or within the lines of two hostile armies, now quartered upon by one and now by the other, and at all times robbed and plundered by the stragglers of both, must, in the course of nearly three years of warfare, be reduced. It may be sufficient here to say that in a circle whose radius is not less than fifty miles, of which the commanding general's headquarters may be taken as the center, including the counties of Fauquier, Rappahannock, Culpeper, and portions of Fairfax, Madison, Orange, Spotsylvania, Stafford, and Prince William, and containing a population before the war of over 60,000 whites, living for the most part in affluence and surrounded with all the comforts and luxuries of peace and wealth, there remains at the present time less than half of that number, most of whom, especially in this vicinity, are daily dependent for their bread on the charities of the officers and soldiers of this army, with no hope for the future, since their crops, their farms, and their houses have been laid waste by the ravages of war. Such has been the price of, such the reward of, rebellion. And yet humanity and justice demand that these people shall not be driven to the limits of despair. Under the fourth section of General Orders, No. 11, Army of the Potomac, above referred to, before subsistence stores may be sold or issued to citizens residing within the limits of this army, it is required that a certificate under oath of the purchaser shall be given that he is without the means of subsistence, and that he is unable to sustain life without being allowed to make such purchases, and also to take the oath of allegiance before any sales or issues can be made. I would respectfully submit whether an oath taken by compulsion of hunger and dreaded starvation is binding upon the conscience. Would such an oath be binding by any rule of law? Is such an oath expedient? Can it in any degree answer the purpose for which it is required? Again, should we demand of these people an oath of allegiance to the Government to-day and leave them unprotected to-morrow? Is it just that we should require from them to swear fealty to the country and leave them to be robbed by the enemy for taking that oath? Do not all Governments guarantee protection if they demand allegiance? Are not the two terms as inseparable as representation and taxation? Many of these people are helpless women and children; many of them are loyal, while a majority would willingly take the required oath if they could be assured that their persons and property would be protected from the enemy. But it is impossible for the Government at the present time to give such guarantees of protection. The lines of our army this month may be the lines of the enemy the next, who will, in the future, as he has in the past, persecute those people for taking the oath, and plunder them till they recant and swear allegiance to the oligarchy of the South. Hence, in order to obviate all of these objections, I would respectfully suggest to the commanding general that the oath of allegiance required by section 4, General Orders, No. 11, headquarters Army of the Potomac, 1863, above referred to, be changed to an oath of neutrality, which I apprehend lies within his power to do, in compliance with the spirit of the tenth section, General Orders, No. 100, War Department, April 24, 1863.

I am, general, most respectfully, your obedient servant,

J. C. RICE,
Brigadier-General.
CIRCULAR.

HEADQUARTERS SECOND ARMY CORPS,

January 8, 1864.

Major-General Hancock, having been ordered on special duty which temporarily separates him from this army, transfers the command of the corps to Maj. Gen. G. K. Warren.

By order of Major-General Hancock:

H. H. BINGHAM.

[33.]

Captain and Acting Assistant Adjutant-General.

HDQRS. THIRTEENTH REGT. VIRGINIA VOL. INFANTRY,

Barboursville, W. Va., January 10, 1864.

Col. W. R. Brown:

Sir: In obedience to your order I left this place on the 30th of December with 200 men, to ascertain, if possible, the whereabouts of the rebels which were lately in the vicinity of Hurricane Bridge. We passed through the country between this and Wayne Court-House, and found that they were camping in the neighborhood of Wayne Court-House. I found it impossible to force them to fight, as they were well mounted and appeared to be only disposed to interrupt us by harassing our advance and rear guards. I ascertained the rebel force to be composed of the Sixteenth Regiment Virginia Volunteers, under Colonel Ferguson, numbering from 300 to 500. I would have remained out longer but for the want of rations and the sudden change in and inclemency of the weather, which rendered it impossible for the men to march.

Very respectfully,

JAMES R. HALL,

[33.]

Lieutenant-Colonel Thirteenth Virginia Volunteer Infantry.

SPECIAL ORDERS, { HDQRS. DEPT. OF VA. AND N. CAROLINA,

No. 12. } Fort Monroe, Va., January 12, 1864.

II. Brig. Gen. George W. Getty having been relieved from duty in this department by orders from the War Department, Brig. Gen. C. A. Heckman will assume command of the district heretofore commanded by General Getty.

III. Brig. Gen. J. Barnes having been relieved from duty in this department by orders from the War Department, will turn over his command to Brig. Gen. E. A. Wild.

By command of Major-General Butler:

HENRY T. SCHROEDER,

[33.]

Lieutenant and Acting Assistant Adjutant-General.

GENERAL ORDERS, { HDQRS. FIRST DIV., SECOND ARMY CORPS,

No. 4. }

January 15, 1864.

The undersigned resumes command of the division.

JOHN C. CALDWELL,

[33.]

Brigadier-General of Volunteers, Commanding.
Brigadier-General MERRITT,
Commanding First Cavalry Division, Culpeper:

It is reported that the troops around Orange Court House are moving toward the river, and that the enemy's cavalry pickets are this side of the river. The major-general commanding directs that you will gain all the information you can of the enemy's movements, and have your command in hand for any emergency, and forward all the information you can gain.

C. ROSS SMITH,
Lieutenant-Colonel and Chief of Staff.

SPECIAL ORDERS, } HDQRS. DEPT. OF VA. AND N. CAROLINA,
No. 29. } Fort Monroe, January 29, 1864.

VIII. Lieut. Col. J. McLean Taylor is at his own request relieved from duty as chief commissary of subsistence in this department. He will report to the Commissary General of Subsistence at Washington, D. C., for further orders.

By command of Major-General Butler:

R. S. DAVIS,
Major and Assistant Adjutant-General.

HDQRS. THIRTEEN REGT. VIRGINIA VOL. INFANTRY,
Barboursville, W. Va., January 30, 1864.

Capt. M. P. AVERY,
Acting Assistant Adjutant-General:

SIR: I have the honor to forward herewith official report of Capt. John S. Witcher's successful pursuit and complete dispersion of a detachment of the enemy under command of Capt. H. Spurlock. Captain Witcher and his brave little band deserve great credit for the gallantry with which they charged upon and scattered this band of bandits.

Yours, respectfully,

WILLIAM R. BROWN,
Colonel Thirteenth Regiment.

HEADQUARTERS DEPARTMENT OF WEST VIRGINIA,
Cumberland, Md., January 31, 1864.

Col. E. D. TOWNSEND,
Assistant Adjutant-General:

COLONEL: In compliance with your telegram of yesterday requiring me to report the names of colonels commanding brigades in this department, the length of time they have respectively exercised command, with my recommendation for brevet, I have the honor to submit the following: In this department there are twelve colonels commanding organizations greater than regiments. Col. J. A. Mulligan, Twenty-third Illinois Volunteers, commanding Second Division, has commanded a division for six months and commanded a brigade for nearly a year.

* See p. 211.
Col. George D. Wells, Thirty-fourth Massachusetts Volunteers, commanding First Brigade, First Division, has exercised such command for about six months. Col. William P. Maulsby, First Regiment Potomac Home Brigade Maryland Volunteers, commanding Second Brigade, First Division, in command about six months. Col. R. S. Rodgers, Second Eastern Shore Maryland Volunteers, commanding Third Brigade, First Division, in command three months. Col. J. M. Campbell, Fifty-fourth Pennsylvania Volunteers, commanding First Brigade, Second Division, has commanded a brigade for nearly a year. Col. Joseph Thoburn, First Virginia Volunteer Infantry, commanding Second Brigade, Second Division, has commanded a brigade in the department six months, and formerly commanded a brigade in 1862, under Major-General McDowell. Col. N. Wilkinson, Sixth Virginia Volunteers, commanding Third Brigade, Second Division, has commanded a brigade for a year. Col. R. B. Hayes, Twenty-third Ohio Volunteers, commanding First Brigade, Third Division; time, one year. In the Fourth Division, Brigadier-General Averell, three colonels command brigades: Col. J. H. Oley, Seventh Virginia Cavalry; Col. J. M. Schoonmaker, Fourteenth Pennsylvania Cavalry, and Col. T. M. Harris, Tenth Virginia Infantry, the latter succeeding Col. A. Moor, Twenty-eighth Ohio, recently dismissed. This division has only just been organized, and none of the officers named have heretofore commanded brigades. I recommend for brevet, Col. James A. Mulligan, Twenty-third Illinois Volunteers; Col. Joseph Thoburn, First Virginia Volunteers; Col. J. M. Campbell, Fifty-fourth Pennsylvania Volunteers, and Col. George D. Wells, Thirty-fourth Massachusetts Volunteers. Colonel Mulligan is recommended because of his distinguished services at Lexington, Mo., in 1861, and because of the military ability, energy, and promptitude displayed by him since serving in Virginia. He commanded a brigade in my old division, serving almost under my eye, and in all instances has rendered complete satisfaction. His knowledge of the country, and his ability to command, has in my judgment eminently fitted him for the command of the Second Division, comprising the troops on line of Baltimore and Ohio Railroad, and at points in the interior from Hancock, Md., west to the Ohio River. Colonel Thoburn I regard as an accomplished officer and in every way worthy for a higher rank. He served gallantly at the battle of Winchester, where he was severely wounded while leading his regiment; afterward under Generals Shields and McDowell in the Valley campaign, and more recently in this department while operating with his column in Highland County, in concert with General Averell on the Salem raid, and while in command at Petersburg, W. Va., when that point was threatened by the rebel forces. Colonel Campbell has always been prompt and efficient, has had considerable experience, and is regarded as brave and reliable, and in my judgment worthy of a brevet. Colonel Wells commanded the column which, acting in concert with General Averell, moved up the Shenandoah Valley in December, and on that occasion exhibited great address and ability. It is understood that he served with distinction since the war began in different positions in the Army of the Potomac, and has certainly sustained a good reputation for discipline and ability since he has been serving in this department. In the cases of Colonels Hayes and White, my personal knowledge is limited, but Brigadier-General Scammon, commanding Third Division, awards them both high praise. They both participated in the battle of South Mountain, and were both distinguished for good conduct at that battle. Colonel Hayes, then lieutenant-colonel in command of regiment, is reported to have turned the enemy's right at the commencement, and was wounded. Colonel White was recommended for promotion at the time. I doubt not that they are both worthy and efficient officers.

I am, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

B. F. KELLEY,
Brigadier-General.

GENERAL ORDERS, [Headquarters First Army Corps,
No. 3.]
February 5, 1864.

The corps will move to-morrow morning at 7 o'clock in the following order to the vicinity of Raccoon Ford: First, Third Division; second, artillery; third, Second Division; fourth, First Division; fifth, ambulances. The Fourteenth Brooklyn Regiment will remain in Culpeper, Colonel Fowler being in command of the town. The brigade of the Second Division at Mitchell's Station will remain as now posted. The pickets will remain as [they now are. The troops will have forty rounds of ammunition in cartridge-boxes and three days' rations in haversacks. Captain Cooper, acting chief of artillery, will move two rifled and one light 12-pounder battery at the time and in the column as designated. The artillery left in camp, the ammunition, ambulances, and medical wagons will be held in readiness to move at a moment's notice. The regimental property will be packed in wagons and all reported to the chief quartermaster of corps, who will have the trains properly parked. Colonel Fowler will furnish the necessary guard for them. A small guard will be left in each camp to protect the huts of the men. Shelter-tents will be carried. The medical director of the corps will furnish twelve ambulances from each division. No wagons will accompany the troops excepting light ones actually required for the different headquarters.

By command of Major-General Newton:

C. KINGSBURY, JR.,
Lieutenant-Colonel and Assistant Adjutant-General.

CIRCULAR.

Headquarters Third Army Corps,
Brandy Station, February 5, 1864.

The Third Corps will be in readiness at 7 a. m. to-morrow, February 6, to move at a moment's notice, with three days' rations. The picket-lines will be left as usual. The artillery, ammunition, and ambulance trains, medical hospital wagons, will also be held ready to move. One battery of artillery will be ready to accompany each division.

By command of Major-General Birney:

O. H. HART,
Lieutenant-Colonel and Assistant Adjutant-General.

ORDERS.

Headquarters Sixth Army Corps,
February 5, 1864—11.30 p. m.

The corps will be in readiness to move to-morrow at 8 a. m. and continue so until further orders. The pickets and house guards will not be withdrawn, and guards will be left with the camps. In the event of a movement the troops will take with them three days' rations and such ambulances as may be absolutely required for the troops and such light wagons as are needed for the various headquarters.

By command of Major-General Sedgwick:

M. T. McMahan,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

[33.]

FORT MAGRUDER, February 5, 1864.

Maj.-Gen. Butler:

My judgment is that Sedgwick should move at once. Anything is good, but immediately is best. All was concentrated here nicely and after dark.

I. J. Wistar,
Brigadier-General.

[33.]

SPECIAL ORDERS, WAR DEPT., ADJT. GENERAL'S OFFICE,
No. 59. Washington, February 6, 1864.

63. Lieut. Col. A. Cady, Seventh U. S. Infantry, will proceed without delay to New Haven, Conn., and relieve Brig. Gen. L. C. Hunt, U. S. Volunteers, in command of depot for drafted men at that place.
On being relieved General Hunt will comply with the requirements of paragraph 3, Special Orders, No. 571, December 24, 1863, from this office.

By order of the Secretary of War:

E. D. Townsend,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

[33.]

CIRCULAR.] HEADQUARTERS SECOND ARMY CORPS,
February 6, 1864.

The corps will move at 7 a. m. to-day, February 6, with three days' rations and forage, without disturbing camp, and leaving sufficient guards for the protection of property and trains. The march will be on the Morton Ford road to the Rapidan in the following order of troops: Third Division, General Hays; three rifle batteries, Lieutenant-Colonel Monroe; First Division, General Caldwell; Second Division, General Webb. The other batteries will remain in camp and guard the property, &c., of those that accompany the troops. The entire picket-line will remain in its present position, the Fourth Brigade of the First Division remaining in support. Colonel Powers' brigade will join his division (Third) on the road. General Hays will notify Colonel Powers to that effect. Twelve ambulances will accompany each division and three the Artillery Brigade. Division and brigade headquarters are authorized to take light wagons for their own use. Officers commanding guards left behind will hold themselves in readiness for movement if required, and will be held personally accountable for the exercise of the utmost vigilance against guerrillas and stragglers. The trains will remain in their present parks, ready for movement if required.

By command of Maj.-Gen. Warren:

Francis A. Walker,
Assistant Adjutant-General.
Circular.]

HEADQUARTERS THIRD CORPS,
Inskip’s House, February 6, 1864.

This command will move to-morrow at 6 a.m. in the following order: Third Division, First Division. The ammunition train will be parked at this place, and only one ambulance to each regiment will accompany the troops. The remaining ambulances, the hospital and medical wagons, will remain with the ammunition train. On reaching Summerville, on the Raccoon Ford road, the division will be massed and await further orders. Only light wagons, such as are necessary for headquarters, will be allowed to accompany the column.

By command of Major-General Birney:

JNO. M. NORVELL,
Major and Assistant Adjutant-General.

Circular.]

HEADQUARTERS THIRD ARMY CORPS,
February 7, 1864—5.20 p.m.

This command will return to its encampments at dusk this evening in the following order: First Division, Third Division, artillery.

By command of Major-General Birney:

JNO. M. NORVELL,
Major and Assistant Adjutant-General.

Camp of Headquarters Army of the Potomac,
February 8, 1864.

Brig. Gen. J. G. BARNARD, U. S. Volunteers:

GENERAL: Yesterday for the first time I saw your report of engineer operations on the Peninsula, and read with surprise the following sentence respecting the battle of Malvern, July 1:

I went out early to get a more general view of the hill and its connections, and afterward, assisted by Brigadier-General Humphreys, chief of Topographical Engineers, Colonel Hudson, Captain Mason, and one or two other aides of the commanding general, I directed the formation of the line.

This is not only erroneous, but I think somewhat ungenerous and discourteous. I was at Malvern by General McClellan’s direction, given to me about 2 o’clock in the morning, to draw out the troops and post them in order of battle. You were not referred to in any way by General McClellan.

Colonel Hudson and Captain Irwin, of General McClellan’s staff, were assigned to me as aides, and I also had with me Captain Abbot, Topographical Engineers. Upon reaching Malvern, I found General Porter’s corps and Couch’s division of Keyes’ corps in position. Sumner’s and Heintzelman’s corps were massed on the plateau. After a brief consultation with General Porter, I asked you and General Hunt to accompany me, informing you both of the orders under which I was acting. We three, accompanied by the staff officers I have named and perhaps some others, rode together over the hill which I had been over the day before. Advising with you and General Hunt, I decided upon the ground to be occupied by the divisions of General H[eintzelman]’s and General Sumner's corps; and those corps commanders being temporarily absent, I sent directions by Colonel Hudson and by Captain Irwin to General Kearny and to General Hooker (of Heintzelman's corps) to occupy the ground selected; I am under the impression that I requested General Porter to give directions to the two division commanders of General Sumner's corps to occupy the ground selected for them. It was, I think, toward the close of this part of the day's work that you informed me that you also had been directed by General McClellan the night before to post the troops. Dispositions of Heintzelman's and Sumner's troops having been made, I set out to make the connection with the James River.

I saw General McClellan at Haxall's Landing, informed him of what had been done and of what remained to be done, and returned to Malvern to complete the work and watch the operations of the day. I remained on the field the rest of the day. I repeat, therefore, that I am very much surprised at your statement, and at finding myself classed among my own aides.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

A. A. HUMPHREYS,
Major-General of Volunteers.

[11.]

HEADQUARTERS SECOND ARMY CORPS,
February 8, 1864.

Major-General HUMPHREYS:

We left Morton's Ford at dark last evening. Before dark the enemy drew back his picket-line from the river so as to secure him from our attack in the night. The whole command got into camp between 9 p.m. and 11 p.m. Nothing more occurred.

G. K. WARREN,
Major-General of Volunteers.

[33.]

SPECIAL ORDERS, } HDQRS. DEPT. OF VA. AND N. CAROLINA,
{ No. 40. } Fort Monroe, Va., February 9, 1864.

* * * * *

XII. Brig. Gen. Charles K. Graham will proceed in the gun-boat Brewster to Plymouth, N. C., take command of her and the gun-boat Foster, and co-operate with Brigadier-General Wessells.

By command of Major-General Butler:

R. S. DAVIS,
Major and Assistant Adjutant-General.

[33.]

YORKTOWN, February 10, 1864.

Major-General BUTLER:

Colonel Garrard with colored cavalry moves on King and Queen Court-House at daylight to-morrow, in hopes of capturing some of the enemy's cavalry there, or at least of destroying some of the impedimenta of a winter camp. Distance about sixty miles.

I. J. WISTAR,
Brigadier-General.
SPECIAL ORDERS, \{ HDQRS. DEPT. OF WEST VIRGINIA, No. 27. \} Cumberland, Md., February 11, 1864.

3. Brig. Gen. George Crook, U. S. Volunteers, having reported at these headquarters in pursuance of orders of the War Department, is assigned to the command of the Third Division.

By order of Brig. Gen. B. F. Kelley:

            T. MELVIN,
            Assistant Adjutant-General.

[33.]

SPECIAL ORDERS, \{ WAR DEPT., ADJT. GENERAL'S OFFICE, No. 70. \} Washington, February 12, 1864.

44. Col. S. M. Bowman, Eighty-fourth Pennsylvania Volunteers, is hereby assigned to duty as chief mustering and recruiting officer for colored troops, in the State of Maryland, and will relieve Brig. Gen. William Birney, U. S. Volunteers.

Brigadier-General Birney, on being relieved, will proceed, in command of the Seventh and Ninth Regiments U. S. Colored Troops, to Hilton Head, S. C., and report to the commanding general Department of the South.

By order of the Secretary of War:

            E. D. TOWNSEND,
            Assistant Adjutant-General.

[33.]

CAMP OF HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE POTOMAC, February 13, 1864.

Maj. Gen. GEORGE B. McCLELLAN, U. S. Army:

GENERAL: I inclose a copy of a letter recently addressed by me to General Barnard,* and I will be obliged to you if you will let me know whether my reference to the instructions I received from you and my report to you agree with your recollection of those circumstances.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

            A. A. HUMPHREYS,
            Major-General of Volunteers.

[11.]

HDQRS. THIRTEENTH REGIMENT PENNSYLVANIA CAVALRY, Bristoe, Va., February 14, 1864.

Maj. ROBERT A. McCoy,
Acting Assistant Adjutant-General:

MAJOR: I have the honor to report that I scouted the country in the direction of Brentsville, Broad Run, and by Jersey Settlement and found no enemy nor any indications of their presence in the vicinity of the localities above named.

I have the honor to be, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

            M. KERWIN,

[33.]

* See February 8, p. 1144.
GETTY'S STATION, February 16, 1864.

Major-General Butler:

I have strengthened my outposts with the One hundred and eighteenth New York Volunteers, which I consider necessary to guard all the approaches and prevent a surprise. With their present strength they can hold the position against a much larger force. I visited Currituck last week, and believe that a regiment of infantry and one of cavalry is all that is needed to protect that line. The One hundred and thirty-ninth New York, with Colonel Garrard's or Cole's regiment of cavalry, can be posted so as to guard the approaches and protect the canal as efficiently as do the three regiments of infantry now assigned to that duty.

Yours, respectfully,

C. A. Heckman,
Brigadier-General, Commanding.

ARTILLERY HEADQUARTERS, ARMY OF THE POTOMAC,
February 18, 1864.

General A. A. Humphreys, U. S. Volunteers:

GENERAL: On July 1, 1862, you informed me at Malvern house that you had been directed by General McClellan to place the troops in position for battle and requested me to go with you to look for positions for the artillery. I accordingly accompanied you.

We had passed the artillery positions overlooking the valley on the left and had nearly reached the lane near the wood, afterward occupied by General Butterfield's brigade, when we met General Barnard, coming from the front. He was stopped and informed of the duty on which you were engaged, and asked to join us.

After a moment's hesitation he did so, and accompanied us to Couch's position. Whilst you were conversing with General Couch and looking at the ground, I went forward, accompanied, I think, by General Howe, to look for positions for the batteries.

After you had given directions here we proceeded toward the right, and when we had passed over about half a mile, General McClellan was seen following us. I went back to near where he was, and I believe General Barnard left you there. You continued on your work and I rejoined and remained with you until we reached the wooded ground which descends into the valley of the James. Here I separated from you to examine the roads and approaches and search positions for guns, and as you continued on the main line of battle, I did not again join you.

I am positive in my recollections that General Barnard joined us after you had commenced your work, and after being informed of your orders and purposes. The circumstance was impressed upon my mind, as I subsequently heard it asserted by General Woodbury that General Barnard had selected the position and posted the troops on that field. I stated the foregoing facts to him in proof of his being mistaken in the matter.

Respectfully, your obedient servant,

HENRY J. HUNT,
Brigadier-General, Chief of Artillery,
[11. Late Commanding Artillery Reserve, Army of the Potomac.]
Colonel SHAFFER,
Chief of Staff:

The company of cavalry sent on reconnoissance to South Mills have returned. They went as far as the Pasquotank and report that no rebels have been in that section except four cavalrymen for the purpose of arresting some person expected from Norfolk with a pass. I have been unable to get any word to or from General Ledlie until 3.15 p. m. I have ordered General Ledlie to have the Ninety-eighth and Eighty-first [New York] at Norfolk to-morrow.*

C. A. HECKMAN,
Brigadier-General, Commanding.

ORANGE, N. J., February 22, 1864.

General A. A. HUMPHREYS,
Chief of Staff:

MY DEAR GENERAL: Yours of the 13th reached me on Saturday. It recalls to my memory circumstances which had passed from it, and I regret that it was not received at a much earlier day. I remember that instructions were given to you in regard to posting the troops at Malvern, and most distinctly the fact of your reporting to me as you state. I remember also that when I rode around the position in the morning, accompanied by general officers, I saw you and your party on my right (I was probably a couple of hundred yards outside of you) engaged in your work. The statement in my report that I gave the orders to Barnard was based chiefly on his report. My impression has been that you two acted in co-operation. I would be glad if you would tell me somewhat in detail the circumstances attending the giving of the orders to you at 2 a. m., that I may have everything possible to refresh my memory. I think I have in New York a memorandum in Colburn's handwriting of the chief events of that night, which I will look for to-morrow.

I would be glad to hear from you again as soon as practicable, that I may make the necessary correction in the second edition of the New York reprint of my report, and shall also be glad to make the necessary official correction.

I regret that a second case has thus occurred of unintentional error in regard to yourself.

With my kindest regards to General Meade, I am, general, very truly, yours,

GEO. B. McCLELLAN.

HEADQUARTERS SIXTH CORPS,
February 26, 1864.

Brigadier-General EUSTIS,
Commanding Second Division:

GENERAL: You will please have your command in readiness to move to-morrow morning with five days' rations (four on the person and one in wagons) and forty rounds of ammunition. One ambulance to a regiment will accompany the troops. None but the sick and weak men will be left as a camp guard. The picket-line now held by the corps will be occupied by troops from another corps. You will please have your pioneers organize to precede the column.

* This in reply to Shaffer's dispatch, Vol. XXXIII, p. 576.
CHAP. LXIII.

CORRESPONDENCE, ETC.—UNION.  1149

By command of Major-General Sedgwick:

M. T. McMahan,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

CIRCULAR.

HEADQUARTERS FIRST ARMY CORPS,
February 27, 1864.

This corps will be in readiness to move on short notice from to-morrow morning, with three days' rations in haversacks. Division commanders will at once give notice to their field officers of the picket to have them particularly on the alert for the enemy.

By command of Major-General Newton:

C. Kingsbury, Jr.,
Lieutenant-Colonel and Assistant Adjutant-General.

CIRCULAR.

HEADQUARTERS SECOND ARMY CORPS,
February 27, 1864.

From sunrise to-morrow the command will be held in readiness to move at short notice, with three days' rations in haversacks. Great vigilance will be enjoined on all officers commanding pickets.

By command of Major-General Warren:

Francis A. Walker,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

CIRCULAR.

HEADQUARTERS THIRD ARMY CORPS,
February 27, 1864.

The commanding officers of the Second and Third Divisions and Artillery Brigade will hold themselves in readiness to-morrow, February 28, 1864, and thereafter until further orders, to move at short notice with three days' rations in haversacks. Great vigilance will be enjoined upon the picket-lines. The corps staff will hold themselves in readiness to move without delay.

By command of Major-General French:

Jno. M. Norvell,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

ORDERS.

HEADQUARTERS SIXTH CORPS,
James City, Va., February 27, 1864.

This corps will move to-morrow in the direction of Madison Court-House, starting at 8 a.m., in the following order: Brigadier-General Russell, First Division, one battery; Colonel Tompkins, with the two other batteries; Brigadier-General Eustis, Second Division. The trains will follow the troops. General Eustis will detail a sufficient rear guard to protect and bring up the trains, and will direct his provost guard to march in rear of the division to bring up all stragglers.

By command of Major-General Sedgwick:

M. T. McMahan,
Assistant Adjutant-General.
Orders.

HEADQUARTERS SIXTH CORPS,
Robertson's River, March 1, 1864.

The corps will march to-morrow, starting at 7 a.m., in the direction of its former camp. General Eustis will take the advance with the trains of the corps following his advance brigade. Colonel Tompkins, with two batteries and the caissons of three, will follow General Eustis. General Wright, with one battery without its caissons, will bring up the rear. Care will be taken that all pickets and house guards are withdrawn in time.

By command of Major-General Sedgwick:

M. T. MCMAHON,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

HEADQUARTERS,
March 5, 1864.

Brig. Gen. C. A. HECKMAN,
Commanding near Suffolk, Va.:

Telegram received. Will have re-enforcements to you this evening. General Birney, with a regiment, will land within an hour at Portsmouth. You will be heavily re-enforced to-morrow with 2,000 of Kilpatrick's cavalry and Duncan's brigade.

BENJ. F. BUTLER,
Major-General, Commanding.

HEADQUARTERS,
March 5, 1864.

Brigadier-General BIRNEY,
At Wharf on Board Steamer Daniel Webster at Portsmouth, Va.:

An attack being threatened on our lines above Portsmouth, you will land your forces and proceed to report to Brigadier-General Heckman for orders. The exigencies of the service, in my judgment, demand this detention of your force.

BENJ. F. BUTLER,
Major-General, Commanding.

ON BOARD STEAMER FROM CHERRYSTONE TO FORTRESS MONROE,
March 5, 1864—1 p.m.

General BUTLER,
Commanding at Fortress Monroe, &c.:

GENERAL: I take the liberty to send you an account of a little matter that happened at Cherrystone this morning. I left my boat, the Iolas, at the light-house last evening, and came on shore on business; found the telegraph both ways out of order, and I had to remain at Cherrystone. Mr. Dunn, the telegraph operator, kindly furnished me with a sleeping place, and we sat up late, he having much business to attend to. We retired at about 3.30 a.m., and about an hour later we were all taken prisoners, including, I believe, six men of the guard on the wharf. We were kept till my boat came in, about 7 o'clock. They took possession of her and kept her till the Titan came in. They then exchanged boats, after taking all they wanted from my boat, and taking my bond for $10,000; took register and papers, flag, &c., with all my money, clothing, &c., and three of my (colored) crew, and before leaving injured the machinery so that my boat could not follow them. They paralyzed me with the balance of my crew; also the operator, who started for the nearest telegraph office. We don't know where that is, but he will find it, and I suppose send the news to Washington. By a quick moving of Mr. Dunn and his wife I believe none of the late official dispatches were taken. Mr. Dunn told me so as we parted. It was a perfect surprise. They burned all the commissary stores and set fire to the goods, but otherwise they behaved well toward us, they using no violence. The captain of the party happened to be the brother of an old friend of mine in the Pacific, named Fitzhugh. By that my boat was saved by the bond, &c. When the Titan left the wharf our cavalry were within a few hundred yards, but just in time to be too late. If you require any more particulars, send for me at Kimberly & Bros. The boat shakes so I cannot write.

Very respectfully, &c.,

WM. WEBSTER.

P. S.—They shot all the horses, six or eight, and took their riders off with them as prisoners. Mr. Dunn, the telegraph operator, and his wife behaved nobly.

[33.]

W. W.

HEADQUARTERS DEPARTMENT OF WEST VIRGINIA,
Cumberland, Md., March 13, 1864.

His Excellency the President of the United States,
Washington:

SIR: After having taken command of this department I feel it my duty and it affords me the greatest pleasure to thank you for the confidence you have shown to me. I do not know whether I shall meet your expectations and those of the loyal people of this State, but will try the best I can to do so.

With the assurance of my high respects, and with the sincerest wishes for your health and final success, I remain, your most obedient servant,

F. SIGEL,
Major-General.

[33.]

45. Brig. Gen. J. S. Wadsworth, U. S. Volunteers, will report in person to Major-General Meade, U. S. Volunteers, commanding Army of the Potomac, for assignment to duty, on or before the 26th instant.

By order of the Secretary of War:

E. D. TOWNSEND,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

WAR DEPARTMENT,
Washington City, March 18, 1864—3 p. m.

Major General HANCOCK,
Harrisburg:
You will report in person without delay to this Department, to receive instructions and join your corps in the field.

EDWIN M. STANTON,
Secretary of War.

[33.]

Digitized by Google
GENERAL ORDERS, } HEADQUARTERS SIXTH ARMY CORPS,
No. 10. } March 19, 1864.

Brig. Gen. George W. Getty, U. S. Volunteers, having reported at these headquarters, as directed in Special Orders, No. 70, headquarters Army of the Potomac, is assigned to the command of the Second Division, Sixth Army Corps.

By command of Major-General Sedgwick:

M. T. McMAHON,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

FORT MONROE, March 19, 1864.

General HECKMAN:

I have some intimation of an attack upon your lines, but not as soon as this. Be vigilant. The only danger is their turning you at Great Bridge.

BENJ. F. BUTLER,
Major-General, Commanding.

SPECIAL ORDERS, } WAR DEPT., ADJT. GENERAL'S OFFICE,
No. 123. } Washington, March 21, 1864.

By order of the Secretary of War:

E. D. TOWNSEND,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

SPECIAL ORDERS, } HDQRS. ARMY OF THE POTOMAC,
No. 75. } March 24, 1864.

8. In compliance with instructions which have been received from the War Department, Brig. Gen. J. C. Caldwell, U. S. Volunteers, is relieved from duty in the Army of the Potomac, and will report for instructions to the Adjutant-General of the Army.

11. In compliance with instructions which have been received from the War Department, Maj. Gen. A. Pleasonton, U. S. Volunteers, is relieved from duty in the Army of the Potomac, and will repair forthwith to Saint Louis, Mo., and report for duty to Major-General Rosecrans. Until further orders the command of the Cavalry Corps will devolve upon Brig. Gen. D. McM. Gregg.

By command of Major-General Meade:

S. WILLIAMS,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

---

GENERAL ORDERS, } HEADQUARTERS THIRD ARMY CORPS,
No. 26. } Brandy Station, March 24, 1864.

Having been detached from the Army of the Potomac in consequence of its reorganization into three corps, I desire to express the personal feelings of regret with which the order is received. The consolidation of the corps gives this army greater strength. The generals to command them are conspicuous for their gallantry and ability. Only known in the department where bullets whistle, there is a strong probability that I may soon meet in the field those brave soldiers with whom I have been so long associated with pride and distinction.

WM. H. FRENCH,
Major-General of Volunteers.

---

SPECIAL ORDERS, } HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE POTOMAC,
No. 76. } March 25, 1864.

4. Brig. Gen. James S. Wadsworth, U. S. Volunteers, having, in compliance with paragraph 45, Special Orders, No. 118, of March 15, 1864, from the War Department, reported for duty at these headquarters, will report for further instructions to the major-general commanding the Fifth Army Corps.

By command of Major-General Meade:

S. WILLIAMS,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

CULPEPER, March 28, 1864.

U. S. GRANT,
Lieutenant-General.
1154 MD., E. N. C., PA., VA., EXCEPT S. W., & W. VA. [CHAP. LXIII.

SPECIAL ORDERS, } WAR DEPT., ADJUT. GENERAL'S OFFICE,
No. 135. } Washington, April 2, 1864.

relieved from command of the Draft Rendezvous, Portland, Me. He will turn over his command to the next senior officer, and proceed without delay to headquarters Army of the Potomac, and report in person to Major-General Meade, commanding.

By order of the Secretary of War: E. D. TOWNSEND,
[33.] Assistant Adjutant-General.

SPECIAL ORDERS, } HDQRS. DEPT. OF WEST VIRGINIA,
No. 65. } Cumberland, Md., April 2, 1864.

1. Col. J. M. Campbell, Fifty-fourth Pennsylvania Volunteers, having reported at these headquarters after the completion of the duties to which he was assigned by Special Orders, No. 88, current series, War Department, will resume command of the First Brigade, Second Division, relieving Colonel McCaslin, Fifteenth Virginia Infantry, who will resume command of his regiment.

By order of Maj. Gen. F. Sigel: T. MELVIN,
[33.] Assistant Adjutant-General.

YORKTOWN, April 2, 1864.

Major-General BUTLER:

Rebel deserters and refugees, arrived last night, say that the enemy's cavalry and artillery has been removed from Charles City Court-House to Nance's Shop, which is ten miles above and nearer Richmond. There are no movements visible between James River and Chickahominy.
The roads in that direction are now extremely bad.

I. J. WISTAR,
Brigadier-General.

[SPECIAL ORDERS, } HDQRS. DEPT. OF VA. AND N. CAROLINA,
No. 93. } Fort Monroe, Va., April 3, 1864.

I. Brig. Gen. E. W. Hinks is assigned to the command of the Dis-

By command of Major-General Butler: HENRY T. SCHROEDER,
[33.] Lieutenant and Acting Assistant Adjutant-General.

EXECUTIVE MANSION,
Washington, April 7, 1864.

Major-General BUTLER:

Mrs. [Lincoln] and I think we will visit Fort Monroe some time next week. Meanwhile whatever is to be done on the business subject will be conducted through the War Department. Please do not make public our probable visit.

[33.]

A. LINCOLN.

SPECIAL ORDERS, No. 141. WAR DEPT., ADJUT. GENERAL'S OFFICE, Washington, April 7, 1864.

38. Brig. Gen. Charles Devens, U. S. Volunteers, is hereby relieved from the command of the depot for drafted men at Galloupe's Island, Boston Harbor, Mass. He will at once proceed on a tour of inspection through the Northern and Eastern States, with a view to pushing forward recruits and volunteer regiments to their commands in the field, especially men on furlough, under such instructions as he may receive from the War Department. He will from time to time report the result of his inspections.

By order of the Secretary of War:

E. D. TOWNSEND, Assistant Adjutant-General.

YORKTOWN, April 8, 1864.

Major-General BUTLER:

A small detachment of my cavalry just returned from King and Queen. Captured five large market boats. Destroyed some others, and dispersed a small party of rebel marines who were after our oyster schooners.

I. J. WISTAR, Brigadier-General.

SPECIAL ORDERS, No. 92. HDQRS. ARMY OF THE POTOMAC, April 9, 1864.

10. Three companies of the Fiftieth New York Volunteer Engineers are attached to each of the infantry corps of this army, and will report for duty accordingly with as little delay as practicable. Each detachment will be provided with a pontoon train, and will also have charge of the entrenching tools of the corps to which it is attached. These detachments of engineer troops will be inspected from time to time by officers to be detailed from these headquarters, in order to determine whether the trains are kept in an efficient condition.

15. The detachments of cavalry now on duty at the headquarters of infantry corps, divisions, and brigades, as orderlies and couriers, will be relieved by mounted infantry, to be selected by corps, division, and brigade commanders, upon the following basis, viz: At corps headquarters, one sergeant and ten privates; at division headquarters, one corporal and five privates; at brigade headquarters, three privates. The quartermaster's department will furnish the necessary horses and horse equipments to mount these detachments, and each man will be furnished with a pistol by the ordnance department. The foregoing arrangement will be carried into effect with the least practicable delay, and as soon as it is in working order all officers and men belonging to the cavalry now upon any duty whatever in infantry corps will rejoin their regiments. The commander of the Cavalry Corps will assign to the headquarters of each infantry corps one company cavalry of no less than fifty privates, to serve as an escort to the corps commander, and to perform such provost duties as may be required of mounted troops.

By command of Major-General Meade:

S. WILLIAMS,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

FORT MONROE, VA., April 10, 1864—1 p. m.

His Excellency A. LINCOLN,
President United States:

Shall I send a boat for yourself and party? If now, please telegraph me when you leave, or will arrive.

BENJ. F. BUTLER.

GETTY'S STATION, April 10, 1864—11.30 p. m.

Maj. Gen. B. F. BUTLER,
Commanding:

I think it possible to move a brigade to the Blackwater with artillery and wagons. Notwithstanding the quantity of water that has fallen, the roads are in better condition than they have been on several occasions since I have been at this post.

C. A. HECKMAN,
Brigadier-General.

WASHINGTON, D. C., April 11, 1864.

Within, Gen. BUTLER,
Fort Monroe, Va.:

Mrs. L. is so unwell that I now think we will not make the contemplated trip this week. Will notify you in time. Will probably get a boat here, but will accept yours if necessary. Thanks for your kind interest in the case.

A. LINCOLN.

SPECIAL ORDERS, No. 94.

3. The Tenth Regiment of New Jersey Volunteers, under orders to join this army from the Department of the Susquehanna, is assigned to the First Brigade, First Division, Sixth Army Corps, and will be reported accordingly on arriving here.

By command of Major-General Meade:

[33.]

S. WILLIAMS,
Assistant Adjutant-General

HDQRS. DEPT. OF VIRGINIA AND NORTH CAROLINA,
Fort Monroe, April 12, 1864.

Brigadier-General HECKMAN,

Near Portsmouth:

Your dispatch received. The commanding general directs that you send an expedition consisting of all your available force (except what is intended for General Graham) to Suffolk and, if possible, clean out the rebel force. Report condition of matters frequently.

J. W. SHAFFER,
Colonel and Chief of Staff.

APRIL 13, 1864.

Brigadier-General HECKMAN,

Gettys Line:

You will leave at Suffolk (of the force sent there last night) 1,000 infantry to march at daylight to-morrow morning on Milnerstown, leaving main body at that point with pickets out, sending scouting parties up and down the Western Branch as far as possible looking for small boats, and to cover a reconnaissance of navy in cutters. The scouting party will remain on branch until cutters get through scouring the branch, then return to and with the entire force.

J. W. SHAFFER,
Colonel and Chief of Staff.

GETTYS STATION, April 14, 1864.

Colonel SHAFFER,
Chief of Staff:

I have the honor to forward the following information just received from cavalry force: They arrived at Andrews’ Corners at daylight and sent out scouting parties toward Carrsville, Windsor, and Zuni. They report the road to Blackwater bridge blockaded so as to be impassable. Rebel troops seen across the Blackwater near Zuni. No rebel troops seen this side of the Blackwater. I also received information from Colonel Roberts, commanding District of Currituck, reporting the capture of Colonel Whitson, Eighth North Carolina (rebel) Infantry, last night. He is too badly wounded to be brought in at present.

C. A. HECKMAN,
Brigadier-General.

GENERAL ORDERS, } HDQRS. MILITARY COMMANDER,
No. 1. } Cumberland, Md., April 15, 1864.

I. In pursuance to Special Orders, No. 74, dated headquarters Department of West Virginia, April 12, 1864, I hereby assume military command of this city and vicinity.
III. First Lieut. and Adjt. W. H. Rose, Fifty-fourth Pennsylvania Volunteer Infantry, having been ordered to report, is hereby assigned to duty as adjutant at these headquarters.

J. M. CAMPBELL,
Colonel and Military Commandant.

[Indorsement on Hunt to Humphreys, April 16, 1864, printed in Vol. XXXIII, p. 880.]

CONFIDENTIAL.]

HDQRS. ARMY OF THE POTOMAC,
April 16, 1864.

Respectfully forwarded to the lieutenant-general commanding.

The within paper has been prepared under my instructions by the chief of artillery, Army of the Potomac, in anticipation of the contingency of having to besiege Richmond. To carry out the project will require an additional force of heavy artillery, either one or two regiments, the commanding officer of which should at once commence the preparation and accumulation of the materials here indicated. The detail of this force will require the orders of the lieutenant-general commanding, for which purpose this communication is transmitted. No orders have been given from these headquarters.*

GEO. G. MEADE,
Major-General, Commanding.

SPECIAL ORDERS,
Fort Monroe,
No. 108.

April 18, 1864.

VII. Brig. Gen. C. A. Heckman will have all his infantry excepting his best brigade in readiness to move to-morrow (Tuesday). He will have two or three regiments at Portsmouth in the morning. They will disembark at Newport News and march to Yorktown. Quartermaster's department will furnish water transportation for their camp and garrison equipage.

By command of Major-General Butler:
HENRY T. SCHROEDER,
Lieutenant and Acting Assistant Adjutant-General.

GENERAL ORDERS,
Headquarters U. S. Troops
At Yorktown and Gloucester Point,
No. 1.

April 21, 1864.

I. In obedience to paragraph I, Special Orders, No. 109, current series, of headquarters Department of Virginia and North Carolina, the undersigned hereby assumes command of the troops and camps of instruction at Yorktown and Gloucester Point.

II. Generals commanding divisions, commanding officers of brigades and regiments, unassigned, and officers of the general staff departments, will report in person at these headquarters.

WM. F. SMITH,
Major-General, Commanding.

*For General Grant's answer, see Vol. XXXIII, p. 889.
April 21, 1864.

Brigadier-General Heckman,

Getty's Line:

General Butler directs that you have one of your best regiments (preferably the Twenty-fifth Massachusetts) at Fort Ringgold wharf to-morrow morning at daylight to embark for North Carolina, with five days’ rations. Go through canal. Captain Shaffer, aide-de-camp, or General Graham will meet the regiment with orders at Croatan Light, where they will remain until they receive orders. Embark them with all possible dispatch. Acknowledge receipt.

J. W. Shaffer,

Colonel and Chief of Staff.

Special Orders, } WAR DEPT., ADJT. GENERAL’S OFFICE,
No. 155. } Washington, April 22, 1864.

13. The telegraphic order of April 20, 1864, from Headquarters of the Army, directing Brig. Gen. T. Seymour, U. S. Volunteers, to report to Major-General Dix, U. S. Volunteers, commanding Department of the East, for temporary duty, in inspecting and forwarding troops to the field, is hereby confirmed.

By order of the Secretary of War:

E. D. Townsend,

Assistant Adjutant-General.

Brigadier-General Ferrero,

Commanding Fourth Division:

GENERAL: Major-General Parke being unable from sickness to command the column in the morning, it will be directed by Brigadier-General Wilcox, to whom the commanding general desires you to report at his quarters in Annapolis at 7 a.m.

I have the honor to be, general, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

Lewis Richmond,

Assistant Adjutant-General.

Headquarters Second Cavalry Division,

April 23, 1864.

Col. J. Irvin Gregg,

Commanding Second Brigade, Second Division:

ColoNel: Information has just been sent me that the whole of Stuart’s cavalry is concentrated on the railroad near Fredericksburg. A deserter of the Thirteenth Virginia Cavalry, caught at Grove Church and sent to headquarters Cavalry Corps, confirms the report and says it is contemplated to surprise and capture the forces at Grove Church and Morrisville. You will send particular instructions to the commanding officer of the force at Morrisville to keep scouts well out, particularly toward Tackett’s Mill.

Yours, respectfully,

D. McM. Gregg,

XXIV. Brig. Gen. Charles K. Graham having been called away from Norfolk upon a delicate, arduous, and responsible duty, because of the demonstrations of the enemy in North Carolina, much to the regret of the general commanding, and at his own special request not to be retained in command at Norfolk when needed in the field, is relieved. Brig. Gen. George F. Shepley is assigned to the command of Norfolk and Portsmouth and its lines of defense.

By command of Major-General Butler:

H. T. SCHROEDER,

Lieutenant and Acting Assistant Adjutant-General.

---

VII. Brig. Gen. C. A. Heckman will move with his brigade, consisting of the Twenty-third, Twenty-fifth, and Twenty-seventh Massachusetts Volunteers, and the Ninth New Jersey Volunteers, to Yorktown. He will leave with the last regiment. Quartermaster's department will furnish transportation.

By command of Major-General Butler:

H. T. SCHROEDER,

Lieutenant and Acting Assistant Adjutant-General.

---

X. Col. R. M. West, First Pennsylvania Artillery, is hereby appointed acting brigadier-general, and will take command of the colored brigade of cavalry.

By command of Major-General Butler:

H. T. SCHROEDER,

Lieutenant and Acting Assistant Adjutant-General.

---

II. After this date, until further orders, the headquarters of this department will be in the field. Communications will be sent via Martinsburg, W. Va.

By order of Major-General Sigel:

T. MELVIN,

Assistant Adjutant-General.
Brigadier-General Stevenson,
Commanding First Division, Ninth Army Corps:

You will make your headquarters at or near Bealeton Station, guarding the road from Licking Run to Rappahannock Station. Strong regiment should be left on this side Rappahannock Station and a small one on this side of Licking Run. General Griffin has his headquarters at about one mile and a half from Rappahannock Station, on the north side of the road. He will turn over to you such instructions as he has given to his force, by which you can be governed as far as your own good judgment dictates. Your troops should not be placed as far from the road as his, and should be kept concentrated in defensible positions, relying on constant patrols to keep the road safe. Obstructions should be made at all your camps to prevent surprise to either your men or animals, by a sudden dash of the enemy. It is important that your troops should be distributed this forenoon, that General Griffin may be able to cross the Rappahannock at once.

Very respectfully,

A. E. BURNSIDE,
Major-General.

Please report by telegram [as] soon [as you] arrive at Bealeton.

[33.]

General WILLCOX,
Commanding Third Division, Ninth Army Corps:

GENERAL: You will please relieve all General Ayres' forces between this point and Licking Run, placing a strong guard at the Cedar Run and Licking Creek bridges. Have your officer follow the regulations adopted by General Ayres as to the patrols on the road until you can look into the matter yourself, when all will 'be left to your good judgment. I think an older regiment than the Sixtieth Ohio should be placed at Cedar Run. I will give you more cavalry in a day or two.

Truly, yours,

A. E. BURNSIDE,
Major-General.

It is important that the whole of Ayres' force should be off by 9 a.m. Please communicate with General Ayres at once, if necessary.

[33.]

SPECIAL ORDERS, } HDQRS. DEPT. OF VA. AND N. CAROLINA,
No. 124. } Fort Monroe, Va., May 4, 1864.

IV. Maj. Gen. J. J. Peck is hereby assigned to the command of the District of Saint Mary's. General Peck is hereby granted leave of absence for thirty days before assuming command of the district, on surgeon's certificate of disability.

By command of Major-General Butler:

H. T. SCHROEDER,

Lieutenant and Acting Assistant Adjutant-General.

SPECIAL ORDERS,

HDQRS. ARMY OF THE POTOMAC,

No. —

May 5, 1864.

Brigadier-General Seymour, U. S. Volunteers, having reported to the major-general commanding, is assigned to the command of a brigade in the Third Division, Sixth Corps. He will report accordingly.

By command of Major-General Meade:

S. WILLIAMS,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

SPECIAL ORDERS,

HDQRS. DEPT. OF VA. AND N. CAROLINA,

No. 128.

Fort Monroe, Va., May 8, 1864.

IV. Col. W. H. P. Steere, Fourth Rhode Island Volunteers, is hereby assigned, until further orders, to the command of all troops from the York to the James River, on the line from Gloucester Point to Jamestown Island.

By command of Major-General Butler:

H. T. SCHROEDER,

Lieutenant and Acting Assistant Adjutant-General.

GENERAL

HDQRS. DETACHMENT OF NINTH CORPS,

Ny River, near Gales' [Gayle's] House, Va.,

FIELD ORDERS.

May 10, 1864.

The brigadier-general commanding wishes to congratulate the troops on their fine conduct yesterday, the 9th of May, at this place. The Third Division in this action and that of the 6th instant in the Wilderness has begun its career handsomely. The Second Division, for the rapidity and gallantry with which it came up to the front, deserves great praise. Roemer's veteran battery has again signalized itself.
Among the old regiments, where all did gloriously, it would be difficult to signal out the one which distinguished itself most. Of the new regiments the Sixtieth Ohio, which led the attack finely, is entitled to honorable mention. It is to be hoped that one other new regiment will soon regain the good name it won on the 6th instant and came near losing yesterday. The officers and men of this regiment must rally on their pride. The names of officers and men who have particularly distinguished themselves will be hereafter collected from the reports to be made by regimental and brigade commanders.

By command of General Willcox:

W. V. RICHARDS,

Acting Assistant Adjutant-General.
SPECIAL ORDERS, HDQRS. ARMY OF THE POTOMAC, No. 137.
May 17, 1864.

1. The organization known as the Corcoran Legion (Tyler's division), Colonel Murphy commanding, consisting of the following regiments, viz, Sixty-ninth New York State Militia, One hundred and fifty-fifth, One hundred and sixty-fourth, and One hundred and seventieth New York Volunteers, is assigned to the Second Army Corps, and will be reported accordingly.

By command of Major-General Meade:

S. WILLIAMS,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

HEADQUARTERS TENTH ARMY CORPS,
In the Field, near Hatcher's, Va., May 17, 1864.

Maj. Gen. B. F. BUTLER,
Comdg. Dept. of Virginia and North Carolina,

GENERAL: I inclose you a document marked A,* which is a copy of the written order for me to fall back yesterday morning. It bears date 9.30. Lieutenant-Colonel Kensel, of your staff, delivered to me verbally the same order in substance. At the time the order was received, my command was moving to the right and front to connect with General Smith and strike the enemy in flank. My troops had been disposed for assault, and the head of Turner's column had already been hotly engaged. Three assaults upon Hawley's brigade of Terry's division had been successfully repulsed and my command was moving to the attack in accordance with your orders and the discretion left with me by your indorsement on my dispatch of 7.25 a.m. As soon as I got the order to fall back I stopped advancing and made dispositions accordingly, selecting the two roads between railroad and pike to retire in. I then sent you the following dispatch:

I am falling back on two roads between railroad and pike.

During the hour subsequent to the time when I received the first order to fall back I received several urgent dispatches from your headquarters, some written and some verbal, directing me to hurry my retrograde movement, all based upon erroneous reports of the movements of the enemy elsewhere. You charged me yesterday with having commenced falling back without orders, while in fact several peremptory orders to retire were sent me, and when I got the first one I was advancing to the attack with no intention of retiring; was at the time hotly engaged with the enemy and gaining ground every moment. I have little doubt if that attack had been pressed that General Smith would have been entirely relieved and that we could have held our position and saved all our wounded. My command never yielded a foot of ground except under your order to retire. All I ask is equal and exact justice for myself and command, and I therefore respectfully request at your hands such action as the facts of the case not only justify but demand, and as will effectually prevent the circulation of false and injurious reports. I am preparing a full report of the operations of my command since we left the intrenchments on the 12th instant, which I will submit to you when finished.

I have the honor to be, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

Q. A. GILLMORE,
Major-General, Commanding.

HEADQUARTERS TENTH ARMY CORPS,
Hatcher's Run, Va., May 17, 1864.

Maj. Gen. Q. A. GILLMORE, U. S. Volunteers,
Commanding Tenth Army Corps:

GENERAL: In relation to the order for the corps to fall back from the position occupied by it at 8 a. m. on the 16th instant, it was received during the time the troops were moving by their right flank to the support of General Brooks' division on the right of General Turner's position. I have a very clear recollection of Lieutenant-Colonel Kensel (of General Butler's staff) having made use in substance of the following language when he handed a written paper to you: You can retire by two roads until you strike the pike in rear of General Smith's command; you will then hold the road from the pike to the intrenchments. This order, to the best of my recollection, was given at the house used by the medical department as a hospital and by you as your headquarters, and before any troops of the Tenth Corps had marched to the rear. The impression left on my mind by the conversation with Colonel Kensel was that the enemy were endeavoring to turn the right flank of the army and cut us off from the intrenchments and that you were ordered to the rear and right of General Smith's corps to prevent this. During the conversation on this subject between General Butler and you yesterday, I understood Colonel Kensel to assent in emphatic terms to the correctness of the foregoing statement.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

R. H. JACKSON,

HDQRS. VOLUNTEER ENGINEERS, TENTH ARMY CORPS,
In the Field, Va., May 17, 1864.

Maj. Gen. Q. A. GILLMORE,
Commanding Tenth Corps:

GENERAL: I have the honor to state that yesterday morning, just after breakfast, while you were standing in the yard of the house that was occupied as headquarters Tenth Army Corps, an officer of Major-General Butler's staff, of the rank of captain and who I afterward learned was Captain Kensel, came to you and in substance said that it was General Butler's order that you retire with the whole of the

* See Vol. XXXVI, Part II, p. 34.
Tenth Army Corps upon the turnpike and cover General Smith, and said it was to be done as quickly as possible. This was after you had given General Terry orders to advance and very soon after Colonel Shaffer had given you orders from General Butler to move the whole corps to the right to fill the gaps in General Smith's line and get in between General Smith and the enemy, which movement was in progress. You immediately, and in presence of Captain Kensel, asked me respecting the roads by which this movement could be made, and it was the first that I heard of any intention of any one to retire any part of the Tenth Corps. We were then pressing the enemy vigorously, and had no occasion to retire except to comply with the order.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

EDWARD W. SERRELL,
Colonel of Engineers, New York Volunteers.

SPECIAL ORDERS,
HDQRS. ARMY OF THE POTOMAC,
No. 139.
May 19, 1864.

3. Tyler's division, consisting of the First Maine, First Massachusetts, Second, Seventh, and Eighth Regiments New York Heavy Artillery, and the Thirty-sixth Regiment of Wisconsin Infantry, is assigned to the Second Army Corps and will be reported accordingly.

By command of Major-General Meade:

S. WILLIAMS,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

SPECIAL ORDERS,
HDQRS. FOURTH DIV., 5TH ARMY CORPS,
No. —.
In the Field, May 22, 1864.

1. Col. J. W. Hofmann, Fifty-sixth Pennsylvania Volunteers, is hereby assigned to command the Second Brigade of this division.

By command of Brigadier-General Cutler:

R. MONTEITH,
Captain and Acting Assistant Adjutant-General.

HDQRS. DEPT. OF WASHINGTON, 22D ARMY CORPS,

Col. C. R. LOWELL,
Commanding Cavalry Brigade:

COLONEL: The major-general commanding directs that you draw in your command toward Washington, occupying the line indicated by Springfield Station, Falls Church, and Lewinsville. You will make your own headquarters at Falls Church. Order the One hundred and fifty-seventh Pennsylvania Volunteers to report to Brig. Gen. J. P. Slough, military governor of Alexandria. Be pleased to see that, in moving, all Government property may be duly cared for and brought in. The railroad will not be guarded beyond Springfield Station.

I am, colonel, very respectfully, your most obedient servant,

J. H. TAYLOR,
Chief of Staff and Assistant Adjutant-General.
1166  MD., E. N. C., PA., VA., EXCEPT S. W., & W. VA. [CHAP. LXIII.

SPECIAL ORDERS, } Hdqrs. Army of the Potomac,
   No. 143. } May 21, 1864.

3. The Ninth New York Heavy Artillery is assigned to duty with the Sixth Army Corps, and will be reported accordingly.

By command of Major-General Meade:

S. WILLIAMS,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

SPECIAL ORDERS, } Headquarters Fifth Army Corps,
   No. —. } May 29, 1864.

3. The following assignments are hereby ordered and will report to the brigade commanders to which they are assigned at 4 a.m. tomorrow, the 30th instant:

By command of Major-General Warren:

S. M. MORGAN,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

SPECIAL ORDERS, } Hdqrs. Army of the Potomac,
   No. 147. } May 30, 1864.

2. Lieut. Col. J. A. Monroe, First Rhode Island Artillery, is temporarily assigned as chief of artillery of the Ninth Corps. He will at once take charge of it and place it in as efficient condition as practicable. Each of the rifle batteries of the corps will be reduced to four guns, but will retain its six caissons. The horses thus rendered disposable will be so distributed as to horse the batteries as equally as possible. The ammunition in the limbers of the guns sent back will be retained. The surplus guns and harness will be sent to the White House by the first empty wagons going to the rear, and will be shipped by the first opportunity to Washington Arsenal. Lieutenant-Colonel Monroe will report to Brigadier-General Hunt for further instructions.

By command of Major-General Meade:

S. WILLIAMS,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

SPECIAL ORDERS, } Hdqrs. Army of the Potomac,
   No. 152. } June 4, 1864.

12. The Second Pennsylvania and Tenth New York Regiments of Heavy Artillery are assigned to the Eighteenth Army Corps, and will at once be reported to Maj. Gen. W. F. Smith, commanding that corps.

By command of Major-General Meade:

S. WILLIAMS,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

40. Brig. Gen. H. L. Eustis, U. S. Volunteers, having reported at this office in compliance with instructions from Lieutenant-General Grant, will repair to Cambridge, Mass., where he will remain until he receives further orders.

By order of the Secretary of War:

E. D. TOWNSEND,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

HDQRS. DEPARTMENT OF VIRGINIA AND NORTH CAROLINA, Near Point of Rocks, June 16, 1864.

Maj. Gen. Q. A. GILLMORE, U. S. Army, Near Hatcher’s, Va.:

GENERAL: I find I did not make myself understood. I was instructed by the major-general commanding to say to you that his chief of staff would distribute the medals of honor for you according to your directions if you would forward them to him. He also informed me that he was impelled to make this suggestion because the troops were too widely scattered. Some are before Petersburg; some are in the hospital; some are in the trenches; some are on picket; some were at the time on the railroad tearing it up before the enemy; and some were skirmishing before the enemy; therefore he designed that the distribution should be made in your name and by you, and offered you the instrumentality of his chief of staff to do so. He by no means intends to refuse you the privilege of the distribution, but suggested the mode by which it might be done.

I have the honor to be, very respectfully, &c.,

JAS. R. SHAFFER,
Captain and Aide-de-Camp.

BERMUDA HUNDRED, VA., June 17, 1864.

Capt. P. A. DAVIS,
Assistant Adjutant-General:

SIR: I have the honor to report, as general officer of the day for the preceding twenty-four hours ending with last evening, as follows: First, Major Greeley with detachment of 300 men of his, the Tenth Regiment Connecticut Volunteers, had command on the right of picket-line; Major Abraham, Eighty-fifth Pennsylvania Volunteers, on the center, with detachments from his regiment and the convalescent camp, consisting of 300 men; and Captain Thompson, Seventh Connecticut Volunteers, with 349 men of his regiment, on the left. I remained with the picket-line all of the night of the 15th instant. Second. Early in the night, after entering on my tour of duty, I became satisfied that an increased number of troops were to our immediate front, but no unusual indications were manifested until about 1 a. m., when a good deal of activity on the part of the enemy became apparent. From 1.30 a. m. for an hour and a half active movements were going on in the enemy’s lines, movements of artillery and infantry, which facts were communicated to division headquarters as soon as practicable. This movement covering my entire front, I supposed it to be troops passing from the direction of Richmond toward Petersburg; but at the same time, fearing that it might be a concentration of troops against our position, I gave orders to have the entire picket force form under arms in readiness to meet any demonstration the enemy might make. At 3 a.m. the indications of activity to our front had not abated, but before break of day it was announced to me that the enemy's pickets in the rifle-pits to the front of Battery No. 3 had been withdrawn. I immediately ordered a reconnaissance. Corporal —— (I have been unable to get his name), of Company ——, Seventh Regiment Connecticut, volunteered to take command of a squad of men and ascertain what had become of the enemy. He soon occupied their earth-works, and indicated to me that the same were abandoned by them. I immediately ordered forward small parties at different points to the front of our picket-line, with instructions to proceed cautiously but far enough to determine whether the enemy had abandoned their works or not, and if so to take them. Upon being advised that no force was in our immediate front, I ordered the picket-line forward so as to occupy their earth-works in the open field to the front of Battery No. 3, and advanced a line of skirmishers from that point to the right of the picket-line to the Howlett house. This line of skirmishers engaged the enemy's pickets on the right of our line, taking as prisoners 3 officers and 26 men, with 30 stand of small-arms. Three other prisoners were taken by this skirmish line toward the left. At this juncture General Foster came onto the line of the enemy's works, and of subsequent operations has personal knowledge. I ought not to dismiss this subject without returning my thanks to the officers having command of the several detachments on the picket-line for their prompt efforts to occupy the rebel works and their great vigilance. I would like to mention the conduct of two or three non-commissioned officers, but have been unable to get reports from the officers on the center and left. I think no injustice will be done to the other officers in saying that Major Greeley, Tenth Connecticut Volunteers, was very prompt and energetic in the discharge of his duty, especially during the night and early morning before re-enforcements arrived. It really gives me pleasure to say that he gave evidence of being a very meritorious officer. Third. I only learned of one casualty, an enlisted man of the Tenth Connecticut Volunteers, wounded.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

A. C. VORIS,
Colonel and General Officer of the Day.

BERMUDA HUNDRED, VA., June 17, 1864.

Maj. Gen. Q. A. GILLMORE, U. S. Volunteers:

At your request I have the honor to make the following statement: On the 16th of May last, while the Tenth Army Corps was retiring from its position near Drewry's Bluff, I was present at an interview between Major-General Butler and yourself. Lieutenant-Colonel Kensel, assistant inspector-general of the Department of Virginia and North Carolina, was called by General Butler and asked concerning an order delivered by him to you from General Butler on that morning. Lieutenant-Colonel Kensel stated that he delivered to you a verbal order from General Butler to fall back behind General Smith. I asked him where this order was delivered, and whether it was at the building used for a hospital, where your headquarters were. He answered, "Yes." I can also state, of my own knowledge, being with you at the time, that your dispatch to General Butler, stating, "I am falling back on two roads between the railroad and pike," was written after you had left the hospital and before any portion of your command had actually retired from line of battle. I made a memorandum of a part of the facts above stated on the day on which the events occurred.
CHAP. LXIII.]

CORRESPONDENCE, ETC.—UNION. 1169

I have the honor to be, respectfully, &c.,

ED. W. SMITH,

Lieutenant-Colonel and Assistant Adjutant-General.

SPECIAL ORDERS,} WAR DEPT., ADJT. GENERAL'S OFFICE,
No. 215. } Washington, June 21, 1864.

53. Brig. Gen. J. White, U. S. Volunteers, is hereby relieved from the command of the Draft Rendezvous at Springfield, Ill., and will report in person without delay to the commanding general Army of the Potomac for assignment to duty.

By order of the Secretary of War:

E. D. TOWNSEND,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

HDQRS. FIRST BRIG., SECOND DIV., TENTH ARMY CORPS,

July 1, 1864.

Capt. ISRAEL R. SEALY,

Acting Assistant Adjutant-General:

SIR: In compliance with orders of this date I have the honor to report the following disposition of the troops under my command in preparing for the assault ordered for last evening, viz: The Third New York Volunteers in the advanced rifle-pits, with their left resting on the oak grove; the One hundred and seventeenth New York Volunteers on the right of the Third New York Volunteers, with their right resting on the cedar hedge at the race course; the One hundred and forty-second New York Volunteers in support of the Third New York Volunteers, posted in the communication to the rifle-pits on the left of the redan and in the first line of works to the left of the redan; the One hundred and twelfth New York Volunteers in support of the One hundred and seventeenth New York Volunteers, and posted in the first line on the right of the redan; 100 men of the One hundred and twelfth New York Volunteers armed, each man carrying a shovel and pickax in rear of and to follow Colonel Barton's assaulting column. These dispositions were made by 5 p.m., and I took my position in the advanced line of rifle-pits awaiting the developments on the left of my line. At about 7 p.m. I received orders to resume my position behind the breast-works.

I am, sir, respectfully, your most obedient servant,

N. M. CURTIS,

Colonel, Commanding Brigade.

SPECIAL ORDERS,} WAR DEPT., ADJT. GENERAL'S OFFICE,
No. 226. } Washington, July 2, 1864.

4. Brig. Gen. James Barnes, U. S. Volunteers, is hereby relieved from duty as a member of the general court-martial instituted by 74 R R—VOL LI, PT I
Special Orders, No. 122, and will proceed without delay to Point Lookout, Md., and assume command of the prisoners' camp at that place.

By order of the Secretary of War:

E. D. TOWNSEND,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

FREDERICK, MD., July 6, 1864.

Capt. MAX. WOODHULL,
Assistant Adjutant-General:

CAPTAIN: I was at Middletown (eight miles from here) this morning with about fifty men. The rebs being in the houses, &c., we had to fall back. Had several men shot. The enemy was not in force, but state that a large portion of Ewell's corps are in the neighborhood of Boonsborough. No citizens are allowed to come this way, and our information is therefore scant. Have heard nothing from General Sigel since 12 p.m. No serious attempt had been made to take the Heights, but the enemy were encamped in force in Harper's Ferry and vicinity. I have been placed in command of the trains here (300 wagons) and all troops coming, and have started the train for Baltimore this morning with an escort of 200 cavalry. I have established a camp for stragglers near here, and have on hand about 500 or 600 men and several hundred horses. I will keep posted and try to take care of them, reporting at all times to you.

Respectfully, your obedient servant,

JNO. I. YELLOTT,
Major, Commanding Post, and Provost-Marshal.

FREDERICK, July 6, 1864—11.10 a. m.

Major-General WALLACE:

Force sent out by you this morning are being forced back. If possible, send up re-enforcements.

J. I. YELLOTT,
Major, Commanding.

HEADQUARTERS,
Monocacy, July 6, 1864.

Major YELLOTT,
Frederick, Md.:

SIR: I am directed by Major-General Wallace to request, should it become necessary by the operations of the enemy for you to evacuate Frederick, that you will fall back on the Baltimore pike, holding with your whole force the eastern bank of the Monocacy. Before taking up this position please communicate with these headquarters.

I am, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

MAX. WOODHULL,
Captain and Assistant Adjutant-General.

The general wishes you to understand that Frederick is not to be evacuated unless absolutely necessary.

M. W.
Major-General WALLACE:

The sick are here and stores all gone.

JNO. I. YELLOTT,
Major, &c.

FREDERICK, July 6, 1864.

Brig. Gen. E. B. TYLER:

Have had a small fight at Middletown. Force there not strong, but say they are the advance of a strong body. Return my cavalry at once.

J. I. YELLOTT,
Commanding Post.

FREDERICK, July 6, 1864.

HEADQUARTERS,
Monocacy, July 7, 1864.

Brig. Gen. E. B. TYLER,
Commanding First Separate Brigade:

You will get the One hundred and forty-ninth Ohio National Guard under arms at once, and proceed with them to Frederick City to-night. Assume command there.

By command of Major-General Wallace:

MAX. WOODHULL,
Captain and Assistant Adjutant-General.

HEADQUARTERS,
Near Frederick, July 7, 1864—4 p. m.

General TYLER,
Monocacy, Md.:

The enemy have opened fire, and we are replying. We have sent all the horses we can obtain. Can you send all my regiment to me?

CHAS. GILPIN,
Colonel, Commanding.

FREDERICK, July 7, 1864—5 p. m.

(Received 6 p. m.)

Brigadier-General TYLER,
Monocacy, Md.:

GENERAL: The enemy are pressing us, and the Eighth Illinois Cavalry have expended nearly all their ammunition. The telegraph operator has run away. What shall we do in the emergency?

CHAS. GILPIN,
Colonel, Commanding.

FREDERICK, July 7, 1864.

General TYLER:

We have taken position on the hill west of town; the enemy in full view, and have plenty to do. They are supposed about 800 strong.

CHAS. GILPIN,
Colonel.
Brigadier-General Tyler,

Monocacy, Md.:

GENERAL: Unless we are re-enforced immediately, both in men and ammunition, we will be forced to fall back on Monocacy. We are threatened on our left. The enemy are moving to our left and trying to get onto the National road.

Very respectfully, yours, &c.,

CHAS. GILPIN.

P. S.—Send ammunition by all means for infantry, artillery, and Sharps carbines. Our men fight well.

[37.]

General: Unless we are re-enforced immediately, both in men and ammunition, we will be forced to fall back on Monocacy. We are threatened on our left. The enemy are moving to our left and trying to get onto the National road.

Very respectfully, yours, &c.,

CHAS. GILPIN.

P. S.—Send ammunition by all means for infantry, artillery, and Sharps carbines. Our men fight well.

[37.]

President:

Colonel Gilpin:

Upon your arrival at Frederick assume command of the post and organize your forces as far as possible. Should it become necessary to evacuate Frederick you will fall back upon the Baltimore pike and hold the crossing of the Monocacy at all hazards. You will report to the general commanding all movements of the enemy and of our forces.

By order of Major-General Wallace:

MAX. WOODHULL,

Captain and Assistant Adjutant-General.

[37.]

Colonel Gilpin:

You have behaved nobly. Compliment Lieutenant-Colonel Clendenin and Captain Alexander for me. Endeavor to hold your ground. At 1 p.m. to night 8,000 veteran troops will be here. Send in the particulars of the fight and list of your casualties. Make no movement to drive the enemy from your front. Let them remain where they are and I will endeavor to put a force in their rear to-night. Keep me constantly informed.

By order of Major-General Wallace:

MAX. WOODHULL,

Captain and Assistant Adjutant-General.

[37.]

General:

I met the enemy in about equal force halfway between here and Middletown and drove them half a mile, when they rallied and held their position, and finally drove us back to this pass. They received re-enforcements and had an equal number of guns and heavier caliber. Re-enforcements still come in from the direction of Boonsborough, and they look like infantry in the distance. I can hold this position against a pretty heavy force, if they do not flank me. A detachment of cavalry move over to our left, which I am watching. I will keep you informed of what occurs.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

D. R. CLENDENIN,
Lieutenant-Colonel, Commanding.

I have lost several men wounded, none killed.

D. R. C.

[37.]

FREDERICK, July 7, 1864.

Major-General WALLACE:

I have abandoned the pass. Am falling back toward Frederick. A strong skirmish line of at least 250 men advanced on my skirmishers, which I could not spare force to meet and protect my flanks at the same time. A mounted force of at least a squadron moved to the left and an equal force to the right to turn my flanks. I will report anything that may occur. I think a force has gone through on Harper's Ferry pike. I will be in Frederick in two hours.

D. R. CLENDENIN,
Lieutenant-Colonel, Commanding.

[37.]

FREDERICK, July 7, 1864.

Colonel CLENDENIN:

I have no ammunition for Sharps carbines. If there is any danger of the force getting out of ammunition, it must retire by all means while you have enough to retire on. I have sent directions to Colonel Gilpin to send out mounted men by Baltimore pike to see if enemy are trying to cut off line of retreat. If so, to retire by way of Monocacy Station.

By order of Major-General Wallace:

MAX. WOODHULL,
Captain and Assistant Adjutant-General.

Consult Colonel Gilpin immediately.

[37.]

FREDERICK, July 7, 1864.

Major-General WALLACE:

Just returned from a night's scout. Drove in about 100 rebels at Middletown. Am confident that the force in Maryland does not exceed 500 marauders.

JNO. I. YELLOTT,
Major, Commanding.
Lieutenant-Colonel CATLIN:

Put the Eleventh Maryland Infantry on the cars that brought up the New Jersey regiment, and send them over here, with orders to march through the city to the western part of the town without halting. Instruct the commanding officer of the next troops that pass through Monocacy upon his arrival at Frederick to disembark his men and march them through to the west side of the town without halting or allowing his men to straggle, where the other regiment of the Home Brigade is in bivouac. Use the company now on picket at Monocacy as guard to block-house. Send forward all troops that are ordered to me as soon as they arrive.

By order of Major-General Wallace:

MAX. WOODHULL,

Captain and Assistant Adjutant-General.

FREDERICK, July 8, 1864—p. m.

Lieutenant-Colonel CATLIN:

Detain any and all troops that may arrive at your station until this engagement is over.

[37.]

LEW. WALLACE,

Major-General.

MONOCACY, July 8, 1864—7.05 p. m.

Major-General WALLACE:

Three deserters from the rebels have arrived, who report that Breckinridge has some 12,000 men marching in direction of Harper's Ferry. I am also informed that a rebel advance is on the Buckeystown road. If I had one or two cavalrymen I could use them. The enemy is on the road between Point of Rocks and Berlin in strong force. They seem to be moving this way.

[37.]

L. CATLIN,

Lieutenant-Colonel, Commanding Post

FREDERICK, MD., July 8, 1864.

Major-General WALLACE,

Monocacy, Md.:

GENERAL: I have the One hundred and forty-ninth [Ohio] in the position occupied by the enemy yesterday, relieving Colonel Gilpin's regiment, which had been pushed forward about daylight this a. m., the enemy having fallen back during the night to the mountain. They are showing a small force about halfway down this side of the mountain and advancing an extended skirmish line. They have received re-enforcements, I learn. Their movements indicate a disposition to fight at no very distant hour. I cannot judge, from anything I see, of their strength. Their skirmishers are opening upon my advance this moment. We have plenty of ammunition for small-arms and for the artillery at present. Will notify you of deficiency as it occurs. The rebels here are jubilant this morning and anxious to get to the front. Are you putting a force in the rear of the enemy? I think something might be accomplished if that could be done. Captain Alexander wishes to have his forge sent him this morning, and requests another gun if it can be spared. Some of his horses are disabled by throwing their shoes. I left my glass. Can you send it? Will keep you posted.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

E. B. TYLER.

JULY 8, 1864.

Major-General WALLACE,
Commanding:

GENERAL: The enemy are moving a battery and re-enforcements to their right against our left. He has not crossed the river, but it can be crossed. I have sent a force to Urbana to watch the approach from Buckeystown. Urbana is three miles from me, and I learn Buckeystown is the same distance from Urbana.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

D. R. CLENDENIN,
Lieutenant-Colonel, &c.

[Indorsement on Halleck to Howe, July 8, 1864, printed in Vol. XXXVII, Part II, p. 123.]

This dispatch was destroyed by operator at Monocacy on that place being attacked by the rebels before he had opportunity of sending it by courier to Harper's Ferry.

HEADQUARTERS,
Monocacy, July 9, 1864.

General Ricketts:

GENERAL: I am instructed by the general commanding to direct you to move your whole command to the left of the railroad, with your front to the Monocacy, with a view of guarding the approaches on the Washington road. You will establish your picket-line as you may deem best suited to attain this object, connecting on your right and left with the line of Brig. Gen. E. B. Tyler. The men will move to the position within indicated at once; your pickets will then be established. You will provide your command with three days' rations. No citizen within your lines will be permitted to leave them without a written pass from your headquarters. Citizens will only be admitted to give information touching the movements of the enemy. You will make to these headquarters a morning field return of your command. You will also report by regiments the number of rounds of ammunition per man in your division. You will report the means of transportation in your command.

MAX. WOODHULL,
Aide-de-Camp.

HEADQUARTERS THIRD DIVISION, SIXTH CORPS,
July 9, 1864—12 m.

Maj. Gen. LEWIS WALLACE,
Commanding, &c.:

GENERAL: The information contained in the first portion of your note seems to be correct. I have sent out four regiments under charge of an officer well acquainted with the country to meet the column of the enemy reported advancing. I will make the best disposition I can to resist their advance. I think all the artillery should be on the left of the road at present, as there seems to be no further necessity for it on our right.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

JAMES B. RICKETTS,
Brigadier-General, Commanding.

HEADQUARTERS THIRD DIVISION, SIXTH ARMY CORPS,
July 9, 1864.

Major-General WALLACE,
Commanding, &c.:

I have ordered my skirmishers withdrawn across the bridge. Shall I merely tear up the planking, or destroy the bridge by fire? The skirmishers are withdrawn in accordance with your directions.

JAMES B. RICKETTS,
Brigadier-General.

[37.]

General WALLACE:
They have a battery now which enfilades my flank. Cavalry in my rear. What shall I do?

JAS. B. RICKETTS,
Brigadier-General.

[37.]

General RICKETTS:

GENERAL: I see them advancing a heavy line between you and the hill, chiefly on the river side. Hold the crest if the cannonading is not too enfilading.

LEW. WALLACE,
Major-General, Commanding.

July 9, 1864.

HEADQUARTERS,
Monocacy, July 9, 1864.

General TYLER:

GENERAL: I am instructed by the general commanding to direct you to encamp your command on the right of the railroad, with your front to the Monocacy. You will establish your picket-line as you may deem best, connecting on your right and left with the line of Brigadier-General Ricketts. The men will move to the position within indicated at once. Your pickets will then be established. You will provide your command with three days’ rations. No citizen within your lines will be permitted to leave them without a written pass from your headquarters. Citizens will be admitted within your lines only to give information touching the movements of the enemy. You will make to these headquarters a morning field return of your command. You will make requisition on the ordnance officer for ammunition as you may need it.

MAX. WOODHULL,
Assistant Adjutant-General.
HEADQUARTERS,
Monocacy, Md., July 9, 1864—2.30 p. m.

COMDG. OFFICER DETACH. SIXTH ARMY CORPS, PLANE NO. 1:

Hurry up your troops; I am greatly in need of them. Fighting still going on. The enemy outnumber us.

LEW. WALLACE,
Major-General, Commanding.

P. S.—Send train of empty cars; also telegraph operator.

L. W.

HEADQUARTERS,
Ellicott's Mills, July 10, 1864.

Brigadier-General Ricketts:

GENERAL: You will detach two regiments of your division temporarily to proceed by rail to the Relay House, to place that post in a defensible condition. They will find intrenching tools there. The commanding officer of detachment will report to you and receive all orders through your headquarters. With the remainder of your division you will take post for the present at this village, and make every possible effort to retard the enemy should he march upon Baltimore or the Relay House. Captain Alexander's battery will be ordered to report to you. You will have immediate requisition made for ammunition for his guns. Lieutenant-Colonel Clendenin with four companies of his command will be ordered to report to you for duty.

LEW. WALLACE.

JULY 11, 1864.

Brigadier-General Hardin,
Fort Reno:

I have drawn out the forces about five miles. I think they are 1,200 or 1,500 strong. Am gradually falling back.

C. R. Lowell, Jr.,
Colonel Second Massachusetts Cavalry.

SPECIAL ORDERS,

HDQRS. DEPT. OF WASHINGTON,
TWENTY-SECOND ARMY CORPS,
Washington, D. C., July 12, 1864.

5. Pursuant to instructions from Headquarters of the Army, Maj. Gen. A. Doubleday is hereby detailed to organize and command the Loyal Leagues of Washington City.

By command of Major-General Augur:

C. H. Raymond,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

FORT RENO, July 12, 1864—9 a. m.

Col. C. R. Lowell, Jr.:

If you are forced back, make a stand at the picket station (infantry) if possible. But look out for the enemy's cavalry on your right.

J. M. Warner,
Colonel First Vermont Artillery, Commanding Brigade.
WAR DEPARTMENT,
July 13, 1864.

Brig. Gen. M. D. HARDIN:

GENERAL: If any cavalry reports at Tennallytown belonging to Lowell's command, send it on to overtake General Wright and report to him.

Respectfully,

J. H. TAYLOR,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

SPECIAL ORDERS, \( \text{WAR DEPT., ADJT. GENERAL'S OFFICE,} \)
No. 251.

40. Maj. Henry R. Dalton, assistant adjutant-general of volunteers, will report in person without delay to Major-General Wright, U. S. Volunteers, commanding Sixth Army Corps, for assignment to duty.

47. Capt. Daniel D. Wheeler, assistant adjutant-general of volunteers, will report in person without delay to Major-General Wright, U. S. Volunteers, commanding Sixth Army Corps, for assignment to duty with Brigadier-General Upton, U. S. Volunteers.

By order of the Secretary of War:

E. D. TOWNSEND,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

WASHINGTON, D. C., July 30, 1864—1 p. m.

Major-General HUNTER,
Harper's Ferry:

Wright's and Crook's commands should immediately move toward Emmitsburg. They must make a night march. Emory will be sent toward Frederick to form a junction with you. If the enemy moves from Chambersburg toward Harrisburg, you will be nearly on his rear; if toward Baltimore, you will have the inner flank.

H. W. HALLECK,
Major-General and Chief of Staff.

SPECIAL ORDERS, \( \text{HDQRS. DEPT. OF VA. AND N. CAROLINA,} \)
No. 223.

In the Field, Va., August 15, 1864.

XIV. Colonel Wright, Tenth U. S. Colored Troops, will report in person early to-morrow morning to Brig. Gen. C. J. Paine, commanding Third Division, Eighteenth Army Corps, to take command of the Second Brigade of that division.

By command of Major-General Butler:

R. S. DAVIS,
Major and Assistant Adjutant-General.

SPECIAL ORDERS, \( \text{HDQRS. DEPARTMENT OF WEST VIRGINIA,} \)
No. 151.

In the Field, August 19, 1864.

By order of Brevet Major-General Crook:

[JAS. L. BOTSFORD,]

Assistant Adjutant-General.

---

GENERAL ORDERs, \{ HDQRS. EIGHTEENTH ARMY CORPS, \}

No. 108. \{ In the Field, Va., August 25, 1864. \}

The circular from these headquarters, dated June 7, 1864, is revised to read as follows: The following explanation of the badges for this corps is given for the information of this command: The general commanding corps and his staff will wear a blue cross of the pattern prescribed, with two triangles, one white and the other red, crossing each other in the center of the cross, the red triangle uppermost, suspended by a tri-colored ribbon.

First Division.—The general commanding division will wear the red cross, with a triangle in the center, the sides of which shall be white, suspended by a tri-colored ribbon.

Second Division.—The general commanding division and his staff will wear the white cross, with a triangle in the center, the sides of which shall be of blue enamel, suspended by a tri-colored ribbon.

Third Division.—The general commanding division and staff will wear the blue cross, with a triangle in the center, the sides of which shall be white, suspended by a tri-colored ribbon. Brigade commanders and their staffs will wear the same cross and ribbon as worn by their respective divisions, but without the triangle, the number of their brigades to be enamelled in white in the center of the cross. Line officers will wear a plain cross of the same color as their respective divisions, to be suspended by a ribbon of the same color as the cross. Enlisted men will wear a plain cross of the same color as worn by their respective divisions—i.e., red for First Division, white for Second Division, blue for Third Division; to be worn without a ribbon.

Officers of artillery will wear a blue cross, with a white triangle and two crossed cannon of red enamel or of metal, to be suspended by a red ribbon. Enlisted men of the artillery will wear the same badge, with white or metallic crossed cannon, but without the triangle or the ribbon.

Officers of cavalry will wear a yellow cross, with two crossed sabers in white relief, and suspended by a yellow ribbon. Enlisted men of cavalry will wear the same cross, with white or metallic sabers, but without the ribbon. The crosses will be made with a pin on the back, and of such metal as may be chosen. The ribbon is distinctive of a commissioned officer, and the tri-colored ribbon, of a staff officer; and no others will be permitted to wear these badges. Officers will wear the badges suspended from the left breast. Enlisted men will wear the badges on the front of the hat or the top of the cap. Badges of cloth will be furnished the enlisted men of this command, and it is made the duty of officers to see that these badges are constantly and properly worn. Division commanders will at once make requisition for these badges.

By command of Maj. Gen. E. O. C. Ord:

[THEODORE READ,]

Major and Assistant Adjutant-General.
Brig. Gen. J. H. Wilson:

Your note received. Accept thanks. Officer also arrived. Signal officer North Mountain reports column of infantry moving up river from Williamsport, south side. If true it is probable that it is to cross at Dam No. 5 and come down the river to assist in the crossing to-morrow morning. They cannot bring artillery, and the position is fair for us. I intend to see what they do it on, and if you can leave a sufficient guard for the ford at Shepherdstown and start for Hagerstown when the moon rises I shall feel sure of our being in a central position where we can deliver a blow that may hurt. I have written to General Sheridan about it. Please answer.

Very respectfully,

WM. W. AVERELL,
Brigadier-General.

SPECIAL ORDERS,} HDQRS. DEPT. OF VA. AND N. CAROLINA,
No. 239. } In the Field, Va., August 31, 1864.

XI. Brig. Gen. Gilman Marston, U. S. Volunteers, is hereby assigned to the command of all the U. S. troops on the James River east of City Point and west of Fort Monroe. He will establish his headquarters at Wilson's Wharf.

By command of Major-General Ord:

R. S. DAVIS,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

SPECIAL ORDERS,} HDQRS. DEPT. OF VA. AND N. CAROLINA,
No. 240. } In the Field, Va., September 1, 1864.

By command of Major-General Ord:

R. S. DAVIS,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

SPECIAL ORDERS,} HDQRS. DEPT. OF VA. AND N. CAROLINA,
No. 241. } In the Field, Va., September 2, 1864.

IX. Paragraph XI, Special Orders, No. 239, from these headquarters, is hereby revoked, and the command of Brig. Gen. G. Marston will, until further orders, consist of the troops stationed at Fort Powhatan, Wilson's Wharf, and Redoubt Herndon.

By command of Major-General Ord:

R. S. DAVIS,
Assistant Adjutant-General.
HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE POTOMAC,

September 19, 1864.

Hon. E. M. Stanton,
Secretary of War, Washington, D. C.:
(Through Headquarters Armies of the United States.)

SIR: I herewith forward a list of names of officers for brevet commissions which I most earnestly recommend to your favorable consideration and which I hope will receive your immediate action. I trust when you consider the size of the army I have had the honor to command, being at one time over 125,000 strong, and the extent and character of the duties it has performed, including the battles of Gettysburg, Wilderness, Spotsylvania Court-House, Cold Harbor, and Petersburg, not to mention numerous minor affairs, that you will not consider this list too large. Indeed, it embraces only the names of those of a certain rank who were considered pre-eminently deserving of reward for their services, and it is my purpose to prepare another to be submitted to the Department which will contain many names now excluded in order to reduce this list to the lowest limit. I beg leave to say that in my judgment the most beneficial results may be anticipated to the esprit of this army by the immediate conferring of the honorable rewards here asked for.

I am, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

GEO. G. MEADE,
Major-General, Commanding.

[Inclosure.]

OFFICERS OF THE GENERAL STAFF, ARMY OF THE POTOMAC.

To be major-generals by brevet: Brig. Gen. H. J. Hunt, chief of artillery, for gallantry and distinguished conduct at the battle of Gettysburg, and for faithful and highly meritorious services on the campaign from the Rapidan to Petersburg; to date July 1, 1864. Brig. Gen. Rufus Ingalls, chief quartermaster, for highly meritorious and faithful services in the field in the several campaigns from Gettysburg to Petersburg; to date July 1, 1864. Brig. Gen. Seth Williams, chief of the adjutant-general's department, for highly meritorious and faithful services in the field in the several campaigns from Gettysburg to Petersburg.

To be colonels by brevet: Maj. James C. Duane, chief of engineers, for meritorious and faithful services in the field on the campaign from the Rapidan to the James, and particularly for distinguished professional services in the operations before Petersburg; to date July 1, 1864.

SECOND CORPS, MAJOR-GENERAL HANCOCK COMMANDING.

To be major-generals by brevet: Brig. Gen. Francis C. Barlow, for highly meritorious and distinguished conduct throughout the campaign, and particularly for gallantry and good conduct while leading his division in the assault on the enemy's works at Spotsylvania May 12, 1864; to date from May 12, 1864. Brig. Gen. Nelson A. Miles, for highly meritorious and distinguished conduct throughout the campaign, and particularly for gallantry and valuable services at the battle of August 25, 1864, at Reams' Station, Va.; to date from August 25, 1864. Brig. Gen. A. S. Webb, for distinguished conduct at Gettysburg, where he was slightly wounded; at Bristoe Station, October 14, 1863; at the battle of the Wilderness, and at Spotsylvania, May 12, 1864, where he was severely wounded; to date from day of appointment.

To be brigadier-generals by brevet: Col. G. N. Macy, Twenty-fifth Massachusetts Volunteers, for distinguished conduct at the battle of the Wilderness, and at Deep Bottom, August 14, while commanding his brigade in an assault on the enemy's works. This officer lost an arm at Gettysburg, returned to his command when the army moved from its winter camp, was severely wounded in the battle of the Wilderness, returned to his command August 12, 1864, and was again wounded August 14; to date August 14, 1864. Col. James A. Beaver, One hundred and forty-eighth Pennsylvania Volunteers, for highly meritorious and distinguished conduct throughout the campaign, particularly for valuable service at Cold Harbor while commanding a brigade. This officer was wounded at Chancellorsville; again in the assault on the enemy's works in front of Petersburg June 16, and again at the battle of Reams' Station August 25, 1864, where he lost a leg; to date June 3, 1864. Col. Thomas A. Smyth, First Delaware Volunteers, for highly meritorious and distinguished conduct throughout the campaign, particularly in the battle of the Wilderness and at Cold Harbor; to date from June 3, 1864. Col. P. L. Brown, One hundred and forty-fifth Pennsylvania Volunteers (appointed September 3, 1864), for highly meritorious and distinguished conduct throughout the campaign, particularly for gallantry at Spotsylvania May 12, 1864; to date May 12, 1864. This officer was wounded at the first Fredericksburg and twice wounded at Gettysburg.

To be colonels by brevet: Lieut. Col. K. O. Broady, Sixty-first New York Volunteers, for good conduct throughout the campaign and particularly for distinguished service at Reams' Station, Va., August 25, 1864, when he was wounded; to date August 25, 1864. This officer has received the appointment of colonel of the Sixty-first New York Volunteers, but has not been mustered in on account of the lack of the necessary number of men in the regiment. Lieut. Col. C. H. Morgan, assistant inspector-general and chief of staff, for distinguished and valuable service and gallantry throughout the campaign, especially at the Wilderness and Spotsylvania May 12, 1864. This officer has been chief of staff of this corps since the fall of 1862, and has been present in all the actions in which the corps has been engaged. He has been several times recommended for appointment as brigadier-general for distinguished service; to date May 6, 1864. Lieut. Col. Francis A. Walker, assistant adjutant-general, for distinguished service and good conduct throughout the campaign. This officer has been adjutant-general of the corps since the fall of 1862. He was wounded at Chancellorsville and taken prisoner at Reams' Station August 25; to date August 25, 1864.

To be lieutenant-colonels by brevet: Maj. J. G. Hazard, First Rhode Island Light Artillery, commanding Artillery Brigade, for distinguished services and good conduct throughout the campaign, especially at Cold Harbor, Va.; to date June 3, 1864. Maj. William G. Mitchell, aide-de-camp, for meritorious and distinguished conduct and for gallantry in action, especially at the Wilderness May 6, and at Spotsylvania May 12. This officer has been with me (Major-General Hancock) as senior aides since the beginning of the war and has distinguished himself in every battle in which I have been engaged; to date May 6, 1864. Surg. A. N. Dougherty, medical director, for unflinching devotion to the duties of his profession and for bravery on the field. This officer was wounded at the Po May 10, 1864.

To be majors by brevet: Capt. H. H. Bingham, One hundred and fortieth Pennsylvania Volunteers, and judge-advocate, for good conduct and conspicuous gallantry, especially at the Wilderness May 6, where he collected a considerable party of stragglers and led them against the enemy with marked gallantry, and at Spotsylvania May 12, where he voluntarily took part with his regiment in the assault and was wounded. He was also wounded at Gettysburg; to date May 6, 1864.

FIFTH CORPS, MAJOR-GENERAL WARREN COMMANDING.

To be major-generals by brevet: Brig. Gen. Charles Griffin, Brig. Gen. Romeyn B. Ayres, Brig. Gen. S. W. Crawford, for conspicuous gallantry in the battles of the Wilderness, Spotsylvania Court-House, Jericho Mills, Bethesda Church, Petersburg, and Globe Tavern (Weldon railroad), and for faithful services in the campaign. Brig. Gen. L. Cutler, for constant and faithful services in this campaign and for wound at Globe Tavern (Weldon railroad).

To be colonels by brevet: Lieut. Col. Fred. T. Locke, assistant adjutant-general, for brave, constant, and efficient service in the battles and marches of the campaign. Wounded at Spotsylvania Court-House. Lieut. Col. Henry C. Bankhead, assistant inspector-general (captain Fifth Infantry), for brave, constant, and efficient service in the battles and marches of the campaign. Previously recommended for promotion. Lieut. Col. William A. Throop, First Michigan Veteran Volunteers, commanding First Brigade, First Division, for brave, constant, and efficient service in the battles and marches of the campaign. Previously recommended for promotion.

NINTH CORPS, MAJ. GEN. JOHN G. PARKE COMMANDING.

To be major-generals by brevet: Brig. Gen. O. B. Willcox, commanding Third Division, for distinguished and gallant services and efficiently commanding his division in the several actions in which the corps has been engaged since crossing the Rapidan. Brig. Gen. Robert B. Potter, commanding Second Division, for distinguished and gallant conduct and efficiently commanding his division in the several actions in which the corps has been engaged since crossing the Rapidan.

To be brigadier-generals by brevet: Col. William Humphrey, Second Michigan Volunteers, commanding Second Brigade, Third Division, for conspicuous and gallant services both as a regimental and brigade commander, having served with the corps throughout the campaign. Col. John I. Curtin, Forty-fifth Pennsylvania Volunteers, for conspicuous and gallant services both as regimental and brigade commander, having served with the corps up to June 18, when he was wounded. He is now present with the command. Col. B. O. Christ, Fiftieth Pennsylvania Volunteers, commanding brigade, Third Division, for distinguished services at Ny River May 9, and before Petersburg, June 17, 1864. Col. J. K. Sigfried, Forty-eighth Pennsylvania Volunteers, commanding brigade, Fourth Division, for great efficiency in organizing and disciplining a brigade of colored troops.

To be captain by brevet: Lieut. S. N. Benjamin, Second U. S. Artillery, for distinguished and gallant conduct at battle of Spotsylvania, in which action he was wounded while serving as chief of artillerly for the corps.

CAVALRY, BRIG. GEN. D. M’M. GREGG COMMANING.

To be major-general by brevet: Brig. Gen. D. McM. Gregg, for highly meritorious and distinguished conduct throughout the campaign, particularly on the reconnaissance on the Charles City road and at the battle of August 25, at Reams’ Station.

To be brigadier-generals by brevet: Col. J. Irvin Gregg, Sixteenth Pennsylvania Cavalry, for gallantry and distinguished services when in command of the Second Brigade of the Second Division in the engagement at the defenses of Richmond on the Brook turnpike on the 12th of May, 1864; at Trevilian’s Station, Va., June 11, at White’s Tavern on the 16th of August, 1864. In this last engagement Colonel Gregg was severely wounded. Col. Charles H. Smith, First Maine Cavalry, for distinguished conduct when in command of his regiment in the engagement at Saint Mary’s Church, near Charles City Court-House, on the 24th of June, 1864. In this engagement Colonel Smith was wounded but did not quit the field; also for conspicuous gallantry when in command of the Second Brigade, Second Division, in the engagement with the enemy’s cavalry, near Reams’ Station, August 23, 1864.

To be colonels by brevet: Lieut. Col. Joseph P. Brinton, Second Pennsylvania Cavalry, for distinguished conduct and conspicuous gallantry when in command of his regiment in the engagements at Trevilian’s Station June 11, 1864; Saint Mary’s Church June 24, 1864, and Deep Run August 16, 1864. Lieut. Col. Samuel Wilson, Eighth Pennsylvania Cavalry, for conspicuous gallantry when in command of his regiment in the engagement at the defenses of Richmond on the Brook turnpike May 12, 1864, and at Deep Run August 16, 1864. In both of these engagements Colonel Wilson was severely wounded.

To be majors by brevet: Capt. H. C. Weir, assistant adjutant-general, for conspicuous gallantry and meritorious services in the engagements at Saint Mary’s Church on the 24th of June, 1864; Deep Run on August 16, 1864, and at Reams’ Station on August 23, 1864. Capt. James H. Hart, First New Jersey Cavalry, for great gallantry in charging and routing a largely superior force of the enemy at Todd’s Tavern, Va., May 5, 1864. Capt. F. H. Parke, Fourth Pennsylvania Cavalry, for conspicuous gallantry when in command of his regiment in repelling assaults of the enemy’s infantry near White’s Tavern on the 16th of August, 1864, and for distinguished service at Reams’ Station on August 23, 1864. In this engagement Captain Parke lost an arm.

[42.]

SPECIAL ORDERS, No. 113. HDQRS. SECOND DIV., 18TH ARMY CORPS,

September 19, 1864.

V. Paragraph V, Special Orders, No. 109, from these headquarters, is hereby revoked. Col. E. H. Ripley, Ninth Vermont Volunteers, will assume command of the Second Brigade, Second Division, Eighteenth Army Corps.

VI. Col. E. H. Ripley, Ninth Vermont Volunteers, is hereby assigned to the command of the First and Second Brigades of the Second Division, Eighteenth Army Corps, ordered this day on an expedition.

By command of Brig. Gen. C. A. Heckman:

WM. H. ABEL,

Captain and Assistant Adjutant-General.

SPECIAL ORDERS, No. 6. HDQRS. PROVISIONAL BRIGADE,

EIGHTEENTH ARMY CORPS,

September 25, 1864.

II. In pursuance of paragraph IX of Special Orders, No. 264, current series, from headquarters Department of Virginia and North Carolina, the Two hundredth and Two hundred and fifth Regiments Pennsylvania Volunteers will march with ten days’ rations, one day’s, at least, of which shall be cooked, at 6 o’clock to morrow, and report to the officer in command of the troops near Old Court-House, part of General Heckman’s division. They will take with them their transportation and other quartermaster’s supplies. Col. J. A. Mathews, commanding Two hundred and fifth Pennsylvania Volunteers, will take command of the two regiments. The brigade quartermaster will furnish the necessary transportation, and the brigade commissary is charged with forwarding as soon as practicable that portion of the ten days’ rations not taken at the time the troops move.

By command of Col. J. H. Potter:

CHAS. A. CARLETON,

Captain and Assistant Adjutant-General.

SPECIAL ORDERS, No. 267. HDQRS. DEPT. OF VA. AND N. CAROLINA,

ARMY OF THE JAMES,

In the Field, September 28, 1864.

By command of Major-General Butler:

ISRAEL R. SEALY,

Assistant Adjutant-General.

By order of the Secretary of War:

E. D. TOWNSEND,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

WAR DEPARTMENT,
Washington City, October 6, 1864—7.15 p. m.

Major-General AUGUR,
Commanding Department of Washington:

GENERAL: The Secretary of War directs you to proceed immediately to the front and take charge in person of the guarding of the railroad and of the driving out the enemy between here and Front Royal. Please acknowledge the receipt of this dispatch, and report at what time this evening you set out in execution of this order for the front.

I have the honor to be, general, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

JAMES A. HARDIE,
Colonel and Inspector-General.

SPECIAL ORDERS, \{ HDQRS. SECOND DIV., 18TH ARMY CORPS,
No. 121. \} In the Field, October 7, 1864.

IV. In obedience to orders from corps headquarters, Col. E. H. Ripley will move the Ninth Vermont Volunteers to the right of Major White's reserve brigade, which has just relieved a portion of Major-General Birney's command to the right of Fort Harrison. Colonel Ripley will assume command of Major White's brigade, together with his own regiment.

By command of Brig. Gen. C. A. Heckman:

W. H. ABEL,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

SPECIAL ORDERS, \{ HDQRS. DEPT. OF VA. AND N. CAROLINA,
ARMY OF THE JAMES,
No. 285. \} In the Field, October 11, 1864.

3. Surg. R. K. Smith is relieved from duty as medical director Tenth Army Corps and will report for duty to Brig. Gen. A. V. Kautz, as surgeon in chief of the Cavalry Division.

By command of Major-General Butler:

ED. W. SMITH,
Assistant Adjutant-General.
CHAP. LXIII.] CORRESPONDENCE, ETC.—UNION. 1187

HEADQUARTERS SIXTH ARMY CORPS,
October 11, 1861.

Brigadier-General Ricketts, Third Division:

GENERAL: The general commanding the corps wishes you to move out as soon as possible without waiting for coffee or anything. Please have one of your staff officers report here when your column has started. The greatest practicable alacrity and rapidity in the movement to Middletown is required.

Very respectfully,

C. A. WHITTIER,
Acting Assistant Adjutant-General.

CIRCULAR.] HDQRS. SECOND DIV., EIGHTEENTH ARMY CORPS,
In the Field, Va., October 25, 1864.

Pursuant to instructions contained in circular from headquarters Eighteenth Army Corps, dated October 25, 1864, the commanding officers of the One hundred and fifty-eighth New York Volunteers, Fifty-fifth Pennsylvania, and Second Pennsylvania Heavy Artillery will on the receipt of this order report to Col. J. Jourdan, commanding Fort Burnham, for orders. The One hundred and forty-eighth New York Volunteers, at 6 a.m., will move down on the field in front of these headquarters and report to Col. H. S. Fairchild, commanding Third Brigade. Brigade commanders will cause the rations and ammunition to be issued as directed by circular from corps headquarters. The troops will move from the line promptly at 6 a.m., and form on the field in front of and near these headquarters, concealed from view of the enemy as much as possible.

By command of Brig. Gen. C. A. Heckman:

SAML. C. HART,
Captain and Acting Assistant Adjutant-General.

CIRCULAR.] HDQRS. SECOND DIV., EIGHTEENTH ARMY CORPS,
In the Field, Va., October 26, 1864.

The troops of this command will have breakfast in season to march at 5 a.m. precisely. Let there be no delay. Army time will be furnished to-night, in order that there shall be no discrepancy. Skirmishers will be selected and placed in position to-night. March to be conducted in the following manner: Skirmishers in advance of each brigade; provost guard in rear of each brigade; ambulance train followed by headquarters. Captain Cooley, with battalion of sharpshooters, will follow the skirmishers of the Second Brigade, Colonel Ripley. All straggling strictly prohibited.

By command of Brig. Gen. C. A. Heckman:

SAML. C. HART,
Captain and Acting Assistant Adjutant-General.

SPECIAL ORDERS, ( HDQRS. DEPT. OF VA. AND N. CAROLINA, ARMY OF THE JAMES,
No. 318. )
In the Field, Va., October 29, 1864.

8. Brig. Gen. Charles Devens, U. S. Volunteers, is hereby assigned to the temporary command of the First Division, Eighteenth Army
1.188 MD., E. N. C., PA., VA., EXCEPT S. W., & W. VA. [CHAP. LXIII.

Corps, relieving Brig. Gen. Gilman Marston, who has received a leave of absence.

By command of Major-General Butler:

ED. W. SMITH,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

HEADQUARTERS NINTH ARMY CORPS,
November 19, 1864.

Brig. Gen. S. WILLIAMS,
Assistant Adjutant-General, Army of the Potomac:

GENERAL: On the 15th of September I submitted recommendations for promotion by brevet of officers of this corps. Of these I am informed that letters of appointment have been issued for the following-named officers: Brig. Gen. O. B. Willcox, Brig. Gen. R. B. Potter, Col. William Humphrey, Col. John I. Curtin, Col. B. C. Christ, Col. J. K. Sigfried, and Lieut. S. N. Benjamin. Before the receipt of these letters of appointment Colonels Humphrey, Christ, and Sigfried were honorably discharged by reason of expiration of service. Among the remaining-named officers many changes have taken place by reason of resignation, muster out, and promotion. I would therefore respectfully submit the following recommendations in lieu of the list made September 15, taking it for granted that Generals Willcox and Potter, Colonel Curtin, and Lieutenant Benjamin will receive their brevet commissions: Brig. Gen. E. Ferrero, commanding Third Division, Colored Troops for the very efficient manner in which he has organized, disciplined, and drilled the troops of his command during the campaign, it being made up of entirely new regiments and brought together but a few days prior to joining the Army of the Potomac on the Rapidan. Lieut. Col. Charles G. Loring, assistant inspector-general, for conspicuous and gallant conduct in the actions of the Wilderness, Spotsylvania, Bethesda Church, and before Petersburg, Va. Maj. William Cutting, aide-de-camp, for conspicuous and gallant conduct in the actions of the Wilderness, Spotsylvania, Bethesda Church, and before Petersburg, Va. Maj. J. L. Van Buren, additional aide-de-camp, for conspicuous and gallant conduct in the actions of the Wilderness, Spotsylvania, Bethesda Church, and before Petersburg, Va. Maj. P. M. Lydig, assistant adjutant-general, for conspicuous and gallant conduct in the actions of the Wilderness, Spotsylvania, Bethesda Church, and before Petersburg, Va. Capt. George W. Gowen, aide-de-camp, for conspicuous and gallant conduct in the actions of the Wilderness, Spotsylvania, Bethesda Church, and before Petersburg, Va. Capt. D. A. Pell, additional aide-de-camp, for conspicuous and gallant conduct in the actions of the Wilderness, Spotsylvania, Bethesda Church, and before Petersburg, Va. First Division: Capt. Robert A. Hutchins, assistant adjutant-general, for gallantry at the battle of the Wilderness, May 6, 1864; wounded. First Lieut. L. Curtis Brackett, Twenty-eighth Massachusetts Volunteers, aide-de-camp, for gallantry at battles of the Wilderness, Spotsylvania, and Totopotomoy June 1, when he was wounded; recommended as brevet captain; and for gallantry at the crater before Petersburg and in the actions on the Weldon railroad, and near Poplar Grove Church and Hatcher's Run, recommended for brevet major; also, distinguished at South Mountain and Antietam. Capt. William V. Richards, Seventeenth Michigan Volunteers, aide-de-camp, for gallantry throughout... the campaign, recommended for brevet major; also distinguished at South Mountain and Antietam. Capt. John D. Bertolette, assistant adjutant-general, for gallantry and meritorious services in actions before Petersburg, on Weldon railroad, near Poplar Grove Church, and Hatcher's Run. Capt. George Shorkley, Fifty-first Pennsylvania Veteran Volunteers, and brigade inspector, for gallantry and meritorious services at Spotsylvania and before Petersburg; wounded July 30, 1864. Lieut. Richard A. Watts, Seventeenth Michigan Volunteers, aide-de-camp, for gallantry and meritorious conduct throughout the campaign; wounded June 17, 1864. Lieut. W. H. S. Bean, One hundred and ninth New York Volunteers, aide-de-camp, for gallantry and meritorious conduct throughout the campaign up to the Weldon railroad August 18, 1864, when he was wounded. Lieut. Ralph Ely, Eighth Michigan Veteran Volunteers, for gallant and meritorious services throughout the campaign, particularly at the Wilderness and before Petersburg June 18, 1864. Lieut. Col. Byron M. Cutcheon, Twentieth Michigan Volunteers, recommended for brevet colonel for gallantry at the battles of the Wilderness and Spotsylvania; wounded May 10; and brevet brigadier-general for gallantry on the Weldon railroad and in subsequent actions, now commanding Second Brigade and well qualified. Capt. George H. Murdock, First Michigan Sharpshooters, for gallantry and meritorious services during the campaign and particularly before Petersburg June 17, when he was wounded. Capt. C. A. Lounsberry, Twentieth Michigan Volunteers, for gallantry in the actions of the Wilderness and Spotsylvania; wounded May 12, 1864, being the third wound received during the war. Lieut. Charles D. Todd, Seventeenth Michigan Volunteers, aide-de-camp, for gallantry and meritorious services throughout the campaign up to July 23, when he was wounded. Capt. and Adjt. J. F. Curren, Sixtieth Ohio Volunteer Infantry, for gallantry and meritorious services at the Wilderness, Spotsylvania, and before Petersburg June 17, when he was wounded and lost an arm. Col. N. B. McLaughlen, Fifty-seventh Massachusetts Volunteers, commanding Third Brigade, for gallantry and meritorious services in checking the advance of the enemy in the action near Poplar Grove Church September 30, 1864. Lieut. Col. Gilbert P. Robinson, Third Maryland Battalion, for gallantry and meritorious services throughout the campaign, and particularly on the Weldon railroad August 18, 1864. Lieut. Albert Doty, Fifty-seventh Massachusetts Volunteers, for gallantry in the actions on the Weldon railroad. Capt. Jacob Roemer, Thirty-fourth New York Independent Battery, for gallantry and meritorious services throughout the campaign, and particularly at Spotsylvania.

Second Division: Capt. Gilbert H. McKibbin, assistant adjutant-general, recommended for the brevet rank of brigadier-general of volunteers, a promotion well earned by long and distinguished services, and in order that he may be assigned to the command of a brigade, a position for which he has shown himself to be pre-eminently fitted and where his abilities are required. Capt. Samuel Wright, assistant adjutant-general, for gallant and meritorious services in all the actions of the campaign. Lieut. Col. Henry Pleasants, Forty-eighth Pennsylvania Veteran Volunteers, for the successful management of the mine which was sprung on the 30th of July in front of the Ninth Army Corps. Lieut. Col. Theodore Gregg, Forty-fifth Pennsylvania Veteran Volunteers, for his gallantry and great efforts in rallying the men to defend the crater formed by the explosion of the mine on the 30th of July, and his courage and daring in three personal encounters with rebel officers, each time killing his antagonist. Capt. James B. Smith, Thirty-sixth Massachusetts Volunteers, in the charge of the First Brigade on the rebel works on the morning of the 17th of June, 1864, when he was in command of his regiment. But for his bravery and good judgment on that occasion the charge would not have been successful. Capt. E. T. Raymond, Thirty-sixth Massachusetts Volunteers, for good service rendered on all occasions, always showing coolness and courage, and putting forth unequaled efforts in every engagement to the success of the troops which might be under his direction, and for escaping from the enemy August 19, 1864, when he accidentally rode into their lines in obedience to orders. Lieut. Col. Percy Daniels, Seventh Rhode Island Volunteers, for having taken a very active part all through the campaign and conducted himself nobly in all the engagements. On that of the 30th his regiment was not engaged at all, but he voluntarily went to the front and fields in face of the enemy's fire, and into the crater several times during the day, encouraging both men and officers to their duty. Capt. Peleg E. Peckham, Seventh Rhode Island Volunteers, and acting assistant adjutant-general First Brigade, for his repeated acts of gallantry and bravery displayed on every field and in all the engagements in which he has participated, especially that of the 18th of May at Spotsylvania Court-House, where his regiment owes much to him for its credit on that occasion, and also on the 30th of July, in rallying a portion of his brigade and conducting them in their successive charges. First Lieut. Charles E. Frost, Company E, Eleventh New Hampshire Volunteers, on the morning of the 17th of June, 1864, in the charge near the Shands House, in advance of his regiment with a few men, demanded the surrender of a party of the enemy outnumbering him five to one, lying in rifle pits, and captured about fifteen; he also participated in bringing away a gun and six battery horses attached to the cannon. First Lieut. George Hicks, Company F, Seventeenth Vermont Volunteers, on the morning of the 17th of June, 1864, in the charge near the Shands House, distinguished himself by capturing a battle flag of the Seventeenth Tennessee Regiment. Second Lieut. John E. Cram, Company B, Eleventh New Hampshire Volunteers, in the battle of Spotsylvania Court-House, distinguished himself by seizing and securing the colors of his own regiment under a heavy fire after both color-bearers had been severely wounded and disabled, and was himself severely wounded while carrying them to the rear. He has not yet recovered.

Third Division: Col. Delevan Bates, Thirtieth U. S. Colored Troops, for distinguished services at the assault on Cemetery Hill on the 30th day of July, 1864. Col. Charles S. Russell, Twenty-eighth U. S. Colored Troops, for distinguished services at the assault on Cemetery Hill on the 30th day of July, 1864. Col. A. M. Blackman, Twenty-seventh U. S. Colored Troops, for gallantry and distinguished bravery in the engagement at Hatcher's Run on October 27, 1864. Capt. George A. Hicks, assistant adjutant-general, for gallantry and meritorious services on various occasions, especially in the assault on Cemetery Hill on the 30th of July, 1864.

I have the honor to be, general, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

JNO. G. PARKE,
Major-General, Commanding.
Respectfully forwarded to headquarters Armies of the United States.

The assignment of Major-General Humphreys to the command of the Second Corps was made in pursuance of the instructions of the lieutenant-general commanding, and the assignment was necessarily announced in the order as temporary, a permanent assignment requiring the sanction of the President. It is understood that General Gibbon would have made no objection to serving under General Humphreys as the permanent commander of the corps, but thinks that pending such permanent assignment the command of the corps should have been devolved on him. I do not consider that General Gibbon has any just cause to complain of the phraseology of the order assigning General Humphreys to the command of the Second Corps, especially as it is believed it was well known in the corps that General Hancock was not to return to this army. As, however, he asks to be relieved from further service here, I have no objection to offer to the granting of his application.

GEO. G. MEADE,
Major-General, Commanding.

[Second indorsement.]

HEADQUARTERS ARMIES OF THE UNITED STATES,
City Point, Va., November 30, 1864.

Respectfully returned.

In the assignment of Maj. Gen. A. A. Humphreys to the command of the Second Corps no reflection upon or disrespect to Major-General Gibbon was intended. General Humphreys has long desired the command of troops and it has been promised him. When General Hancock left it was understood that he was permanently relieved and separated from the corps, and General Humphreys, being the oldest major-general in the Army of the Potomac, was placed in command of it. The wording of the order of assignment might have been made less objectionable. There was, however, no intention of in any way reflecting upon General Gibbon, and it was expected that the temporary assignment would be made permanent by the President. It is hoped that General Gibbon will accept this explanation as satisfactory. I have full confidence in General Gibbon as a commander of troops, and believe him entirely capable of commanding a corps. I should not like to spare his services from this army; but if after this explanation he continues dissatisfied he will, on his application, be relieved.

U. S. GRANT,
Lieutenant-General.

SPECIAL ORDERS, } HDQRS. DEPT. OF VA. AND N. CAROLINA,
Army of the James,
No. 375. { In the Field, November 26, 1864.

1. In obedience to orders from the lieutenant-general commanding the Armies of the United States, contained in Special Orders, No. 136, the following regiments are relieved from duty in this department and will report to Major-General Meade, commanding Army of the Potomac, viz.: Two hundredth, Two hundred and fifth, Two hundred and eighth, and Two hundred and eleventh Pennsylvania Volunteers.

By command of Major-General Butler:

H. B. SCOTT,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

SPECIAL ORDERS, } HDQRS. DEPT. OF VA. AND N. CAROLINA,
 ARMY OF THE JAMES,

No. 384. } In the Field, Va., December 2, 1864.

3. That portion of the Second Pennsylvania Artillery now with the Eighteenth Army Corps will proceed immediately to the lines in front of Bermuda Hundred and report for duty to Brigadier General Graham, commanding Provisional Division. Upon the arrival of the Second Pennsylvania Artillery the Eleventh Connecticut Volunteers and Twelfth New Hampshire Volunteers will proceed to the line occupied by the Eighteenth Army Corps and report to Major-General Ord, commanding.

By command of Major-General Butler:

H. B. SCOTT,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

ARMY OF THE JAMES,

In the Field, Va., December 2, 1864.

SPECIAL ORDERS, } HDQRS. DEPT. OF VA. AND N. CAROLINA,
 ARMY OF THE JAMES,

No. 384. } In the Field, Va., December 2, 1864.

14. The Third New York Cavalry is hereby ordered to repair to Norfolk, Va., and report to Brigadier-General Shepley for duty. Quartermaster's department will furnish transportation.

15. The Twentieth New York Cavalry is relieved from duty in the District of Eastern Virginia, and will report to the front and report to Brigadier-General Kautz, commanding Cavalry Division. All officers and men of this regiment fit to travel will accompany the regiment. Those on detached duty will be relieved at once for this purpose. Quartermaster's department will furnish transportation.

By command of Major-General Butler:

H. B. SCOTT,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

G. E. W. SMITH,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

ORDERs, ARMY OF THE JAMES,
No. 1. { In the Field, Va., December 4, 1864.

Pursuant to orders, the undersigned hereby assumes command of the Second Brigade, Third Division, Twenty-fourth Corps, Army of the James.

J. H. POTTER,

SPECIAL ORDERS, } WAR DEPT., ADJT. GENERAL'S OFFICE,
 NO. 432. } Washington, December 6, 1864.

By order of the Secretary of War:

E. D. TOWNSEND,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

CONFIDENTIAL.]

HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE POTOMAC,
December 6, 1864—1 p. m. (Received 1.30 p. m.)

Major-General HUMPHREYS:

Direct General Mott to report to Major-General Warren for orders. His division will have to go on an expedition with Warren, and you will have to hold the line around to the Weldon railroad with Gibbon's and Miles'. Perhaps it may be necessary to retain a brigade of Mott's to picket the rear line. I want to add about 5,000 men to Warren. If Mott's division is in excess of this you can retain the excess, after letting me know. Mott will get his orders from Warren.

Respectfully, yours,

GEO. G. MEADE,
Major-General.

HDQRS. SECOND BRIG., SECOND DIV., SIXTH CORPS,
December 19, 1864.

Maj. HAZARD STEVENS,
Assistant Adjutant-General:

SIR: I have the honor to make the following recommendations for brevets, agreeably to circular from headquarters Sixth Army Corps, dated December 14, 1864: Capt. Merritt Barber, Tenth Vermont Volunteers, acting assistant adjutant-general of the brigade, to be brevet major. Captain Barber has borne himself with distinguished bravery in every engagement since May 4, 1864, and particularly in the last engagement at Cedar Creek, Va., October 19, 1864. Communications from Col. William W. Henry, Tenth Vermont Volunteers, and from Colonel Truex, commanding the brigade in which he formerly served, are herewith respectfully forwarded. First Lieut. Henry C. Baxter, Eleventh Vermont Volunteers, aide-de-camp, to be brevet captain, for distinguished bravery in every engagement since May 16, and especially at the battle of Cedar Creek, Va., October 19, 1864, at which engagement he was wounded. Col. George P. Foster, Fourth Vermont Volunteers, to be brevet brigadier-general, for distinguished bravery in the battle of the Wilderness, May 5, at which engagement he was severely wounded; also for good conduct at the battle near Charlestown, Va., August 21; Fisher's Hill, September 22, and at Cedar Creek, October 19. Colonel Foster commanded the brigade at the battle of Fisher's Hill. Lieut. Col. H. W. Floyd, Third Vermont Volunteers, to be brevet colonel, for bravery and good conduct throughout the entire campaign since May 4, and especially for distinguished bravery at the battle of Cedar Creek, Va., October 19, 1864. Maj. Enoch E. Johnson, Second Vermont Volunteers, to be brevet lieutenant-colonel, for bravery in all the engagements since Cold Harbor, and especially at the battle of Cedar Creek, October 19, 1864. Major

* For reply see 1.40 p. m., Vol. XLII, Part III, p. 823.
Johnson commanded the regiment in most of the engagements. Also Capt. E. G. Ballou and Capt. Elijah Wales, Second Vermont Volunteers, to be brevet majors, for bravery in the battle of the Wilderness and subsequent engagements. At the battle of the Wilderness both were severely wounded. Maj. A. F. Walker, Eleventh Vermont Volunteers, for distinguished bravery in the several engagements in the valley of the Shenandoah, to be brevet lieutenant-colonel. Capt. J. E. Eldridge, Eleventh Vermont Volunteers, to be brevet major, for especially gallant conduct at the battle of Winchester, Va., September 19, 1864, at which engagement he was very seriously wounded.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

L. A. GRANT,
Brigadier-General, Commanding.

HDQRS. 155TH REGIMENT PENNSYLVANIA VOLUNTEERS,
December 24, 1864.

Bvt. Capt. L. C. BARTLETT,
Acting Assistant Adjutant-General:

SIR: In accordance with Special Orders, No. 346, headquarters Army of the Potomac, dated December 22, 1864, I have the honor to submit the names of Sergt. Thomas J. Marlin, Company K, One hundred and fifty-fifth Pennsylvania Volunteers; Sergt. Thomas C. Anderson, Company I, One hundred and fifty-fifth Pennsylvania Volunteers, they having performed deeds of valor and showed undaunted bravery upon occasions hereinafter mentioned. Sergeant Anderson, at the battle of Poplar Grove Church, September 30, 1864, when the regiment was advancing upon the enemy's works at a double-quick, grasped the colors from the exhausted bearer, and moving far in advance of the column planted his flag upon the second line of the enemy's works even before they had left them; this under a heavy fire of canister from the enemy's guns. He likewise showed conspicuous bravery throughout the entire campaign. Sergeant Marlin, on the afternoon of the battle of Peebles' farm, when the troops of the Ninth Corps were being driven from their position and the regiment ordered by General Griffin to advance, grasped his colors and, dashing ahead and through the troops who were falling back, took his position near the Third Brigade and waved the flag and shouted to the men to "follow the old flag." His bravery and uniformly good conduct during the campaign entitle him to the highest praise, and I would earnestly recommend both Marlin and Anderson as fit subjects on whom to confer medals of honor.

Very respectfully,

JOHN EWING,
Brevet Colonel, Commanding Regiment.

[First indorsement.]

HDQRS. 3D BRIGADE, 1ST DIVISION, 5TH ARMY CORPS,
December 24, 1864.

Respectfully forwarded, recommended. The facts as heretofore stated came under my personal observation. The men are brave, daring soldiers, and well worthy of any mark of honor.

A. L. PEARSON,
Brevet Brigadier-General, Commanding.
HEADQUARTERS FIRST DIVISION, FIFTH CORPS,

December 29, 1864.

Respectfully forwarded, approved.

[42.]

JOS. J. BARTLETT,
Brigadier-General, Commanding.

HDQRS. 91ST REGT. PENNSYLVANIA VETERAN VOLS.,

December 25, 1864.

Lieut. L. C. BARTLETT,
Acting Assistant Adjutant-General:

LIEUTENANT: In compliance with Special Orders, No. 346, headquarters Army of the Potomac, dated December 22, 1864, I have the honor to submit the following names of men who in my judgment are entitled to medals of honor: Color Bearers Archibald Nimmo, sergeant Company C, and Corpl. Edward Gamble, Company B, for conspicuous gallantry in carrying the colors in the two charges made on the enemy's works in front of Petersburg on the 18th of June, 1864, in the latter of which both were wounded; also Franklin Wolfinger, sergeant Company H, for taking the colors after the color bearers were wounded and, waving them defiantly in the face of the enemy, carried them safely through under a heavy fire.

I am, lieutenant, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

ELI G. SELLERS,
Lieutenant-Colonel, Commanding.

HDQRS. TWENTIETH MAINE VOLUNTEERS,

December 27, 1864.

Capt. L. C. BARTLETT,
Acting Assistant Adjutant-General, Third Brigade:

CAPTAIN: I have the honor to ask that a medal be conferred upon Corpl. Joseph W. Libbey, of Company I, for gallant and distinguished services at the battle of Peebles' Farm, September 30, 1864 (he being one of the men who took the piece of artillery captured by the First Division on that day).

C. D. GILMORE,
Lieutenant-Colonel, Commanding Twentieth Maine Volunteers.

HDQRS. 118TH REGIMENT PENNSYLVANIA VOLUNTEERS,

December 27, 1864.

Bvt. Capt. L. C. BARTLETT,
Acting Assistant Adjutant-General:

LIEUTENANT: I have the honor to recommend the name of Corpl. Jonathan [William H.] Wild, Company C, One hundred and eighteenth Pennsylvania Volunteers, as one entitled to a medal of honor for conspicuous gallantry. At the capture of Fort McRae, September 30, 1864, he was color-bearer, and was the first to plant the national colors on the rebel works. His conduct also in the engagement of the evening at Pegram's farm was particularly meritorious and a bright example to his comrades of the regiment. He was here mortally wounded. I respectfully request that a medal be presented in his name, so that his bereaved family may possess a memento of the gallantry of a brave soldier who has given his life to his country.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

JAMES B. WILSON,
Captain, Commanding 118th Pennsylvania Volunteers.

HEADQUARTERS DISTRICT OF NORTH CAROLINA,
New Bern, N. C., December 28, 1864.

Maj. Gen. B. F. BUTLER,
Comdg. Dept. of Virginia and North Carolina, in the Field:

GENERAL: I have just received a dispatch from Colonel Frankle, from Plymouth, inclosing a letter from Commander Macomb, in which the latter states that it is perfectly impossible to take the gun-boats above Poplar Point without a land force sufficiently large to drive away the enemy’s sharpshooters along the shore, and he estimates that there are 1,500 to 2,000 of them. He also states that the double-enders cannot ascend the river as far as Poplar Point in less than a week; that the river has to be dragged for torpedoes every time they move, &c. Colonel Frankle writes that the enemy have assembled some 8,000 men to oppose him, and there are various rumors of Hill’s corps having come to North Carolina; that there are many appearances of quite a large body of troops having come from Virginia to occupy the line of the Roanoke, &c. Colonel Frankle does not give credit to all these rumors, but he insists that the enemy have a much larger force than we can send there. General Harland is now on the ground at Plymouth to decide what is best to be done. I consider myself as very unfortunate in not being able to go up to Plymouth myself, but General Harland is cool, and I am willing to trust to his judgment. Some cavalry horses have arrived lately from Washington, and I hear that more are coming. I hope very soon to have at least 600 effective cavalry, and with them I hope to find an opening somewhere on the Wilmington and Weldon Railroad where we can do some fine service.

I am, general, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

I. N. PALMER,
Brigadier-General.

HDQRS. EIGHTH MARYLAND VOLUNTEER INFANTRY,
December 29, 1864.

Brig. Gen. S. WILLIAMS,
Assistant Adjutant-General, Army of the Potomac:

GENERAL: In obedience to Special Orders, No. 346, headquarters Army of the Potomac, December 22, 1864, extract 7, I have the honor to present the name of Corpl. Isaac B. Conrad, Company D, Eighth Maryland Volunteers, as an enlisted man who is worthy of receiving a medal of honor for conspicuous gallantry. Besides continued meritorious conduct during the campaign, I beg leave to state that in the charge on Laurel Hill May 8, 1864, when the regimental colors were shot twice to the ground by wounding or killing the color bearer and every one of the color guard and Capt. James Bride was killed with the colors in his hand, this young man, then a private not yet twenty years old, jumped out of the ranks, seized the flag from the ground, held it in the front rank to the end of the charge and ever since carried it nobly through all engagements the regiment has been in.

I have the honor to sign myself,

J. G. JOHANNES,
Lieutenant-Colonel, Comdy. Eighth Maryland Volunteers.

---

FORT MONROE, December 29, 1864—1.30 p. m.
(Received 2.15 p. m.)

G. V. FOX,
Assistant Secretary of the Navy:

I return to City Point immediately, having learned that you have not yet left Washington.

U. S. GRANT, Lieutenant-General.

[42.]

FORT MONROE, December 29, 1864—1.30 p. m.
(Received 2.15 p. m.)

G. V. FOX,
Assistant Secretary of the Navy:

I return to City Point immediately, having learned that you have not yet left Washington.

U. S. GRANT, Lieutenant-General.

[42.]

GENERAL ORDERs, ARMY OF THE JAMES,
No. 64. December 31, 1864.

3. The following regiments having reported for duty with this command will form a Provisional Division, which will consist of two brigades, as follows: The Forty-first New York, One hundred and third New York, and One hundred and fourth Pennsylvania Volunteers will form the First Brigade; Colonel Heine, One hundred and third New York Volunteers, will take command. The Sixth and Tenth Artillery will form the Second Brigade; the senior officer present will take command. They will report as brigades direct to these headquarters. They will organize their staff and forward a roster of the same to these headquarters. All officers acting on the staff of Colonel Heine, commanding the division, are hereby relieved and will report back to their regiments for duty.

* * * * *

By command of Brevet Major-General Ferrero:

GEO. A. HICKS,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

[42.]

SPECIAL ORDERs, HEADQUARTERS NINTH ARMY CORPS,
No. 1. January 2, 1865.

By command of Bvt. Maj. Gen. O. B. Willcox:

JNO. C. YOUNGMAN,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

[46.]

GENERAL ORDERs, HDQRS. DEPT. OF WEST VIRGINIA,
No. 2. Cumberland, Md., January 3, 1865.

The following designating flags and badges will be used by the department and the different divisions and brigades serving in the Department of West Virginia: The eagle will be worn by the officers and men as the department badge. By those connected with department headquarters a gilt or golden eagle will be worn; the First Division and its brigades will wear a red eagle; the Second Division and its brigades will wear a white eagle; the Third Division and its brigades will wear a blue eagle; the Artillery Brigade will wear a red and white eagle; the separate brigades will wear a green eagle. The badges will be worn by the enlisted men upon the hat or cap. The department flag will be a red and blue flag, the blue next and the colors parallel to the staff, four feet six inches upon the staff, with six feet fly, with a gilt spread eagle four feet eight inches from tip to tip, with gilt fringe. The First Division flag, a plain red flag, four feet upon the staff, with five feet six inches fly, with a white spread eagle four feet from tip to tip, with white fringe. The First Brigade, First Division, will be a red triangular flag, four feet upon the staff, with four feet seven inches fly, with a white bar six inches wide next and parallel to the staff, and a white spread eagle two feet ten inches from tip to tip. The Second Brigade, First Division, will be a red triangular flag, four feet upon the staff, with four feet seven inches fly, with two white bars six inches wide upon the two outer sides, and a white spread eagle two feet five inches from tip to tip. The Third Brigade, Second Division, will be a red triangular flag, four feet upon the staff, with five feet seven inches fly, with a white bar six inches wide upon the three sides, and a white spread eagle two feet from tip to tip. The Second Division flag will be a white flag, of the same dimensions as the First Division, with a blue eagle and blue fringe. The brigade flags of the Second Division will be white triangular flags, similar to those of the First Division, with blue bars and blue eagles. The Third Division flag will be a blue flag, similar to First Division, with white eagle and white fringe. The brigade flag of the Third Division will be a blue triangular flag, similar to those of the First Division, with white eagle and white bars. The flag of the Artillery Brigade will be a red and blue triangular flag, four feet upon the staff, with four feet seven inches fly, with the colors perpendicular to the staff, the red uppermost; a white spread eagle, two feet ten inches from tip to tip. The flag of the Separate Brigade will be a green triangular flag, with a white bar six inches wide, next and parallel to the staff, and a white spread eagle two feet ten inches from tip to tip.

By command of Major-General Crook:

ROBT. P. KENNEDY,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

SPECIAL ORDERS, { HDQRS. DEPT. OF WEST VIRGINIA, }
{ No. 8. } Cumberland, Md., January 10, 1865.

By command of Major-General Crook:

ROBT. P. KENNEDY,
Assistant Adjutant-General.
Hon. E. M. Stanton,
Secretary of War:

I have the honor to recommend that Col. A. C. M. Pennington, Third New Jersey Cavalry, be promoted to the rank of brigadier-general, U. S. Volunteers. This recommendation is made in consideration of the valuable and meritorious services of Colonel Pennington during the war, but particularly in recognition of his ability and gallantry as displayed in the battles of the 9th and 19th of October, 1864, at Tom's Run and Cedar Creek. The promotion of Colonel Pennington is also necessary in order that he may be assigned to the command of General Chapman's brigade, of this division, General Chapman having been transferred to the command of the Second Division Cavalry, and the senior colonel of that brigade being totally disqualified to exercise the command of a brigade.

I am, very respectfully, &c.,

G. A. Custer,
Brevet Major-General, Commanding Third Division.

[First indorsement.]

HEADQUARTERS CAVALRY, MIDDLE MILITARY DIVISION,
January 11, 1865.

I take pleasure in cordially indorsing the within recommendation. Colonel Pennington is every way competent to fill the position; is now in command of a brigade and has commanded it in several engagements. It is absolutely necessary to assign him to another brigade. There are colonels in his brigade who are competent to command it. Colonel Pennington is one of the most efficient and gallant officers in the cavalry service.

Respectfully submitted.

A. T. A. Torbert,
Brevet Major-General and Chief of Cavalry.

[Second indorsement.]

HEADQUARTERS MIDDLE MILITARY DIVISION,
January 13, 1865.

Colonel Pennington is a very valuable officer. It is such men who should be promoted. His promotion is now very necessary, so that he can take command of General Chapman's brigade.

P. H. Sheridan,
Major-General.

Major-General Terry and Rear-Admiral Porter,
Commanding, &c.:

The Secretary of War has the honor to acknowledge the receipt of the rebel flag of Fort Fisher, and in the name of the President congratulates you and the gallant officers and soldiers, sailors and marines, of your commands, and tenders you thanks for the valor and skill displayed in your respective parts of the great achievement in the operations against Fort Fisher and in its assault and capture. The combined operations of the squadron and land forces of your commands deserve and will receive the thanks of the nation, and will be held in admiration throughout the world as a proof of the naval and military prowess of the United States.

EDWIN M. STANTON,
Secretary of War.

HEADQUARTERS U. S. FORCES,
Fort Fisher, N. C., January 23, 1865.

Brig. Gen. J. A. RAWLINS,
Chief of Staff:

GENERAL: The honorable Secretary of War was at this place the evening succeeding its capture. He desired me to make to him directly at that time recommendations for the promotion of a few of the officers of my command, and so soon as it could be done to forward the names of others. At that time I recommended Brigadier-General Ames for promotion to major-general by brevet in the volunteer service, and he was so promoted. On reflection I feel that I have not done full justice to General Ames' merits and brilliant service, and I now recommend that he be brevetted a brigadier-general in the Army. He has twice heretofore been recommended for brevets in the regular service. He won his appointment of brigadier-general of volunteers by his gallantry at Chancellorsville; he commanded a division with marked ability at Gettysburg; his conduct, skill, and courage at the storming of Fort Fisher were beyond praise. In view of his past record and his recent services I think that he should receive a promotion which will not terminate with the volunteer organization, but be as lasting as his professional life.

I have the honor to be, general, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

ALFRED H. TERRY,
Major-General, Commanding.

[Indorsement.]

HEADQUARTERS ARMIES OF THE UNITED STATES,
City Point, Va., January 25, 1865.

Approved and respectfully forwarded to the Secretary of War.

U. S. GRANT,
Lieutenant-General.

HEADQUARTERS SECOND CORPS,
February 5, 1865—1.40 p. m.

Brig. Gen. T. A. SMYTH:

The major-general commanding directs me to say that the cavalry sent to Dabney's Mill with directions to communicate with you are unable to reach the mill, Pegram's brigade of the enemy's force having been sent down that road; and, further, that the brigade of Mott's command that was to have been placed in position on your right to perfect the connection with your right and McAllister's left, will not for the present be sent, but that McAllister will be directed to take up another position, which will more nearly connect your right with McAllister's left. This will be the disposition for the present. Another brigade has been ordered up.

Respectfully,

H. H. BINGHAM,
Major and Judge-Advocate Second Corps.
HDQRS. NINETEENTH MASSACHUSETTS VOLUNTEERS,
February 19, 1865.

Capt. WILLIAM H. GILDER,
Assistant Adjutant-General:

CAPTAIN: Compliant with orders contained in circular of yesterday, I have the honor to forward herewith the names of two officers of my regiment whose good conduct on the 5th instant is deserving of recognition: Second Lieut. William H. Tibbitts was in charge of the skirmishers first sent forward, and led his men in gallant style at the ford at Armstrong's Mill, when he was killed in the fearless discharge of his duty. The adjutant of the regiment, First Lieut. J. Fred. Aytoun, rendered great assistance to Lieutenant Tibbitts. Most of the men being recruits, he contributed toward keeping them to their work by his example and encouragement. The adjutant had his clothes pierced with bullets and his horse was shot under him.

I have the honor to be, captain, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

EDMUND RICE,

SPECIAL ORDERS, } HDQRS. ARMY OF THE POTOMAC,
No. 43. } February 14, 1865.

4. Bvt. Brig. Gen. C. H. T. Collis, colonel One hundred and fourteenth Pennsylvania Volunteers, is relieved as a member of the general court-martial instituted by paragraph 2, Special Orders, No. 308, November 14, 1864, from these headquarters, and is assigned to duty as commandant of the post of City Point, Va.

By command of Major-General Meade:

GEO. D. RUGGLES,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

ORDERS.] HEADQUARTERS TWENTY-FIFTH ARMY CORPS,
ARMY OF THE JAMES,
In the Field, Va., February 20, 1865.

In view of the circumstances under which this corps was raised and filled, the peculiar claims of its individual members upon the justice and fair dealing of the prejudiced, and the regularity of the conduct of the troops, which deserve those equal rights that have been hitherto denied the majority, the commanding general has been induced to adopt the Square as the distinctive badge of the Twenty-fifth Army Corps. Wherever danger has been found and glory to be won, the heroes who have fought for immortality have been distinguished by some emblem, to which every victory added a new luster. They looked upon their badge with pride, for to it they had given its fame. In the homes of smiling peace it recalled the days of courageous endurance and the hours of deadly strife and it solaced the moment of death, for it was a symbol of a life of heroism and self-denial. The poets still sing of the Templar's Cross, the Crescent of the Turk, the Chalice of the hunted Christian, and the White Plume of Murat, that crested the wave of valor, sweeping resistlessly to victory. Soldiers, to you is given a chance in this spring campaign of making this badge immortal. Let history record that on the banks of the James 30,000 freemen not only gained their own liberty, but shattered the prejudice of the world and gave to the land of their birth peace, union, and glory.

GODFREY WEITZEL,
Major-General, Commanding.

HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE POTOMAC,
February 25, 1865.

To CORPS COMMANDERS:

Everything tends to satisfy the major-general commanding that the rebels contemplate evacuating Petersburg. Anticipating orders from the lieutenant-general, he desires to call your attention to the necessity of treating this matter with great earnestness. Whenever your lines are not sufficiently near to watch the enemy, it will be necessary for you either to advance your lines or to organize scouting parties of trustworthy and enterprising men who will keep you advised of all that may occur corroborative of this view of the intentions of the enemy. Without striking tents it will be necessary to keep your command ready to follow up closely any movement, even with small parties, through any gap that may be discovered. Deserters are to be examined at once and the result telegraphed.

ALEX. S. WEBB,
Brevet Major-General and Chief of Staff.

SPECIAL ORDERS, WAR DEPT., ADJT. GENERAL'S OFFICE,
No. 98.  Washington, February 27, 1865.

71. Brig. Gen. E. W. Hinks, U. S. Volunteers, upon being relieved in his duties in the State of New York, will proceed without delay to Harrisburg, Pa., and assume the duties of assistant to the provost-marshal-general, chief mustering and disbursing officer, and superintendent of volunteer recruiting service for the Western Division of the State of Pennsylvania.

By order of the Secretary of War:

E. D. TOWNSEND,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

SPECIAL ORDERS, HDQRS. ARMY OF THE POTOMAC,
No. 54. February 27, 1865.

2. Brig. Gen. William Hays, U. S. Volunteers, having reported at these headquarters, pursuant to paragraph 4, Special Orders, No. 49, current series, Adjutant-General's Office, will report to the commanding general Second Army Corps for assignment to duty.
8. Bvt. Brig. Gen. G. H. McKibbin, U. S. Volunteers, having been assigned to duty according to his brevet rank by the President, will report for assignment to command to the commanding officer Ninth Corps.

By command of Major-General Parke:

GEO. D. RUGGLES,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

HDQRS. THIRD BRIG., THIRD DIV., FIFTH ARMY CORPS,

February —, 1865.

Maj. EDWARD C. BAIRD,
Assistant Adjutant-General:

MAJOR: I have the honor to call the attention of the general commanding the division to the gallant and meritorious services rendered by the following-named officers in the battle near Dabney’s Mills, on the 6th instant, and to ask that they may receive brevets in the grade above their present rank: Lieut. Col. James Creney, Ninety-fifth New York Volunteers, was distinguished in this engagement by coolness, courage, and skill in the handling of his command. More than once during the battle when his command, fiercely assaulted by the enemy, seemed on the point of falling back, the colonel seized his regimental colors, and, pushing to the front in full view of the men, restored order and discipline where a moment before disaster seemed inevitable. This officer received a severe wound, which will unfit him for duty for many weeks to come. Maj. West Funk, One hundred and twenty-first Pennsylvania Volunteers, was distinguished in this battle for the most daring and impetuous gallantry. In the final assault upon our line by Mahone’s troops Major Funk exhibited the greatest courage by taking his regimental flag and rushing toward the enemy, thus inspiring his regiment with the most resolute and determined courage. He constantly exposed his person as a conspicuous mark for the enemy. He received a severe wound in the shoulder near the close of the engagement. Capt. James Coey, One hundred and forty-seventh New York Volunteers, was in command of his regiment, and behaved most gallantly throughout the engagement until he was severely wounded in the head near the close of the day. This officer by word and example was indefatigable in his efforts to keep his men before the enemy, and his efforts were successful. Capt. J. Harrison Lambdin, assistant adjutant-general of Third Brigade, was prompt, efficient, skillful, and most courageous during the entire engagement, and by his presence and daring rendered the most valuable services. I have never seen an officer more self-possessed and resolute under fire. I consider that a brevet conferred upon this gallant officer would be but a slight reward for his services on this and other fields. I may say further that Captain Lambdin served with distinction in the late campaign from the Rapidan to Petersburg, and was severely wounded on the 18th of June. On the 6th instant his horse received two wounds in the charge made upon our line by the division of Mahone. First Lieut. Richard Esmond, One hundred and forty-seventh New York Volunteers, acted as an aide on my staff, and deserves a brevet for his gallant conduct. He was present throughout the engagement, and in the execution of his duties displayed remarkable courage and coolness. In the charge of Mahone, already referred to, this young officer mingled freely among the troops, and by words and example rendered most valuable service. In the severest part of the conflict he offered to take the brigade colors in advance of the line, hoping thereby to induce the troops to charge the enemy. This he was not allowed to do, as I deemed it a deed of too hardy a character to be attempted by any one. I earnestly recommend him to the favorable consideration of the Government.

I am, major, very respectfully, your obedient servant,
HENRY A. MORROW,
Brevet Brigadier-General, Commanding Third Brigade.

HDQRS. SEVENTH WISCONSIN VETERAN VOLUNTEERS,
March 2, 1865.

Maj. Gen. G. K. WARREN,
Commanding Fifth Army Corps:

GENERAL: Your favor of the 28th, in answer to mine of the 18th, ultimo received.* You state that the main objection to keeping my plan secret is that “you (I) require to select your (my) men and drill them beforehand,” stating that “that will certainly arouse discussion and put the enemy on his guard.” Permit me to suggest if your objection might not be obviated if it could be made to appear that at your headquarters or at headquarters Army of the Potomac it was thought necessary to have a body guard or skirmish command of 1,000 picked men, say one captain, one lieutenant, three sergeants, four corporals, and thirty privates from a regiment of those who have specially distinguished themselves in battle, to be selected with great care by the commanding officer of the respective regiments. Should the above be thought objectionable, might not the command, selected as above for special service, be sent beyond the line of the department, then drilled and secretly returned when needed? Should either of my suggestions or former propositions meet with favor, I should be pleased to have the command armed with the Spencer rifle.

Respectfully, &c.,

H. RICHARDSON,
Lieutenant-Colonel, Commanding Regiment.

SPECIAL ORDERS, No. 74. HDQRS. TWENTY-FOURTH ARMY CORPS,
In the Field, Va., March 18, 1865.

4. Col. Edward H. Ripley, Ninth Vermont Volunteers, is hereby relieved from duty with his regiment, and will report to Bvt. Brig. Gen.
T. M. Harris, commanding Independent Division, Twenty-fourth Army Corps, for assignment to duty.

By command of Maj. Gen. John Gibbon:
A. HENRY EMBLER,
Captain, Fifty-ninth New York Veteran Volunteers,

SPECIAL ORDERS, No. 76.

In the Field, Va., March 20, 1865.

5. So much of paragraph IV, Special Orders, No. 74, from these headquarters, ordering Col. E. H. Ripley, Ninth Vermont Volunteers, to report to Bvt. Brig. Gen. T. M. Harris, commanding Independent Division, for assignment to duty, is hereby revoked.

By command of Maj. Gen. John Gibbon:

A. HENRY EMBLER,

Captain, Fifty-ninth New York Veteran Volunteers,

SPECIAL ORDERS, No. 54.

March 22, 1865.

I. Col. E. H. Ripley, Ninth Vermont Volunteers, is hereby relieved from duty with his regiment and assigned to the temporary command of the First Brigade of this division.

By order of Brig. Gen. Charles Devens:

GEO. W. HOOKER,

Assistant Adjutant-General.

HEADQUARTERS THIRD DIVISION, SECOND ARMY CORPS,

March 25, 1865.

Lieut. Col. C. A. WHITTIER:

COLONEL: I have the honor to report that a small force from the Fourth Brigade charged the enemy's picket-line near my right and drove them into their works, drawing fire from their intrenchments. The officer in charge thinks the works were occupied by a line at least one rank deep. A similar demonstration at about the center of my picket-line by a party of 200 men from the First Brigade failed of success, they being repulsed by the enemy's picket-line. I have ordered another charge by the same 200 from First Brigade at a point farther to my left.

Very respectfully,

NELSON A. MILES,

Brevet Major-General.

HEADQUARTERS THIRD DIVISION, SECOND CORPS,

March 25, 1865—8.30 a. m.

Col. C. A. WHITTIER,

Assistant Adjutant-General, Second Corps:

COLONEL: General De Trobriand has sent out a reconnoitering party and reports that there is no change in the enemy's picket-line, and that his (the enemy's) works are fully manned and the men are cheering.

Very respectfully,

G. MOTT,

Brevet Major-General.
Maj. H. H. BINGHAM:

MAJOR: I think the most practicable place for the attack, if one is ordered, will be near the Watkins house. At that place the advance is the nearest. General McAllister reports the works in his front well filled with men; General De Trobriand, that the line in his front at the time of the reconnaissance was very thin; since, troops have been brought from their right, and now they have a strong line. I think it possible to carry their works, but the probabilities are decreasing rapidly. McAllister has captured a part of the picket-line in his front, with a number of prisoners.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

G. MOTT,
Brevet Major-General.

GENERAL ORDERS, | HEADQUARTERS NINTH ARMY CORPS,
No. 3. | March 26, 1865.

At 4 a. m. on March 25 instant the enemy, having massed three divisions in front of Fort Stedman, in the lines of the Third Brigade, First Division, of this corps, by a sudden rush broke the picket-line, and after a gallant defense by the garrison of Fort Stedman overpowered it and gained possession of the fort and a portion of the parapet on either side. He then assaulted Fort Haskell and Battery 9, but was repulsed with much loss. He attempted to advance toward the railroad but was speedily checked, and the First Brigade, Third Division, coming up, he was forced back to the front. From thence he was soon driven by a charge of the Third Division and the Second and Third Brigades, First Division, with the loss of many killed and wounded, 1,949 prisoners, including 71 commissioned officers and 9 stand of colors, and the entire line seized by him was reoccupied.

The major-general commanding congratulates the corps on this auspicious result. It will be a source of pride to him and them that so heavy and desperate an attack upon their line was repelled by them before the arrival of the supports promptly and cordially furnished from the other corps. The gallantry and steadiness of the troops engaged, which so brilliantly retrieved a momentary disaster and converted it into a victory, merit and receive his warmest gratitude and commendation. The artillery in position bearing on the line held by the enemy, and the reserve batteries under the personal supervision of Brevet Brigadier-General Tidball, chief of artillery, did prompt and very efficient service, and inflicted severe damage upon the enemy. To Brig. Gen. J. F. Hartranft, commanding Third Division, who had charge of the assault, great credit is due, and his division is specially congratulated on the distinguished success which their good conduct has met with in this their first engagement. The steadiness and courage of the troops upon the flanks of Fort Stedman, who held their position despite the breaking of their line, are deserving of great praise, and the major-general commanding takes occasion to impress upon the corps the lesson enforced by the example of their brave comrades of the First Division that a line broken is not carried, and that by prompt rallying and tenaciously holding the position so flanked the enemy may be made to pay dearly for his temerity.

JNO. G. PARKE,
Major-General, Commanding.
SPECIAL ORDERS, \{ HDQRS. ARMY OF THE POTOMAC, No. 78, \} March 27, 1865.

12. Maj. Gen. George Crook, U. S. Volunteers, having reported in person to the commanding general in obedience to paragraph 1, Special Orders, No. 62, current series, from headquarters Armies of the United States, is assigned to the command of the Second Cavalry Division.

By command of Major-General Meade:

GEO. D. RUGGLES,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

HEADQUARTERS SECOND CORPS,
March 28, 1865—1.20 p. m.

Maj.-Gen. WEBB, Chief of Staff:

GENERAL: By the modified order I am to take up a position three miles long as measured in a straight line on the map, which will be not less than three miles and a half or four miles on the ground. I cannot therefore be strong on the Quaker road and will have a weak line (no reserves or supports). Warren is, as I understand, to move to Boisseau's, on the Boydton plank road, when I am formed or a little before, and from there move forward some and take position connecting with me on the right. If the enemy are active they may interpose on the Quaker road, try to break me there, and get at Warren with their main force before he is formed. The map being a blank on the north side of Gravelly Run between the Vaughan road and Quaker road and the Dabney Mill road, I shall have to find out all about the country, which will render the formation comparatively slow. One mode of remedying the difficulty would be by some part of the force intended to be left in my present line being used to hold well across the Dabney Mill road, say, for the space of three quarters of a mile. But this is open to the objection that my right, being near the Dabney Mill road, ought to control the force moving on it. I cannot learn that there are any intermediate roads between Dabney's and Quaker.

Very truly, yours,

A. A. HUMPHREYS,
Major-General.

HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE POTOMAC,
March 28, 1865—8 p. m.

Maj.-Gen. HUMPHREYS,
Commanding Second Corps:

I am instructed to inform you that the major-general commanding does not expect you to hold to the Quaker road at the risk of having a too extended line. You are instructed to establish your right in a position to be within supporting distance of Major-General Ord. You are then to take a position extending toward the Quaker road (holding one division in reserve, if you find it necessary). Your line being determined and General Warren notified of your position, he will move up to connect with your left, probably by the Quaker road. He will endeavor to cover both the Quaker and plank roads. He is notified of this.*

ALEX. S. WEBB,
Brevet Major-General and Chief of Staff.

*See Webb to Warren, 8.15 p. m., Vol. XLVI, Part III, p. 229.
Maj. Gen. JOHN GIBBON,
Commanding Twenty-fourth Corps:

GENERAL: The strength of my picket-line at present is as follows:
First Division, on right, 500 men; Third Division, in center, 600 men; Second Division, on left, 715 men. Please let me know at what time you will relieve the pickets. I would suggest that before daylight will be best. The pickets which you post on the left of the Vaughan road on the other side of Hatcher's Run may be withdrawn after the corps has passed the point where they cross the road. If you will send three orderlies here to-night I will have them directed to the right of picket-line headquarters of the different divisions, that the commander of each picket detail may be able to find his position and communicate, if necessary, with my division commanders.*

A. A. HUMPHREYS.

HEADQUARTERS SECOND ARMY CORPS,
March 27 [28], 1865.

Major-General GIBBON,
Commanding Twenty-fourth Corps:

GENERAL: From my knowledge of the line I now hold I should say that 200 men to support Fort Sampson, a brigade about where Battery A is (on the road running west from Fort Cummings), a brigade about the site of the Westmoreland Chimneys (Batteries B and C), a brigade about Battery E (near the Tucker house) to hold down to the Vaughan road, and some support for the battery on the left of the Vaughan road would be sufficient. I do not doubt that the picket force may be reduced. Upon that subject the division commander will have the most recent information as to the reduction in strength of the enemy's picket force. It is not necessary to have any guns in Battery D, near the Thompson house. Colonel Hazard will have a battery of four guns in Battery A. He has none for the other batteries in consequence of being obliged to keep batteries in Forts Gregg and Sampson. Four guns in each of the Batteries B, C, E, and left of the Vaughan road will be sufficient. The right of my line will begin at Fort Gregg, and I have troops camped on the curtain between Gregg and Sampson.
Wright furnishes the garrison for Sampson. I have received your note by hand of General Smyth.†

Very respectfully,

A. A. HUMPHREYS,
Major-General, Commanding.

The staff officers will be at your headquarters at 4 a.m.

[46.]

HEADQUARTERS FIRST DIVISION,
March 29, 1865. (Received 6 p.m.)

Major-General HUMPHREYS:

GENERAL: General Miles has connected his skirmish and line of battle with General Warren's command. General Warren directed me to say to you that his prisoners report the enemy to have fallen back to

* For reply see Gibbon to Humphreys, Vol. XLVI, Part III, p. 225.
† This in reply to Gibbon, Vol. XLVI, Part III, p. 225.
their line of works on Hatcher’s Run. His skirmish line has advanced as far as the Boydton plank road. No enemy to oppose them. He requests that if you are in communication with General Meade that you will please report the position of his skirmish line. General Warren is of the opinion that he will not need the assistance of General Miles’ command. Generals Warren’s and Miles’ skirmishers are still advancing. General Warren reports that his troops encountered in the battle just over the troops of Johnson’s and Anderson’s divisions.

Respectfully,

H. H. BINGHAM,
Major and Acting Assistant Adjutant-General.

HEADQUARTERS SECOND DIVISION, SECOND CORPS,
March 30, 1865—7.35 a. m.

Lieutenant-Colonel WHITTIER,
Assistant Adjutant-General:

COLONEL: The Second Division is now advancing. The ground over which it is marching is very swampy. The advance of the division from General Ord’s army has just reached Dabney’s Mill.

Respectfully,

JOHN WILLIAN,
Acting Assistant Inspector-General.

HEADQUARTERS FIRST DIVISION, SECOND ARMY CORPS,
March 30, 1865—6.10 p. m.

Lieut. Col. C. A. WHITTIER,
Assistant Adjutant-General:

COLONEL: I have the honor to request authority to issue a ration of whisky to the troops of my command to-night, and as I think the enemy know we are here, I would ask permission to have the division band brought up. The attack on General Warren was repulsed. My line is the same as when last reported.*

NELSON A. MILES,
Brevet Major-General, Commanding.

HEADQUARTERS SECOND ARMY CORPS,
April 1, 1865—8 a. m.

Brigadier-General HAYS,
Commanding Second Division:

GENERAL: I am instructed to confer with Major-General Ord concerning a joint plan of operations between Turner’s division and yours for the capture of the enemy’s redoubt just north of the Crow house. I have not yet heard from General Ord, but from other source I learn that General Turner is erecting batteries on the north side of Hatcher’s Run, by which he expects to get a reverse fire on the redoubt and enable you to assault it. You will please make careful examination and preparations for co-operating in every way with General Turner, and inform me of the plan by which in your judgment the redoubt can be captured.†

Very respectfully,

A. A. HUMPHREYS.

* For reply see Vol. XLVI, Part III, p. 296.
† See Hays to Humphreys, Vol. XLVI, Part III, p. 413.
Brigadier-General Hays,

Commanding Second Division:

GENERAL: I send you a copy of General Ord's communication relative to the operation against the Crow-house battery or redoubt. I infer from General Ord's communication that there is no slashing on the side of the work looking toward him. Have this carefully ascertained. You will of course have the work examined from every point of view from which it can be seen.*

A. A. HUMPHREYS,
Major-General, Commanding.

HEADQUARTERS U. S. FORCES,
Richmond, Va., April 3, 1865.

By command of Maj. Gen. Godfrey Weitzel the following rules, regulations, and orders are established for the government of the city of Richmond and the preservation of public peace and order:

I. Lieut. Col. John Coughlin, Tenth Regiment New Hampshire Volunteers, provost-marshal-general of the Department of Virginia, headquarters at the custom-house building, will issue orders in relation to the general and special duties of the provost-marshal within the department. He will have the entire supervision of all permits and licenses for trade and admission into Richmond of the supplies for the army and destitute families.

II. Loyal persons, until further orders, will be allowed to bring to Richmond, under such regulations as he may establish, provisions of all kinds necessary for the above uses.

III. Lieut. Col. Frederick L. Manning, One hundred and forty-eighth Regiment New York Volunteers, provost-marshal-general, Army of the James, headquarters in the capitol building, will have general charge of all provost duty pertaining to the armies in and about Richmond.

IV. Bvt. Brig. Gen. Edward H. Ripley, U. S. Volunteers, is hereby placed in command of all the troops doing provost or guard duty in the city of Richmond. All details of provost and other guards and orderlies will be made by him. District provost-marshals hereinafter designated will report to him: For the First District, Lieut. Col. Normand Smith, commanding Thirteenth Regiment New Hampshire Volunteers; for the Second District, Lieut. Col. W. Kreutzer, commanding Ninety-eighth New York Volunteers; for the Third District, Maj. Theodore Miller, commanding One hundred and thirty-ninth New York Volunteers; for the Fourth District, Maj. Charles Warren, commanding Eleventh Regiment Connecticut Volunteers. Each provost-marshal of a district will be held accountable for the preservation of the public peace and of good order in his district. They will open books of registry in their respective districts, in which each white male inhabitant will register his name, age, residence, and occupation. They will also administer the oath of allegiance to all persons desiring to take it in their districts and keep a registry of the same. The provost-marshal-general of the department will issue such orders as are necessary to carry out the details of the above order.

V. Arrangements have been made to secure a continuous supply of water and gas as soon as the public works can be repaired and put in operation. Capt. H. B. Blood, chief quartermaster Twenty-fifth Army Corps, will furnish the labor and material necessary for the purpose.

* See Hays to Humphreys, Vol. XLVI, Part III, p. 413.

VI. All officers of the fire department will report immediately to Brevet Brigadier-General Ripley, who will give the necessary orders to perfect the organization and render it efficient.

VII. A commission is being constituted for the relief of destitute families in the city of Richmond. This commission will fully investigate the wants of those applying for aid and decide upon the legitimacy of the claims in each case. Lieut. Col. Dexter E. Clapp, Thirty-eighth Regiment U. S. Colored Troops, with two prominent citizens of Richmond to be hereafter designated by the commanding general, will constitute this commission. Lieutenant-Colonel Clapp will report to the military governor for instructions.

VIII. All loyal persons may keep open public hotels and restaurants, under licenses granted and restrictions imposed by the provost-marshal-general of the department. All bar rooms and all places of any description whatever for the sale of intoxicating drinks will be closed, and any person who shall sell or give away any intoxicating liquor to any enlisted man of the armies of the United States will be summarily punished by fine and imprisonment and confiscation of his property.

IX. A military commission has been established, of which Colonel Wooster, Twenty-ninth Connecticut Volunteers, is president, for the trial of aggravated offenses. Suitable tribunals for the prompt punishment of minor offenses against the public peace will be constituted and announced in future orders.

X. The progress of the conflagration, which before the advent of the Federal troops threatened and was intended to involve the whole city in destruction, having been arrested and the restoration of peace and good order having succeeded the reign of anarchy which then prevailed, the efforts of all well-disposed citizens of Richmond are respectfully invoked in aid of the exertions of the military authorities to restore as far as possible to the city of Richmond its peace and prosperity.

G. F. SHEPLEY,

SPECIAL ORDERs, }
HDQRS. ARMY OF THE POTOMAC,
No. 87.
April 6, 1865.

1. Brevet Major-General Barlow, U. S. Volunteers, will report to Major-General Humphreys, commanding Second Corps, for assignment to the Second Division, Second Corps.

By command of Major-General Meade:

GEO. D. RUGGLES,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

GENERAL ORDERs, }
HDQRS. FIRST BRIG., THIRD DIV.,
TWENTY-FOURTH ARMY CORPS,
Provost Guard, Richmond, Va., April 6, 1865.
No. 1.

To more fully organize and arrange the guard duty in this city it is hereby ordered that officers in charge of headquarters guards, guards on quartermaster's, commissary, ordnance, and hospital stores, not regularly detailed from this brigade by orders from these headquarters, will at once send in official lists of such guards, with name, rank, and regiment, stating nature of duty that requires their presence in the city, and also their place of duty. Passes will be made out from such lists for the protection of the guards. All soldiers now on duty as special guards at private residences will report at once to Capt. C. H.
Curtis, acting assistant inspector-general of this brigade, at the City Hall.

By command of Bvt. Brig. Gen. E. H. Ripley:

R. P. STANIELS,
Captain and Acting Assistant Adjutant-General.

SPECIAL ORDERS, No. 88.

HDQRS. ARMY OF THE POTOMAC,
April 7, 1865.

By command of Major-General Meade:

GEO. D. RUGGLES,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

GENERAL ORDERS, No. 31.

HDQRS. 3D DIV., 24TH ARMY CORPS,
AND TROOPS TEMPORARILY ATTACHED,
Richmond, Va., April 7, 1865.

This command will be reviewed to-morrow at 2 p.m. by the brigadier-general commanding. The line will be formed on Main street, with the left resting at the outskirts of the city; the artillery on the left and in column. The brigadier-general commanding will pass from left to right, receiving salutes by regiments. The infantry will be formed as follows: The Second Brigade on the right, the Third Brigade in the center, and the disposable troops of the First Brigade on the left.
Colonel Ripley will direct all the troops of the First Brigade, save those actually required for the police of the city, to report with the band, under command of the senior officer, should his own duties prevent him from taking command, at the point designated. After the general commanding has passed to the right of the line the command will wheel into column by divisions or companies, as commanding officers may deem best, and move through the city, playing marching salutes to the major-general commanding detachment Army of the James, returning to the point where they entered the city, from whence they will return to their respective camps. The troops will parade in light marching order without blankets or overcoats. The company of cavalry attached to the command will report at these headquarters at 1.30 p.m.

By order of Brig. Gen. C. Devens:

GEO. W. HOOKER,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

RICHMOND, April 7, 1865.

General E. H. Ripley,
Commanding Post of Richmond:

GENERAL: It is with great reluctance that I presume to trespass upon your time, now so fully occupied with most important matters.
In recalling to your mind the communication you made to the clergy of this town on yesterday, I do so with the sincere acknowledgment of the courtesy and spirit of conciliation manifested by you in the discharge of a duty which you stated yourself to be of a delicate and in part painful nature, and also in the earnest conviction that a respectful and clear statement of the circumstances and principles which direct our views (clearer than any that could be made in a loose and rambling conversation on the part of those who unexpectedly were called on to appear before you in this matter) might not be without its effect upon the ultimate decision of the question on your part. It has been stated upon credible authority that in the discussion of the question whether the oath of allegiance to the United States should be administered to the citizens of Richmond, President Lincoln said that his mind was not made up as to the expediency of the measure, and that he referred it to the military authority; whereupon Major-General Weitzel is reported to have said that his mind was fully made up, and that his experience had convinced him of the inexpediency and uselessness of the measure, and that then it was decided that the oath should not be enforced for the present. It is not my province to prove that the wisdom of this decision is indorsed by all the lessons of history, and unless I mistake in accordance with the almost universal practice of nations. But I would most respectfully put the inquiry whether the principle of that decision does not apply with even greater force to the question presented by you yesterday in its bearing upon the services of the Episcopal churches in this city. Allow me, as briefly as possible, to state my views. In their civil capacity clergymen can claim no exemption, nor do they claim any exemption, from the duties incumbent upon the inhabitants of the Commonwealth in general, though under the constitutions of several of the States they cannot claim all the rights which other citizens possess, being by their position excluded from some public positions open to others. But on general grounds they stand in the same position, being bound to loyalty and obedience to the laws of the land and liable to prosecution and penalty for disloyalty and violation of those laws. If, for instance, the Government should demand the oath of allegiance of the citizens of Richmond, it is clear that the clergy would be included by the provisions of that order.
If the policy of the Government at this time foregoes this demand, it would necessarily operate alike upon the ministers of the gospel.

But in the capacity as ministers we stand under ecclesiastical, not under civil law. This is in accordance with the fundamental laws of this country. There is no legal power in this land to interfere there, and it never has been done. Whether there shall be one undivided Episcopal Church on this continent or two, or any number of them, does not come within the cognizance of the civil courts; and should any one diocese act contrary to the laws of the church of which it formed a part, and separate from it, it might make itself liable to ecclesiastical censure and perhaps excommunication; but the church could not call upon the secular authority to enforce its decision or accompany it with penalties. Whatever may have been the occasion of the separation of the Southern dioceses from the Episcopal Church in the United States, that separation may involve ecclesiastical misdemeaors; it cannot be construed into a civil misdemeanor, and there is no court in the United States before which the case could be tried. If, according to the firm belief you expressed yesterday, the time is near at hand when the authority of the United States Government will be established over the whole of its former extent, the question whether the church in the South would reunite with that in the North, or remain in a state of ecclesiastical separation (like the Presbyterian, Methodist, and Baptist churches North and South) entirely distinct or connected by a concordat, or whether the single dioceses would in future exist in their isolated condition or unite in provinces, this question will be discussed in the church, and not in the councils or courts of the civil authority. There is not in this country a union of church and state. As clergymen of the Protestant Episcopal Church in the diocese of Virginia we are subject to the ecclesiastical authority of that diocese and in our ministerial functions bound by her laws. As far as known to me, our clergy have been guided by this from the beginning. When the secession of the Southern States took place, and it was expected and by many desired that Virginia should adopt the same course, the clergy of Virginia (whatever their individual views or wishes on that question might have been) felt it their duty to continue the prayer for the President of the United States as prescribed by the ritual of the church to which they then belonged. They were frequently urged to omit it; but the political question was not theirs; they had no right in any way to anticipate the action of the State. When Virginia seceded, the political condition of the country made it necessary for them to omit that prayer; but they did not, nor could they lawfully substitute for it any other prayer until the church in convention assembled acted in the premises and prescribed by her authority a modified ritual. Individual action of the clergy was not attempted. We are now living under the ecclesiastical law of the diocese of Virginia. In deference to the circumstances existing, and acknowledging the power which the providence of God has given the Government of the United States over us, we feel bound to omit the prayer furnished us by our church for the President of the Confederate States. We do so because the continuance of that prayer would be construed to involve an act of disloyalty; we do so because we deem it our Christian duty to avoid offense, and do all we can to conscientiously, and as far as the law under which as clergymen we live will allow, to promote peace and good will. But whilst we continue to live under the ecclesiastical authority of this diocese, and until that diocese orders otherwise, we cannot conscientiously, by our own unauthorized action, introduce a prayer which is not found in our ritual, but has been removed from it by the only authority which has that power. We stand now on the same ground on which we stood in the beginning of this war. As we conscientiously then refrained from individual action and resisted outside pressure and even opprobrium until our lawful authority had acted, I do not see how our course can be changed now.

This I beg leave respectfully to remark is the legal side of the question, as I understand it. But allow me to refer to the question of equity and fair, impartial dealing. It is evident, and was acknowledged by you on yesterday that the difficulty raised affects chiefly, if not solely, the services of the Episcopal Church. Permit me to ask in all humility, is it generous and fair to exact of us what is not wanted of others? You may suppose that, until by your late successes you obtained possession of Richmond, the feeling and conduct of the different denominations in this city was the same, sincerely or at least outwardly, in obedience to and in favor of the cause of the Confederate States. The extempore mode of worship enabled the ministers of other denominations to indulge their feelings of loyalty or patriotism to any extent, and you know too much of human nature to expect that this should not have been done in times of excitement and commotion. The ministers of the Episcopal Church were content to use the sober collect which their church prescribed and could not go beyond. Now, however, those other ministers, not having a form which is binding, can readily conform to the present state of things and the demands of the United States Government, without being required to go beyond the general terms in which the Scripture exhorts all Christians to pray for those in authority. Would it be fair and according to equity to exact more of the ministers of the Episcopal Church than is demanded of others? We yield all and avoid every allusion to the Confederate States, praying in our litany for all in authority. We comply with everything done by ministers of other denominations. Shall we be singled out as alone bound to use a special prayer, which to use at present would be in violation of our ecclesiastical obligations? Is the Episcopal Church an established church, that the State has authority over its ritual? The omission of the collect, which in either ritual, the prayer book of the church in the United States or that of the church in the Confederate States, refers to the Chief Magistrate, involves the perfect admission of the state of things and submission to the actual power possessed by your Government. We go further than all other ministers, for we omit a prescribed prayer. But the reintroduction of a prayer not found in our ritual, nor authorized as yet by our ecclesiastical authority, would exact more of us than is demanded of all others, make an invidious distinction which would be oppressive to the consciences of the ministers of our church and its members alike, who both, I am sure, desire, by their quiet and inoffensive conduct, to respond to the liberal policy pursued by those now in command. It was with unfeigned gratification that the expressions of your desire to pursue a conciliatory course were listened to. If it is the purpose of the United States Government to heal dissensions and promote peace in this way, then a course which, under the present circumstances and the feelings naturally existing among many of the people and an influential and valuable class of the community, would wound them and mark them out beyond all others, and most probably drive them for a while from their own churches, would appear to be so much at variance with that purpose, that I humbly hope it may be the pleasure of the Government not to insist upon the use of the prayer in the prayer book of the Episcopal Church in the United States for the President of the United States, and allow us quietly to use our own ritual, omitting everything which could have the least tendency to give offense or sanction opposition.

I have the honor to be, general, your obedient servant,

CHAS. MINNIGERODE,
Rector Saint Paul's Church.

[46.]

RICHMOND, April 9, 1865.

Bvt. Brig. Gen. E. H. RIPLEY,
Commanding Garrison of Richmond:

GENERAL: I have the honor to acknowledge the receipt of your communication of the 8th instant,* and will convey its contents to my colleagues, so that the churches may be opened and the services conducted accordingly.

Uniting with you in the desire that by their means much good may be accomplished through God's blessing, I am, general, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

CHAS. MINNIGERODE,
Rector Saint Paul's Church.

[46.]

* Not found.

By command of Major-General Meade:

GEO. D. RUGGLES,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

---

By command of Major-General Meade:

GEO. D. RUGGLES,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

---

I. The headquarters of the First Infantry Division will hereafter, and until further orders, be at Grafton, W. Va.

By command of Brevet Major-General Emory:

TH. MELVIN,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

---

4. The resignation of Brevet Major-General McMillan having been accepted, Brig. Gen. Francis Fessenden, U. S. Volunteers, is temporarily assigned to the command of the First Infantry Division.

By command of Brevet Major-General Emory:

TH. MELVIN,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

---

6. Brig. Gen. F. Fessenden is assigned to the command of the Second Brigade, First Infantry Division, the headquarters of which will hereafter, and until further orders, be at Cumberland, Md.

By command of Brevet Major-General Emory:

TH. MELVIN,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

SPECIAL ORDERS, [Headquarters of the Army, Adjutant-General's Office, No. 123]

Cumberland, Md., June 12, 1865.

8. Brig. Gen. E. B. Tyler is assigned temporarily to the command of the First Separate Brigade of this department.

By command of Brevet Major-General Emory:

TH. MELVIN,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

SPECIAL ORDERS, [Headquarters of the Army, Adjutant-General's Office, No. 304]

Washington, June 14, 1865.

2. The following regiments will at once report to Major-General Hancock, commanding Middle Military Division, for garrison duty in the defenses of Washington: Second New York Heavy Artillery, Fourth New York Heavy Artillery, Ninth New York Heavy Artillery, First Massachusetts Heavy Artillery, Second Connecticut Heavy Artillery.

By command of Lieutenant-General Grant:

E. D. TOWNSEND,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

[The foregoing order is incorrectly printed in Vol. XLVI, Part III, p. 1278.]

SPECIAL ORDERS, [Headquarters of the Army, Adjutant-General's Office, No. 130]

Cumberland, Md., June 23, 1865.

8. Brig. Gen. I. H. Duval is assigned to the temporary command of the troops in and about the city of Wheeling. He will give special attention, under the provisions of General Orders, No. 94, War Department, Adjutant-General's Office, to the mustering out of the troops sent there for that purpose, and will from time to time report to these headquarters the progress made, and will also report when the troops now there have been mustered out.

By command of Brevet Major-General Emory:

TH. MELVIN,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

[77 R R—VOL LI, PT I]
APPENDIX.

[OCTOBER 2, 1862.]

COLONEL: In accordance with the directions of the circular of this date I have to report that having received orders from the headquarters of the army on the afternoon of Wednesday, the 17th, in the vicinity of Frederick, where I had halted under previous orders, to move up to the army near Sharpsburg, the march of my division was immediately resumed, and being continued through the night, the command arrived at the headquarters of the army at 7 a.m. of Thursday, after a march of twenty-two miles. By direction of the major-general commanding it was placed in reserve in rear of Morell's division, and subsequently occupied the ground vacated by that division. On the day following, Friday, the 19th, the command moved beyond Sharpsburg, and on Saturday, the 20th, was placed in position on the left bank of the Potomac above the ford near Shepherdstown and on the right of Morell's division. A section of Capt. L. N. Robinson's battery was established on our right, which fired a few effective shots at small parties of the enemy on the opposite bank. Subsequently a piece of Captain Barnes' battery was used with similar effect. The division then occupied the ground along the river, where it is now encamped, from nearly opposite Shepherdstown to the left of the First Army Corps. I inclose the report of Capt. L. N. Robinson, acting chief of artillery.†

I am, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

A. A. HUMPHREYS,
Brigadier-General, Commanding Division.

Lieut. Col. FRED. T. LOCKE,
Assistant Adjutant-General, Fifth Corps.

[19.]

Headquarters Army of the Potomac,
Office Chief Quartermaster,
September 15, 1864.

GENERAL: In compliance with General Orders, No. 29, from the office of the Quartermaster-General, July 6, 1864, I have the honor to submit the following report for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1864:

The report for the previous year was transmitted on the 15th day of September, 1863, and embraced the movements of the Second Army Corps to the time of its arrival at Uniontown, Md. On this campaign

* See also Vol. XIX, Part I, p. 368.
† Not found.

(1219)
it was customary to move the transportation on such roads as were not required by the troops at such a distance that it would be secure from any attack of the enemy and convenient as possible for obtaining and forwarding supplies to the troops as they were required. A portion of the ammunition was usually detached from the general train and accompanied the command. On the 1st day of July the command left Union-town at 6 a.m. for Taneytown. On arrival the trains were ordered back to Uniontown, and from there to Linwood Station, on the Western Maryland Railroad, the troops in the meantime moving on to Gettysburg, Pa. Early the next day the trains moved to Westminster, remaining there during the battles at Gettysburg. Supplies were obtained at Westminster, and every effort made to supply the troops with whatever was required. On the morning of the 6th the trains were moved to Frederick City, passing through New Windsor and Liberty. Owing to the losses at Gettysburg the transportation was largely in excess of the regulation allowance, and the surplus was transferred to the depot, and supplies of all kinds drawn at this place. In the meantime the troops marched from Gettysburg to Frederick City, arriving on the 8th, and the next day continued the line of march to the vicinity of Antietam battle-field, passing through Jefferson and Burkittsville, followed by the transportation, which was parked near the latter village. While remaining here supplies were obtained at Sandy Hook and forwarded to the troops. On the 15th the trains were moved to Sandy Hook, where the troops arrived the following day by way of Sharpsburg. On the 18th the command crossed the Potomac and Shenandoah Rivers at Harper's Ferry, and moved down on the easterly side of the Blue Ridge, passing through Hillsborough, Bloomfield, Paris, Piedmont, Salem, White Plains, and Warrenton, arriving in the vicinity of Warrenton Junction on the 26th. Remained here until the 30th, then moved by way of Elkton to Morrisville. While at this place supplies were obtained at Bealeton Station, a distance of five miles. The transportation was here inspected, and wherever found necessary placed in repair and proper condition for future operations. There was no time, however, during this campaign that the movements of the troops were in the least retarded for any want of supplies furnished by this department.

On the 12th of September the command marched by way of Bealeton to Rappahannock Station, followed by the ammunition trains and the ambulances, the balance of the transportation being parked at Bealeton Station. The next day the troops advanced to Culpeper, where a small lot of ordnance stores, consisting of guns, sabers, cartridge-boxes, waist-belts, horseshoes, and coal were captured and transferred to the Ordnance Department. On the 15th the troops advanced beyond Culpeper and were followed to that place by the trains. On the 17th the trains joined their respective commands, the First and Third Divisions having advanced to Cedar Mountain and the Second Division to Mitchell's Station near the Rapidan River. Supplies were brought up to this station by railway and issued to the troops. The Second Army Corps remained in this neighborhood doing picket duty until relieved by the Sixth Corps on the 6th day of October, when it returned to Culpeper. On the 11th day of October orders were received to move the transportation to Rappahannock Station and from there to Bealeton Station. On the 13th the march was continued to Warrenton Junction and from there to Brentsville, arriving at 11 p.m. Moved at daylight on the following morning for Fairfax Station by way of Maple Valley and Wolf Run Shoals. The roads were infested with guerrilla bands, who caused some delay and annoyance. There were no guards with the trains, and had the enemy been aware of this advantage they could have caused much damage. Meanwhile the troops had marched by way of Liberty and Three-mile Station to Bristoe, where they fought the battle of Bristoe Station on the 14th, and then moved to Mitchell's Ford, on Bull Run. On the 16th the trains moved to the vicinity of Fairfax Court-House, and from there by way of McLean's Ford, New Market, Gainesville, and Greenwich to Auburn, where they joined the troops on the 21st. On the 24th the command marched to Turkey Run, on the Warrenton Branch Railroad, supplies being drawn from Gainesville until the completion of the railroad to Warrenton Junction. On the 7th of November the trains moved by way of Warrenton Junction and Bealeton Station to the vicinity of Morrisville, and the next day to Kelly's Ford, on the Rappahannock. The troops having successfully engaged the enemy advanced several miles beyond the Rappahannock, and the next day the transportation moved across the river on a pontoon bridge to the vicinity of Stevensburg. While remaining at this place the amount of small-arm ammunition required to be transported was reduced from five to three wagons per 1,000 men for duty, the wagons thus relieved being added to the supply trains. On the 26th the command, supplied with six days' rations upon the troops, moved at an early hour in the morning on the main road to Germanna Ford, crossing the Rapidan upon pontoon bridges, followed by 120 wagons, consisting of the ammunition and hospital trains and one wagon to each battery. The remainder of the transportation, including 331 wagons, loaded with the personal baggage of the officers, 150,000 field rations, and 501,796 pounds of grain, making in the aggregate sixteen days' subsistence and ten days' forage (including the three days' carried upon the caissons) for the whole command, and an average weight of about 2,600 pounds to each team, moved to the banks of the river near Culpeper Mine Ford. On the 28th a train, consisting of sixty wagons, loaded with three days' supply of forage and subsistence, was sent to the troops near Mine Run, returning to camp during the night.

On Tuesday, the 1st day of December, the trains were moved back to Richardsville, where they were joined by the ammunition trains that had accompanied the troops at Mine Run, and the next day the command returned to the former encampment near Stevensburg. On the 7th the trains joined their respective commands, preparatory to going into winter quarters. Corduroy roads were built from the encampment to Brandy Station, a distance of four miles. Convenient structures were erected in the several commands to protect the animals from the severity of the winter. Unsuitable were exchanged for serviceable animals; wagons, harness, and other means of transportation repaired and made ready for future operations. On the 24th of March, 1864, the Third Division of this corps was broken up and two divisions of the Third Corps were consolidated with the Second, which necessitated a complete reorganization of the quartermaster's department. On the 1st day of May the Second Corps mustered as follows: One thousand seven hundred and thirty-six officers, 33,983 men; 1,105 private, 1,019 artillery, 492 ambulance, 582 public and 63 cavalry horses; 5,318 mules, 858 army and 21 two-horse wagons, 181 ambulances, and 17 pontoon wagons with boats. The corps marched at 12 o'clock on the night of the 3d of May with six days' rations of subsistence upon the troops, followed by 152 wagons, consisting of one-half of the ammunition, the intrenching tools, the pontoon train, one hospital wagon to each brigade, and a supply train loaded with five days' forage, crossing the Rapidan at Ely's Ford and camping at Chancellorsville. The remainder of the transportation, numbering 706 teams, loaded with the balance of the ammunition and hospital stores, the personal baggage, and 360,000 rations of commissary stores, 851,160 pounds of grain, being ten days' supply of forage and sixteen days of subsistence (including that with the troops) for the entire command, the average load to each team being 2,957 pounds, moved at daylight on the 4th, crossed the Rapidan at Ely's Ford, and parked on the south bank. The corps advanced on the 5th to the vicinity of Todd's Tavern and from there to the Wilderness battle-field, where it met the enemy at about 2 p. m. The trains followed to Chancellorsville, when they were parked for the night. On the 6th, the fighting still continuing, the trains were moved back to Ely's Ford, but were returned to Chancellorsville during the night. On the 7th the corps marched to Todd's Tavern, and the trains were moved to Alrich's, on the plank road leading to Fredericksburg. During the operations of the army at Spotsylvania they were moved down the plank road, parking at Piney Grove, Tabernacle, and Salem Churches, and arriving at Fredericksburg on the 14th. During this time the necessary supplies were forwarded to the troops as they were required, the empty wagons being used to transport the sick and wounded to Fredericksburg and Belle Plain. On the night of the 21st the corps marched to the left, passing Massaponax Church, Bowling Green, crossing the Mattaponi at Milford, camping on the southern banks of the river at 2 p. m. of the 22d. The trains moved in the morning of that day by way of Villeborough and Bowling Green, arriving at Milford on the 23d. During the night the baggage trains were sent to the troops for the first time since leaving Brandy Station. On the following morning the corps marched to the North Anna River, the trains remaining at Milford. On the 26th four days' supplies were sent to the troops. The empty teams were loaded with the wounded and ordered to Port Royal. On the night of the 26th the corps recrossed the North Anna, marching down on the north side of the river and crossing the Pamunkey upon pontoon bridges at Huntley's Ferry. On the 27th the trains recrossed the Mattaponi, moved down on the north side through Newtown to Dunkirk, where they again crossed that river on the 28th and the Pamunkey on the 30th, camping near Hanover town. Since leaving Brandy Station the corps has received 13,000 re-enforcements, while the whole number reported on the 31st day of May was 1,662 officers and 32,012 men, showing a loss of 15,195 during the operations of the command up to that time.

On the 1st day of June the trains were moved to New Castle, and from there to Parsley's Cross-Roads, near Cold Harbor, where they remained during the operations of the army in that vicinity, drawing supplies from White House, the empty teams being used to transport the wounded to that place. On the 11th the trains were moved to Tunstall's Station, on the West Point and Richmond Railroad, and the next day continued the march by way of Saint Peter's Church, New Kent Court-House, Discond Creek to Cole's Ferry, on the Chickahominy. The pontoon train not being sufficient to bridge the river, the trains were detained at this place until the pontoon train moving with the troops could be ordered from Charles City Court-House. On the 15th crossed the Chickahominy, moving by way of Charles City Court-House, crossing the James River at Douthat's during the night and parking on the southern bank. The next day the trains were moved to the vicinity of City Point, where they were reported to their several commands and remained until the end of the month. Meanwhile the corps had marched from Cold Harbor on the night of the 12th by way of Dispatch Station, Long Bridge, Charles City Court-House, crossing the James River in ferry-boats at Wilcox's Wharf on the 14th, and arriving in the vicinity of Petersburg on the 15th of June. In compliance with Special Orders, No. 163, from headquarters Army of the Potomac, dated June 18, 1864, I assumed the duties of chief quartermaster of the Army of the Potomac. A depot being established at City Point, all the supplies for the army were obtained there until the completion of the City Point Railroad, when a depot was located at Cedar Level Station, a point about five miles nearer the troops. The transportation of the several corps and detachments were parked in the immediate vicinity of the depots, and at the same time in convenient location for communicating with their commands, where they remained on the 30th of June, 1864. A brief résumé of the operations of the Army of the Potomac during the past year will show that its movements have never been retarded for the want of supplies or the march cumbered with the transportation, and while great credit is due to the subordinate officers of the quartermaster's department, the Government is justly indebted for these results to the keen foresight and fine administrative and executive abilities of the late chief quartermaster, Brig. Gen. Rufus Ingalls. The amount of transportation allowed by general orders from headquarters Army of the Potomac has been strictly adhered to, and I respectfully suggest the following changes, some of which were referred to in my report for last year:

During a campaign, all officers' baggage, mess kits, tents, &c., other than shelter-tents, should be sent to the rear, and the wagons thus relieved added to the supply trains or dispensed with altogether, compelling the officers to purchase their supplies from the supply trains when issues are being made to the troops, and to transport the same either upon their horses or by their servants. The adoption of some arrangement of this kind would reduce the transportation full 20 per cent., and that it is practicable has been proved by the experience of the last campaign, many of the officers not having seen their baggage teams from the time of their leaving Brandy Station to their arrival at this place. Brakes that can be operated by the teamster while seated upon his team should be placed upon all the wagons. A partial attempt to introduce them was made last winter, but the style of brakes furnished was defective and did not meet the requirements of the case. The recommendations made in last year's report relative to the reduction of the amount of small-arm ammunition and hospital supplies required to be transported have been adopted, and the amount now transported has been found to be sufficient for all emergencies. In the accompanying table* is shown in a consolidated form the property received, transferred, lost, or abandoned, and the amount of money received, disbursed, and remaining on hand during the fiscal year ending June 30, 1864.

I am, general, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

R. N. BATCHELDER,

Colonel and Chief Quartermaster Army of the Potomac.

[General M. C. MEIGS,
Quartermaster-General.]

[27, 29, 33, 36, 40.]

* Omitted.
HEADQUARTERS SIXTY-SEVENTH OHIO VOLUNTEERS,
In the Field, May 11, 1864.

SIR: I have the honor to report that, in pursuance to verbal instructions received on the turnpike on the morning of the 9th instant, my command, consisting of 539 enlisted men and 26 officers of the Sixty-seventh Regiment Ohio Veteran Volunteers; and one section of the First Connecticut Battery, Lieut. George Metcalf commanding, occupied the positions directed, and was engaged by the enemy about 5 p.m., they evidently intending to compel me to develop my strength and position. In this affair the Sixty-seventh sustained a loss of three men. Just before dark, learning that my position was being turned on my left, seriously endangering my rear, I fell back under cover of the woods to the crossing of the diagonal or Bermuda Hundred road with the turnpike, and made such dispositions for the night as were necessary to prevent surprise. Frequent firing during the night on my picket lines indicated that the enemy were feeling my position, [reports] of which, with request for re-enforcements, were communicated directly to General Gillmore, commanding corps, to whom I was instructed to report. At break of day I was re-enforced by the Thirteenth Regiment Indiana Volunteers, One hundred and sixty-ninth Regiment New York Volunteers, and section of Fourth New Jersey Battery, and shortly afterward by the colored cavalry under Colonel West. I at once made such disposition of the forces under my command as to occupy with a strong line of skirmishers an irregular curved line reaching from the railroad to a point near to the river and above Doctor Howlett's house, the curve extending toward the front. The enemy appearing in strong force before both flanks and in front, I placed all my available force so as to give prompt support to the line of skirmishers, saving only four companies (of the Thirteenth Indiana Volunteers) for a reserve; which I placed at the crossing of the diagonal road with the turnpike. The deployment of so large a portion of my command as skirmishers may appear injudicious, but the thickly wooded nature of the country and the habits of the Thirteenth Indiana Volunteers and Sixty-seventh Ohio Volunteers made them the best troops in the world for this purpose, and all the circumstances were favorably adapted to make a strong skirmish line effective. The enemy appearing on so wide a front, I was compelled to make a large showing to keep them in check till re-enforcements could come up, which were promised me. The cavalry were placed so as to cover my left flank and be able to give support on the turnpike, I having before this communicated with Colonel Howell, requesting him to look after the force that was reported on my right and in the immediate vicinity of his left. I placed one section of light artillery on rise of ground on the diagonal road, so as to command the approaches to my left, and the other sections on the pike to the front, each properly supported by infantry (two companies Sixty-seventh). I must confess to great embarrassment in making all these dispositions in the manner I did, considering the weakness of my force and the presumed ability of the enemy to throw a large force upon me. These dispositions were not materially changed when General A. H. Terry arrived, shortly after which a general engagement ensued. My arrangements were approved by him, and I was left in command of the field. The troops under my command acted their part through the entire engagement with great vigor and tenacity, and very largely contributed in repulsing a much superior force of the enemy. Col. Cyrus J. Dobbs, commanding Thirteenth Indiana Volunteers, Col. John McConihe, commanding the One hundred and sixty-ninth New York Volunteers, and Lieutenant-Colonel Commager, commanding Sixty-seventh Ohio Volunteers, are deserving of great credit for their efficiency and example on the occasion and the ability with which they managed their respective commands. Maj. Lewis Butler, of my regiment, Sixty-seventh Ohio Volunteer Infantry, and Maj. John C. Burton, Thirteenth Indiana, took place in the line of skirmishers to the right and did great credit to themselves. Adjt. George L. Childs, Sixty-seventh Ohio Volunteers, rendered me the most efficient service as provisional aide. Lieut. D. Newson, Thirteenth Indiana, was remark- ably active and useful to me on the field. Perhaps the best praise I can bestow upon any of the officers is to say that all acted so well their part that in no instance have I heard terms of censure applied to any of them. Herewith please find detailed report of the casualties that occurred in the Sixty-seventh Regiment Ohio Volunteers.*

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

A. C. VORIS,
Colonel Sixty-seventh Ohio Volunteer Infantry.

Capt. A. TERRY,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

OFFICE OF THE NITER AND MINING DISTRICT No. 43,
Staunton, Va., June 30, 1861.

MAJOR: I have the honor to report to you that on the 1st instant I received an order from General J. D. Imboden, commanding the Valley Department, to report to him for active duty in the field, with all my men detailed for niter service, at as early a moment as possible; and I immediately dispatched couriers through the different counties to notify my men to report to me at Staunton, with all possible speed. As my works extend through all the neighboring counties, it required much activity to notify them and then collect them at Staunton in time to bear their part in the battle which was evidently close at hand. On Friday, the 3d instant, I had collected 130 of my men at this point, and I organized them immediately into two companies, placing one under the command of W. L. Clark as captain, and the other under Capt. F. P. Clark, assistant quartermaster, C. S. Army, who had volunteered to serve until N. R. Heaton, superintendent of the Bates County Government niter works, would be able to report as the permanent captain. I also appointed the other officers and procured such arms as the ordnance depot at this place could afford. Knowing the urgency of the case, I marched my command at once toward the scene of action, and arrived at the camp near Mount Crawford early Saturday morning and immediately reported them for duty, and was assigned to Major Brewer's command, which was composed chiefly of dismounted cavalry. Early on Sunday morning we were marched from near Mount Crawford to New Hope, in Augusta County, a distance of twelve miles; and I had no sooner arrived on the field, without a moment of rest for my men, when I was ordered to take an advanced position about one mile in front of our principal line of battle, to support a battery and a line of skirmishers which had been established at that point for the purpose of holding the enemy in check until our principal line of battle could be formed in the rear. The positions thus assigned were held by us for one hour and a half, during one hour of which we were subjected to a heavy artillery and musketry fire, and we did not leave it until all our forces stationed there were driven back by the overwhelming advance of the enemy's main column of attack. My battalion was on the extreme left of this advanced line, and as the main attack was on the right, we were compelled to fall back as the troops on the right and center successively gave away. There was at the same time a heavy advance of the enemy on our front, and our left flank was threatened by cavalry, by which some of my men were captured in the movement to the rear. Having been driven from this position, we fell back upon our principal line of battle, and took our position within the line of fortifications which had been hastily thrown up by the main body of our army. The interval which occurred before our principal line was attacked was employed by my men in throwing up a rough line of breast-works in an unoccupied point on the extreme left which I had been requested to occupy by Captain Thornton, who was in command of a battalion of the Thirty-sixth Virginia Infantry along that part of the line. Notwithstanding their fatigue, my men went at once to work in filling up this gap, and then awaited the advance of the enemy. The first demonstrations were made by the enemy's cavalry, which drove in our skirmishers, and then advanced within range of our muskets, but were soon repulsed. This was soon followed by an advance of the enemy's infantry in line of battle, which, being driven back, was followed by a second attack of similar character after an interval of three-quarters of an hour, the intervening time being occupied by either side in a desultory but constant skirmishing fire. This second attack of the enemy's main line was repulsed like the first, and no renewal of the attack was made upon the left in line of battle. Such an attack had been proven hopeless, as the position we occupied on the left and the firm bearing of the whole line clearly indicated it would be. We were, however, from this moment subjected to a severe artillery fire from a battery of two guns, at a distance of not more than 500 yards, and which became a more severe ordeal than the fire of the enemy's infantry. The incidents thus described occupied a space of two hours, from 12 m. to 2 p. m., and we were at the height of our anticipations of certain victory when we began to find the whole center of our line crowded down upon our left, and discovered that the enemy had availed themselves of an open space in our right center to enter within our lines, and had crowded down our center upon our left, throwing the whole into confusion, and subjecting us to a fire from our front and both our flanks. It was evident the position was no longer tenable, and we followed the example of the veteran troops around us in abandoning the position which we had successfully defended against the three separate attacks which had been made directly upon our front. My loss during the day was 5 killed and 14 wounded and 8 prisoners. Among the latter were Capt. William L. Clark and Lieut. Robert L. Howard. I cannot but commend the conduct of my men, both for the alacrity with which they obeyed my summons for duty, and the mode in which they discharged that duty in the field. They were armed with only the altered smooth-bore musket, and had no bayonets or cartridge boxes; and although thus unequally armed, they were placed in the most advanced line and were among the last to leave the final scene of battle. The conduct of my command was highly complimented by Captain Thornton, of the Thirty-sixth Infantry, to whom I have before referred. The whole army having fallen back to Waynesborough, and my command having been thrown into the regiment of reserves under the command of Col. William H. Harman, I placed the remainder of my men under the command of Capt. N. R. Heaton, having consolidated them into one company, and they have since served in resisting the advance of General Hunter's army upon Lynchburg, and in the pursuit of that army upon its retreat into Western Virginia. The reserves have since then been discharged from duty, with the thanks of the commanding general, and my men have returned to their appropriate duties.

* Shows 12 killed and 59 wounded.

Respectfully,

JAMES F. JONES,
Captain Niter and Mining Corps, and in Command of Battalion.

Maj. RICHARD MORTON,
Niter and Mining Corps, Richmond.

P. S.—The names of the killed and wounded will be forwarded as soon as possible.

[37.

HQRS. FIRST BRIG., FIRST DIV., SECOND ARMY CORPS,
March 27, 1865.

COLONEL: I have the honor to make the following report of operations of the First Brigade on the 25th instant:

About 6.30 a.m. I was ordered by the brevet major-general commanding the division, through a staff officer (Captain Ives), to detail 200 men, with proper number of officers, from the Sixty-first New York Volunteers, to charge the enemy's picket line on our front and break it if possible. I personally superintended this assault, but, owing to the density of the thicket and strength of the enemy's defense, my party was repulsed, though fighting gallantly, losing 3 killed, 15 wounded, and 10 missing. By direction of General Miles I marched my detachment to the left of our division line and selected a new point for a second assault. This time, though the enemy were on the alert, my men broke and carried their line, capturing 1 commissioned officer and about 25 men—my detachment of the Sixty-first New York Volunteers here losing 2 enlisted men killed, 12 men wounded, and 5 men missing. The corps officer of the day, Brevet Brigadier-General Madill, now rapidly advanced our whole picket-line beyond the old line occupied by the enemy. I now advanced my brigade from our main works, taking up line of battle a short distance in rear of the new line occupied by our pickets, sending two regiments to the immediate support of the picket-line to my right and left, the Second New York Artillery to the right and the Fifth New Hampshire Volunteers to the left. Subsequently, about 1 p.m., I assembled these two regiments, and advanced my entire brigade line of battle to the front through an almost impassable thicket, woods, morass, slashing, &c., and finding the enemy holding a strong intrenched picket-line, their front covered by deep slashing and morass. I now, by direction of General Miles took up a more advantageous line a little to the rear and where the enemy had had their original picket-line, closing intervals of regiments to the left and making room for the Second Brigade (Colonel Nugent) to come into position and continue my line to the right. We had just got into position (3 p.m.) when the enemy's bugle sounded the forward and the enemy charged my entire front, but were easily repulsed. They renewed the assault later (6 p.m.), but with no more success, being driven back at all points, we capturing some prisoners. About this time the commanding officer of the Sixty-fourth New York Volunteers reported his regiment to me for duty, but not needing his services upon my front General Miles soon ordered him to another position. Later in the evening, about 8 p.m., I was directed by an aide of General Miles to deploy my command to the right, covering the ground formerly occupied by the Second Brigade. I did this, connecting on the right with the Sixty-fourth New York Volunteers and on the left with the Third Brigade, First Division, Second Army Corps; maintained this line until about 9 p.m., when, by direction of General Miles, I deployed a strong picket-line, anticipating a withdrawal of my main line, using for this purpose the Eighty-first Pennsylvania Volunteers, part of the Fifth New Hampshire Volunteers, and part of the One hundred and eleventh New York Volunteers, the latter regiment having been reported to me by General Miles. This line connected on the right with the Fourth New York Artillery and on the left with the Third Brigade line, having reserves on the right at the —— house and on the left at the old road near the Watkins house. About 1 a.m., by order of General Miles, through Lieutenant-Colonel Brown, acting assistant adjutant-general, First Division, I withdrew the balance of my brigade and the One hundred and eleventh New York Volunteers, returning to our camp in breastworks near Battery A. The troops without exception behaved well, standing firm under the attack of the enemy and advancing fearlessly to the charge. Too much praise cannot be awarded to the detachment of the Sixty-first New York Volunteers. Men and officers distinguished themselves. The officers of my staff, Captains McCallister and Kerr, of the One hundred and fortieth Pennsylvania Volunteers, and Lieutenant Hickock, Twenty-sixth Michigan Volunteers, were very efficient at all times, gallant in action, and faithful to the performance of all duty, Lieutenant Hickok being twice struck by the enemy's bullets. Accompanying is a nominal list of casualties.

I am, very respectfully,

GEO. W. SCOTT,
Colonel, Commanding Brigade.

Lieut. Col. R. A. BROWN,
Acting Assistant Adjutant-General, First Division.

[For version of this report as recorded in the brigade letters-sent book, see Vol. XLVI, Part I, p. 197. The foregoing version is from the original report, received too late for insertion in its proper sequence.]
FORT PENDLETON.

Pendleton is near Oakland, Md.

Fort and outworks constructed by Capt. E.B. Oldfield, per Col. L. Andrews.

Aug 8 to Oct 31, 1861.

1. Covered way.
2. Log fortification.
3. Earthworks for cannon.
4. Barricades for large posts.
5. Bridge.
6. Pendleton's residence.

JUNE 16, 1861.

SIR: I have the honor to present herewith a diagram of the scene of operations near County Bridge on the 10th instant. It is mostly prepared from information obtained by me on the scouting expedition of June 4. The general account of the battle is briefly as follows:

We arrived on the ground about 9 a.m., Colonel Duryea's regiment in advance, with two companies deployed as skirmishers about 300 yards in front, and scouts ahead along the road about half a mile, and close up with the enemy. I advanced with the skirmishers to reconnoiter, and the enemy opened his fire with artillery, the shots passing high over our heads and to the rear of the main body. On arriving at the edge of the woods we found that there was at least one battery protected by breast-work directly in front and enfilading the bridge, a small affair over a fordable stream about twelve feet across. Colonel Duryea's regiment came at once to this same place, as did also Lieutenant Greble with his guns. Finding it was not best to attempt to carry the battery in front, I went and informed General Peirce of the condition of things, who, at my suggestion, directed me to tell Colonel Townsend to attempt to turn it by our left flank, and Colonel Bendix to make movement by our right flank. Both regiments moved off accordingly. Colonel Bendix, I understand, did cross the creek so as to get on the flank. Colonel Townsend moved through the open fields instead of through the woods to the left, and the severity of the enemy's fire in this position turned him back on the center. The bravery of Colonel Townsend and his men was well exemplified, but the failure to turn this flank I think determined General Peirce to retire. Our loss, however, was not great, and the men had acted bravely and were in good order and well under command. Colonels Allen's and Carr's regiments came up some time after the firing began, and were only used to cover the withdrawal. The regiments that first retired left men behind to bring up the wounded and dead, but Colonels Allen and Carr did not afford a sufficient rear guard nor give the assistance expected from regiments who had not, unlike the others, been without sleep the whole of the preceding night. Colonel Allen assured me we were being outflanked, and he moved to the rear without halting. I remained on the ground about an hour after all the force had left. As Colonel Carr retired, Captain Wilson, of his regiment, carried off the gun at which Lieutenant Greble had been killed, but left the limber behind. I withdrew this along with Lieutenant Greble's body, assisted by Lieutenant Duncan and twelve men of the New York First, and sent it on to join the piece. I remained with Chaplain Winslow and a few men of the New York Third, Fifth, and Seventh, getting the wounded together, whom we put into carts and wagons and drew off by hand. There were three or four mortally wounded and several dead whom we had to leave from inability to carry them. I sent several messengers to get assistance, and as we moved slowly in, finding no one, I pushed ahead as fast as I could go on foot (having given the animal I rode to a wounded man). I overtook none but the wornout stragglers till I came up to Captain Kapff, of New York Seventh, who with seven or eight men stopped, as also did Captain McNutt, of the Second, detailed by Colonel Carr. They both rendered essential service in checking the advance of the enemy's horsemen, who finally came on and pursued up to New Market bridge. Captain Willson, of the Second New York Regiment, with the two 6-pounders under his charge, positively refused to obey the order I gave him to stop and cover the retreat. Lieutenant Morris, of the Navy, with two boat howitzers, was met after we had crossed New Market bridge. The noble conduct of Chaplain Winslow and the generous hearted men who remained behind to help the wounded deserve the highest praise, and the toilsome task which they accomplished of dragging the rude vehicles filled with their helpless comrades over a weary road of nine miles in their exhausted condition, with the prospect of an attack every minute, bespeak a goodness of heart and bravery never excelled.

Besides the wounded and dead left behind there were a number of canteens and haversacks and a few muskets and bayonets, all of which, I think, was caused by a misunderstanding. Our regiment did not think we were going back more than a few hundred yards to rest a little out of fire and then make another attack. There was no pursuing force or the least cause for precipitancy. No shots were fired at the little party who carried away the limber of Lieutenant Greble's gun, and the long while which elapsed without any one appearing in front of the enemy's lines would indicate that he was very weak in numbers, or perhaps had begun to retire. The force which the enemy brought into action was not, I think, greater than 500 men. His great advantage over us was artillery, protected from our fire. I still am of the opinion that the position as we found it was not difficult to take with experienced troops, and could have been turned on our left. The trees protected our approach and sheltered us from their battery till we were quite close, and the march in front was practicable for footmen. We labored under great disadvantage in want of experience and firing, and in the exhaustion of our men from want of sleep, long marching, and hunger. The enemy had a rifled gun or two, shooting bolts of about the caliber of 4-pounders and eight inches long, with soft metal base. Some of them were hollow, with a Bormann fuse at the point, and all did not burst. Some of their 12-pounder shells also failed to explode. There were probably three to five guns sheltered by a breast-work, and one or two that were moved around to different points. The breast-work was placed so that the guns enfiladed the little bridge. The gun placed to sweep the long reach of road before you came to the bridge was driven away by Lieutenant Greble's fire, which prevented our loss from being far greater than it was. The skill and bravery displayed by Lieutenant Greble could not have been surpassed, and the fortune which protected him from the enemy's fire only deserted him at the last moment. The discharge which killed him was one of the last made by the enemy's guns. His own guns were never silenced by the enemy's fire, and the occasional pauses were to husband his ammunition.

G. K. WARREN,
Lieutenant-Colonel.

Maj. Gen. B. F. BUTLER.

[2.]

HEADQUARTERS FIRST DIVISION, TENTH ARMY CORPS,
In the Field, May 11, 1864.

COLONEL: I have the honor to submit the following report of the part taken by the troops of my command in the operations of the 9th and 10th instant:

On the morning of the 9th, Howell's brigade, consisting of the Thirty-

As the head of my column approached Ware Bottom Church I received an order from the major-general commanding to detach two regiments and one section of artillery to that point to cover our flank and rear from attack in that direction. In accordance with this order the Thirty-ninth Illinois and Eighty-fifth Pennsylvania, with one section of Langdon's battery, were detached. On arriving at the intersection of the Chester Station road with the Richmond and Petersburg turnpike we found one regiment of Turner's division, with a section of artillery in position in advance of it, covering the approach from Richmond. By direction of Major-General Gillmore these troops were relieved by the Sixty-seventh Ohio and one section of Rockwell's battery. With the remainder of my force I then moved up to and joined General Turner at the station. The work of destroying the track was already in progress, and Eaton's engineer company was immediately detailed to assist in it. I soon received orders to send back the Eleventh Maine to Ware Bottom Church, and, as nearly the whole of Howell's brigade would, on their arrival, be stationed there, I directed Colonel Howell to proceed to that point and assume command. Inasmuch as this force was detached and remained detached until our return to the intrenchments, and was not under my personal supervision, I respectfully refer to Colonel Howell's report, which accompanies this, for an account of his operations.

I received at the same time, and immediately obeyed, an order to move the remainder of my troops, now consisting of Hawley's brigade, one section of Langdon's and two sections of Rockwell's batteries, down to Port Walthall Junction. On arriving there the remaining section of Langdon's battery was sent back to Ware Bottom Church. Shortly before night-fall Hawley's brigade and Rockwell's guns were moved some distance down the turnpike, prepared to support, in case of need, the troops engaged with the enemy at Swift Creek, and the Third New Hampshire was detached to cover the Petersburg and Chester road at Brandon's Bridge, west of the turnpike. Subsequently Hawley was moved back to the junction and there passed the night. During the evening I received from Colonel Voris dispatches informing me that the enemy in some force were appearing in his front. On communicating this information to the major-general commanding the corps, he immediately ordered the Thirteenth Indiana, Col. C. J. Dobbs, the One hundred and sixty-ninth New York, Col. John McConihe, and one section of the Fourth New Jersey Battery, all of Ames' division, out from the intrenchments to report to Colonel Voris. These troops arrived at the turnpike at daylight on the morning of the 10th.

Early in the morning of the 10th I received orders to commence the destruction of the railroad northward from the junction. This work was undertaken, and from a half to three-quarters of a mile of track had been torn up when I received from Colonel Voris information that the enemy were about to attack him, and that four or five regiments were endeavoring to turn his right. At the same time I noticed that the fire of his artillery, which had been kept up at intervals during the morning, had become much more frequent. Work on the road was immediately suspended and the command was hurried up the turnpike to the threatened point. Preceding the troops, I found that Colonel Voris had been forced back from the position which he had occupied somewhat in advance of the Chester road nearly to the road itself; that in order to prevent being outflanked he had been obliged to attenuate his line so as to cover with three regiments a space of nearly a mile, his left being beyond Winfree's house, his right some distance east of the turnpike. One section of artillery (Fourth New Jersey) was on the turnpike, the other (First Connecticut) near Winfree's house. So extensive was the ground covered that much of his line was only a thin chain of skirmishers, with little or no support. These dispositions were admirably adapted to deceive the enemy as to the real strength of the force in their front, and undoubtedly accomplished that object, for could they have suspected that there were but three small regiments before them they would have swept them away at once. I found at some distance in the rear of Colonel Voris, on the turnpike, Colonel West's colored cavalry, which had been driven in from a reconnaissance of the turnpike, and a portion of the First New York Mounted Rifles, with two mountain howitzers. A squadron of the former were sent to the left to support the artillery, and subsequently the howitzers and a few of West's men, dismounted, were used on the extreme right, but with these exceptions none of the cavalry were brought into action, the ground being very unfavorable to it. The section on the left had nearly exhausted its ammunition. As soon, therefore, as my troops came up from the junction Rockwell's guns replaced it.

The Sixth and Seventh Connecticut were then thrown to the left and right of the turnpike, respectively, excepting two companies of the Seventh, which were sent to support the section of the Fourth New Jersey. The Seventh New Hampshire were sent up to the support of Rockwell's guns. These re-enforcements were none too early, for while they were moving into their positions the enemy attacked with great impetuosity along the whole front and on the flanks. They obtained but a momentary advantage, however, and that only on a single point.
One of the guns in the turnpike was taken, but immediately retaken by the two companies of the Seventh Connecticut which supported it.
The whole line most gallantly and resolutely stood their ground under heavy fire, and repulsed repeated and determined charges of the enemy.
The pressure upon the center was so great that I was obliged to send to that point the only foot soldiers remaining at my disposal, Eaton's engineers and Richardson's provost guard. Both of these organizations behaved in a highly creditable manner. The enemy nowhere gained ground except on the extreme right; here they much outflanked me, and continued to advance even after all attempts to force our left and center had been abandoned. They were finally checked, however, by the two howitzers of the Mounted Rifles, which were brought into action by Adjutant Childs, of the Sixty-seventh Ohio, the dismounted cavalry, and the arrival from the rear of Gibbs' battery (D), First U.S.
Artillery. During the action I sent to Colonel Howell, at Ware Bottom Church, requesting him to shell the enemy's left flank. He did so, and the brisk cannonade which he opened doubtless contributed to disconcert the attack on the right. After the cessation of the action I withdrew my left from the station road, and, moving to the right, connected with Howell’s force. After the last shot was fired I was strongly re-enforced by a brigade of Ames’ division, under General Ames in person, and by Wistar’s brigade from the Eighteenth Corps. I had applied for re-enforcements, and Gibbs’ battery and these troops were sent to me. Fortunately the need of them had passed before their arrival. Just before night-fall, having buried the dead and brought in the wounded, in obedience to the orders of the major-general commanding the corps, the troops returned to the intrenchments. The enemy’s force was far greater than our own. Our troops brought into action were about 3,400 in number; the enemy’s were the division of Major-General Ransom, consisting of Barton’s, Gracie’s, and Johnson’s brigades, with cavalry, and at least six guns. Some of the prisoners say that there was a fourth brigade in reserve, but as they were unable to give the name of its commander I am doubtful of the accuracy of their statement. I learn that Barton’s brigade alone was 2,800 strong.

Our total loss was 7 officers and 273 men, killed, wounded, and missing. It is difficult to estimate the loss of the enemy, but from the manner in which their troops were massed for the attack, the severity of our fire, and the number of their dead, I am satisfied that it must have been twice or thrice our own. Some forty or fifty prisoners remained in our hands.

I find it a difficult task to mention the names of officers who merit commendation for their conduct without apparently doing injustice to others who are equally worthy, so that with one or two exceptions I must leave the mention of subordinate regimental officers to the reports of their immediate commanders. Colonel Voris, of the Sixty-seventh Ohio, not only deserves most honorable mention, but the higher reward of promotion. His arrangement and disposition of troops under the difficult and trying circumstances in which he was placed was most admirable, and joined to his own gallantry and the tenacity and good conduct of his troops, held the ground against overwhelming numbers until the arrival of re-enforcements. I commend him to the marked approval of the commanding general. Lieutenant-Colonel Commager, Major Butler, and Adjutant Childs, of the same regiment, are especially deserving of notice. Colonel Abbott, of the Seventh New Hampshire (temporarily commanding Hawley’s brigade); Colonel Dobbs, of the Thirteenth Indiana; Colonel McConihe, of the One hundred and sixty-ninth New York; Lieutenant-Colonel Rodman, of the Seventh Connecticut; Captain Rockwell, First Connecticut Battery, did their duty most ably and gallantly. Maj. T. B. Brooks, aide-de-camp, on General Gillmore’s staff, joined me at the commencement of the action and rendered most efficient and valuable service. I desire to express my great obligations to him for it. I enclose herewith the reports of Colonel Howell, Colonel Plaisted, who was left in command of the intrenchments; Colonel Voris, Colonel Abbott, and Colonel McConihe.

I am, colonel, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

ALF. H. TERRY,
Brigadier-General, Commanding.

Lieut. Col. E. W. SMITH,
Assistant Adjutant-General, Tenth Army Corps.

[36.]

CHAP. LXIII.]

MISCELLANEOUS REPORTS, ETC. 1235

HEADQUARTERS FIRST DIVISION, TENTH ARMY CORPS,
In the Field, near Curtis', Va., May 21, 1864.

COLONEL: I have the honor to report the operations of my command on the 20th instant:

In the morning the enemy attacked with overwhelming force the picket-line in front of General Ames' division and in my front, the weight of the attack being upon General Ames, whose outposts, with a portion of mine, were driven from their rifle-pits, of which possession was taken by the enemy. During the attack and the efforts of General Ames to reinstate his line on its old ground, that portion of the artillery under my command which is stationed in Redoubt No. 3 opened heavily and effectively upon the enemy. My pickets consisted of the Forty-eighth and One hundred and forty-second New York, of Turner's division. I soon re-enforced them by the Sixth Connecticut, and shortly before 2 o'clock, in obedience to the instructions of Major-General Gillmore, I directed Col. J. B. Howell, of the Eighty-fifth Pennsylvania Volunteers, commanding the First Brigade of my division, to advance with his command, drive the enemy back, and retake our pits. This, after a very spirited contest, he most gallantly accomplished, and re-established our line, except upon its extreme left, where it was necessarily somewhat refused to connect with General Ames' new line. I refer to Colonel Howell's report, which is inclosed, for the details of his movement.* I desire to bring to the notice of the major-general commanding the skill and good conduct which Colonel Howell displayed in this affair; skill and conduct, however, which alone was to be expected from an officer of such capacity, chivalrous character, and entire devotion to duty.

I am, colonel, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

ALF. H. TERRY,
Brigadier-General, Commanding.

Lieut. Col. E. W. SMITH,
Assistant Adjutant-General, Tenth Army Corps.

[36.]

HEADQUARTERS FIRST DIVISION, TENTH ARMY CORPS,
In the Field, near Curtis', Va., June 14, 1864.

COLONEL: I have the honor to report that on the 2d instant the enemy made an attack on our picket-line, and for a time achieved a partial success. Our pickets consisted of the Eleventh Maine, on the right, the Thirty-ninth Illinois, in the center, the Seventh Connecticut, on the left. Two principal attacks were made, one on the extreme left, the other on the right of Seventh Connecticut and left of the Thirty-ninth Illinois, while all along the line the enemy's skirmishers, supported in many places by a line of battle, were very active. The enemy on the left broke through our line, captured some prisoners, and threatened to advance on the redoubt in front of Battery No. 6, but our pickets, re-enforced from the garrison of the redoubt, consisting of Captain Pride's company, of the First Connecticut Heavy Artillery, and a detachment of Spear's cavalry, dismounted, drove them back with loss, both of killed, wounded, and prisoners, and re-established our line. The right of the Seventh Connecticut and left of the Thirty-ninth Illinois rested in the woods in front of the then unfinished redoubt in front of Battery No. 3. The line at this point was badly located, presenting both re-entering and salient angles. It was established immediately after the line of Ames’ division was driven back on the 20th ultimo, and was held from a belief that it was impolitic to confess weakness by yielding ground then held by us. The rifle-pits of the enemy’s pickets were within fifty yards of ours, and they had an opportunity to collect a greatly superior force in close proximity to our men. Dashing in upon them, they broke our line in two places, and, taking the space between in reverse, secured a considerable number of prisoners and established themselves in such a position as to enfilade the contiguous portion of our line on the left and thus compel it to fall back. A heavy fire of artillery from Batteries Nos. 3, 4, 5, and 6, with the musketry of a detachment of the Seventh Connecticut thrown into the redoubt in front of No. 3, was immediately opened upon them with apparently good effect. The fire from No. 3, under direction of Major Trumbull, of the First Connecticut Heavy Artillery, was especially good. The enemy had, however, shelter in our pits and were soon at work constructing new ones. I therefore directed Colonel Hawley, commanding Second Brigade, to send the Third New Hampshire Volunteers, under command of Lieut. Col. Josiah I. Plimpton, to attack them and endeavor to recover the pits. This was speedily accomplished by that gallant officer and his distinguished regiment. The artillery fire was kept up till the latest moment, and then ceased, upon which Plimpton, moving to the left from the main road to Ware Bottom Church, took the enemy in flank and drove them back to their old position, taking between thirty and forty prisoners, besides inflicting other losses.

* See p. 1237.

In the meantime the right center and right, under Col. George B. Dandy, One hundredth New York Volunteers, general officer of the day, reinforced by the One hundredth New York Volunteers and a portion of the Tenth Connecticut, offered a firm resistance to the enemy, but pressed by superior numbers slowly fell back and occupied a line some 200 yards in the rear of the old one. After the pits were recovered a new, straighter, and shorter line (the one we now hold) was taken up nearly on ground which had theretofore been selected, but which had not been occupied for the reason given above. I regret to report a loss in killed, wounded, and missing of 14 officers and 158 men. The list of casualties has already been forwarded. The conduct of both officers and men was all that could be desired, and, in addition to the other officers mentioned in the reports of Colonels Hawley and Dandy, forwarded herewith,* I desire to make most honorable mention of Captain Pride, of the First Connecticut Heavy Artillery, and of Lieutenant-Colonel Plimpton, of the Third New Hampshire, an officer of great experience and discretion and of the most undaunted courage. His services on this occasion deserve a higher recompense than mere praise. Colonel Dandy also, the general officer of the day, rendered most valuable service in his management of the picket-line, and I desire to express my great obligations to him for his skillful and gallant conduct.

I have the honor to be, colonel, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

ALFRED H. TERRY,
Brigadier-General, Commanding.

Lieut. Col. E. W. SMITH,
Assistant Adjutant-General, Tenth Army Corps.

[36.]

*See Vol. XXXVI, Part II, pp. 55, 88.

HDQRS. FIRST BRIG., FIRST DIV., TENTH ARMY CORPS,
Intrenchments, May 21, 1864.

CAPTAIN: I have the honor respectfully to report to you for the information of the brigadier-general commanding the division the operations and result of the fight of yesterday by the troops under my command:

At 2 p.m. yesterday I received the order from Brigadier-General Terry, commanding the division, to take with me the Thirty-ninth Illinois and Sixty-seventh Ohio Volunteers, two regiments of my brigade (the Eighty-fifth Pennsylvania Volunteers being already then at the front and under fire), and the Sixth Connecticut Volunteers and proceed to the front, assume command of all the troops already there, and retake the ground and position which had been lost in the morning, and recapture the rifle-pits and re-establish the line and hold it. It was suggested to me by General Terry that I should go out in advance of my brigade to the picket-line and see the state of things existing there—the nature of the ground, &c. I went out at once. The wisdom and propriety of the general's direction struck me as soon as I came on the ground. I found the Eighty-fifth Pennsylvania Volunteers in very imminent peril of being overwhelmed by the superior force of the enemy. It was boldly sustaining itself. The lieutenant-colonel (Campbell) commanding that regiment has since told me that ten minutes later and my old regiment would have been crushed. The Sixth Connecticut Volunteers had been ordered out before I left the intrenchments. I passed them on my way out. That regiment came promptly and boldly up under its brave and gallant commander, Major Klein. I formed it in line of battle—threw it rapidly forward. It was succeeded by the Sixty-seventh Ohio Volunteers, noble and brave regiment, officers and enlisted men. They came up on double-quick. I threw that regiment forward also. The Thirty-ninth Illinois Volunteers then came up bravely on the double-quick, were formed in the general [line] of battle on the run. These three regiments went forward with cheers, delivering their fire rapidly, steadily, and with a low aim. I never saw troops behave better. The fire of the enemy was very rapid and very heavy, but my brave boys dashed forward gallantly. We drove the enemy, and soon made a connected line of battle with the Eighty-fifth Pennsylvania Volunteers, Lieutenant-Colonel Campbell, and with the One hundred and forty-second New York Volunteers, Colonel Curtis commanding. I communicated the fact to General Terry by Captain Hooker, my acting assistant adjutant-general, that my troops were all engaged. I received an order from General Terry directing me to swing my right toward the left and recapture the rifle-pits and hold them. That order was promptly obeyed and carried into successful execution. We drove the enemy like the wind, captured and reoccupied the rifle-pits, and held them firmly. Directly after taking the rifle-pits, Brigadier-General Walker, of the rebel forces, dashed out on the road in front of the rifle-pits and was immediately wounded and captured by Company C, of the Sixty-seventh Ohio Volunteers, and sent in as a prisoner.

It was a brave and gallant fight by all the brave and gallant regiments which constituted my command engaged in it. I never saw officers and men behave better. Their promptness, zeal, and dashing and during courage was beautiful; their fire steady and deadly to the enemy. I beg leave respectfully to recapitulate the names of these regiments, for I love to repeat them and honor them:

The Sixth Connecticut Volunteers, Major Klein commanding (temporarily assigned to me); the Eighty-fifth Pennsylvania Volunteers, Lieutenant-Colonel Campbell commanding; Sixty-seventh Ohio Volunteers, Colonel Voris commanding; Thirty-ninth Illinois Volunteers, Lieutenant-Colonel Mann commanding. I regret to have it to say that that brave and valuable officer (Lieutenant-Colonel Mann) was badly wounded in the leg in the action. It is an honorable mark of distinction and most gallantly won by him. I am glad to say he is now doing very well. There were two brave officers of the Eighty-fifth Pennsylvania Volunteers wounded also. You can form an idea of the severity of the fire through which my command dashed and drove the enemy when I say to you that in about thirty minutes I lost 149 men, killed and wounded. The casualties of the fight have been already reported to you. They amount to some 300 killed and wounded, none missing. The enemy's loss in killed and wounded we now know to be 800. I beg leave to speak in the highest terms of praise of the valuable services rendered to me by the officers of my staff in the action—Captain Hooker, my acting assistant adjutant-general; Captain Dawson, brigade inspector, and Lieutenant McGregor, my aide-de-camp. Their promptness, activity, and efficiency are deserving of the highest praise. In this connection, captain, I beg leave to refer to the valuable services of my medical director, Charles M. Clark, surgeon of the Thirty-ninth Illinois Volunteers. His zeal, energy, courage, and skill are deserving of the highest praise. His thorough knowledge of his profession and his skill in the practice of it secured to all the wounded the greatest care and attention, and has saved many a limb from the amputating knife. I am gratified to know that my brave command and myself received the commendations of our gallant and distinguished leaders, Major-General Gillmore and Brigadier-General Terry.

I have the honor to be, captain, with great respect, your obedient servant,

JOSHUA B. HOWELL,
Colonel, Commanding First Brig., First Div., Tenth Army Corps,
Capt. ADRIAN TERRY,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

[36.]

HDQRS. SECOND BRIG., FIRST DIV., TENTH ARMY CORPS, Bermuda Hundred, May 11, 1864.

GENERAL: I have the honor to submit, at your request, an informal report of the conduct of the Second Brigade of your division after I took command of it until last night:

In consequence of the illness of Colonel Hawley I assumed the command on the afternoon of the 9th. At that time the brigade was resting at the Port Walthall Junction. At sunset, in obedience to your orders, I moved about a mile southward along the turnpike, and again rested. At that point the Third New Hampshire was detached, and was not again with the brigade until last evening. At 9 p. m. of that evening I moved to the point where the turnpike crosses the Petersburg and Richmond Railroad, and so posted the brigade as to prevent any advance of the enemy from the direction of Richmond. This place I held until the next morning, when I moved up the railroad and turnpike, tearing up about a mile of the railroad track before leaving, and continued to advance until within about one mile of Chester Station. It was found that the enemy was there in force. By order of Brigadier-General Terry the Seventh Connecticut was then posted with its left flank resting on the turnpike, the Sixth Connecticut with its right resting on the turnpike, and the Seventh New Hampshire on the left of Winfree's house and supporting a section of Rockwell's battery. The first two regiments immediately engaged the enemy, drove them from their positions, and advanced to the point originally held by the enemy. That portion of the Seventh Connecticut retook two pieces of artillery which had been lost, manned them from their companies, and turned them again upon the enemy. The Sixth Connecticut, after repulsing the enemy's line in their front, held a position in a field to the rear until by my orders they changed front to meet a flank movement of the enemy on the left. The Seventh New Hampshire was attacked in their position by a brigade which advanced through the open ground. So sure and rapid was their fire that the brigade was obliged to retire, which it did with heavy loss. The Seventh Connecticut was withdrawn from its position by the brigadier-general commanding the division about a third of a mile to the rear, and by his orders I withdrew the Sixth Connecticut and the Seventh New Hampshire, together with Rockwell's battery, to the same point, from which all excepting the battery moved by the right flank toward the intrenchments. Halting until sunset on the left of Colonel Howell's line, they reached camp a little after dark. I reserve the list of casualties until a formal report. The loss in all the regiments was, however, slight. Of the conduct of all the regiments of the brigade, so far as it came under my observation, I can speak only with commendation. The heaviest and most protracted fighting was done by the Seventh Connecticut on and near the turnpike, and the gallantry of the battalion under Major Sanford in retaking the abandoned artillery ought especially to be noticed. The repulse of the rebel brigade by the Seventh New Hampshire, aided by Rockwell's battery, was a brilliant instance of heroic resolution, especially as they saw themselves attacked by four times their own numbers.

I have the honor to be, general, with great respect, your most obedient servant,

JOSEPH C. ABBOTT,
Colonel Seventh New Hampshire Volunteers, Comdg, Brigade.

Brig. Gen. A. H. TERRY,
Commanding First Division, Tenth Army Corps.

[36.]
with orders, that portion of the regiment not doing picket duty left camp at about 3 a.m., and in junction with the Thirteenth Indiana proceeded to a point on the Richmond and Petersburg turnpike near Chester Station and reported to Colonel Voris, Sixty-seventh Ohio, about daylight. Company H, Lieut. William H. Lyons commanding, was ordered forward on the right, and Company K, Capt. Daniel Ferguson, on the left of the turnpike in support of a section of the Fourth New Jersey Battery, Lieut. [John H. George] commanding. Companies C, (Capt. J. H. Allen), D (Capt. Spencer W. Snyder), and F (Capt. Augustus D. Vaughn) moved out on the right on a sideroad leading to Henry Friend's house, deploying as skirmishers from the house to the turnpike. Soon the enemy were discovered in force on the right and in front maneuvering to advance and passing around the right flank. Lieut. Col. Alonzo Alden discovered this flank movement in time to change the line of skirmishers, so that our right might connect with Colonel Howell's brigade, and he had but just accomplished this when the enemy made the attack. The first shots were exchanged at 6.30 a.m. At 9 a.m. Companies G (Lieut. C. D. Merrell), I (Capt. Daniel J. Cary), A (Capt. James F. Thompson), E (Lieut. Henry Mulhall), and B (Lieut. James H. Dunn) rejoined the regiment, having been relieved from picket duty. Companies A and I moved out on the right to strengthen the line of skirmishers while B took position on the left, and E and G on the right in support of the battery. A desultory firing and skirmishing was maintained until about 11 a.m., when the enemy made a general attack with one brigade upon our right flank and another with cavalry and artillery upon our center and left. Their advance was made in column of four ranks, and they were received with a destructive fire both from the regiment and the battery. Every officer and man stood to his post nobly, and the quick discharges of grape and canister made most perceptible openings in their ranks. Not until the enemy were fairly upon the guns did the line fall back, and then we fell back, firing, but a short distance to our line on the right on the cross road, for the purpose of checking a flank movement of the enemy on our right. The two companies on the right and the two companies on the left of the battery remained in their respective positions, and did not fall back until the gun on the right of the road had limbered up and the caisson, without the gun, on the left was moving to the rear, and then retired in order.

While I consider that the position was held nobly against a very superior force, and that the lieutenant commanding the battery behaved with coolness and gallantry, yet I cannot account for the caisson going to the rear without the gun. The lieutenant commanding endeavored to halt the caisson, and discharged his revolver at the driver, but did not succeed. Being temporarily disabled, my horse being shot under me, I discovered the caisson was retreating and the companies supporting the battery retiring in good order. Re-enforcements coming up, the gun was recaptured and the old line re-established. Great credit is due to Lieut. Col. Alonzo Alden and Major Colvin for their coolness and gallantry as well as to Actg. Adjt. Clark Smith throughout the whole engagement and during the day. Surgeon Knowlson was present on the field and unremitting in his attentions to the wounded. I do not know of a single exception in the good conduct and intelligent bravery of the officers, and all did their whole duty. The list of casualties, herewith appended, shows more plainly than words can express the earnestness and gallantry of the men. The chaplain, Rev.

*Nominal list (omitted) shows 9 men killed, 34 men wounded, and 13 men missing; total 56.
Mr. Chapman, was in attendance at one of the field hospitals rendering aid to the wounded.

I am, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

JOHN McCONIHE,
Colonel, Commanding.

Colonel VORIS,
Commanding Sixty-seventh Ohio Volunteers.

[36.]

HDQRS. THIRD BRIG., FIRST DIV., TENTH ARMY CORPS, Bermuda Hundred, Va., May 20, 1864.

CAPTAIN: I have the honor to report the part taken by my brigade in the affairs of the 12th to 16th, inclusive, in the vicinity of Fort Darling or Drewry's Bluff:

On the morning of the 12th instant Terry's division moved out with other troops of the Tenth Corps in the direction of the Petersburg pike, the Third Brigade having the advance of the division. The division bivouacked in the open field near Perdue's, south of the pike and about one mile from the Halfway House. The Third Brigade occupied the left flank and bivouacked in line of battle, forming two sides of a square, with four companies in the rear as a reserve. A strong picket of 200 men from each regiment was posted. Twice during the night the men were called to arms by picket-firing. On the morning of the 13th our forces moved upon the road to Chester Junction, on the Petersburg and Richmond Railroad, which point was reached at 8.30 a.m., the Third Brigade in the advance. At this point I was ordered to cross the railroad, take a path through the woods by a wide circuit, with a view to gain the right and rear of the enemy's fortifications, having for guides a colored man [and] a Mr. Perdue. The brigade pushed forward with caution, the One hundredth New York Volunteers in advance, with skirmishers and flankers out. The advance being delayed by the skirmishers and flankers, owing to the thick woods, I was ordered by General Foster, chief of staff, to push forward without flankers and skirmishers—at least they must not delay the column. The One hundredth was advanced several hundred yards from the remaining regiments of the brigade, and one company from that regiment thrown forward 100 yards or more as advanced guard. Every by-path and thicket was searched by three or four mounted orderlies and my staff officers, and every inhabitant upon the way arrested and questioned. In this manner the movement was executed without a halt or check except those occasioned by obstacles of the way, defiles, &c., to the Chesterfield road, about one mile from the enemy's right flank, when General Gillmore and staff, with a squadron of cavalry, took the advance, capturing on the Chesterfield road the enemy's mounted vedettes. The One hundredth New York here was posted upon the Chesterfield road to block up the way in the direction of the courthouse, the enemy's cavalry having appeared in that direction. The Twenty-fourth Massachusetts Volunteers then took the advance to the Salem Church, half a mile farther, where it was posted to guard the Richmond road while our column was passing. The Tenth Connecticut Volunteers then having the lead, advanced to within a few hundred yards of the rear of the enemy's works, the skirmishers of the Twenty-fourth still holding the advance and moving up to within a few yards of the enemy. Hawley’s brigade was now moved to the front and placed in line of battle, the Tenth being deployed in the second line. The Third New Hampshire Volunteers, of that brigade, soon engaged the enemy upon the left. The Twenty-fourth and One hundredth were brought up, the Twenty-fourth in rear of the Third New Hampshire, and ready with fixed bayonets to renew the charge, when the enemy, attacked by White’s brigade in front, abandoned his fortifications on his right, and our forces moved in and took possession without further opposition, the skirmishers of the Twenty-fourth, under the lamented Rea, being the first to enter the works. The enemy holding the left of his chain of fortifications and a wood intermediate, the One hundredth New York was ordered to move down across the railroad and drive them out of the woods, which they did in a most gallant manner. Having passed through the woods and advanced into the open space, they came under the fire of a rebel battery of three rifled pieces, which plowed the ranks frightfully, two shots carrying away no less than eight legs. At the same time sharpshooters in the woods in front kept up a most annoying fire. In danger of being driven back, the Twenty-fourth was sent to the support of the One hundredth. The Twenty-fourth advanced across the railroad into the open field to the right of the One hundredth. The two regiments then advanced and drove the enemy back. In this affair both regiments behaved splendidly and suffered considerable loss, the One hundredth New York losing 20 killed and wounded; the Twenty-fourth Massachusetts 6, including 1 commissioned officer, Lieutenant Clough, killed by a sharpshooter. The regiments, holding their positions until dark, were ordered to fall back and establish a strong line of outposts for the night. This having been done on the line of the railroad, they were relieved at 11 p. m. by the Tenth Connecticut, and the two regiments, greatly fatigued and exhausted, bivouacked in the rain at midnight behind the captured fortifications.

At daylight on the morning of the 14th troops in two lines of battle, with skirmishers, were seen advancing against the left of the enemy’s fortifications in the plain below. Colonel Otis and the Tenth were thrown forward to discover their character. They were soon discovered to be of Turner’s division, Tenth Corps. The right of the enemy’s works having been captured by Terry’s division and his whole line turned, the enemy abandoned the left of his line and Turner and Smith took possession without opposition except from skirmishers. The entire first line of the enemy’s fortifications was thus secured. Terry’s division was immediately put in motion, and descending into the valley, formed a junction with Turner. The Tenth Corps, thus united with the Eighteenth upon the right, advanced to the attack of the second line of the enemy’s fortifications. The Third Brigade, being upon the extreme left of our line, was ordered to advance and commence the assault, expecting to take the enemy in flank and rear. The One hundredth New York and Twenty-fourth Massachusetts were formed in first line, Tenth Connecticut in reserve. Changing front forward on my right and advancing my left flank skirted a thick wood from which the enemy’s sharpshooters began seriously to annoy my line. Colonel Osborn was ordered to throw a company of skirmishers into the woods. This company was supported by one from the Tenth Connecticut. These companies failing to accomplish the object immediately, Colonel Otis was ordered with six companies of his regiment to clear the woods of the enemy and to find out and report his exact position upon my left, supporting his skirmishers with the balance of his regiment. Colonel Otis soon reported that he had skirmished through the woods on both sides of the railroad and discovered that the enemy's fortifications extended 800 yards beyond my left; that the front was flanked by two strong redoubts upon commanding ground, above which were two lines of rifle-pits. Reporting these facts to General Terry, he, with Major Brooks, of General Gillmore's staff, reconnoitered the position in person. Positions were selected for artillery, and Langdon's and the First Connecticut batteries were brought up and put into position. At the same time, to protect the gunners from the enemy's sharpshooters, the skirmishers of the brigade were ordered to advance and drive the enemy into his works. It was now 2.30 p. m., and a battle of skirmishers commenced, which lasted until past 11 at night. Company after company from each regiment was sent to re-enforce the skirmish line until scarcely one was left in reserve. Our skirmishers took and held a line within 200 yards of the enemy's fortifications, repelling charge after charge, and finally compelling the enemy to hide himself behind his works, and for the most part during daylight keeping down his fire.

At 10.30 p. m. was repulsed the heaviest and most determined assault of the day. The last reserves of the Twenty-fourth and One hundredth had come up. All were in position with replenished ammunition when a cloud of rebel skirmishers was discovered stealing upon our lines. They were allowed to approach within thirty yards, when the rebel commander giving the order "Rally by platoons" charged with a yell. His platoons were annihilated by the close and rapid fire from the One hundredth, Twenty-fourth, and Tenth, delivered with deadly aim in the bright moonlight. There was no more firing on that line for the night. The loss of the brigade in this combat of the skirmishers was 6 commissioned officers and 84 enlisted men. At 11 p. m. my three regiments at the front were relieved and bivouacked in the woods a short distance in the rear. Sunday, the 15th, was comparatively quiet, the brigade losing but one man during the day, but the impression seemed general that a serious attack by the enemy was impending. The usual preparations were made in the Third Brigade, sixty rounds of cartridges per man were supplied, and two days' cooked rations. The teams, which came up at night with camp and garrison equipage, were not unloaded, but sent to the rear. On the morning of the 16th the brigade was under arms at 3.30. The attack commenced by picket-firing on the right opposite our communications about 4.30 a. m., and soon after raged with great violence. I was ordered by General Terry to advance my regiments to the open space in front of my camps, forming line on the left of the Second Brigade. The One hundredth and [the] Twenty-fourth were formed in line as directed; the Tenth was held in reserve. The Eleventh Maine had been sent to the left of the railroad the night before to occupy the works upon the heights captured by us on the 13th. Soon after these dispositions had been made I received intimations from General Foster, chief of staff to corps commander, that a charge was to be made upon the enemy's works by our whole force from right to left, which I was to be prepared for. The One hundredth was formed in the first line, the Twenty-fourth in the second, and the Tenth in reserve. The first line was advanced to the plowed field, within 500 yards of the enemy's works.

At 7.45 a. m., the right of our lines being hotly engaged, I received an order from General Terry to push forward a strong chain of skirmishers vigorously, and impress the enemy, if possible, with the idea that we were about to make an attack, the other brigade commanders having the same orders. The One hundredth New York was immediately advanced across the open space into the slashing within 200 yards of the enemy's fortifications, and were at once hotly engaged. The Twenty-fourth was advanced to the position vacated by the One hundredth, and the Tenth was similarly advanced. In case that a charge was ordered, the One hundredth was to go into the enemy's intrenchments, followed by the Twenty-fourth, and the Tenth advance to the slashing as a support. Three assaults in force were made upon the lines of the Second and Third Brigades, but were repulsed with great loss to the enemy. The brigade held this position, the front line fighting constantly, until 9.15 a.m., when I was ordered by General Terry to leave a strong line of skirmishers in my front, then fall back and form my regiments in the open field back of me, not letting the enemy see the movement. At this time six companies of the One hundredth were in the slashing as skirmishers, four companies at the edge of it as supports. Not being certain as to the meaning of the order, whether the field in the rear of my position or the field in rear of my camp was intended, I left the Twenty-fourth and moved with the Tenth through the woods into the field in rear of my camp, supposing the right was to be re-enforced, at the same time sending to the general for instructions. I soon received orders to move the Twenty-fourth by the right flank into the same field, keeping closed with the Second Brigade, which was executing the same movement. One of my staff was sent to conduct the Twenty-fourth. The Twenty-fourth had barely moved the length of its line when the enemy appeared in force, the skirmishers of the Second Brigade having suddenly retired. Pressed by a hot fire, Colonel Osborn was compelled to fall back in line, fighting through the camps and through a thick undergrowth, which, with a high fence which he was compelled to pass, greatly disordered his line. In this condition the enemy, following closely, poured a destructive fire into his ranks, killing two of his commissioned officers and a number of his enlisted men. Under this fire Colonel Osborn reformed his regiment, and facing, poured volley after volley upon the advancing enemy, driving him back in confusion. At the same time the Tenth formed nearly at right angles with the Twenty-fourth on another side of the field, opened a cross-fire upon the rebels, and in five minutes the whole square field and wood were cleared. It was here, in repulsing this onset of the enemy, that the loss of these two regiments mostly occurred.

Having conducted the Tenth to the rear along the left of the enemy's fortifications captured by us two days before, and notified my division commander, I rejoined the Twenty-fourth and One hundredth, which had fallen back beyond the railroad. The Eleventh had been sent down the turnpike to report to General Ames. By order of General Gillmore I conducted the Twenty-fourth and One hundredth across the railroad along the road to the rear of a new position taken up by the general to cover the retreat, and occupied strongly by his artillery. Here, joined by the Tenth, the brigade was moved into the open field and halted to allow General Turner's division to pass. Soon after I was ordered by General Butler to move forward on the double-quick and form a junction, as I understood, with Smith's corps. About the same time I was ordered by General Terry to remain where I was until he could get his division together, and then to follow Turner's division. The brigade was moved to the pike, thence to the open field near Perdue's house, and forward in line of battle. After about two hours I was ordered with two regiments (the Tenth and Twenty-fourth) to move to the front again to the Halfway House, and there take position to cover the retreat. The regiments were posted, the Tenth on the left and the Twenty-fourth on the right of the road, and at right angles to it, supported on the road by two pieces of artillery and the Seventh New Hampshire Volunteers, Colonel Abbott. The enemy, having got his pieces into position, opened upon us smartly with rifled guns. The two pieces of artillery limbered to the rear in the liveliest manner and were not seen again for the day. All our forces having retired, dispositions were made to retreat. Six companies of the Tenth were placed parallel with the road in the sunken way. Four companies were thrown to the rear some 200 yards and placed in position to cover the retreat of the six companies. Soon after, by order of General Terry, the Seventh New Hampshire and Twenty-fourth were retired, when the enemy made his appearance in front of the Tenth, but were kept at a distance by its fire, and the Tenth was retired without losing a man, except a few slightly wounded, including one commissioned officer.

Returning to Perdue's, I was directed by the general to move with my brigade and the Thirty-ninth Illinois Volunteers and take post at the junction leading from the pike to our intrenchments, leaving the Twenty-fourth with him to bring up the rear. The regiments were posted at the junction, where they remained until sunset, when all our forces had passed and the Tenth took the post of rear guard, reaching camp at 9 p.m. The losses of the brigade for the day amounted to 7 commissioned officers and 232 enlisted men, the One hundredth New York suffering most. This regiment had the advance, having been thrown out as skirmishers, and when the other regiments of the brigade were moved to the right, as was supposed, to support it, the One hundredth was left as a strong line of skirmishers in obedience to the following order:

Headquarters First Division, Tenth Army Corps,

In the Field, May 10, 1864. (Received 9.15 a.m.)

Colonel PLAISTED:

Leave a strong line of skirmishers in your front, then fall back and form your regiments in the open field back of you. Don't let the enemy see your movement.

A. H. TERRY,

Brigadier-General, Commanding.

The Tenth Connecticut had barely reached the field indicated by General Terry, when, the skirmish line upon the right of the One hundredth giving way, the One hundredth was overwhelmed by the enemy upon its front and flank, and this gallant regiment refusing to retire without orders, suffered the loss so much to be regretted. Throughout the expedition this regiment, having the advance, always willing and always ready, was the first and foremost in the fight and the last to leave the field. Upon every occasion under its gallant leader its conduct indeed was most creditable to itself and the great State which it represents. Great credit is due to Colonel Dandy and the One hundredth New York for the admirable manner in which they performed every duty. Of the Tenth and Twenty-fourth I need hardly say more than that they more than maintained the splendid reputation which they have, hitherto borne for steady and soldierly behavior under the most trying circumstances, circumstances, too, entirely new to them, for never before were their backs ever turned to the enemy. They may have been equalled but never surpassed. Under a fire in which eighteen fell from the left of the Tenth in almost as many seconds, not a soldier of the regiment spoke a word or moved a heel from the alignment. Too much praise cannot be accorded to the commanding officers of these regiments, Colonels Osborn and Otis, for their coolness and self-possession under fire and the skillful manner in which they handled their commands. The Eleventh Maine was under my command but a small portion of the time during the expedition. On the morning of the 16th it was sent to re-enforce General Ames on the pike, who was resisting the enemy's advance from the direction of Petersburg. On picket when the expedition started, it took no part in the flank movement of the 12th and 13th. Ordered up on the 13th, it did excellent service on the right, charging the enemy and driving him into his fortifications, where others had failed, losing in this gallant charge of skirmishers 14 killed and wounded, including 1 commissioned officer killed. The regiment rejoined its brigade on the morning of the 15th.

The aggregate losses of the brigade during four days' fighting and skirmishing were 402—19 commissioned officers and 383 enlisted men. Five officers were killed, Lieutenant Brannan of the Eleventh, Lieutenant Hoyt of the One hundredth, Adjutant Ward, and Lieutenants Clough and Rea of the Twenty-fourth, intelligent and brave young men and accomplished officers, whose early deaths are indeed to be lamented. Not untimely their fall, for they fell at the post of duty in a great cause, and their memories will be cherished by a grateful posterity. Nor alone will those be remembered, but the brave lads who stood so stoutly for their country, and died so gloriously. Let it be remembered, as an instance of the heroic spirit animating them all, that Private James Bean, of the Twenty fourth, who fell in the retreat mortally wounded, waving his handkerchief to his comrades, calling them back, said: "Here, take my gun and equipments; carry them away safely. Never mind me; I have but a few moments to live." To Captain Amory and Lieutenants Sellmer and Mason, of my staff, are returned my unqualified thanks for their faithful and efficient services during the four days' campaign. Bravely and with zeal were admirably performed every duty assigned to them.

Trust that the conduct of the Third Brigade, Terry's division, Tenth Corps, in the late affairs was such as to meet the approbation of my division commander, I have the honor to be, captain, with great respect, your obedient servant,

H. M. PLAISTED,

Colonel Eleventh Maine Volunteers, Commanding
Third Brigade, First Division, Tenth Corps.

Capt. ADRIAN TERRY,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

[36.]

HDQRS. FIRST BRIG., SECOND DIV., TENTH ARMY CORPS,
Near Petersburg, Va., July 3, 1864.

SIR: In obedience to orders I have the honor to make the following report of the operations of the Second Brigade, Third Division, Eighteenth Army Corps, in the late advance on Petersburg:

In compliance with orders received from Major-General Smith I moved my command, the Second Brigade, Third Division, Eighteenth Army Corps, from camp near Point of Rocks at 2 a.m. on the morning of the 15th of June, ultimo, and followed Bell's brigade to the woods in front of the main line of works (rebel) near Petersburg, where I arrived at about 11 a. m., and took up position on the left of the road and about twenty paces in rear of Bell's brigade. In this position I remained until about 6 p. m., when I moved my brigade forward in support of Bell's brigade and formed to the right and rear of Battery No. 5. At about 9 p. m. I was ordered forward and formed on the left of Bell's brigade, my right resting about sixty paces from Battery No. 7 in the advanced line. From this position I was relieved about 2 a. m. of the 16th ultimo by a portion of the Second Corps, and retired to the open field in rear of that position. At about 5 p. m. on the 16th I was ordered forward to make a demonstration on the enemy's left, and formed my command on the left bank of the creek near Friend's house, and in this position I remained until ordered to return to camp near Point of Rocks, where I arrived on the 18th instant at 3 a. m. I inclose herewith list of casualties.*

I am, sir, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

N. MARTIN CURTIS,
Col., Comdg. 2d Brig., 3d Div., Eighteenth Army Corps, June 19, 1864.

Maj. WILLIAM RUSSELL, Jr.,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

---

HDQRS. THIRD BRIG., SECOND DIV., TENTH ARMY CORPS,
Near Petersburg, Va., June 27, 1864.

MAJOR: I have the honor to submit the following report of the operations of the troops of my command, consisting of Fourth New Hampshire Volunteers, Ninety-seventh Pennsylvania Volunteers, One hundred and seventeenth New York Volunteers, Third New York Volunteers, and One hundred and forty-second New York Volunteers (Third Brigade); and One hundred and sixty-ninth New York Volunteers, Thirteenth Indiana Volunteers, Ninth Maine Volunteers, and One hundred and twelfth New York Volunteers (Second Brigade), before Petersburg:

Started from Bermuda Hundred at 4 a. m. June 15, in rear of Brooks' division, Eighteenth Corps. Remained here during the day with 200 men deployed as skirmishers. At 6 p. m. received order to deploy a line at two paces intervals. Received order to advance this line and follow with Third Brigade line of battle. Captain Hunt, One hundred and seventeenth New York Volunteers, who had been on skirmish line during the day, moved his men, 100 in number, by the flank; penetrated between Batteries 5 and 6; formed line in rear of Battery 5 and fired a volley from the rear at the defenders of Battery 5, who threw down their arms. This was before any of the other troops had reached the battery. An officer who assumed the right to surrender the troops delivered his sword to Captain Hunt. In this work were taken 4 guns, the battle-flag of Twenty-sixth Virginia, and 211 prisoners, 1 lieutenant-colonel, 2 majors, 4 captains, and 9 lieutenants. The prisoners were retained by Captain Hunt's command till turned over by Lieutenant * Shows 1 officer and 9 men wounded, and 1 man missing.

Ross, provost-marshal of my brigade, to the provost-marshal at department headquarters, with the flag. The left of my brigade struck on Battery 6 at the same time with colored troops. After reforming line I moved up to Battery No. 7, captured that evening by the colored troops. Relieved the colored troops; turned the work, to be used against the enemy; the Second Brigade being on the left of the Third Brigade; the right of the Third Brigade resting on ravine near Friend's house. During the evening skirmished with the enemy; was relieved by Second Corps during the night. Moved back and formed line, the right resting on Friend's house, Second Brigade in reserve. Morning of the 16th moved forward six companies One hundred and forty-second New York Volunteers as skirmishers in front of my line, to dislodge enemy's skirmishers in my front, which was done. In the evening of the 16th received orders to report to General Birney, Second Corps. Formed line in the front in the line of Second Corps; was relieved at sunrise 17th, and reoccupied position we had on evening of 15th. Remained here till near night, and during the night marched to Bermuda Hundred. Casualties during time embraced in report [sic].

I have the honor to be, major, most respectfully, your obedient servant,

LOUIS BELL,
Colonel, Commanding Brigade.

Maj. WILLIAM RUSSELL, Jr.,
Assistant Adjutant-General, Eighteenth Army Corps.

[40.]

HDQRS. FIRST DIVISION, EIGHTEENTH ARMY CORPS,
June —, 1864.

SIR: On the arrival of this division at Cold Harbor, on the 1st instant, it was formed on the right of General Devens' division a little in front of the Cold Harbor and Bethesda Church road, in this order: First line, Henry's brigade, composed of Twenty-first Connecticut, Fortieth Massachusetts, Fifty-eighth and One hundred and eighty-eighth Pennsylvania, and the Thirteenth New Hampshire, of Burnham's brigade, with the Ninety-second New York thrown forward as skirmishers. Second line, three regiments of Burnham's, One hundred and eighteenth New York, Eighth Connecticut, and Tenth New Hampshire. Third line, Marston's brigade in line of battalions in column of division. At the order the whole advanced through a wood some 200 or 300 yards in width, and on emerging on an open space about 100 yards wide the first line came under the fire of the enemy's skirmishers partially protected by slight rifle-pits within the edge of a pine grove, and also under the fire of musketry and artillery from the enemy's main line to our front and right, about 200 yards distant. The pits were charged and the enemy driven to his main line. This was done without much loss, except in the Thirteenth New Hampshire. This regiment, on emerging from the first woods spoken of above, found nothing but an open plain between itself and the main line of the enemy's intrenchments, which was completely commanded by his muskets and artillery, yet they maintained their ground until relieved after dark. During the night Marston's brigade was sent to General Devens' support, who had the enemy in strong force in his front in rifle-pits within the same woods. that he was in. Marston was put on his right, filling the interval between him and Henry. For a description of this dangerous and exposed position I beg leave respectfully to refer you to General Marston's report. These positions were occupied until the general assault that took place on the 3d instant, when the division was all formed on the ground held by Marston. The ground to my right, vacated by Henry, now became occupied by General Martindale, a slight ravine dividing the two divisions. Devens' division was replaced by troops from the Sixth Corps. In this assault Marston had three regiments in column of division, with the Ninety-eighth New York, Colonel Wead, in line on his left and the Tenth New Hampshire, Lieutenant-Colonel Coughlin, thrown forward as skirmishers. The enemy occupied a strong line of rifle-pits directly in our front and near the farther edge of the woods that we were all in. An advance was gallantly made by Marston's brigade, supported by Henry and Burnham, over these pits and through on to the open plain, on which the enemy's main line of intrenchments are. I again respectfully refer you to General Marston's report for a description of this ground and the murderous fire to which our troops were for a while subjected and of the impossibility of a farther advance. All we could do was to hold on to the rifle-pits and keep the enemy in his works. This, though, was done with much loss, every inch of ground being within the enemy's range of both musketry and canister. About noon, another attack being ordered, three of Burnham's regiments were formed in column, with one of Henry's in line in the rear. Fortunately the order was countermanded, for close examination of the ground afterward showed that the attack would have been attended with the most disastrous results. This position was held, and at night-fall our lines were intrenched and held until the final withdrawal.

In the operations of this day the losses of this division were very heavy, especially in officers. The First Brigade lost Colonel Wead, of the Ninety-eighth New York, and Lieutenant-Colonel Perry, of the One hundred and thirty-ninth New York. The Third Brigade lost Lieutenant-Colonels Anderson, Ninety-second New York, and Marshall, Fortieth Massachusetts, all gallant soldiers, and during the operation around Cold Harbor Lieutenant-Colonel Burpee, Twenty-first Connecticut, was mortally wounded. He was an officer of much merit. It is not improper to make here a report of the death of the colonel of this regiment, Col. A. H. Dutton, then in command of the brigade, who was mortally wounded while making a reconnaissance in front of our lines near Port Walthall, just as this corps was about to join the Army of the Potomac. The service has lost no more accomplished officer than Colonel Dutton. The list of company officers is also large. It is my painful duty to have to report the death of my aide-de-camp, Lieut. A. K. Parsons, Fourth Vermont, who was killed on the 3d instant. Close association with the deceased for over two years made me well acquainted with his merits. In him were combined all that go to make the gentleman and the gallant soldier. Captain Read, assistant adjutant-general, was slightly wounded on the 3d, and Lieutenant Wheeler, aide-de-camp, on the 2d instant, both while in the active discharge of their duties. My thanks are due to the members of my staff for their arduous services, performed under perilous circumstances, as this record shows. They are, in addition to those already mentioned, Capt. W. R. Howe, assistant adjutant-general and acting inspector-general, and Lieutenant Ladd, Thirteenth New Hampshire, commissary of musters and acting

* See Vol. XXXVI, Part I, p. 1006.
aide-de-camp. I cannot close this report without calling attention to the zealous co-operation and assistance derived from the respective brigade commanders throughout this campaign, Brigadier-Generals Marston and Burnham, with their assistant adjutants-general, Captains Lawrence and Clark, and Col. Guy V. Henry, Fortyeth Massachusetts. I respectfully inclose their reports and concur in their commendation of individuals.*

Very respectfully,

W. T. H. BROOKS,
Brigadier-General.

ASSISTANT ADJUTANT-GENERAL, EIGHTEENTH ARMY CORPS.

[36.]

HDQRS. FIRST DIVISION, EIGHTEENTH CORPS,
July 2, 1864.

MAJOR: In obedience to orders from corps headquarters, I have the honor to report the following operations of this division since June 21, 1864:

Having on the evening of the 20th received orders from General Smith, assigning me to the command, I found the division under marching orders. At 4 a.m. formed my command, the Second Brigade, General Burnham leading, followed by the Third Brigade, Colonel Henry, and the First Brigade, Col. E. M. Cullen. Moved promptly to the pontoon bridge over the Appomattox River, at which point I found it necessary to halt my column, remain one hour and twenty minutes, to allow cavalry to pass. Moved in the direction of the right of our line in front of Petersburg, and at dusk proceeded to relieve a portion of the Sixth Corps, which held our extreme right, placing two regiments of the Second Brigade, General Burnham, on the right of the front line of rifle-pits, while a portion of Colonel Henry's (Third) brigade on his left, formed connection with the right of General Martin's division. The balance of these two brigades were placed in the supporting line, and the First Brigade, Colonel Cullen, in the second line of rifle-pits, with the exception of one regiment of his command, which was sent to the support of Regan's battery, on the right of the ravine. My command held this position, nothing of note occurring; my pickets keeping up desultory skirmishing with the enemy; relieved my troops in the front line each second day with those in the rear. On the 23d a brigade of colored troops, under Colonel Ames, reported to me, which I placed in my rear line of works, thus relieving one of my brigades, which I sent a mile to the rear to rest. From this date I was enabled to relieve one-half of my command from the trenches and alternated every second day. Up to this time my brigade commanders had been busily engaged remodeling and rebuilding their lines. Covered ways, connecting the front with the rear, and earth-works have been constructed, all without casualties in the working parties.

At daylight of the 24th the enemy's batteries opened with unusual severity on both our front and right flank, principally the latter. This cannonade continued for more than an hour, when an assault was made upon our lines by a portion of the command of the rebel General Hoke. This attack on the part of the enemy was eminently unsuccessful; our pickets were quietly withdrawn, the fire along our line reserved.

*See Vol. XXXVI, Part I, pp. 1005, 1006, 1012.
until the enemy had come up to the point previously occupied by our pickets. A rapid fire was now opened along our whole line. The enemy found themselves entrapped, neither being able to hold our skirmish line, to carry our works, nor to retreat, except with the certainty of being cut to pieces. A large number of them dropped their arms and surrendered—1 captain and 60 men to Colonel Henry, commanding Third Brigade, and 4 commissioned officers and 130 men to Colonel Cullen, commanding First Brigade. The enemy left dead upon the field 75, 20 of whom were buried by Colonel Henry’s command on the succeeding night. The enemy lost heavily in wounded, and their whole loss could not have fallen short of 400. Our loss was on this occasion in killed, wounded, and missing—First Brigade, 57; Third Brigade, 15; making an aggregate of 72. The Second Brigade was not under fire. On the same day a detail of 300 men was made to cut trees for abatis. Teams were employed to draw the same to the front, a detail of 200 men from the colored troops being made to lay the same, and at dusk the work was commenced. This work was continued on successive evenings until a strong abatis was constructed along our whole front. While this work was in progress, Colonel Henry, commanding Third Brigade, projected and commenced a mine leading from his left up the turnpike to a rebel fort. He reports that the work on this has been suspended owing to the nature of the soil requiring the use of engineering materials not within his reach. Nothing has occurred on my lines out of the usual course of picket skirmishing and artillery firing until the 30th, when the negro troops, which had served as a support to a portion of my line, were withdrawn by order of Major-General Smith. On the same day my First Brigade, which was then resting at the rear, was ordered to the support of General Turner on the left, and was there placed as a support to the assaulting column. The commanding officer reports that although under heavy fire he was not actively engaged, his losses being five enlisted men. During this advance on the left the artillery all along the line became sharply engaged, and although my division was not engaged, my casualties from the artillery fire of the enemy were numerous. My First Brigade was relieved from duty on the following morning. No changes have occurred in my lines nor has there anything of importance taken place since the date last mentioned. The entire withdrawal of the negro troops has necessitated a longer stay of my troops in the trenches with less hours of rest in the rear, having now two days in the pits and one day out. My casualties since assuming command of the division up to date are as follows: Killed, wounded, and missing—officers, 4; men, 151; aggregate, 155, official lists of which have been duly forwarded to corps headquarters daily.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

GEO. J. STANNARD,
Brigadier-General, Commanding.

Maj. WILLIAM RUSSELL, Jr.,
Assistant Adjutant-General, Eighteenth Army Corps.

HDQRS. THIRD BRIG., FIRST DIV., 18TH ARMY CORPS,
June 24, 1864.

COLONEL: I have the honor to report that I was this morning attacked by a heavy line of skirmishers sent against me by the rebel General Hoke. My pickets, according to directions, fell back to the main body, and thus decoyed the enemy into the pits directly before my front line. My brigade then opened fire so sharply that the enemy could neither advance nor retreat, nor remain in safety where they were. They accordingly threw down their arms, and between fifty and sixty surrendered themselves and were passed to the rear, including one captain, six sergeants, and other non-commissioned officers. A portion of the enemy endeavored to escape to their own lines, and in so doing about forty were shot down in front of our brigade. Twenty-four of these are lying before the Fortieth Massachusetts, killed by their Spencer rifles, which were fired with great rapidity and precision. The casualties in my brigade were only 3 killed and 8 wounded.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

GUY V. HENRY,
Colonel, Commanding Brigade.

Lieut. Col. NICOLAS BOWEN,
Assistant Adjutant-General, First Division.

HDQRS. SECOND DIVISION, EIGHTEENTH ARMY CORPS,
Near Petersburg, Va., July 1, 1864.

COLONEL: I have the honor to submit the following report of the operations of the division under my command since the 26th day of May, 1864:

Early in the morning of the 26th of May I went in person with one regiment from the lines at Cobb's Hill across the bridge at the outlet of Bake-House Creek to Port Walthall. The regiment was the One hundred and forty-eighth New York Volunteers, commanded by Col. George M. Guion. Skirmishers were deployed and the main body of the regiment advanced about 1,200 yards under cover of the woods, until the pickets of the enemy were encountered in force, and the main body of the enemy favorably posted at a mill on the creek and extended along a road leading toward Port Walthall Junction. At 7 a. m. I reported to the commanding general and under his orders directed the Second Brigade, commanded by General Devens, to move across the bridge with a view to dislodge the enemy, should it be found practicable to do so, with the portion of my command then off duty and at my disposal. The Second Brigade was soon got into position and an advance made toward the ground occupied by the enemy. General Stannard, with portions of his brigade about 700 strong, was also ordered by me over the bridge. These troops were placed to support the advance on the enemy's position. After I was in readiness to make the contemplated attack the commanding general received intelligence that his corps was to be mobilized and ordered to White House, on the Pamunkey, whereupon he ordered the movement which I was about to make to be suspended and to return my troops to their camps, and which was immediately done. In this reconnaissance the casualties were 2 killed, 2 wounded, and 2 missing.

On the 28th of May my division was moved, with the other portions of the Eighteenth Army Corps, near Bermuda Hundred. I was ordered to move it and Turner's division, of the Tenth Army Corps, across the Appomattox to City Point, and there embark on transports to be supplied for the purpose. This movement was not commenced until near 6 p.m., and it was late in the night before I reached the vicinity of City Point with the head of my column. The troops were bivouacked in fields near the road. The whole of the following day was occupied in placing the troops upon the transports. I remained personally superintending the embarkation; but there was great delay for want of vessels, especially for wagon transportation and horses. After seeing all my troops and wagons embarked and provided for, except a portion of the horses, I received intelligence from the quartermaster that no more transportation could be supplied until the return of the same transports. I had already sent forward a portion of my command, and then proceeded with the balance toward White House. A part of the vessels, on board of which were the Eighty-ninth New York Volunteers and the Ninth New Jersey Volunteers, were grounded in the James River that night, and it was necessary to leave them until they could be got off by more powerful steamers than any then within my reach. The following day (the 30th of May) the remainder of troops and my wagons and a portion of my horses were landed at the White House. I have been thus minute in the details of this passage to White House to show that every means placed at the disposal of the corps were fully used to hasten the embarkation and hold the command in readiness for movement and action on arriving at White House. On the 31st a portion of my wagons were unloaded and transferred to the other divisions of the corps (whose wagons had not arrived) to facilitate the forward movement of the corps, and at 3 p.m. I started with my command for New Castle, fifteen miles distant. We reached the road leading to New Castle and covering access to the landing at about 11 o'clock at night. By direction of the general commanding the corps my division was so disposed as to hold all the roads on the right of the corps, and bivouacked for the night.

Early in the morning of the 1st of June we marched from our bivouac to the landing. Not long after arriving there I received orders to follow the divisions of Devens and Brooks to Cold Harbor. On arriving at Cold Harbor and reporting to the commanding general I found that Devens' division had already taken position next to the Sixth Corps, on our left, and that Brooks' division was getting into position on the right of Devens'. The commanding general directed me to place my command on the right of Brooks and to guard our right flank as the advance on the enemy then impending should be made. I immediately brought forward my division and placed them in line of battle by battalions in mass. Conformably to the order of the commanding general, I detached one regiment of the First Brigade (General Stannard's) to the support of Devens, and two regiments of the Second Brigade (Colonel Stedman's) to the support of the Sixth Corps. It was particularly enjoined on me by the commanding general to guard against any assault on my right flank. At this point we had no connection with any other command. The advance was made at the hour of about 5 p.m. My line, which was very strong at the beginning of the movement, was unfolded as the advance was made, through a distance of 1,200 yards, until it was extended in a single line of battle as far as it would reach, and a part of the distance was only covered by skirmishers. In the meantime, under the cover of the woods on our right, the enemy threw forward a section of artillery and a regiment of infantry, by which I was continually threatened. This regiment and section continued to hold this position until the following morning, when, in the advance of the Fifth Corps, it retired to the main line of the enemy. The duty which was devolved on me with the small portion of my division remaining with me on the right was simply to guard the right flank. No part of my command, except the regiments detached as already stated, participated in the assault made along the other portion of the line. My left maintained a connection with the right of Brooks' division during the advance. My casualties were light, amounting to not more than 10 killed and 15 wounded.

No movements of any particular importance were made on the following day, June 2, but I received orders to form my division in column of divisions in mass, with a strong line of skirmishers, and advance at 4.30 the following morning against the enemy's intrenchments, taking position on the right of General Brooks. Early in the morning, and at the hour designated, I moved my command forward, placing Stedman's brigade in advance, and followed by Stannard's. At this time neither the Ninth New Jersey Volunteers nor the Eighty-ninth New York Volunteers had joined me from White House, and the excessive marching over dry and dusty roads, and in the hot weather, had materially disabled and reduced my command. In the order above named, and under immediate supervision of the commanding general of the corps, my division, together with Brooks' division, of the Eighteenth Corps, assaulted the enemy. The line of direction was a slight ravine, to which the left of my division and the right of Brooks' were directed to conform. Woods skirted this ravine to within about seventy-five yards of the enemy's main line of intrenchments. The edge of the woods receded from the enemy's line toward my right, so that my skirmishers emerged from them on the right at a distance of about 250 yards. The enemy fell back as we advanced, but the head of my column converged from the direction of the ravine toward the opening of the woods on the right, and went forward to the first line of the enemy's pits. The fire at this time was exceedingly severe. My columns had their bayonets fixed and pieces uncapped. They were met by a storm of grape, canister, and musket-balls, not only in front but especially on my right flank, which impeded my advance and produced some disorder. Thereupon I deployed three regiments of the Second Brigade (Stedman's) to the right to protect the remainder of my column against the galling fire on my right flank, and moved the First Brigade (Stannard's) to the left, so as to rest on the ravine indicated as the direction of my movement. At this point I received orders from the commanding general to suspend further assault until Brooks' division was put in motion on my left. During this suspension of the assault my troops were suffering severely from the enemy's fire. It was necessary to move. At this juncture the engagement was raging hotly within a few yards of my left, and which, from my point of observation, appeared to be Brooks' left; I therefore ordered the assault. The column went forward with great steadiness and intrepidity. They passed over the first line of the enemy's rifle-pits. They were within fifty yards of the enemy's main line. A fire was concentrated on the column in both flanks and in front. This assault was repeated three times before the column receded. It was impossible for any body of men to do more. They fell back but a short distance. The front was thrown into considerable disorder, but the line of battle, which had been extended, as before detailed, on my right, held its ground, and I was soon able to extend it to the ravine. This ended substantially the operations of the 3d of June at Cold Harbor, so far as my division was engaged. Shortly after the engagement the Ninth New Jersey arrived and joined the First Brigade, to which it belonged. The Eighty-ninth New York did not arrive until the following day. I took into this action about 3,400 men, and my casualties were as follows:

| | |
<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th></th>
<th></th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Killed</td>
<td>98</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Wounded</td>
<td>634</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Missing</td>
<td>311</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Total</td>
<td>1,043</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

It was subsequently disclosed during the flag of truce for the burial of the dead that most of the missing were killed. In this battle my division inspector, Maj. J. H. Converse, was killed. One of my aides-de-camp, Lieut. Clark Smith, was severely wounded by a musket-ball through the thigh. He is still absent by reason of his wound, and in a critical condition. My assistant adjutant-general, Captain Abel, was repeatedly grazed, and my remaining aide-de-camp, Lieutenant Baker, was slightly contused on the shoulder. His coat was perforated with five bullet holes. General Stannard, commanding First Brigade, received a slight wound in the thigh. The loss of line officers was exceedingly severe, a proof at once of the effectiveness of the regiments and of the unsurpassed bravery with which they were led. I cannot make especial mention of particular regimental officers to distinguish them above others. I refer to the accompanying reports of brigade commanders.* With scarcely an exception, the conduct of the whole command was most creditable. To General Stannard and Colonel Stedman, brigade commanders, signal commendation is due. From this date (June 3) until the evening of June 12 my division remained on the ground which they had won, and advanced their intrenchments in some places to within sixty yards of the enemy's works. The principal labor of superintending and constructing these intrenchments was devolved on Colonel Stedman, commanding Second Brigade. He demonstrated his practical knowledge as an engineer in the construction of these intrenchments. For his conduct during these operations, and which has been uniformly excellent during all the time he has been under my command, I take this occasion to recommend him for promotion to the rank of brigadier-general. This is due to him for his services, and is especially desirable to establish him against all contingencies in the command of his brigade. During all this period the whole command was continually within easy range of the enemy's musketry fire, and were only protected from it by their intrenchments. The aggregate of casualties during this period was:

| | |
<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th></th>
<th></th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Killed</td>
<td>20</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Wounded</td>
<td>88</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Missing</td>
<td>2</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Total</td>
<td>110</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

On the night of the 12th of June my division was withdrawn from Cold Harbor and marched to White House, under orders to embark immediately for Bermuda Hundred. Late in the afternoon of the 13th I obtained transports, and arrived at Bermuda Hundred on the following day, except the Second Pennsylvania Heavy Artillery, commanded by Colonel Gibson, and which had been added to my command just before leaving Cold Harbor. This regiment and the Ninth New Jersey were detained on the river, and did not join me until late in the day at *See Stannard and Stedman, post.

Petersburg on the 15th of June. On arriving at Bermuda Hundred on the evening of the 14th of June I received orders to be in readiness to follow Brooks' division across the Appomattox at daylight on the morning of the 15th. I left orders with General Stannard to move forward his brigade, and with Colonel Stedman to follow, and repaired in person to Bermuda Hundred to hasten forward the balance of my command. Shortly after daylight the following morning (having been detained at Bermuda Hundred during the night) I went to the head of my column, and moved on the Spring Hill road toward Petersburg. After advancing about two miles from Broadway, on the Appomattox, I encountered the enemy's skirmishers. I directed General Stannard to deploy a regiment of skirmishers and we immediately moved forward. The enemy, supported by artillery, but in small force, opposed our advance at every advantageous cover of the woods. We advanced steadily until we reached the junction of the Spring Hill and City Point roads, where the commanding general directed us to halt and form a junction with Brooks' division. From this point a broad flat extends about a mile to the Appomattox, which is perfectly overlooked from Archer's Hill, on the west bank of the Appomattox. At this point, under orders from the commanding general, I sent Stannard's brigade forward on my left, with his skirmishers advanced and connecting with Brooks on the left, and with further directions, by arrangement with General Brooks, to take the City Point Railroad as the line of direction and connection with Brooks' division. This brigade was placed so as to be much annoyed by and under the fire of the enemy's works on Jordan's Hill, but it resolutely maintained its ground. I sent Stedman's brigade to the right, and extended his skirmishers to the Appomattox. Colonel Stedman moved forward his right more than 800 yards, and came immediately in view and within reach of the enemy's works on Harrison's Creek. We were now ready to move forward, but were, through my whole line, under the guns from Jordan's Hill. At about 4 o'clock in the afternoon the enemy got two pieces of artillery in position on Archer's Hill, on the west side of the Appomattox, from which point they immediately opened a fire in reverse on Stedman's lines. He was suffering severely from this fire, against which I had nothing to interpose. He was compelled to retire about 800 yards. A reconnoitering party thrown forward toward Harrison's Creek was left unsupported at this time, and about fifteen in number were taken prisoners. At about 7 o'clock an advance was ordered along the lines. I directed Stannard to move along the railroad and Stedman along the City Point and Petersburg highway. This afforded some protection against the fire, which was incessant from Archer's Hill. In this advance Stannard took two pieces of artillery, and Stedman reached the enemy's fortified position at Harrison's Creek. It was now quite dark, and I received orders from the general commanding to withdraw my command back to the Spring Hill road, and around to Brooks' rear on the heights, which I did. My total losses in this day's engagement were—

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Killed</th>
<th>13</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Wounded</td>
<td>133</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Missing</td>
<td>38</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Total</td>
<td>184</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

On the morning of the following day my division was ordered back to the position held at noon of the preceding day. I was now joined by Colonel Gibson's Second Pennsylvania Heavy Artillery. At 6 o'clock I was ordered by the general commanding to advance with my division and make a demonstration in order to divert, but not attack, the enemy, while Hancock's Second Corps would attack on the left of the Eighteenth. Again I moved Stannard's and Stedman's brigades over the same ground as on the preceding night, and moved forward the Second Pennsylvania Heavy Artillery in the intervals as supports to the two brigades on my flanks. We advanced quite to the enemy's intrenched lines again, and were in position to have assaulted them. The enemy's battery on Archer's Hill again opened on my command as we advanced, but the guns from our side, in the fort at Jordan's Hill (taken the preceding evening), soon silenced them. After reaching this point it was made known to me by the commanding general that I could not be supported if I held the ground until morning; that he did not deem it judicious to attempt to hold it under such circumstances, but left it to my discretion if I thought I could hold it alone. I concurred in the propriety of withdrawing, and retired my command without any difficulty and in unbroken order to the position from which they started. On the 17th of June I was under orders to return to Bermuda Hundred (where Brooks' division and the commanding general of the corps had returned) as soon as I should be relieved by the Ninth Corps. While awaiting the arrival of troops to relieve me and Hinks' division of colored troops I received a circular from General Meade informing me that the Ninth Corps would assault the enemy on the following morning; that neither my division nor General Hinks' could be relieved, and ordering us to hold our commands in readiness to co-operate in the attack on the following morning.

On the morning of the 18th I received orders from General Meade, in which it was communicated that the lieutenant-general had directed the movement to unite my division and General Hinks' with Neill's division, of the Sixth Corps, and to move forward against the enemy, joining the Second Corps on the right, the three divisions to be under command of the senior division commander. Being senior in rank, I assumed command of the three divisions and of the brigade of artillery attached to the Sixth Corps, commanded by Colonel Tompkins. Immediately I moved forward Stedman's brigade along the line of the Petersburg and City Point highway, followed by Stannard and two battalions of Gibson's regiment. Duncan's brigade, of Hinks' division, was ordered to follow up the railroad along the route of the railroad. General Hinks remained with his battery at the junction of the Spring Hill road, with a portion of his command to guard the battery and watch the river. I also detached one battalion of Gibson's regiment and left with him for a like purpose. As we advanced we were again assailed by the battery on Archer's Hill, but it was soon silenced by Hinks' guns. In this order I advanced to Harrison's Creek. The enemy was strongly posted on the opposite bank at Page's house. Here I formed my line as follows: Neill's division on the left, with Wheaton's brigade in advance. As they advanced their left rested on the City Point highway. Stedman on Neill's right, with skirmishers extended to the river, and supported by one battalion of heavy artillery; Stedman's whole line supported by Stannard; one battalion of heavy artillery on the right of the highway and along the intrenchment built by the enemy, and extending along the peninsula north of Harrison's Creek. Duncan's brigade of colored troops I brought forward to the same line with the last-named battalion of heavy artillery, but located it on the east side of the highway, in easy supporting distance of Stannard and Stedman.
At 12 m. the whole line, consisting of my troops on the right, the Second Corps in the center, and the Ninth Corps on the left, was ordered to move forward by the commanding general of the Army of the Potomac. My line advanced rapidly, and immediately carried the crest at Page's house. This advance necessarily extended my line of battle to the right, and Stannard having then the most of his line to the front with Stedman, I ordered two regiments of Duncan's brigade forward to report to General Stannard to form his second line. The line was considerably advanced beyond the crest on my right. It was reported to me that the right of the Second Corps did not advance. Thereupon I directed General Neill to advance his front on the right in echelon to keep up connection with Gibson on the left and with my division on the right. By this means a farther advance was gained. At 3 p. m. I received orders from the general commanding to advance my command without any regard to my connection with my left; therefore I gave orders to advance. Neill's division was advanced about fifty paces from the right of the Second Corps, and my division advanced full 200 yards on the right. They were exposed to a severe flank fire in consequence. It was reported to me by my brigade commanders that it was not prudent for them to advance, disconnected from the line on the left. I was persuaded that I was compromising my division by persisting in any farther independent advance, and so reported to the commanding general. Besides an enemy on their left flank and in their front, they were also assailed by sharpshooters on the west bank of the Appomattox. The commanding general then gave me orders to desist from farther advance, informing me that the Second Corps had failed to make any impression by their attacks, and to halt and intrench on the ground I had gained if practicable, and this I did accordingly. The result of this day's operations was the capture of seventy-eight prisoners by my command and the possession of exceedingly important points, to wit, the ridge on which Page's house was situated and the peninsula on the north side of Harrison's Creek, extending out to the Appomattox. From these points the crossings of the railroads over the Appomattox in the center of Petersburg are easily reached. The casualties of this day's operations were:

In my division—

| Killed | 71 |
| Wounded | 335 |
| Missing | 24 |

In Hinks—

| Killed | 4 |
| Wounded | 32 |

In Neill's—

| Killed and wounded | 75 |

We remained in this position until the evening of the 19th, when General Wright arrived with the balance of the Sixth Corps, and proceeded to relieve me and General Hinks. The operation of relieving my command was not completed until the morning of the 20th, when I returned with my division to the Eighteenth Corps at Bermuda Hundred. Here my division was again reorganized. General Stannard was ordered to the command of the First Division; the Tenth New York Artillery and Fifth Maryland Veteran Volunteers were assigned to my division. Soon after the First Brigade was reorganized by uniting with the old regiments (excepting the Eighty-ninth New York Volunteers) the Tenth New York Artillery, and placing Colonel Piper in command. The Second Brigade remains unchanged. The Third Brigade, composed of the Second Pennsylvania Heavy Artillery, Fifth Maryland Veteran Volunteers, and Eighty-ninth New York Volunteers, is under command of General Ames. On the morning of the 21st we were ordered to the front of Petersburg. My division immediately relieved Neill's division of the Sixth Corps. In that position it has remained to this time, strengthening the lines and advancing them gradually. Since the 21st ultimo the aggregate of casualties in my division amounts to—

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Category</th>
<th>Number</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Killed</td>
<td>20</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Wounded</td>
<td>136</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Total</td>
<td>156</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

In this hurried narrative of operations I have had no leisure to revise and condense my statements. With few exceptions I have been satisfied with the officers and men of the old regiments of my command. The two regiments recently added remain to be tried. The operations detailed have been constantly supervised by the commanding general of the Eighteenth Corps, and it has been a sufficient achievement if the division has performed the duty which he has skillfully prepared for it to fulfill.

All which is respectfully submitted.

J. H. MARTINDALE,
Brigadier-General, Commanding.

Lieut. Col. N. BOWEN,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

[36 and 40.]

HDQRS. SECOND DIVISION, EIGHTEENTH ARMY CORPS,
Near Petersburg, Va., July 3, 1864.

COLONEL: I have the honor to make the following report of the operations of Sanders' brigade, of the First Division of this corps, and of two batteries which were detached and placed under my command on the 9th and 10th of May, ultimo, during the movement from Bermuda Hundred toward Petersburg, on the west side of the Appomattox:

On the evening of the 8th of May, under instructions from Major-General Butler, I reported to Major-General Smith, commanding Eighteenth Army Corps, and received his instructions to move early in the morning with Sanders' brigade and two batteries across the mill road near the outlet of Bake-House Creek toward Port Walthall Junction, and to take positions which would enable me to hold and cover that line of march, and to guard against any attack of the enemy on the left flank of Brooks' division as that division was moved against Port Walthall Junction. Early in the morning of the 9th, following the instructions of Major-General Smith, I moved the command forward cautiously, but without encountering the enemy. On debouching from the defile across Bake-House Creek on to the open ground, about one mile easterly from the junction, I disposed the regiments and batteries so as to cover the route from which I had marched, and to sweep the ground as far as the junction. Here I rested, and communicated to the commanding general my position. In the course of two hours the skirmishers in Brooks' advance began to appear, and moved to the junction and along the course of the railroad toward Swift Creek. Thereupon I advanced my command, keeping it as much as possible under cover, as my left flank was within range of the guns at Fort Clifton, between the Appomattox and Swift Creek. I sent a section of a battery on a high bluff near the river to open fire on Fort Clifton and to occupy the attention of the enemy. At this time I had advanced so far that the shot from Fort Clifton, aimed at the section of the battery, fell behind and out of range of my column. I was detained in the position in which I then was for more than an hour in finding a practicable road for my artillery. At length a path was found and cleared by pioneers, and I put the column in motion, and, passing through a dense thicket, formed it on an open field which extended to Swift Creek, and fully 2,000 yards above Fort Clifton. I disposed my command and batteries so as to guard the left flank of Brooks' division, and connected my skirmishers with the skirmishers of Burnham's brigade. Having reported to the commanding general my position, I rested, awaiting his orders. No assault was made on my lines during the night. I opened a road by which direct communication at short distance was had with the center of Brooks' line, and through which ambulances, rations, and ammunition were supplied to his command. Early in the morning of the 10th I received orders from Major-General Smith to move my command, except artillery, on to the railroad and to tear it up. My infantry troops, under the immediate supervision of Colonel Sanders, proceeded to tear up the track and burn the ties and bend the rails for the distance of more than a mile back toward Walthall Junction. After this work was completed I received orders to move my command back to the position occupied by me the morning of the 9th, to cover and hold the road and defile over Bake-House Creek back to Cobb's Hill. I placed my command accordingly. Brooks' division was then withdrawn to that road, and I was instructed to move Sanders' brigade across by the road near the Widow Dunn's house, to afford any assistance to the Tenth Army Corps, should it be desired. I moved accordingly, and got the brigade in a suitable position to afford the aid indicated. No occasion for employing the troops arose, and at sundown I returned with them to the camps from which they were moved on the morning of the 9th. No casualties happened during the operations above described.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

J. H. MARTINDALE,
Brigadier-General, Commanding.

Lieut. Col. N. Bowen,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

[36.]

HDQRS. FIRST BRIG., SECOND DIV., 18TH ARMY CORPS,
June 20, 1864.

In obedience to orders from division headquarters, that portion of the brigade which landed from transports, consisting of the Twenty-seventh Massachusetts, Fifty-fifth Pennsylvania, Twenty-third and Twenty-fifth Massachusetts Regiments, marched at 3 p.m. on the 31st of May, preceded by the Second Brigade, from White House Landing, on the Pamunkey River, in the direction of New Castle. The Ninth New Jersey Regiment, of this brigade, had not yet arrived. At 11 p.m. the command bivouacked in line of battle on the left of the road and parallel with it, the Twenty-fifth Massachusetts being placed on picket. At 7.30 a.m. on the 1st of June resumed the march, arriving at Cold Harbor at about 3 p.m. At 4.30 p.m., the command having been moved to the extreme right of our corps line, the Fifty-fifth Pennsylvania was formed in line of battle on our right and the three remaining regiments, by division en masse, were posted in echelon from right to left. A few moments later a division of the Twenty-seventh Massachusetts (Major Walker) were deployed as skirmishers to cover the right and flank of the division, and at the same time the Twenty-fifth Massachusetts (Colonel Pickett) were ordered to dislodge the enemy from a small redoubt in our front, which they easily accomplished. The remainder of the Twenty-seventh Massachusetts was sent to the support of a battery of artillery. When this battery from time to time changed position these troops moved with it, and having in course of subsequent movements come under the command of Brigadier-General Devens, commanding Third Division, did not again report to me until the evening of the 2d. Captain Caswell's report of his operations during his absence from my command is as follows:

The main portion of the regiment, after supporting a battery until dark, was sent to re-enforce General Devens, by whom we were placed on picket. From this duty we were relieved at 8 a.m. June 2, and Major Walker went to report to General Stannard. While I was thus left in command of the regiment an aide-de-camp to General Devens, of the rank of major, ordered me to the right to support a weak point. I moved under his direction to a piece of high ground, where the enemy opened on me a severe fire of artillery and musketry. The aide-de-camp above mentioned left me without further orders, and as I could be of no use in the position which I occupied, I retired my command with a loss of 8 killed and 13 wounded.

The whole command now moved forward, the Twenty-fifth Massachusetts on the right, joined with the Fifty-fifth Pennsylvania and Twenty-third Massachusetts on its left, the left of our line serving as a support to our first line, which now became heavily engaged. The command lay in this position until 8 p.m., when it was, by direction of the general commanding division, moved to the right, where it occupied throughout the night a line of rifle-pits from which the enemy had previously been driven, with a strong picket, consisting of three companies of the Twenty-fifth Massachusetts, in our front. The command lay in the position above indicated throughout the day on the 2d, and about 9 p.m. was ordered to extend its line by deployment to the right, and to form a junction with the Fifth Corps and cover the movements of trains.

We lay in this position until daybreak on the 3d, when, the trains having passed, our intervals were closed to the left, and at 4 a.m. the whole command moved to the left. Having moved about half a mile, the brigade was formed en masse by division, the Twenty-seventh Massachusetts leading, and, moving rapidly across an open field under sharp artillery fire, entered a piece of woods, through which we moved in the same formation, our left resting upon the edge of a ravine. The column was formed in the following order: Twenty-seventh Massachusetts (Major Walker), Twenty-fifth Massachusetts (Colonel Pickett), Twenty-third Massachusetts (Colonel Elwell), and the Fifty-fifth Pennsylvania (Captain Shearer). The Twenty-seventh Massachusetts was now deployed as skirmishers, and moving up cautiously, arrived at a distance of 350 yards of the enemy's works, when the command was ordered to charge over an intervening rifle pit and carry the works by storm. The works at this point consisted of strong rifle-pits, converging to a small earth-work, mounting three light field guns, directly in our front, on the farther bank of a deep ravine, and situated at the convergence of an angle the apex of which was toward the enemy. As the assaulting column moved up I lost the commanding officer of nearly every regiment of my command. In the Twenty-seventh Massachusetts, Major Walker being killed, the command devolved upon Captain Caswell; the Twenty-fifth, Colonel Pickett and Major Atwood both being wounded, and Lieutenant-Colonel Moulton being captured by the enemy, the command devolved upon Captain Tucker. In the Fifty-fifth, Captains Shearer and Nesbit, both being wounded within a few moments of each other, the command devolved upon Capt. G. H. Hill. Major Brewster, Twenty-third Massachusetts, was also wounded at this time, leaving Colonel Elwell, of that regiment, my only field officer.

As soon as the intervening rifle-pit was cleared, and my command reached the rising ground on the edge of the ravine, it became at once evident that in view of the converging fire of musketry and the direct fire from artillery, which was cutting down each successive division as it rose the knolls, that it would be impossible for a sufficient number of men to reach the works to produce any effect on the enemy, and as no concert of action on the part of other commands was apparent, I ordered the remnant of my command to retire to the rifle-pits, which they did in good order, holding the advance line for more than two hours, when, having strengthened my second line with the Ninth New Jersey Volunteers, Captain Hufty, who had opportunely arrived, I withdrew to that line. My loss in this movement was 31 commissioned officers, including all my staff, and 462 enlisted men, official lists of which have been duly transmitted. My command held this position until 8 p.m., when it was relieved by other troops and fell back to the second line of rifle-pits. On the morning of the 4th instant the Eighty-ninth Regiment New York Volunteers, Colonel Fairchild, reported to me, thus strengthening my command considerably. From this date until Saturday, the 11th, my command occupied these rifle-pits, during which time I alternated with the Second Brigade furnishing picket in front of our works. Nothing of note occurred during this time. My casualties were small, amounting to 3 officers and 50 men.

On Saturday, the 11th, moved my command up to the first line, relieving Colonel Stedman, Second Brigade, remaining there until Sunday evening, the 12th. At 9 p.m. of this date, in obedience to orders previously received, I withdrew the main portion of my command from the rifle-pits, leaving my pickets and the Fifty-fifth Pennsylvania Regiment as a support thereto, and marched rapidly to White House Landing, where I arrived at 5 a.m. 13th. At 4 p.m. of this day, all my command having come up, I embarked them on board transports for Bermuda Landing, on James River. Reaching Bermuda at 5 p.m. of Tuesday, 14th, orders were changed to Point of Rocks, on the Appomattox, where I landed and went into camp at 9 p.m. At 2 a.m. on the 15th formed my brigade line, consisting of the Twenty-fifth and Twenty-seventh Massachusetts, Fifty-fifth Pennsylvania, and Eighty-ninth New York Volunteers, the Twenty-third Massachusetts and Ninth New Jersey not having yet arrived. Crossed the pontoon over the Appomattox, and taking the Spring Hill road, in obedience to orders from Major-General Smith threw out a portion of the Eighty-ninth New York as skirmishers and advanced in the direction of Petersburg. I had advanced but a short distance when my advanced guard came upon the enemy's pickets, when I immediately deployed my command, forming my line of battle on the right and left of the road. I advanced in this way some three miles, driving the enemy. At length emerging from a thick piece of woods to the right of the railroad brought the right of my line in an open field, while my left, being covered by the woods, rested on the railroad. I lay here exposed to a heavy artillery fire from the enemy's earth-work in my front and on my right flank until 7 p.m., when I strengthened my skirmish line by two companies of the Twenty-fifth Massachusetts, under Captain Harrington. My line now advanced, driving the enemy from Battery No. 3, capturing two light 12-pounder guns, three caissons and ammunition complete, camp equipage, &c.

Night having now closed in, established my picket-line, covering my front and flank for two miles, the duty being performed by the Fifty-fifth Pennsylvania and Twenty-fifth Massachusetts Regiments. I withdrew the balance of my command to the forks of the road, rather more to the rear. On the 16th my troops remained in camp until 5 p.m., the Fifty-fifth Pennsylvania remaining on picket, when we were ordered to advance in the same direction as on the preceding day. This we did without much opposition, the skirmishers of the Fifty-fifth Regiment driving the enemy from the line of rifle-pits in the rear of those captured the previous day, where we held them until ordered to retire, at 10 p.m. This was effected without pursuit by the enemy. My command retired to its old position, where it remained quietly until Saturday, the 18th, at 6 a.m.

My casualties during the two days last mentioned were 7 officers and 107 enlisted men. On the 18th, at 6 a.m., my command moved to the front, under orders of Brigadier-General Martindale, commanding division, to support the Second Brigade, commanded by Colonel Stedman, and early in the day engaged the enemy near Page's house, about three-quarters of a mile from the city of Petersburg. This position was now ordered for a charge, and Colonel Stedman, commanding Second Brigade, having but one regiment in the first line, I was obliged to place three of my regiments on his right to strengthen him, my only remaining regiment, together with two regiments of negro troops which had been sent to my support, forming the second line. About noon I received an order to charge the enemy's line, which order I immediately put in execution. My command found themselves unable to break the enemy's line, but succeeded in gaining about 150 yards of ground, which they immediately entrenched and held. My loss in this charge was 10 officers and 203 men, out of an aggregate of 960 engaged. The loss of the negro troops was 36. During the night brought up intrenching tools and intrenched my position in two lines, which position I held until Sunday evening, the 19th, when I was relieved by a portion of the Sixth Corps and moved about five miles to the rear, in the direction of Point of Rocks, where I bivouacked. My losses on the 19th were 1 officer and 10 men. On Monday, the 20th, at 8 a.m., crossed the Appomattox River and went into camp at Bermuda Hundred. On the afternoon of the same day, by orders from Major-General Smith, commanding corps, I was relieved from command of this brigade and assigned to the command of the First Division.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

GEO. J. STANNARD,
Brigadier-General, Commanding.

Capt. W. H. ABEL,
Assistant Adjutant-General, Second Division.

[36 and 40.]

HDQRS. SECOND BRIG., SECOND DIV., 18TH ARMY CORPS,

SIR: I have the honor to submit the following report of the movements of this brigade from the time when, by direction of the brigadi-general commanding, I assumed command (May 27) until the present time:
The brigade broke camp, behind intrenchments near Bermuda Hundred, at 2 p. m. on the 27th ultimo, and marched about three miles to the rear; bivouacked for the night, and at 6.30 p. m. on the 28th moved to the Appomattox River, leading the column, crossed the river, and reaching at 11 o'clock a point near West [City] Point, on the James River. At daylight the brigade embarked on the transports Morgan, General Lyon, Devinney, and Beverly. At 7 o'clock the vessels started, the Morgan, on which headquarters were established, leading. Proceeding down the James River, the brigade passed Fort Monroe at sundown and reached West Point at daybreak; thence following the Pamunkey, the Morgan, Devinney, and Beverly reached White House at noon on the 29th and went into bivouac. The General Lyon, which on account of her size had run aground, came up in the night, and the troops on board disembarking took place in the brigade line which was formed upon the right of General Brooks. On the 30th instant [ultimo] the brigade moved toward New Castle, leading the column; marched fifteen miles with but few stragglers, and bivouacked at night in line of battle along the main road. Early on the 31st the march was resumed in the same order, and during the afternoon line of battle was formed (at a point the name of which I do not know) in regiment, by division en masse, the brigade connecting with General Brooks upon the left. Skirmishing began and continued until dark, when the line had advanced some 800 or 1,000 yards.

Bivouacked at this point and the next day, 1st instant, threw up a log breast-work along the front of the brigade, which had deployed. At 4.30 a. m. on the 3d instant the brigade, under the direction of the brigadier-general commanding, moved to a point to the left and front of their position, and forming in column by division, closed en masse, prepared to assault the enemy's works. The One hundred and forty-eighth New York Volunteers, Colonel Guion, was deployed upon the front and right flank at very short intervals as skirmishers and flankers. The column was composed of the Twelfth New Hampshire Volunteers (leading), Eleventh Connecticut Volunteers, Eighth Maine Volunteers, which had been assigned to the brigade on the 30th ultimo, and the Second New Hampshire Volunteers. Soon after 5 o'clock the column moved, with caps taken from the pieces and bayonets fixed, guiding by the left, upon the ravine. The column debouched from the woods opposite the enemy's left at a distance of about 250 or 300 yards from their works. Immediately a heavy fire of musketry was poured upon the whole left flank, mingled with grape and canister. So intense was this flank fire as to confuse the rear and push it constantly to the right, but with determined bravery the column pushed on over a perfectly open and level field, which is considered the most effective obstacle that can be opposed to advancing troops. The head of the column reached the rifle-pits of the enemy, from which their skirmishers were driven. At this moment the enemy opened upon the head of the column a fearful fire of musketry, grape, and canister, none having been fired from that point of their works before. No troops could advance under it, and the brigade, already decimated by the flank fire, broke upon meeting the direct, and retiring to the woods reformed, ready, if ordered, to repeat the attempt. They had passed over 150 yards of open plain under a concentrated fire, and had reached a point very near the rebel works. It is impossible in the limits of this report to mention all those whose conduct made them conspicuous. I most respectfully beg the general commanding to consider the extreme difficulty of success against the obstacles with which the brigade contended, and the bravery and gallantry of the troops will be acknowledged. The Second New Hampshire Volunteers entered the engagement after the time of a large portion of the regiment had expired. They deserve credit for their conduct. Sergeant Hoyt, Company G, color-bearer of the Twelfth New Hampshire Volunteers, was wounded and fell with the standard, he being the last when the regiment fell back. With his flag he crawled some distance, but finally, exhausted, could go no farther, when Corporal Wallace, running into the open field, took the flag and returned it to the regiment. Both were very brave. After the charge the brigade formed line facing to the right, and remained during the day under a heavy fire, losing many officers and men. In this position they threw up, with cup, plate, and bayonet, an infantry parapet of considerable strength. After dark a parapet was run across the open field to connect with General Ames upon the right. The brigade occupied it before daylight. On the night of the 4th another parapet was run, which threw the line 100 yards nearer the enemy, and shortened it considerably. On the night of the 5th instant still another parapet was run, bringing the left fifty yards nearer the enemy, and again shortening our line. The brigade occupied these trenches until the morning of the 11th instant, when it was relieved by General Stannard’s brigade and occupied the rear line, vacated by the Second Pennsylvania Heavy Artillery. On the morning of the 12th instant, under orders from the brigadier-general commanding division, the brigade moved at 11 o’clock and reached White House at 4 p. m., where it bivouacked for the night. On the 13th instant they embarked on board transport Webster and reached Bermuda Hundred at 8 p. m. on the 14th instant; disembarked and marched to a point near Major-General Butler’s headquarters, and received orders to move again at 2.30 a. m. of the 15th instant. I shall have the honor to continue this report and forward immediately. A full report of casualties has already been presented.*

Respectfully, your obedient servant,

GRIFF. STEDMAN,
Colonel, Commanding Second Brigade.

Captain ABEL,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

[36.]

HDQRS. FIRST BRIG., THIRD DIV., 18TH ARMY CORPS,
In the Field, Va., June 13, 1864.

LIEUTENANT: A report of the part taken by my command in the action of June 1 near Cold Harbor, Va., has already been forwarded to division headquarters.† During the ten days following (from 2d to 11th, inclusive) it was engaged in no operations of magnitude, but merely employed in holding our intrenched lines in front of those of the enemy, in picket, and other similar duties. During the evening of the 12th instant, in obedience to orders from Brig. Gen. A. Ames, commanding Third Division, I withdrew three of my regiments, leaving the Forty-eighth New York Volunteers (for the occasion attached to the command of Col. Guy V. Henry, Fortieth Massachusetts Volunteers), and proceeded to the White House, where the Forty-eighth rejoined me; thence by water to Point of Rocks, rejoining the Tenth Corps. A list of casualties during the period covered by this report, amounting to fifty, is forwarded herewith.*

80 R R—VOL LI, PT I

I have the honor to be, sir, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

W. B. BARTON,

Lieut. CHARLES A. CARLETON,
Acting Assistant Adjutant-General.

[36.]

Reports of Maj. James A. Colvin, One hundred and sixty-ninth New York Infantry, commanding brigade, of operations at Cold Harbor, Va., June 1–2, 1864.

HDQRS. SECOND BRIG., THIRD DIV., 18TH ARMY CORPS,
June 2, 1864.

The undersigned respectfully reports that since the charge made by the Eighteenth Corps on the 1st day of June, 1864, he is the only field officer of the Second Brigade, Third Division, remaining present for duty. That this brigade, consisting of the One hundred and twelfth New York Volunteers, One hundred and sixty-ninth New York Volunteers, Ninth Maine Volunteers, and Thirteenth Indiana Volunteers, under command of Col. J. C. Drake, One hundred and sixty-ninth New York Volunteers, was ordered to charge the line of rebel pits immediately in front of the position occupied by the brigade on the afternoon of June 1, 1864. The brigade charged in heavy marching order across a wide, open field and through a piece of woods to the crest of the hill, where the enemy lay intrenched. The enemy were driven from their position. They returned in force and drove the right of this brigade from the position they had gained. In this assault Col. J. C. Drake, commanding brigade, who had distinguished himself for his gallantry and daring, was mortally wounded; Colonel McConihe, One hundred and sixty-ninth New York, was killed, and Lieutenant-Colonel Alden, One hundred and sixty-ninth New York, wounded. The regiments thus repulsed rallied and regained the pits, passing beyond them. The First Brigade, Third Division, Eighteenth Corps, had by this time come up, and rendered efficient service in regaining the position. The right of the division was again subjected to an enfilading fire, and fell back but a short distance, only to return and hold the entire crest of the hill opposite their position, with the exception of a small pit lying at nearly a right angle with the position which had been gained. The brigade was relieved at the expiration of twenty-four hours. It is with surprise that the undersigned has heard that any other division or corps has arrogated the credit, if credit there be, of driving the enemy from their position or gaining the rebel works in front of the position occupied by the Eighteenth Corps. The colonel commanding this brigade

*Nominal list (omitted) shows 1 man killed and 6 men wounded in Seventy-sixth Pennsylvania; 2 men killed and 4 men wounded in Forty-seventh New York; 2 men killed, and 2 officers and 19 men wounded in Forty-eighth New York; and 4 men killed and 10 men wounded in One hundred and fifteenth New York. was mortally wounded with one foot on the rebel works, and no force was in front of the Eighteenth Corps or assisted in retaining the position gained by them until after dusk, when the Sixth Corps, or a portion of them, moved in by the flank, the First and Second Brigades of the Eighteenth Corps at this time occupying the enemy’s works and having thrown out a picket or skirmish line in advance of them. The casualties in the brigade are as follows:

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Command</th>
<th>Officers</th>
<th>Men</th>
<th>Wounded</th>
<th>Officers</th>
<th>Men</th>
<th>Missing</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>112th New York Volunteers</td>
<td>1</td>
<td>28</td>
<td>5</td>
<td>106</td>
<td>1</td>
<td>21</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>169th New York Volunteers</td>
<td>1</td>
<td>7</td>
<td>5</td>
<td>76</td>
<td>1</td>
<td>8</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>9th Maine Volunteers</td>
<td>10</td>
<td>10</td>
<td>4</td>
<td>58</td>
<td>2</td>
<td>8</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>13th Indiana Volunteers</td>
<td>1</td>
<td>2</td>
<td>2</td>
<td>8</td>
<td>3</td>
<td>1</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Total</td>
<td>23</td>
<td>38</td>
<td>15</td>
<td>228</td>
<td>3</td>
<td>37</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

The number of prisoners captured by the brigade cannot be accu-ately determined, many having been sent in without a guard. The estimated number is 521.

Very respectfully,

JAMES A. COLVIN,
Major 169th New York Volunteers, Commanding Brigade.

Lieut. CHARLES A. CARLETON,
Acting Assistant Adjutant-General.

[36.]

HEADQUARTERS 169TH NEW YORK VOLUNTEERS,
Near Petersburg, Va., July 2, 1864.

The undersigned, having been at this date called on for a report of the part taken by the Second Brigade (Drake’s), Third Division (Deven’s), Eighteenth Corps, in the action at Cold Harbor, June 1 and ensuing, would state that by reference to the books of that division, now commanded by General Ames, he has ascertained that the report made by him a few days subsequent to that action was forwarded to headquarters Eighteenth Corps June 9.

The brigade, consisting of One hundred and twelfth New York Volunteers, One hundred and sixty-ninth New York Volunteers, Thirteenth Indiana Volunteers, and Ninth Maine Volunteers, under Col. J. C. Drake, was ordered to charge the line of the enemy’s works. The order was obeyed, and the works gained. The enemy returned in force and reoc-cupied a portion of the line. The troops rallied and regained the pits, Barton’s brigade coming to their support. Again both brigades, being attacked and receiving an enfilading fire, fell back on their right. They again advanced to the attack and retained the position they had gained.
The brigade lost heavily in officers and men. Colonel Drake, commanding brigade, was mortally wounded in the first charge and in the enemy’s works; Colonel McConihe, One hundred and sixty-ninth New York, killed. The undersigned, the junior field officer of the entire brigade, was the only field officer left for duty. The brigade was relieved on the 2d of June, having occupied the ground for twenty-four hours. At this late date it is impossible to make any extended or precise report, owing to the absence of necessary data. The total loss of the brigade amounted to about 330 killed, wounded, and missing. The number of prisoners taken by the brigade amounted to 164.

Respectfully submitted.

JAMES A. COLVIN,
Major 169th New York Volunteers,
Comdg. Second Brig., Third Div., 18th Corps, June 2, 1864.

Lieutenant BEEBE,
Acting Assistant Adjutant-General.

[36.

HDQRS. 169TH REGIMENT NEW YORK VOLUNTEERS,
June 3, 1864.

The undersigned respectfully reports that on the 1st day of June, 1864, the regiment was ordered to participate in an advance movement of the Eighteenth Corps on the line of the enemy's works. The order to charge being given, the regiment obeyed the order and charged up to and into the rebel pits. The enemy returned and retook the pit or a portion of it. The regiment rallied and again attained the pit. The First Brigade, Third Division, Eighteenth Corps, by this time had come to their relief, but their fire injured some of our own men. The pit taken was again abandoned, an enfilading fire being directed upon us. The men again rallied and the pit was retained. On the 2d of June the regiment lay as supports to those who replaced them in the line of works and were relieved in the afternoon. The list of casualties has been already furnished. The loss sustained by the regiment shows sufficiently that it did its duty. Col. John McConihe was killed and Lieut. Col. Alonzo Alden seriously wounded while gallantly leading the front of the charge. The total number of prisoners captured by this regiment amounted to fifty.

Very respectfully,

JAMES A. COLVIN,
Major, Commanding Regiment.

Lieut. WILLIAM L. HUGHES,
Acting Assistant Adjutant-General.

[36.

HEADQUARTERS FIFTH PENNSYLVANIA CAVALRY,
FIRST BRIGADE, CAVALRY DIVISION,
June 17, 1864.

SIR: I respectfully submit herewith a report of the operations of my regiment during the recent march:

I crossed the Appomattox River on the pontoon bridge, following the Second Brigade, at about 1 a.m. on the 15th instant. My regiment was in column within easy supporting distance during each of the two first skirmishes with the enemy; but did not participate in either of those affairs. When the advance came upon the enemy's works at the third point of their line which we struck, my men were dismounted to fight on foot. I conducted them to a point on the right of the road indicated by Col. S. H. Mix, commanding brigade; deployed four companies as skirmishers, and thus, with the remaining six companies as reserves, commenced the advance. The ground was found to be of a very difficult nature, owing to a thick undergrowth of vines and briars. Passing over this with great difficulty we came in view of the enemy’s works, about 500 yards distant. The ground in front was level and clear. When the line became straightened I ordered a charge, which was vigorously sustained at first, but finally failed owing to the development of a work on our right, which opened an enfilading fire upon the line, and which had before been masked from our view. The line being checked, retired in fair order to the edge of the chaparral, where it remained skirmishing with the enemy until an order was received from the general commanding to join the column, which it did. The officers and men engaged were subjected to a severe artillery fire from the time they debouched from the woods until they were finally withdrawn. In the charge the artillery firing of the enemy was well directed and rapid, supported by a lively sprinkling of musketry. The light list of casualties (appended herewith) may be attributed to the men availing themselves of whatever cover presented itself. The works of the enemy demonstrated upon were a line of square redoubts, connected by covered ways, which latter also served as rifle pits. The force defending them was not large, but sufficient, I think, to have held them against any effort we could have made with our available force. The conduct of the officers and men was as dashing and energetic as could have been expected, considering their previous fatigue. Capt. George J. Ker, of my regiment, was conspicuous for his gallantry and coolness. Individual cases of gallantry among the enlisted men also occurred. They will be rewarded by promotion. Nothing further occurred during the march worthy of mention. I arrived here at 4.30 this a. m.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

ROB. M. WEST,
Colonel, Commanding Regiment.

Lieut. I. H. PUTNAM,
Acting Assistant Adjutant-General.

[40.]

Reports of Lieut. Col. George Stetzel, Eleventh Pennsylvania Cavalry, of operations on south side of the James River, June 9, 1864, and in the Richmond (Va.) Campaign, June 15, 1864.

HEADQUARTERS ELEVENTH PENNSYLVANIA CAVALRY,
In the Field, near Hatcher’s, Va., June 10, 1864.

SIR: In obedience to instructions received from headquarters Second Cavalry Brigade, I have the honor to make the following report of the part taken by my regiment in the operations of yesterday against the enemy near Petersburg, Va.: I left the camp of my regiment near the intrenched line between the hours of 11 and 12 o’clock on the night of June 8, 1864, with 640 men and two mountain howitzers. Crossed the pontoon bridge below Point of Rocks. Proceeded toward Petersburg on the main road leading from City Point. My regiment, in advance, met and charged the enemy’s pickets within two miles of Petersburg, capturing four and Nominal list (omitted) shows 10 men wounded and 2 men missing. wounding several. Thence fell back a short distance; crossed the Petersburg and Norfolk Railroad, and proceeded to Petersburg via the plank road. Arriving near the defenses of Petersburg, my advance guard was directed to charge the enemy's works, but were repulsed with the loss of 1 man killed and 4 prisoners, one of whom, Philip Andres, Company F, made his escape after being captured and returned to his company. A portion of the carbiners of my regiment were dismounted to act as skirmishers against the enemy in their works. The remaining portion of the regiment was divided and placed at different points of attack along the rebel line. After some sharp skirmishing the rebel line was stormed and carried, capturing many prisoners and one 12-pounder howitzer, with full team of horses. After the capture of the first line of works my regiment was ordered on to Petersburg, at which point we were repulsed and ordered to fall back, returning to camp at 11.30 o'clock last night. Inclosed is a correct list of casualties in my regiment, so far as known.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

GEO. STETZEL,
Lieutenant-Colonel, Commanding Regiment.

Lieut. J. F. CUMMINGS,
Acting Assistant Adjutant-General, Second Cavalry Brigade.

HEADQUARTERS ELEVENTH PENNSYLVANIA CAVALRY,
In the Field, near Hatcher's, Va., June 17, 1864.

SIR: I have the honor to submit the following report of operations of my regiment in front of Petersburg:

In obedience to verbal instructions received from headquarters Second Cavalry Brigade, June 14, 1864, I have the honor to state that I left the camp of my regiment between the hours of 1 and 2 o'clock on the morning of the 15th instant. Crossed the pontoon bridge below Point of Rocks, on the Appomattox River. Proceeded on the City Point road toward Petersburg. The advance guard, composed of twelve men of my regiment, met the enemy's pickets, charged them, and drove them into their first line of intrenchments. The enemy at this point was found to be intrenched with artillery. In the first charge upon the enemy my advance sustained a loss of 1 corporal wounded, 2 privates captured, and 3 horses killed. While falling back with my regiment, in obedience to instructions received from the general commanding Cavalry Division, I sustained a loss of 2 horses wounded by the enemy's artillery, whose shells exploded with great precision among my regiment for a considerable length of time. Thence moved across the country and attacked the enemy in their works on the southeast side of Petersburg, at which point I was called upon for all the carbiners to be deployed as skirmishers. In this attack I had one officer (Second Lieutenant Lancaster) slightly wounded in the head. No other casualties. Returned to the camp of my regiment, near Hatcher's, Va., on the morning of the 17th instant.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

GEO. STETZEL,
Lieutenant-Colonel, Commanding Regiment.

J. F. CUMMINGS,
Acting Assistant Adjutant-General, Second Cavalry Brigade.

[40.]

*Nominal list (omitted) shows 3 men killed, 10 men wounded, and 4 men missing.

HDQRS. RIGHT SECTION, 8TH INDEPENDENT N. Y. BATY.,

In the Field, near Point of Rocks, Va., June 10, 1864.

CAPTAIN: I have the honor to submit the following report of the late expedition to Petersburg:

On the 8th day of June, 1864, I received orders to have my command in readiness to march at night. A little before 12 o'clock we left camp, formed with the brigade on the ground in front of General Kautz's headquarters. Moved on and crossed the pontoon bridge across the Appomattox River at Point of Rocks. Marched a short distance and bivouacked until daylight. Moved forward in rear of the Eleventh Pennsylvania Cavalry. Arrived before Petersburg at the first line of intrenchments about 11 a.m. I was then ordered into position to open fire on a force of rebels posted within their works. I fired about 100 rounds of shell and spherical case-shot at a range of 600 yards, and with great accuracy and good execution. The rebels fled from the works, and I lengthened my fuse and increased my elevation. In this engagement one of my gun carriages was disabled; the iron axle bands and understraps were broken. I lashed and locked the wheels over the gun to keep them from dropping off. I was ordered forward to follow the Eleventh Pennsylvania Cavalry. When about three quarters of a mile from the city, in a road with banks on each side, the enemy opened and fired on me with a battery of six guns, two guns firing canister, and four guns firing spherical case-shot and shell. Meanwhile four companies of cavalry formed for a charge with drawn sabers, but had not gone fifty yards when they wheeled and came back and passed me on a full run, taking off my cannoneers and left me entirely exposed. At that time two of my gun horses were shot dead, and whilst trying to take them out one more was shot, and the balance tangled up, and the enemy charging on me within 300 yards, and in order to save my men I ordered the gun to be spiked and abandoned, which was done promptly. All this time I was exposed to a heavy fire from a battery and some musketry, but notwithstanding my men stood fast until ordered off the field. I did not leave a man, although under a heavy fire for an hour and a half in both encounters. My disabled piece, which was a short ways in rear, being unable to get it along with the wheels locked, I was obliged to unlock them. I had proceeded but a short ways with it when both wheels dropped off, and I was under the necessity to order the piece slung under the limber, which was soon accomplished and the gun was brought off, abandoning the broken stock and trail. We then proceeded on our way back toward camp. Halted at sundown about two miles from the pontoon bridge and fed my horses. At 8:30 p.m. started again; crossed the bridge and arrived in camp at little past 11 p.m. The entire loss is one 3 inch rifled gun and limber complete, 20 rounds of ammunition, 1 gun carriage complete, seven horses, and 4 sets of double artillery harness complete.

I have the honor to be, captain, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

PETER MORTON,

First Lieut., Comdg. Right Section, 8th Independent N. Y. Baty.

Capt. M. J. ASCH,

Acting Assistant Adjutant-General, Kautz's Cavalry Division.

[36.]
MD., E. N. C., PA., VA., EXCEPT S. W., & W. VA. [CHAP. LXIII.

Annapolis Academy, Monday night, April 22, 1861.

General B. F. Butler,
Commanding Massachusetts Volunteers:

SIR: Upon consultation my officers do not deem it proper, under the circumstances, to co-operate in the proposed march by railroad, laying track as we go along, particularly in view of a large force hourly expected, and with so little ammunition as we possess. I must be governed by my officers in a matter of so much importance. I have directed this to be handed to you upon return from the transport ship.

I am, sir, yours, respectfully,

Marshall Lefferts,
Colonel Seventh Regiment.

[2]

SPECIAL BRIGADE ORDERS,
No. 48.

HDQRS. THIRD BRIG., SECOND DIV., MASSACHUSETTS VOLUNTEER MILITIA,
Annapolis, April 23, 1861.

The Eighth Massachusetts Regiment and the Seventh New York Regiment will march to Washington as follows:

The detachment of the Eighth, under command of Lieutenant-Colonel Hinks, which has already pushed forward and occupied the railroad three miles and a half, will remain at its advance until joined by two companies of the New York Seventh Regiment, which will take the train now in our possession and push forward as far as the track is left uninjured by the mob. These companies will then leave the cars, and throwing out proper skirmishers, carefully scouring the country along the line of the road while the working party of the Eighth Regiment is repairing the track, taking care, however, not to advance so fast as not to be in reach of the main body in case of attack. The train of cars will return and take up the advanced detachment of the Eighth Regiment now holding possession of the depot and the advance. These will again go forward as far as can be done with safety on account of the state of the track, when they will leave the train, assist the party repairing it, and push forward as rapidly as possible, taking care that the track is put in order for the passage of the train.

In the meantime the train will return to the depot, and taking on board such a portion of the baggage as may be proper, will again go forward. In the meantime the remaining portion of the Massachusetts and New York regiments will put themselves on the march and consolidate the regiments as rapidly as possible. This order of march will be substantially maintained until its arrival at the Junction, when further orders will be given, according to the exigencies of the case. The commanders of companies will take great care that their men are not fatigued more than is necessary, that they are properly fed [and] allowed to supply themselves with water along the route. The quartermaster and acting commissary are charged to forward by the train, or by such other means of transportation as they may furnish themselves, sufficient subsistence for the men. This is of the last importance, and every exertion must be made to carry it out.

The colonels will see to it that no violence is offered to any person, or private property interfered with, except such as may be taken for the use of the Government and a voucher given therefor, to the payment of which the faith of the Government is pledged.

If attacked on the march they are to repel force by force, adding, however, such reasonable amount of punishment to the aggressors as will deter others from interfering with peaceable citizens.
In the middle of the day a halt of at least two hours will be made, when rations will be served and the men allowed to rest, except the working party, which will be divided into two reliefs. The most vigorous exertion, however, must be made consistent with the health of the men to push on to the junction of the Baltimore and Annapolis Railroads. At this point resistance has been threatened, and care will be taken to so far consolidate the column of troops as to be in the best position to repel it. The general of brigade relies upon the enviable reputation of the Seventh Regiment and his personal knowledge of the constancy and endurance of the Eighth Regiment that the suggestions made in this order will be faithfully, and as he knows fearlessly, carried out in the face of any danger. The portion of the Eighth Regiment now at the Naval Academy will take up its line of march at 6 o'clock. The remainder of the Seventh will follow this detachment as soon as practicable. This order, so far as the Eighth Regiment is concerned, will be executed under the direction of Colonel Munroe. Colonel Lefferts will co-operate with him with the Seventh Regiment.

By order of B. F. Butler, brigadier-general:

W. H. CLEMENCE, Brigade Major.

HEADQUARTERS,
Annapolis, April 21, 1861.

Major-General PATTERSON:

DEAR SIR: After leaving you with Mr. Felton at Philadelphia, I proceeded with the remnant of my command, one regiment having been sent through Baltimore, of whose sad mishaps you have heard, and two others being at Fortress Monroe, leaving with me but an imperfectly armed regiment of 800 men to execute the suggestions so happily made by you to Governor Curtin—to occupy and hold Annapolis and open a communication from thence to Washington via the Junction.

Upon my arrival I found Captain Blake, the superintendent of the Naval School, considerably alarmed for the safety of the frigate Constitution, moored off the Academy as a practice ship, and having a crew of but thirty men. Appreciating at once the necessity of having the ship to cover our connections, as well as a strong desire to keep Old Ironsides out of the hands of those who would be but too happy to raise their Confederate flag upon the Constitution as the first ship of their hoped-for navy, I at once came alongside, and giving the assistance of my whole command as well to guard the ship as to hoist out her guns, I was happy to see her afloat outside the bar ready to do good service. I put on board of her to guard her from an attempt at surprise, 125 of my best men, and 25 more men to work her guns, upon which service they are still absent. Sunday afternoon, in towing out the frigate, one of her men fell overboard, and while drifting to pick him up the steamer Maryland, a steam ferry-boat upon which was my command, ran aground, where she lay till Monday night at 12 o'clock, in spite of the most persevering efforts to move her. Monday morning about 8 o'clock the Seventh Regiment (New York) came up and I joined them, and landed at the Navy School, against the protest of Governor Hicks, copy of which I inclose. I had an interview with the Governor of Maryland and the city authorities of Annapolis, in which I learned that the company of the Annapolis and Elk Cliff [Ridge] Railroad had taken up the rails upon their roads for the purpose of preventing the passage of the troops to Washington; and further, that no possible means of transport could be had here. I immediately determined to seize upon the rolling-stock of the railroad and to march on Washington, repairing the track as we marched. I found in my regiment a number of persons competent as well to build a railroad as to run it, and with the engines and cars, means of subsistence could be brought along without any danger of fatigu ing the men who were marching. I communicated this plan to Colonel Lefferts, of the Seventh Regiment (New York), and directed him to detail two companies to take and hold the depot and property in it, so that the engines might not be disabled, by detaching parts of them indispensable for use, during the night. I detailed a sufficient force of engine men to put the train in order to start at an early hour on Tuesday morning, believing the whole matter arranged, and left with a steam-tug to get off my troops in the middle of the night at high tide and bring them up to the wharf. This was successfully done, and on landing in the morning about 6 o'clock I found that my order to Colonel Lefferts had not been executed, and received from him a communication marked A, and forwarded herewith.∗

Of the reasons for and propriety of this action on the part of the council of officers of the Seventh Regiment I have no opinions to express. The result of it was that we lost a day in opening communication with Washington. Upon landing I immediately detailed two companies of Eighth Massachusetts Regiment and took possession of the depot, giving a certified inventory of the property taken. These companies, assisted by the road-men that I had detailed, proceeded up the track and repaired [it] for about four miles, when they encamped for the night. In the morning, after a consultation, Colonel Lefferts marched with his regiment, together with the remainder of Colonel Munroe's regiment, along the railroad toward Washington, making the track as they went, and I have the honor to report that full communication is open between Annapolis and the Junction, and I believe through to Washington, but of that fact I hope to assure you before closing this report. I should have gone forward myself with this train to see it through, but the troops after [1] returned arrived, and it seemed more necessary that I should remain to move the troops forward, as I have done. Please find list of troops that have arrived and left Annapolis up to the present time. They are all unprovided with camp equipage and small stores, which will be necessary for their health. I was somewhat surprised to hear from Captain Stedman that you had appointed General Kline [Keim] to take my place here without any intimation to me of such appointment. It would be personally agreeable to me to be sent forward after I have so arranged the matters of detail that the post which Massachusetts men have won shall be retained. My attention was early called to the state of the defenses of this post, and I found them so defective against an interior enemy that a point which entirely commands Fort Madison and the town can be held upon the opposite side of the river; and indeed the mobs were actually to bring a battery there to annoy the Constitution on the day on which we took her out. Professor Lockwood has therefore made a survey of the place, and in accordance with his suggestions I have caused the hill to be occupied by 600 men from the Sixth New York Regiment, with two howitzers. I have also retained the battalion of rifles, Captain Devens, to aid in holding the Academy, all the young gentlemen being withdrawn from this place.

∗See p. 1272.
These, I believe, will be sufficient for the defense of the place until some guns for sea-coast defense shall be brought here. I have not thought best to hurry the troops forward on the instant, as they might not be able to stand the march, as the weather is very warm. They will, however, be sent forward without delay. We are without intelligence from Washington for three days, but I have an arrangement with the telegraph company which I hope will [restore] communication. Colonel Keyes, Captain Blake, and [Professor] Lockwood all agree in the propriety of this movement, considering the great importance of this post. I have the honor further to report the Harriet Lane lying below the bar, and the steamer Maryland, with two guns, also plying in the bay; I think a sufficient force to preserve our water passage. I have also the honor to inclose a memoranda* of some points betwixt Annapolis and Washington, being a duplicate of one which I propose to furnish to General Scott.

Trusting that my conduct may meet your approbation, I am, very respectfully, your servant,

B. F. B[UTLER].

Mayor's Office, City Hall,
Baltimore, May 13, 1861.

General B. F. Butler, U. S. Army:

Sir: I have just been informed that you have arrived at the Camden Station with a large body of troops under your command. As the sudden arrival of such a force will create much surprise in the community, I beg to be informed whether you propose that it shall remain at the Camden Station, so that the police may be notified and proper precaution may be taken to prevent any disturbance of the peace.

Your obedient servant,

GEO. W. M. BROWN,
Mayor.

General Orders, } HDQRS. FIRST DIVISION, THIRD CORPS,
No. 48. } May 16, 1863.

The brigadier-general commanding division congratulates it on its achievements of the 2d and 3d of May. The division pierced the center of the enemy's column, captured over 700 prisoners, then returning, breaking through the enemy, who closed in its rear, executed successfully the order of the major-general commanding the army to attack the enemy at midnight; then, receiving the enemy's attack at daylight, held their hordes in check and at bay until ordered to withdraw and hold a position of honor given to it in front of the new lines. The division has added to the reputation gained at Williamsburg, Fair Oaks, Glendale, Malvern, Manassas, Chantilly, Fredericksburg, and can now add to those names The Cedars and Chancellorsville. With unabated confidence in the gallant generals commanding the corps and the army, this division awaits with impatience the order to again meet the enemy of our country. Our rejoicing is mingled with regret for the slain and wounded, but the recollection of their bravery and martyrdom will be fresh with us evermore and incite us to still greater efforts. The brigadier-general commanding division announces the following

* Not found.
names of meritorious and distinguished non-commissioned officers and privates selected as the recipients of the Kearny cross, the division decoration. Many deserving soldiers may have escaped the notice of their commanding officers, but in the selection after next battle they will doubtless receive this honorable distinction. This cross is in honor of our old leader and the wearers of it will always remember his high standard of a true and brave soldier and will never disgrace it.

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Name and rank</th>
<th>Company</th>
<th>Regiment</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Mrs. Anna Etheridge</td>
<td></td>
<td>5th Michigan Volunteers.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Mrs. Mary Tepe</td>
<td></td>
<td>114th Pennsylvania Volunteers.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Private John Brontz</td>
<td>A</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Private Francis Hopkins</td>
<td>A</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Private Christian Rohrig</td>
<td>B</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Corpl. Andrew Stotz</td>
<td>B</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Corpl. Samuel N. Casa</td>
<td>B</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Private William Werber</td>
<td>C</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Sgnt. William J. Miller</td>
<td>C</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Color-Sgnt. Benjamin J. Baylitta</td>
<td>C</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Corpl. Michael Cannon</td>
<td>D</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Sgnt. George W. Gower</td>
<td>D</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Sgnt. Herman Graele</td>
<td>D</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Corpl. Brian McLaughlin</td>
<td>D</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Sgnt. Andrew J. Cunningham</td>
<td>D</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Sgnt. Henry C. Munns</td>
<td>E</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Sgnt. John Guinness</td>
<td>E</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Sgnt. John Waterhouse</td>
<td>E</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Sgnt. Isaac Fox</td>
<td>E</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Private James Maguire</td>
<td>E</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Sgnt. William Fowler</td>
<td>F</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Sgnt. Joshua Rates</td>
<td>F</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Sgnt. John A. Burk</td>
<td>F</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Sgnt. H. McCarty</td>
<td>K</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Corpl. William Larky</td>
<td>K</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Color Corpl. Charles Rorie</td>
<td>K</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Sgnt. James P. Frazer</td>
<td>A</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Private George B. Kenney</td>
<td>A</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Sgnt. Elisha Warne</td>
<td>A</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Sgnt. George S. Paul</td>
<td>B</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Sgnt. John Brown</td>
<td>B</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Sgnt. Hiram McAllister</td>
<td>B</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Sgnt. George Smith</td>
<td>B</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Sgnt. Henry Mohn</td>
<td>C</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Sgnt. Henry Morgan</td>
<td>D</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Private Charles Collins</td>
<td>D</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Sgnt. Charles Kime</td>
<td>E</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Sgnt. Samuel Wardlaw</td>
<td>E</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Sgnt. Castner Jones</td>
<td>F</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Private Edw. R. Winchell</td>
<td>F</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Corpl. Jeremiah Cowley</td>
<td>G</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Private William H. Hazzard</td>
<td>G</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Private Edw. A. Nutall</td>
<td>G</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Sgnt. David Albright</td>
<td>H</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Corpl. Peter J. Sken</td>
<td>H</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Private Albert W. Burkhart</td>
<td>I</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Sgnt. Thomas V. Miller</td>
<td>I</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Sgnt. Lewis Meredith</td>
<td>I</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Private Henry Bowers</td>
<td>I</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Sgnt. Jonathan Neil</td>
<td>I</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Sgnt. Alex. H. Mitchell</td>
<td>K</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Sgnt. A. McPherson</td>
<td>A</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Sgnt. John C. Kelso</td>
<td>B</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Sgnt. George Heide</td>
<td>B</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Private Charles S. McCaully</td>
<td>B</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Corpl. Andrew A. Harley</td>
<td>C</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Sgnt. Charles C. Weaver</td>
<td>C</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Sgnt. Samuel H. Mays</td>
<td>D</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Sgnt. James Sylois</td>
<td>D</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Corpl. Milton Craven</td>
<td>D</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Sgnt. Josiah E. Geiger</td>
<td>E</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Corpl. George Weddle</td>
<td>E</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Corpl. James M. Sheaf</td>
<td>E</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Sgnt. Robert Doty</td>
<td>F</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Corpl. Henry P. McKillop</td>
<td>F</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Private Perry C. Culpin</td>
<td>F</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Sgnt. George W. Hawthorne</td>
<td>G</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Name and rank</td>
<td>Company</td>
<td>Regiment</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>---------------</td>
<td>---------</td>
<td>----------</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>First Brigade, Col. A. H. Tippin—Continued.</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Private Thomas McKea.</td>
<td>H</td>
<td>Do.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Private Robert Feverly.</td>
<td>I</td>
<td>Do.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Private George J. Reed.</td>
<td>N</td>
<td>Do.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Private Benjamin A. Oliphant.</td>
<td>A</td>
<td>Do.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Private Edwin Lee.</td>
<td>B</td>
<td>Do.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Private Isaac Potter.</td>
<td>C</td>
<td>Do.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Private G. W. Fell.</td>
<td>E</td>
<td>Do.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Private Selden Worth.</td>
<td>F</td>
<td>Do.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Private Jacob W. Palmer.</td>
<td>I</td>
<td>Do.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Private John Stockwell.</td>
<td>K</td>
<td>Do.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Private Joseph McShurz.</td>
<td>L</td>
<td>Do.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Private J. A. Baldwin.</td>
<td>N</td>
<td>Do.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Private Marcus C. Rosencrantz.</td>
<td>Q</td>
<td>Do.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Private Alfred Albere.</td>
<td>U</td>
<td>Do.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Private James M. Buch.</td>
<td>W</td>
<td>Do.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Corpl. George Gibson.</td>
<td>X</td>
<td>Do.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Corpl. Isaac McKeng.</td>
<td>Y</td>
<td>Do.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Private Samuel Hart.</td>
<td>D</td>
<td>Do.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Sergt. Thomas Cahoon.</td>
<td>E</td>
<td>Do.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Private John Cyphert.</td>
<td>I</td>
<td>Do.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Sergt. Peter Weaver.</td>
<td>N</td>
<td>Do.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Private John Allebrand.</td>
<td>R</td>
<td>Do.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Private James Gallatin.</td>
<td>S</td>
<td>Do.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Private James Carney.</td>
<td>T</td>
<td>Do.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Corpl. Frank Rafter.</td>
<td>V</td>
<td>Do.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Corpl. J. W. Granger.</td>
<td>X</td>
<td>Do.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Sergt. Ira E. McKnight.</td>
<td>Z</td>
<td>Do.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Private James Ramsey.</td>
<td>A</td>
<td>Do.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Private Simon Hahn.</td>
<td>B</td>
<td>Do.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Private David Monihan.</td>
<td>E</td>
<td>Do.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Sergt. Walter Rice.</td>
<td>F</td>
<td>Do.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Private Amos Miller.</td>
<td>M</td>
<td>Do.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Private Charles Maxum.</td>
<td>P</td>
<td>Do.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Private Horace Sweet.</td>
<td>S</td>
<td>Do.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Private Jonas Snow.</td>
<td>T</td>
<td>Do.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Private William Murray.</td>
<td>U</td>
<td>Do.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Name and rank</td>
<td>Company</td>
<td>Regiment</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>--------------</td>
<td>---------</td>
<td>----------</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Sergt. William Garvie</td>
<td>A</td>
<td>38th New York Volunteers</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Sergt. Henry Quinn</td>
<td>A</td>
<td>Do.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Corpl. George Traver</td>
<td>B</td>
<td>Do.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Sergt. Robinson Hopper</td>
<td>C</td>
<td>Do.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Private Hobart G. Acker</td>
<td>C</td>
<td>Do.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Sergt. Fritz Miladophsky</td>
<td>C</td>
<td>Do.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Sergt. Jacob Schaffer</td>
<td>C</td>
<td>Do.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Private Henry Lichte</td>
<td>D</td>
<td>Do.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Sergt. John Brothers</td>
<td>D</td>
<td>Do.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Corpl. Charles Stone</td>
<td>E</td>
<td>Do.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Sergt. G. Garing</td>
<td>E</td>
<td>Do.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Sergt. Dennis McCarthy</td>
<td>E</td>
<td>Do.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Corpl. Jos. Wash</td>
<td>F</td>
<td>Do.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Sergt. C. F. Morgan</td>
<td>F</td>
<td>Do.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Sergt. William Morris</td>
<td>G</td>
<td>Do.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Private Louis Fredolf</td>
<td>H</td>
<td>Do.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Sergt. Robert Moll</td>
<td>H</td>
<td>Do.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Private Jacob Geise</td>
<td>H</td>
<td>Do.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Private Fred. Brandhorst</td>
<td>I</td>
<td>Do.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Sergt. John Kavanaugh</td>
<td>I</td>
<td>Do.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Corpl. John O'Connor</td>
<td>I</td>
<td>Do.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Private John Meister</td>
<td>I</td>
<td>Do.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Sergt. William Germond</td>
<td>K</td>
<td>Do.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Corpl. Hugh W. Burns</td>
<td>K</td>
<td>Do.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Sergt. Maj. Jacob D. Bennett</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Sergt. Thomas Walton</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Corpl. Gustavus Voss</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Private Job Sherman</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Sergt. Henry K. Brown</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Color-Sergt. Andred. Wadleigh</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Sergt. Allen Smith</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Sergt. W. J. Miller</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Sergt. Daniel H. Mayer</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Sergt. Washington Peel</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Private Edward Clifford</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Sergt. Edwin J. Sweet</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Sergt. Andrew Hollywood</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Sergt. Thomas Crawford</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Sergt. Anthony Collins</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Sergt. Philip M. Harden</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Corpl. G. W. Chamberlain</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Sergt. Thomas Brasin</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Sergt. James Shuter</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Private William Gilbert</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Sergt. William Moyne</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Private Isaac Garrison</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Private Patrick Farrell</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Sergt. William Edwards</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Sergt. John Curtin</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Sergt. William B. Parris</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Private J. L. Little</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Sergt. H. Johnson</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Corpl. A. C. Rowe</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Sergt. L. Crawford</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Sergt. G. M. Houghton</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Corpl. D. Maxey</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Sergt. H. H. Shaw</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Corpl. A. Kennerson</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Sergt. G. L. Chamberlain</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Corpl. C. J. Dalton</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Private H. J. Roach</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Sergt. O. M. Nash</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Sergt. J. Durgin</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Private A. Luce</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Sergt. G. E. Davis</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Sergt. H. C. Weber</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Corpl. P. F. Rowe</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Private R. Cochrane</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Sergt. N. W. Jones</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Private L. W. Braunn</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Private Lemuel Powell</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Sergt. B. W. Smart</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Corpl. A. G. Wood</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Corpl. W. G. Wilson</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Private James Gall</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Private Horace Speed</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Sergt. Henry O. Kipley</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Private Robert Grant</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Corpl. George G. Gardiner</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>
MISCELLANEOUS REPORTS, ETC.

CHAP. LXIII.

1279

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th></th>
<th></th>
<th></th>
<th></th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Sergt. James McLaughlin</td>
<td>D</td>
<td>Do.</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Corpl. Henry O. Davis</td>
<td>D</td>
<td>Do.</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Corpl. Willard Barstow</td>
<td>E</td>
<td>Do.</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Corpl. Nath. Waters</td>
<td>F</td>
<td>Do.</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Corpl. Francis K. Chapman</td>
<td>F</td>
<td>Do.</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Sergt. Albert H. Rose</td>
<td>G</td>
<td>Do.</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Sergt. Henry Leach</td>
<td>H</td>
<td>Do.</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Sergt. F. O. J. S. Hill</td>
<td>I</td>
<td>Do.</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Private Bradford Blinn</td>
<td>I</td>
<td>Do.</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Private Daniel O. Howard</td>
<td>I</td>
<td>Do.</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Private Horace Tellison</td>
<td>I</td>
<td>Do.</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Corpl. George P. Wood</td>
<td>K</td>
<td>Do.</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Private John Donaghy</td>
<td>K</td>
<td>Do.</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Private Juan Millano</td>
<td>A</td>
<td>Do.</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Sergt. John A. Toothaker</td>
<td>B</td>
<td>Do.</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Private Robert Whitehead</td>
<td>B</td>
<td>Do.</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Private Preston J. Carter</td>
<td>C</td>
<td>Do.</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Corpl. Reuben Richardson</td>
<td>D</td>
<td>Do.</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Private John B. Fairman</td>
<td>D</td>
<td>Do.</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Sergt. James B. Jones</td>
<td>E</td>
<td>Do.</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Sergt. Thompson Farmer</td>
<td>E</td>
<td>Do.</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Sergt. George W. Millikin</td>
<td>E</td>
<td>Do.</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Sergt. John W. Williams</td>
<td>E</td>
<td>Do.</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Private E. Griffith</td>
<td>E</td>
<td>Do.</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Corpl. Franklin Barwick</td>
<td>E</td>
<td>Do.</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Corpl. Lemuel J. Orwig</td>
<td>E</td>
<td>Do.</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Private Charles W. Sentman</td>
<td>E</td>
<td>Do.</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Corpl. John H. Hendricks</td>
<td>E</td>
<td>Do.</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Private Elick Wilson</td>
<td>E</td>
<td>Do.</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Private William C. Hatfield</td>
<td>E</td>
<td>Do.</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Sergt. Jesse L. Cornell</td>
<td>F</td>
<td>Do.</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Sergt. George H. Reddick</td>
<td>G</td>
<td>Do.</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Corpl. Francis A. Downing</td>
<td>H</td>
<td>Do.</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Corpl. David Taylor</td>
<td>H</td>
<td>Do.</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Private John Anderson</td>
<td>I</td>
<td>Do.</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Private Michael Powers</td>
<td>I</td>
<td>Do.</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Corpl. Mahlon Smith</td>
<td>J</td>
<td>Do.</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Private Stephen C. Wilson</td>
<td>K</td>
<td>Do.</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Sergt. William Horine</td>
<td>K</td>
<td>Do.</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Corp. James C. Stevens</td>
<td>K</td>
<td>Do.</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Sergt. David S. Hunsberger</td>
<td>K</td>
<td>Do.</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Private Henry Landis</td>
<td>A</td>
<td>Do.</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Private Charles H. Farnacht</td>
<td>A</td>
<td>Do.</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Sergt. William Thomas</td>
<td>B</td>
<td>Do.</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Private Fred. Klein</td>
<td>B</td>
<td>Do.</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Private David Brolly</td>
<td>C</td>
<td>Do.</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Sergt. Harvey M. Mansell</td>
<td>C</td>
<td>Do.</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Private Thomas O'Neil</td>
<td>D</td>
<td>Do.</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Sergt. John Wender</td>
<td>D</td>
<td>Do.</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Private Hugh Kennedy</td>
<td>D</td>
<td>Do.</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Private Joel Porter</td>
<td>D</td>
<td>Do.</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Corpl. William J. Harmar</td>
<td>E</td>
<td>Do.</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Private Charles W. Cooper</td>
<td>E</td>
<td>Do.</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Private John Jackson</td>
<td>F</td>
<td>Do.</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Private Jos. Ansback</td>
<td>F</td>
<td>Do.</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Private Robert Martin</td>
<td>F</td>
<td>Do.</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Sergt. John Armstong</td>
<td>F</td>
<td>Do.</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Private Cornelius Winters</td>
<td>F</td>
<td>Do.</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Corpl. Henry C. Ishpording</td>
<td>H</td>
<td>Do.</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Corpl. David G. Wilson</td>
<td>H</td>
<td>Do.</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Corpl. James Quinn</td>
<td>I</td>
<td>Do.</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Private Patrick Coggins</td>
<td>I</td>
<td>Do.</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Private Philip Clause</td>
<td>I</td>
<td>Do.</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Third Brigade, Col. S. B. Hayman.

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Name and rank</th>
<th>Third Brigade, Col. S. B. Hayman.</th>
<th>Company</th>
<th>Regiment.</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Corpl. Ranson B. Howell</td>
<td>A</td>
<td>Do.</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Corpl. Webster J. Kniffin</td>
<td>A</td>
<td>Do.</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Private John Laraway</td>
<td>B</td>
<td>Do.</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Sergt. William S. Coughets</td>
<td>B</td>
<td>Do.</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Corpl. William W. Bennett</td>
<td>B</td>
<td>Do.</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Name and rank</td>
<td>Company</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>-----------------------</td>
<td>---------</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Sergt. Leonard Deitrich</td>
<td>C</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Sergt. Frank Muhlberg</td>
<td>C</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Corpl. Peter Myers</td>
<td>C</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Private William Schumaker</td>
<td>D</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Sergt. Richard E. Arthur</td>
<td>E</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Corpl. Lewis Pettitt</td>
<td>E</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Private William Bennick</td>
<td>F</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Sergt. Daniel E. Bordsell</td>
<td>G</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Corpl. Edwin Van Winkle</td>
<td>G</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Private George W. Westphog</td>
<td>H</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Sergt. James E. Van Dusen</td>
<td>H</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Corpl. Daniel G. Cratty</td>
<td>I</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Sergt. Job Bowker</td>
<td>I</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Private Mortimer Bonner</td>
<td>I</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Sergt. Charles A. Price</td>
<td>I</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Corpl. Ira B. Crane</td>
<td>I</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Private John Broad</td>
<td>I</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Sergt. Martin Biber</td>
<td>I</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Corpl. Cuda White</td>
<td>I</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Private George W. Lemon</td>
<td>I</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Sergt. James F. McGinley</td>
<td>J</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Sergt. Benjamin C. Parker</td>
<td>J</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Corpl. Charles Nelson</td>
<td>J</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Sergt. Reuben Tewer</td>
<td>J</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Corpl. James Hannah</td>
<td>K</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Corpl. Alex. French</td>
<td>K</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Corpl. Benjamin C. Gardner</td>
<td>K</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Q. M. Sergt. John H. Sumner</td>
<td>K</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Corpl. Aug. Busson</td>
<td>A</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Corpl. Nath. Henry</td>
<td>A</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Private Henry Jerome</td>
<td>A</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Corpl. Herman Schmidt</td>
<td>A</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Corpl. George Newton</td>
<td>B</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Private William Rapp</td>
<td>B</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Private Henry C. Bradley</td>
<td>C</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Sergt. James Hazard</td>
<td>C</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Sergt. Donald Sinkley</td>
<td>C</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Corpl. Reuben Howe</td>
<td>C</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Private Luther Franklin</td>
<td>D</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Sergt. John Wickham</td>
<td>D</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Color-Sergt. Otto A. Berger</td>
<td>D</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Sergt. Peter Lennon</td>
<td>D</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Sergt. Othello W. Phelps</td>
<td>E</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Private James Harkness</td>
<td>E</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Private Hugh Madison</td>
<td>E</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Private William J. Moore</td>
<td>F</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Sergt. John Kemp</td>
<td>F</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Sergt. James Darling</td>
<td>F</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Sergt. Francis McElroy</td>
<td>F</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Corpl. Peter Kennedy</td>
<td>G</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Corpl. Thomas Lipscomb</td>
<td>G</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Private John E. Lee</td>
<td>G</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Sergt. William Bowles</td>
<td>H</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Private Milton Matson</td>
<td>H</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Private Alfred B. Crane</td>
<td>H</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Corpl. Patrick Waters</td>
<td>I</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Sergt. Stewart A. Boyd</td>
<td>I</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Corpl. Charles Abrams</td>
<td>I</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Corpl. Charles Thayer</td>
<td>I</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Private Alva W. Scholfield</td>
<td>I</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Sergt. Peter Boffinger</td>
<td>I</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Sergt. Charles J. Zwissler</td>
<td>I</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Corpl. William Buddie</td>
<td>I</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Sergt. Fayette M. Paine</td>
<td>A</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Sergt. Edward H. Crie</td>
<td>A</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Corpl. Joseph F. Lake</td>
<td>A</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Private Jacob C. Brown</td>
<td>B</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Private James C. Holt</td>
<td>B</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Private Monroe Quint</td>
<td>B</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Private R. T. Trueworthy</td>
<td>B</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Private John Lohanne</td>
<td>B</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Private J. M. Hall</td>
<td>B</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Private S. C. Pratt</td>
<td>C</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Private S. W. Burnham</td>
<td>C</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Corpl. J. L. Fuller</td>
<td>C</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Sergt. Stephen Graham</td>
<td>C</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Corpl. F. J. Whittemore</td>
<td>D</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Private Charles H. Hayes</td>
<td>D</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Company: 3d Michigan Volunteers.

Regiment: Do.

Company: 5th Michigan Volunteers.

Regiment: Do.

Company: 17th Maine Volunteers.

Regiment: Do.
<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Name and rank</th>
<th>Company</th>
<th>Regiment</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Sgt. George A. Whiddin</td>
<td>H</td>
<td>37th New York Volunteers</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Sgt. D. P. Hart</td>
<td>H</td>
<td>Do</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Sgt. J. S. Loring</td>
<td>H</td>
<td>Do</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Private M. P. Leary</td>
<td>I</td>
<td>Do</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Corpl. John W. Kendrick</td>
<td>I</td>
<td>Do</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Private D. A. Wentworth</td>
<td>I</td>
<td>Do</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Private John H. Simpson</td>
<td>I</td>
<td>Do</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Private A. J. Harmon</td>
<td>I</td>
<td>Do</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Sergt. Isaac O. Parker</td>
<td>K</td>
<td>Do</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Private E. G. Parker</td>
<td>K</td>
<td>Do</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Private F. A. Butland</td>
<td>K</td>
<td>Do</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Private G. J. Streut</td>
<td>K</td>
<td>Do</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Q. M. Sergt. James B. Shepard</td>
<td></td>
<td>Do</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Sergt. David Meekin</td>
<td>A</td>
<td>Do</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Sergt. Samuel B. Wilson</td>
<td>A</td>
<td>Do</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Sergt. John O'Connell</td>
<td>A</td>
<td>Do</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Sergt. John Donovan</td>
<td>A</td>
<td>Do</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Corpl. Lawrence Cahill</td>
<td>B</td>
<td>Do</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Sergt. Thomas Feehay</td>
<td>B</td>
<td>Do</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Sergt. John Doherty</td>
<td>B</td>
<td>Do</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Corpl. Patrick Sheehan</td>
<td>B</td>
<td>Do</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Private Walter Gladson</td>
<td>C</td>
<td>Do</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Sergt. John Collins</td>
<td>C</td>
<td>Do</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Sergt. Daniel J. Kelly</td>
<td>C</td>
<td>Do</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Sergt. John F. Morton</td>
<td>C</td>
<td>Do</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Sergt. Peter Moran</td>
<td>C</td>
<td>Do</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Sergt. Charles Foley</td>
<td>D</td>
<td>Do</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Corpl. Owen Gorman</td>
<td>D</td>
<td>Do</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Corpl. James Cosgrove</td>
<td>D</td>
<td>Do</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Private Cornelius Driscoll</td>
<td>D</td>
<td>Do</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Sergt. Patrick Cooney</td>
<td>E</td>
<td>Do</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Corpl. James Reddy</td>
<td>E</td>
<td>Do</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Private Anthony Smith</td>
<td>E</td>
<td>Do</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Sergt. Michael Cuddihy</td>
<td>F</td>
<td>Do</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Corpl. Michael Duffy</td>
<td>F</td>
<td>Do</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Private Patrick Glespie</td>
<td>F</td>
<td>Do</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Sergt. Hugh Murphy</td>
<td>G</td>
<td>Do</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Sergt. John Broderick</td>
<td>G</td>
<td>Do</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Sergt. James McManus</td>
<td>G</td>
<td>Do</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Private Patrick Stackpole</td>
<td>G</td>
<td>Do</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Sergt. Harmon E. Wentworth</td>
<td>H</td>
<td>Do</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Corpl. Conrad Snyder</td>
<td>H</td>
<td>Do</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Private John D. Lyons</td>
<td>H</td>
<td>Do</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Private Jacob Albrecht</td>
<td>H</td>
<td>Do</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Sergt. Clark C. Foster</td>
<td>I</td>
<td>Do</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Sergt. Jerome D. Andrews</td>
<td>I</td>
<td>Do</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Sergt. Charles Lattin</td>
<td>I</td>
<td>Do</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Sergt. Julius C. Schults</td>
<td>I</td>
<td>Do</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Sergt. John McCarthy</td>
<td>K</td>
<td>Do</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Sergt. Timothy Spillan</td>
<td>K</td>
<td>Do</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Sergt. Thomas Murray</td>
<td>K</td>
<td>Do</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Corpl. John Madden</td>
<td>K</td>
<td>Do</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

An official copy of this order will be given to each soldier entitled to wear the cross.

D. B. BIRNEY,
Brigadier-General of Volunteers, Commanding Division.

[25.] 81 R R—VOL LI, PT I
Maj. Gen. B. F. Butler,
Commanding Department:

GENERAL: I have the honor to transmit herewith a statement and plan by Col. Robert M. West, commanding at Williamsburg, which I commend to your earnest and favorable consideration. The statement I believe to be correct as far as it goes. There are, in addition to the forces named, about 1,500 infantry at and near Petersburg; also the City Battalion in Richmond, said to be a considerable body, composed of clerks, mechanics, and laborers employed by the Confederate Government, and tolerably effective on their own ground. Our raids have given them frequent practice in turning out under arms. I suppose it would require at least three hours to bring the Petersburg troops to the threatened point—probably at the early hour proposed considerably longer. They might be drawn down toward Weldon by a previous demonstration of infantry in that direction. I believe the plan entirely feasible, and would rejoice to assume the responsibility and conduct of the enterprise. Colonel West is an accomplished soldier of great prudence and judgment, and in my judgment eminently fitted for the cavalry part of the enterprise. At the moment of entering Richmond, parties of picked men, selected from exchanged prisoners and others locally acquainted, might be detached to fire public buildings, including, if possible, the Tredegar Iron-Works. I would like to march all the available infantry and light artillery of my command, so as to meet the returning cavalry at Bottom's Bridge and support and cover it. A simultaneous movement of a small army gun-boat into the Lower Chickahominy would add to the safety of the retreat.

I have the honor to be, general, with great respect, your obedient servant,

I. J. WISTAR,
Brigadier-General.

[Inclosure.]

HEADQUARTERS,
Fort Magruder, Va., November 24, 1863.

Brig. Gen. I. J. WISTAR,
Commanding at Yorktown:

GENERAL: Believing the present to be an auspicious time to strike for the relief of our suffering soldiers in the Richmond prisons, I respectfully beg leave to present herewith a statement and a plan for that object, the former of which can be relied upon, and the latter, I feel the greatest confidence, can be accomplished. The forces of the enemy as at present disposed between here and Richmond are as follows:

This side the Chickahominy—
A scouting force of infantry and cavalry immediately in front of this position on permanent duty ................................................................. 31
Couriers on Richmond road at Barhamsville ...................................... 2
Couriers on Richmond road at Slatersville ....................................... 2
Couriers on Richmond road at New Kent Court-House .......................... 8
Picket on Richmond road at New Kent Court-House ............................ 8
Picket on Diascond road at Kames' farm, one mile this side Forge Bridge. 8
Aggregate ....................................................................................... 53
Opposite side the Chickahominy—

At Forge Bridge .................................................. 8
At Long Bridge ................................................... 8
At Bottom's Bridge ............................................... 8

About one mile from Bottom's Bridge is the Holcombe Legion of cavalry and two pieces of artillery, not more than .................................................. 250

At Chaffin's farm, six miles above Drewry's Bluff, is Hunting's [Hunton's] brigade, fragments of regiments, not more than an aggregate of ........... 800

Aggregate .......................................................... 1,314

Aggregate of force between here and Richmond ............................. 1,367

I am certain of the correctness of the foregoing at this date. The plan I propose is this: Send all the cavalry (effective) in this department to this vicinity and organize it into a column for a rapid movement. This can be done without the knowledge of the enemy, if the cavalry can be sent here at night and encamped on an adjacent farm out of sight of the main road. While this is being done I can send out scouting parties of infantry, and by the aid of guides now here nearly if not all the pickets and couriers on this side the Chickahominy can be captured. Taken into consideration by the enemy with recent movements here, this will occasion no alarm. Then let the cavalry column start so as to reach Bottom's Bridge at 3 o'clock (a little earlier would perhaps be better) in the morning. That bridge is now standing. If it should be destroyed in the meantime, no matter. We know a ford for cavalry just below it. Once across the stream we have a run of twelve miles. The Holcombe Legion would be surprised and captured or driven pell-mell into Richmond, our cavalry following, running the gauntlet of the works. Past these, we are safe, for they are not inclosed, nor are they auxiliary. The road is not obstructed. This accomplished, the remainder of the work would be easy. The exact locations of the prisons and prisoners are accurately known for our purpose. They would need no material aid from us. The terror which our presence would inspire would enable them to release themselves. The location of the arsenal is known, and also that it contains arms and ammunition enough to place in the hands of such of our men as would be able to bear them. There are officers enough there to organize and command them. Carriages and ambulances could be pressed into service to any extent needed. Whether the city could be held or not would depend upon circumstances which cannot now be foreseen sufficiently clear to decide. There has not been a time since the war began when the auxiliary force around Richmond was so small as at this time. The city has never been before so entirely helpless for defense. The best troops in the world could scarcely recover from such a surprise as the one proposed in time to make an effectual resistance.

The garrison of Richmond at present is of the most ineffective troops of the so-called Confederacy. They would be overwhelmed completely with the shock of alarm, and the arming and organizing of our friends could be sufficiently advanced to remove all possibility of danger before any force could be gathered to oppose them. I have thought of this thing for more than a year, and have always believed it to be feasible. Now, the known weakness of our force and the activity of our scouting parties here, the feeling of confidence on the part of the enemy and his utter helplessness, all combine to make the moment propitious for striking a terrible blow. I beg of you not to understand that I would make the command of the expedition a condition of giving it my most cordial support. Not at all. I will further it with all the resources of my mind and of the means under my control. I would unhesitatingly undertake to execute the plan with confidence of certain and complete success. But it is not right that I should be placed in the way of commanders who have the prestige of success, and thus deprive them and the enterprise of the benefits which would reasonably arise therefrom. If it is to be done, it should be done quickly. Not one moment should be lost. I respectfully recommend that no telegraphic communication be had upon this subject over the Peninsula line until the object is either consummated or abandoned.

Most respectfully, general, I have the honor to remain, your obedient servant,

ROB. M. WEST,
Colonel, Commanding.

YORKTOWN, VA., February 3, 1864.

Maj. Gen. B. F. BUTLER,
Commanding Department of Virginia and North Carolina:

GENERAL: Your note of this morning by Major Haggerty is received. In saying Friday in my telegraph, I meant to concentrate on that evening at the lines, to march thence on Saturday at 10 a.m., and strike the blow at R[ichmond] on Sunday morning at 6 a.m. If General Meade co-operates, he should be moving at this moment. If he has no accumulation of supplies at his front, and he probably has not, it will take him some time to make an earnest movement, and a detected and understood feint is worse than nothing. I have, however, made my calculation without expecting anything from him, and whatever he may do will be a gain. About 6,000 men went south through Richmond at the end of the week before last, and on last Monday week 2,000 others, coming from the south, passed through Richmond to replace them. Those 6,000 men, with what have been drawn from the Appomattox line and Blackwater, and possibly a few previously in observation in front of New Berne, are, I suspect, about what is in front of General Palmer. One brigade at least of Pickett's is at Chaffin's farm, and part or the whole of another is at Richmond and Hanover Junction. His artillery is at Chaffin's and Richmond, and perhaps Petersburg. I know of some at both the two first-named places. It is a great risk to send men to cut the telegraph, lest if taken they should confess, in their ignorance, under the supposition that it would exonerate them from the character of spies. If they did, the enemy could draw but one inference. I think, however, I can find two to send, unknown to each other. They will start to-morrow night. How are we to know whether they cut it properly or not? Of course they will say so. I mean in reference to the payment of reward, for I shall act as though I knew the telegraph to be unharmed. My surgeon-in-chief has telegraphed for twenty new stretchers, which I hope will come on to-morrow's (Thursday's) boat.

I am, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

I. J. WISTAR,
Brigadier-General.

HDQRS. DEPARTMENT OF VIRGINIA AND NORTH CAROLINA,
Fort Monroe, Va., February 3, 1864.

Brigadier-General WISTAR,
Commanding Expeditionary Division, Yorktown, Va.:

MY DEAR GENERAL: Yours of this morning's boat is received. Find more than one man who can cut telegraph wire, and offer each a larger sum, say $500, for doing it. Fifth Pennsylvania will be with you (350 sabers) to-morrow at 2 p.m. I am hoping for co-operation. I have thought of Saturday in my own mind for the movement; what say you? Palmer writes me that the whole of Pickett's division is before New Berne. Not quite correct; all but one brigade is. You can converse freely with Haggerty upon this matter, if you need any other than written communication with me. You now have all I can send you. I have sent the Twenty-first Connecticut to Beaufort to aid Palmer.

Yours, truly,

B. F. BUTLER,
Major-General, Commanding.

HDQRS. DEPARTMENT OF VIRGINIA AND NORTH CAROLINA,
Fort Monroe, Va., February 4, 1864.

Brigadier-General WISTAR,
Commanding Expeditionary Division, Yorktown, Va.:

MY DEAR WISTAR: So far as I can see, everything is done that can be done within our means for the move on Richmond. Therefore we are to go forward to endeavor to do the services proposed: First. To relieve our prisoners, who must otherwise, it seems to me, of necessity, be starved. Lee is already asking his soldiers to live on half-rations. Can he give more to our soldiers, prisoners? Second. To destroy the public buildings, arsenals, Tredegar Iron-Works, depots, railroad equipage, and commissary stores of the rebels, and thus cripple their resources. Third. To capture some of the leaders of the rebellion, so that at least we can have means to meet their constant threats of retaliation and hanging of our men, white and black. If any of the more prominent can be brought off I believe a blow will be given to the rebellion from which it will never recover. There is one point, and one only, upon which I have not consulted with you fully as I could wish, and that is why I have marked this private, because of its delicacy. If you live, I have every confidence that all will be done that can be done for the success of your expedition—all that courage, coolness, comprehension, and skill can do; but if misfortune meet you, what then? Have you subordinates that can fully take your place? Have they been so fully instructed in our plans as to escape confusion? Should not at least three officers of every separate detachment be instructed in the objects and aims of that force, with orders to carry them out in the event of one falling, or two? Do you desire me to send you anybody as second in command in case you are disabled by shell explosion or accident? If so, name him. To you shall be the honor of the execution of the enterprise in any event. Trust me with the utmost confidence in the matter, and I will give you whatever I can that you desire.

Finally, may God preserve you in an undertaking which promises so much for the cause of the country if successful. We can have no aid or co-operation. I have telegraphed to General Halleck to order Meade's army to make at least a feint, and have received in reply a request that I would telegraph myself to General Sedgwick for co-operation, but I am not commanding general of the Army, and Sedgwick will not obey me. I have telegraphed to Sedgwick, however, asking him, as New Berne is besieged, if he can give me aid and relief by a threatening demonstration on Richmond, and if that can be done by Saturday, but have received no reply. * "Another man from England* might diminish the daring of the achievement, and thereupon our plan may not be indispensable to success. Your idea to march Saturday is the correct one. If this weather holds, and we must not lose it, you will be in time exactly. The barometer now promises fair, dry weather. The colder the better. Success attend you is the earnest prayer of yours,

*See Butler to Sedgwick, Vol. XXXIII, p. 502, and Sedgwick to Butler, ibid, p. 512.

Very truly,

BENJ. F. BUTLER,
Major-General, Commanding.

Maj. Gen. B. F. BUTLER:

GENERAL: Accept my grateful and sincere thanks for your letter of to-day, just received by dispatch-boat, and for all your manifold kindness and consideration ever since I happily came a second time under your command. A thousand false impressions have been removed from my mind, and it shall be a business of my life to assist friends in doing what you will not—except by the slow testimony of actions and services—do for yourself, viz, remove similar ones from the minds of others. Respecting a suitable second in command, the matter is too important to be left to me. You should and will decide. I will only remark in that connection that Colonel West and Colonel Duncan command my two infantry brigades, and I have every confidence in both. To-morrow night I shall go with them, map in hand, at Williamsburg, over every detail and every contingency. Colonel Spear is thoroughly instructed and cross-examined by me already. On Saturday morning I shall [take] all the cavalry colonels and cavalry officers of the striking detachment and go over everything. I have some guides, and have dispatched two men, unknown to each other, to-night to cut the wire between Meadow Station and Richmond on Saturday night between dark and midnight. Lieutenant-Colonel Perry, of the One hundred and thirty-ninth New York, with 200 infantry, starts at 10 p.m. Friday evening, with a good guide, to get in rear of the New Kent picket at 9 p.m. Saturday evening. At 2 same night we make the attempt to surprise Bottom's Bridge, with the hope of striking Richmond at 5 a.m. following. If the principal cavalry officers are brave, the thing must succeed. I believe I dare not leave the supporting force in position at Bottom's Bridge unless the circumstances of the moment justify my accompanying the cavalry from there. Such is not my present intention. I have weighed it well. In the confusion of the moment, even if I were present, we should have to depend on previously instructed detachment commanders, while if an accident happens to the infantry, and I not there to remedy it, Fortress Monroe and its dependencies are left entirely uncovered and without troops. I ought now to inform you of the provision left for local defense: First. One hundred and fifty effectives of Sixteenth New York Heavy Artillery and one battery of field artillery (two-thirds manned), and five heavy guns in the new citadel (unfinished) at Gloucester Point—a strong place. Second. One hundred of same with fifty provost guard and one-half of a four gun light battery (half manned) at Yorktown, with, say, 200 convalescents and sick, besides teamsters, &c. Captain Brooks, provost-marshal, a good officer, in command. Third. Five hundred and fifty effectives of New York artillery, with one section of first-rate light artillery and eight guns in position at Fort Magruder (a strong place) and its line of redoubts, besides some sick and dismounted cavalry and one or two good officers. acquainted with the field and sweep of the guns. Fort Magruder contains good water and some accumulation of rations and ammunition; not much of the latter—enough, I think. They should hold out for some days against any moderate force with light guns, and it will take a good while for them to bring down any other kind. If I and my troops meet with an accident, there should be a good officer sent up there till you can re-enforce. I really have no misgivings whatever, but regard such as a most remote possibility. I hope and verily believe that I have forgotten nothing, and that every possible contingency has received consideration. Accidents may mar anything. We may stumble in Richmond on 10,000 men going to or returning from New Berne, but we have a fair right to expect as many accidents for us as against us.

One last request. If you hear favorably from me, will you quiet the anxiety of my wife by a telegraphic line to care of Robert Toland, 1213 Spruce street, Philadelphia.

With renewed and heartfelt thanks for your uniform kindness, and not the least of them this opportunity given me, permit me to call myself your attached friend,

I. J. WISTAR.

P. S.—On Sunday morning at 5 o'clock pray for our country and for me.

[33.]

HEADQUARTERS NORTHERN DEPARTMENT,
Columbus, Ohio, February 17, 1864.

Maj. Gen. B. F. BUTLER,
Comdg. Dept. of Virginia and North Carolina, Fort Monroe, Va.:

GENERAL: Having seen in the newspapers some account of an expedition to Bottom's Bridge for the purpose of a raid into Richmond to release our prisoners, I have reflected upon the matter. I beg leave to present the outlines of a plan which has suggested itself to me. At this present time nothing can be done, as the rebels have no doubt collected a sufficient force to meet any small expedition that could be sent. The fright they have had will wear off, and the necessity for re-enforcing Lee's army as the time approaches for active operations will give ample time for our preparations and to mature the plan. It is not necessary that any persons beyond the commanding general and the commanders of the land and naval forces should know the destination of the expedition. My plan is to assemble the gun-boats and a fleet of transports at Fort Monroe; leave the latter place after dark and ascend the James River; land a force on the right bank above the Appomattox, either at the first or second bend above, or preferably at the mouths of Kingsland, Proctor's, and Red Water Creeks. The troops would then be less than four miles from the Petersburg and Richmond Railroad. Let them destroy as much of the railroad as can be done in a few hours and then embark and recross the river. The main body I would land at Deep Bottom near Jones' Neck, and within ten miles of Richmond. The roads from here have never been obstructed and probably are not even picketed. The troops, after destroying the railroad, being landed on the left bank of the river, can put themselves immediately in communication by the Kingsland road with those advancing from Deep Bottom, and join them by the Varina or Osborne road and form a reserve. This should be aided by a demonstration up York River and an advance upon Bottom's Bridge. A small force should advance toward the Seven Pines, whilst the main body from here could take the White Oak Swamp bridge road, and by the Long Bridge and New Market roads join the real attack. The distance by this route from Bottom's Bridge to Richmond is only about twenty miles. The whole expedition should be aided by a previous strong advance of General Meade's army on the Rapidan to draw off the troops from Richmond and to keep them away. The gun-boats and transports should be seen in the York River before the main force leaves Fort Monroe for the James. The expedition might further be covered by sending supplies to New Berne, N. C., and letting it get out that the fleet was being prepared for an advance from there upon Goldsborough and Raleigh. This is introducing a number of conditions, but they are only to aid, and are not essential to the success of the expedition.

I remain, general, truly, yours,

S. P. HEINTZELMAN,
Major-General.

P. S.—It might be found advisable to hold both banks of the James River or advance by the Petersburg side on Richmond.

S. P. H.

[33.]

HDQRS. DEPARTMENT OF VIRGINIA AND NORTH CAROLINA,
Fort Monroe, Va., April 20, 1864.

Brigadier-General PALMER,
Commanding District of North Carolina:

GENERAL: I am exceedingly anxious to concentrate as many troops as possible and as rapidly upon the Peninsula. I look upon the present demonstration of the enemy as made simply for the purpose of preventing such concentration, and therefore I have felt but little apprehension of the result of the movement upon Plymouth. I don't think we can spare, to hold the posts in North Carolina, the amount of troops that are there. My judgment of the duties of the Government and the necessity of concentration of our forces forbid it. Indeed, were I left solely to my own judgment as a military question, I should abandon certainly all but one of our posts in North Carolina rather than expend the troops in holding them. I send, therefore, this note to you by my aide, Captain Shaffer, in order that you may suggest to me what will be the best regiments to form a brigade for the field, consisting of four regiments which can with safety be spared. I wish you also to send me at once the First U. S. Colored Troops. That was only loaned to General Peck upon the supposition that Pickett would attack him with 15,000 men. Send with this regiment all the men detailed for extra and other duty. Leave not a man that belongs to it who shall not be in their ranks. This is imperative. The fact that they are quartermasters and other clerks must make no difference. I know it is usual in a general in command when sending away troops to send the poorest, but I rely upon your patriotism and well-known sense of duty to reverse the rule and send me the best for the field, and I know that our judgment upon that point would coincide. As soon as we commence operating upon the upper line, you will comprehend that North Carolina will be at once relieved. Everything the rebels have will be brought together to meet General Grant on the line of the Rapidan.

I have the honor to be, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

BENJ. F. BUTLER,
Major-General, Commanding.
Brigadier-General Palmer,
Commanding District of North Carolina:

GENERAL: The report of your action in North Carolina is received and approved, and perhaps it may be pleasant for you to know that it is also approved by the lieutenant-general commanding the army.* The matter of the immense amount of rations I do not understand; I have had no information about it. On the contrary, when it was suggested to Lieutenant-Colonel Biggs by Captain Webster that he was ordered to furnish transportation for the rations, I sent to Washington and understood they were not to be forwarded. However, you must take the best care of them you can until further orders. Your regiments all arrived safe and in good time and condition. Unless you are taken within the next five days you may be sure we will relieve you from all pressure, and as soon as you find you are relieved I would advise frequent and bold incursions into the enemy's country. The rebel General Ransom is now in command of the defenses of Richmond, and part of Hoke's brigade is on the Blackwater. Beauregard was in Petersburg; is believed to have gone to the Army of Northern Virginia with his forces. Your Second North Carolinians are so demoralized that you had better send them up to Norfolk. I am now about to take the field, and communication may be substantially cut between us, but from the vigor and ability of your administration I have no fears in leaving North Carolina in your hands.

I have the honor to be, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

BENJ. F. BUTLER,
Major-General, Commanding.

[36.]

HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE JAMES,
In the Field, Virginia, December 12, 1864.

Maj. Gen. B. F. BUTLER, Commanding Department:

DEAR SIR: I send you rebel papers of to-day, by which you will perceive they took a look at us in force on the 10th. Hoke's and Field's divisions and part of Kershaw's, all under the personal direction of Longstreet, came down the Darbytown and Charles City roads in the morning, till about 12 m., when they turned, and with skirmishers out, advanced on the Signal Hill and Camp Holly front, with some brigades in line of battle. Our cavalry fell back to their rifle-pits (Colonel West's) and to the Camp Holly work, where a couple of colored companies were thrown forward and held the enemy's skirmishers. At 3 it looked like an attack, but I had ordered Hawley's and Henry's brigades, a colored regiment, and two batteries to the threatened front. They were all in position, and the enemy did not attack. By dark the skirmishing ceased, and under cover of night the enemy withdrew, carrying off their killed (except three) and wounded. Our loss, 7 killed, 23 wounded, 22 missing. We captured 14 prisoners, 2 being officers. Colonel West's cavalry and the colored companies are reported as behaving well. Since then all quiet, though I forgot to mention the rebels attempted to shell Fort Burnham. I shall strengthen Colonel West's little rifle-pits (which proved useful) and the garrisons of Camp Holly and Signal Hill.

Yours, respectfully,

E. O. C. ORD,
Major-General of Volunteers.

[Probably April 30, Vol. XXXIII, p. 1031.]
Hampton Roads, December 13, 1864.

Maj. Gen. B. F. Butler,
Commanding, &c., Fortress Monroe, Va.:

GENERAL: The rest of the fleet will leave here in three hours and will proceed to the rendezvous twenty-five miles east of Cape Fear River. The powder vessel will go to Beaufort and take ninety tons of powder I had there. I shall follow and communicate with you after she leaves Beaufort for her destruction. I think the Louisiana will carry the 300 tons. She has now 200 on board, and room for 200 more, though that would sink her too deep. She has delayed us a little, and our movements had to depend on her.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

DAVID D. PORTER,
Rear-Admiral.

Off Beaufort, N. C., December 16, 1864.

Maj. Gen. B. F. Butler,
Commanding Department of Virginia and North Carolina:

GENERAL: I take advantage of the tug Du Pont going out to write you a few lines. I think all the vessels will leave here to-morrow morning for the rendezvous, and if the weather permits I think we will be able to blow up the vessel by the next night. In talking with engineers some of them suggested that even at twenty-five miles the explosion might affect the boilers of steamers and make them explode if heavy steam was carried, and I would advise that before the explosion takes place, of which you will be duly notified, the steam be run down as low as possible and the fires drawn. I hear that the rebels have only a small garrison at the forts at New Inlet. I don’t know how true it is.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

DAVID D. PORTER,
Rear-Admiral.

At sea, December 18, 1864.

Maj. Gen. B. F. Butler,
Commanding, &c., Steamer Ben. De Ford:

GENERAL: The powder vessel Louisiana has gone in to attempt the explosion. The weather looks threatening. The wind may haul to the west, but it is not likely. The barometer is high yet, though the weather does not please me. In case of an easterly gale my vessels will rendezvous under Cape Lookout, where yours also will find perfect shelter. In case you land at Masonborough Inlet, which you can only do with northwesterly or westerly winds, will you not want vessels to cover you? I have vessels detailed to cover all landing parties. The powder vessel is as complete as human ingenuity can make her. Has 235 tons of powder—all I could get—though she would not have carried much more. I propose standing in the moment the explosion takes place, and open fire with some of the vessels at night to prevent the enemy repairing damages, if he has any. We have an army signal officer on board, and if you have one we can communicate freely.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

DAVID D. PORTER,
Rear-Admiral.
Maj. Gen. B. F. Butler, Commanding, &c.:

GENERAL: I beg leave to acknowledge the receipt of your letter of this date, the substance of which was communicated to me by General Weitzel last night. I have ordered the largest vessels to proceed off Beaufort and fill up with ammunition, to be ready for another attack in case it is decided to proceed with this matter by making other arrangements. We have not commenced firing rapidly yet, and could keep any rebels inside from showing their heads until an assaulting column was within twenty yards of the works. I wish some more of your gallant fellows had followed the officer who took the flag from the parapet, and the brave fellow who brought the horse out from the fort. I think they would have found it an easier conquest than is supposed. I do not, however, pretend to place my opinion in opposition to General Weitzel, whom I know to be an accomplished soldier and engineer, and whose opinion has great weight with me. I will look out that the troops are all off in safety. We will have a west wind presently, and a smooth beach about 3 o'clock, when sufficient boats will be sent for them. The prisoners now on board the Santiago de Cuba will be delivered to the provost-marshal at Fortress Monroe, unless you wish to take them on board one of the transports, which would be inconvenient just now.

I remain, general, respectfully, your obedient servant,

DAVID D. PORTER,

Rear-Admiral.
Abbott's (Joseph C.) Infantry. See New Hampshire Troops, 7th Regiment.

Abraham's (Isaac M.) Infantry. See Pennsylvania Troops, 85th Regiment.

Adams' (Charles F., jr.) Cavalry. See Massachusetts Troops, 1st Regiment.

Adams' (J. Webb) Artillery. See Massachusetts Troops, 10th Battery.

Alburtis' (Ephraim G.) Artillery. See Wise Artillery, post.

Alexander's (Charles M.) Infantry. See District of Columbia Troops, 2d Regiment.

Alexander's (Frederic W.) Artillery. See Baltimore Artillery, post.

Alexander's (John D.) Cavalry. See Virginia Troops, Confederate, 2d Regiment.

Allen's (George D.) Artillery. See Massachusetts Troops, 5th (E) Battery.

Allen's (Harvey A.) Artillery. See Union Troops, Regulars, 2d Regiment, Battery K.

Allen's (Samuel H.) Cavalry. See Maine Troops, 1st Regiment.

Allen's (Thomas S.) Infantry. See Wisconsin Troops, 5th Regiment.

Ames' (Adelbert) Artillery. See Union Troops, Regulars, 5th Regiment, Battery A; also Maine Troops, 20th Regiment, Infantry.

Ames' (John W.) Infantry. See Union Troops, Colored, 6th Regiment.

Amsden's (Frank F.) Artillery. See Pennsylvania Troops, 1st Regiment, Battery G.

Anderson's (Robert) Infantry. See Pennsylvania Troops, 9th Regiment, Reserves.

Anderson Zouaves, Infantry. See New York Troops, 63d Regiment.

Andrews' (Ebenezer B.) Artillery. See Ohio Troops, 5th Regiment.

Andrews' (George P.) Artillery. See Union Troops, Regulars, 3d Regiment, Batteries L and M.

Andrews' (Lorin) Infantry. See Ohio Troops, 4th Regiment.

Angel's (James R.) Artillery. See New York Troops, 3d Regiment, Battery K.

Anthony's (Joseph) Infantry. See Pennsylvania Troops, 129th Regiment.

Applegate's (Edwin F.) Infantry. See New Jersey Troops, 29th Regiment.

Apps' (George E.) Artillery. See Washington Artillery Battalion, post, 4th Battery.

Arnold's (Joseph S.) Sharpshooters. See New York Troops, 1st Battalion.

Ash's (Joseph P.) Cavalry. See Union Troops, Regulars, 5th Regiment.

Ashby's (Philip S.) Infantry. See Virginia Troops, Confederate, 7th Regiment.

Atkinson's (Edmund N.) Infantry. See Georgia Troops, Confederate, 26th Regiment.

Austin's (Andrew Y.) Artillery. See Andrew Y. Austin.

Averell's (William W.) Cavalry. See Pennsylvania Troops, 5d Regiment.

Babbitt's (Charles R.) Cavalry. See New York Troops, 8th Regiment.

Baily's (Silas M.) Infantry. See Pennsylvania Troops, 8th Regiment, Reserves.

Baird's (Abelom) Artillery. See Union Troops, Regulars, 1st Regiment, Battery I.

Baker's (Bejamin F.) Infantry. See New York Troops, 43d Regiment.

Baker's (Edward D.) Infantry. See Pennsylvania Troops, 71st Regiment.

Baldach's (Arthur) Infantry. See District of Columbia Troops, 8th Battalion (Militia).

Baldy's (Peter) Infantry. See Pennsylvania Troops, 11th Regiment, Reserves.

Bailler's (John P.) Infantry. See Pennsylvania Troops, 21st Regiment (Militia).

* References, unless otherwise indicated, are to index following.

† Improvised.
Baltimore Artillery. See Maryland Troops, Union.
Barker's (Charles W.) Cavalry. See McClellan Dragoons, post.
Barnes' (Almont) Artillery. See New York Troops, 1st Regiment, Battery C.
Barnes' (Joseph H.) Infantry. See Massachusetts Troops, 4th Regiment (Militia).
Barnum's (Henry A.) Infantry. See New York Troops, 12th Regiment.
Barry's (William P.) Artillery. See Union Troops, Regulars, 2d Regiment, Battery A.
Battles' (H. A.) Artillery. See Washington Artillery Battalion, post, 4th Battery.
Bayard's (George D.) Cavalry. See Pennsylvania Troops, 1st Regiment.
Beauchene's (Michael) Infantry. See New Jersey Troops, 8th Regiment.
Beal's (George L.) Infantry. See Maine Troops, 10th Regiment.
Biddle's (H. A.) Artillery. See Pennsylvania Troops, Confederate, 1st Battalion.
Beckham's (Robert F.) Artillery. See Virginia Troops, Confederates.
Bendix's (John E.) Infantry. See New York Troops, 7th Regiment.
Benjamin's (Samuel N.) Artillery. See Union Troops, Regulars, 2d Regiment, Battery E.
Bennett's (David A.) Cavalry. See New York Troops, 1st Regiment (Lincoln).
Benson's (Henry) Artillery. See Union Troops, Regulars, 2d Regiment, Battery M.
Benton's (William P.) Infantry. See Indiana Troops, 8th Regiment.
Berdan's (Hiram) Sharpshooters. See Union Troops, Volunteers, 1st Regiment.
Berthoud's (Alexander P.) Infantry. See New Jersey Troops, 31st Regiment.
Best's (Clermont L.) Artillery. See Union Troops, Regulars, 4th Regiment, Battery F.
Biddle's (Chapman) Infantry. See Pennsylvania Troops, 121st Regiment.
Biddle's (Charles J.) Infantry. See Pennsylvania Troops, 137th Regiment.
Black Horse Cavalry. See Virginia Troops, Confederate, 4th Regiment.
Black's (Samuel W.) Infantry. See Pennsylvania Troops, 62d Regiment.
Blount's (Joseph G.) Artillery. See Virginia Troops, Confedera-tes.
Boernstein's (Augustus S.) Infantry. See Union Troops, Colored, 4th Regiment.
Bolar's (Andrew J.) Infantry. See Pennsylvania Troops, 12th Regiment, Reserves.
Bolinger's (Henry C.) Infantry. See Pennsylvania Troops, 7th Regiment, Reserves.
Bolles' (William M.) Cavalry. See West Virginia Troops, 2d Regiment.
Bosser's (Henry M.) Infantry. See Pennsylvania Troops, 137th Regiment.
Boston Light Artillery. See Asa M. Cook's Artillery, post.
Botsford's (James L.) Infantry. See Ohio Troops, 23d Regiment.
Bower's (Edward R.) Infantry. See Pennsylvania Troops, 114th Regiment.
Bracken's (James R.) Cavalry. See Indiana Troops.
Brackett's (Albert G.) Cavalry. See Union Troops, Regulars, 2d Regiment.
Bramhall's (Walter M.) Artillery. See New York Troops, 6th Battery.
Brickell's (Andrew) Artillery. See New York Troops, 1st Battalion.
Brittan's (John D.) Artillery. See Washington Artillery Battalion, post, 2d Battery.
Brooke's (Thornton F.) Cavalry. See Michigan Troops, 1st Regiment.
Brooklyn, 14th Regiment, Infantry. See New York Troops, 84th Regiment.
Brooks' (Horace) Artillery. See Union Troops, Regulars, 2d Regiment, Battery H.
Brown's (Charles H. C.) Artillery. See Washington Artillery Battalion, post, 1st Battery.
Bucktails, Infantry. See Pennsylvania Troops, 13th Regiment, Reserves.
Burbank's (Elisha) Infantry. See Massachusetts Troops, 12th Regiment.
Burnell's (Henry W.) Cavalry. See Ohio Troops.
Burke's (John) Infantry. See New York Troops, 57th Regiment.
Burnham's (George S.) Infantry. See Connecticut Troops, 22d Regiment.
Burnside's (Ambrose E.) Infantry. See Rhode Island Troops, 1st Regiment (Militia).
Butlerfield's (Daniel) Infantry. See New York Troops, 12th Regiment (Militia).
Cadwalader's (Charles E.) Cavalry. See Pennsylvania Troops, 6th Regiment.
Cameron Guard, Infantry. See Pennsylvania Troops, 88th Regiment.
Campbell's (Charles T.) Infantry.  See Pennsylvania Troops, 57th Regiment.
Campbell's (David) Cavalry.  See Pennsylvania Troops, 5th Regiment.
Campbell's (Edward) Infantry.  See Pennsylvania Troops, 55th Regiment.
Cantwell's (John L.) Infantry.  See North Carolina Troops, Confederate, 30th Regiment (Militia).
Cape Fear Artillery.  See North Carolina Troops, Confederate.
Cape Fear Rifles, Infantry.  See North Carolina Troops, Confederate.
Carlisle's (J. Howard) Artillery.  See Union Troops, Regulars, 2d Regiment, Battery E.
Carr's (James H.) Cavalry.  See Indiana Troops, 1st Regiment.
Carrington's (Edward C.) Infantry.  See District of Columbia Troops, 2d Battalion (Militia).
Casement's (John S.) Infantry.  See Ohio Troops, 7th Regiment.
Caswell's (Adin W.) Infantry.  See Massachusetts Troops, 27th Regiment.
Chalfin's (Samuel F.) Artillery.  See Union Troops, Regulars, 5th Regiment, Battery L.
Chambless' (William P.) Cavalry.  See Union Troops, Regulars, 2d Regiment.
Childs' (James H.) Cavalry.  See Pennsylvania Troops, 4th Regiment.
Chincapin Rangers, Cavalry.  See James C. Kincheloe's Cavalry, post.
Choate's (Francis C.) Artillery.  See Union Troops, Colored, 2d Regiment, Battery B.
Church's (Nathan) Infantry.  See Michigan Troops, 50th Regiment.
City Battalion, Infantry.  See Virginia Troops, Confederate, 25th Battalion.
Clark's (John) Infantry.  See Pennsylvania Troops, 3d Regiment, Reserves.
Clark's (John B.) Infantry.  See Pennsylvania Troops, 123d Regiment.
Clark's (Thomas W.) Infantry.  See Massachusetts Troops, 4th Regiment (Militia).
Clement's (Adam) Infantry.  See Virginia Troops, Confederate, 11th Regiment.
Clendenin's (David R.) Cavalry.  See Illinois Troops, 8th Regiment.
Clopton's (William I.) Artillery.  See Richmond Fayette Artillery, post.
Cook's (George B.) Infantry.  See Union Troops, Colored, 5th Regiment.
Coke's (John A.) Artillery.  See Williamsburg Artillery, post.
Coldwater Artillery.  See Michigan Troops, 1st Battery.
Cole's (George W.) Cavalry.  See Union Troops, Colored, 2d Regiment.
Cole's (Henry A.) Cavalry.  See Maryland Troops, Union.
Collins' (Charles H. T.) Infantry.  See Pennsylvania Troops, 114th Regiment.
Colvin's (James A.) Infantry.  See New York Troops, 169th Regiment.
Comly's (James M.) Infantry.  See Ohio Troops, 23d Regiment.
Conine's (James W.) Infantry.  See Union Troops, Colored, 5th Regiment.
Cook's (Asa M.) Artillery.  See Massachusetts Troops.
Cook's (Benjamin F.) Infantry.  See Massachusetts Troops, 12th Regiment.
Cook's (David M.) Infantry.  See Pennsylvania Troops, 11th Regiment.
Cook's (John B.) Infantry.  See Union Troops, Colored, 2d Regiment.
Cooper's (James H.) Artillery.  See Pennsylvania Troops, 1st Regiment, Battery B.
Cornehlsen's (C.) Infantry.  See North Carolina Troops, Confederate, 50th Regiment (Militia).
Corrigan's (A. MacQuin) Cavalry.  See New York Troops, 9th Regiment.
Corse's (Montgomery D.) Infantry.  See Virginia Troops, Confederate, 17th Regiment.
Cottier's (Charles B.) Artillery.  See Ohio Troops.
Coughlin's (John) Infantry.  See New Hampshire Troops, 10th Regiment.
Coulter's (Richard) Infantry.  See Pennsylvania Troops, 11th Regiment.
Covode's (George H.) Cavalry.  See Pennsylvania Troops, 4th Regiment.
Cowen's (Andrew) Artillery.  See New York Troops, 1st Battery.
Cox's (John S.) Infantry.  See New Jersey Troops, 23d Regiment.
Crafts' (Welcome A.) Infantry.  See New Hampshire Troops, 5th Regiment.
Crook's (George) Infantry.  See Ohio Troops, 36th Regiment.

Crowninshield's (Casper) Cavalry.  See Massachusetts Troops, 1st Regiment.

Cuming's (John B.) Infantry.  See Georgia Troops, Confederate, 20th Regiment.

Curtis' (Franklin) Infantry.  See Massachusetts Troops, 4th Regiment (Militia).

Curtis' (N. Martin) Infantry.  See New York Troops, 142d Regiment.

Dalley's (Dennis B.) Infantry.  See New York Troops, 147th Regiment.

Dandy's (George B.) Infantry.  See New York Troops, 100th Regiment.

Daniels' (Jabez J.) Artillery.  See Michigan Troops, 9th Battery.

Dare's (Charles P.) Infantry.  See Pennsylvania Troops, 23d Regiment (Militia).

Davant's (Philip E.) Infantry.  See Georgia Troops, Confederate, 35th Regiment.

Davidson's (George S.) Artillery.  See Latham Artillery, post.

Davies' (J. Mansfield) Cavalry.  See New York Troops, 2d Regiment (Harris Light).

Davies' (Benjamin F.) Cavalry.  See New York Troops, 8th Regiment.

Davies' (Nelson H.) Infantry.  See Union Troops, Regulars, 2d Regiment.

Davies' (William W. H.) Infantry.  See Pennsylvania Troops, 104th Regiment.

Dearing's (James) Artillery.  See Latham Artillery, post.

De Forest's (Othneil) Cavalry.  See New York Troops, 5th Regiment.

De Hart's (Henry V.) Artillery.  See Union Troops, Regulars, 5th Regiment, Battery C.

De Kalb Regiment, Infantry.  See New York Troops, 41st Regiment.

De Rosset's (William L.) Infantry.  See North Carolina Troops, Confederate, 50th Regiment (Militia).

De Russy's (George B.) Artillery.  See Washington Artillery Battalion, post, 2d Battery.

De Russy's (Gustavus A.) Artillery.  See Union Troops, Regulars, 4th Regiment, Battery K.

De Villers' (Charles, jr.) Rifles.  See Massachusetts Troops, 3d Battalion.

De Villiers' (Charles A.) Infantry.  See Ohio Troops, 11th Regiment.

Devlin's (Thomas C.) Cavalry.  See New York Troops, 6th Regiment.

De Witt's (David P.) Infantry.  See New York Troops, 143d Regiment.

Dick's (Samuel B.) Infantry.  See Pennsylvania Troops, 9th Regiment, Reserves.

Dodge's (Stephen A.) Infantry.  See New York Troops, 87th Regiment.

Donaldson's (Alexander E.) Infantry.  See New Jersey Troops, 30th Regiment.

Donaldsonville Artillery.  See Louisiana Troops, Confederate.

Donnelly's (Dudley) Infantry.  See New York Troops, 28th Regiment.

Dorrell's (William B.) Infantry.  See Delaware Troops, 3d Regiment.

Doubleday's (Abner) Artillery.  See Union Troops, Regulars, 1st Regiment, Battery E.

Douty's (Calvin S.) Cavalry.  See Maine Troops, 1st Regiment.

Downey's (Stephen W.) Infantry.  See Maryland Troops, Union, 3d Regiment, P. H. B.

Duffy's (Alfred N.) Cavalry.  See New York Troops, 2d Regiment (Harris Light); also Rhode Island Troops, 1st Regiment.

Dunovant's (John) Cavalry.  See South Carolina Troops, 5th Regiment.

Duryee's (Redfield) Infantry.  See Connecticut Troops, 6th Regiment.

Duvall's (Robert E.) Cavalry.  See Purnell Legion, Cavalry, post.

Eley's (Patrick S.) Cavalry.  See Pennsylvania Troops, 15th Regiment.

Eston's (Hezekiah) Artillery.  See Pennsylvania Troops, 1st Regiment, Battery A.

Eaton's (Samuel C.) Engineers.  See New York Troops, 1st Regiment.

Edwards' (John, jr.) Artillery.  See Union Troops, Regulars, 3d Regiment, Batteries L and M.

* Temporarily commanding.
Egbert's (George T.) Infantry. See Pennsylvania Troops, 183rd Regiment.

Elder's (James G.) Infantry. See Pennsylvania Troops, 256th Regiment.

Elliott's (Lyman N.) Infantry. See Ohio Troops, 47th Regiment.

Elwell's (Andrew) Infantry. See Massachusetts Troops, 23rd Regiment.

Elsey's (Arnold) Artillery. See Union Troops, Regulars, 24th Regiment, Battery E.

Emley's (Anthony H.) Infantry. See Pennsylvania Troops, 8th Regiment (Militia).

Eoyart's (David A.) Infantry. See Kentucky Troops, Union, 1st Regiment.

Eubank's (John L.) Artillery. See Virginia Troops, Confederate.

Evan's (Clement A.) Infantry. See Georgia Troops, Confederate, 99th Regiment.

Excelsior Brigade, 1st Regiment, Infantry. See New York Troops, 76th Regiment.

Field's (Andrew) Cavalry. See Pennsylvania Troops, 5th Regiment.

Flood's (Edward H.) Artillery. See Pennsylvania Troops, 1st Regiment, Battery D.

Foley's (Richard B.) Infantry. See Flat Top Copperheads, ante.

Fortier's (Lestang) Artillery. See Donaldsonville Artillery, ante.

Powler's (Edward B.) Infantry. See New York Troops, 81st Regiment.

French's (George) Infantry. See New York Troops, 94th Regiment.

Friedman's (Max) Cavalry. See Pennsylvania Troops, 5th Regiment.

Fry's (James B.) Artillery. See Union Troops, Regulars, 1st Regiment, Battery I.

Galbraith's (John M.) Artillery. See Washington Artillery Battalion, post, 1st Battery.

Gerhard's (Joseph) Infantry. See District of Columbia Troops, 8th Battalion (Militia).

German Volunteers, Infantry. See North Carolina Troops, Confederate, 50th Regiment (Militia).

Haller's (George A.) Artillery. See New Hampshire Troops, 1st Battery.
<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Name</th>
<th>Unit</th>
<th>Location/Reference</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Getty’s (George W.)</td>
<td>Artillery</td>
<td>See Union Troops, Regulars, 4th Battery</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Gibbon’s (John)</td>
<td>Artillery</td>
<td>See Union Troops, Regulars, 4th Battery</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Gibbs’ (Alfred)</td>
<td>Cavalry</td>
<td>See New York Troops, 10th Regiment</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Gibbs’ (John S.)</td>
<td>Artillery</td>
<td>See Union Troops, Regulars, 1st Battery</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Gibbons (Augustus A.)</td>
<td>Heavy Artillery</td>
<td>See Pennsylvania Troops, 2d Regiment</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Gibbons (Horatio G.)</td>
<td>Artillery</td>
<td>See Union Troops, Regulars, 3d Battery</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Gibbons (Thomas)</td>
<td>Cavalry</td>
<td>See Pennsylvania Troops, 14th Regiment</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Gilbert’s (Samuel A.)</td>
<td>Infantry</td>
<td>See Ohio Troops, 44th Regiment</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Gilmore’s (George W.)</td>
<td>Cavalry</td>
<td>See West Virginia Troops</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Gilpin’s (Charles)</td>
<td>Infantry</td>
<td>See Maryland Troops, Union, 5d Regiment, P. H. B.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Glenn’s (John F.)</td>
<td>Infantry</td>
<td>See Pennsylvania Troops, 2d Regiment</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Goddard’s (James)</td>
<td>Infantry</td>
<td>See District of Columbia Troops, 1st Battalion (Militia)</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Gordon’s (George H.)</td>
<td>Infantry</td>
<td>See Massachusetts Troops, 2d Regiment</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Gorman’s (Willis A.)</td>
<td>Infantry</td>
<td>See Minnesota Troops, 1st Regiment</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Goalline’s Zouaves</td>
<td>Infantry</td>
<td>See Pennsylvania Troops, 95th Regiment</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Gould’s (J. Parker)</td>
<td>Infantry</td>
<td>See Massachusetts Troops, 15th Regiment</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Gouldin’s (J. Milton)</td>
<td>Infantry</td>
<td>See Virginia Troops, Confederate, 30th Regiment</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Graham’s Artillery.</td>
<td>(Official designation not of record.)</td>
<td>See Captain Graham</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Graham’s (John H.)</td>
<td>Heavy Artillery</td>
<td>See New York Troops, 5th Battery A.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Graham’s (William M.)</td>
<td>Artillery</td>
<td>See Union Troops, Regulars, 1st Battery</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Granger’s (Robert S.)</td>
<td>Infantry</td>
<td>See Union Troops, Regulars, 1st Regiment</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Gray’s (William H.)</td>
<td>Infantry</td>
<td>See Pennsylvania Troops, 20th Regiment (Militia)</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Greeley’s (Edwin S.)</td>
<td>Infantry</td>
<td>See Connecticut Troops, 10th Regiment</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Greene’s (Oliver D.)</td>
<td>Infantry</td>
<td>See Union Troops, Regulars, 2d Battery</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Gregg’s (David M.)</td>
<td>Cavalry</td>
<td>See Pennsylvania Troops, 8th Regiment</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Gregg’s (J. Irvin)</td>
<td>Cavalry</td>
<td>See Union Troops, Regulars, 6th Regiment</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Griffin’s (Charles)</td>
<td>Artillery</td>
<td>See Union Troops, Regulars, 5th Battery</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Guion’s (George M.)</td>
<td>Infantry</td>
<td>See New York Troops, 148th Regiment</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Gustin’s (Richard)</td>
<td>Infantry</td>
<td>See Pennsylvania Troops, 12th Regiment (Reserve)</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Hacklemann’s (Pleasant A.)</td>
<td>Infantry</td>
<td>See Indiana Troops, 16th Regiment</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Hains’ (Peter C.)</td>
<td>Artillery</td>
<td>See Union Troops, Regulars, 2d Battery</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Hall’s (James R.)</td>
<td>Infantry</td>
<td>See West Virginia Troops, 15th Regiment</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Hall’s (Michael)</td>
<td>Artillery</td>
<td>See Pennsylvania Troops, 1st Battery A.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Hall’s (William P.)</td>
<td>Cavalry</td>
<td>See New York Troops, 6th Regiment</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Hambrick’s (Joseph A.)</td>
<td>Infantry</td>
<td>See Virginia Troops, Confederate, 24th Regiment</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Hamilton’s (Charles S.)</td>
<td>Infantry</td>
<td>See Wisconsin Troops, 3d Regiment</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Hamilton’s (John)</td>
<td>Artillery</td>
<td>See Union Troops, Regulars, 3d Battery</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Hamilton’s (William D.)</td>
<td>Infantry</td>
<td>See Ohio Troops, 32d Regiment</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Hamlin’s (James H.)</td>
<td>Infantry</td>
<td>See Pennsylvania Troops, 145th Regiment</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Hamlint’s (Derrick F.)</td>
<td>Heavy Artillery</td>
<td>See New York Troops, 4th Regiment</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Hampton’s (Wade)</td>
<td>Legion</td>
<td>See South Carolina Troops</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Hankins’ (James De Witt)</td>
<td>Artillery</td>
<td>See Surry Artillery, post.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Hankins’ (M. M.)</td>
<td>Infantry</td>
<td>See Cape Fear Rifles, ante.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Hambrough’s (George W.)</td>
<td>Infantry</td>
<td>See Virginia Troops, Confederate, 8th Battalion</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Hardeaman’s (Thomas)</td>
<td>Infantry</td>
<td>See Georgia Troops, Confederate, 45th Regiment</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Harn’s (William A.)</td>
<td>Artillery</td>
<td>See New York Troops, 3d Battery</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Harris’ (Benjamin F.)</td>
<td>Infantry</td>
<td>See Maine Troops, 6th Regiment</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Harris Light Cavalry.</td>
<td>See New York Troops, 2d Regiment</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Harris’ (William T.)</td>
<td>Infantry</td>
<td>See Georgia Troops, Confederate, 2d Regiment</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Hartranft’s (John F.)</td>
<td>Infantry</td>
<td>See Pennsylvania Troops, 4th Regiment (Militia)</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

* Temporarily commanding.
Harwood's (Franklin) Engineers. See Union Troops, Regulars.

Haskin's (Joseph A.) Artillery. See Union Troops, Regulars, 1st Regiment, Battery D.

Hawes' (Samuel) Artillery. See Washington Artillery Battalion, post, 2d Battery.

Hayes' (Rutherford B.) Infantry. See Ohio Troops, 23d Regiment.

Hays' (Alexander) Infantry. See Pennsylvania Troops, 63d Regiment.

Haslett's (Charles E.) Artillery. See Union Troops, Regulars, 5th Regiment, Battery D.

Heaton's (Henry) Artillery. See Loudoun Artillery, post.

Heffren's (Horace H.) Infantry. See Indiana Troops, 13th Regiment.

Henrico Cavalry. See Virginia Troops, Confederate, 10th Regiment.

Henry's (Samuel) Infantry. See Alabama Troops, Confederate, 9th Regiment.

Henry's (William W.) Infantry. See Vermont Troops, 10th Regiment.

Herman's (Andrew, jr.) Artillery. See Washington Artillery Battalion, post, 3d Battery.

Herschel's (Henry H.) Infantry. See Pennsylvania Troops, 121st Regiment.

Hess' (Frank W.) Cavalry. See Pennsylvania Troops, 3d Regiment.

Hexamer's (William) Artillery. See New Jersey Troops, 1st Battery.

Higginbotham's (John C.) Infantry. See Virginia Troops, Confederate, 25th Regiment.

Higginson's (Henry L.) Cavalry. See Massachusetts Troops, 1st Regiment.

Hill's (George H.) Infantry. See Pennsylvania Troops, 55th Regiment.

Hines' (Jonathan D.) Infantry. See Ohio Troops, 12th Regiment.

Hink's (Edward W.) Infantry. See Massachusetts Troops, 8th Regiment (Militia).

Hoffeditz's (John C. A.) Cavalry. See Pennsylvania Troops, 1st Regiment.

Holcombe Legion. See South Carolina Troops.

Hollieday's (Jonas P.) Cavalry. See Vermont Troops, 1st Regiment.

Holmes' (Joseph G.) Infantry. See Pennsylvania Troops, 7th Regiment, Reserves.

Holmes' (William R.) Infantry. See Georgia Troops, Confederate, 2d Regiment.

Holt's (Thomas) Infantry. See New York Troops, 74th Regiment.

Howard's (Robert V. W.) Artillery. See Union Troops, Regulars, 4th Regiment, Battery L.

Howe's (Albion P.) Artillery. See Union Troops, Regulars, 4th Regiment, Battery G.

Huff's (Samuel) Infantry. See New Jersey Troops, 9th Regiment.

Hughston's (Robert S.) Infantry. See New York Troops, 144th Regiment.

Hulser's (Oscar F.) Heavy Artillery. See New York Troops, 2d Regiment.

Huntton's (Epps) Infantry. See Virginia Troops, Confederate, 8th Regiment.

Imboden's (John D.) Artillery. See Staunton Artillery, post.

Irwin's (William H.) Infantry. See Pennsylvania Troops, 7th Regiment (Militia).

Jack's (John T.) Infantry. See Pennsylvania Troops, 56th Regiment.

Jackson Guard, Infantry. See New York Troops, 42d Regiment.

Jackson's (Samuel M.) Infantry. See Pennsylvania Troops, 11th Regiment, Reserves.

Jackson's (Thomas H.) Infantry. See Georgia Troops, Confederate, 15th Regiment.

Jarrett's (Phaon) Infantry. See Pennsylvania Troops, 11th Regiment (Militia).

Jeff Davis Legion, Cavalry. See Mississippi Troops, Confederate.

Jewell's (J. Grey) Infantry. See District of Columbia Troops, 2d Battalion (Militia).

Johnson's Command. (Official designation not of record.) See Major Johnson.

Johnson's (Bradley T.) Infantry. See Maryland Troops, Confederate, 1st Regiment.

Johnson's (James W.) Infantry. See West Virginia Troops, 13th Regiment.

Johnston's (John W.) Infantry. See Pennsylvania Troops, 14th Regiment (Militia).

Jones' (Edward F.) Infantry. See Massachusetts Troops, 6th Regiment (Militia).

Jones' (Frank) Infantry. See New York Troops, 31st Regiment.

Jones' (James A.) Infantry. See Ohio Troops, 25th Regiment.

Jones' (Joseph P.) Infantry. See North Carolina Troops, Confederate, 5th Regiment.

Jones' (Theodore) Infantry. See Ohio Troops, 30th Regiment.
Jones' (Waters B.) Infantry. See Georgia Troops, Confederate, 60th Regiment.

Kane's (Thomas L.) Infantry. See Pennsylvania Troops, 13th Regiment, Reserves.

Keenan's (Peter) Cavalry. See Pennsylvania Troops, 8th Regiment.

Kelly's (James) Infantry. See District of Columbia Troops, 2d Battalion (Militia).

Kenly's (John R.) Infantry. See Maryland Troops, Union, 1st Regiment.

Kerns' (Mark) Artillery. See Pennsylvania Troops, 1st Regiment, Battery G.

Kerwin's (Michael) Cavalry. See Pennsylvania Troops, 13th Regiment.

Keystone Artillery. See Pennsylvania Troops.

Kiddoo's (Joseph B.) Infantry. See Union Troops, Colored, 22d Regiment.

Kinchele's (James C.) Cavalry. See Virginia Troops, Confederate.

King's (John H.) Infantry. See Union Troops, Regulars, 1st Regiment.

Klein's (Daniel) Infantry. See Connecticut Troops, 8th Regiment.

Knap's (Joseph M.) Artillery. See Pennsylvania Troops, Battery E.

Krepps' (John S.) Cavalry. See West Virginia Troops, 1st Regiment.

Lamar's (John H.) Infantry. See Georgia Troops, Confederate, 61st Regiment.

Lamar's (Lucius Q. C.) Infantry. See Mississippi Troops, Confederate, 19th Regiment.

Lane's (Nathaniel P.) Infantry. See New York Troops, 66th Regiment.

Lane's (Philander P.) Infantry. See Ohio Troops, 11th Regiment.

Langdon's (Loomis L.) Artillery. See Union Troops, Regulars, 1st Regiment, Battery M.

Langhorne's (John S.) Cavalry. See Virginia Troops, Confederate, 2d Regiment.

Langley's (Frank H.) Infantry. See Virginia Troops, Confederate, 1st Regiment.

Lansing's (Henry S.) Infantry. See New York Troops, 17th Regiment.

Larkin's (James E.) Infantry. See New Hampshire Troops, 5th Regiment.

Latham Artillery. See Virginia Troops, Confederate.

Latham's (H. Grey) Artillery. See Virginia Troops, Confederate.

Lawrence's (Samuel C.) Infantry. See Massachusetts Troops, 5th Regiment (Militia).

Lawton's (Robert B.) Cavalry. See Rhode Island Troops, 1st Regiment.

Lee's (Francis L.) Infantry. See Massachusetts Troops, 44th Regiment.

Lee's Legion, Cavalry. See Virginia Troops, Confederate, 1st Battalion.

Lemmon's (John C.) Cavalry. See New York Troops, 10th Regiment.

Lemon's (William) Infantry. See Pennsylvania Troops, 8th Regiment, Reserves.

Letcher Artillery. See Virginia Troops, Confederate.

Lewis (Abner McC.) Infantry. See Georgia Troops, Confederate, 2d Regiment.

Lewis' (William) Cavalry. See Pennsylvania Troops, 5th Regiment.

Lewis' (William D., jr.) Infantry. See Pennsylvania Troops, 18th Regiment (Militia).

Lewisburg Cavalry. See Virginia Troops, Confederate, 9th Regiment.

Lincoln Cavalry. See New York Troops, 1st Regiment.

Little's (Francis H.) Infantry. See Georgia Troops, Confederate, 11th Regiment.

Livingston's (La Rhett L.) Artillery. See Union Troops, Regulars, 3d Regiment, Batteries P and K.

Longnecker's (Henry C.) Infantry. See Pennsylvania Troops, 9th Regiment (Militia).

Loomis' (Cyrus O.) Artillery. See Michigan Troops, 1st Battery.

Loudoun Artillery. See Virginia Troops, Confederate.

Loudoun County Cavalry. See Virginia Troops, Confederate.

Loudoun Rangers, Cavalry. See Virginia Troops, Union.

Lyle's (Peter) Infantry. See Pennsylvania Troops, 19th Regiment (Militia).

Lyman's (Chauncey A.) Infantry. See Pennsylvania Troops, 7th Regiment, Reserves.

Lynchburg Artillery. See Latham Artillery, ante.

Lyons' (George) Infantry. See New York Troops, 8th Regiment (Militia).
McArthur's (Charles W.) Infantry. See Georgia Troops, Confederate, 61st Regiment.

McCabe's (George F.) Cavalry. See Pennsylvania Troops, 13th Regiment.

McCandless (William) Infantry. See Massachusetts Troops, 1st (A) Battery.

McClellan Dragoons, Cavalry. See Illinois Troops.

McCook's (Alexander McD.) Infantry. See Ohio Troops, 1st Regiment (3 months).

McCook's (Robert L.) Infantry. See Ohio Troops, 9th Regiment.

McDonald's (Edmund) Infantry. See Pennsylvania Troops, 25th Regiment (Militia).

McDowell's (Robert P.) Infantry. See Pennsylvania Troops, 5th Regiment (Militia).

McDowell's (Thomas C.) Infantry. See Pennsylvania Troops, 84th Regiment.

McElroy's (Frank) Artillery. See Washington Artillery Battalion, post, 3d Battery.

McGee's (Dennis) Infantry. See Pennsylvania Troops, 13th Regiment, Reserves.

McGibney's (Freeman) Artillery. See Maine Troops, 6th Battery.

McGregor's (John A.) Infantry. See Georgia Troops, Confederate, 174th Regiment.

McGruder's (Zachariah S.) Cavalry. See Virginia Troops, Confederate, 10th Regiment.

McIntyre's (James B.) Cavalry. See Ohio Troops, 1st Battery.

Mack's (Oscar A.) Artillery. See Union Troops, Regulars, 4th Regiment, Battery I.

McKean's (Henry B.) Infantry. See Pennsylvania Troops, 5th Regiment, Reserves.

McKenney's (John S.) Infantry. See District of Columbia Troops.

McKim's (S. A. H.) Infantry. See District of Columbia Troops, 6th Battalion (Militia).

McKnight's (Amor A.) Infantry. See Pennsylvania Troops, 105th Regiment.

McKnight's (James) Artillery. See Union Troops, Regulars, 5th Regiment, Battery M.

McKnight's (James) Infantry. See Pennsylvania Troops, 25th Regiment (Militia).

McLean's (George P.) Artillery. See Pennsylvania Troops, 38th Regiment.

McLean's (Nathaniel H.) Artillery. See Union Troops, Regulars, 4th Regiment, Battery F.

McMahan's (Henry J.) Artillery. See New York Troops, 2d Battalion, Battery B.

McMahan's (John) Cavalry. See West Virginia Troops, 2d Regiment.

McMullin's (James R.) Artillery. See Ohio Troops, 1st Battery.

McNeil's (Hugh W.) Infantry. See Pennsylvania Troops, 15th Regiment, Reserves.

McNeil's (George) Artillery. See Washington Artillery Battalion, post, 3d Battery.

McVicar's (Duncan) Cavalry. See New York Troops, 6th Regiment.

Magilton's (Albert L.) Infantry. See Pennsylvania Troops, 4th Regiment, Reserves.

Magruder's (John B.) Artillery. See Union Troops, Regulars, 1st Regiment, Battery I.

Maidhof's (Joachim) Infantry. See New York Troops, 11th Regiment (Militia).

Mann's (Daniel P.) Cavalry. See Oneida Cavalry, post.

Mann's (Orrin L.) Infantry. See Illinois Troops, 30th Regiment.

Mann's (William B.) Infantry. See Pennsylvania Troops, 2d Regiment, Reserves.

Manson's (Mahlon D.) Infantry. See Indiana Troops, 10th Regiment.

Marlow's (Isaac H.) Infantry. See Ohio Troops, 3d Regiment (3 months).

Marston's (Gilman) Infantry. See New Hampshire Troops, 2d Regiment.

Martin's (Augustus P.) Artillery. See Massachusetts Troops, 3d (C) Battery.

Martin's (Henry P.) Infantry. See New York Troops, 71st Regiment (Militia).

Martin's (Leonard) Artillery. See Union Troops, Regulars, 5th Regiment, Battery F.

Martin's (Robert D.) Cavalry. See Pennsylvania Troops, 4th Regiment.

Marye's (Morton) Infantry. See Virginia Troops, Confederate, 17th Regiment.

Maulsby's (William P.) Infantry. See Maryland Troops, Union, 1st Regiment, P. H. B.

Maurin's (Victor) Artillery. See Donaldsonville Artillery, ante.
Means' (Samuel C.) Cavalry. See Loudoun Rangers, ante.
Meares' (Oliver P.) Infantry. See North Carolina Troops, Confederate, 50th Regiment (Militia).
Megrav's (David W.) Infantry. See Pennsylvania Troops, 116th Regiment.
Meredith's (Sullivan A.) Infantry. See Pennsylvania Troops, 104th Regiment (Militia).
Merrill's (Charles B.) Infantry. See Maine Troops, 17th Regiment.
Metcalfe's (Edwin) Infantry. See Rhode Island Troops, 11th Regiment.
Metcalfe's (George) Artillery. See Connecticut Troops, 1st Battery.
Miller's (Francis C.) Infantry. See New York Troops, 147th Regiment.
Miller's (Merritt B.) Artillery. See Washington Artillery Battalion, post, 3d Battery.
Miller's (Stephen) Infantry. See Minnesota Troops, 1st Regiment.
Milligan's (William T.) Infantry. See Georgia Troops, Confederate, 15th Regiment.
Minier's (Francis P.) Infantry. See Pennsylvania Troops, 3d Regiment (Militia).
Mitchell's (Robert M.) Infantry. See Virginia Troops, Confederate, 11th Regiment.
Monroe's (J. Albert) Artillery. See Rhode Island Troops, 1st Regiment, Battery D.
Moody's (Gideon C.) Infantry. See Indiana Troops, 9th Regiment.
Moore's (Augustus) Infantry. See Ohio Troops, 28th Regiment.
Moorman's (Robert B.) Cavalry. See Virginia Troops, Confederate, 9th Regiment.
Morehead's (Turner G.) Infantry. See Pennsylvania Troops, 2d Regiment (Militia).
Morrow's (Henry A.) Infantry. See Michigan Troops, 24th Regiment.
Morton's (Peter) Artillery. See New York Troops, 8th Battery.
Mossby's (John S.) Cavalry. See Virginia Troops, Confederate, 43d Battalion.
Mott's (Christopher H.) Infantry. See Mississippi Troops, Confederate, 19th Regiment.
Mott's (Thaddeus P.) Artillery. See New York Troops, 3d Battery.
Muhlenberg's (Edward D.) Artillery. See Union Troops, Regulars, 4th Regiment, Battery F.
Mulligan's (James A.) Infantry. See Illinois Troops, 23d Regiment.
Mullins' (John) Infantry. See Mississippi Troops, Confederate, 19th Regiment.
Munroe's (Timothy) Infantry. See Massachusetts Troops, 8th Regiment (Militia).
Murphy's (John McLeod) Engineers. See New York Troops, 15th Regiment.
Nagel's (James) Infantry. See Pennsylvania Troops, 6th Regiment (Militia).
Nalley's (William H.) Infantry. See District of Columbia Troops, 5th Battalion (Militia).
New England, 1st Cavalry. See Rhode Island Troops, 1st Regiment.
Nims' (Ormand F.) Artillery. See Massachusetts Troops, 2d (B) Battery.
Norcom's (Joe) Artillery. See Washington Artillery Battalion, post, 4th Battery.
Norris' (Charles E.) Cavalry. See Union Troops, Regulars, 2d Regiment.
Oakford's (Richard A.) Infantry. See Pennsylvania Troops, 15th Regiment (Militia).
O'Brien's (Edward) Infantry. See Pennsylvania Troops, 134th Regiment.
Oley's (John H.) Cavalry. See West Virginia Troops, 7th Regiment.
Oneida Cavalry. See New York Troops.
O'Reoke's (Patrick H.) Infantry. See New York Troops, 140th Regiment.
Osborn's (Thomas O.) Infantry. See Illinois Troops, 55th Regiment.
O'Shea's (Edward) Cavalry. See Pennsylvania Troops, 13th Regiment.
Ots' (John L.) Infantry. See Connecticut Troops, 10th Regiment.
Overmeyer's (John B.) Infantry. See Pennsylvania Troops, 11th Regiment.
Owen's (Edward) Artillery. See Washington Artillery Battalion, post, 1st Battery.
<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Name</th>
<th>Type</th>
<th>Troops/Regiment/Military Reference</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Owen's (Joshua T.)</td>
<td>Infantry</td>
<td>Pennsylvania Troops, 24th Regiment</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Otto's (Samuel W.)</td>
<td>Cavalry</td>
<td>Pennsylvania Troops, 3rd Regiment</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Owings' (James D.)</td>
<td>Infantry</td>
<td>West Virginia Troops, 3rd Regiment</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Paine's (Halbert E.)</td>
<td>Infantry</td>
<td>Wisconsin Troops, 4th Regiment</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Palmer's (Innis N.)</td>
<td>Cavalry</td>
<td>Union Troops, Regulars, 2nd Regiment</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Parker's (William W.)</td>
<td>Artillery</td>
<td>Virginia Troops, Confederate</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Pate's (H. Clay)</td>
<td>Cavalry</td>
<td>Virginia Troops, Confederate, 2nd Battalion</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Patterson's (Francis E.)</td>
<td>Infantry</td>
<td>Pennsylvania Troops, 17th Regiment, Militia</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Patton's (Waller T.)</td>
<td>Infantry</td>
<td>Virginia Troops, Confederate, 7th Regiment</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Paxton's (John C.)</td>
<td>Cavalry</td>
<td>West Virginia Troops, 2nd Regiment</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Pearson's (Alfred L.)</td>
<td>Infantry</td>
<td>Pennsylvania Troops, 155th Regiment</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Pelham's (John)</td>
<td>Artillery</td>
<td>Stuart Horse Artillery, post</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Pelton's (William W.)</td>
<td>Infantry</td>
<td>Vermont Troops, 1st Regiment</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Pemberton's (John C.)</td>
<td>Artillery</td>
<td>Union Troops, Regulars, 4th Regiment, Battery F.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Perkins' (Delavan D.)</td>
<td>Artillery</td>
<td>Union Troops, Regulars, 4th Regiment, Battery F.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Pfau's (Philip)</td>
<td>Cavalry</td>
<td>Ohio Troops, 3rd Company</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Philadelphia City Troop, Cavalry</td>
<td></td>
<td>Pennsylvania Troops.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Porter's (Daniel S.)</td>
<td>Infantry</td>
<td>Pennsylvania Troops, 11th Regiment, Reserves.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Porter's (Josiah)</td>
<td>Infantry</td>
<td>Massachusetts Troops, 25th Regiment</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Poschner's (Frederick)</td>
<td>Infantry</td>
<td>Ohio Troops, 47th Regiment</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Pratt's (George W.)</td>
<td>Infantry</td>
<td>New York Troops, 20th Regiment (Militia)</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>President's Mounted Guard, Cavalry</td>
<td></td>
<td>District of Columbia Troops.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Preston's (Robert T.)</td>
<td>Infantry</td>
<td>Virginia Troops, Confederate, 58th Regiment</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Prevost's (Charles M.)</td>
<td>Infantry</td>
<td>Pennsylvania Troops, 118th Regiment</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Price's (R. Butler)</td>
<td>Cavalry</td>
<td>Pennsylvania Troops, 2nd Regiment</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Pride's (William G.)</td>
<td>Heavy Artillery</td>
<td>Connecticut Troops, 1st Regiment.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Purdy's (Lovell, Jr.)</td>
<td>Infantry</td>
<td>New York Troops, 74th Regiment</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Purnell Legion, Cavalry</td>
<td></td>
<td>Maryland Troops, Union.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Randol's (Alanson M.)</td>
<td>Artillery</td>
<td>Union Troops, Regulars, 1st Regiment, Battery E.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Randolph's (George E.)</td>
<td>Artillery</td>
<td>Rhode Island Troops, 1st Regiment, Battery E.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Ransom's (Dunbar R.)</td>
<td>Artillery</td>
<td>Union Troops, Regulars, 5th Regiment, Battery C.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Regan's (Peter C.)</td>
<td>Artillery</td>
<td>New York Troops, 7th Battery</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Reynolds' (Alexander W.)</td>
<td>Infantry</td>
<td>Virginia Troops, Confederate, 50th Regiment</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Reynolds' (William H.)</td>
<td>Artillery</td>
<td>Rhode Island Troops, 1st Regiment, Battery A.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Richards' (Thomas S.)</td>
<td>Cavalry</td>
<td>Pennsylvania Troops, 1st Regiment</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Richardson's (John B.)</td>
<td>Artillery</td>
<td>Washington Artillery Battalion, post, 2d Battery.</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>
Richmond Fayette Artillery. See Virginia Troops, Confederate.

Richmond Howitzers, Artillery. See Virginia Troops, Confederate.

Ricketts' (James B.) Artillery. See Union Troops, Regulars, 1st Regiment, Battery I.

Ricketts' (R. Bruce) Artillery. See Pennsylvania Troops, 1st Regiment, Battery F.

Rigby's (Silas F.) Artillery. See Wilder Artillery, post.

Roberts' (R. Biddle) Infantry. See Pennsylvania Troops, 1st Regiment, Reserves.

Robertson's (James M.) Artillery. See Union Troops, Regulars, 2d Regiment, Batteries B and L.

Robertson's (William B.) Infantry. See New Jersey Troops, 24th Regiment.

Robinson's (John C.) Infantry. See Michigan Troops, 1st Regiment.

Robinson's (Lucius N.) Artillery. See Ohio Troops, 1st Regiment, Battery L.

Robinson's (O'Neil W., jr.) Artillery. See Maine Troops, 4th Battery.

Rockbridge Artillery. See Virginia Troops, Confederate.

Rockwell's (Alfred P.) Artillery. See Connecticut Troops, 1st Battery.

Rodgers' (William B.) Infantry. See Pennsylvania Troops, 140th Regiment.

Rodman's (Daniel C.) Infantry. See Connecticut Troops, 7th Regiment.

Roemer's (Jacob) Artillery. See New York Troops, 54th Battery.

Rogers' (Arthur L.) Artillery. See Loudoun Artillery, ante.

Rogers' (George) Infantry. See Union Troops, Colored, 4th Regiment.

Roscero's (Thomas L.) Artillery. See Washington Artillery Battalion, post, 2d Battery.

Roundheads, Infantry. See Pennsylvania Troops, 100th Regiment.

Rowe's (D. Watson) Infantry. See Pennsylvania Troops, 120th Regiment.

Rowley's (Thomas A.) Infantry. See Pennsylvania Troops, 13th Regiment (Militia).

Ruger's (George W.) Infantry. See New York Troops, 61st Regiment.

Schaeffer's (Frank B.) Infantry. See Virginia Troops, Confederate, 1st Regiment.

Shearer's (John C.) Infantry. See Kentucky Troops, Union.

Shearer's (Seth J.) Artillery. See Pennsylvania Troops, 55th Regiment.

Shepard's (David L.) Infantry. See Massachusetts Troops, 4th Regiment (Militia).

Sherman's (Oliver L.) Infantry. See Union Troops, Regulars, 2d and 3d Regiments.

Sisson's (Henry T.) Infantry. See Rhode Island Troops, 5th Regiment.
Skinner's (Frederick G.) Infantry. See Virginia Troops, Confederate, 1st Regiment.

Sloan's (John B. E.) Infantry. See South Carolina Troops, 4th Regiment.

Smead's (John R.) Infantry. See District of Columbia Troops, 5d Battalion (Militia); also Union Troops, Regulars, 6th Regiment, Artillery, Battery K.

Smith's (Gaines C.) Infantry. See Alabama Troops, Confederate, 9th Regiment.

Smith's (James M.) Infantry. See Georgia Troops, Confederate, 13th Regiment.

Smith's (Jonathan P.) Infantry. See Pennsylvania Troops, 10th Regiment, Reserves.

Smith's (Stephen E.) Cavalry. See Pennsylvania Troops, 5th Regiment.

Smith's (William) Infantry. See Virginia Troops, Confederate, 49th Regiment.

Smith's (William S.) Infantry. See Ohio Troops, 13th Regiment.

Snow's (Alonzo) Artillery. See Maryland Troops, Union, Battery B.

Sparta Greys, Infantry. See Virginia Troops, Confederate, 30th Regiment.

Spanlding's (Ira) Engineers. See New York Troops, 50th Regiment.

Speakman's (Franklin B.) Infantry. See Pennsylvania Troops, 133d Regiment.

Spear's (George C.) Infantry. See Pennsylvania Troops, 61st Regiment.

Speer's (Abraham) Infantry. See New Jersey Troops, 2d Regiment (Militia).

Spofford's (Winslow P.) Infantry. See Maine Troops, 11th Regiment.

Spratt's (Joseph) Artillery. See New York Troops, 1st Regiment, Battery H.

Squires' (Charles W.) Artillery. See Washington Artillery Battery, post, 1st Battery.

Stainbrook's (Henry J.) Infantry. See Pennsylvania Troops, 109th Regiment.

Stanard's (Robert C.) Artillery. See Richmond Howitzers, ante, 5d Company.

Starkweather's (John C.) Infantry. See Wisconsin Troops, 1st Regiment (Militia).

Staunton Artillery. See Virginia Troops, Confederate.

Stevens' (Carl) Infantry. See New York Troops, 13th Regiment.

Stevens' (Aaron F.) Infantry. See Rhode Island Troops, 11th Regiment.

Stevenson's (James M.) Artillery. See Cape Fear Artillery Battery, post.

Stewart's (Robert R.) Cavalry. See Indiana Troops.

Stockton's (Charles H.) Artillery. See Washington Artillery Battery, post, 3d Battery.

Stockton's (Thomas B. W.) Infantry. See Michigan Troops, 18th Regiment.

Stoughton's (Homer R.) Sharpshooters. See Union Troops, Volunteers, 2d Regiment.

Strange's (John B.) Infantry. See Virginia Troops, Confederate, 18th Regiment.

Stribling's (Robert M.) Artillery. See Fauquier Artillery Battery, post.

Stuart's (Charles) Engineers. See New York Troops, 50th Regiment.

Stuart Horse Artillery. See Virginia Troops, Confederate.

Stuart's (William D.) Infantry. See Virginia Troops, Confederate, 56th Regiment.

Stumbaugh's (Frederick S.) Infantry. See Pennsylvania Troops, 3d Regiment (Militia).

Surry Artillery. See Virginia Troops, Confederate.

Swain's (James B.) Cavalry. See New York Troops, 9th Regiment.

Taft's (Elijah D.) Artillery. See New York Troops, 5th Battery.

Talley's (William C.) Infantry. See Pennsylvania Troops, 1st Regiment, Reserves.

Tammey Regiment, Infantry. See New York Troops, 42d Regiment.

Tappan's (Mason W.) Infantry. See New Hampshire Troops, 1st Regiment (Militia).

Tapper's (Thomas F. B.) Infantry. See Pennsylvania Troops, 4th Regiment, Reserves.

Taylor's (George W.) Infantry. See New Jersey Troops, 3d Regiment.

Terry's (William R.) Cavalry. See Virginia Troops, Confederate, 2d Regiment; also 24th Regiment, Infantry.

Thistleton's (George) Infantry. See District of Columbia Troops, 5th Battalion (Militia).
Thomas' (George H.) Cavalry. See Union Troops, Regulars, 2d Regiment.

Thompson's (James) Artillery. See Pennsylvania Troops, Battery C.

Thompson's (James) Artillery. See Union Troops, Regulars, 2d Regiment, Battery G.

Thompson's (John) Infantry. See Connecticut Troops, 7th Regiment.

Thornton's (Francis) Infantry. See Virginia Troops, Confederate, 36th Regiment.

Tidball's (John C.) Artillery. See Union Troops, Regulars, 2d Regiment, Battery A.

Tilden's (Charles W.) Infantry. See Maine Troops, 16th Regiment.

Tillson's (Davis) Artillery. See Maine Troops, 2d Battery.

Tippin's (Andrew H.) Infantry. See Pennsylvania Troops, 68th Regiment.

Todd's (Lemuel) Infantry. See Pennsylvania Troops, 1st Regiment, Reserves.

Tompkins (Charles H.) Artillery. See Rhode Island Troops, 1st Battery.

Towers' (Lemuel) Infantry. See District of Columbia Troops, 4th Battalion (Militia).

Townsend's (Frederick) Infantry. See New York Troops, 3d Regiment.

Travers' (George W.) Infantry. See New York Troops, 46th Regiment.

Tremlett's (Henry M.) Infantry. See Massachusetts Troops, 39th Regiment.

Tripp's (Porter D.) Infantry. See Massachusetts Troops, 11th Regiment.

Truax's (William S.) Infantry. See New Jersey Troops, 14th Regiment.

Tucker's (James) Infantry. See Massachusetts Troops, 25th Regiment.

Tyler's (Erastus B.) Infantry. See Ohio Troops, 7th Regiment.

Tyler's (Robert O.) Heavy Artillery. See Connecticut Troops, 1st Regiment.

Van Renselaer's (Walter A.) Infantry. See New York Troops, 80th Regiment.

Vaughn's (Thomas F.) Artillery. See Rhode Island Troops, 1st Regiment, Battery B.

Voris' (Alvin C.) Infantry. See Ohio Troops, 67th Regiment.

Voss' (Arno) Cavalry. See Illinois Troops, 12th Regiment.

Walker's (Elijah) Infantry. See Maine Troops, 4th Regiment.

Walker's (Joseph) Engineers. See New York Troops, 1st Regiment.

Walker's (William A.) Infantry. See Massachusetts Troops, 27th Regiment.

Wallace's (John M.) Infantry. See Indiana Troops, 12th Regiment.

Wallace's (Lew.) Infantry. See Indiana Troops, 11th Regiment.

Walsh's (James W.) Cavalry. See Pennsylvania Troops, 3d Regiment.

Walton's (James B.) Artillery. See Washington Artillery Battalion, post.

War's (George T.) Infantry. See Florida Troops, Confederate, 2d Regiment.

Waring's (J. Fred.) Cavalry. See Virginia Troops, Confederate, 6th Regiment.

Warner's (Adoniram J.) Infantry. See Pennsylvania Troops, 10th Regiment (Reserves).

Warren's (James M.) Infantry. See Alabama Troops, Confederate, 9th Regiment.

Washburn's (Francis) Cavalry. See Massachusetts Troops, 4th Regiment.

Washburn's (Peter T.) Infantry. See Vermont Troops, 1st Regiment.

Washington Artillery Battalion. See Louisiana Troops, Confederate.

Watson's (David) Artillery. See Richmond Howitzers, ante, 2d Company.

Wead's (Frederick F.) Infantry. See New York Troops, 98th Regiment.

Weber's (Fletcher) Infantry. See Massachusetts Troops, 12th Regiment.

Weed's (Stephen H.) Artillery. See Union Troops, Regulars, 5th Regiment, Battery I.

Weeden's (William B.) Artillery. See Rhode Island Troops, 1st Regiment, Battery C.

Weld's (Horace N.) Cavalry. See Massachusetts Troops, 5th Regiment (Colored).

West's (George W.) Infantry. See Maine Troops, 17th Regiment.
West Point Battery. See Union Troops, Regulars.
West's (Robert M.) Cavalry. See Pennsylvania Troops, 5th Regiment.
West's (William A.) Cavalry. See West Virginia Troops.
Wheat's (Chatham R.) Infantry. See Louisiana Troops, Confederate, 1st Battalion, Special.
White's (Charles A.) Cavalry. See Pennsylvania Troops, 13th Regiment.
White's (Henry A.) Cavalry. See Pennsylvania Troops, 13th Regiment.
White's (John H.) Infantry. See Virginia Troops, Confederate, 46th Regiment.
Wild Artillery. See Indiana Troops.
Wilkins' (Edward) Infantry. See Maryland Troops, Union, 2d Regiment, Eastern Shore.
Willox's (Orlando B.) Infantry. See Michigan Troops, 1st Regiment (Militia).
Williams' (Lewis B., jr.) Infantry. See Virginia Troops, Confederate, 1st Regiment.
William's (Robert) Cavalry. See Massachusetts Troops, 1st Regiment.
Williamsburg Artillery. See Virginia Troops, Confederate.
Williston's (Edward B.) Artillery. See Union Troops, Regulars, 2d Regiment, Battery D.
Wilmington Light Infantry. See North Carolina Troops, Confederate, 30th Regiment (Militia).
Wilmington Rifle Guards, Infantry. See North Carolina Troops, Confederate, 30th Regiment (Militia).
Wilson's (Henry) Infantry. See Massachusetts Troops, 22d Regiment.
Wilson's (Lewis) Infantry. See Ohio Troops, 2d Regiment (3 months).
Wilson's (William) Infantry. See Pennsylvania Troops, 81st Regiment.
Wise Artillery. See Virginia Troops, Confederate.
Wisewell's (Moses N.) Infantry. See New Jersey Troops, 28th Regiment.
Witcher's (John S.) Cavalry. See West Virginia Troops, 5d Regiment.
Withers' (Robert E.) Infantry. See Virginia Troops, Confederate, 18th Regiment.
Woodhouse's (Levi) Heavy Artillery. See Connecticut Troops, 1st Regiment.
Woodward's (John J.) Infantry. See Alabama Troops, Confederate, 10th Regiment.
Wright's (Elias) Infantry. See Union Troops, Colored, 1st Regiment.
Wyndham's (Percy) Cavalry. See New Jersey Troops, 1st Regiment.
Yeager's (Thomas) Infantry. See Pennsylvania Troops, 21st Regiment (Militia).
Yohe's (Samuel) Infantry. See Pennsylvania Troops, 1st Regiment (Militia).
Young's (William H.) Kentucky Cavalry. See Pennsylvania Troops, 3d Regiment.
Ziegle's (Thomas A.) Infantry. See Pennsylvania Troops, 10th Regiment (Militia).
Zouaves D'Afrique, Infantry. See Pennsylvania Troops.
INDEX.

Brigades, Divisions, Corps, Armies, and improvised organizations are “Mentioned” under name of commanding officer; State and other organizations under their official designation. (See Alternate Designations, pp. 1293–1307.)

Abbott, Henry L. Mentioned .................................... 61, 253, 413, 644, 1144
Abbott, ______. Mentioned ...................................... 593, 610
Abbott, Joseph C. Mentioned .................................... 1232, 1234, 1238, 1245
Report of operations on the south side of James River, Va., May 4–June 2, 1864 ................................................................. 1238
Abbott, Robert O. Mentioned .................................... 790
Abel, William H. Mentioned ..................................... 1255
Abercrombie, John J.
Assignments to command .......................................... 472, 879, 1007
Correspondence with
Banks, Nathaniel P .................................................. 576
Heintzelman, Samuel P ............................................ 1038
McClellan, George B ................................................. 780, 786, 793
Stannard, George J .................................................. 1037
Mentioned ................................................................. 65, 66, 68, 69, 242, 406, 418, 429, 472, 563, 574, 676, 775, 779, 780, 806, 813, 814, 879, 885, 889, 897, 951, 962, 995, 1007, 1008
Abert, James W. Mentioned ....................................... 428
Abert, William S. Mentioned .................................... 776, 819
Abraham, Isaac M. Mentioned ...................................... 1167
Abrams, Charles. Mentioned ....................................... 1260
Aby, Samuel Y. Mentioned ........................................ 40
Acker, George S. Mentioned ....................................... 629
Acker, Hobart G. Mentioned ...................................... 1278
Adam, L. A. Mentioned ............................................. 1385
Adams, Charles F., Jr. Mentioned ............................... 243
Adams, Fort, R. I. Measures for protection of Communication from Governor of Rhode Island ................................................. 310
Adjutant-General’s Office, U. S. A.
Correspondence with
Banks, Nathaniel P .................................................. 582, 607
Du Pont, Henry ....................................................... 341
Ferry, Orris S. ......................................................... 707
Graham, Lawrence P ............................................... 308
Holmes, Theophilus H .............................................. 316
Hunt, Henry J ........................................................ 309, 310
Kelley, Benjamin F .................................................. 1140
Keyes, Erasmus D .................................................... 892
McClellan, George B ................................................. 339

(1309)
<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Adjutant-General's Office, U. S. A. — Continued.</th>
<th>Page</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Correspondence with</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>McDowell, Irvin</td>
<td>322, 324, 570</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Miles, Dixon S</td>
<td>764</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Porter, Fitz John</td>
<td>345</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Rosecrans, William S</td>
<td>513, 518</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Schenck, Robert C</td>
<td>981</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Ward, William G</td>
<td>761</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Orders, General, series 1861</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>No. 9, 322; No. 86, 491; No. 100, 506.</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Orders, General, series 1863</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>No. 160, 1042.</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Orders, Special, series 1861</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>No. 102, 323; No. 146, 385.</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Orders, Special, series 1862</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>No. 20, 520; No. 38, 534; Nos. 60, 61, 556.</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>No. 80, 571; No. 145, 699; No. 149, 712; No. 157, 718; No. 168, 725; No. 173, 728; No. 198, 748; No. 221, 785; No. 314, 894; Nov. 7, 937.</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Orders, Special, series 1863</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>No. 141, 996; No. 186, 1009; No. 201, 1098; No. 277, 1092; No. 288, 1069; No. 302, 1072; No. 384, 1085; No. 393, 1098; No. 465, 1104; No. 484, 1111; No. 504, 1122; No. 554, 1134; No. 571, 1136.</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Orders, Special, series 1864</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>No. 59, 1143; No. 70, 1146; No. 118, 1151; No. 123, 1152; No. 135, 1154; No. 141, 1155; No. 155, 1159; No. 209, 1167; Nos. 215, 226, 1169; No. 251, 1178; No. 332, 1186; No. 432, 1192.</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Orders, Special, series 1865</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>No. 98, 1202; No. 304, 1217.</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Adney, William H. G. Mentioned.</td>
<td>54, 55</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>A. H. Bowman, Steamer. Mentioned.</td>
<td>624</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Alabama Troops. Mentioned. (Confederate.)</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Infantry—Regiments: 5th, 20; 9th, 91-96; 10th, 91, 92, 94, 95, 719; 11th, 719.</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Albee, Alfred. Mentioned.</td>
<td>1277</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Albrecht, Jacob. Mentioned.</td>
<td>1281</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Alburtis, Ephraim G. Mentioned.</td>
<td>35</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Alden, Alonzo. Mentioned.</td>
<td>1240, 1266, 1268</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Aldie, Va. Action at, June 17, 1863. Communication from George G. Meade. 1061</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Alexander, A. C. Mentioned.</td>
<td>694</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Alexander, Andrew J. Mentioned.</td>
<td>946</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>For correspondence as A. A. A. G., see George Stoneman and Alfred Pleasonton.</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Alexander, Barton S.</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Correspondence with</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Barnard, John G</td>
<td>664, 670, 688, 691</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>McClellan, George B</td>
<td>648, 751</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Mentioned.</td>
<td>497, 626, 650, 669</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Alexander, Charles M.</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Correspondence with Fitz John Porter</td>
<td>891</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Mentioned.</td>
<td>801</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Alexander, Frederic W. Mentioned</td>
<td>1172, 1174</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Alexander, Lamin. Mentioned.</td>
<td>694</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Alexandria, Va., Commanding Officer at.</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Correspondence with George B. McClellan</td>
<td>778</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Alice Price, Steamer. Mentioned.</td>
<td>631</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Allabach, Peter H.</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Correspondence with</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Clark, John B</td>
<td>158</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>
INDEX.

Allabach, Peter H.—Continued.
Correspondence with
McClellan, George B. .................................................. 778
Pearson, Alfred L ......................................................... 159
Shaut, William B ......................................................... 158
Speckman, Franklin B ..................................................... 159
Mentioned ................................................................. 157, 158, 776, 777, 799, 825, 832

Reports of Maryland Campaign, Sept. 3–20, 1862 .................................................. 157

Allen, John. Mentioned ................................................ 50
Allen, Edward S. Mentioned ............................................. 1094, 1096, 1097
Allen, E. J. For correspondence, etc., see Allan Pinkerton ....
Allen, Ieovia. Mentioned ............................................. 1277
Allen, Newell B. Mentioned ............................................. 871
Allen, Samuel H. ............................................................
Correspondence with
McDowell, Irvin ......................................................... 734
Schenck, Robert C ......................................................... 962
Mentioned ...................................................................... 558, 744, 828, 833, 968

Allen, Thomas S. Mentioned ............................................ 181-183
Allen, William H. Mentioned ............................................ 1230
Allen's Farm, Va. Engagement at, June 29, 1862. See Peach Orchard, Va.
Allison, William. Mentioned ............................................. 156
Alvord, Corydon A. Mentioned ........................................... 866
 Ames, Adelbert. Mentioned ............................................. 723, 801, 1013, 1047, 1200, 1232, 1234–1236, 1244, 1246, 1250, 1258, 1259, 1265–1267

Ames, John W. Mentioned ............................................... 265
Amick, Levi. Mentioned .................................................... 55
Amory, Charles B. Mentioned ........................................... 1246
Amory, Thomas J. C. Correspondence with John A. Dix ........
Anderson, George. Mentioned .......................................... 193
Anderson, Hiram, jr. Mentioned ....................................... 1249
Anderson, John. Mentioned ............................................. 1279
Anderson, Joseph R. Mentioned ............................................
Anderson, Richard H. ...................................................
Mentioned ...................................................................... 87, 90, 92, 93, 245, 247–249, 1209

Report of campaign from the Rapidan to James River, Va., May 4–June 12, 1864 .................................................. 248
Anderson, Robert. Mentioned ........................................ 149, 151–153, 379, 386, 455, 461
Anderson, Thomas C. Mentioned ....................................... 1194 Andrew, John A. For correspondence, etc., see Massachusetts, Governor of.
Andrews, Clinton M. Mentioned ........................................ 272
Andrews, Edward W. Mentioned ........................................... 638
Andrews, George L. ............................................................
Assignments to command ................................................ 876, 893
Mentioned ...................................................................... 875, 876, 893
Andrews, Jerome D. Mentioned ......................................... 1281
Andrews, Lorin. Mentioned .................................................. 19, 13, 15, 1229
INDEX.

Andrews, R. Snowden. Mentioned ................................................. 188, 193
Andrews, William S. Mentioned .............................................. 621, 969, 970
Andross, Dudley K. Mentioned ................................................. 3, 5
Angle, The, or The Salient, Va. Combat at, May 12, 1864, see report of Merrill, p. 234.

Annapolis, Department of. Union troops in. Organization, strength, etc., June 19, 1861 .......................................................... 405

Anthony, Joseph.
Correspondence with Edgar M. Gregory ........................................ 160
Mentioned ................................................................................. 160

Antietam, Md. Battle of, Sept. 16–17, 1862. Communications from Caldwell, John C ................................................................. 866
Cox, Jacob D .................................................................................. 870
McClellan, George B ..................................................................... 842–845
Porter, Fitz John ........................................................................... 843

See also reports of Duryea, Abram, p. 140.

Applegate, Edwin F. Mentioned .................................................. 951
Appleton, Samuel. For correspondence as A. D. C., see John J. Abercrombie.

Appomattox Campaign, March 29–April 9, 1865. See Fire Forks, Va. Battle of, April 1, 1865; Petersburg, Va. Assault upon, etc., April 2, 1865.

Apps, George E. Mentioned ....................................................... 195, 231, 232

Aquia Creek Landing, Va. Defenses of. Communications from Cyrus B. Comstock ................................................................. 979, 985

Arago, Steamer. Mentioned ....................................................... 725
Archer, J. J. Mentioned ............................................................. 318
Ariel, Steamer. Mentioned .......................................................... 717
Armistead, Lewis A. Mentioned .................................................. 174

Arms and Ammunition. See Munitions of War.

Armstrong, John. Mentioned ..................................................... 1279

Army Corps, 1st.
Briggs, Henry S., assigned to command of 1st Division of .................. 1084
Cutler, Lysander. Assigned to command of 1st Division of .................. 1091
Relieved from command of 1st Division of .................................... 1121

Doubleday, Abner. Assigned to command of 3d Division of .................. 974
Assumes temporary command of .............................................. 1043

Gibbon, John, assigned to command of 2d Division of ....................... 922
Hatch, John P., relieved from duty with ........................................ 562
Meredith, Solomon, assigned to command of 1st Division of ............... 1121
Newton, John, assigned to command of ......................................... 1066
Paul, Gabriel R., assumes command of 1st Division of ...................... 803, 888
<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Army Corps, 1st—Continue...</th>
<th>Page</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Rice, James C., assigned to command of 2d Brigade, 1st Division of</td>
<td>1091</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Sigel, Franz, assigned to command of</td>
<td>710</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Strength of</td>
<td>Communication from George B. McClellan</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Wadsworth, James S., assumes command of 1st Division of</td>
<td>965, 991</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Army Corps, 2d.</th>
<th></th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Barlow, Francis C., assigned to command of 2d Division of</td>
<td>1211</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Caldwell, John C., resumes command of 1st Division of</td>
<td>1139</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Couch, Darius N., assumes command of</td>
<td>1045</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Hancock, Winfield S., resigns command of</td>
<td>1139</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Recommendations for promotion in. Communication from Edwin V. Sumner</td>
<td>682</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Report of operations, July 1, 1863–June 30, 1864. Richard N. Batchelder</td>
<td>1219</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Warren, Gouverneur K., assigned to command of</td>
<td>1084, 1139</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Army Corps, 3d.</th>
<th></th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Birney, David B., assigned to command of 1st Division of</td>
<td>946</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Carr, Joseph B., assumes command of 2d Division of</td>
<td>1153</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Recommendations for promotion in. Communications from Daniel E. Sickles</td>
<td>1036, 1040</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Sickles, Daniel E., assumes command of</td>
<td>987</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Stoneman, George. Assumes command of</td>
<td>946</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Relinquishes command of</td>
<td>983</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Army Corps, 4th.</th>
<th></th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Casey, Silas, relieved from command of division of</td>
<td>692</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Recommendations for promotion in. Communication from Erasmus D. Keyes</td>
<td>892</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Army Corps, 5th.</th>
<th></th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Butterfield, Daniel, assumes command of 1st Division of</td>
<td>909</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Griffin, Charles, assumes command of 1st Division of</td>
<td>947</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Hooker, Joseph, assumes command of</td>
<td>945</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Morell, George W., relieved from duty with</td>
<td>908</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Porter, Fitz John, assumes command of</td>
<td>619</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Recommendations for promotion in. Communications from Butterfield, Daniel</td>
<td>959</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Morrow, Henry A</td>
<td>1203</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Porter, Fitz John</td>
<td>721, 722, 728, 863, 864, 866, 867, 883, 891</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Reynolds, John F., assumes command of division of</td>
<td>752</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Stoneman, George, assigned to command of Kearny's division</td>
<td>830</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Whipple, Amiel W., assigned to command of division of</td>
<td>799</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Army Corps, 6th.</th>
<th></th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Ferry, Henry D., assigned to command of 3d Division of</td>
<td>1083</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Franklin, William B., assumes command of</td>
<td>628</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Getty, George W., assigned to command of 2d Division of</td>
<td>1152</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Recommendations for promotion in. Communication from Lewis A. Grant</td>
<td>1193</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Sedgwick, John, assumes command of</td>
<td>982</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Army Corps, 9th.</th>
<th></th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Bartlett, Joseph J., assigned to command of 2d Division of</td>
<td>1216</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Crook, George, assigned to command of Kanawha Division</td>
<td>874</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Curtin, John I., assigned to temporary command of 1st Division of</td>
<td>1197</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Recommendations for promotion in. Communication from John G. Parke</td>
<td>1188</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Army Corps, 11th.</th>
<th></th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Recommendations for promotion in. Communications from Oliver O. Howard</td>
<td>1041, 1049</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

83 & R—VOL LI, PT I
INDEX.

1314

Army Corps, 11th—Continued.
Reorganization of ................................................. 895
Schurz, Carl, assigned to command of 3d Division of ........ 895
Stahel, Julius, assigned to command of 1st Division of ....... 895
Steinwehr, Adolph von, assigned to command of 2d Division of 895

Army Corps, 12th.
Slocum, Henry W., assumes command of ........................ 890
Reorganization of .................................................. 893

Army Corps, 18th.
Badge of Communication from Edward O. C. Ord .................. 1179
Devens, Charles, assigned to temporary command of 1st Division of 1187
Marston, Gilman, relieved from command of 1st Division of .... 1188

Army Corps, 24th. Recommendations for promotion, etc., in Communication from Alfred H. Terry .......... 1200

Army Headquarters.
Correspondence with
Banks, Nathaniel P. .............................................. 405, 426, 433
Biddle, Charles J ................................................ 427
Brown, Harvey .................................................... 312
Burnside, Ambrose E .............................................. 737, 745, 965, 967, 968, 1027
Butler, Benjamin F .............................................. 337, 446, 449
Dimick, Justin ................................................... 326
Dix, John A ....................................................... 424, 426, 432, 433, 439
Geyser, John W .................................................. 427
Graham, Lawrence P .............................................. 354, 355
Harney, William S ................................................ 360
Haupt, Hermann .................................................. 867
Heintzelman, Samuel P ........................................... 328, 403
Humphreys, Andrew A ........................................... 828
Keyes, Erasmus D ................................................. 1002
Lincoln, Abraham ................................................ 337, 339, 409, 497
McDowell, Irvin .................................................. 404, 424, 425
Mansfield, Joseph K. F ......................................... 337, 742
Maryland, Governor of ........................................... 317
Maynadier, William .............................................. 352
Miles, Dixon S ................................................... 800, 819
New York Arsenal, Commanding Officer at ...................... 352
Parke, John G ..................................................... 748
Patterson, Robert ................................................. 337, 351, 390, 392, 412
Pope, John ....................................................... 761
Porter, Fitz John ................................................ 832
Sandford, Charles W .............................................. 327, 372
Schenck, Robert C ................................................. 965, 966, 997, 1010, 1055, 1056
Scott, Thomas A .................................................. 813
State Department, U. S .......................................... 409
Stone, Charles P ................................................ 404, 407, 412
Symington, John ................................................ 357
Thomas, Charles ................................................ 357, 366
Thomas, George H ................................................ 354
Tucker, John ...................................................... 746, 757
War Department, U. S ............................................ 312, 317, 321, 382, 491, 496, 1000
Webster, Fletcher ................................................ 426
Army Headquarters—Continued.

Correspondence with

- Wool, John E. ................................................. 313, 491, 757
- Wynkoop, George C. ............................................. 366

Orders, series 1861: Feb. 12, 314; April 21, 348.

Orders, General, series 1861: No. 13, 430; No. 14, 441; No. 17, 492.

Orders, Special, series 1861: No. 551, 319; No. 58, 320; No. 671, 341; No. 691, 388; No. 931, 392; No. 99, 397; No. 105, 406; No. 109, 407; No. 117, 421; No. 128, 438; No. 139, 453; No. 143, 465; No. 147, 319; No. 148, 473; No. 149, 475; No. 153, 481; No. 154, 482; No. 155, 483; No. 159, 488; No. 160, 490; No. 166, 494.

Army of Occupation. For Orders, Organization, etc., see Ohio, Department of the.

Army Transportation. See Munitions of War.

Arnold, Joseph S. Mentioned ........................................... 1080

Arnold, Richard. Mentioned ........................................... 497, 571, 628

Arrowfield Church, Va. Engagement at, May 9, 1864. See Swift-Creek, Va.

Arthur, Richard B. Mentioned ...................................... 1280

Asch, Myer J. Mentioned .............................................. 127

Ash, Joseph P. Mentioned .............................................. 170

Ashby, Philip B. Report of campaign in Northern Virginia, Aug. 16–Sept. 2, 1862 .................................................. 134

Ashby, Turner. Mentioned .............................................. 576

Aleshofter, George W. Mentioned ...................................... 99

Askew, William. Mentioned ........................................... 53

Athey, William W. Mentioned ......................................... 169

Atkinson, Edmund N. Mentioned ...................................... 208, 209

Atterbury, William. Mentioned ........................................ 7, 140

Report of skirmish at Harper’s Ferry, Va., July 4, 1861 ................ 8

Atwood, Cornelius G. Mentioned ....................................... 1261

Auchmuty, Richard T. Mentioned ..................................... 494

Augur, Christopher C. Assignment to command ......................... 720

Correspondence with

- Hardin, Martin D. .................................................. 1178
- Lowell, Charles R., Jr. ........................................... 1165
- War Department, U. S. ............................................. 1186

Relieved from duty in King’s division, Army of Virginia .................. 718, 720

August, ——. Mentioned ................................................ 71

Ausback, Joseph. Mentioned .......................................... 1279

Austin, ——. Mentioned ............................................... 631

Austin, Albert S. Mentioned .......................................... 945

Austin, Andrew Y. Mentioned ........................................ 1039, 1073

Austin, Warren W. Mentioned ........................................ 1279

Averell, William W. Assignment to command .......................... 715, 716

Correspondence with

- Kelley, Benjamin F. ................................................ 1136, 1137
- McClellan, George B. ............................................... 787, 886, 893, 911
INDEX.

Averell, William W.—Continued.
Correspondence with
Schenck, Robert C .................................................. 1057
Stoneman, George .................................................. 724
Wilson, James H .................................................. 1180
Mentioned ............................................................. 558, 715,

Avery, Martin P. For correspondence as A. A. A. G., see Abia A. Tomlinson.

Ayres, Romeyn B.
Correspondence with
Crawford, Samuel W .................................................. 1084
Sykes, George .................................................. 1062, 1065, 1105, 1118
Mentioned ............................................................. 201, 209, 833, 854, 1033, 1118, 1128, 1161, 1183

Aytoun, J. Fred. Mentioned ........................................... 1201

Babbitt, Charles R.
Correspondence with Frisbie, William .................................................. 860
Kenly, John R .................................................. 859
Mentioned ............................................................. 562, 859

Babbitt, Lawrence S. Mentioned ..................................... 65

Babcock, Orville E.
Correspondence with John G. Barnard ................................. 655
Mentioned ............................................................. 253, 406, 428, 530, 651, 670

Bache, Hartman. Mentioned ........................................... 15

Bacon, Francis. Mentioned ........................................... 275

Bacon, Theodore C. For correspondence as A. A. G., see Wesley Merritt.

Bailey, Benajah P. Mentioned ........................................... 988

Bailey, John W. Mentioned ........................................... 290

Stuart, J. E. B .................................................. 38

Baily, Silas M. Report of Maryland Campaign, Sept. 3–20, 1862 ........................................... 148

Baird, Absalom. Mentioned ........................................... 343, 410, 425

Baird, Edward C. Mentioned ........................................... 482

For correspondence as A. A. G., see Samuel W. Crawford.

Baker, ——. Mentioned ........................................... 606

Baker, Arthur S. Mentioned ........................................... 1255

Baker, Benjamin F. Mentioned ........................................... 181–183, 187

Baker, Edward D.
Correspondence with Charles P. Stone ........................................... 502
Mentioned ............................................................. 46–48, 449, 498, 500, 502

Baker, John P. Mentioned ........................................... 466, 628, 806

Baldwin, A. J. Mentioned ........................................... 1277

Baldwin, Harvey, jr. For correspondence as A. A. A. G., see Julius Stahel.

Baldy, Peter. Report of campaign in Northern Virginia, Aug. 16–Sept. 2, 1862 ........................................... 130

Ball, A. M.
Correspondence with Ordnance Department, U. S. A ........................................... 309
Mentioned ............................................................. 308

Ball, Charles H. Mentioned ........................................... 249

Ball, Dabney. Mentioned ........................................... 38

Ball, Flamen. Mentioned ........................................... 79

Ball, George S. Mentioned ........................................... 782
INDEX.

Ball's Bluff, Va. Engagement at, Oct. 21, 1861. .......................... 502
Communications from
Baker, Edward D .................................................. 502
Lincoln, Abraham .................................................. 498
McClellan, George B ............................................. 499-501
Stone, Charles P .................................................. 498-502
War Department, U. S ......................................... 517
Report of Walter M. Bramhall .................................... 46
Ballier, John F. Mentioned ...................................... 397, 429
Ballinger, John H. Mentioned .................................. 186
Balloon, Steamer. Mentioned .................................. 504
Ballou, Erastus G. Mentioned .................................. 1194
Ballou, Sullivan. Mentioned ................................... 19
Baltimore, Steamer. Mentioned .................................. 330
Baltimore, Md. Occupation of, by Union troops. Communication from Mayor of Baltimore, Md. .................................................. 1275
Baltimore, Md., Mayor of Correspondence with
Butler, Benjamin F ............................................. 1275
Schneck, Robert C .............................................. 1056
Baltimore and Ohio Railroad. Protection and defenses of. Communications from Miles, Dixon S ..................................................... 690, 750, 764, 765, 767
Peirpoint, Francis H ............................................ 692
Wool, John E ...................................................... 689, 711, 713, 742, 747, 753, 764-766
Bamford, Robert C. .............................................
Correspondence with Dixon S. Miles ................................ 766
Mentioned ......................................................... 794
Bamford, Thomas H. Mentioned ................................ 144
Banes, Charles H. Mentioned .................................. 178
Bankhead, Henry C. Mentioned ................................ 1183
Banks, John Earle. Mentioned .................................. 8
Banks, Nathaniel P. ..............................................
Assignments to command ......................................... 455, 796
Correspondence with
Abercrombie, John J ........................................... 576
Adjutant-General's Office, U. S. A ................................ 582, 607
Army Headquarters ............................................. 405, 426, 433
Copeland, R. Morris ........................................... 521
Frémont, John C .................................................. 566
Heintzelman, Samuel P ........................................ 813
Lincoln, Abraham ................................................ 521, 669
McClellan, George B ............................................ 511
516, 518, 520, 524, 526, 529, 531, 534, 535, 539, 544, 549, 560, 561, 563, 576, 810
McDowell, Irvin ................................................... 677
Miles, Dixon S .................................................... 607, 629, 630, 659, 665, 690
Olmsted, Edwin D .............................................. 756
Stone, Charles P .................................................. 436, 466, 490, 501, 502
War Department, U. S ......................................... 568, 569, 585, 606, 610, 619, 623, 676, 692, 706, 710
Mentioned ......................................................... 64, 65, 76, 79, 120, 121, 124,
403, 426, 428, 429, 435, 463, 466, 467, 493, 499-502, 515, 516, 523, 525, 533, 536,
538-541, 547, 551, 558, 560, 562, 563, 568, 571, 582, 586, 589-591, 596, 597, 599,
628-630, 640, 642, 643, 664, 666, 668, 669, 671-674, 710, 718, 720, 726, 732, 747, 752, 756, 790, 796, 805, 806, 808, 810, 818, 821, 823, 834, 836, 849, 850, 855
Staff. Announcement of ......................................... 428
<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Name</th>
<th>Mentioned</th>
<th>Page</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Banning, Henry B.</td>
<td>Correspondence with Dixon S. Miles</td>
<td>785</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>795</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Bannister, Dwight.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>71</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Barber,</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>421</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Barber, Merritt.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>1193</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Barbour,</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>212</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Barbour, Alfred M.</td>
<td>Correspondence with Ordnance Department, U. S. A.</td>
<td>308, 309</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>315</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Barksdale, William.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>190, 191, 1070</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Barlow, Francis C.</td>
<td>Assignments to command</td>
<td>1007, 1134, 1211</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>234-236, 270, 271, 866, 1007, 1134, 1181, 1211</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Barnard, John G.</td>
<td>Assumes command of defenses of Washington</td>
<td>751</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Correspondence with</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Alexander, Barton S.</td>
<td></td>
<td>644, 670, 688, 691</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Babcock, Orville E.</td>
<td></td>
<td>655</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Comstock, Cyrus B.</td>
<td>625, 666, 669, 673, 677, 678, 684, 686</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Delafield, Richard</td>
<td></td>
<td>579</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Duane, James C.</td>
<td></td>
<td>656, 686</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Humphreys, Andrew A.</td>
<td></td>
<td>1144</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Kearny, Philip</td>
<td></td>
<td>681</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>McAllister, Miles D.</td>
<td>630, 635, 649, 658, 663, 667, 678, 683, 689, 690, 692</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>McClellan, George B.</td>
<td>511, 542, 559, 650, 714, 768</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Stewart, C. Seaforth</td>
<td></td>
<td>630, 631, 635</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Williams, Seth</td>
<td></td>
<td>776</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Woodbury, Daniel P.</td>
<td></td>
<td>625</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>61, 341, 413, 428, 510, 540, 542, 647, 652, 761, 781, 813, 825, 830, 1146-1148</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Staff. Announcement of</td>
<td>751</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Barnes, James.</td>
<td>Assignment to command</td>
<td>1169</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Correspondence with George G. Meade</td>
<td>1045, 1048</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>801, 884, 1045, 1047, 1053, 1065, 1139, 1169</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Barnes, Joseph H.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>3, 5</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Barney, Luther L.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>285</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Barnum, Henry A.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>571</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Barrett, William F.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>621</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Barry, William F.</td>
<td>Assignment to duty</td>
<td>455</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>421, 428, 455, 690, 702, 730, 776, 975, 994</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Barstow, Simon F.</td>
<td>Correspondence with</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>McClellan, George B.</td>
<td></td>
<td>544, 545</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Treasury Department, U. S.</td>
<td></td>
<td>546</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>For other correspondence see Irvin McDowell and Joseph Hooker.</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>63–66, 67, 68, 71, 72, 76, 78, 79, 546, 548, 638, 671</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Barstow, Willard.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>1279</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Bartlett, John R.</td>
<td>For correspondence as Sec. of State and Actg. Gov., see Rhode Island, Governor of.</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>
INDEX.

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Name</th>
<th>Page(s)</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Bartlett, Joseph J.</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Assignments to command</td>
<td>1115, 1216</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Correspondence with</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Pearson, Alfred L.</td>
<td>1194</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Sykes, George</td>
<td>1118, 1125, 1128</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>722, 1080, 1115, 1118, 1128, 1216</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Bartlett, Lewis C.</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>For correspondence as A. A. A. G., see Alfred L. Pearson.</td>
<td>221, 222, 1234</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Barton, Seth M.</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>109, 110</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Barton, Thomas B.</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>1189, 1266-1268</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Report of operations about Cold Harbor, Va., May 31–June 12, 1864</td>
<td>1265</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Bartow, Francis S.</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>28, 30</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Bartwich, Franklin</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>1279</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Bascom, Gustavus M.</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>469, 871</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Bass, Captain.</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>684</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Batchelder, George A.</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>619, 909, 947</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Batchelder, Richard N.</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Reports of Operations of 3d Army Corps, July 1, 1863–June 30, 1864</td>
<td>1219</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Richmond, Va., Campaign, June 13–July 31, 1864, and operations to June 30, 1865</td>
<td>256</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Battles, H. A.</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>193, 223, 224, 231, 232</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Bayard, George D.</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Assignment to command</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Correspondence with</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>McClellan, George B.</td>
<td>790, 794, 798, 926, 936, 941</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>McDowell, Irvin</td>
<td>604, 605, 634, 641-643, 733-735, 737, 743, 747</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Schriver, Edmund</td>
<td>668</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>66, 70, 71, 74, 75, 77, 78, 171, 172, 558, 579, 639, 668, 672, 683, 727, 744, 749, 787, 789, 800, 813, 870, 907, 921, 927, 930, 932, 934-936, 938, 939, 946, 1025</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Baylitts, Benjamin J.</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>1276</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Beahen, Michael.</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Report of Richmond, Va., Campaign, June 13–July 31, 1864</td>
<td>271</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Beal, George L.</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Report of battle of Cedar Mountain, Va., Aug. 9, 1862</td>
<td>121</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Beal, Oscar H.</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>184</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Beale, Richard L. T.</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>7</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Bealeton Station, Va., Commanding Officer at.</td>
<td>Correspondence with Oliver O. Howard</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Bean, James.</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>1246</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Bean, William H. S.</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>1189</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Bear, William L.</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>142</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Beardsley, John.</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>922</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>
INDEX.

Beardsley, John D.  Mentioned ........................................ 122
Beardsley, William E.  Mentioned ........................................ 802
Beatty, H. Clay.  Mentioned ........................................ 125
Beaufort, C. S. S.  Mentioned ........................................ 58, 59
Beauregard, G. T.  Mentioned ........................................ 24, 29, 35, 224, 227, 451, 1289
Beaver, James A.  Mentioned ........................................ 1182
Beckham, A. Camp.  Mentioned ........................................ 169
Beckley, Alfred.  Mentioned ........................................ 465, 485
Beckwith, Colonel.  Mentioned ........................................ 805
Beckwith, Amos.  Mentioned ........................................ 323, 335, 343
Beckwith, Edward G.  Mentioned ........................................ 403, 428
Bee, Barnard E.  Mentioned ........................................ 23, 30
Beebe, Dwight.  Mentioned ........................................ 1288
Beeman, Bryan.  Mentioned ........................................ 168
Beers, Edmund O.  Mentioned ........................................ 275
Behan, William J.  Mentioned ........................................ 231, 232
Beitzell, Benjamin F.  Mentioned ........................................ 9
Belger, Edward A.  Mentioned ........................................ 202
Belger, James.
Correspondence with Fitz John Porter ........................................ 349, 360–362
Mentioned ........................................ 329, 348, 361, 363, 365, 366, 584, 886, 908
Belknap, Jonathan S.  Mentioned ........................................ 774
Bell, Frank J.  Mentioned ........................................ 156
Bell, George.
Correspondence with Subsistence Department, U. S. A. ........................................ 711
Mentioned ........................................ 806
Bell, Louis.
Mentioned ........................................ 1247, 1248
Report of assaunts on Petersburg Lines, June 15–18, 1864 ........................................ 1247
Bell, Robert A.  Mentioned ........................................ 167
Bell, William H.  Mentioned ........................................ 378
Bemus, George H.  Mentioned ........................................ 150, 153
Bendix, John E.  Mentioned ........................................ 3, 4, 1230
Benedict, Le Grand.  Mentioned ........................................ 1042
Benham, Henry W.
Assignments to command ........................................ 453, 455
Correspondence with
Cox, Jacob D. ........................................ 445
McClellan, George B. ........................................ 395
Mentioned ........................................ 178, 377, 378, 392, 394, 439, 444, 448, 453, 455, 471, 556, 1015, 1045
Benjamin, Samuel N.  Mentioned ........................................ 723, 781, 1184, 1188
Benkard, James, jr.  Mentioned ........................................ 78
Bennett, ——.  Mentioned ........................................ 581
Bennett, Clifton A.  Mentioned ........................................ 210
Bennett, David A.  Correspondence with Fitz John Porter ........................................ 687
Bennett, Jacob D.  Mentioned ........................................ 1278
Bennett, William W.  Mentioned ........................................ 1279
Benning, Henry L.
Correspondence with Thomas H. Jackson ........................................ 166
Mentioned ........................................ 166
Reports of Fredericksburg, Va.  Battle of, Dec. 11–15, 1862 ........................................ 173
Maryland Campaign, Sept. 3–20, 1862 ........................................ 161
Benson, Henry.  Mentioned ........................................ 729
<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Name</th>
<th>Mentioned</th>
<th>Page</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Benson, Joseph</td>
<td>84</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Benton, James G.</td>
<td>847</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Benton, William P.</td>
<td>9</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Benyaud, William H. H.</td>
<td>274, 275</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Berdan, Hiram</td>
<td>565, 644, 656</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Berger, Otto A.</td>
<td>1280</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Berier, Francis E.</td>
<td>575, 871</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Bermuda Hundred, Va.</td>
<td>320</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Berrian, Hobart</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>567</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>969</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>567, 631, 1037, 1040, 1099</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Berry, Morton</td>
<td>1277</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Berthoud, Alexander P.</td>
<td>951</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Bertolette, John D.</td>
<td>1189</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Best, Clermont L.</td>
<td>119</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>119</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>119</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Bethel Church</td>
<td>796, 1102</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Biddle, Charles J.</td>
<td>472</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>472</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>427</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>613</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>442, 472</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Biddle, George H.</td>
<td>638</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Biddle, Henry J.</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>916</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Biber, Everard</td>
<td>153</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Big Bethel, Va.</td>
<td>3, 1289</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Biggs, Herman</td>
<td>763</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>1289</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Bingham, Henry H.</td>
<td>1208</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>1183</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Binney, Henry M.</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>534, 946</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Birney, David B.</td>
<td>1275</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Assignments to command

- French, William H: 1109
- Hooker, Joseph: 1050
- Humphreys, Andrew A: 1044, 1051, 1053
- Kearny, Philip: 760, 762
- Pleasonton, Alfred: 1054
<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Name</th>
<th>Page(s)</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Birney, David B.</td>
<td>1044</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Birney, William</td>
<td>1146</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Blake, George A. H.</td>
<td>558</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Blood, Henry B.</td>
<td>71, 1211</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Blunt, Asa P.</td>
<td>894</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Boernstein, Augustus S.</td>
<td>267</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Bofinger, Peter</td>
<td>1280</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Bolar, Andrew J.</td>
<td>154</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Bolten, William A.</td>
<td>134</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Bolinger, Henry C.</td>
<td>128, 148</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Bolles, William M.</td>
<td>509</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Bonham, Milledge L.</td>
<td>37</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Bonner, Mortimer</td>
<td>1280</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Bontecou, Lieutenant</td>
<td>485</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Boone, Bartley B.</td>
<td>22</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Index.

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Name</th>
<th>Page(s)</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Randolph, George E.</td>
<td>1044</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Reynolds, John F.</td>
<td>1056</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Sedgwick, John</td>
<td>1070-1072</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Sickles, Daniel E.</td>
<td>999</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Ward, J. H. Hobart</td>
<td>1044, 1071</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>104, 106, 107, 200, 201, 204, 234-236, 271, 274, 534, 646, 648, 760, 878, 946, 995, 1024, 1029, 1033, 1036, 1040, 1050, 1051, 1053, 1064, 1066, 1082, 1088, 1104, 1107, 1108, 1111, 1112, 1120, 1127, 1131, 1142, 1186, 1221, 1248, 1275</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Birney, David B.—Continued.

Correspondence with

- Randolph, George E. .......................................................... 1044
- Reynolds, John F. ............................................................. 1056
- Sedgwick, John ................................................................. 1070-1072
- Sickles, Daniel E. ............................................................ 999
- Ward, J. H. Hobart ........................................................... 1044, 1071
- Mentioned .............................................................................. 104, 106, 107, 200, 201, 204, 234-236, 271, 274, 534, 646, 648, 760, 878, 946, 995, 1024, 1029, 1033, 1036, 1040, 1050, 1051, 1053, 1064, 1066, 1082, 1088, 1104, 1107, 1108, 1111, 1112, 1120, 1127, 1131, 1142, 1186, 1221, 1248, 1275

Birney, William.

- Assignment to command ...................................................... 1146
- Correspondence with Benjamin F. Butler ................................ 1150
- Mentioned .............................................................................. 1146, 1150

Bisgood, Simon. Mentioned .................................................. 5

Bissell, George E. Mentioned ............................................... 183

Blackburn’s Ford, Va. Action at, July 18, 1861. Report of Montgomery D. Corse ................................................................. 33

Blackford, Captain. Mentioned ........................................... 1137

Blackman, Albert M. Mentioned ........................................... 1190

Blackwater, Va. Reconnaissance from Portsmouth to the, April 13-15, 1864.

Communications from

- Butler, Benjamin F ............................................................... 1157
- Heckman, Charles A ............................................................. 1157

Blair, Frank P., jr.

Correspondence with

- Pennsylvania, Governor of .................................................. 350
- War Department, U.S. ......................................................... 350
- Mentioned .............................................................................. 427

Blaladell, William. Mentioned ........................................... 1036, 1040, 1041

Blake, George A. H.

Assignment to command .................................................... 558
- Mentioned .............................................................................. 558

Blake, George S. Mentioned .............................................. 1273, 1275

Blake, John W. Mentioned ................................................ 10

Blenker, Louis.

Assignments to command .................................................... 410, 455, 497
- Correspondence with War Department, U.S. ............................. 572, 575

Blinn, Bradford. Mentioned .............................................. 1279

Blood, Henry B. Mentioned ............................................... 71, 1211

Blunt, Asa P. Mentioned ................................................... 894

Boernstein, Augustus S. Mentioned ...................................... 267

Bofinger, Peter. Mentioned ............................................... 1280

Bolar, Andrew J. Report of Maryland Campaign, Sept. 3-20, 1862 .......................................................... 154

Bolen, William A. Mentioned ............................................ 134

Bolinger, Henry C. Mentioned ........................................... 128, 148

Bolles, William M. Mentioned ........................................... 509

Bonham, Milledge L. Mentioned .......................................... 37

Bonner, Mortimer. Mentioned ............................................ 1280

Bontecou, Lieutenant. Mentioned ....................................... 485

Boone, Bartley B. Mentioned ............................................ 22
INDEX.

Boonsborough, Md.
Battle of, Sept. 14, 1862. See South Mountain, Md. 812

Boonsborough Gap, Md. Battle of, Sept. 14, 1862. See South Mountain, Md. 47, 48

Booth, Francis. Mentioned 1280
Bordsell, Daniel H. Mentioned 951
Borie, Charles. Mentioned 1277
Bosworth, Josiah A. Mentioned 592–594, 599, 871

For correspondence as A. A. G., see Eliakim P. Scammon.

Botsford, James L. Mentioned 812
Booth, Francis. Mentioned 47, 48
Bordsell, Daniel E. Mentioned 1280
Borie, Charles. Mentioned 951
Bowen, Joseph A. Mentioned 1277

For correspondence as A. A. G., see William F. Smith; also Orlando B. Willcox.

Bowers, Henry. Mentioned 1276
Bowers, Henry W. For correspondence as A. A. G., see Daniel P. Woodbury. 276
Bowers, Theodore S. Mentioned 1280
Bowls, Thomas F. Mentioned 53
Bowles, William. Mentioned 624
Bowman, A. H., Steamer. Mentioned 1186
Bowman, Alpheus H. Correspondence with Joseph Roberts 1146
Bowman, Samuel M. Mentioned 294
Boyd, Augustus. Mentioned 428
Boyd, Stewart A. Mentioned 1280

Boynton, William H. Mentioned 1067
Correspondence with Robert C. Schenck 509, 510

Boynton Plank Road, Va. Engagement at, Oct. 27–28, 1864. See reports of Batchelder, p. 258; Smart, p. 278.

Boyle, James H. Mentioned 10
Boyton, William H. Mentioned 3
Bracken, James R. Mentioned 51, 53
Brackett, Albert G. Correspondence with Andrew Porter 358
Brackett, L. Curtis. Mentioned 1188
Brackett, Levi. Mentioned 871
Bradford, Luther. Mentioned 288
Bradford, Thomas C. Mentioned 847
Bradley, George W. Mentioned 251
Bradley, Henry C. Mentioned 1280
Bradley, Lemon W. Mentioned 1143
Bradley, Luther J. Mentioned 621
Bradley, Thomas H. Mentioned 290
Brady, Evans R. Mentioned 153
Brady, James D. Mentioned 302

Brady, Fort. See Fort Brady.
Bragg. Mentioned 384
Bragg, Braxton. Mentioned 250, 1107
Bragg, Edward S. Mentioned 286, 292, 295
Brainerd, Wesley. Mentioned 270, 275, 653
Bramhall, Walter M. Report of engagement at Ball's Bluff, Va., Oct. 21, 1861 46

Boynton, William H. Mentioned 10
Boyston, William H. Mentioned 3
Bracken, James R. Mentioned 51, 53
Brackett, Albert G. Correspondence with Andrew Porter 358
Brackett, L. Curtis. Mentioned 1188
Brackett, Levi. Mentioned 871
Bradford, Luther. Mentioned 288
Bradford, Thomas C. Mentioned 847
Bradley, George W. Mentioned 251
Bradley, Henry C. Mentioned 1280
Bradley, Lemon W. Mentioned 1143
Bradley, Luther J. Mentioned 621
Bradley, Thomas H. Mentioned 290
Brady, Evans R. Mentioned 153
Brady, James D. Mentioned 302

Brady, Fort. See Fort Brady.
Bragg. Mentioned 384
Bragg, Braxton. Mentioned 250, 1107
Bragg, Edward S. Mentioned 286, 292, 295
Brainerd, Wesley. Mentioned 270, 275, 653
Bramhall, Walter M. Report of engagement at Ball's Bluff, Va., Oct. 21, 1861 46
Brandhorst, Frederick. Mentioned ........................................... 1278
Brandt, Charles C. Mentioned .................................................. 53

Brandy Station, Va. Engagements at, June 9, 1863. Communications from Meade, George G .......................................................... 1048
   Pleasonton, Alfred ......................................................... 1047

Brann, L. W. Mentioned ......................................................... 1278

Brannan, John M.
   Assignment to duty .......................................................... 505
   Mentioned ............................................................................ 505, 516
   Relieved from duty with Smith's division, Army of the Potomac .... 516

Brannan, William. Mentioned ................................................... 1246

Braselman, B. L. Mentioned ..................................................... 225

Braslin, Thomas. Mentioned ..................................................... 1278

Braxton, Tomlin. Mentioned ....................................................... 31

Brayton, Thomas P. Mentioned .................................................. 71

Breck, Samuel. Mentioned ......................................................... 63–65, 67, 70, 74, 75, 77–79, 668

For correspondence as A. A. G., see Irvin McDowell.

Brent, George W. Mentioned ..................................................... 34

Brentsville, Va.
   Affair near, Feb. 14, 1864. Reports of Carle, James ............................................................... 212
      Kerwin, Michael .......................................................... 213
   Scout to, from Bristoe Station, March 8, 1864. Report of Andrew H.
      McHenry ........................................................................... 216
   Skirmish at, Jan. 9, 1863. Communication from Charles Candy .... 971

Brestel, Charles. Mentioned ...................................................... 866

Brewer, Major. Mentioned ....................................................... 1225

Brewer, Job. Mentioned ............................................................ 1280

Brewster, Ethan A. P. Mentioned ................................................ 1282

Brewster, Henry. Mentioned ..................................................... 693, 695

Brewster, John. Mentioned ....................................................... 693, 695

Brewster, Mary. Mentioned ....................................................... 695

Brewster, Samuel L., Steamer. Mentioned ..................................... 1145

Bride, James. Mentioned .......................................................... 1196

Briggs, Henry S.
   Assignment to command ........................................................ 1084
   Correspondence with
      Couch, Darius N ................................................................ 84
      Schenck, Robert C .......................................................... 1010, 1064, 1066, 1058
      Truex, William S ........................................................... 1012
   Mentioned ............................................................................ 84, 785, 1074, 1084

Briggs, Smith, Steamer. Mentioned ............................................. 1050

Brigham, Alfred M. Mentioned ................................................... 286

Briner, William. Mentioned ...................................................... 144

Brinton, Joseph P. Mentioned .................................................... 1184

Briscoe, James C. Mentioned .................................................... 1052

Bristol, William M. Mentioned .................................................. 660

Britton, ———. Mentioned ......................................................... 69

Britton, John D. Mentioned ....................................................... 43, 193, 223, 228

Broad, John. Mentioned ........................................................... 1280

Broady, K. Oscar. Mentioned ..................................................... 1182

Brockenbrough, John B. Mentioned ............................................ 36

Brockenbrough, John M. Mentioned ............................................ 6

Broderick, John. Mentioned ...................................................... 1281
INDEX.

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Name</th>
<th>Mentioned</th>
<th>Page</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Brodhead, Thornton F.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>558</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Brolly, David</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>1279</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Brontz, John</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>1276</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Brooke, John R.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>180, 1192</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Brooks, Captain</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>1286</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Brooks, George W.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>9</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Brooks, Thomas B.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>1234, 1243</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Brooks, William T. H.</td>
<td>Correspondence with Schenck, Robert C.</td>
<td>1060</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>1015</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>180–182, 185, 186, 265, 267, 268, 901, 912, 914, 1025, 1029, 1031, 1033, 1164, 1247, 1253, 1254, 1256, 1257, 1259, 1260, 1264</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Report of battle of Cold Harbor, Va., June 1–3, 1864</td>
<td>1248</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Staff, Announcement of</td>
<td>980</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Brown, Charles H. H.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>180</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Brown, Charles O.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>184</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Brown, Clarence S.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>627</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Brown, David</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>186</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Brown, George</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>1097</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Brown, George William</td>
<td>For correspondence, etc., see Baltimore, Md., Mayor of.</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Brown, Harvey</td>
<td>Assignment to command</td>
<td>556</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Correspondence with Army Headquarters</td>
<td>312</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>556</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Orders, series 1861: No. 61, 315; No. 62, 316.</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Brown, Henry K.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>1278</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Brown, Hiram L.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>1182</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Brown, Jacob C.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>1280</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Brown, John</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>1276</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Brown, Nathaniel H.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>285</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Brown, Richard A.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>298, 299, 301, 1228</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Brown, S. Lockwood</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>1097</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Brown, William J.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>1276</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Brown, William R.</td>
<td>Correspondence with Hall, James R.</td>
<td>1139</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Jenkins, Albert G.</td>
<td>176</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Tomlinson, Abia A</td>
<td>1140</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Brubaker, David M.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>123</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Brueyeres, Henry L.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>428</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Bryan, Michael K.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>344</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Bryan, Timothy M., jr.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>994</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Bryant, Henry</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>545</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Bryant, James R. M.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>10</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Buch, James M.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>1277</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Buchanan, Alexander</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>871</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>
INDEX.

Buchanan, James.
Correspondence with War Department, U. S. .......................... 436
Mentioned ......................................................... 311, 314, 427, 435–437

Buchanan, Robert C. Mentioned ........................................ 698, 722, 864, 866, 867

Buck, Benjamin J. Mentioned ............................................ 183

Buck, Samuel L. Mentioned ............................................... 506

Buckingham, Catharinus F. For correspondence, etc., see Ohio, Adjutant-General of. ................................................................. 1326

Buckner, Simon B. Mentioned ............................................... 375

Buddle, William. Mentioned ............................................... 1280

Buell, Clarence. Mentioned ................................................ 73

Buell, Don Carlos.
Assignments to command .................................................. 455, 477, 479
Mentioned ................................................................. 455, 477, 479, 494, 496, 503, 525, 541, 1098

Relieved from command of division, Army of the Potomac .......... 503

Buffington Island, Ohio River. Engagement near, July 19, 1863. See report of Hayes, p. 207.

Buford, John.
Correspondence with
McClellan, George B ..................................................... 787, 797
McDowell, Irvin .......................................................... 762
Pleasonton, Alfred ....................................................... 1121
Reno, Jesse L ............................................................. 745, 749, 750
Reynolds, John F ........................................................ 1065

Mentioned ................................................................. 121, 249,
740, 789, 797, 800, 801, 813, 878, 877, 1054, 1102, 1110, 1116, 1117, 1121, 1124

Bull, S. Octavius. Mentioned .............................................. 204

Bullard, Willard. Mentioned ............................................... 204

July 21, 1861.
Casualties. Returns of Union Troops .................................. 17–19

Reports of Cocke, Philip St. George .................................................... 24
Gorman, Willis A ......................................................... 20, 23
Jones, Joseph P .......................................................... 32
Martin, Henry P ........................................................ 23
Pendleton, William N .................................................... 34, 35

Sketch ................................................................. 26

Aug. 30, 1862. See reports of Bull Run, Va., Campaign, July 16–22, 1861. Communication from Irvin

McDowell ................................................................. 419

See also Blackburn's Ford, Bull Run, and Fairfax Court-House.

Bunting, Thomas B. Mentioned ............................................. 48

Burbank, Elisha. Mentioned ................................................. 140, 141

Burbank, Sidney. Mentioned ............................................. 333, 375, 380

Burgess, Colonel. Mentioned ............................................. 610

Burk, John A. Mentioned .................................................. 1278

Burke, John. Mentioned .................................................. 522

Burke, John T. Mentioned .................................................. 189

Burke, Martin. Mentioned .................................................. 557
<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Name</th>
<th>Page</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Burke's Station, Va. Scout to vicinity of, Jan. 17, 1862. See Springfield and Burke's Stations, Va.</td>
<td>1367</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Skirmish near, Dec. 4, 1861. Communications from Field, Charles W.</td>
<td>50</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Stuart, J. E. B.</td>
<td>50</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Reports of Taylor, George W.</td>
<td>49</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Waring, J. Fred.</td>
<td>49</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Burkhart, Albert W. Mentioned</td>
<td>1276</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Burks, Richard H. Mentioned</td>
<td>802</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Burling, George C. Congratulatory Orders</td>
<td>1066</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>1066</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Burham, George H. Mentioned</td>
<td>70</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Burham, George S. Mentioned</td>
<td>879</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Burham, George W. Mentioned</td>
<td>183, 184</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Burnham, Hiram. Correspondence with John Sedgwick</td>
<td>183</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>180, 182, 184–187, 1248–1251, 1260</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Report of Chancellorsville, Va., Campaign, April 27–May 6, 1863</td>
<td>180</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Burnham, S. W. Mentioned</td>
<td>1280</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Burns, Hugh W. Mentioned</td>
<td>1278</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Burns, William W. Assignment to duty</td>
<td>503</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>108, 109, 373, 503, 529, 1033</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Burnside, Ambrose B. Assignments to command</td>
<td>409, 462, 469</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Correspondence with Army Headquarters</td>
<td>737, 745, 955, 957, 958, 1027</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Comstock, Cyrus B.</td>
<td>954, 977</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Ferrero, Edward</td>
<td>1159</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Franklin, William B</td>
<td>1021, 1027</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Hardie, James A.</td>
<td>1023–1025, 1030, 1031</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>McClellan, George B</td>
<td>515, 674, 676, 721, 758, 759, 767, 782, 785, 801, 802, 809, 817, 818, 822, 823, 827, 836–838, 844, 848, 855, 896, 920, 921, 933, 938</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Myer, Albert J.</td>
<td>586</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Porter, Fitz John</td>
<td>759, 763</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Schenck, Robert C.</td>
<td>1019</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Sigel, Franz</td>
<td>962</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Stevenson, Thomas G.</td>
<td>1161</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>War Department, U. S.</td>
<td>667, 673, 676, 690, 696, 724</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Wilcox, Orlando B.</td>
<td>902, 943, 1161</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Testimony of Battle of Fredericksburg, Va., Dec. 11–15, 1862</td>
<td>1030, 1031</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Burnsides, John. Mentioned</td>
<td>1277</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Burpee, Thomas F. Mentioned</td>
<td>1249</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Burton, John C. Mentioned</td>
<td>1226</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Burton, William. Mentioned</td>
<td>328, 329</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>
INDEX.

Buschbeck, Adolphus.
Assignment to command ........................................ 895
Mentioned ....................................................... 895, 1041, 1049

Busb, Archibald McC.  Report of Richmond, Va., Campaign, Jan. 1–April 3, 1865 ........................................ 293

Busson, Aug.  Mentioned ........................................ 1280

Busteed, Richard.
Correspondence with Erasmus D. Keyes ......................... 969, 972
Mentioned ................................................................ 992

Butland, F. A.  Mentioned ........................................ 1281

Butler, Benjamin F.
Assignment to command ........................................... 491
Assumes command of Department of New England .............. 494

Correspondence with

Army Headquarters .................................................. 337, 446, 449

Baltimore, Md., Mayor of ........................................ 1275

Birney, William ..................................................... 1150

Gillmore, Quincy A ................................................ 1163

Heckman, Charles A ................................................ 1147, 1148, 1150, 1152, 1156, 1157, 1159

Heintzelman, Samuel P ............................................ 1287

Lefferts, Marshall .................................................. 1272

Lincoln, Abraham ................................................... 1154, 1156

Ord, Edward O. C .................................................. 1289

Palmer, Innis N ...................................................... 1196, 1288, 1289

Patterson, Robert .................................................. 1273

Porter, David D ..................................................... 1290, 1291

Webster, William ................................................... 1150

Wistar, Isaac J ....................................................... 1143, 1145, 1154, 1155, 1282, 1284–1286

Mentioned ........................................................... 199, 221, 225, 246, 251, 337, 350, 359, 370, 491, 494, 534, 1136, 1157, 1159, 1160, 1164, 1165, 1167–1169, 1244, 1259, 1273, 1285

Orders, Special, series 1861: No. 48, 1272 .................. 407, 494

Butler, John H.  Mentioned ..................................... 514

Butler, Lewis.  Mentioned ....................................... 1226, 1284

Butler, Matthew C.  Mentioned ................................. 245

Butterfield, Daniel.
Assignment to duty ................................................... 490, 493
Assumes command of 1st Division, 5th Army Corps ............ 909

Correspondence with

Griffin, Charles .................................................... 948, 950, 957

Humphreys, Andrew A ............................................ 949, 950, 957, 1064

Ingalls, Rufus ....................................................... 1035

Pleasanton, Alfred ................................................ 947

Porter, Fitz John .................................................. 731, 732, 906, 913, 914, 945

Sedgwick, John .................................................... 1015

Sigel, Franz ......................................................... 959

Sykes, George ...................................................... 948–950, 957

War Department, U.S. ............................................ 959

For correspondence as Chief of Staff, see Joseph Hooker and George G. Meade.

Staff.  Announcement of ......................................... 909

Buxton, Francis L.  Mentioned ................................. 489
INDEX.

Byrnes, James N. Mentioned........................................... 147
Cabell, Joseph R. Mentioned.......................... 221
Cadwalader, Charles E. Correspondence with Richard H. Rush..... 881
Cadwalader, George.
Assignment to command ........................................... 398
Correspondence with Lew. Wallace.............................. 402
Mentioned ......................................................... 398, 420
Cady, Albemarle.
Assignment to command ........................................... 1143
Mentioned ......................................................... 1143
Cahill, Lawrence. Mentioned ......................................... 1281
Cahoon, Thomas. Mentioned ........................................ 1277
Cake, Henry L. Mentioned........................................... 389
Caldwell, A. Harper. Mentioned..................................... 198, 200, 262
Caldwell, John C.
Correspondence with Winfield S. Hancock.......................... 866
Mentioned .......................................................... 102, 179, 180, 1060, 1143, 1152, 1220
Relieved from duty in Army of the Potomac......................... 1152
Resumes command of 1st Division, 2d Army Corps.................. 1139
Caldwell, John H. Mentioned ........................................ 94
Calhoun, Fort. See Fort Calhoun.
Cameron, James. Mentioned........................................... 19
Cameron, James Donald.
Correspondence with
Porter, Fitz John .................................................. 363-365
War Department, U. S.............................................. 328
Wright, John A....................................................... 354
Mentioned .......................................................... 346, 347, 354, 359
Cameron, Simon. Mentioned.......................................... 322, 335, 345-
347, 349-351, 360, 361, 364, 365, 386, 387, 390, 427, 470, 477, 492, 511, 517
For correspondence, etc., see War Department, U. S.
Camp, Elisha E. Mentioned.......................................... 342, 1083-1085, 1097
Camp, Erskine M. Mentioned.......................................... 1098
Camp, G. W. Mentioned............................................... 627
H. Milroy .......................................................... 51
Campbell, Charles T. Mentioned..................................... 80
Campbell, David. Mentioned.......................................... 579, 709
Campbell, Edward. Mentioned....................................... 1232, 1237, 1238
Campbell, Edward L. Mentioned.................................... 49
Campbell, Henry. Mentioned......................................... 1277
Campbell, Jacob M.
Assignment to command ............................................. 1154
Assumes command of Cumberland, Md......................... 1157
Mentioned .......................................................... 867, 990, 1141, 1154
Staff. Announcement of ........................................... 1158
Camp Creek, W. Va. Skirmish on, May 1, 1862. Communications from Frémont, John C ..................................................... 592
Hayes, Rutherford B ................................................. 592
Canby, Edward R. B.
Assignment to command ............................................. 937
Mentioned .......................................................... 937, 1086
Candler, William L. Mentioned..................................... 945

84 R R—VOL LI, PT
Candy, Charles. Correspondence with Sigel, Franz........................................... 978
Stahel, Julius.................................................. 971
Cannon, Michael. Mentioned........................................ 1276
Cannon, William L. Correspondence with Robert C. Schenck........................................ 1067
Cantwell, Edward. Mentioned........................................ 2
Cantwell, John L. Report of seizure of Forts Caswell and Johnston, N. C., April 16, 1861........................................ 1
Carey, William. Mentioned........................................ 193
Carle, James.
Mentioned.................................................. 214
Report of affair near Brentsville, Va., Feb. 14, 1864........................................ 212
Carleton, Charles A. Mentioned........................................ 1185
Carlin, William P.
Assignment to command........................................ 1216
Mentioned.................................................. 1216
Carlisle, J. Howard. Mentioned........................................ 324, 335, 343, 722
Carmichael, ——. Mentioned........................................ 47, 48
Carney, James. Mentioned........................................ 1277
Carney, Thomas. Mentioned........................................ 146
Carnifax Ferry, Gauley River, W. Va. Engagement at, Sept. 10, 1861. Reports of Floyd, John B.................................................. 40
Reynolds, Alexander W........................................ 41
Carpenter, John T. Mentioned........................................ 588
Carr, James H. Mentioned........................................ 1087
Carr, Joseph B.
Assignments to command........................................ 840, 879
Assumes command of 2d Division, 3d Army Corps........................................ 1153
Correspondence with William H. French........................................ 1108
Mentioned. 840, 879, 885, 1099, 1104, 1107–1109, 1111, 1112, 1127, 1131, 1144, 1149, 1230
Carroll, Samuel S.
Assignment to duty........................................ 1193
Correspondence with Irvin McDowell........................................ 731
Mentioned.................................................. 95, 707, 708, 1193
Carter, Alfred B. Mentioned........................................ 249
Carter, Charles A. Mentioned........................................ 136
Carter, John E. Mentioned........................................ 87
Carter, Preston J. Mentioned........................................ 1279
Carter, Solon A. Mentioned........................................ 265
Carter, William. Mentioned........................................ 871
Carter, William M. Mentioned........................................ 149
Cary, Daniel J. Mentioned........................................ 1240
Case, Thomas C. Mentioned........................................ 947
Casement, John S. Mentioned........................................ 462, 485
Casey, John M. Mentioned........................................ 19
Casey, Joseph. Mentioned........................................ 328
Casey, Silas.
Assignments to command........................................ 472, 495, 714, 901
Correspondence with
Howard, Oliver O.................................................. 507
McClellan, George B.................................................. 702, 768
INDEX

Casey, Silas—Continued.
- Relieved from command of division, Department of Washington .......................... 1007
- Relieved from command of 4th Army Corps .................................................. 692
- Relieved from duty with Army of the Potomac ............................................. 715
- Staff. Announcements of ................................................................................. 482, 488

Cashman, Patrick. Mentioned ........................................................................... 294

Casa, Samuel N. Mentioned ............................................................................. 1276

Castle, Davis E.
- Correspondence with Lemuel B. Norton ........................................................... 1125
- Mentioned ......................................................................................................... 1124

Castle, George T. Mentioned ........................................................................... 137

Casualties in Action. See Confederate Troops and Union Troops. Returns of Casualties.

Caswell, Adin W.
- Correspondence with George J. Stannard ......................................................... 1261
- Mentioned ......................................................................................................... 1261

Caswell, Fort, N. C. Seizure of, April 16, 1861. Report of John L. Cantwell .... 1

Catling, James. Mentioned .............................................................................. 209

Catlin, Lynde. Correspondence with Lew. Wallace .......................................... 1174

Catlin, Theodore B. Mentioned ......................................................................... 183

Cavalry Corps, Army of the Potomac. (Union.)
- Crook, George, assigned to command of 2d Division of ................................... 1207
- Gregg, David McM., assigned to command of ................................................... 1153
- Recommendations for promotion, etc., in Communications from
  - Custer, George A ......................................................................................... 1199
  - Sheridan, Philip H ....................................................................................... 1199
  - Torbert, Alfred T. A .................................................................................... 1199

Cazaux, Anthony Domin. Mentioned ................................................................ 2

Cedar Mountain, Va. Battle of, Aug. 9, 1862. Reports of
- Beal, George L .................................................................................................. 121
- Best, Clermont L .............................................................................................. 119
- Ruger, Thomas H ............................................................................................ 123
- Stainrook, Henry J .......................................................................................... 123
- Thompson, James ............................................................................................ 120

Chain Bridge, Va. Reconnaissance from, Sept. 11, 1861. See Lewinsville, Va.
- Chamberlain, Abial G. Mentioned .................................................................... 514
- Chamberlain, G. L. Mentioned ......................................................................... 1278
- Chamberlain, G. W. Mentioned ........................................................................ 1278
- Chamberlain, Thomas. Mentioned .................................................................... 113, 147
- Chambers, George. Mentioned ......................................................................... 227
- Chancellor, Charles W. Mentioned ................................................................... 31

- Birney .............................................................................................................. 1275

See also report of Zook, p. 179.

Chancellorsville, Va., Campaign, April 27–May 6, 1863.
- Communications from
  - Abercrombie, John J .................................................................................... 1037
  - Burnham, Hiram .......................................................................................... 183
Chancellorsville, Va., Campaign, April 27–May 6, 1863—Continued.

Communications from
- Hooker, Joseph .................................................. 1016, 1033
- Ingalls, Rufus ..................................................... 1035
- Lowe, Thaddeus S. C .............................................. 1015, 1035
- Meade, George G .................................................. 1014, 1017, 1018, 1034, 1036
- Miles, Nelson A .................................................... 1034
- Reynolds, John F .................................................. 1034
- Sedgwick, John ..................................................... 1014, 1015, 1033, 1034

Reports of
- Brown, Charles H. C .............................................. 192
- Burnham, Hiram .................................................... 180
- Ely, John ............................................................ 188
- Harris, Benjamin F ................................................. 184
- Hero, Andrew, jr .................................................. 194
- Miller, Merritt B ................................................... 193
- Norcom, Joe ......................................................... 195
- Owen, Joshua T ..................................................... 178
- Richardson, John B ................................................ 192
- Walton, James B ................................................... 189
- Zook, Samuel K ..................................................... 178

Chandler, Charles G. Mentioned .................................... 283
Chandler, John G. Mentioned ........................................ 483
Chandler, Robert. Mentioned ......................................... 62, 469

Chantilly, Va., Commanding Officer at. Correspondence with Jesse L. Reno .................................................. 792

Chapin, Robert H. Mentioned .......................................... 137, 138
Chapman, A. A. Mentioned ........................................... 485
Chapman, Edgar T. Mentioned ......................................... 1241
Chapman, Francis K. Mentioned ....................................... 1279
Chapman, George H. Mentioned ........................................ 1132

Correspondence with David R. Clendenin ........................................ 1121, 1133, 1199

Chapman, John L. For correspondence, etc., see Baltimore, Md., Mayor of. ........................................ 864

Charlesworth, James F. Mentioned .................................. 52, 53

Chase, Miss. Mentioned ............................................... 64
Chase, C. Mentioned ................................................... 188
Chase, Salmon P. Mentioned .......................................... 72, 75, 386, 400, 518, 637

For correspondence, etc., see Treasury Department, U. S. ........................................ 260

Check, William H. Mentioned ......................................... 260
Cheesebrough, William H. For correspondence as A. A. G., see Robert C. Schenck. ........................................ 204

Chester, William H. Mentioned ......................................... 204

See also reports of Martindale, p. 1260; Ransom, p. 221; Terry, p. 1233; Voris, p. 1225.

Engagement at, May 6–7, 1864. See Port Walthall Junction and Chester Station, Va.

INDEX

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Name</th>
<th>Page</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Chickahominy River, Va. Operations on</td>
<td>688</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Alexander, Barton S</td>
<td>688</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Barnard, John G</td>
<td>650</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>McClellan, George B</td>
<td>691</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Porter, Fitz John</td>
<td>675, 681</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Sumner, Edwin V</td>
<td>655</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Woodbury, Daniel P</td>
<td>662</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Childs, George L. Mentioned</td>
<td>1225, 1233, 1234</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Childs, James H. Mentioned</td>
<td>730</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Childs, Robert H. Mentioned</td>
<td>221</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Childs, Robert D. Mentioned</td>
<td>224</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Chisolm, Benjamin C. Mentioned</td>
<td>871, 1184, 1188</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Christ, Levi. Mentioned</td>
<td>1277</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Christ, William H. Mentioned</td>
<td>684</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Christie, Samuel L. Mentioned</td>
<td>871</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Church, Nathan. Report of Richmond, Va., Campaign, Jan. 1–April 3, 1865... 297</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Churchill, Charles C. Mentioned</td>
<td>326, 488</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>City of Hudson, Steamer. Mentioned</td>
<td>758</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>City of Norwich, Steamer. Mentioned</td>
<td>743</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>City of Richmond, Steamer. Mentioned</td>
<td>623</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>City Point, Va. Explosion at, Aug. 9, 1864. See report of Ingalls, p. 253.</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Claassen, Peter J. Mentioned</td>
<td>876</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Claiborne, William C. Mentioned</td>
<td>272</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Clapp, Dexter B. Mentioned</td>
<td>1211</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Clark, E. Mentioned</td>
<td>63</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Clark, Charles A. Mentioned</td>
<td>183, 187, 1250</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Clark, Charles M. Mentioned</td>
<td>1238</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Clark, Edward A. Mentioned</td>
<td>230</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Clark, Erastus L. Mentioned</td>
<td>141</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Clark, F. P. Mentioned</td>
<td>1226</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Clark, George F.</td>
<td>707</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Correspondence with George B. McClellan</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Clark, James C. Mentioned</td>
<td>112</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Clark, John. Reports of</td>
<td>143</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Clark, John B. Correspondence with Peter H. Allabach</td>
<td>158</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Clark, John B. Correspondence with War Department, U. S.</td>
<td>640</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Clark, Joseph C., jr. Mentioned</td>
<td>871</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Clark, Joseph H. Mentioned</td>
<td>1132</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Clark, Moses P. Mentioned</td>
<td>48</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Clark, Thomas W. Mentioned</td>
<td>3, 5</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Clark, William L. Mentioned</td>
<td>1225, 1226</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Clarke, Francis N. Mentioned</td>
<td>682, 779</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Clarke, George J. Correspondence with Lemuel B. Norton</td>
<td>1102</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Clarke, Henry P. Mentioned</td>
<td>413, 428, 432</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Clarke, James C.</td>
<td>363, 364</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Correspondence with Fitz John Porter</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Clarke, John N. Mentioned</td>
<td>527</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Clause, Philip. Mentioned</td>
<td>1279</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Clay, Cassius M.</td>
<td>335</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Correspondence with Charles F. Smith</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>
Claybrook, R. A. Mentioned .............................................. 6
Clayton, Captain. Mentioned ........................................... 71
Clemence, William H. Mentioned ....................................... 1273
Clemens, L. H. Mentioned .................................................. 50
Clement, Adam. Mentioned ................................................. 134
Clemente, Lieutenant. Mentioned ....................................... 188
Clemens, William A. Mentioned ........................................... 207
Clendenin, David R. Mentioned ........................................... 1132
Correspondence with Chapman, George H ................................ 1132
Wallace, Lew ................................................................. 1172, 1173, 1175
Mentioned ................................................................. 1172, 1177
Cleveland, J. C. Mentioned .............................................. 273
Clifford, Edward. Mentioned ............................................. 1278
Cline, J. W. Mentioned .................................................... 168
Clingman, Thomas L. Mentioned ......................................... 231, 232, 272
Clinton, Wharton R. Mentioned ......................................... 11, 53
Clopton, William I. Mentioned ......................................... 85, 89
Closson, Jerome. Mentioned .............................................. 399, 402
Clothing, Camp and Garrison Equipage. See Munitions of War.
Clough, Edgar. Mentioned .................................................. 1242, 1246
Cloyd, Samuel J. Mentioned ............................................... 155
Cluseret, Gustave P. Mentioned ......................................... 894, 965
Clyde, William P., Steamer. Mentioned ............................... 623
Coan, William B. Mentioned ............................................... 1248
Coates, Joseph R. T. Mentioned ......................................... 109, 143
Cochran, John. Mentioned ................................................. 80
Cochran, Theodore D. Mentioned ........................................ 359
Cochrane, R. Mentioned ................................................... 1278
Cocke, George B. Report of skirmish at Indiantown, or Sandy Swamp, N. C., Dec. 18, 1863 .................. 210
Cocke, John B. Mentioned .................................................. 31
Cocke, Philip St. George. Mentioned .................................... 24, 32
Report of battle of Bull Run, Va., July 21, 1861 ................... 24
Cœur de Lion, U. S. S., Commanding Officer of. Correspondence with Erasmus D. Keyes ........................................... 971
Colburn, Albert V. Correspondence with Chauncey McKeever .......... 646, 647
Report of battle of Williamsburg, Va., May 5, 1862 ............... 88
Coffey, C. S. Mentioned .................................................... 94
Coffey, Edward W. Mentioned ............................................. 991
Coffin, John N. Mentioned .................................................. 871
Coffin, Rufus. Mentioned ................................................... 504
Coggins, Patrick. Mentioned ............................................. 1279
Cogswell, Milton. Mentioned ............................................. 46, 47, 395, 454, 498, 502
Cogswell, William S. Mentioned ......................................... 556
Cohen, Andrew J. Mentioned ............................................. 139
Cohen, Josiah. Mentioned ................................................... 168
Coke, John A. Mentioned .................................................... 85
Correspondence with Chauncey McKeever ............................... 646, 647
For other correspondence, see George B. McClellan.
<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Name</th>
<th>Page Range</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Colburn, Albert V.</td>
<td>441, 540, 891, 924, 1148</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Colder,</td>
<td>358</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Cold Harbor, Va.</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Battles of</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>June 27, 1862.</td>
<td>See Gaines' Mill, Va.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>June 1–3, 1864.</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Casualties. Returns of Union Troops</td>
<td>1267</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Reports of</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Brooks, William T. H</td>
<td>1248</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Colvin, James A.</td>
<td>1266–1268</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Martindale, John H</td>
<td>1253–1255</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Stannard, George J</td>
<td>1260–1262</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Operations at and about, May 31–June 12, 1864.</td>
<td>1261</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Communication from Adin W. Caswell</td>
<td>216</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Cole, Henry A.</td>
<td>773</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Cole, Percy B. S.</td>
<td>999</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Coleman, Augustus H.</td>
<td>871</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Coleman, S. S.</td>
<td>135</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Collins, Arnott D.</td>
<td>147</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Collins, Charles</td>
<td>1276</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Collins, Charles R.</td>
<td>249</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Collins, John</td>
<td>1281</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Collins, Joseph B.</td>
<td>864</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Collins, Anthony</td>
<td>1278</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Collins, Charles H. T.</td>
<td>790, 1201</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Colewell, James M.</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Combs,</td>
<td>69</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Combs, David</td>
<td>69</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Comly, James M.</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Commager, Henry S.</td>
<td>1225, 1234</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Compton, Silas H.</td>
<td>1279</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Cornstock, Cyrus B.</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Correspondence with</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Barnard, John G</td>
<td>625, 666, 669, 673, 677, 678, 684, 686</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Burnside, Ambrose E</td>
<td>954, 977</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Cross, Charles E</td>
<td>956, 985</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Hooker, Joseph</td>
<td>979, 980, 982, 984, 991, 999, 1003</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>
Comstock, Cyrus B.—Continued.

Correspondence with

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Name</th>
<th>Page</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Mackenzie, Ranald S</td>
<td>962, 964, 987</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Woodbury, Daniel P.</td>
<td>946, 966, 959</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>62, 630, 831, 848, 959, 1014, 1016</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Conant, George E. Mentioned

Condon, Ed. Mentioned

Conduct of the War.

Reply of William B. Franklin to report of Joint Committee of Congress ........................................ 1019–1033

Report of Joint Committee of Congress. Extracts concerning battle of Fredericksburg, Va., Dec. 11–15, 1862 1028, 1031, 1032

Confederate Troops.

Mentioned. For Volunteers, see respective States.

Congress, U. S.

Correspondence with War Department, U. S. 435, 510, 517

Resolutions of House of Representatives 314, 427

Congress, U. S. Frigate. Mentioned

Conine, James W. Mentioned

Connecticut. Military Department embracing 491

Connecticut Troops. Mentioned.

Artillery, Heavy—Regiments: 1st, 406, 422, 626, 632, 702, 776, 971, 1255; 2d, 1217.

Artillery, Light—Batteries: 1st, 1224, 1232, 1233, 1239, 1243; 2d, 1003.

Infantry—Regiments: 1st, 17, 396, 411, 413; 2d, 3d, 17, 411, 413; 6th, 431, 1232, 1233, 1235, 1237–1239; 7th, 489, 1167, 1232, 1233, 1235, 1236, 1239; 8th, 727, 1248; 10th, 537, 777, 1167, 1168, 1236, 1241–1245; 11th, 727, 872, 1192, 1264; 14th, 307; 15th, 901; 18th, 967, 968; 19th, 971, 1003; 20th, 875; 21st, 1248, 1285; 22d, 879, 1003.

Conolly, Lieutenant-Colonel. Mentioned

Conrad, Frederick A. Mentioned

Conrad, Isaac B. Mentioned

Constitution, U. S. Ship. Mentioned.

Converse, Joseph H. Mentioned

Cook, Asa M.

Correspondence with John A. Dix 427

Mentioned 405

Cook, Benjamin F. Mentioned

Cook, David M. Mentioned

Cook, Jervis D.

Mentioned 298

Report of Richmond, Va., Campaign, Jan. 1–April 3, 1865 298

Cook, John.

Assignment to duty 699

Mentioned 699

Cook, John B. Mentioned

Cooke, Philip St. George.

Assignment to command 558

Correspondence with 654

McClellan, George B

Porter, Fitz John 675, 687, 698

Originally 4th Infantry.
INDEX.

1337

Cooke, Philip St. George—Continued.
Mentioned .......................................................... 61, 550, 558, 561, 626, 677, 681, 687, 698, 715
Relieved from duty with Army of the Potomac.................. 715

Cooley, Elijah M. Mentioned ........................................ 82

Cooley, John. Mentioned ........................................... 1187

Coolidge, Richard H. Mentioned .................................. 772

Cooney, Patrick. Mentioned ....................................... 1281

Cooper, Benjamin F. Mentioned .................................. 595

Cooper, Charles. Mentioned ....................................... 177

Cooper, Charles W. Mentioned .................................... 1279

Cooper, George E. Mentioned .................................... 428

Cooper, James.
Assignment to duty .................................................. 455
Mentioned ............................................................ 455, 720
Relieved from duty with 2d Army Corps ......................... 720

Cooper, James H. Mentioned ...................................... 1142

Cooper, Joseph J. Mentioned ..................................... 290

Cooper, Samuel. For correspondence, etc., see Adjutant-General's Office, U. S. A.

Copeland, Joseph T.
Assignment to command ............................................. 972
Mentioned ............................................................ 972, 994

Copeland, R. Morris. Correspondence with
Banks, Nathaniel P .................................................. 521
Stone, Charles P ..................................................... 502
For other correspondence, see Nathaniel P. Banks.

Corliss, Augustus W. Mentioned .................................. 804
Mentioned ............................................................ 135, 223, 226, 229–231

Reports of Blackburn's Ford, Va. Action at, July 18, 1861 ............... 33
Maryland Campaign, Sept. 3–20, 1862 ........................... 169

Corwick, James. Mentioned ...................................... 627

Cosgrove, James. Mentioned ..................................... 1281

Costello, Thomas. Mentioned .................................... 60

Cotter, Charles S. Mentioned .................................... 417

Couch, Darius N.
Assignments to command ........................................... 455, 551
Assumes command of 2d Army Corps ............................. 1045

Correspondence with
Briggs, Henry S ...................................................... 84
Hooker, Joseph ...................................................... 1016, 1045
Keyes, Erasmus D ................................................... 734
McClellan, George B ................................................ 769, 782, 808, 809, 816, 817, 822, 844, 851, 852, 855, 904, 907, 917, 923, 931

Porter, Fitz John .................................................... 909, 913
Schenck, Robert C ................................................... 1055, 1060
War Department, U. S ............................................. 1059
West, Robert M ...................................................... 84
<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Name</th>
<th>Mentioned</th>
<th>Page</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Couch, Darius N.</td>
<td>Continued</td>
<td>102</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Coughlin, John</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>1210</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Coughlers, William S.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>1297</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Coulter, Richard</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>140, 1183</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Report of Maryland Campaign, Sept. 3–20, 1862</td>
<td>140</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Cowdrey, Burnham</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>5</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Cowdrey, Frank H.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>287</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Cowley, Jeremiah</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>1276</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Cox, Abraham L.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>71</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Cox, Jacob D.</td>
<td>Assignment to duty</td>
<td>455</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Assumes command of District of the Kanawha</td>
<td>515</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Cox, John S.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>879</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Cox, Theodore</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>871</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Crafts, Welcome A.</td>
<td>Report of Richmond, Va., Campaign, Jan. 1–April 3,</td>
<td>297</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>1865</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Crane, Alfred B.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>1280</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Crane, Ira M. B.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>1280</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Crane, Louis H. D.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>124</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Crane, Nirom M.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>973, 974</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Crater</td>
<td>Assault on, July 30, 1864. See Mine, Explosion of, and Assault on the</td>
<td>1290</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Crater (Petersburg, Va.).</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Cratty, Daniel G.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>1190</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Craven, John J.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>1190</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Craven, Milton</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>1190</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Cravens, John O.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>53</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Crawford, L.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>1278</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Index Item</td>
<td>Page</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>-----------------------------------------------</td>
<td>------</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Crawford, Samuel W.</td>
<td>1043</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Assignment to command</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Correspondence with</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Ayres, Romeyn</td>
<td>1084</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Kerwin, Michael</td>
<td>1146</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Morrow, Henry A.</td>
<td>1203</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Sykes, George</td>
<td>1118</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>War Department, U.S.</td>
<td>689</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>119</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>121, 124, 201, 212, 213, 288, 660, 676, 727, 1043, 1118, 1125, 1128, 1183, 1203</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Crawford, Thomas</td>
<td>1278</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Creighton, Johnston B.</td>
<td>989</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Creney, James</td>
<td>293</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>1203</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Crew's Farm, Va. Battle of, July 1, 1862.</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>See Malvern Hill, Va.</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Crie, Edward H.</td>
<td>1280</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Crilly, James</td>
<td>230</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Crispin, Silas</td>
<td>408</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Croghan, St. George</td>
<td>36</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>20, 1861</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Croll, Edward M.</td>
<td>100</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Crook, George</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Assignments to command</td>
<td>874</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Correspondence with</td>
<td>1146</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Hall, James R</td>
<td>207</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>McClellan, George B</td>
<td>951</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>877</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>508, 509, 515, 584, 585, 871, 874, 1146, 1178, 1207</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Crosby, Franklin B</td>
<td>296</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Correspondence with John E. Wool</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>796</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>798</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Crossman, George H.</td>
<td>415</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>428</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Cross, Charles B</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Correspondence with Cyrus B. Comstock</td>
<td>956</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>985</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>956, 958, 987, 988</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Cross, Daniel K.</td>
<td>866</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Cross, Edward E.</td>
<td>866</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Cross, Osborn</td>
<td>1016</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Communications from Jacob D. Cox</td>
<td>458</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>459, 461</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Crowell, Moses H.</td>
<td>52</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>53</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Crowninshield, Casper</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>170</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Report of scout to Farmwell Station, Va., from</td>
<td>214</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Vienna, Feb. 25–26, 1864</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Cuddihy, Michael</td>
<td>1281</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Culbertson, E. G.</td>
<td>305</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Cullen, Edgar M.</td>
<td>1250</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>1251</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Cullum, George W.</td>
<td>310</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>829</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Cumberland, U. S. Sloop.</td>
<td>58</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>549</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Cumberland, Department of the. (Union.)</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Buell, Don Carlos, assigned to duty in</td>
<td>455</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Sherman, William T., assigned to duty in</td>
<td>455</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Thomas, George H., assigned to duty in</td>
<td>455</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Cumming, James D.</td>
<td>2</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Cumming, John B.</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>161</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>163, 164</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Report of Maryland Campaign, Sept. 3–20, 1862</td>
<td>168</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>
INDEX

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Name</th>
<th>Mentioned</th>
<th>Page(s)</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Cummings, J. Frank</td>
<td></td>
<td>1270</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Cunningham, Andrew J.</td>
<td></td>
<td>1276</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Cunningham, Patrick</td>
<td></td>
<td>284</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Cupier, Perry C.</td>
<td></td>
<td>1276</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Curren, Joseph F.</td>
<td></td>
<td>1189</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Currie, Leonard D. H.</td>
<td></td>
<td>879, 897</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>For correspondence, etc., see Pennsylvania, Governor of.</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Curtin, John</td>
<td></td>
<td>1278</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Curtin, John I.</td>
<td>Assignment to command.</td>
<td>1197</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>1184, 1188, 1197</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Curtis, Charles H.</td>
<td></td>
<td>1213</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Curtis, Franklin</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>3, 5</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Curtis, Greely S.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>1074</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Report of reconnaissance to Smithfield, W. Va., from Sharpsburg, Md.,</td>
<td>170</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Oct. 16–17, 1862</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Curtis, N. Martin</td>
<td>Correspondence with John W. Turner.</td>
<td>1169</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>1237, 1246</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Report of assaults on Petersburg Lines, June 15–18, 1864</td>
<td>1246</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Curtis, Samuel R.</td>
<td>Assignment to duty</td>
<td>455</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>455, 1162</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Curtis, Walter</td>
<td></td>
<td>1097</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Cushing, Alonzo H.</td>
<td></td>
<td>682</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Cushing, Harry C.</td>
<td></td>
<td>120</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Cushing, Samuel T.</td>
<td></td>
<td>886</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Custer, George A.</td>
<td>Correspondence with War Department, U. S.</td>
<td>1199</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Cutcheon, Byron M.</td>
<td></td>
<td>1189</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Cuthbert, F.</td>
<td></td>
<td>871</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Cutler, Lysander</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Assignments to command.</td>
<td>995, 1067, 1091, 1122</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>70, 579, 583, 606, 996, 1067, 1079–1082, 1091, 1102, 1106, 1115, 1120–1122, 1183</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Relieved from command of 1st Division, 1st Army Corps.</td>
<td>1121</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Cutter, Calvin</td>
<td></td>
<td>871</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Cutting, James De W.</td>
<td></td>
<td>64, 65, 67, 68, 72, 74–78</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>For correspondence as A. D. C., see Irvin McDowell.</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Cutting, William</td>
<td></td>
<td>1188</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Cutts, Allen S.</td>
<td></td>
<td>191</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Cuyler, John M.</td>
<td></td>
<td>407</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Cyphert, John</td>
<td></td>
<td>1277</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>See reports of Baxter, p. 286; Tilden, p. 288</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Dana, Albert G.</td>
<td></td>
<td>7</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Dahlgren, John A.</td>
<td></td>
<td>75</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Dalley, Dennis B.</td>
<td>Report of Richmond, Va., Campaign, Jan. 1–April 3, 1865.</td>
<td>294</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Dalton, C. J.</td>
<td></td>
<td>1278</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Dalton, Henry R.</td>
<td></td>
<td>1178</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Dana, James J.</td>
<td></td>
<td>1094, 1096, 1097</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Dana, Napoleon J. T.</td>
<td>Assignment to duty</td>
<td>1085</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>
INDEX.

Dana, Napoleon J. T.—Continued.
  Mentioned ........................................ 109, 529, 549, 1085
  Relieved from duty in Department of the Susquehanna 1085
Dandy, George B. Mentioned ........................................ 805, 1236, 1245
Danforth, Henry T. Mentioned ........................................ 446
Daniel, John W. Mentioned ........................................ 208
Daniel Webster, Steamer. Mentioned ........................................ 600
Daniels, C. H. Mentioned ........................................ 661
Daniels, Jabez J. Mentioned ........................................ 994
Daniels, Percy. Mentioned ........................................ 1190
Danville Railroad, Va. Expedition against, etc., June 22–July 2, 1864. See South Side and Danville Railroads, Va.
Darby, James L. Mentioned ........................................ 167
Darby, William J. Mentioned ........................................ 279
Dardingkiller, Frederick. Mentioned ........................................ 2
Dare, Charles F. Mentioned ........................................ 372, 397, 422
Dare, George. Mentioned ........................................ 113
Darkesville, W. Va. Skirmish at, Sept. 7, 1862. Communications from War Department, U. S ........................................ 798
  White, Julius ........................................ 798
Darling, James. Mentioned ........................................ 1280
Darling, Fort. See Fort Darling.
Darnall, Morgan A. Mentioned ........................................ 585
Darr, Francis. Mentioned ........................................ 486
Davant, Philip E. Mentioned ........................................ 208
Davenport, George C. Mentioned ........................................ 144
Davidson, George S. Mentioned ........................................ 27, 31
Davidson, John W. Mentioned ........................................ 582, 585, 631, 632, 718
Davies, Henry E. Mentioned ........................................ 67
Davies, J. Mansfield. Mentioned ........................................ 558
Davies, Thomas A. Mentioned ........................................ 19, 411, 414, 470, 557, 558
  Relieved from duty with Army of the Potomac 558
  Report of skirmish at Fairfax Court-House, Va., July 17, 1861 19
Davis, Benjamin F.
  Correspondence with
    Miles, Dixon S ........................................ 772
    Wool, John E. ........................................ 768
  Mentioned ........................................ 773, 849, 861, 878, 927
Davis, Edward F. Mentioned ........................................ 289
Davis, Garrett. Mentioned ........................................ 381
Davis, G. E. Mentioned ........................................ 1278
Davis, Henry O. Mentioned ........................................ 1279
Davis, Isaac. Mentioned ........................................ 9
Davis, Jefferson. Mentioned ........................................ 381, 597, 598, 1002
Davis, Jefferson, Mrs. Mentioned ........................................ 597, 598
Davis, Nelson H. Mentioned ........................................ 425, 740
Davis, Phineas A. For correspondence as A. A. G., see John W. Turner.
Davis, Robert S. Mentioned ........................................ 1140
Davis, William. Mentioned ........................................ 871
Davis, William W. H. Reports of Yorktown, Va. Siege of, April 5–May 4, 1862 ........................................ 84
Dawson, George W. Mentioned ........................................ 182, 183
Dawson, Henry C. Mentioned ........................................ 130
Dawson, Richard W. Mentioned ...................................... 1238
Day, George H. Mentioned ........................................... 285
Day, Henry, jr. Mentioned ........................................... 1281
Dean, J. M. Mentioned ................................................ 134
Dearborn, Orrin M. Mentioned ....................................... 871
Dearing, James. Mentioned ........................................... 85, 86
Report of battle of Williamsburg, Va., May 5, 1862 ............... 88
Deaton, Edward F. Mentioned ........................................ 89
De Blanc, Octave N. Mentioned ...................................... 229
Decker, James N. Mentioned ........................................... 69 Deep Bottom, Va. Engagement at, July 27, 1864. See reports of Batchelder, p. 256; Reaken, p. 271; Merrill, p. 236.
De Forest, Othnell. Mentioned ......................................... 558
Degges, William H. Mentioned ........................................ 402
De Hart, Henry V. Mentioned ......................................... 114, 115
Dehon, Arthur. Mentioned ............................................. 141
Deitrich, Leonard. Mentioned ......................................... 1280
De Lacy, William. Mentioned ........................................... 307
Delafeld, Richard.
Correspondence with
Barnard, John G ............................................................ 579
Porter, Fitz John ........................................................... 359
Mentioned ................................................................. 347, 584
Delaplaine, Miss. Mentioned ............................................ 68
Delaware.
Affairs in, generally. Communication from Henry Du Pont .......... 326
Military Department embracing ........................................ 331
Delaware Troops. Mentioned.
Artillery, Light—Batteries: 1st, 1003.
Infantry—Regiments: 1st, 613; 3d, 893, 1166; 4th, 972, 1000.
DeLlinger, Henry W.
Correspondence with Lancelot Jacques ................................ 860
Mentioned ................................................................. 860
Dempsey, John W. Mentioned ............................................ 73
Denison, Andrew W. Mentioned ......................................... 1183
For correspondence; etc., see Ohio, Governor of.
Denniston, Joseph P. Mentioned ......................................... 282
Denny, Doctor. Mentioned ................................................ 332
Denver, James W.
Assignment to duty in Department of the Pacific ................. 455
Mentioned ................................................................. 456, 527, 556
De Rosset, William L. Mentioned ...................................... 2
De Russy, George B. Mentioned ......................................... 191, 195, 196, 228
De Russy, Gustavus A. Mentioned ..................................... 1033, 1042
De Trobriand, Regis. Mentioned ...................................... 1205, 1206
Devaukh, Samuel H. Mentioned ......................................... 33
Devena, Charles, jr.
Assignment to command .................................................. 1155, 1187
Correspondence with William B. Franklin ......................... 878, 884
INDEX.

Devens, Charles, jr.—Continued.
Mentioned........ 405, 523, 894, 1155, 1187, 1212, 1248, 1249, 1252, 1253, 1261, 1267, 1274
Relieved from command of Draft Rendezvous......................... 1156

Devereux, John H.
Correspondence with Irvin McDowell......................... 664
Mentioned.................. 76, 664

De Villers, Charles A. Mentioned......................... 417

Devlin, Thomas C.
Mentioned........................................ 558, 562, 1108, 1121
Report of reconnaissance to Woodville, Va., Dec. 6, 1863........ 209

Devlinney, Steamer. Mentioned................. 1264

Dewey, Henry H. Mentioned......................... 284

De Witt, David P. Mentioned......................... 888

Dexter, Benjamin P. Mentioned......................... 274, 275

De Casmola, Louis P.
Correspondence with Meyenburg, Theodore A........................................ 965
Stahl, Julius........................................ 966, 977

Mentioned........................................ 954, 975, 982

Dick, Benjamin E. Mentioned......................... 194

Dick, Samuel B. Reports of Maryland Campaign, Sept. 3–20, 1862 149, 150

Dickel, Christian F. Mentioned......................... 558

Dickerson, John H. Mentioned......................... 333, 334, 339, 373, 379, 380

Dickinson, Joseph. Mentioned......................... 945

For correspondence as A. A. G., see Joseph Hooker.

Dietz, Jacob Y. Mentioned......................... 123

Dike, William H. Mentioned......................... 22

Diiger, Hubert. Mentioned......................... 1041

Dillon, James D. Mentioned......................... 89

Dimick, Justin. Correspondence with Army Headquarters......................... 326

Dirlam, Darius. Mentioned......................... 53

District of Columbia.
Military Department embracing......................... 322

Militia.
Calls for, etc. Communications from War Department, U. S. .......... 321, 324, 325
Discharge of Communications from War Department, U. S. .......... 344, 368 Organization of, etc. Communications from Irvin McDowell........ 322, 324

District of Columbia Troops. Mentioned.

Cavalry—Companies: President's Mounted Guard (Owen), 369.
Infantry—Battalions: 1st (Militia), 323; 2d (Militia), 322, 324, 401; 3d (Militia), 322; 4th (Militia), 323, 324; 5th (Militia), 324; 6th (Militia), 324; 7th (Militia), 321; 8th (Militia), 323, 324. Companies: McKenney's (Militia), 323; Washington Clay Guards (Militia), 345. Regiments: 1st, 562, 665, 666; 2d, 801, 891.

Divver, Daniel. Mentioned......................... 19

Dix, John A.
Assignment to duty......................... 455

Correspondence with
Amory, Thomas J. C........................................ 561
Army Headquarters........................................ 424, 426, 429, 433, 439
Cook, Asa M........................................ 427
Keyes, Erasmus D........................................ 926, 957, 963, 970, 971, 977, 989, 991, 992
Lincoln, Abraham........................................ 708, 979
Lockwood, Henry H........................................ 504, 506, 518
Index

Dix, John A.—Continued.

Correspondence with

- McClellan, George B ........................................ 549, 650, 659, 663, 667, 717
- Nones, Henry N ........................................ 451
- Paine, Halbert E ........................................ 431
- Treasury Department, U.S. .................................. 428, 442
- War Department, U.S. ...................................... 378, 381, 382, 674, 709, 717, 725, 1007

Mentioned .................................................. 382, 424, 431, 438, 458, 480, 549, 552, 553, 562, 642, 667, 676, 685, 721, 756, 813, 845, 958, 983, 1006, 1009, 1052, 1056, 1159, 1193

Dixson, Mentioned ........................................ 982

Dobbs, Cyrus J. Mentioned .................................. 11, 51–53, 1225, 1232, 1234

Dobson, John R. Mentioned .................................. 109, 110

Dodge, Charles C.

- Mentioned .................................................. 613
- Report of reconnaissance to Edenton, N.C., from Norfolk, Va., May 27–31, 1862 ........................................ 96

Dodge, Stephen A. Mentioned .................................. 80

Doherty, John. Mentioned .................................. 1281

Dolphin, Schooner. Mentioned .................................. 2

Donahue, John. Mentioned .................................. 1279

Donaldson, Alexander E. Mentioned .................................. 951

Donaldson, James L. Mentioned .................................. 1010

Donnelly, Dudley. Mentioned .................................. 429, 563

Donohoe, Michael T. Mentioned .................................. 1212

Donovan, John. Mentioned .................................. 1281

Doremus, ———. Mentioned .................................. 78

Doren, Dennis. Mentioned .................................. 198, 300, 262

Dornin, T. Aloysius. Correspondence with Robert C. Schenck .................................. 1087

Dorrell, William B. Mentioned .................................. 1166

Dorset, John S. Mentioned .................................. 11

Dorton, Jordon. Mentioned .................................. 210

Doty, Albert. Mentioned .................................. 1189

Doty, Robert. Mentioned .................................. 1276

Doubleday, Abner.

- Assignments to command .................................. 944, 974, 1177
- Assumes temporary command of 1st Army Corps .................................. 1043

Correspondence with

- Hofmann, J. William .................................. 880, 883, 923
- Pleasonton, Alfred .................................. 917
- Reynolds, John F .................................. 880, 883

Dougherty, Alexander N. Mentioned .................................. 1183

Doughtie, James R. Mentioned .................................. 33

Douglas, Alexander. Mentioned .................................. 951

Douglas, H. R. Mentioned .................................. 1277

Doull, Alexander.

- Correspondence with Robert C. Schenck .................................. 1078
- Mentioned .................................. 189

Douty, Calvin S. Mentioned .................................. 946

Downey, Stephen W.

- Correspondence with Dixon S. Miles .................................. 738, 820
- Mentioned .................................. 804, 812

Downing, Francis A. Mentioned .................................. 1279
INDEX

Doyle, John. Mentioned ........................................................................................................... 57

Draft Rendezvous.

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Name</th>
<th>Page</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Barlow, Francis C.</td>
<td>1134</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Cady, Albemarle</td>
<td>1143</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Devens, Charles</td>
<td>1155</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Gibbon, John.</td>
<td>1111, 1122</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Hatch, John P.,</td>
<td>1104</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Hunt, Lewis C.</td>
<td>1136, 1143</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Lauman, Jacob G.</td>
<td>1104</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Leech, William A.</td>
<td>1152</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Morell, George W.</td>
<td>1134</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Rowley, Thomas A.,</td>
<td>1154</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Sibley, Caleb C.</td>
<td>1136</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>White, Julius</td>
<td>1169</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Draft, John C. Mentioned ......................................................................................................... 1266, 1267

Drewry's Bluff, Va. Engagement at. See Proctor's Creek and Drewry's Bluff (or Fort Darling), Va. Engagement at, May 12–16, 1864.

Driscoll, Cornelius. Mentioned .................................................................................................. 1281

Drouillard, James P. Mentioned ................................................................................................. 63–65, 67, 68, 72, 73, 75, 77, 78

Drummond, Mentioned ............................................................................................................... 69, 579

Dryer, Hiram. Mentioned .......................................................................................................... 864

Duane, James C.

- Correspondence with Barnard, John G. .................................................................................. 656, 686
- Spaulding, Ira ............................................................................................................................ 1120
- Mentioned .................................................................................................................................. 617, 648, 650, 651, 653, 673, 865, 890, 1130, 1181
- Du Bose, Dudley M. Mentioned ............................................................................................... 165
- Dudley, Frederick A. Mentioned ................................................................................................. 279

Duffé, Alfred N.

- Correspondence with McDowell, Irvin ..................................................................................... 731–734, 741, 744, 767
- Scammon, Eliakim P ................................................................................................................ 1123, 1134
- Mentioned .................................................................................................................................. 735, 744, 1134

Duffield, Charles. Mentioned .................................................................................................... 871

Duffy, Daniel. Mentioned .......................................................................................................... 167

Duffy, Michael. Mentioned ........................................................................................................ 1281

Dulany, William H. Mentioned ................................................................................................... 34

Dumfries, Va., Commanding Officer at. Correspondence with Franz Sigel. .......................... 960

Duncan, George M. Mentioned ................................................................................................... 1230

Duncan, Samuel A.

- Mentioned .................................................................................................................................. 1150, 1257, 1258, 1286

Report of Richmond, Va., Campaign, June 13–July 31, 1864. ............................................. 265

Dunham, John N. Mentioned ....................................................................................................... 1277

Dunham, Robert T. Mentioned .................................................................................................... 49

Dunham, Thomas H. Mentioned .................................................................................................. 49, 50

Dunlap, Tartellus E. Mentioned .................................................................................................. 54

Dunn, James H. Mentioned ......................................................................................................... 1240

Dunn, William A. Mentioned ..................................................................................................... 1150, 1151

Dunn, William A., Mrs. Mentioned ............................................................................................ 1151

Dunnell, A. L. Mentioned ........................................................................................................... 1281
<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Name</th>
<th>Mentioned/Correspondence</th>
<th>Page</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Dunning, Samuel H.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>533</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Dunster, Edward S.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>557</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Du Pont, Tug.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>12,90</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Du Pont, Henry</td>
<td>Correspondence with Adjutant-General's Office, U. S. A.</td>
<td>341</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>War Department, U. S.</td>
<td>328</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Durbin, Greene</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>53</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Durbin, J.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>1278</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Duryea, Abram</td>
<td>Assignment to duty</td>
<td>472</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Correspondence with McDowell, Irvin</td>
<td>641</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>War Department, U. S</td>
<td>636</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>3, 139, 140, 153, 472, 533, 612, 622, 634, 664, 672</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Report of Maryland Campaign, Sept. 3–20, 1862</td>
<td>139</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Duryee, Redfield</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>1232</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Dussuet, Charles</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>204</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>D'Utassy, Frederick G.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>970</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Dutton, Arthur H.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>1249</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Dutton, Henry B.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>249</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Duval, Isaac H.</td>
<td>Assignment to command</td>
<td>1217</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>1217</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Dwin, Thomas P.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>109, 110</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Dyer, A. S.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>1281</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Earley, Patrick S.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>212, 214</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Early, Jubal A.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>30, 190, 191, 193, 208, 262, 1033</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Reports of James River, Va. Campaign from the Rapidan to, May 4–June 12, 1864</td>
<td>244–247</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Eckert, Thomas T.</td>
<td>Correspondence with George B. McClellan</td>
<td>927</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>636</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Reports of</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Gettyburg Campaign, June 3–Aug. 1, 1863; and operations to June 30, 1864</td>
<td>197</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Richmond, Va., Campaign, June 13–July 31, 1864; and operations to June 30, 1865</td>
<td>281</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Eddy, Asher R. Mentioned</td>
<td>429, 1087</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Eddy, Ulysses D. Mentioned</td>
<td>285</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Edmondson, R. B. Mentioned</td>
<td>249</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Edwards, John, jr. Mentioned</td>
<td>782</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Edwards, William. Mentioned</td>
<td>1278</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Elder, George L. Mentioned</td>
<td>65, 59</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Elder, James G. Mentioned</td>
<td>161</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Eldridge, James E. Mentioned</td>
<td>1194</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Elliott, James F. Mentioned</td>
<td>184</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Elliott, Lyman S. Mentioned</td>
<td>808</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>
INDEX.

Elliott, Washington L.
Correspondence with
French, William H. ............................... 1075, 1076
Schenck, Robert C .................................. 989
Mentioned ...................................... 1010–1013, 1076, 1083, 1088, 1098
Relieved from duty with Army of the Potomac ........ 1098
Ellis, A. Van Horne. Mentioned .................... 23
Ellis, John W. Mentioned ......................... 1, 2
Ellis, William H. Mentioned ....................... 799
Ellsworth, James B. Mentioned ..................... 1277
Ellsworth, Timothy B. Mentioned ................... 965
Ellwell, Andrew. Mentioned ....................... 1261, 1262
Ely, George. Mentioned ............................ 1096
Ely, John. Report of Chancellorsville, Va., Campaign, April 27–May 6, 1863. 188
Ely, Ralph. Mentioned ............................. 1189, 1206
Ely, William G. Correspondence with Robert C. Schenck ................... 968
Elsey, Arnold. Mentioned ........................ 61
Emanuel, W. Mentioned ............................ 168
Bmbler, A. Henry. Mentioned ........................ 23
Emerson, William. Mentioned ........................ 1012
Emley, Anthony H. Mentioned ...................... 398
Emmons, William H. H. Mentioned ................. 1133
Emory, William H.
Assignments to command ................................ 558, 561, 717
Mentioned ......................................... 558, 561, 717, 739, 748, 751, 754, 1178
Enyart, David A. Mentioned ....................... 420, 465, 468
Bricsson, Steamer. See Monitor, U. S. S.
Escort, Steamer. Mentioned ....................... 1011
Bhaleman, Benjamin F.
Mentioned ......................................... 189, 190, 194
Report of operations on the south side of James River, Va., May 4–June
2, 1864 ............................................. 222
Bamond, Richard. Mentioned ...................... 1203
Bates, Columbus. Mentioned ...................... 134
Btheridge, Anna. Mentioned ....................... 1276
Btheridge, Emerson. Mentioned .................... 427
Bthington, Scott. Mentioned ....................... 9
Dubank, John L. Mentioned ....................... 162
Bustis, Henry L.
Correspondence with John Sedgwick ................ 1148
Mentioned ......................................... 188, 189, 1089, 1149, 1150, 1167
Evans, Clement A. Report of Mine Run, Va., Campaign, Nov. 26–Dec. 2, 1863. 208
Evans, Nathan G. Mentioned ...................... 27, 28, 30–32, 466, 499
Everett, C. A. Mentioned ......................... 227
Everett, Charles.
Correspondence with Charles P. Stone ............ 402
Mentioned ......................................... 401
Bwell, Richard S. Mentioned .................... 196, 234, 248, 642, 692, 694, 702, 928, 1055, 1088, 1170
Bwing, Hugh. Mentioned ........................... 871
Bwing, John. Correspondence with Alfred L. Pearson ................ 1194
Fahnstock, Richard T. Mentioned .................. 9
Fairchild, Harrison S. Mentioned .................. 1187, 1262
Fairchild, Lucius.
Correspondence with John F. Reynolds ........................................ 986
Mentioned .................................................................................. 995

Fairfax Court-House, Va.
Skirmish at, July 17, 1861. Report of Thomas A. Davies .......... 19
Skirmish near, Nov. 27, 1861. Communication from George B. McClellan 509

Fairman, John B. Mentioned .................................................... 1279

Communications from
Heintzelman, Samuel P .......................................................... 645–649
McClellan, George B .................................................................. 647–660
McKeever, Chauncey .................................................................. 646–647
Marcy, Randolph B .................................................................. 648
Report of William W. H. Davis .................................................. 99

Fair Oaks Station, Va.
Engagement near, June 29, 1862. See Peach Orchard, Va.
Skirmish near, June 21, 1862. Communication from Cyrus B. Comstock 686

Faith, Andrew. Correspondence with Erasmus D. Keyes .............. 900

Faithful, William T.
Mentioned .................................................................................. 742, 794
Report of evacuation of Frederick, Md., by Union forces, Sept. 6, 1862 136

Falmouth, Va. Scout from Centerville to, Feb. 27–28, 1863. Communication from Percy Wyndham 988

Farmer, Thompson. Mentioned .................................................... 1279

Farnacht, Charles H. Mentioned .................................................. 1279

Farnham, Noah L. Mentioned ....................................................... 19, 408

Farnsworth, John F.
Correspondence with Fitz John Porter ....................................... 685, 693
Mentioned .................................................................................. 137, 507, 558, 681, 687, 693, 698, 701, 886, 927

Farquhar, Francis U. Mentioned .................................................. 630, 631, 635, 682, 683

Farrell, Patrick. Mentioned ......................................................... 1278

Farrell, Thomas M. Mentioned ..................................................... 751

Farrish, James A. Mentioned ...................................................... 73

Faskin, John.
Correspondence with Dixon S. Miles .......................................... 784, 788
Mentioned .................................................................................. 781

Faville, Josiah M. Mentioned ....................................................... 180

Feaster, David V. Mentioned ....................................................... 638

Fehay, Thomas. Mentioned ......................................................... 1281

Fell, G. W. Mentioned ................................................................. 1277

Fell, Joseph G. Mentioned ........................................................... 1277

Felton, Samuel M.
Correspondence with War Department, U. S ............................... 386
Mentioned .................................................................................. 1273

Fenton, William M. Mentioned .................................................... 726

Fenttrall, Hosea. Mentioned ......................................................... 167

Ferguson, Colin B.
Correspondence with
Ingalls, Rufus .......................................................................... 788
McClellan, George B ................................................................. 770, 779, 783, 788
INDEX.

Ferguson, Colin B.—Continued.
Correspondence with Roseafy, E. M. ........................................ 770
Rucker, Daniel H ...................................... 758
Mentioned ........................................ 571, 708, 778, 781, 783, 787, 825, 1086
Ferguson, Daniel. Mentioned ......................... 1240
Ferguson, John. Mentioned ............................ 211
Ferguson, Milton J. Mentioned ......................... 212, 1139
Ferrero, Edward.
Correspondence with Ambrose E. Burnside ............ 1159
Mentioned ........................................ 277, 944, 1188

Ferry, Orris S.
Assignment to duty ..................................... 1072
Correspondence with
Adjutant-General’s Office, U. S. A ...................... 707
McDowell, Irvin ........................................ 708
Mentioned ........................................ 563, 571, 707, 708, 710, 712, 715, 756, 1072, 1180
Relieved from duty in Department of the South ....... 1072

Fessenden, Francis.
Assignment to command .................................. 1216, 1217
Mentioned ........................................ 994, 1216, 1217

Fessenden, James D.
Assignment to duty ..................................... 1186
Mentioned ........................................ 1186

Fessenden, Samuel. Mentioned ......................... 688

Feverly, Robert. Mentioned ............................ 1277

Fickling, C. C. Mentioned .............................. 167

Fiefield, Benjamin F. Mentioned ....................... 75

Field, Charles W.
Correspondence with J. E. B. Stuart ................... 50
Mentioned ........................................ 247, 249, 1289

Finley, Clement A. Mentioned ......................... 56

Fish, John S. Mentioned ................................ 231

Fitch, Enoch P. Mentioned ............................. 871
Fitch, Le Roy. Mentioned .............................. 207

Fitchett, William H. Mentioned ....................... 44

Fitzhugh, Henry. Mentioned ............................ 593

Fitzhugh, Thaddeus. Mentioned ....................... 250, 1151

Fitzpatrick, James W. Mentioned ..................... 1002

Flags. Captured and lost. Communication from Fitz John Porter .......... 719

Flanders, George W. Mentioned ......................... 5

Flannery, William. Mentioned ........................ 82

Fleming, Dickson. Mentioned ........................... 9

Fleming, James. Mentioned ............................ 302

Fleming, William. Mentioned .......................... 43

Fletcher, William. Mentioned .......................... 177

Flood, .......................... Mentioned ............... 77
<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Name</th>
<th>Mentioned</th>
<th>Page(s)</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Flood, Edward H.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>84</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Report of Siege of Yorktown, Va., April 5–May 4, 1862</td>
<td>83</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Flood, Henry</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>138</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Florida Troops</td>
<td>Mentioned (Confederate)</td>
<td>192</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Infantry—Regiments</td>
<td>2d, 94.</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Flournoy, Cabell E</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>250</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Florence, J. E.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>134</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Floyd, Horace W.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>1193</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Report of engagement at Carnifex Ferry, Gauley River, W. Va., Sept. 10, 1861</td>
<td>40</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Foley, Charles</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>1281</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Foley, John C.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>302</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Foley, Richard B.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>593, 594, 600, 602</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Foley, Shadrack</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>1069</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Folsom, Robert W.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>118</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Folwell, Mahlon B.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>275</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Forbes, Henry</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>1277</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Ford, Charles H.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>637</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Ford, Thomas H.</td>
<td>Correspondence with Dixon S. Miles</td>
<td>804, 820</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Ford, William R.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>54</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Fordyce, Isaac N.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>610</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Forney, John W.</td>
<td>Correspondence with War Department, U. S.</td>
<td>813</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Forney, William H.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>94</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Forrest, William</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>224, 228</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Forsyth, James W.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>776</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Fort Calhoun, Va.</td>
<td>Designation of, changed to Fort Wool</td>
<td>555</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Fort Darling, Va.</td>
<td>Engagement at. See Proctor's Creek and Drewry's Bluff (or Fort Darling), Va. Engagement at, May 12–16, 1864.</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Fort Fisher, N. C.</td>
<td>Assault and capture of, Jan. 15, 1865. Communication from War Department, U. S.</td>
<td>1199</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Expedition to, and operations against, Dec. 7–27, 1864. Communications from David D. Porter</td>
<td>1290, 1291</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Fort Johnston, N. C.</td>
<td>Seizure of, April 16, 1861. Report of John L. Cantwell</td>
<td>1</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Fort Pendleton, Va.</td>
<td>Sketch of</td>
<td>1229</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Fort Washington, Md.</td>
<td>Condition of, etc. Communications from Edward O. C. Ord.</td>
<td>313</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Fortier, Lestang.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>87</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Fortier, Lestang.</td>
<td>Report of battle of Williamsburg, Va., May 6, 1862</td>
<td>86</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Forward, U. S. Revenue Cutter</td>
<td>Mentioned.</td>
<td>431, 442</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Name</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>Page(s)</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>-----------------------</td>
<td>---------------------------------------------------------------------------</td>
<td>-----------</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Foster, Charles W.</td>
<td>mentioned</td>
<td>483</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Foster, Clark C.</td>
<td>mentioned</td>
<td>1281</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Foster, George P.</td>
<td>mentioned</td>
<td>1193</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Foster, John G.</td>
<td>mentioned</td>
<td>537, 553</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Foster, Robert S.</td>
<td>mentioned</td>
<td>11, 1168, 1214, 1243</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Foster, Steamer</td>
<td>mentioned</td>
<td>1145</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Fouks, John</td>
<td>mentioned</td>
<td>232</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Fowler, Edward B.</td>
<td>mentioned</td>
<td>1010, 1142</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Fowler, William</td>
<td>mentioned</td>
<td>1276</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Fox, Gustavus V.</td>
<td>mentioned</td>
<td>554</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Fox, Isaac</td>
<td>mentioned</td>
<td>1276</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Fox, Richard H.</td>
<td>mentioned</td>
<td>210</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Frail, Michael</td>
<td>mentioned</td>
<td>138</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Frank, Otto</td>
<td>mentioned</td>
<td>195</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Franklin, Jeremiah</td>
<td>mentioned</td>
<td>1196</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Franklin, Luther</td>
<td>mentioned</td>
<td>1280</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Franklin, William B.</td>
<td>Assignments to command</td>
<td>408, 455, 461</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Assumes command of division, Army of the Potomac</td>
<td>466</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Assumes command of 6th Army Corps</td>
<td>628</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Congratulatory Orders. Engagement at West Point, Va., May 7, 1862</td>
<td>612</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Correspondence with</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Burnside, Ambrose E</td>
<td>1021, 1027</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Devens, Charles</td>
<td>878, 884</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Kearny, Philip</td>
<td>550</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Kenly, John R.</td>
<td>859, 880, 889, 890</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>McDowell, Irvin</td>
<td>443</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Newton, John</td>
<td>890, 891</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Porter, Fitz John</td>
<td>677, 902</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Slocum, Henry W</td>
<td>682</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Smith, William F</td>
<td>601, 973, 975</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>War Department, U.S.</td>
<td>571, 717</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Staff. Announcements of</td>
<td>466, 482, 628, 806</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Reply to report of Joint Committee of Congress on the Conduct of the War</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Battle of Fredericksburg, Va., Dec. 11–15, 1862</td>
<td>1019–1033</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Frazer, James P.</td>
<td>mentioned</td>
<td>1276</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Frazier's Farm, Va.</td>
<td>Battle of, June 30, 1862. See Glendale, Va.</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Frederick, George A.</td>
<td>mentioned</td>
<td>1281</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>
Frederick, Md. Evacuation of, by Union forces, Sept. 6, 1862. Report of William T. Faithful.................................................. 136

Fredericksburg, Va.
Battle of, Dec. 11–15, 1862.
Communications from
Army Headquarters.................................................. 957
Burnside, Ambrose E.................................................. 1021, 1027
Butterfield, Daniel.................................................. 957
Comstock, Cyrus B.................................................. 959
Hardie, James A.................................................. 1023–1025, 1031
Plans of attack. Burnside........................................... 1027
Reply of William B. Franklin to report of Joint Committee of Congress on the Conduct of the War........................................ 1019–1033
Reports of
Benning, Henry L.................................................. 173
Taylor, Nelson.................................................. 172
Terry, William R.................................................. 174
Williams, Lewis B., jr........................................... 174
Sketch of positions of troops of Left Wing, Army of the Potomac.... 1033
Testimony of Ambrose E. Burnside.................................. 1030, 1031

Battle of, May 3, 1863. See reports of Operations near, April 29–May 2, 1863 See Franklin’s Crossing, Va.

Predolf, Louis. Mentioned........................................... 1278
Freeborn, U. S. S. Mentioned........................................ 6, 7
Freedley, Henry W. Mentioned...................................... 1063
Frémont, John C.
Assumes command of Mountain Department........................................ 564
Correspondence with
Banks, Nathaniel P.................................................. 566
Lincoln, Abraham.................................................. 674
War Department, U. S.............................................. 564, 566, 581, 584, 592, 616, 697, 703, 706
Mentioned.......................................................... 77, 79, 453, 455, 575, 585, 593, 603, 686, 672, 705
Staff. Announcement of............................................. 564
French, Alexander. Mentioned....................................... 1280
French, Ballard P. Mentioned......................................... 136
French, Frank S. Mentioned........................................... 682
French, George.
Mentioned.......................................................... 293
Report of Richmond, Va., Campaign, Jan. 1–April 3, 1865................ 293
French, Hiram L. Mentioned........................................... 167
French, John W. Mentioned............................................ 254
French, Rupel G. Mentioned........................................... 585
French, William H.
Assignments to command............................................. 507, 1152
Correspondence with
Birney, David B.................................................. 1109
Carr, Joseph B.................................................. 1108
Elliott, Washington L............................................. 1075, 1076
McReynolds, Andrew T............................................. 1099
Meade, George G.................................................. 1107, 1110
Prince, Henry.................................................. 1130
Sedgwick, John.................................................. 1120
<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Name</th>
<th>Mentioned/Correspondence Details</th>
<th>Page(s)</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>French, William H.</td>
<td>Continued.</td>
<td>1353</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Farewell Orders to 3d Army Corps</td>
<td>1153</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Mentions</td>
<td>586</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Relieved from duty with Army of the Potomac</td>
<td>1152</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>French, William H., jr.</td>
<td>Mentioned.</td>
<td>1073</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Frye, James B.</td>
<td>Mentioned.</td>
<td>389, 396, 413, 457</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Fry, William H.</td>
<td>mentioned.</td>
<td>284, 285</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Fry, William O.</td>
<td>menioned.</td>
<td>134</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Fryer, John</td>
<td>menioned.</td>
<td>183</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Fuller, George</td>
<td>menioned.</td>
<td>1280</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Fuller, William L.</td>
<td>menioned.</td>
<td>219</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Fulton, Stewart W.</td>
<td>menioned.</td>
<td>1277</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Fulton, W. R.</td>
<td>menioned.</td>
<td>638</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Geary, John W.</td>
<td>menioned.</td>
<td>629</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Geary, John W.</td>
<td>menioned.</td>
<td>629</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Geary, John W.</td>
<td>menioned.</td>
<td>629</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Geary, John W.</td>
<td>menioned.</td>
<td>645</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Galbraith, John M.</td>
<td>menioned.</td>
<td>40, 191, 223, 224, 226, 227</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Galbraith, William P.</td>
<td>menioned.</td>
<td>8</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Galena, U. S.</td>
<td>menioned.</td>
<td>615</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Gall, James</td>
<td>menioned.</td>
<td>1278</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Gallagher, Francis</td>
<td>menioned.</td>
<td>784</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Gallagher, John C.</td>
<td>menioned.</td>
<td>243</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Gallagher, Thomas F.</td>
<td>menioned.</td>
<td>148, 149, 153, 752</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Gallagher, William J.</td>
<td>menioned.</td>
<td>719</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Gallagher, Thomas F.</td>
<td>menioned.</td>
<td>1277</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Gallagher, William J.</td>
<td>menioned.</td>
<td>660</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Gallatin, James</td>
<td>menioned.</td>
<td>784</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Gamble, Edward</td>
<td>menioned.</td>
<td>962, 967</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Gardner, Benjamin C.</td>
<td>menioned.</td>
<td>1195</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Gardner, Benjamin C.</td>
<td>menioned.</td>
<td>1290</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>
Gardner, George G. Mentioned ........................................... 1278
Gardner, Robert S. Mentioned .............................................. 500
Gardner, William F. Mentioned ........................................... 135
Garfield, James A. Mentioned ............................................ 527
Garing, G. Mentioned .................................................. 1278
Garnet, Wiley. Mentioned .................................................. 33
Garnett, Richard B. Mentioned ........................................... 174
Garrard, Jeptha. Mentioned ................................................ 1145

Garrard, Kenner. Mentioned ................................................. 888, 906, 1131
Received from duty with Army of the Potomac .......................... 1131

Garrett, John W.
Correspondence with
McClellan, George B .................................................. 543, 789, 821, 838
Schenck, Robert C. .................................................. 1069
War Department, U.S .................................................. 531, 657, 658, 685, 840, 841
Mentioned .................................................. 327, 540, 541, 789, 841, 968

Garrett, Thomas M. Mentioned ........................................... 33
Garrett, William Robertson. Mentioned ................................ 85, 88
Garrison, Isaac. Mentioned ................................................ 1278
Garvie, William. Mentioned ................................................ 1278
Gary, William J. Mentioned ................................................ 630
Gates, Theodore B. Mentioned ............................................ 238

Gavin, James.
Correspondence with John F. Reynolds .................................. 996
Mentioned .................................................. 526, 953

Gayle, Bristor B. Mentioned ............................................. 142
Geary, Edward R. Mentioned ............................................. 120
Geary, John W.
Correspondence with
Army Headquarters .................................................. 427
McClellan, Irvin .................................................. 616–618, 672
Stone, Charles P .................................................. 454, 489
Wadsworth, James S .................................................. 629
War Department, U.S .................................................. 589–591, 596, 606, 614–617, 629, 633, 636
Mentioned .................................................. 429, 490, 568, 574, 601, 619, 628, 729, 893, 991, 1063, 1064, 1070
Geck, Henry. Mentioned .................................................. 82
Gedricke, Ernest. Mentioned .............................................. 8
Gee, Volney B. Mentioned .................................................. 184
Geiger, Josiah E. Mentioned ................................................ 1276
Geiss, Jacob. Mentioned .................................................. 1278
General Lyon, Steamer. Mentioned .................................... 1264
Gentry, William T. Mentioned ............................................ 776
George, John H. Mentioned .............................................. 1240
George, John S. Mentioned ................................................ 417, 164
George, Paul R. Mentioned ................................................ 494
Georgia Troops. Mentioned. (Confederate.)
Georgiana, Schooner. Mentioned ......................................... 431
Germond, William. Mentioned ............................................ 1278
Gessner, George. Mentioned .............................................. 228
<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>INDEX.</th>
<th>Page.</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Gest,  _____. Mentioned</td>
<td>485</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Getty, George W.</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Assignment to command</td>
<td>1152</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Correspondence with</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Grant, Lewis A.</td>
<td>1193</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>McClellan, George B</td>
<td>780</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Willcox, Orlando B</td>
<td>899, 900, 916, 993</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>239, 385, 528, 722, 779, 865, 899, 903, 914, 1139, 1152</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Gettysburg, Pa. Battle of, July 1–3, 1863. Communications from</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Meade, George G</td>
<td>1068</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Howard, Oliver O</td>
<td>1067, 1069</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>See also reports of Eckert, p. 198; Moore, p. 200; Purdy, p. 203.</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Gettysburg Campaign, June 3–Aug. 1, 1863. Communications from</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Birney, David B</td>
<td>1071</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Doubleday, Abner</td>
<td>1066</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>French, William H</td>
<td>1075, 1079, 1081, 1082</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Hays, William</td>
<td>1082</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Howard, Oliver O</td>
<td>1079</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>McReynolds, Andrew T</td>
<td>1069</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Meade, George G</td>
<td>1077</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Newton, John</td>
<td>1079–1082</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Reynolds, John F</td>
<td>1064–1086</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Sedgwick, John</td>
<td>1070–1072, 1077, 1080</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Sickles, Daniel E</td>
<td>1066</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Slocum, Henry W</td>
<td>1064, 1070, 1071, 1074</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Stahel, Julius</td>
<td>1072</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Sykes, George</td>
<td>1065</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>War Department, U. S.</td>
<td>1059</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Reports of</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Eckert, Thomas T</td>
<td>197</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Moore, Alexander</td>
<td>200</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Neill, Thomas H</td>
<td>196</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Purdy, Lovell, jr.</td>
<td>201</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Gibbon, John</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Assignments to command</td>
<td>605, 922, 1111, 1122</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Correspondence with Andrew A. Humphreys</td>
<td>1208</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>70, 73, 102, 151, 178, 234, 244, 271, 277, 278, 281, 282, 576, 605, 837, 877, 922, 927, 945, 946, 949, 950, 953, 954, 956, 974, 1022, 1024, 1025, 1029, 1031, 1033, 1060, 1111, 1122, 1152, 1191, 1193, 1208</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Relieved from command of Draft Rendezvous</td>
<td>1132</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Gibbs, Alfred</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Correspondence with Wesley Merritt</td>
<td>1132, 1133</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>1077, 1083</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Gibbes, Ira B. Mentioned</td>
<td>483</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Gibson, Augustus A. Mentioned</td>
<td>335, 351, 432, 1255, 1258</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Gibson, George. Mentioned</td>
<td>1277</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Gibson, George, jr. Mentioned</td>
<td>1083, 1084</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Gibson, Thomas</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>1136</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Report of scout to Leesburg, Va., April 21–24, 1863.</td>
<td>177</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Gilbert, Orra B. Mentioned</td>
<td>82</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Gilbert, Samuel A. Mentioned</td>
<td>509</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Gilbert, William. Mentioned</td>
<td>1278</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Gilbreath, Erasmus C. Mentioned</td>
<td>236</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>
Gilder, William H. For correspondence as A. A. G., see William A. Olmsted.

Giles Court-House, W. Va. Occupation of, by Union forces. Communication from James M. Comly .......................... 605

Gilespie, Patrick. Mentioned ................................................................................................................................. 1281

Gilham, William. Mentioned ................................................................................................................................. 317

Gillespie, George L. Mentioned .............................................................................................................................. 274

Gillis, D. W. Mentioned ........................................................................................................................................ 94

Gillis, James H. Correspondence with Erasmus D. Keyes ........................................ 1001, 1049, 1050

Gilmore, Quincy A.
Correspondence with
Butler, Benjamin F .................................................................................................................................................. 1163
Jackson, Richard H .................................................................................................................................................. 1164
Serrell, Edward W ................................................................................................................................................... 1164
Shafer, James R ..................................................................................................................................................... 1167
Smith, Edward W ................................................................................................................................................... 1168

Mentioned ................................................................................................................................................................. 1164, 1165, 1168, 1224, 1232, 1234, 1235, 1238, 1241, 1242, 1244, 1280, 1286

Gilman, George E. Report of Shenandoah Valley Campaign, Aug. 7-Nov. 28, 1864 ................................................................................................................................................................................. 284

Gilmore, Charles D. Correspondence with Alfred L. Pearson ................................................................................. 1185

Gilmore, George W. Mentioned ............................................................................................................................... 595, 609

Gilmore, James R. Mentioned ...................................................................................................................................... 263

Gilpin, Charles.
Correspondence with
Tyler, Erastus B ...................................................................................................................................................... 1171, 1172

Wallace, Lew ............................................................................................................................................................. 1172

Mentioned ................................................................................................................................................................. 1173

Gilsa, Leopold von.
Assignment to command ............................................................................................................................................... 895

Mentioned ................................................................................................................................................................. 895

Ginn, Frederick B. Mentioned ...................................................................................................................................... 183

Gladson, Walter. Mentioned ...................................................................................................................................... 1281

Gleason, John H. Mentioned ...................................................................................................................................... 302

Glendale, Va. Battle of, June 30, 1862. See reports of Fisher, p. 112; McCandless, p. 111; Miller, p. 109; Porter, p. 114; Thomas, p. 118; Thompson, p. 116; Todd, p. 110.

Glenn, Edwin A. Mentioned ......................................................................................................................................... 144

Glenn, John F. Mentioned .......................................................................................................................................... 188

Gloskoski, Joseph. Mentioned ...................................................................................................................................... 1129

Goddard, William. Mentioned ...................................................................................................................................... 958

Goddin, N. A. H. Mentioned ......................................................................................................................................... 33

Godfrey, John S. Mentioned ......................................................................................................................................... 945

Goldsborough, Louis M.
Correspondence with George B. McClellan .............................................................................................................. 591, 597, 615, 617, 697, 713

Mentioned ................................................................................................................................................................. 615, 633, 677, 708

Goode, J. Thomas. Mentioned ....................................................................................................................................... 273

Goodin, J. H. Mentioned ................................................................................................................................................. 228

Gordon, Lieutenant. Mentioned ................................................................................................................................... 37

Gordon, George H.
Correspondence with Erasmus D. Keyes .................................................................................................................... 1051, 1052, 1056

Mentioned ................................................................................................................................................................. 122–124, 141, 145, 149, 163, 1058

Gordon, James B. Mentioned ......................................................................................................................................... 248, 266

Gordon, John B. Mentioned ........................................................................................................................................... 208, 209, 245

Gordon, Timothy. Mentioned .......................................................................................................................................... 3, 5
<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Name</th>
<th>Mentioned/Assignment to Duty</th>
<th>Page Numbers</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Gorman, Owen</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>1281</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Gorman, Willis A.</td>
<td>Assignment to duty</td>
<td>480</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Correspondence with George B. McClellan</td>
<td>528, 529</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>108, 480, 913</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Reports of battle of Bull Run, Va., July 21, 1861</td>
<td>20, 23</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Gould, J. Parker.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>140, 141</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Gowen, George W.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>1188</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Gower, George W.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>1276</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Gracie, Archibald, jr.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>221, 1234</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Grady, C. Powell.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>249</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Grady, James H.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>298</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Graffam, Stephen.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>1280</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Graham, Captain.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>230</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Graham, Charles K.</td>
<td>Assignment to command</td>
<td>995</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Correspondence with</td>
<td>995, 1145, 1157, 1159, 1160, 1192</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Relieved from command of Norfolk, Va.</td>
<td>1160</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Graham, David H.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>155</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Graham, Lawrence P.</td>
<td>Assignment to command</td>
<td>472, 475, 674</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Correspondence with</td>
<td>308</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Adjutant-General's Office, U. S. A</td>
<td>354, 355</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Army Headquarters</td>
<td>353, 356</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Porter, Fitz John</td>
<td>472, 475, 479, 482, 585, 674</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Relieved from duty with Army of the Potomac</td>
<td>674</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Staff. Announcement of</td>
<td>482</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Graham, Pike</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>346</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Graham, William M.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>1134</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Granger, Charles M.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>302</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Granger, Gordon</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>333, 339, 373</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Granger, J. W.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>1277</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Grant, Lewis A.</td>
<td>Correspondence with George W. Getty</td>
<td>1133</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Grant, Robert</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>1278</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Grant, U. S.</td>
<td>Assignment to duty</td>
<td>455</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Correspondence with</td>
<td>1158, 1191</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Meade, George G</td>
<td>1197</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Navy Department, U. S.</td>
<td>1153</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Smith, William P</td>
<td>1200</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Terry, Alfred H</td>
<td>200, 239, 251–255, 262, 270, 271, 455, 1158, 1167, 1180, 1191, 1202, 1257, 1288, 1289</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Graasley, Herman</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>1276</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Greaves, ———</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>678</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Gray, Clarence W.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>1279</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Gray, John A.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>184</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Gray, John C.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>1277</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Gray, Sewell C.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>186</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Gray, William H.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>398, 429</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Greble, John T.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>3–5, 1230, 1231</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Greeley, Edwin S.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>1167, 1168</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Greeley, Charles.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>1281</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Name</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>Page</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>-----------------------</td>
<td>----------------------------</td>
<td>------</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Green, ____</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>69</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Green, Milbrey</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>286</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Greenbrier River, W. Va</td>
<td>Engagement at, Oct. 3, 1861. Reports of</td>
<td>44</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Higginbotham, John C</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Scott, William C</td>
<td></td>
<td>44</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Taliaferro, Alexander G</td>
<td></td>
<td>43</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Greene, George S.</td>
<td>Assignment to duty</td>
<td>720</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Greene, Oliver D.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>806</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Greenman, J. M.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>228</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Skirmishes near.</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>May 30, 1863. Communications from Julius Stabel</td>
<td>1043</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>March 9, 1864. Reports of</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Kerwin, Michael</td>
<td>217</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>White, Charles A</td>
<td>218</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Gregg, David McM.</td>
<td>Assignments to command</td>
<td>716, 1153</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Correspondence with</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Gregg, J. Irvin</td>
<td>1159</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Pleasonton, Alfred</td>
<td>1047, 1113–1117</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Stoneman, George</td>
<td>671</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>249, 257, 279, 559, 716, 927, 1064, 1086, 1106, 1153, 1184</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Report of reconnaissance to Malvern Hill, Va., July 23, 1862</td>
<td>118</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Gregg, J. Irvin</td>
<td>Correspondence with</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>David McM. Gregg</td>
<td>1159</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>1114, 1117, 1184</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Gregg, Maxcy.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>164</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Gregg, Theodore.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>1189</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Gregory, Edgar M.</td>
<td>Correspondence with</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Anthony, Joseph</td>
<td>160</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Humphreys, Andrew A</td>
<td>160</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>O'Brien, Edward</td>
<td>160</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Report of Maryland Campaign, Sept. 3–20, 1862</td>
<td>159</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Grice, Washington L.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>118</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Gries, John M.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>100</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Gries, William R.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>100</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Griffin, Charles</td>
<td>Assignment to command</td>
<td>697</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Assumes command of 1st Division, 5th Army Corps</td>
<td>947</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Correspondence with</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Daniel Butterfield</td>
<td>948, 950, 957</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>259, 260, 286, 343, 697, 701, 722, 759, 761, 801, 905, 906, 948, 950, 957, 1014, 1018, 1036, 1183, 1194, 1195, 1216</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Staff. Announcement of</td>
<td>947</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Griffin, Simon G.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>1161</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Griffith, E.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>9271</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Griggs, Asel B.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>297</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Griggs, George V.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>70</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>
INDEX.

Grimshaw, Arthur H.
Correspondence with Erasmus D. Keyes ........................................ 1001
Mentioned ............................................................. 969, 1001, 1056

Grindle, Madison J.
Mentioned ............................................................... 288

Griswold, Charles H.
Mentioned ............................................................... 82

Grover, Cuvier.
Assignments to command .................................................. 581, 879
Correspondence with George B. McClellan ......................................... 615
Mentioned ................................................................. 581, 840, 879

Groveton, Va.
Battle of, Aug. 29, 1862.  See reports of Ashby, Philip S., p. 134.
Clark, John, p. 125.
Herbert, Arthur, p. 134.
Holmes, Joseph G., p. 127.
Langley, Frank H., p. 133.
Mentioned ........................................................................ 969, 1001, 1056

Grow, Galusha A.
Mentioned ................................................................. 427

For correspondence as Speaker, see Congress, U. S.

Guerrillas.
Operations against.  Communication from John C. Frémont .................. 568

Guide, Steamer.
Mentioned ................................................................. 239

Guillotte, H.
Mentioned ................................................................. 229, 230

Guindon, Eugene W.
For correspondence as A. D. C., see Henry W. Slocum.

Guiney's Station, Va.
Combat at, May 21, 1864.  See itinerary, p. 243.

Guinness, John.
Mentioned ................................................................. 1276

Guion, George M.
Mentioned ............................................................... 1252, 1264

Gurney, William.
Mentioned ................................................................. 988, 1006

Gustin, Richard.
Mentioned ................................................................. 154

Guthrie, James V.
Mentioned ................................................................. 420, 465

Gwin, William M.
Mentioned ................................................................. 597

Habeas Corpus, Writ of.
Suspension of.  Communications from
Army Headquarters .......................................................... 337, 409, 497

Lincoln, Abraham .......................................................... 409

State Department, U. S. .................................................... 409

Hackleman, Pleasant A.
Mentioned ................................................................. 429

Hager, S. S.
Mentioned ................................................................. 1277

Haggerty, James.
Mentioned ................................................................. 19

Haggerty, Peter.
Mentioned ................................................................. 494, 1284, 1285

Hagood, Johnson.
Mentioned ................................................................. 223, 227, 230

Hahn, Simeon.
Mentioned ................................................................. 1277

Haile, S. T.
Mentioned ................................................................. 231

Haines, Benjamin F.
Mentioned ................................................................. 287

Haines, Thomas J.
Mentioned ................................................................. 407

Hains, Peter C.
Report of Maryland Campaign, Sept. 3–20, 1862 ................................ 137

Haire, James C.
Mentioned ................................................................. 167

Hairston, Peter.
Mentioned ................................................................. 136

Hale, Charles H.
Mentioned ................................................................. 871

Hale, William H.
Mentioned ................................................................. 331

Hall, George W.
Mentioned ................................................................. 167

Hall, James R.
Correspondence with
Brown, William R. .......................................................... 1139

Crook, George ............................................................ 951

Mentioned ................................................................. 212

Hall, James B.
Correspondence with George B. McClellan ...................................... 886, 897

Hall, J. M.
Mentioned ................................................................. 1280

Hall, Joseph W.
Mentioned ................................................................. 177

Hall, Norman J.
For correspondence as Adjutant, see John G. Barnard.
<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Name</th>
<th>Mentioned</th>
<th>Page</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Hall, William P.</td>
<td>Correspondence with Erasmus D. Keyes</td>
<td>969, 1004</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>969–972</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Halleck, Henry W.</td>
<td>Correspondence with</td>
<td>1178</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>War Department, U.S.</td>
<td>1062</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>For other correspondence, see Army Headquarters</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>492, 556–558, 643, 645, 738, 732, 752, 756, 758, 805, 812, 813, 830, 862, 863, 946, 963, 961, 966, 970, 998, 1000, 1002, 1013, 1019, 1026, 1027, 1055, 1071, 1076, 1081, 1083, 1088, 10–8, 1131, 1135, 1175, 1285</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Haller, Granville O.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>775, 779</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Haisted, Emelin P.</td>
<td>Correspondence with</td>
<td>927</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>For other correspondence, see Admin Doubleday</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Hamilton, Charles S.</td>
<td>Assignments to command</td>
<td>442, 455, 551</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Correspondence with War Department, U.S.</td>
<td>643</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>79, 83, 422, 429, 442, 455, 463, 500, 502, 551, 558</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Hamilton, Frank B.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>138</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Hamilton, Frank H.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>466</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Hamilton, George S.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>33</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Hamilton, J. K.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>1277</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Hamilton, Schuyler.</td>
<td>For correspondence as Military Secretary, see Army Headquarters</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Hamilton, William D.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>51–53</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Hamlin, James H.</td>
<td>Report of Richmond, Va., Campaign, Jan. 1–April 3, 1865</td>
<td>304</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Hamlin, Derrick F.</td>
<td>Report of Richmond, Va., Campaign, Jan. 1–April 3, 1865</td>
<td>305</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Hammond, William A.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>723</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Hampton, Wade.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>28, 245, 247, 897, 960</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Hancock, John</td>
<td>For correspondence as A. A. G., see Winfield S. Hancock</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Hancock, Winfield S.</td>
<td>Assignment to command</td>
<td>489</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Correspondence with</td>
<td>866</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Caldwell, John C.</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Miles, Nelson A.</td>
<td>1034</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>War Department, U.S.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>1151</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Resigns command of 2d Army Corps</td>
<td>1139</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Hand, Thomas</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>306</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Handy, John T.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>194</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Hankins, M. M.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>2</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Hannah, James.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>1290</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Hanson, Austin</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>1281</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Hardee, William J.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>605, 806</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Hardeman, Thomas.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>118</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Harden, Philip M.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>1278</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Hardenbergh, Jacob B.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>239</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Name</td>
<td>Mentioned/Correspondence</td>
<td>Page(s)</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>-------------------------------</td>
<td>--------------------------</td>
<td>-------------</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Hardie, James A.</td>
<td>Correspondence with</td>
<td>1023-1025, 1030, 1031</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Burnside, Ambrose E.</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Stone, Charles P.</td>
<td></td>
<td>517</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Harder, W. T.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>227</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Hardin, Martin D.</td>
<td>Correspondence with</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Angu, Christopher C</td>
<td></td>
<td>1178</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Lowell, Charles R., jr.</td>
<td></td>
<td>1177</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Harlin, Edward</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>130</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Harkins, Hugh</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>144</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Harkness, James</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>1280</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Harland, Edward</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>334, 350, 373</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Harkins, Hugh</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>155</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Harkness, James</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>177</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Harper, Charles</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>135</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Harper, George G.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>138</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Harper's Ferry, W. Va.</td>
<td>Operations about</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Harper's Ferry Armory.</td>
<td>Measures for protection</td>
<td>308, 309</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>of</td>
<td>309</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Adjutant-General's Office, U. S. A</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td>906</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Harper, George G.</td>
<td></td>
<td>308, 309</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td>309</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td>906</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Name</td>
<td>Page</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>---------------------------</td>
<td>---------------</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Harper's Ferry Armory</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Measures for protection of Communications from—Continued.</td>
<td>310</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Hunt, Henry J</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Ordnance Department, U. S. A</td>
<td>309</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>War Department, U. S.</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Harriet Lane, Steamer</td>
<td>1275</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Harlington, George</td>
<td>73, 75</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Harlington, George W.</td>
<td>53</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Harrington, Samuel</td>
<td>1262</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Harris, Benjamin F.</td>
<td>181–183</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Harris, David B.</td>
<td>27–29, 31</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Harris, Isham G.</td>
<td>384</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Harris, John</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Correspondence with</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Navy Department, U. S.</td>
<td>313</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Harris, Nathaniel H.</td>
<td>94</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Harris, Thomas</td>
<td>134</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Harris, Thomas M.</td>
<td>578</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Assignment to command</td>
<td>578, 584, 1141, 1201, 1205</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Harris, W. A.</td>
<td>95</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Harris, William T.</td>
<td>166</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Harris' Farm, Va.</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Combat at, May 19, 1864.</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>See report of Merrill, p. 234.</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Harrison, Burton N.</td>
<td>222</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Harrow, William</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Assignment to command</td>
<td>1046</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Hart, David A.</td>
<td>23</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Hart, James H.</td>
<td>1184</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Hart, Orson H.</td>
<td>987</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>For correspondence as A. A. G., see Daniel E. Sickles and William H. French.</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Hart, Samuel</td>
<td>1277</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Hart, Samuel C.</td>
<td>1187</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Hart, S. P.</td>
<td>1281</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Harter, Benjamin C.</td>
<td>637, 638</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Hartranft, John F.</td>
<td>408, 1206</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Hartshorne, William R.</td>
<td>156</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Hartsuff, George L.</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Correspondence with</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>McDowell, Irvin</td>
<td>612</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Rosecrans, William S.</td>
<td>515–517</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>War Department, U. S.</td>
<td>590, 598, 607, 612, 673</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>For other correspondence, see William S. Rosecrans.</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>74, 76, 140, 142, 147, 443, 518, 522, 612, 639, 664, 676, 874</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Hartsuff, George L., Mrs.</td>
<td>76</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Hartwood Church, Va.</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Baxter</td>
<td>175</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Hartz, Edward L.</td>
<td>1093–1095, 1097</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Harvey, Elisha B.</td>
<td>114</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Harvey, John C.</td>
<td>143</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>
INDEX.

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Name</th>
<th>Mentioned</th>
<th>Page</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Harvey, Martin</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>1281</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Harwood, Franklin</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>274–276</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Hasensahl, Nicholas</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>138</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Haskell, Frank</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>234</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Haskell, Frank A</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>178</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Haskin, John B</td>
<td>Correspondence with War Department, U. S.</td>
<td>328</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Haskin, Joseph A</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>325, 751, 796, 805, 813, 825, 831, 952, 1007</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Hastings, David H</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>349, 358</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Hasty, Charles</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>73</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Hatch, John P</td>
<td>Assignments to command</td>
<td>511, 532, 538, 562, 831, 1104</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>63, 64, 132, 511, 526, 532, 558, 562, 582, 727, 728, 752, 801, 809, 818, 821, 831, 1104</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Relieved from command of Draft Rendezvous</td>
<td></td>
<td>1104</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Relieved from duty with 1st Army Corps</td>
<td></td>
<td>562</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>See also reports of</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Hatfield, William C</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>1279</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Haughton, Nathaniel</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>53</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Haupt, Hermann</td>
<td>Correspondence with</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Army Headquarters</td>
<td>887</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>McClellan, George B</td>
<td>769, 778, 930, 937</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>McDowell, Irvin</td>
<td>640</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Schriver, Edmund</td>
<td>645</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>War Department, U. S.</td>
<td>599, 636</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>71, 72</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Haven, Franklin</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>69, 71, 78, 575</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Hawes, Samuel</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>222, 225, 228</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Hawkes, Rush C</td>
<td>Correspondence with Orlando B. Willcox</td>
<td>994</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Croghan</td>
<td>36</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Hawley, Joseph R</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>1163, 1232, 1236, 1238, 1242–1244, 1289</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Hawley, William A</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>1095</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Hawthorne, George W</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>1276</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Hay, George</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>1011, 1038</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Haycock, Joel A</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>182, 186</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Hayden, Julius</td>
<td>For correspondence as A. A. A. G., see David B. Birney</td>
<td>1276</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Hayden, Samuel B</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>1280</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Hayes, Charles H</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Hayes, Rutherford B</td>
<td>Correspondence with</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Comly, James M</td>
<td>605, 1073</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>McIlrath, James P</td>
<td>1039</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Scammon, Eliakim P</td>
<td>592, 594, 595, 599, 601–604, 606, 608, 609, 611, 1039</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>994, 1134, 1135, 1141</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Report of Morgan's Raid, July 2–26, 1863</td>
<td>207</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Hayman, Samuel B</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>1036, 1010, 1073, 1279–1281</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Name</td>
<td>Page References</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>-----------------------</td>
<td>--------------------------------------------------------------------------------</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>
| Hays, Alexander       | Assignment to command: 970
Correspondence with William Hays: 1082
Mentioned: 79, 80, 116, 233, 970, 975, 994, 1060, 1085, 1143, 1220 |
| Hays, Harry T.        | Mentioned: 193, 1033
Hays, Peter. Mentioned: 96 |
| Hays, William.        | Assignment to duty: 1202
Correspondence with Hays, Alexander: 1082
Humphreys, Andrew A.: 1209, 1210
Warren, Gouverneur K: 1085
Mentioned: 528, 722, 826, 1075, 1077, 1082, 1202, 1206–1210, 1212 |
| Hayward, William H.   | Mentioned: 577 |
| Hazard, John G.       | Mentioned: 281, 282, 1082, 1182, 1208 |
| Hazlett, Charles E.   | Mentioned: 170, 687, 723
| Hazzard, James        | Mentioned: 1280 |
| Hazzard, William H.   | Mentioned: 1276 |
| Head, George R.       | Mentioned: 33, 34 |
| Head, F. Mentioned    | 168 |
Communications from John F. Reynolds: 28, 29, 31 |
| Heaton, Henry         | Mentioned: 1225, 1227 |
| Heaton, N. R.         | Mentioned: 109 |
| Hebard, Daniel.       | Mentioned: 13 |
| Heck, Jonathan M.     | Mentioned: 390, 396, 455, 491 |
| Heckman, Charles A.   | Assignment to command: 1139
Correspondence with Benjamin F. Butler: 1147, 1148, 1150, 1152, 1156, 1157, 1159
Mentioned: 1139, 1150, 1158, 1160, 1185 |
| Hedges, Job C.        | Mentioned: 82 |
| Heffren, Horace H.    | Mentioned: 11 |
| Hegeman, William      | Mentioned: 517 |
| Heidi, Thomas G.      | Mentioned: 50 |
| Helga, George.        | Mentioned: 1276 |
| Heine, William        | Mentioned: 1197 |
| Heintzelman, Samuel P.| Assignment to command: 390, 396, 455, 491
Correspondence with: 1038
Abercrombie, John J.: 328, 403
Army Headquarters: 813
Banks, Nathaniel P.: 1287
Butler, Benjamin F.: 548, 645–649, 653–655, 670, 703, 788, 797, 921
McKeever, Chauncey: 756
Schenck, Robert C.: 1011, 1041
Sedgwick, John: 504
Stahel, Julius: 1043, 1074
War Department, U. S.: 716
Wyndham, Percy: 988 |
<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Name</th>
<th>Mentioned</th>
<th>Page</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Heintzelman, Samuel P.</td>
<td>Continued</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Staff. Announcement of</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td>1277</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Heist, John.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td>690</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Hemingway, Leverett G.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>127</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Henderson, Robert M.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>1279</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Hendricks, John H.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>141</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Hendrickson, John.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Henry, Guy V.</td>
<td></td>
<td>1248–1251, 1366, 1289</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>283, 1193</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Report of Shenandoah Valley Campaign, Aug. 7–Nov. 28, 1864</td>
<td>283</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Herbert, Arthur.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>33</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Hercules, U. S. Revenue Cutter.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>504, 518</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Herndon Station and Thornton’s Mills, Va. Reconnaissance from Dranesville to, Oct. 20, 1861. Report of John G. Parke</td>
<td>45</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Hero, Andrew, jr.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>191, 193, 194, 222–225</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Reports of</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>194</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>James River, Va. Operations on the south side of, May 4–June 2, 1861</td>
<td>228</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Herpst, Henry H.</td>
<td>Report of Richmond, Va., Campaign, Jan. 1–April 3, 1865</td>
<td>296</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Hess, Frank W.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>109, 110</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Hess, George H.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>245, 247, 606</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Heth, Henry.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>1228</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Hickock, Harris S.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>1190</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Hicks, George.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>1190</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Hicks, George A.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>312, 354, 360, 1273</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>For correspondence, etc., see Maryland, Governor of.</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Hicks, Wilson T.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>279</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Higginson, Henry L.</td>
<td>Correspondence with George B. McClellan</td>
<td>783</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>781, 783</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Higgon, ———.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>215</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Hildebrand, Charles M.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>113, 146</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Hill, Ambrose P.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>61, 91–93, 169, 166, 167, 790, 784, 795, 807, 913, 918, 919, 928, 1015, 1083, 1088, 1196</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Hill, Charles W.</td>
<td>Assignment to duty</td>
<td>434</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>434</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Name</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>Page</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>-------------------------------</td>
<td>----------------------------</td>
<td>----------</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Hill, Daniel H.</td>
<td>Correspondence with J. E. B. Stuart</td>
<td>50</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Hill, F. O. J. S.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>1279</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Hill, Frederick A.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>183</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Hill, George H.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>1262</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Hill, H. R. W., Steamer</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>371</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Hill, James C.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>273</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Hill, William H.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>1088</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Hillhouse, John</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>482</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Hine, Orrin E.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>274-276</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Hines, Jonathan D.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>439, 465, 468, 469, 477, 481-483, 871</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Hinkle, William J.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>871</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Hinke, Edward W.</td>
<td>Assignment to command</td>
<td>1154, 1202</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Hitchcock, Robert E.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>19</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Hoagland, Edward</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>63, 64, 66, 70</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Hobbs, Wellington</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>1281</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Hockingport, Ohio</td>
<td>Skirmish near, July 20, 1863. See report of Hayes, p. 207.</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Hoff, John J.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>628</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Hoffeditz, John C. A.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>432</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Hoffman, Henry C.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>974</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Hoffman, Southard</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>537</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Hofmann, J. William</td>
<td>Assignment to command</td>
<td>1165</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Correspondence with</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Doubleday, Abner</td>
<td>880, 883, 923</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Halsted, Eminel P</td>
<td>927</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Pleasanton, Alfred</td>
<td>916</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>880, 917, 943, 1165, 1166, 1183</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Hoke, Robert F.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>223, 224, 229, 230, 232, 1230, 1232, 1289</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Holabird, Samuel B.</td>
<td>For correspondence as A. D. C., see Nathaniel P. Banks.</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Holden, Levi H.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>588, 676</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Holliday, Jonas P.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>558</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Holly, Fort.</td>
<td>See Fort Holly.</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Hollywood, Andrew</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>1278</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Holman, John H.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>265</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Report of Richmond, Va., Campaign, June 13–July 31, 1864.</td>
<td>263</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Holmes, Joseph G.</td>
<td>Report of campaign in Northern Virginia, Aug. 16–Sept. 2, 1862</td>
<td>127</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Holmes, Theophilus H.</td>
<td>Correspondence with Adjutant-General's Office, U. S. A.</td>
<td>316</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Holmes, William R.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>101, 163, 165</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Holmes, William W.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>871</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Holt, James C.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>1280</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Holt, Joseph</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>308-310, 312, 427, 435</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>For correspondence, etc., see War Department, U. S.</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Holt, Thomas</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>202, 203, 206</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Hood, J. G.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>232</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Hood, John B.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>133, 694</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Hooker, George H.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>1237, 1238</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Hooker, George W.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>1212</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>
INDEX.

Hooker, Joseph.
Assignments to command.................................................. 455, 496
Assumes command of 5th Army Corps.................................... 945

Correspondence with
Birney, David B.............................................................. 1050
Comstock, Cyrus B.......................................................... 979, 980, 982, 984, 989, 991, 999, 1003
Couch, Darius N............................................................. 1016, 1045
Howard, Oliver O........................................................... 1045, 1061
Lincoln, Abraham........................................................... 1000, 1071
Lowe, Thaddeus S.......................................................... 1015, 1035
McClellan, George B...................................................... 530, 532, 536, 540, 543, 548, 557, 783, 831, 834
Marston, Gilman............................................................ 561
Meade, George G............................................................ 1036, 1045, 1061
Navy Department, U. S..................................................... 1001
Porter, Fitz John............................................................ 945
Reynolds, John F........................................................... 1050
Sedgwick, John............................................................... 992, 1033, 1034, 1045, 1046, 1053
Sickles, Daniel E........................................................... 988, 993, 1036, 1040
Sigel, Franz................................................................. 982
Mentioned ................................................................. 143, 151, 152, 154, 155, 178, 183, 455, 456, 489, 496, 503, 532,
535, 536, 542, 559, 561, 565, 581, 630, 635, 645, 646, 648, 654–656, 658, 669, 667,
670, 672, 681, 684, 689, 767, 769, 803, 831, 833, 835–837, 839, 842, 945, 947, 950,
957, 984, 992, 1004, 1009, 1015, 1016, 1021, 1022, 1025, 1026, 1035–1038, 1040, 1044–1046, 1050, 1053, 1059, 1062, 1064, 1074, 1095, 1099, 1145, 1275
Staff. Announcement of.................................................... 945
Hooton, Mott. Mentioned................................................... 109
Hopkins, Francis. Mentioned............................................... 1276
Hopkins, James W. Mentioned............................................. 621
Hopper, Robinson. Mentioned.............................................. 1278
Horine, William. Mentioned................................................ 1279
Hosford, W. A. Mentioned.................................................. 73
Hospitals. Records of, of Army of the Potomac, during the Richmond, Va., Campaign, Aug. 1–Dec. 31, 1864........................................ 281, 282
Hotchkiss, B. B. Mentioned................................................. 538
Hougendoubler, John A. Mentioned....................................... 146
Hough, William D. Mentioned.............................................. 60
Houghton, G. M. Mentioned................................................ 1278
Hounsfield, Edgar. Mentioned............................................... 1067
House, George F. Mentioned............................................... 1277
Houston, David C.
Correspondence with Irvin McDowell..................................... 727
Mentioned ........................................................................... 68, 70, 75–77, 587, 668, 801, 810
Howard, Daniel O. Mentioned.............................................. 1279
Howard, John B. Mentioned.................................................. 775
Howard, Louis J. Mentioned.................................................. 746
Howard, Oliver O.
Assignments to command..................................................... 473, 502, 507
Correspondence with Bealeton Station, Va., Commanding Officer at....................... 1090
Casey, Silas................................................................. 507
Hooker, Joseph............................................................... 1041, 1045, 1061
Lincoln, Abraham........................................................... 1079
Meade, George G............................................................ 1067, 1069, 1075, 1083, 1086, 1090–1092
Rappahannock Station, Va., Commanding Officer at................ 1090
Howard, Oliver O.—Continued.

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Correspondence with</th>
<th>Page</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Reynolds, John F.</td>
<td>1049</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>War Department, U. S.</td>
<td>1064</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Wood, James, jr.</td>
<td>1091, 1092</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Mentioned

- 18, 107, 300, 201, 411, 414, 473, 482, 502, 503, 507, 563, 1007, 1040, 1061, 1064, 1066, 1068, 1077, 1078, 1082

Staff

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Announcement of</th>
<th>Page</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>482</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Howard, Robert L. Mentioned

- 1226

Howe, Albion P.

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Assignment to command</th>
<th>Page</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>693</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Mentioned</th>
<th>Page</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>14, 693, 884, 1014, 1024, 1025, 1029, 1031, 1033, 1080, 1147, 1175</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Howe, Reuben. Mentioned

- 1280

Howe, William R. Mentioned

- 1249

Howell, A. H. Mentioned

- 168

Howell, John H. Mentioned

- 167

Howell, Joshua B.

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Mentioned</th>
<th>Page</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>1224, 1231–1235, 1239, 1240</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Howell, Ransom B. Mentioned

- 1279

Howell, William T. Mentioned

- 252, 255

Howerth, Samuel. Mentioned

- 871

Hoyt, A. W. Mentioned

- 637

Hoyt, Azor H. Mentioned

- 1246

Hoyt, Charles F. Mentioned

- 981

Hoyt, Charles W. Mentioned

- 1205

Hoyt, Thomas J. Mentioned

- 728

H. R. W. Hill, Steamer. Mentioned

- 371

Huddleston, Henry. Mentioned

- 109

Hudson, City of, Steamer. Mentioned

- 758

Hudson, Edward McK. Mentioned

- 1144, 1145

Hudson, William V. Mentioned

- 298

Huey, Pennock.

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Correspondence with Alfred Pleasonton</th>
<th>Page</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>740</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Mentioned</th>
<th>Page</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>1074</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Hufty, Samuel.

- 1262

Huger, Benjamin.

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Correspondence with Mayor of Norfolk, Va</th>
<th>Page</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>627</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Mentioned</th>
<th>Page</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>627, 628</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Huggins, William T. Mentioned

- 2

Hughes, Daniel W. Mentioned

- 76

Hughes, Thomas W. B. Mentioned

- 57

Hughes, William L. Mentioned

- 1208

Hughston, Robert S. Mentioned

- 888

Hulser, Oscar F. Report of Richmond, Va., Campaign, Jan. 1–April 3, 1865

- 301

Humphrey, William. Mentioned

- 1184, 1188

Humphreys, Andrew. Mentioned

- 34

Humphreys, Andrew A.

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Application of, for a court of inquiry.</th>
<th>Communication from Army Headquarters</th>
<th>Page</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>1000</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Correspondence with</th>
<th>Page</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Army Headquarters</td>
<td>828</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Barnard, John G.</td>
<td>1144</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Bingham, Henry H.</td>
<td>1208</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Birney, David B.</td>
<td>1044, 1061, 1063</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>
INDEX.

Humphreys, Andrew A.—Continued.

Correspondence with
Butterfield, Daniel ........................................... 949, 950, 957, 1064
Gibbon, John ................................................. 1208
Gregory, Edgar M ............................................. 160
Hays, William ................................................. 1209, 1210
Hunt, Henry J .................................................. 1147
McClellan, George B .......................................... 712, 742, 813, 847, 1005, 1009, 1146, 1148
Meade, George G ............................................. 1017, 1018, 1034, 1036, 1064, 1193, 1207
Miles, Nelson A ................................................ 1205, 1209
Mott, Gershom ................................................. 1205, 1206
Parke, John G .................................................. 1202
Porter, Fitz John ............................................... 828, 832, 833, 835, 843, 844, 861, 887, 888, 906, 910, 913, 919, 920, 945
Sickles, Daniel E ............................................... 1066
Smyth, Thomas A ................................................ 1200
Warren, Gouverneur K ........................................ 1145
Whipple, Amiel W ............................................. 825
William, John .................................................. 1209

For correspondence as Chief of Staff, see George G. Meade.

Report of battle of Antietam, Md., Sept. 16-17, 1862 .......................................................... 1219

Humphreys, G. W. Mentioned .................................. 193

Hunsberger, David S. Mentioned ................................ 1279

Hunt, Edward B. Mentioned ...................................... 568

Hunt, Henry J.

Correspondence with
Adjutant-General's Office, U. S. A .................................. 309, 310
Humphreys, Andrew A ........................................... 1147
McClellan, George B ............................................. 707
Porter, Fitz John ................................................. 634
War Department, U. S. ........................................... 311

Mentioned .......................................................... 178, 309, 311, 423, 528, 550, 624, 635, 721-723, 736, 737, 739, 743, 803, 853, 975, 1144, 1158, 1166, 1181, 1212

Hunt, Leavitt. Mentioned ......................................... 646

Hunt, Lewis C.

Assignment to duty ................................................. 1136
Mentioned .......................................................... 1136, 1143
Relieved from command of Draft Rendezvous ....................... 1136, 1143

Hunt, William J. Mentioned .................................... 1247

Hunter, Abraham A. Mentioned .................................. 602, 605

Hunter, Albert M. Mentioned ...................................... 784

Hunter, David.

Assignments to command .......................................... 390, 453
Correspondence with Henry W. Halleck .......................... 1178
Mentioned .......................................................... 18, 408, 410, 414, 434, 435, 453, 457, 566, 1227
Staff. Announcement of .......................................... 410

Hunton, Eppa. Mentioned ........................................... 29, 32, 1283

Hurlbut, Stephen A.

Assignment to duty ................................................ 455
Mentioned .......................................................... 455
Report of James W. Johnson .................................................. 176
Hurt, D. B. Mentioned .......................................................... 10
Hutchins, Robert A. Mentioned .............................................. 871, 1188
For correspondence as A. A. G., see Orlando B. Willcox.
Hutchinson, J. N. Mentioned .................................................. 167
Hutchinson, William F. Mentioned .......................................... 777
Hyatt, Secor. Mentioned ........................................................ 294
Hyland, George, jr. Mentioned .............................................. 81–83
Illinois. Military Department embracing .................................. 376 Illinois Troops. Mentioned ....................................................
Infantry—Regiments: 23d, 689, 690, 753; 39th, 1232, 1235, 1237, 1239, 1244, 1245.
Imboden, John D. Mentioned ............................................... 875, 1011, 1019, 1060, 1136, 1225, 1227
Indiana. Military Department embracing .................................. 376
Indiana Troops. Mentioned ....................................................
Artillery, Light—Batteries: 17th, 900; Wilder, 51.
Cavalry—Companies: Bracken's, 51, 53; Stewart's, 471, 509. Regiments: 1st, 1087; 3d, 559, 671, 672.
Infantry—Regiments: 7th, 516, 586; 8th, 9, 10; 9th, 51, 53, 520; 10th, 8–10; 11th, 423; 12th, 429; 13th, 9–11, 51, 52, 516, 607, 712, 1224, 1225, 1232, 1240, 1247, 1266, 1267; 16th, 429; 19th, 68, 443, 637; 20th, 236, 433, 547, 670, 760, 1279; 21st, * 432, 433, 29th, 515.
Indiantown, or Sandy Swamp, N. C. Skirmish at, Dec. 18, 1863. Report of George B. Cock ......................................................... 210
Ingalls, Rufus. Correspondence with
Butterfield, Daniel .......................................................... 1035
Ferguson, Colin B ............................................................ 783
Quartermaster-General's Office, U. S. A. .................................. 514
Sawtelle, Charles G .......................................................... 757
Mentioned ................................................................. 64, 260, 433, 565, 709, 715, 736, 756, 826, 877, 1096, 1181, 1223
Report of Richmond, Va., Campaign, June 13–July 31, 1864 and operations to June 30, 1865 .......................................... 251 Intercourse. See Trade and Intercourse.
Iolas, Steamer. Mentioned ................................................... 1150
Iphsording, Henry C. Mentioned ........................................... 1279
Irvin, Edward A. Correspondence with Hugh W. McNeil ................ 132
Mentioned ................................................................. 131, 156
Irvin, Javan B. Mentioned ................................................... 22
Irvin, M. A. Mentioned ........................................................ 1277
Irvin, Richard B. Correspondence with George B. McClellan ........... 805, 813
For other correspondence, see Nathaniel P. Banks.
Mentioned ................................................................. 796, 1144, 1145
Irwin, William H. Mentioned ............................................... 398

* Designated 1st Heavy Artillery, February, 1863.
INDEX.

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Name</th>
<th>Mentioned</th>
<th>Page</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Ives, Lucius H.</td>
<td></td>
<td>298, 1227</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Jack, John T.</td>
<td></td>
<td>287</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Report of Richmond, Va., Campaign, Jan. 1–April 3, 1865</td>
<td>295</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Jackson, Charles N.</td>
<td></td>
<td>148</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Jackson, C. Feger.</td>
<td>Correspondence with Fitz John Porter</td>
<td>736</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Jackson, John.</td>
<td></td>
<td>1279</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Jackson, Joseph C.</td>
<td></td>
<td>628, 806, 808</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Jackson, Nathaniel J.</td>
<td>Assignment to command</td>
<td>893</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Jackson, Oswald.</td>
<td>For correspondence as A. A. A. G., see Erasmus D. Keyes.</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Jackson, Richard H.</td>
<td>Correspondence with Quincy A. Gillmore</td>
<td>1164</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Jackson, Samuel M.</td>
<td>Report of Maryland Campaign, Sept. 3–20, 1862</td>
<td>153</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Jackson, Thomas H.</td>
<td>Correspondence with Henry L. Benning</td>
<td>166</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Jackson, Walter P.</td>
<td></td>
<td>133</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Jackson, William.</td>
<td></td>
<td>57</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Jackson, William L.</td>
<td></td>
<td>1019</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Jacques, Lancelot.</td>
<td>Correspondence with Henry W. Dellinger</td>
<td>880</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>James, Joshua T.</td>
<td></td>
<td>2</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>James, Army of the.</td>
<td>(Union.)</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Orders, General, series 1864—Potter: No. 1, 1192.</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Orders, Special, series 1864—Butler: No. 223, 1178; No. 267, 1185; No. 285, 1186; No. 318, 1187; No. 375, 1191; No. 384, 1192.</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td> Orders, Special, series 1864—Devens: No. 54, 1205.</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Orders, series 1865—Weitzel: Feb. 20, 1201.</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Orders, Special, series 1865—Devens: No. 54, 1205.</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>James River, Va.</td>
<td>Campaign from the Rapidan to, May 4–June 12, 1861.</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Reports of</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Anderson, Richard H.</td>
<td></td>
<td>248</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Collins, Charles H. T.</td>
<td></td>
<td>243</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Early, Jubal A.</td>
<td></td>
<td>214–247</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Lee, Fitzhugh</td>
<td></td>
<td>250</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Merrill, Charles B.</td>
<td></td>
<td>233</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Stuart, J. E. B.</td>
<td></td>
<td>248, 249</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Tippin, Andrew H.</td>
<td></td>
<td>243</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Van Rensselaer, Walter A.</td>
<td></td>
<td>237</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Walsh, James W.</td>
<td></td>
<td>239</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>James River, Va.</td>
<td>Demonstration on north bank of, July 27–29, 1864. See reports of Batchelder, p. 256; Beahen, p. 271; Merrill, p. 238.</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>
James River, Va.

- Naval operations on. Communication from George B. McClellan ........................................ 615
  - Casualties. Returns of Confederate Troops .................. 225

Communications from

- Gillmore, Quincy A ............................................. 1186
- Jackson, Richard H ............................................ 1164
- Serrell, Edward W ............................................. 1164
- Smith, Edward W .............................................. 1106

Reports of

- Abbott, Joseph C ................................................ 1238
- Eshleman, Benjamin F .......................................... 222
- Hero, Andrew, jr ............................................... 228
- Martindale, John H ............................................ 1252, 1259
- Norcom, Joe ..................................................... 231
- Owen, Edward ................................................... 226
- Ransom, Robert, jr ............................................. 221
- Richardson, John B ............................................ 227
- Terry, Alfred II ................................................ 1231, 1235
- Voris, Alvin C ................................................... 1224

Jameson, Charles D.

- Assignments to duty ......................................... 480,493
- Mentioned ....................................................... 81,480,493

Report of siege of Yorktown, Va., April 5–May 4, 1862 ............................................. 79

Jamestown, C. S. S.

- Mentioned ......................................................... 58,569

Jenifer, Walter H.

- Mentioned .......................................................... 351, 583, 602, 606

Jenkins, Albert G.

- Correspondence with William R. Brown ..................... 176
- Mentioned ........................................................... 178, 417

Jenkins, Micah.

- Mentioned .......................................................... 89, 87–90, 133

Jenkins, Walworth.

- Mentioned .......................................................... 466

Jennings, William W.

- Mentioned .......................................................... 951

Jerome, Aaron B.

- Correspondence with Peter A. Taylor ......................... 1121

Jerome, Henry.

- Mentioned .......................................................... 1280

Jewell, J. Grey.

- Correspondence with Charles P. Stone ....................... 401

Jewett, John E.

- Mentioned .......................................................... 731

Johannes, John G.

- Correspondence with George G. Meade ......................... 1196

Johnson, Major.

- Mentioned .......................................................... 38

Johnson, Aaron C.

- Mentioned .......................................................... 53

Johnson, Alba A.

- Mentioned .......................................................... 239

Johnson, Alexander.

- Mentioned .......................................................... 184

Johnson, Bradley T.

- Report of Skirmish at Sangster's Station, Va., March 9, 1862 ............................................. 60

Johnson, Bushrod R.

- Mentioned .......................................................... 224, 226, 227, 230, 232, 1260, 1234

Johnson, Edward.

- Mentioned .......................................................... 43, 54, 234, 240, 581, 1110

Johnson, Enoch E.

- Mentioned .......................................................... 1193, 1194

Johnson, Francis.

- Mentioned .......................................................... 664

Johnson, Granville E.

- Mentioned .......................................................... 646

Johnson, H.

- Mentioned .......................................................... 1278
INDEX.

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Name</th>
<th>Page</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Johnson, Henry A.</td>
<td>53</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Johnson, James</td>
<td>1052</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Johnson, James W.</td>
<td>176</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Johnson, Robert C.</td>
<td>826</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Johnson, Samuel</td>
<td>1042</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Johnston, Fort</td>
<td>1277</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Johnston, George H.</td>
<td>398</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Johnston, Joseph E.</td>
<td>29, 35, 38, 263, 360, 390, 489, 490, 569, 597, 598, 607, 694, 695</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Jones, A. C.</td>
<td>45</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Jones, Amos B.</td>
<td>207</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Jones, Castner</td>
<td>1276</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Jones, Charles A.</td>
<td>210</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Jones, Columbus P.</td>
<td>93, 94</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Jones, Daniel D.</td>
<td>1135</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Jones, David R.</td>
<td>37, 39, 40</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Jones, David R., Mrs.</td>
<td>598</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Jones, Edward F.</td>
<td>344, 370, 405, 431</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Jones, Edward S.</td>
<td>1113</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Jones, Eliaha N.</td>
<td>19</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Jones, Frank</td>
<td>181-183</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Jones, Harry S.</td>
<td>144</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Jones, Hilary P.</td>
<td>222, 224, 228, 230</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Jones, James A.</td>
<td>51-53, 594</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Jones, James B.</td>
<td>1279</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Jones, James F.</td>
<td>1225</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Jones, Joseph P.</td>
<td>32</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Jones, N. W.</td>
<td>1278</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Jones, Roger</td>
<td>309, 356</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Jones, Theodore</td>
<td>508</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Jones, Waters B.</td>
<td>208</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Jones, William B.</td>
<td>132</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Jones, William E.</td>
<td>1011, 1019, 1035</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Jordan, John W.</td>
<td>36</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Jordan, Thomas</td>
<td>37</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Josephine, Steamer</td>
<td>623</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Jourdan, James</td>
<td>1187</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Joynes, Thomas</td>
<td>228</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Judah, Henry M.</td>
<td>207</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Judd, Willard B.</td>
<td>291</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Judson, Roscius W.</td>
<td>888</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Kanawha, District of the.</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Kane, George P.</td>
<td>452</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Kane, Thomas L.</td>
<td>78, 132, 668, 760, 805</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Kane, William D.</td>
<td>1277</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Kapff, Edward</td>
<td>1230</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Kaufman, Tobias B.</td>
<td>109, 110, 143</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Kautz, August V.</td>
<td>251, 265, 1188, 1192, 1269, 1270</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Name</td>
<td>Mentioned/Assignments</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>-----------------------</td>
<td>-----------------------</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Kavanaugh, John</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Kearny, Philip</td>
<td>Assignments to command</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Assignment to command revoked</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Congratulatory Orders. Seven Days' Battle, June 25–July 1, 1862.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Correspondence with</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Barnard, John G.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Birney, David B.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Franklin, William B.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Price, R. Butler.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Taylor, George W.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Kearny Cross</td>
<td>List of recipients of</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Keedysville, Md.</td>
<td>Skirmish near, Sept. 15, 1862. See Antietam Creek, Md.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Keenan, Peter</td>
<td>Correspondence with</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>John J. Peck</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Keifer, J. Warren</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Keim, William H.</td>
<td>Assignments to command</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Kelley, Colonel</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Kelley, Benjamin F.</td>
<td>Assignments to command</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Correspondence with</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Adjutant-General's Office, U. S. A.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Averell, William W.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>McClellan, George B.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Schenck, Robert C.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Shearer, Crawford W.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>War Department, U. S.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Wool, John E.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Kellogg, George M.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Kelly, Daniel J.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Kelly, Edward</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Kelly, Granville W.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Kelly, Henry</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Kelly, John B.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Kelso, John C.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Kemp, Joseph</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Kemper, James L.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Kendrick, John W.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Kenly, John R.</td>
<td>Assignment to duty</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Correspondence with</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Babbitt, Charles R.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Franklin, William B.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Schenck, Robert C.</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>
INDEX.

Kenly, John R.—Continued.
Mentioned ........................................... 327, 405, 629, 855, 857–859, 861, 867, 868, 878, 902, 964, 967, 976, 990, 1012, 1079–1082, 1089, 1102, 1106, 1115, 1120, 1127, 1135, 1142, 1152

Relieved from duty with Army of the Potomac .................................................. 1152

Kennedy, Dominick. Mentioned ................................................................. 638
Kennedy, Hugh. Mentioned ........................................................................... 1279
Kennedy, James S. Mentioned ....................................................................... 153
Kennedy, Robert P. Mentioned ..................................................................... 871

For correspondence as A. A. G., see George Crook.

Kennedy, Thomas R. Mentioned ................................................................ 638
Kennerson, A. Mentioned ........................................................................... 1278
Kenney, George B. Mentioned ..................................................................... 1276
Kenney, Hugh. Mentioned ........................................................................... 1277
Kenney, Peter. Mentioned ........................................................................... 1280
Kensel, George A. Mentioned ........................................................................ 1163–1165, 1168
Kent, John M. Mentioned ........................................................................... 130

Kentucky Troops. Mentioned. (Union.)

Artillery, Light—Batteries: Simmonds',* 495, 508, 738, 754, 865, 1133.

Ker, George J. Mentioned ........................................................................... 1269
Kernstown, Va. Battle of, March 23, 1862. Communication from George B. McClellan ................................................................. 560

Kerr, Samuel S. Mentioned ........................................................................... 288, 1228
Kerrick, Benjamin F. Mentioned ................................................................ 87
Kershaw, Joseph B. Mentioned ................................................................... 174, 1289

Kerwin, Michael.

Correspondence with
Crawford, Samuel W. .................................................................................. 1146
McCandless, William ...................................................................................... 220
Mentioned ......................................................................................................... 218

Reports of Brentsville, Va. Affair near, Feb. 14, 1864 ..................................................... 213
Greenwich, Va. Skirmish near, March 9, 1864 ................................................. 217

Ketcham, John H. Mentioned ....................................................................... 969
Ketchum, William A. Mentioned ................................................................. 683
Key, John. Mentioned ..................................................................................... 168
Key, Thomas M. Mentioned .......................................................................... 12, 13

Keyes, Braamus D.

Assignments to command ............................................................................. 411, 455, 503
Assumes command of Yorktown, Va. ............................................................. 770

Correspondence with Adjuvant-General's Office, U. S. A ................................................................. 892
Army Headquarters .......................................................................................... 1002
Busteed, Richard .............................................................................................. 969, 972
Cœur de Lion, U. S. S., Commanding Officer of .................................... 971
Couch, Darius N ................................................................................................. 734
Dix, John A ......................................................................................................... 926, 957, 963, 970, 971, 977, 989, 991, 992
Faith, Andrew .................................................................................................. 900
Gillis, James H .................................................................................................. 1001, 1049, 1050
Gordon, George H. .......................................................................................... 1051, 1052, 1056

* Final designation 1st Battery.
Keyes, Erasmus D.—Continued.

Correspondence with

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Key</th>
<th>Page</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Grimshaw, Arthur H.</td>
<td>1001</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Hall, William P.</td>
<td>969, 1004</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Johnson, James</td>
<td>983</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>King, Rufus</td>
<td>1000</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Lee, Samuel Phillips</td>
<td>973</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Lewis, William</td>
<td>958</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>McClellan, George B.</td>
<td>577, 683, 643, 657, 734, 740, 763, 777, 803</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Naglee, Henry M.</td>
<td>894, 943, 957, 963</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Parker, Foxhall A.</td>
<td>963</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Peck, John J.</td>
<td>689, 704, 734, 748</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Smith, Stephen E.</td>
<td>862</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Sumner, Edwin V.</td>
<td>587, 589, 592</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>War Department, U. S.</td>
<td>716</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Wessells, Henry W.</td>
<td>845</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>West, Robert M.</td>
<td>1068</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Keys, John. Mentioned | 526 |

Kiddoo, Joseph B. Mentioned | 265, 267 |

Kilpatrick, Judson.

Correspondence with

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Key</th>
<th>Page</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Taylor, Peter A.</td>
<td>1099-1101</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Warren, Gouverneur K.</td>
<td>1086</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Mentioned | 67, 69, 1070, 1085, 1103, 1105, 1121, 1186, 1150 |

Kimball, Edgar A. Mentioned | 871 |

Kimball, Gilman. Mentioned | 494 |

Kimball, Nathan.

Correspondence with George B. McClellan | 546, 548 |

Mentioned | 563, 641, 707, 708, 710, 712, 720 |

Kimberly & Bros. Mentioned | 1151 |

Kime, Charles. Mentioned | 1276 |

King, Adam E. Mentioned | 183 |

King, John H. Mentioned | 343 |

King, Nathan G. Mentioned | 805 |

King, Rufus.

Assignments to command | 438, 443, 455, 551 |

Correspondence with

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Key</th>
<th>Page</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Keyes, Erasmus D</td>
<td>1000</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>McDowell, Irvin</td>
<td>576, 577, 579, 584, 650, 661, 662, 675, 741, 747, 752</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Schriver, Edmund</td>
<td>583</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>War Department, U. S.</td>
<td>639, 702, 705, 707</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Mentioned | 62, 64, 65, 68, 70, 72, 73, 75, 78, 132, 150, 153, 154, 438, 443, 455, 462, 469, 489, 491, 551, 554, 558, 575, 579, 605, 634, 682, 677, 711, 831 |

Staff. Announcement of | 409 |

King, Rufus W. Mentioned | 167 |

King, William S. Mentioned | 413, 444 |

King, William V. Mentioned | 266 |

Kingsbury, Charles, jr. Mentioned | 445, 482, 898 |

For correspondence as A. A. G., see John Newton and John F. Reynolds.

Kingsbury, Charles P. Mentioned | 408, 722 |
INDEX

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Name</th>
<th>Mentioned/Correspondence</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Kingsbury, Henry W.</td>
<td>Death Announcement of 872</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Mentioned 374, 413, 572</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>For correspondence as A. D. C., see Irvin McDowell.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Kinnier, Joseph</td>
<td>Mentioned 1277</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Kinsley, Neri B.</td>
<td>Mentioned 156</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Kip, Lawrence</td>
<td>Mentioned 682</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Kipley, Henry O.</td>
<td>Mentioned 1278</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Kirby, Edmund</td>
<td>Mentioned 682</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Kirk, Barton T.</td>
<td>Mentioned 193</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Kirk, James T.</td>
<td>Mentioned 154</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Kirkland, Joseph</td>
<td>Mentioned 619, 723, 737, 899, 923</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>For correspondence as A. D. C., see Fitz John Porter.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Kinswood, Thomas M.</td>
<td>Mentioned 11, 53</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Kise, Reuben C.</td>
<td>Mentioned 10</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Kistler, Daniel</td>
<td>Mentioned 154</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Klein, Daniel</td>
<td>Mentioned 1237, 1238, 1279</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Knap, Joseph M.</td>
<td>Mentioned 120</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Kniffin, Webster J.</td>
<td>Mentioned 1270</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Knight, Frank L.</td>
<td>Mentioned 49</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Knowlson, John</td>
<td>Mentioned 1240</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Konkle, Andrew J.</td>
<td>Mentioned 9</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Koontz, George S.</td>
<td>Correspondence with War Department, U. S. 841, 845</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Krepps, John S.</td>
<td>Mentioned 954</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Kreuninger, Henry</td>
<td>Mentioned 1277</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Kreutzer, William</td>
<td>Mentioned 1210</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Krzyzanowski, Wladimir</td>
<td>Assignment to command 895</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Mentioned 895</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Kusaheet, Edwin I.</td>
<td>Mentioned 40, 224</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Kurtz, John D.</td>
<td>Mentioned 428</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Lacey, Henry B.</td>
<td>Mentioned 1068, 1097</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Lacy, Mrs.</td>
<td>Mentioned 73</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Ladd, William J.</td>
<td>Mentioned 1249</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>La Fayette, Marquis de.</td>
<td>Mentioned 998</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Lake, Joseph F.</td>
<td>Mentioned 1280</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Lamar, John H.</td>
<td>Mentioned 208</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Lamar, Lucius Q. C.</td>
<td>Mentioned 93, 94</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Lamb, William W.</td>
<td>For correspondence, etc., see Norfolk, Va., Mayor of.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Lambdin, J. Harrison</td>
<td>Mentioned 1203</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Lamborn, Charles B.</td>
<td>For correspondence as A. A. A. G., see John F. Reynolds.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Lamborn, Robert H.</td>
<td>Mentioned 898</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Lambson, Mathias</td>
<td>Mentioned 49</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Lamont, Dougald A.</td>
<td>Mentioned 2</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Lampman, Adam</td>
<td>Mentioned 638</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Lamson, Daniel S.</td>
<td>Mentioned 614</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Lancaster, William</td>
<td>Mentioned 1270</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Lander, Frederick W.</td>
<td>Assignments to command 472, 475</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Correspondence with</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>McClellan, George B. 518, 521-527, 531, 533, 534, 536, 537, 539, 543</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Marcy, Randolph B. 541</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>War Department, U. S. 533</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Mentioned 12, 472, 475, 478, 500, 516, 519, 520, 523-526, 528, 539, 544-548</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

87 R B—VOL LI, PT I
<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Name</th>
<th>Page</th>
<th>Mentioned</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Landis, Henry</td>
<td>1279</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Lane, Harriet, Steamer</td>
<td>1275</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Lane, James H.</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Lane, Nathaniel P.</td>
<td>303</td>
<td>Report of Richmond, Va., Campaign, Jan. 1–April 3, 1865</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Lang, Anthony</td>
<td>621</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Langdon, Loomis L.</td>
<td>1232</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Langley, Frank H.</td>
<td>133</td>
<td>Report of campaign in Northern Virginia, Aug. 16–Sept. 2, 1862</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Langley, Samuel G.</td>
<td>56</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Langmaid, Samuel</td>
<td>638</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Lansing, Henry S.</td>
<td>588</td>
<td>Correspondence with Fitz John Porter</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Larimer, J. Harvey</td>
<td>146, 213, 214</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Latham, H. Grey.</td>
<td>30, 31</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Lathrop, Solon H.</td>
<td></td>
<td>For correspondence, etc., see Samuel P. Heintzelman</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Lattin, Charles</td>
<td>1281</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Laub, Charles H.</td>
<td>329, 377</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Lauman, Jacob G.</td>
<td>1104</td>
<td>Assignment to command</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Lawrence, Albert G.</td>
<td>954</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Lawrence, Center H.</td>
<td>1250</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Lawrence, Samuel C.</td>
<td>344, 408</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Lawrence, William H.</td>
<td>945</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Lawrie, John</td>
<td>9</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Lawson, Charles D.</td>
<td>584</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Lawton, Robert B.</td>
<td>558</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Lazelle, Henry M.</td>
<td>214</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Lazenby, George W.</td>
<td>134</td>
<td>Correspondence with Montgomery D. Corse</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Leach, Henry</td>
<td>1279</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Leaf, George D.</td>
<td>69</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Leary, M. P.</td>
<td>1281</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Leasure, Daniel</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Correspondence with Orlando B. Willcox</td>
<td>914</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Leavitt, Aubrey</td>
<td>287</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Le Boutillier, Charles W.</td>
<td>22</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Leclerc, Gustave</td>
<td>230</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Ledlie, James H.</td>
<td>1148</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Lee, C. F.</td>
<td>69</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Lee, Edwin</td>
<td>1277</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Lee, Fitzhugh</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Correspondence with J. E. B. Stuart</td>
<td>249</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Report of campaign from the Rapidan to James River, Va., May 4–June 12, 1864</td>
<td>260</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>
INDEX.

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Name</th>
<th>Page</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Lee, Francis L.</td>
<td>1011</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Lee, G. W. Custis.</td>
<td>313</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Lee, Henry T.</td>
<td>953</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Lee, John E.</td>
<td>1280</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Lee, Samuel Phillips.</td>
<td>973</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Lee, W. H. F.</td>
<td>1001, 1056</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Lee, William R.</td>
<td>47, 498</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Leech, William A.</td>
<td>1152</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Lee's House, Va.</td>
<td>522</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Lee's Mill, Va.</td>
<td>2013</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Lefferts, Marshall.</td>
<td>1272</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Leheanne, John.</td>
<td>1280</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Lechew, Francis W.</td>
<td>169</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Leib, Edward H.</td>
<td>1132</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Leistersburg, Md.</td>
<td>562</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Lemon, George W.</td>
<td>1280</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Lemon, William.</td>
<td>319, 568, 561, 562</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Leonard, Samuel H.</td>
<td>543</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Leonard, Samuel H.</td>
<td>543</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Lepold, Andrew T.</td>
<td>1012</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Lero, John.</td>
<td>59</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Leake, Wladislas.</td>
<td>73</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Lessig, David.</td>
<td>1277</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Letcher, John.</td>
<td>319, 568, 561, 562</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

For correspondence, etc., see Virginia, Governor of.

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Name</th>
<th>Page</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Letterman, Jonathan.</td>
<td>588, 790</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Lewisville, Va.</td>
<td>42</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Lewis, Abner McC.</td>
<td>2015</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Lewis, L. L.</td>
<td>196</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Lewis, M. M.</td>
<td>34</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Lewis, William D., jr.</td>
<td>405</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Libbey, Joseph W.</td>
<td>1195</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Liebenau, Andrew J.</td>
<td>298</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Liehte, Henry.</td>
<td>1278</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>
Lightburn, Joseph A. J.
Assignment to command ........................................... 742
Mentioned .......................................................... 463, 464, 742, 1198

Lightfoot, C. E. Mentioned ...................................... 222, 226

Lincoln, Abraham.
Correspondence with
Army Headquarters .................................................. 337, 339, 409, 497
Banks, Nathaniel P .................................................. 521, 669
Butler, Benjamin F ................................................... 1154, 1156
Dix, John A ........................................................... 708, 979
Frémont, John C ....................................................... 674
Hooker, Joseph ......................................................... 1000, 1071
Howard, Oliver O ..................................................... 1079
McClellan, George B .................................................. 578, 589, 718, 890, 897, 922, 930
Milroy, Robert H ..................................................... 1076, 1087
Poolesville, Md., Commanding Officer at .................. 498
Schenck, Robert C ................................................... 1055
Schurz, Carl ............................................................ 709
Sickles, Daniel E ...................................................... 998
Sigel, Franz ............................................................. 1151
Stone, Charles P ........................................................ 498
Lincoln, Abraham, Mrs. Mentioned ............................ 1154, 1156
Lincoln, Theodore, Jr. Mentioned ............................. 183
Lindner, Ernst. Mentioned ......................................... 54, 56
Lines, Sumner E. Mentioned .................................... 1277
Linton, Charles L. Mentioned .................................. 180
Lippitt, John E. Mentioned ....................................... 2
Lipscomb, ——. Mentioned ........................................... 687
Lipscomb, Thomas. Mentioned .................................. 1280
Litten, ——. Mentioned ............................................... 138
Little, Colonel. Mentioned ......................................... 603
Little, Francis H. Mentioned ...................................... 163, 164
Little, J. L. Mentioned .............................................. 1278
Littleton, Francis B. Mentioned ................................. 169
Livingston, La Rhett L. Mentioned ............................. 722
Livingstone, Robert L. Mentioned ............................... 909
Lloyd, David. Mentioned .......................................... 57
Locke, Frederick T. Mentioned ................................... 475, 619, 723, 1183
For correspondence as A. A. G., see Samuel W. Crawford, George G. Meade, Fitz John Porter, and George Sykes.

Lockwood, Henry H.
Assignments to command ............................................ 455, 476, 552
Correspondence with
Dix, John A .......................................................... 504, 505, 518
Schenck, Robert C ................................................... 970, 1058
Mentioned .............................................................. 455, 476, 552, 1274, 1275

Lockwood, James H. Mentioned ................................. 237
Longnecker, Henry C. Mentioned ................................ 398
Longstreet, James.
Mentioned .............................................................. 94, 665, 837, 886, 897, 919, 928, 950, 1055, 1056, 1269
<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Name</th>
<th>Page</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Loomis, Cyrus O.</td>
<td>12</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Loomis, M. D. W.</td>
<td>465, 474, 483</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Lord, William A.</td>
<td>2</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Loring, Charles G.</td>
<td>1188</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Loring, J. S.</td>
<td>1231</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Loring, William W.</td>
<td>521, 531</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Louden, Samuel</td>
<td>114</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Louders, Mrs.</td>
<td>177</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Loudoun County, Va.</td>
<td>773</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Louden, Fauquier, and Rappahannock Counties, Va</td>
<td>171</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Louisiana, Steamer</td>
<td>1290</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Louisiana Troops</td>
<td>1189</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Lounsberry, Clement A.</td>
<td>1015, 1035</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Lovejoy, Howard S.</td>
<td>602</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Lovelace, W. A.</td>
<td>135</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Lovell, Charles S.</td>
<td>864, 866</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Lowe, John W.</td>
<td>441</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Lowe, Thaddeus S. C.</td>
<td>776, 855, 1178</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Luce, A.</td>
<td>1278</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Lumpkins, Doctor</td>
<td>696</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Luke, William T.</td>
<td>871</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Lutman, T. J.</td>
<td>192</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Lydecker, Garrett J.</td>
<td>275</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Lydige, Philip M.</td>
<td>1188</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Lyle, Peter</td>
<td>141, 405</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Lyman, Chauncey A.</td>
<td>152</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Lyman, George H.</td>
<td>619</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Lyman, Wyllys</td>
<td>284</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Lynch, Augustin T.</td>
<td>300</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Lynchburg, Va.,</td>
<td>1225</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Lyon, George</td>
<td>409</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Lyon, Jacob A.</td>
<td>42</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Lyon, Nathaniel</td>
<td>350, 1098</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Lyons, Lord</td>
<td>64</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Lyons, George</td>
<td>409</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Lyons, John D.</td>
<td>1281</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Lyons, William H.</td>
<td>1240</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Name</th>
<th>Page</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>McAdams, William R. Mentioned</td>
<td>123</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>McAleis, John. Mentioned</td>
<td>1281</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>McAlester, Miles D.</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Correspondence with John G. Barnard</td>
<td>630</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>635, 649, 658, 663, 667, 678, 683, 689, 690, 692</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>62, 623, 646, 681, 751, 876</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>McAlester, Hiram. Mentioned</td>
<td>1276</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>McAlester, Robert. Mentioned</td>
<td>1200, 1206</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>McAnally, Charles. Mentioned</td>
<td>307</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>McCarthur, Charles W. Mentioned</td>
<td>208</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>McCabe, George F. Report of scout to Aldie and Middleburg, Va., March 28–29, 1864</td>
<td>220</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>McCall, George A. Assignments to command</td>
<td>433, 455</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Correspondence with McClellan, George B</td>
<td>540, 690</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>McDowell, Irvin</td>
<td>569, 574, 575, 577, 579, 639, 644</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Meade, George G</td>
<td>701</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Reynolds, John F</td>
<td>691, 698, 701</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>McCall, William H. Mentioned</td>
<td>116</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>McCall, William H. H. Mentioned</td>
<td>1206</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>McCallister, William. Mentioned</td>
<td>298, 299, 1228</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>McCallum, Daniel C.</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Correspondence with Irvin McDowell</td>
<td>569, 574, 578</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>67, 252, 628</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>McCandless, William.</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Correspondence with Kerwin, Michael</td>
<td>220</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Sykes, George</td>
<td>1105</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>985, 1043</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Report of Seven Days' Battles, June 25–July 1, 1862</td>
<td>111</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>McCarthy, Dennis. Mentioned</td>
<td>1278</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>McCarthy, H. Mentioned</td>
<td>1276</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>McCarthy, John. Mentioned</td>
<td>1281</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>McCaull, Maxwell. Mentioned</td>
<td>1154</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>McCaully, Charles S. Mentioned</td>
<td>1276</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>McCleary, John. Mentioned</td>
<td>340</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>McCleery, John. Mentioned</td>
<td>113</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>McClellan, Carswell. Mentioned</td>
<td>204</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>McClellan, George B.</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Assumes command of Department of the Ohio</td>
<td>376</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Assumes command of Military Division of the Potomac</td>
<td>428</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Correspondence with&quot;</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Abercrombie, John J.</td>
<td>780, 786, 793</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Adjutant-General's Office, U. S. A.</td>
<td>339</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Alexander, Barton S.</td>
<td>648, 751</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Alexandria, Va., Commanding Officer at</td>
<td>778</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Allabach, Peter H</td>
<td>778</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Averell, William W</td>
<td>787, 886, 893, 911</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

* Embraces also correspondence as General-in-Chief.
INDEX.

McClellan, George B.—Continued.

Correspondence with

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Name</th>
<th>Page Numbers</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Banks, Nathaniel P.</td>
<td>511, 516, 518, 520, 524, 526, 529, 531, 534, 535, 539, 544, 549, 560, 561, 563, 576, 810</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Barnard, John G.</td>
<td>511, 542, 559, 650, 714, 768</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Barstow, Simon F.</td>
<td>544, 545</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Bayard, George D.</td>
<td>790, 794, 798, 926, 936, 941</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Benham, Henry W.</td>
<td>395</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Biggs, Herman</td>
<td>763</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Buford, John</td>
<td>787, 797</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Burnside, Ambrose E.</td>
<td>515, 674, 676, 721, 758, 759, 767, 782, 785, 801, 802, 809, 817, 818, 822, 823, 827, 836–838, 844, 848, 855, 856, 920, 921, 933, 938</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Casey, Silas</td>
<td>702, 768</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Clark, George F.</td>
<td>707</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Cooke, Philip St. George</td>
<td>654</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Couch, Darius N.</td>
<td>769, 782, 808, 809, 816, 817, 822, 844, 851, 852, 853, 904, 907, 917, 929, 931</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Cox, Jacob D.</td>
<td>416, 418, 420, 777, 778, 785, 786, 789, 827</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Crook, George</td>
<td>877, 884</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Dix, John A.</td>
<td>549, 650, 659, 663, 667, 677, 719</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Eckert, Thomas T.</td>
<td>927</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Ferguson, Colin B.</td>
<td>770, 779, 783, 788</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Garrett, John W.</td>
<td>548, 789, 821, 838</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Getty, George W.</td>
<td>780</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Goldsborough, Louis M</td>
<td>591, 597, 615, 617, 697, 713</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>German, Willis A.</td>
<td>528, 529</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Grover, Cuvier</td>
<td>615</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Hall, James S.</td>
<td>896, 897</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Haupt, Hermann</td>
<td>769, 778, 930, 937</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Heintzelman, Samuel F.</td>
<td>548, 645–649, 659–665, 670, 703, 788, 797, 921</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Higginson, Henry L.</td>
<td>783</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Hooker, Joseph</td>
<td>530, 532, 536, 540, 543, 548, 557, 783, 831, 834</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Humphreys, Andrew A.</td>
<td>712, 742, 843, 847, 1005, 1009, 1146, 1148</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Hunt, Henry J.</td>
<td>707</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Irwin, Richard B.</td>
<td>805, 813</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Kelley, Benjamin F.</td>
<td>394, 875, 886, 888</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Keyes, Erasmus D.</td>
<td>577, 633, 643, 657, 734, 740, 763, 777, 803</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Kimball, Nathan</td>
<td>546, 548</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Lander, Frederick W.</td>
<td>518, 521–527, 531, 533, 534, 536, 537, 539, 543</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Lincoln, Abraham</td>
<td>578, 589, 718, 800, 897, 922, 930</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>McCall, George A.</td>
<td>540, 680</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>McDowell, Irvin</td>
<td>551, 565</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>McReynolds, Andrew T</td>
<td>875</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>McVicar, Duncan</td>
<td>702</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Maine, Governor of</td>
<td>874</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Marcy, Randolph B.</td>
<td>540–542, 544, 550, 551, 559, 647, 916</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Maryland, Governor of</td>
<td>457</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Meade, George G.</td>
<td>847, 849, 850, 856</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Morell, George W.</td>
<td>832, 915</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Morris, Thomas A.</td>
<td>393</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Navy Department, U. S.</td>
<td>573, 596</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

* Embraces also correspondence as General-in-Chief.
McClellan, George B.—Continued.

Correspondence with * Ohio, Adjutant-General of ......................................................... 519
- Ordnance Department, U. S. A ................................................................. 584, 646, 812
- Parke, John G ................. 802
- Patterson, Robert .................. 390
- Peirpoint, Francis H .................. 517, 520
Pennsylvania, Governor of .................. 391, 800, 801, 866
Pleasanton, Alfred .......... 778
Pope, John .................. 788
- 391, 564, 645, 669, 679, 699, 700, 706, 712, 721, 722, 728, 729,
- 755, 758, 788, 789, 791, 792, 822, 832, 854, 857, 863, 864, 866, 867, 875, 883, 885,
- 887, 889, 896, 898, 899, 902, 905, 907, 908, 912, 913, 918, 923, 929, 932, 933, 939
Quartermaster-General's Office, U. S. A .............................................. 584
- Reynolds, John F .................. 852, 872, 879, 892, 906, 9 2, 917, 922, 931, 938
- Rodgers, John .................. 591
- Rosecrans, William S ........ 463, 519, 520, 522, 523, 525, 527, 528, 543, 544, 546, 547
- Sanders, William P .................. 830, 881
- Sawtelle, Charles G ................. 759, 804, 814
- Sedgwick, John .................. 538
- Sickles, Daniel E .................. 935, 941
- Sigel, Franz .......................... 785, 799, 930, 934, 940, 942
- Slocom, Henry W .................. 915, 935
- Smith, William P .................. 526, 543, 601
- State Department, U. S. ................................................................. 618
- Stone, Charles P .................. 463, 466, 498–501, 515, 521
- Stoneman, George .................. 725, 863, 873, 881, 884, 936
- Sumner, Edwin V .................. 560, 562, 563,
- 566, 581–583, 586, 587, 638, 640, 649, 653, 655, 657, 660, 666, 672, 682, 697, 709,
- 759, 805, 806, 811, 821, 826, 831, 834, 838, 839, 842, 849, 850, 856, 858, 863, 938
- Sykes, George .................. 800, 815, 826
- Taylor, Peter A .................. 896, 897
- Tyler, Erastus B .................. 786, 797
- Tyler, Robert O .................. 776, 781
- Wainwright, Charles S .................. 770
- War Department, U. S. ................................................................. 388, 511, 538, 551,
- 552, 554, 555, 557, 567, 570, 578, 614, 615, 645, 658, 660, 663, 673, 677, 686, 718
- Weber, Max .................. 833, 834
- Whipple, Amiel W .................. 767, 780
- Williams, Robert .................. 781
- Williams, Seth .................. 774–776, 838
- Woodbury, Daniel P .................. 652
- Wool, John E .................. 549, 676, 581, 596, 781, 803, 882
- Mentioned .................. 12–14, 61–66, 72, 73, 157, 163, 337, 339, 363, 369, 390, 391, 395, 403, 408, 430,
- 432, 441, 443–445, 455, 458, 461, 462, 469, 472, 473, 475, 477, 481, 491, 492, 496,
- 546, 547, 551, 554, 557, 561–563, 565, 569–571, 574, 579, 583, 597, 600, 604, 607,
- 615, 623, 624, 648, 651, 652, 654, 657, 659, 660, 668, 666, 667, 669, 672, 676, 677,
- 740, 742, 755, 759, 763, 769, 770, 774–780, 782, 783, 785–794, 797, 798, 800, 804–
- 810, 812, 811–819, 821–824, 826, 827, 829–832, 834–845, 847–863, 865, 867, 899,
- 926, 929–938, 910–942, 1003, 1006, 1059–1097, 1144, 1145, 1147, 1229

* Embraces also correspondence as General-in-Chief.
<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Name</th>
<th>Mentioned/Assignment</th>
<th>Page(s)</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>McClellan, George B.</td>
<td>Continued</td>
<td>1385</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>McClellan, Henry B.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>250</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>McClelland, John A.</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>McCombie, John</td>
<td></td>
<td>1225,1232,1234,1266–1268</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>McCord, Alexander McD.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>404</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>McCook, Robert L.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>12,14,15,471,481,482,484</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>McCoy, John</td>
<td></td>
<td>57</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>McCoy, John S.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>294</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>McCoy, Robert A.</td>
<td>For correspondence as A. A. A. G., see Samuel W. Crawford.</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>McCrae, Thomas P.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>328</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>McCue, J. M.</td>
<td>Correspondence with War Department, U. S.</td>
<td>319</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>McCullough, Jackson</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>167</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>McDaniel, Charles W.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>152</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>McDonald, Israel B.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>51–53</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>McDonald, James H.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>275</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>McDonald, John</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>294</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>McDonald, John R.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>94</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>McDonald, R. G.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>231,232</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>McDonald, Thomas</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>168</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>McDowell, Lieutenant-Colonel</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>607</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>McDowell, E. Sayres</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>100</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>McDowell, Irvin</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Assignment to command</td>
<td></td>
<td>455</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Assumes command of Department of Northeastern Virginia</td>
<td></td>
<td>389</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Correspondence with</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Adjutant-General’s Office, U. S. A</td>
<td></td>
<td>322,324,570</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Allen, Samuel H</td>
<td></td>
<td>734</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Army Headquarters</td>
<td></td>
<td>404,424,425</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Banks, Nathaniel P</td>
<td></td>
<td>677</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Bayard, George D</td>
<td></td>
<td>604,605,634,641–643,733–735,737,743,747</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Biddle, Charles J</td>
<td></td>
<td>613</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Buford, John</td>
<td></td>
<td>762</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Carroll, Samuel S</td>
<td></td>
<td>731</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Devereux, John H</td>
<td></td>
<td>664</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Dufloé, Alfred N</td>
<td></td>
<td>731–734,741,744,767</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Duryea, Abram</td>
<td></td>
<td>641</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Ferry, Orris S</td>
<td></td>
<td>708</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Franklin, William B</td>
<td></td>
<td>443</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Geary, John W</td>
<td></td>
<td>616–618,672</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Hartau, George L</td>
<td></td>
<td>612</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Haupt, Hermann</td>
<td></td>
<td>640</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Houston, David C</td>
<td></td>
<td>727</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>King, Rufus</td>
<td></td>
<td>576,577,579,584,650,661,692,675,741,747,752</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>McCall, George A</td>
<td></td>
<td>569,574,575,577,579,639,644</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>McCallum, Daniel C</td>
<td></td>
<td>569,574,578</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>McClellan, George B</td>
<td></td>
<td>554,565</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Miles, Dixon S</td>
<td></td>
<td>419</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Morley, Captain</td>
<td></td>
<td>570</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>
McDowell, Irvin—Continued.
Correspondence with
Ord, Edward O. C. .................................................. 588, 634, 641, 642
Patrick, Marsena R. .............................................. 635
Pope, John ................................................................. 726
Porter, Fitz John .................................................... 382
Quartermaster-General’s Office, U. S. A. .................. 629
Reynolds, John F ..................................................... 763
Ricketts, James B ................................................... 606, 688, 672, 735, 738, 711, 750, 762
Schrivar, Edmund .................................................. 662, 664, 688, 671, 672
Shields, James ....................................................... 622, 639, 642
Smith, Charles F ..................................................... 335
Sturgis, Samuel D ................................................... 704, 709, 712
Tower, Zealous B .................................................... 744
Wadsworth, James S .................................................. 589, 601, 612, 622, 623, 625, 629
War Department, U. S. ............................. 567, 569, 585, 597, 619, 621, 622, 626, 638, 640, 642
Journal of operations in Northern Virginia, March 10–June 22, 1862 .......... 61–79
Mentioned ................................................................. 17, 20, 23, 61–65, 67–78,
120, 130, 321, 345, 392, 404, 419, 421, 435, 455, 493, 496, 533, 550–552, 554, 558,
559, 562, 565, 574–579, 581, 583, 584, 589, 597, 599, 604–606, 612–614, 616, 622,
634–637, 639–645, 650, 661, 664, 668, 672, 673, 677, 707–709, 726, 727, 731, 733– 737, 741, 744, 750, 752, 762, 763, 767, 769, 789–792, 794, 812, 1093, 1095, 1141
Staff. Announcements of ........................................ 396, 413, 423, 432, 433, 552, 575
McDowell, Irvin, Mrs. Mentioned .................................. 61
McDowell, Robert P. Mentioned .................................. 344
C. Frémont ............................................................. 616
McElroy, Francis. Mentioned ....................................... 1290
McElroy, Frank. Mentioned ......................................... 193, 222, 228–230
McElroy, James N. Mentioned ...................................... 424
McEntee, Charles S. Mentioned ..................................... 270
McFadden, Theodore H. Mentioned ............................... 113
McFarland, Henry. Mentioned ...................................... 167
McGaughey, David. Mentioned ..................................... 116
McGaughey, John R. Mentioned ..................................... 227
McGee, Dennis. Reports of Maryland Campaign, Sept. 3–20, 1862 ........ 155, 156
McGilvery, Freeman. Mentioned .................................... 120
McGinley, James F. Mentioned ....................................... 1280
McGrath, Michael H. Mentioned .................................... 275
McGreary, William O. Mentioned ................................... 1277
McGregor, John A. Mentioned ........................................ 161
Report of Maryland Campaign, Sept. 3–20, 1862 ................ 167
McGregor, Socrates. Mentioned ..................................... 1238
McHenry, Andrew H. Reports of Brentsville, Va. Scout to, from Bristoe Station, March 8, 1864 ........ 216
Greenwich, Va. Scout to, from Bristoe Station, March 11, 1864 ......... 219
McIlrath, James P. Correspondence with Rutherford B. Hayes .......... 1039
McIntire, Henry M. Mentioned ....................................... 109–111
McIntire, William J. Report of naval engagement in Hampton Roads, Va.,
March 8–9, 1862 ............................................................. 58
McIntosh, John B. Mentioned ....................................... 196, 197, 982
McIntosh, John McC. Mentioned ...................................... 50
McIntyre, James. Mentioned .......................................... 932
McIvor James P. Report of Richmond, Va., Campaign, Jan. 1–April 3, 1865. 306
INDEX.

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Name</th>
<th>Mentioned</th>
<th>Page</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Mack, Oscar A.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>508</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Mack, Samuel A.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>156</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>McKean, Henry B.</td>
<td>Report of Seven Days' Battles, June 25–July 1, 1862</td>
<td>113</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>McKee, Henry Boyd</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>866</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>McKeever, Chauncey</td>
<td>Correspondence with</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Colburn, Albert V.</td>
<td>646, 647</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Heintzelman, Samuel P.</td>
<td>756</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>425, 828, 912</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>McKee, Isaac</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>1277</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>McKenzie, John W.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>94</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Mackenzie, Ranald S.</td>
<td>Correspondence with Cyrus B. Comstock</td>
<td>952, 954, 987</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>740, 985</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>McKibbin, David B.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>864</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>McKibbin, Gilbert H.</td>
<td>Assignment to duty</td>
<td>1203</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>1189, 1203</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>McKillip, Henry P.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>1276</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>McKinley, James B.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>183</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>McKinstry, Justus</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>373</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>McKnight, Ira E.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>80, 1277</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>McKune, Lewis</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>19</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>McLaren, Adam N.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>377</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>McLaughlen, Napoleon B.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>1189, 1197</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>McLaughlin, Brian</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>1276</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>McLaughlin, James</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>1279</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>McLaw, Lafayette</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>174</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>McLean, Nathaniel C.</td>
<td>Assignment to command</td>
<td>895</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>895</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>McLean, Nathaniel H.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>343, 379, 383</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>McLeod, B.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>168</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>McMahon, Martin T.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>628</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>McManus, James</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>1281</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Michael, Morton</td>
<td>Correspondence with War Department, U. S.</td>
<td>813</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>McMillan, James W.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>1216</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>McNair, J.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>168</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>McNally, John H.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>146</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>McNamee, Thomas</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>143</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>McNaughton, David G.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>156</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>McNell, Hugh W.</td>
<td>Correspondence with Edward A. Irvin</td>
<td>132</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>147, 156, 753</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>McPherran, James A.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>146</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Report of campaign in Northern Virginia, Aug. 16–Sept. 2, 1862</td>
<td>131</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>McNeil, George</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>229, 230</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>McPherran, James A.</td>
<td>Correspondence with Fitz John Porter</td>
<td>367</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>McNutt, Joseph G.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>1230</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>McParnell, Thomas A.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>772</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>McPeake, James D.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>2</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Macomb, John N.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>62, 67, 77, 575</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>McPeake, James D.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>2</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Macon, Jacob M.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>91, 94</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Macomb, William H.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>1196</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Macon, Jacob M.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>91, 94</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Macon, Jacob M.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>91, 94</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Macomb, William H.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>1196</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Macomb, William H.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>1196</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Macomb, William H.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>1196</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Macomb, William H.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>1196</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>
INDEX.

McPherson, A. Mentioned ........................................... 1276
McQuade, James.
  Correspondence with Fitz John Porter ................................ 704
  Mentioned .......................................................... 634, 721, 866
McQuade, John F. Mentioned ........................................ 619, 723, 924
  For correspondence as A. D. C., see Fitz John Porter.
MacRae, Robert B. Mentioned ........................................ 2
McRea, Thomas. Mentioned ........................................... 1277
McReynolds, Andrew T.
  Correspondence with French, William H ................................ 1069
  McClellan, George B ................................................. 875
  Mentioned ......................................................... 137, 138, 558, 571, 687, 976, 996, 997, 1011, 1012
McShurld, Joseph. Mentioned ........................................ 1277
McVicar, Duncan. Correspondence with George B. McClellan ....... 702
Macy, George N. Mentioned ........................................... 1182
Madden, H. A. Mentioned .............................................. 229, 230
Madden, John. Mentioned .............................................. 1281
Madill, Henry J. Mentioned ........................................... 297, 304, 1227, 1228
Madison, Mentioned .................................................. 48
Madison, Hugh. Mentioned .............................................. 1280
Maes, Frank. Mentioned ................................................. 695
Magilton, Albert L.
  Mentioned .................................................................. 148, 150, 737
  Report of campaign in Northern Virginia, Aug. 16–Sept 2, 1862 ... 126
Magoffin, Beriah. Mentioned ........................................... 375, 384
Magruder, David L. Mentioned ........................................... 64, 65, 67, 77, 78, 392, 396, 413
Magruder, James A. Mentioned .......................................... 956
Magruder, John B.
  Assignment to command ............................................... 319
  Assumes command of troops on duty in Washington, D. C. .......... 319
  Mentioned .................................................................. 319, 597
  Orders, series 1861: No. 107, 319 ................................... 324
Maguire, James. Mentioned .............................................. 1276
Mahone, William. Mentioned .......................................... 1203, 1204
Mahoney, William. Mentioned .......................................... 283, 284
Maidhof, Joachim. Mentioned ........................................... 724
Maine. Military Department embracing .................................. 491
Maine, Governor of. Correspondence with George B. McClellan .... 874
Maine Troops. Mentioned. ............................................... 1276
  Artillery, Heavy—Regiments: 1st, 234, 280, 1165.
  Artillery, Light—Batteries: 2d, 73, 606; 4th, 120; 5th, 179; 6th, 120.
  Cavalry—Regiments: 1st, 558, 733, 737, 881, 946.
  Infantry—Regiments: 2d, 17, 81, 82, 411, 413, 414, 435, 461; 3d, 18, 104, 235, 1278; 4th, 18, 104, 233, 411, 1278, 1279; 5th, 18, 414, 434, 470; 6th,
  181, 182, 184–188, 435, 480, 583, 1119; 7th, 874; 8th, 1264; 9th, 1247,
  1266, 1267; 10th, 121, 122, 562, 607, 665, 666, 669; 11th, 85, 963,
  1232, 1235, 1243, 1244, 1246; 16th, 286–290, 292; 17th, 233–237,
  1280, 1281; 20th, 801; 22d, 901; 25th, 901, 1002; 26th, 901; 27th,
  901, 1002; 28th, 901.
Mains, Harvey. Mentioned .............................................. 64
Maley, Michael. Mentioned ............................................. 1277
Maley, Thomas W. Mentioned ........................................... 63
Mallon, James E. Mentioned ............................................. 748
<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Name</th>
<th>Page</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Maloney, James</td>
<td>289</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Malvern Hill, Va.</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Battle of, July 1, 1862.</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Communications from</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Humphreys, Andrew A</td>
<td>1144</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Hunt, Henry J</td>
<td>1147</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>McClellan, George B</td>
<td>1148</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>See also reports of</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Batchelder, p. 101;</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Miller, p. 109;</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Owen, p. 104;</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Thomas, p. 118.</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Reconnaissance to,</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>July 23, 1862. Report of</td>
<td>118</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>David McM. Gregg.</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Manassas, Va.</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>July 21, 1861. See</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Bull Run, Va., Battle of</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>July 21, 1861.</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Aug. 30, 1862. See</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Bull Run, Va., Battle of</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Aug. 30, 1862.</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Manassas Gap, Va.</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Action at, July 23, 1863.</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>See Wapping Heights, Va.</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Manassas Plains, Va.</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Battle of, Aug. 29, 1862.</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>See Groveton, Va.</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Manly, David.</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>135</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Mann, Ed.</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>228</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Mann, Orrin L.</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>1238</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Mann, William B.</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>426</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Mann, William D.</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Correspondence with</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Julius Stahel.</td>
<td>1042</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>1043</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Manning, Frederick L.</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>1210</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Manning, James</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>33</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Manning, Seaborn M.</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>118</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Mansfield, Joseph K. F.</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Assignment to command</td>
<td>507</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Correspondence with</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Army Headquarters</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Martin, Henry P</td>
<td>337</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>742</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Stone, Charles P</td>
<td>389</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>War Department, U. S.</td>
<td>400</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>402</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>War Department, U. S.</td>
<td>404</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>680</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>314, 337, 341, 343,</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>344, 372, 392, 402,</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>407, 425, 443, 491,</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>507, 547, 596, 674,</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>838, 839, 842</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Staff. Announcements of</td>
<td>341</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>372</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>434</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Manson, Mahlon D.</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Report of engagement at</td>
<td>8</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Rich Mountain, W. Va.,</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>July 11, 1861</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Many, R. P.</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>195</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Maps and Sketches. See</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Sketches.</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Marchant, Henry A.</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>189</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Marcy, Randolph B.</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Correspondence with</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Lander, Frederick W</td>
<td>541</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>McClellan, George B</td>
<td>540</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>542, 544, 550, 551,</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>559, 647, 916</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Pleasanton, Alfred</td>
<td>916</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Porter, Fitz John</td>
<td>540</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>War Department, U. S.</td>
<td>648</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>For correspondence as</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Chief of Staff, see</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>George B. McClellan.</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>333</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>342, 377, 383, 463,</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>633, 649, 659, 701,</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>775, 779, 789, 797,</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>896, 899, 909, 1006</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Marks, John</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>719</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Marlin, Thomas J.</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>1194</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Marrow, Isaac H.</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>13</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Mars, Steamor. Mentioned</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Marsh, Thomas B.</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>621</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Marshall, Elisha G.</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Correspondence with</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Fitz John Porter</td>
<td>625</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>632</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>864</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Name</td>
<td>Mentioned/Correspondence</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>--------------------------</td>
<td>----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Marshall, George E.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Marshall, Henry</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Marshall, Humphrey</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Marston, Gilman</td>
<td>Correspondence with Joseph Hooker</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Relieved from command of District of Saint Mary's</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Relieved from command of 1st Division, 18th Army Corps</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Martin, Augustus P.</td>
<td>Correspondence with George Sykes</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Martin, Henry P.</td>
<td>Correspondence with Joseph K. F. Mansfield</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Report of battle of Bull Run, Va., July 21, 1861</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Martin, Robert</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Martin, Robert D.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Martin, S. Taylor</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Martin, William</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Martin, William G.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Martindale, John H.</td>
<td>Assignments to command</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Correspondence with Fitz John Porter</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Richmond, Va., Campaign, June 13–July 31, 1864</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Staff. Announcement of</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Marvin, Charles E.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Marye, Morton</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Maryland, Governor of</td>
<td>Reports of</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Maryland, Steamer</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Military Department embracing</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Operations in.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>April 16–July 31, 1861. Communications from</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Cadwalader, George</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Dix, John A</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Patterson, Robert</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Aug. 1, 1861–March 17, 1862. Communications from</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Dix, John A</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Howard, Oliver O.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Maryland, Governor of</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Sept. 3–Nov. 14, 1862. Communications from</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Jacques, Lancelot</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Kenly, John R</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>McClellan, George B</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>June 3–Aug. 3, 1863. Communications from</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Birney, David B</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Hooker, Joseph</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Schenck, Robert C</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Slocum, Henry W</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>May 1–Aug. 3, 1864. Communications from</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Catlin, Lynde</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>
INDEX.

MARYLAND—Continued.

Operations in.

Maryland Campaign, Sept. 3-20, 1862.

Communications from

Anthony, Joseph ................................................. 160
Banks, Nathaniel P .............................................. 813
Clark, John ...................................................... 158
Faskin, John ...................................................... 784
Ford, Thomas H ................................................... 820
Garrett, John W ................................................... 789
Gregory, Edgar M ................................................. 160
Hooker, Joseph .................................................... 801, 809, 818, 824, 828
Humphreys, Andrew A ........................................... 1005
Irwin, Richard B ................................................... 805, 813
Miles, Dixon S ..................................................... 784, 790, 794, 798, 804, 812, 819, 820
O'Brien, Edward ................................................... 160
Pearson, Alfred L .................................................. 159
Pennsylvania, Governor of ..................................... 791
Porter, Fitz John ................................................... 799, 828, 829, 832, 836, 835
Reno, Jesse L ...................................................... 827
Shaut, William B ................................................... 158
Speakman, Franklin B ............................................ 159
Whipple, Amiel W .................................................. 825
White, Julius ....................................................... 819, 820
Wool, John E ....................................................... 796, 826

Reports of

Allabach, Peter H .................................................. 157
Baily, Silas M ....................................................... 148
Benning, Henry L ................................................... 161
Bolar, Andrew J .................................................... 154
Clark, John ......................................................... 143
Corso, Montgomery D ............................................ 169
Coulter, Richard ................................................... 110
Cumming, John B ................................................... 168
Dick, Samuel B ..................................................... 149, 150
Duryea, Abram ..................................................... 139
Fishcr, Joseph W .................................................... 145
Gregory, Edgar M ................................................... 159
Hains, Peter C .................................................... 137
Jackson, Samuel M .................................................. 133
Jackson, Thomas H .................................................. 166
Lewis, Abner McC .................................................. 165
Lyman, Chauncey A ............................................... 148
McGee, Dennis ..................................................... 155, 156
McGregor, John A ................................................... 167
<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Reports of</th>
<th>Page</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Roberts, R. Biddle</td>
<td>142</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Rowe, D. Watson</td>
<td>161</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Sinclair, William</td>
<td>147</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Smith, Jonathan P.</td>
<td>152</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Talley, William C.</td>
<td>143</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Tapper, Thomas F. B.</td>
<td>144, 145</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Thompson, James</td>
<td>139</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Warner, Adoniram J</td>
<td>151</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Maryland, Governor of</th>
<th>Page</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Correspondence with Maryland</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Infantry—Regiments: 1st, 60, 61</td>
<td>317</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Maryland Troops. Mentioned. (Union.)</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Artillery, Light—Batteries: B, 975;</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Baltimore, 990, 1177</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Cavalry—Battalions: Cole's, 1st, 795,</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>781, 784, 794, 990; Purnell Legion,</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>518, Regiments: 1st, 785, 899.</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Infantry—Regiments: 1st, 405, 629, 684,</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>695, 1st P. H. B., 137, 765, 794, 795;</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>2d, 405, 561, 726; 2d B. S., 519;</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>3d, 123; 3d P. H. B., 820, 1171, 1174;</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>5th, 805, 813, 976, 1258, 1259; 6th, 994,</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>996; 11th, 1174; Purnell Legion, 730, 893</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Mason, Addison G. Mentioned</td>
<td>113</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Mason, Frederick T. Mentioned</td>
<td>1246</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Mason, Herman Q. Mentioned</td>
<td>1281</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Mason, John S. Mentioned</td>
<td>544, 545</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Mason, William P. Mentioned</td>
<td>619, 723, 1144</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Massachusetts, Military Department</td>
<td>491</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Maryland Troops. Mentioned. (Confederate.)</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Artillery, Light—Batteries: B, 975;</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Baltimore, 990, 1177</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Cavalry—Battalions: Cole's, 1st, 795,</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>781, 784, 794, 990; Purnell Legion,</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>518, Regiments: 1st, 785, 899.</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Infantry—Regiments: 1st, 405, 629, 684,</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>695, 1st P. H. B., 137, 765, 794, 795;</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>2d, 405, 561, 726; 2d B. S., 519;</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>3d, 123; 3d P. H. B., 820, 1171, 1174;</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>5th, 805, 813, 976, 1258, 1259; 6th, 994,</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>996; 11th, 1174; Purnell Legion, 730, 893</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Massachusetts, Governor of</td>
<td>891</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Correspondence with Fitz John Porter</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Maryland Troops. Mentioned.</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Artillery, Heavy—Regiments: 1st, 443, 1007, 1165, 1217.</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Artillery, Light—Batteries: 1st, 497, 682, 975; 2d, 439, 3d (C), 565; 5th (E), 565, 650; 9th, 1003, 1007; 10th, 285; 11th, 1003, 1009; Cook's, 405, 427.</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Cavalry—Regiments: 1st, 158, 170, 243, 770, 775, 779, 781, 783; 2d, 214, 1000; 4th, 264; 5th (Colored), 264.</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Infantry—Battalions: 3d Rifles, 405, 1274.</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Companies: 1st Sharpshooters, 478.</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Regiments: 1st, 203, 409, 414, 433, 561; 2d, 412, 418, 429; 4th (Militia), 3–5; 5th (Militia), 18, 344, 389, 408, 414; 6th (Militia), 344, 370, 405, 431; 7th, 435, 479, 704; 8th (Militia), 344, 405, 1272–1274; 9th, 434, 461, 671, 688; 10th, 435, 479; 11th, 18, 225, 307, 435, 1035; 12th, 140, 141, 426, 429; 13th, 140, 141, 15th, 48, 443, 456, 467, 498; 16th, 613, 670; 17th, 561; 18th, 439; 19th, 476, 478; 20th, 476, 478, 498; 21st, 57, 726; 22d, 82, 496; 23d, 1610, 1260–1262; 24th, 1241–1245; 25th, 57, 537, 1159, 1160, 1260–1263; 27th, 1160, 1260–1262; 28th, 303, 726; 29th, 547; 32d, 708; 33d, 895; 34th, 777, 1003; 37th, 813; 39th, 286, 288–290, 292, 878, 879, 1003; 40th, 229, 889, 1003, 1075, 1248, 1252; 44th, 1011.</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Matanzas, Steamer. Mentioned</td>
<td>977</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Mathews, Joseph A. Mentioned</td>
<td>1185</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Matoon, Milton. Mentioned</td>
<td>1280</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>
INDEX.

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Name</th>
<th>Mentioned</th>
<th>Page</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Matthews, G. L.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>168</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Mauch, Bernhard</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>19</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Maulsby, William P.</td>
<td>Correspondence with Dixon S. Miles</td>
<td>794</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>137, 795, 1141</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Mauran, Edward C.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>336</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Maus, John A.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>146</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Maxey, D.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>1278</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Maxum, Charles</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>1277</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>May, David</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>228</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>May, M. G.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>94</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>May Queen, Steamer</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>963</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Mayan, Joseph</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>1278</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Mayer, Daniel H.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>1278</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Maynadier, William</td>
<td>Correspondence with</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Army Headquarters</td>
<td>352</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Porter, Fitz John</td>
<td>352</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>For other correspondence, see</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Ordnance Department, U. S. A.</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Mayo, Robert M.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>6, 7</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Mays, Samuel H.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>1276</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Mead, Joseph</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>177</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Meade, George G.</td>
<td>Assignment to duty</td>
<td>470, 472</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Correspondence with</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Barnes, James</td>
<td>1045, 1048</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>French, William H</td>
<td>1107, 1110</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Grant, U. S.</td>
<td>1158, 1191</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Hooker, Joseph</td>
<td>1036, 1045, 1061</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Howard, Oliver O.</td>
<td>1067, 1069, 1075, 1083, 1086, 1090–1092</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Humphreys, Andrew A.</td>
<td>1017, 1018, 1034, 1036, 1064, 1193, 1207</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Johannes, John G</td>
<td>1196</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>McCall, George A</td>
<td>701</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>McClellan, George B</td>
<td>847, 849, 850, 856</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Newton, John</td>
<td>1101, 1103–1105, 1107, 1109, 1111</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Parke, John G</td>
<td>1188</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Pleasonton, Alfred</td>
<td>1088</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Rice, James C</td>
<td>1137</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Sedgwick, John</td>
<td>1068, 1077, 1105–1107, 1118–1120, 1122</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Sykes, George</td>
<td>1044, 1046, 1053, 1070</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Taylor, Peter A</td>
<td>1123</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>War Department, U. S.</td>
<td>1181</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Warren, Gouverneur K</td>
<td>1085, 1125</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Staff. Announcements of</td>
<td>482, 1013</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Report of Ebenezer Andrews</td>
<td>54</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

88 R R—VOL LI, PT I
<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Name</th>
<th>Page</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Meagher, Thomas F.</td>
<td>Assignment to duty: 527</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Mentioned: 180, 527, 709</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Means, Samuel C.</td>
<td>Correspondence with Dixon S. Miles: 766</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Mentioned: 765, 766, 782, 914, 1041, 1068</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Means, Thomas H.</td>
<td>Mentioned: 1012</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Meares, Oliver Pendleton</td>
<td>Mentioned: 2</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Mechanicville, Va.</td>
<td>Battle of, June 26, 1862:</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>See reports of Fisher, p. 112; McCandless, p. 111; Roberts, p. 109; Scott, p. 114; Thomas, p. 117.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Medals of Honor</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>List of recipients of the Kearny cross: 1276–1281</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Recommendations for communications from:</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Ewing, John: 1194</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Gilmore, Charles D: 1195</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Johannes, John G: 1196</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Sellers, Eli G: 1195</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Wilson, James B: 1195</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Meek, George: 225</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Megeath, J. T.: 87</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Megraw, David W.: Report of Richmond, Va., Campaign, Jan. 1–April 3, 1865: 304</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Meigs, John R.: Mentioned: 1069</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Meigs, Montgomery C.: Mentioned: 541, 884</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>For correspondence, etc., see Quartermaster-General's Office, U. S. A.</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Melcher, John: 1278</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Mellard, E. A.: Mentioned: 232</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Melvin, Thayer: Mentioned: 177</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Mendall, Sidney J.: Mentioned: 286</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Meneely, Clinton H.: Mentioned: 965</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Mercier, Henri: Mentioned: 75, 574</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Meredith, Lewis: Mentioned: 1276</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Meredith, Solomon:</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Assignments to command: 951, 1121</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Mentioned: 951, 995, 1105, 1121, 1122, 1127, 1129, 1135, 1142</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Relieved from duty with Army of the Potomac: 1105</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Meredith, Sullivan A.: Mentioned: 398, 423</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Merkle, Christopher F.: Mentioned: 871</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Merrell, Charles D.: Mentioned: 1240</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Merrill, Charles B.: Report of campaign from the Rapidan to James River, Va., May 4–June 12, 1864; and operations to July 31, 1864: 233</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Merrill, William E.: Mentioned: 62, 68</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Merrimac, U. S. Frigate (C. S. S. Virginia): Mentioned: 58, 59, 73, 548, 549, 569, 573, 600</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Merritt, Nehemiah: Mentioned: 75</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Merritt, Wesley:</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Correspondence with:</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Gibbs, Alfred: 1132, 1133</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Pleasonton, Alfred: 1140</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Mentioned: 1121</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Merryman, John D.: Mentioned: 53</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Mervin, Samuel: Mentioned: 80</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Mervine, Catharina B.: Mentioned: 947</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Measkill, David: Mentioned: 1281</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Metcalf, Edwin: Mentioned: 879</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>
INDEX.

1395

Metcalf, George. Mentioned .............................................. 1224
Meux, J. Mentioned ......................................................... 193
Meyers, J. Mentioned .......................................................... 227
Meysenburg, Theodore A. Mentioned ........................................ 960, 966 Michigan Troops. Mentioned.
Artillery, Light—Batteries: 1st, * 12, 15; 9th, † 994.
Cavalry—Regiments: 1st, 558, 563, 971, 994, 1041; 5th, 6th, 972, 994; 7th, 994.
Infantry—Regiments: 1st, 18, 503, 656, 670; 1st (Militia), 389, 408, 414; 2d, 409, 414, 435; 3d, 409, 414, 435, 1279, 1280; 4th, 434, 461; 5th, 1276, 1280; 7th, 478; 8th, 493, 726; 16th, 189; 24th, 877, 1009; 26th, 297, 300, 1003, 1008.
Michler, Nathaniel. Correspondence with Ira Spaulding. .................. 275
Report of Richmond, Va., Campaign, Aug. 1–Dec. 31, 1864 .................. 274
Middlebrook, William M. Mentioned ......................................... 167 Middleburg, Va. Scouts to.
Middletown, Md. Skirmishes at.
July 7, 1864. Communications from
Clendenin, David R ................................................................. 1172
Wallace, Lew ................................................................. 1172
Mighels, Henry R. Mentioned. ................................................ 871
Miladophsky, Fritz. Mentioned. .............................................. 1278
Miles, Dixon S.
Assignment to command .......................................................... 411
Correspondence with
Adjutant-General’s Office, U. S. A. .......................................... 764
Army Headquarters ............................................................. 800, 819
Bamford, Robert C. ................................................................ 766
Banks, Nathaniel P. .................................................................. 697
Banning, Henry B. ................................................................... 795
Coe, Henry A. .......................................................................... 773
Davis, Benjamin F. ................................................................. 772
Downey, Stephen W ................................................................. 798, 820
Faskin, John ............................................................................. 784, 788
Ford, Thomas H ........................................................................ 804, 820
McDowell, Irvin ....................................................................... 419
Maulsby, William P. ................................................................. 794
Means, Samuel C. .................................................................... 786
Piatt, A. Sanders ....................................................................... 735
War Department, U. S. ................................................................. 640
White, Julius ............................................................................. 794, 798, 804, 812, 819, 820
Wool, John E ............................................................................ 689
Staff. Announcement of ............................................................ 416

* Final designation, Battery A, 1st Artillery.  † Final designation, Battery I, 1st Artillery.
INDEX.

Miles, Nelson A.
Correspondence with Hancock, Winfield S. ................................. 1034
Humphreys, Andrew A. ...................................................... 1205, 1209
Mentioned ......... 277, 278, 280–282, 302–305, 866, 1181, 1193, 1208, 1209, 1227, 1228

Military Complications. Communications from
Army Headquarters ......................................................... 491, 492
Grant, U. S. ........................................................................... 1191
Meade, George G ................................................................. 1191

Military Division of the Potomac (Union). See Potomac, Military Division of the.

Millano, Juan. Mentioned ...................................................... 1279
Miller, Lieutenant. Mentioned ............................................. 1062
Miller, Abram O. Mentioned .................................................. 10
Miller, Amos. Mentioned ...................................................... 1277
Miller, Christopher. Mentioned ............................................. 8, 9
Miller, Francis C. Mentioned ................................................. 951
Miller, James. Mentioned ..................................................... 1277
Miller, Leonidas. Mentioned .................................................. 134
Miller, Marcus P. Mentioned ................................................... 723
Miller, Merritt B. Mentioned ................................................ 190
Report of Chancellorsville, Va., Campaign, April 27–May 6, 1863 .......... 183

Miller, Stephen.
Mentioned ................................................................. 22
Report of Seven Days' Battles, June 25–July 1, 1862 .................... 108
Miller, Theodore. Mentioned ................................................. 1210
Miller, Thomas. Mentioned ................................................... 298
Miller, Thomas V. Mentioned ............................................... 1276
Miller, William H. Mentioned ............................................... 476
Miller, William J. Mentioned ................................................ 1276
Miller, W. J. Mentioned ...................................................... 1278
Millican, William T. Mentioned ............................................ 161, 164
Millikin, George W. Mentioned ............................................. 1279
Milling, Robert H. Mentioned ................................................ 784
Mills, James H. Mentioned .................................................... 114
Milroy, Robert H. Assignment to duty ....................................... 490
Correspondence with Lincoln, Abraham .................................... 1076, 1087
Schenck, Robert C ............................................................... 978, 990, 996, 997, 1012, 1013, 1037
Mentioned ......... 131, 490, 515, 517, 533, 566, 578, 581, 623, 802, 894, 974, 976, 989, 990, 997, 1010, 1011, 1038, 1054–1056
Relieved from command of Cheat Mountain District ..................... 578
Report of engagement at Camp Alleghany, W. Va., Dec. 13, 1861 ......... 51
Mindil, George W. For correspondence as A. A. A. G., see Philip Kearny.

Mine, Explosion of, and Assault on the Crater (Petersburg), Va., July 30, 1864. See reports of Batchelder, p. 256; Merrill, p. 236.

Minier, Francis P. Mentioned ................................................ 397
Minnesota, U. S. Frigate. Mentioned ....................................... 549
Minnesota Troops. Mentioned.
Minnigerode, Charles. Correspondence with Edward H. Ripley .......... 1212, 1215
INDEX.

Minor, Henry A. Mentioned ................................................. 95
Mintzer, William M. Mentioned ............................................ 303, 305, 306
Report of Richmond, Va., Campaign, Jan. 1–April 3, 1865 .......... 303
Mississippi Troops. Mentioned. (Confederate.)
Cavalry—Regiments: Jeff. Davis Legion, 694.
Infantry—Regiments: 6th, 188; 14th, 408; 19th, 91–95; 25th, 67.
Missroon, John S. Mentioned ........................................... 573
Mitchel, Ormsby M.
Assignments to command .................................................. 464, 473
Mentioned ............................................................................ 464, 466, 473
Mitchell, Alexander H. Mentioned ..................................... 1276
Mitchell, Hugh. Mentioned .................................................. 60
Mitchell, Robert M. Mentioned ............................................ 134
Report of campaign in Northern Virginia, Aug. 16–Sept. 2, 1862 .. 134
Mitchell, Thomas E. Mentioned ............................................ 1135
Mitchell, William G. Mentioned ........................................... 1182
Mix, John. Mentioned .......................................................... 498
Mix, Simon H. Mentioned .................................................... 1268, 1269
Mobberly, John W. Mentioned ............................................. 177
Moesch, Joseph A. Mentioned .............................................. 141
Mohn, Henry. Mentioned ..................................................... 1276
Moll, Robert. Mentioned ..................................................... 1278
Monihan, David. Mentioned .................................................. 1277
Monitor, U. S. S. Mentioned ................................................ 59, 536 Monocacy, Md. Battle of, July 9, 1864. Communications from Ricketts, James B .............................................................. 1175, 1176
Wallace, Lew ................................................................. 1175–1177
Monroe, J. Albert. Mentioned .............................................. 1143, 1166
Monteith, George. Mentioned .............................................. 619, 723, 933
For correspondence as A. A. A. G., see Fitz John Porter.
Monteith, Robert. Mentioned ................................................ 1165
Montgomery, William R.
Assignment to duty .............................................................. 455
Correspondence with Robert C. Schenck .................. 992
Mentioned ................................................................. 455, 465, 553
Moody, Gideon C. Mentioned .............................................. 51–54
Moor, Augustus.
Assignment to command .................................................... 754
Mentioned ................................................................. 508, 509, 738, 754, 771, 990, 997, 998, 1141
Moore, A. J. Mentioned ...................................................... 1277
Moore, Alexander.
Mentioned ................................................................. 945
Report of Gettysburg Campaign, June 3–Aug. 1, 1863 ........... 200
Moore, Gustavus. Mentioned ................................................ 288
Moore, James M. Mentioned ................................................ 1097
Moore, John. Mentioned ...................................................... 790, 945
Moore, John W. Mentioned .................................................. 234, 236
Moore, Samuel A. Mentioned ............................................... 307
Moore, Thomas. Mentioned .................................................. 59
Moore, William J. Mentioned .............................................. 1280
Moorhead, James K.
Correspondence with Robert C. Schenck .................. 1016
Mentioned ................................................................. 72, 637
<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Name</th>
<th>Mentioned</th>
<th>Page</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Moran, Peter.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>1281</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Morehead, Turner G.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>406</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Morell, George W.</td>
<td>Assignments to command</td>
<td>455, 470, 619, 1134</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Morell, George W.</td>
<td>Correspondence with McClellan, George B.</td>
<td>832, 915</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Moran, Peter.</td>
<td>Relieved from duty with 5th Army Corps</td>
<td>908</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Moran, Peter.</td>
<td>Staff. Announcement of</td>
<td>494</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Morford, William H.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>946</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Morgan, Steamer.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>1284</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Morgan, C. F.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>1278</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Morgan, Charles H.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>1182</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Morgan, Thomas A.</td>
<td>Assignment to command</td>
<td>395</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Morgan, Thomas A.</td>
<td>Correspondence with George B. McClellan</td>
<td>393</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Morgan, Thomas A.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>392, 395</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Morris, William.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>1278</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Morris, George U.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>1231</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Morris, John.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>444</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Morris, William.</td>
<td>Correspondence with Robert C. Schenck</td>
<td>1041</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Morris, William.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>990, 1075, 1076</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Morrison, Joseph J.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>8</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Morrow, Henry A.</td>
<td>Correspondence with Samuel W. Crawford</td>
<td>1203</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Morse, U. S. S.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>286, 287, 290, 291, 294, 1008, 1216</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Morse, Augustus.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>489</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Morton, John F.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>1281</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Morton, Oliver P.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>374, 375</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Morton, Peter.</td>
<td>Report of engagement at Petersburg, Va., June 9, 1864</td>
<td>1271</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Morton, Richard.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>1227</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Mosby, John S.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>177, 214, 215, 217, 218, 220, 1041–1043, 1091</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Moseley, William W.</td>
<td>For correspondence as A. D. C., see Henry W. Slocum</td>
<td>91, 93, 94</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Moses, Isaac.</td>
<td>For correspondence as A. A. G., see Samuel P. Heintzelman</td>
<td>8</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>
INDEX

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Name</th>
<th>Mentions</th>
<th>Page.</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Mott, Gershom.</td>
<td>Correspondence with Andrew A. Humphreys</td>
<td>1205, 1206</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>234, 277–282, 297, 302, 306, 1034, 1036, 1130, 1193, 1200, 1208</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Mott, John R.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>166</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Moulton, Orson.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>1262</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Mountain Department.</td>
<td>(Union.)</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Frémont, John C., assumes command of</td>
<td>564</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Harris, Thomas M., assigned to command of Cheat Mountain District</td>
<td>578</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Kelley, Benjamin F., assigned to command of the Railroad District</td>
<td>564</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Milroy, Robert H., relieved from command of Cheat Mountain District</td>
<td>578</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Orders, General, series 1862—Frémont: Nos. 5, 6, 7, 564; Nos. 10, 11, 568; No. 14, 577; No. 15, 578; Nos. 18, 19, 588; No. 22, 601; No. 26, 676. Rosecrans: No. 2, 557.</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Orders, Special, series 1862—Rosecrans: No. 5, 556.</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Mount Vernon, Steamer.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>330</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Mountville, Va.</td>
<td>Skirmish at, Oct. 31, 1862. Report of J. E. B. Stuart</td>
<td>171</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Moyne, William.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>1278</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Mud March, The.</td>
<td>Jan. 20–24, 1863. Communications from</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Comstock, Cyrus B.</td>
<td>977</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Franklin, William B</td>
<td>975</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Reynolds, John F.</td>
<td>974</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Sigel, Franz</td>
<td>976</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Stahel, Julius</td>
<td>976</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Muhberg, Frank.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>1280</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Muhlenberg, Edward D.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>120, 1070</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Mulhall, Henry.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>1240</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Mulligan, James A.</td>
<td>Correspondence with Robert C. Schenck</td>
<td>1019, 1057</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>711, 980, 1017, 1140, 1141</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Mullin, Edwin C.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>146</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Mullins, John W.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>134</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Mundee, Charles.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>954</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Munford, Thomas T.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>617</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Munford, William.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>34</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Munitions of War.</td>
<td>Supplies of, etc. Communications from</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Army Headquarters</td>
<td>317, 357</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Comstock, Cyrus B.</td>
<td>999</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Delafield, Richard</td>
<td>579</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Ferguson, Colin B.</td>
<td>770</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Graham, Lawrence P</td>
<td>356</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Koontz, George S</td>
<td>845</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>McClellan, George B</td>
<td>584, 589, 686</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>McDowell, Irvin</td>
<td>629</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Maryland, Governor of</td>
<td>317, 336</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Maynadier, William</td>
<td>352</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Ordnance Department, U. S. A</td>
<td>538, 812</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Pope, John</td>
<td>761, 767</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Porter, Fitz John</td>
<td>392, 393</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Ramsay, George D</td>
<td>847</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Rucker, Daniel H</td>
<td>758</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Scott, Thomas A</td>
<td>383, 846</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Small, Alex</td>
<td>359</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Smith, William Prescott</td>
<td>846</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Symington, John</td>
<td>353, 357</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Thomas, Charles</td>
<td>353, 357</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>
Munitions of War. Supplies of, etc. Communications from—Continued.

War Department, U. S. ............................................. 317, 840, 841
Williams, Seth ...................................................... 838
Munroe, Timothy. Mentioned .................................. 344, 1278
Mune, Henry C. Mentioned .................................. 1276
Munsell, Harvey M. Mentioned .................................. 1279
Murdock, George H. Mentioned .................................. 1189
Murphy, Edward. Mentioned .................................. 1132
Murphy, Hugh. Mentioned .................................. 1281
Murphy, John. Mentioned .................................. 169
Murphy, John W. Mentioned .................................. 548
Murphy, Mathew. Mentioned .................................. 1163
Murphy, Murtha. Mentioned .................................. 302
Murphy, W. C. Mentioned .................................. 94
Murray, John. Mentioned .................................. 473
Murray, Thomas. Mentioned .................................. 1281
Murray, William. Mentioned .................................. 1277
Murray, William H. Mentioned .................................. 60
Musser, Robert McC. Mentioned .................................. 69
Myer, Albert J.
Correspondence with
Burnside, Ambrose E ............................................. 586
Fricker, Joseph .................................................. 620, 621
War Department, U. S. ............................................. 586
Mentioned .................................................. 421, 448, 802, 983
Myers, Benjamin H. Mentioned .................................. 52, 53
Myers, Edward. Mentioned .................................. 1132
Myers, Frederick. Mentioned .................................. 67, 68, 75, 76, 575, 744
Myers, Peter. Mentioned .................................. 1280
Myers, William H. Mentioned .................................. 10
Nagle, James.
Correspondence with Jesse L. Reno .................................. 751
Mentioned .................................................. 397
Naglee, Henry M.
Assignments to command ............................................. 581, 943
Correspondence with Erasmus D. Keyes .................. 894, 943, 957, 963
Mentioned .................................................. 581, 630, 647, 649, 699, 704, 717, 957, 964
Nash, ——. Mentioned .................................. 504
Nason, O. M. Mentioned .................................. 1278
Naval Academy. Transfer of, to Fort Adams, R. I. Communication from War Department, U. S. ............................................. 342
Navy, U. S. Co-operation of, with Army. Communications from George B.
McClellan .................................................. 677, 697, 713
Navy Department, U. S. Correspondence with
Grant, U. S .................................................. 1197
Harris, John .................................................. 313
Hooker, Joseph .................................................. 1001
McClellan, George B. ............................................. 573, 596
Paulding, Hiram .................................................. 320
Quartermaster-General's Office, U. S. A. .................. 685
War Department, U. S. ............................................. 312
Naylor, John E. Mentioned .................................. 858
Neff, Aldus J. Mentioned .................................. 109
Negley, James S. Mentioned .................................. 398, 399, 404, 406
INDEX.

Neil, Hugh W. Mentioned .......................................................... 155
Neil, Jonathan. Mentioned ...................................................... 1278
Neill, B. D. Mentioned ............................................................. 22
Neill, Edward M. For correspondence as A. A. G., see Jesse L. Reno.
Neill, Thomas H. Mentioned ...................................................... 196, 197, 1257–1259
Report of Gettysburg Campaign, June 3–Aug. 1, 1863 ................. 196
Nelson, Charles. Mentioned ...................................................... 1280
Nesbit, James S. Mentioned ...................................................... 1262
Nesbitt, Nathaniel. Mentioned .................................................. 153
Neustader, Jacob. Mentioned .................................................... 572
Nevin, David R. B. Mentioned .................................................. 123
Nevins, I. R. Mentioned ........................................................... 638
New Berne, N. C. Battle of, March 14, 1862. Congratulatory Orders of John G. Foster ......................................................... 553
New England, Department of.
Butler, Benjamin F. Assigned to command of ................................ 491
Assumes command of ............................................................... 494
Constituted and limits defined ................................................. 491, 494
Orders, General, series 1861—Butler: No. 1 ................................ 494
New Hampshire. Military Department embracing ......................... 491
New Hampshire Troops. Mentioned.
Artillery, Light—Batteries: 1st, 68, 579.
Infantry—Regiments: 1st (Militia), 410, 415, 416, 429, 432; 2d, 18, 23, 409, 414, 435, 561, 562, 1081, 1264, 1265; 3d, 489, 1232, 1236, 1238, 1242; 4th, 1247; 5th, 56, 297, 298, 507, 508, 1081, 1227, 1228; 6th, 726; 7th, 1232, 1233, 1239, 1245; 10th, 1248, 1249; 11th, 1190; 12th, 1061, 1192, 1264; 13th, 879, 901, 1248; 14th, 1003.
New Jersey Troops. Mentioned.
Artillery, Light—Batteries: 1st, 66, 975; 2d, 1078; 4th, 1224, 1232, 1238, 1240.
Cavalry—Regiments: 1st, 70, 522, 558.
Infantry—Regiments: 1st, 414, 434, 435, 550; 1st (Militia), 414; 2d, 414, 434, 435, 506; 2d (Militia), 405, 414; 3d, 49, 50, 414, 434, 435, 506, 550; 3d (Militia), 414; 4th, 114; 4th (Militia), 414; 5th, 495, 648; 6th, 91, 478, 485, 648; 7th, 495, 561; 8th, 271, 495; 9th, 1160, 1233–1235, 1260, 1262; 10th, 1003, 1008, 1156; 12th, 307; 14th, 788, 968, 1010, 1012, 1013; 22d, 951; 23d, 24th, 879; 25th, 27th, 901; 28th, 879; 29th, 30th, 31st, 951; 33d, 1090.
Newland, Abner L. Mentioned ................................................... 52, 53
New Market Road, Va.
Battle of, June 30, 1862. See Glendale, Va.
Newcomb, David. Mentioned .................................................... 1225
Newton, George. Mentioned ..................................................... 1280
Newton, John.
Assignments to command ....................................................... 1066, 1152
Correspondence with
Franklin, William B. ............................................................ 890, 891
Meade, George G. ................................................................. 1101, 1103–1105, 1107, 1109, 1111
Robinson, John C. ............................................................... 1103, 1104
Sedgwick, John ................................................................. 1049 1402

INDEX.

Newton, John-Continued.

Page.

66, 181, 188, 189,406,428,496,860,893, 901,902,942, 1014, 1025, 1029, 1033, 1066, 1071, 1072, 1075, 1078, 1082–1084, 1092, 1100, 1110, 1127, 1152

Mentioned - - - - -

Relieved from duty with Army of the Potomac - - - - - - - - - - - - - - - - ---------.

1152

New York Arsenal, Commanding Officer at. Correspondence with Army
Headquarters------------------------------------------------.

352

New York, Governor of Correspondence with John E. Wool...--------- 758,761
Artillery, Heavy—Regiments: 2d, 301, 1007, 1165, 1217, 1227; 4th, 303, 305, 306,962, 1007, 1217, 1228; 5th, 1019; 5th (Batteries), A, 765; 6th, 964,977,

1197; 7th, 1165; 8th, 307, 761, 1165; 9th, 1166, 1217; 10th, 1166, 1197,
1258; 16th, 1286.
Artillery, Light—Battalions: 1st, 528; 2d (Batteries), B, 813. Batteries:
1st, 975; 3d, 182, 435; 5th, 779; 6th,” 46–48, 467; 7th, 1250; 8th, 1271;
12th, 16th, 1003; 17th, 1003, 1007, 1009; 19th, 27th, 1003; 34th,t 120,
1162; Varian's, 411,413. Regiments: 1st (Batteries), C, 776, 1219; H, 99;
3d, 561; 3d, (Batteries), K., 266.
Cavalry—Companies: Oneida, 559. Regiments: 1st (Lincoln), 138,504,510, 558,687, 996, 1012, 1041, 1057; 2d (Harris Light), 61, 67–69, 72–74, 77,449,
558,579, 639,735,744,750, 810, 1132; 3d, 558, 1192; 4th, 558; 5th, 558,582,
994; 6th, 558, 562,702, 934, 970,971, 1000, 1004; 7th, 96–98, 1233; 8th, 562,
665,690,768,772,773,784,859; 9th,209; 10th, 11th, 562; 13th, 16th, 214,
19th, 5813, 1077, 1083, 1133; 20th, 1192.

Engineers—Regiments: 1st, 274, 1232, 1233; 15th, 63,435,671, 688; 50th, 63, 275, 488, 671, 688, 1155.

Infantry—Battalions : 1st Sharpshooters, 1076, 1080. Regiments: lst, 4, 547,670, 1230; 2d, 447, 450, 547,670, 1230; 3d, 3, 4, 1169, 1230, 1247; 5th,
3, 4, 632, 1230, 1231; 5th (Militia), 390, 416, 429, 430; 6th (Militia), 405,
1274; 7th, 3,4,547, 1230; 7th (Militia), 327,328,344,359,360,395,396,758,
759, 1272–1274; 8th, 19,410,414, 435, 895, 999; 8th (Militia), 18, 390, 396,
409, 414; 9th, 57, 447, 450, 727,994; 10th, 447,613; 11th, 18, 21,382,389,
408, 414, 547; llth (Militia), 723, 724, 765, 768; 12th, 409, 414, 435, 454,
571; 12th (Militia), 344, 390,416, 430, 761, 766; 13th, 17, 80–83, 461, 625,
632; 13th (Militia), 405, 414; 14th, 434, 461; 16th, 19, 414, 434, 470;
17th, 435, 493,864; 18th, 19, 414,435; 19th, 415,416,429; 20th, 613; 20th
(Militia), 405; 21st, 71,435, 493; 22d, 435; 22d (Militia), 766; 23d, 73,
'434; 24th, 72,435; 25th, 81,434, 495; 25th (Militia), 344,390, 396; 26th, 73, 75, 434,470, 606; 27th, 18, 434,470; 28th, 415,416,429; 28th (Militia), 390; 29th, 19, 410, 414,435, 895; 30th, 435; 31st, 19, 181, 182, 185, 187, 414, 435; 32d, 19, 414,435; 33d, 435,439, 489; 34th, 435, 467; 35th, 434; 36th,

435, 479; 37th, 434, 454, 522, 1281; 38th, 18, 104, 414, 1278; 39th, 19, 410,
414, 435, 969, 1002; 40th, 104,666, 1278; 41st, 424,434,461,496,895, 1197;
42d, 435, 467; 43d, 181, 182, 185–187, 489; 44th, 923, 924,928,929; 45th, 895; 46th, 726, 1166; 47th, 1266; 48th, 1235, 1266; 49th,489,635; 51st, 57, 726; 52d, 179, 180, 507; 54th, 895; 55th, 478; 56th, 73, 963; 57th,

179, 180,507; 58th, 895; 59th, 708; 60th, 562,660,893; 61st, 298–300,507,
508,1182, 1227, 1228; 62d, 478; 64th, 302–304, 1228; 65th, 188, 475, 479;
66th, 179, 180, 303, 507; 67th, 475, 479; 68th, 461,895; 69th, 302, 303;
69th (Militia), 17,390,413; 70th, 438; 71st,438,649; 71st (Militia), 18, 23, 24, 337,344, 389, 403, 409, 414; 72d, 91,438; 73d, 203, 462; 74th, 201–
206; 76th, 1266; 79th, 17, 413, 425, 438,489, 726, 80th (20th Militia), 237–239, 1059; 81st, 963, 1148; 82d (2d Militia), 17, 413, 435, 467;
* Originally Company K, 9th State Militia.
f Originally Battery L, 2d New York Artillery.
! Also called First Mounted Rifles.

§ Originally 130th New York.


INDEX.

Infantry—Regiments—Continued.

- 83d (9th Militia), 7, 8, 75, 140, 141, 410, 411, 415, 416, 429; 84th (14th Militia), 18, 75, 150, 409, 414, 435, 1009, 1124; 87th, 80, 760; 89th, 727, 1253–1255, 1258, 1259, 1262; 92d, 1248; 93d, 234; 94th, 74, 293, 1059; 95th, 293, 294; 97th, 286–288, 290–292; 98th, 963, 1148, 1249; 99th, 57–59, 613; 100th, 805, 896, 1003, 1147, 1248; 101st, 104, 663, 670; 102d, 123; 103d, 561, 677, 1197; 104th, 140, 641; 105th, 139, 140; 111th, 1002, 1228; 112th, 1169, 1247, 1266, 1267; 115th, 784, 977, 1266; 117th, 1003, 1007, 1169, 1247; 118th, 982, 985, 1003, 1147, 1248; 119th, 805, 813, 895; 122d, 189; 123d, 875; 125th, 969, 1002; 126th, 969, 1003; 127th, 875, 876, 889, 1003, 1074; 132d, 876; 133d, 879, 897; 134th, 895; 136th, 879, 895; 137th, 875, 876, 893; 138th, 875, 876; 139th, 1147; 140th, 875, 893, 907; 141st, 1003, 1075; 142d, 1003, 1169, 1235, 1247, 1248; 143d, 886, 1003, 1074; 144th, 888, 1003, 888, 1075; 145th, 875, 893; 146th, 888, 889; 147th, 294, 295, 951; 148th, 1187, 1252, 1264; 149th, 875, 876, 893; 150th, 967, 969; 151st, 1010, 1012, 1013; 152d, 962, 985, 1003, 1069; 153d, 1003; 154th, 879, 895; 155th, 307, 1163; 157th, 879, 895; 158th, 1178; 162d, 897; 163d, 879; 164th, 1163; 165th, 1075; 169th, 889, 962, 985, 1003, 1007, 1224, 1225, 1232, 1239–1241, 1247, 1266–1268; 170th, 1163; 182d, 1163.

Nicholls, Francis T. Mentioned .............................................. 61
Nicholson, Francis G. Mentioned ..................................... 144
Nicholson, William R. Mentioned ................................... 1277
Nicolay, John G. For correspondence as Private Secretary, see Abraham Lincoln.
Nields, Cheyney W. Mentioned ............................................. 142
Niles, Alanson E. Mentioned .................................................. 156
Nimmo, Archibald. Mentioned ........................................ 1195
Noble, Charles D. Mentioned .............................................. 1281
Noble, William P. Mentioned ............................................. 194
Nolan, James. Mentioned ................................................. 61
Nones, Henry B. Correspondence with John A. Dix ............. 431
Norcom, A. Mentioned ......................................................... 232
Norcom, Joe. Mentioned ......................................................... 190, 222–225

Reports of

Chancellorsville, Va., Campaign, April 27–May 6, 1863 .......................... 195

Norfolk, Va.

Affairs in, generally. Communications from

McClellan, George B. .......................................................... 650
Smith, William H. ............................................................... 628
War Department, U. S. ......................................................... 639
Wool, John E. ................................................................. 626

Resolutions of the Councils .................................................. 627

Norfolk, Va., Mayor of. Correspondence with

Huger, Benjamin ............................................................... 627
Smith, William H. ............................................................... 628

Norment, J. J. Mentioned ....................................................... 227

Norment, W. T. Mentioned ..................................................... 227

Norris, Charles E. Mentioned ................................................ 763

*Also called 69th New York Militia (Artillery).
INDEX.

North America, Steamer. Mentioned................................................. 76

North Anna, Pamunkey, and Totopotomoy Rivers, Va. Operations on the line of, May 22–June 1, 1864. See reports of Early, p. 244; Merrill, p. 235.

North Carolina.

Affairs in, generally. Communication from Ambrose E. Burnside........ 696

Operations in.
Jan. 11–Aug. 20, 1862. Communications from Joseph Fricker............. 620, 621
Aug. 20, 1862–June 3, 1863. Communication from Edward H. Ripley... 1008
Aug. 1–Dec. 31, 1864. Communication from Innis N. Palmer............. 1196

North Carolina, Department of. (Union.)
Orders, General, series 1862—Foster: No. 5, 537; No. 11, 553.
Re-enforcements for. Communication from John A. Dix.................. 561
Union troops in. Organization, strength, etc., July 25, 1862........... 726, 727
Williams, Thomas, relieved from duty in.................................. 534

North Carolina Troops. Mentioned. (Confederate.)
Artillery, Light—Batteries: Cape Fear, 2.
Infantry—Companies: Cape Fear Rifles, 2. Regiments: 5th, 32, 33; 7th, 98; 16th, 109; 30th (Militia), 1–3; 42d, 268; 51st, 229.

North Carolina Troops. Mentioned. (Union.)
Infantry—Regiments: 2d, 1289.

Northeastern Virginia, Department of. (Union.)
McDowell, Irvin, assumes command of........................................ 389
Orders, General, series 1861—McDowell: No. 1, 389; No. 2, 396; No. 5, 400;
No. 13, 413; No. 21, 421; No. 26, 433.
Orders, Special, series 1861—McDowell: Nos. 3, 5, 396; Nos. 16, 17, 18, 408; No. 24, 410; No. 26, 411; No. 29, 416; No. 43, 423; No.
44, 425; No. 53, 432.
Union troops in. Organization, strength, etc., July 8, 1861............. 413, 414

Northern Virginia.

Army of. Surrender of, April 9, 1865. See report of Batchelder, p. 260.
Campaign in, Aug. 16–Sept. 2, 1862. Reports of Ashby, Philip S................................................................. 134
Baldy, Peter................................................................. 130
Clark, John................................................................. 125
Hambrick, Joseph A....................................................... 135
Herbert, Arthur........................................................... 134
Holmes, Joseph G......................................................... 127
Langley, Frank H......................................................... 133
Lemon, William.......................................................... 128
McNeil, Hugh W........................................................... 131
Magilton, Albert L....................................................... 126
Mitchell, Robert M....................................................... 134

Operations in, March 10–June 22, 1862. Journal of events. McDowell... 61–79

Norton, Charles B. Mentioned................................................. 619
Norton, Jesse S. Mentioned.................................................. 421

Norton, Lemuel B. Correspondence with Castle, Davis E............................................................. 1125
Clarke, George J............................................................ 1102
Taylor, Peter A............................................................. 1089, 1100, 1101, 1108–1116, 1120–1126, 1128, 1129

Norvell, John M. Mentioned.................................................. 472, 1090

Norwich, City of, Steamer. Mentioned....................................... 743

Diitized by Google
INDEX.

Noyes, Walter F. Mentioned ............................................. 235

Nugent, Robert.
Mentioned .................................................................. 303-305, 1228

Report of Richmond, Va., Campaign, Jan. 1-April 3, 1865 ............ 301

Nutall, Edw. A. Mentioned .............................................. 1276

Nutter, ———. Mentioned ............................................. 54

Nye, James W., et al. Correspondence with War Department, U. S. 344

Oakford, Richard A. Mentioned .......................................... 388

Oakley, O. A. Mentioned ................................................... 1277

O'Brien, Edward.
Correspondence with Edgar M. Gregory ................................ 160
Mentioned ....................................................................... 159

O'Brien, Moses. Mentioned ............................................. 124

O'Brien, Richard. Mentioned ............................................ 200, 263

Ocean Queen, Steamer. Mentioned ................................... 600

O'Connell, John. Mentioned ............................................ 1281

O'Connell, John D. Mentioned ......................................... 864

O'Connor, John. Mentioned ............................................. 1278

Octorara, Steamer. Mentioned ....................................... 624

Odom & Clements. Mentioned ......................................... 628

Ogle, Charles H. Mentioned ............................................ 724

Ohio. Military Department embracing ................................ 376

Ohio, Adjutant-General of. Correspondence with George B. McClellan 519

Ohio Belle, Steamer. Mentioned ........................................ 371

Ohio Department of the. (Union.)
Benham, Henry W., assigned to duty in ............................. 453, 455
Constituted and limits defined ........................................ 376
Cox, Jacob D., assigned to duty in .................................. 455
Kelley, Benjamin F., assigned to duty in .......................... 455
McClellan, George B., assumes command of ..................... 376
Mitchel, Ormsby M., assigned to duty in .......................... 473

Orders, General, series 1861—McClellan: No. 1, 376; Nos. 7, 8, 377; No. 9, 379; No. 11, 383; No. 14, 403; No. 18, 408. Cox: No. 7, 424; No. 8, 425; No. 18, 481; No. 20, 486; No. 24, 494; No. 26, 495. Rosecrans: No. 16, 453; No. 19, 439, 471; No. 20, 443.

Orders, Special, series 1861—McClellan: No. 24, 395; No. 37, 399. Rosecrans: No. 3, 425; No. 50, 434.

Reynolds, Joseph J., assigned to duty in .......................... 455

Union troops in. Organization, strength, etc., Sept. 5, 1861 ....... 471

Ohio, Governor of. Correspondence with
Cox, Jacob D. ................................................................ 458
Pennsylvania, Governor of .............................................. 391

War Department, U. S. ................................................. 337

Ohio Troops.
Mentioned.

Artillery, Light—Batteries: 1st, 471, 495, 771; Cotter's (3 months), 417, 462. Regiments: 1st (Battery), I, 1219.

Cavalry—Companies: 3d, 464, 495; Burdsal's (3 months), 10; George's (3 months), 417, 464. Regiments: 1st, 726, 994.
Ohio Troops—Continued.

Mentioned.

Infantry—Regiments: 1st, 37, 1099; 1st (3 months), 17, 334, 370, 399, 404, 413; 2d, 37; 2d (3 months), 17, 334, 370, 399, 413; 3d (3 months), 13; 4th, 12–15, 370; 5th, 417; 7th, 370, 371, 452, 454, 458–460, 462, 465, 468, 471; 8th, 370, 417; 9th, 12, 14, 15, 471; 10th, 471; 11th, 370, 416, 417, 419, 420, 424, 466, 468, 481, 484, 495, 508, 754; 12th, 37, 371, 416, 417, 419, 441, 448, 454, 465, 471, 481; 13th, 371, 449, 451, 452, 471, 481; 17th (3 months), 418; 19th (3 months), 10; 21st (3 months), 417, 419; 22d (3 months), 418; 23d, 207, 449, 451, 471, 593–595, 600, 738, 1093, 1073; 25th, 51, 52, 895; 26th, 441, 444, 471, 481, 495, 515; 28th, 454, 471, 508, 738, 754; 30th, 471, 508, 602, 608; 32d, 51, 52; 34th, 484, 738; 36th, 54–56, 508, 754; 37th, 738; 44th, 509; 47th, 471, 485, 508, 592; 55th, 895; 60th, 1161, 1162; 61st, 895; 66th, 662; 67th, 1224, 1225, 1232, 1237, 1238; 73d, 75th, 895; 82d, 895, 1091; 110th, 1098; 126th, 1099; 149th, 1171, 1174.

Recruitment, organization of, etc. Communications from

Army Headquarters .................................................. 342
McClellan, George B .................................................. 333, 339, 370, 373

Olcott, Egbert W. Mentioned ........................................ 723

Oldershaw, John. Mentioned ........................................ 951

Oliphant, Benjamin A. Mentioned .......................................... 1277

Olmsted, Edwin B.

Correspondence with

Banks, Nathaniel P. ................................................. 756
Shields, James .......................................................... 95
Mentioned ............................................................. 1229

Olmsted, William A.

Correspondence with Edmund Rice ........................................ 1201
Mentioned ............................................................. 307
Report of Richmond, Va., Campaign, Jan. 1–April 3, 1865 .................................................. 306

O'Neill, Thomas. Mentioned ........................................... 1279

Ord, Edward O. C.

Assignment to duty ..................................................... 505

Correspondence with

Butler, Benjamin F. ................................................. 1289
McClellan, Irvin .......................................................... 588, 634, 641, 642
Mentioned ............................................................. 71, 74, 75, 77, 78, 235, 264, 240, 242, 253, 271, 505, 640, 662, 664, 676, 683, 1085, 1185, 1192, 1207, 1209, 1210

Ordnance Department, U. S. A. Correspondence with

Ball, A. M. ................................................................ 309
Barbour, Alfred M ....................................................... 308, 309
McClellan, George B .................................................. 584, 886, 842
Ramsay, George D ...................................................... 842, 846, 847
War Department, U. S. .................................................. 538

Orem, James R. Mentioned ............................................ 85

Orleans, Louis Phillipe d'. Mentioned .................................... 723
<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Name</th>
<th>Mentioned</th>
<th>Page</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Orleans, Robert d'</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>723</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Orwig, Lemuel J.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>1279</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Osborn, Francis A.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>1242, 1244, 1246</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Osborn, Thomas O.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>1232</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Osborne, John D.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>454</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>O'Shea, Edward</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>217, 219</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Report of skirmish near Sprigg's Ford, Va., Feb. 28, 1864</td>
<td>215</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>O'Sullivan, ——.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>839</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Otey, John M.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>225</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Otis, John L.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>1242, 1243, 1246</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Overmeyer, John B.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>287</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Report of Richmond, Va., Campaign, Jan. 1–April 3, 1865</td>
<td>291</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Overton, Giles B.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>933</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Owen, Edward</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>40, 191, 222–225, 227, 229, 231</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Report of operations on the south side of James River, Va., May 4–June 2, 1864</td>
<td>225</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Owen, Joshua T.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>397, 406</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Report of Chancellorsville, Va., Campaign, April 27–May 6, 1863</td>
<td>178</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Owen, Thomas H.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>171, 249</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Owen, William H.</td>
<td>Report of Seven Days' Battles, June 25–July 1, 1862; and operations to June 30, 1863</td>
<td>108</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Correspondence with John A. Dix</td>
<td>431</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>504</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Owen, James D.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>51</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Pacif, Department of the.</td>
<td>James W. Denver assigned to duty in</td>
<td>455</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Paden, John S.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>179, 180</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Page, Steamer.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>514</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Packard, Charles T.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>184</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Page, Captain.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>246</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Paine, Charles J.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>1178</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Paine, Fayette M.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>1280</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Paine, Halbert E.</td>
<td>Correspondence with John A. Dix</td>
<td>431</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>504</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Paine, William H.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>65, 68, 70, 78, 79, 275, 276</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Palmer, Asa C.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>275</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Palmer, David C.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>1277</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Palmer, Innis N.</td>
<td>Correspondence with Fitz John Porter</td>
<td>361, 363</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Assignments to command</td>
<td>491, 552, 937</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Correspondence with Benjamin F. Butler</td>
<td>1196, 1288, 1289</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Palmer, Jacob W.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>1277</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Palmer, Sanford B.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>621</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Palmer, William J.</td>
<td>Correspondence with Fitz John Porter</td>
<td>361, 363</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>332, 360, 362</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Pancost, George L.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>946</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Pardee, Henry C.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>621</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Park, Asa.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>19</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Parke, Frank H.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>1185</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>
INDEX.

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Name</th>
<th>Page</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Parke, John G.</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Assignment to duty</td>
<td>514</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Congratulatory Orders</td>
<td>1206</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Correspondence with</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Army Headquarters</td>
<td>748</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Humphreys, Andrew A.</td>
<td>1201</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>McClellan, George B.</td>
<td>802</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Meade, George G.</td>
<td>1188</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Porter, Fitz John</td>
<td>758</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Potter, Robert B.</td>
<td>1202</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Warren, Gouverneur K.</td>
<td>1202</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Wright, Horatio G.</td>
<td>1202</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>For correspondence as Chief of Staff, see Ambrose E. Burnside.</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>253, 254, 257–260, 274, 277, 514, 620, 621, 726, 727, 758, 954, 1159, 1183, 1194, 1203, 1206</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Report of reconnaissance from Dranesville to Herndon Station and Thornton's Mills, Va., Oct. 20, 1861...</td>
<td>45</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Parker, Benjamin C. Mentioned</td>
<td>1280</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Parker, E. G. Mentioned</td>
<td>1281</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Parker, Foxhall A.</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Correspondence with Erasmus D. Keyes</td>
<td>963</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>969, 973</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Parker, Isaac O. Mentioned</td>
<td>1281</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Parks, John W. Mentioned</td>
<td>80</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Parrington, John W. Mentioned</td>
<td>266</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Parris, William B. Mentioned</td>
<td>1278</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Parry, Augustus C. Mentioned</td>
<td>485</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Parsons, Abel K. Mentioned</td>
<td>1249</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Patapsco, Steamer. Mentioned</td>
<td>624</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Fate, H. Clay. Mentioned</td>
<td>250</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Patrick, Marsena R.</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Assignment to duty</td>
<td>558</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Correspondence with Irvin McDowell</td>
<td>635</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>68, 70, 73, 74, 76, 126, 130, 131, 558, 1181</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Patterson, Carlisle P. Mentioned</td>
<td>349</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Patterson, Francis E. Mentioned</td>
<td>424, 591</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Patterson, Robert.</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Assumes command of Department of Washington</td>
<td>331</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Correspondence with</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Army Headquarters</td>
<td>337, 351, 390, 392, 412</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Butler, Benjamin F.</td>
<td>1273</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>McClellan, George B.</td>
<td>390</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Pennsylvania, Governor of</td>
<td>330, 331, 336, 331</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Porter, Fitz John</td>
<td>335, 349, 354, 367, 368</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Stone, Charles P.</td>
<td>410, 411</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Thomas, George H.</td>
<td>392</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Wallace, Lew</td>
<td>399, 403</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>War Department, U. S.</td>
<td>326, 340</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Orders, series 1861: No. 7, 331.</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Patton, Henry D. Mentioned</td>
<td>984</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Patton, Hugh F. Mentioned</td>
<td>134</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>
INDEX.

Patton, Jonathan N. Mentioned ............................................. 54, 55
Patton, Matthew. Mentioned .............................................. 1276
Patton, Waller T. Mentioned ............................................. 134
Paul, Gabriel R.
Assignments to command .................................................. 883, 1057
Assumes command of 1st Division, 1st Army Corps .................. 953, 988
Correspondence with John F. Reynolds ................................ 955
Mentioned ............................................................................ 882, 883, 953, 1057
Paul, George S. Mentioned ................................................ 1276
Paul, Henry W. Mentioned .................................................. 1004
Paulding, Hiram.
Correspondence with Navy Department, U. S. ...................... 320
Mentioned ............................................................................ 320
Paulet, Frederick. Mentioned ................................ ............. 71
 Paxton, John C. Mentioned ................................................ 594, 595, 600
Payne, E. C. Mentioned ..................................................... 40
Payne, H. M. Mentioned ..................................................... 193
Payne, John N. Mentioned .................................................. 222
Pearcy, ———. Mentioned ..................................................... 69
Pearson, Alfred L.
Correspondence with
Allabach, Peter H. .......................................................... 159
Bartlett, Joseph J. ............................................................. 1194
Ewing, John ......................................................................... 1194
Gilmore, Charles D ............................................................ 1195
Sellers, Eli G. ...................................................................... 1195
Wilson, James B. .................................................................. 1195
Mentioned ............................................................................ 1194
Peck, David B. Mentioned ................................................... 3, 5
Peck, John J.
Assignments to command .................................................... 475, 478, 693, 1161
Correspondence with
Keenan, Peter ..................................................................... 705
Keyes, Erasmus D. ............................................................. 699, 704, 734, 748
Ripley, Edward H. ............................................................. 1008
Mentioned .............................................................................. 475, 478, 494, 495, 647, 663, 698, 715, 739, 740, 746, 751, 754, 756, 762, 803–805, 814, 860, 876, 1052, 1161, 1288
Relieved from command of brigade of Couch's division ............. 693
Peckham, Peleg E. Mentioned ............................................... 1190
Peel, Robert H. Mentioned .................................................. 95
Peel, Washington. Mentioned ............................................... 1278
Peebles, Samuel. Mentioned ................................................. 5
Pegram, John. Mentioned .................................................... 245, 1200
Peirce, Ebenezer W. Mentioned ........................................... 4, 5, 1230
Peirpoint, Francis H.
Correspondence with
McClellan, George B. .......................................................... 517, 520
War Department, U. S. ........................................................ 692
Mentioned ............................................................................. 600, 1010, 1013
Pell, Duncan A. Mentioned .................................................. 1188
Pell, John H. Correspondence with Charles P. Stone ............... 493
Pelouse, Louis H. For correspondence as A. A. G., see John A. Dir.
Pelton, William W. Mentioned .............................................. 3, 5

89 R R—VOL LI, PT I
INDEX.

Pemberton, John C. Mentioned ........................................ 329, 386
Pender, William D. Mentioned ........................................ 118
Pendleton, Dudley D. Mentioned ...................................... 192
Pendleton, William N. Mentioned .................................... 189–191

Reports of battle of Bull Run, Va., July 21, 1861 .......................... 34, 35

Pendleton, Fort. See Fort Pendleton.

Peninsula, Va., The. Operations on.
Aug. 20, 1862–June 3, 1863. Communications from
  Dix, John A ......................................................... 957
  Keyes, Erasmus D. ................................................. 862, 894, 900, 926, 958, 963, 969–973, 977, 983, 989, 991, 992, 1000, 1001, 1004
June 3–Aug. 3, 1863. Communications from Erasmus D. Keyes........... 1049–1052, 1056, 1068

Peninsular Campaign, Va., March 17–Sept. 2, 1862. Communications from Alexander, Barton S ................................................. 644, 670
  Averell, William W .................................................. 724
  Comstock, Cyrus B .................................................. 625, 666, 677, 678, 684
  Duane, James C ..................................................... 686
  Gregg, David McM ................................................... 671
  Heintzelman, Samuel P ............................................. 654
  Humphreys, Andrew A .............................................. 742
  Kearny, Philip ....................................................... 681
  Keyes, Erasmus D. .................................................. 643, 739
  McAlester, Miles D .................................................. 630, 635, 649, 658, 663
  McColl, George A ................................................... 691
  McClellan, George B ................................................ 557, 565, 614, 618, 680, 682, 714, 718, 719, 725, 734, 740, 751
  McDowell, Irvin ..................................................... 554
  Pleasonton, Alfred ................................................ 740

Stewart, C. Seaforth .................................................. 630, 631, 635
Sumner, Edwin V ..................................................... 649, 666
War Department, U. S ................................................ 567

See also Seven Days' Battles, June 25–July 1, 1862.

Pennell, Benjamin C. Mentioned ........................................ 234, 236
Pennington, Alexander C. M., jr. Mentioned .................................. 139, 1199

Pennsylvania.

Affairs in, generally. Communications from
  Scott, Thomas A ..................................................... 813
  War Department, U. S. .............................................. 812, 813

Military Department embracing ........................................ 331
Porter, Andrew, assigned as provost-marshal-general of .................. 937

Pennsylvania, Department of.

Cadwalader, George, assigned to command of 1st Division of ........... 398
Keim, William H., assigned to command of 2d Division of ................ 398
Orders, Circular, series 1861—Patterson: July 16, 120.
Orders, General, series 1861—Patterson: No. 25, 397; No. 27, 400; No. 30, 410; No. 31, 412.
Orders, Special, series 1861—Patterson: Nos. 27, 32, 372; No. 49, 390;
  No. 66, 397; Nos. 67, 68, 398; No. 70, 399; No. 74, 400; No. 75, 404;
  Nos. 76, 77, 406; No. 78, 407; No. 91, 414; Nos. 93, 94, 95, 418;
  Nos. 96, 98, 416; No. 105, 418; Nos. 107, 109, 113, 114, 422;
  Nos. 124, 125, 423; No. 126, 424.
Sandford, Charles W., assigned to command of 3d Division of ........... 416 Pennsylvania, Department of—Continued.

Union troops in. Organization, strength, etc.

- June 10, 1861 .......................................................... 397, 398
- June 20, 1861 ................................................................ 406
- July 8, 1861 .................................................................. 415
- July 10, 1861 ................................................................. 416

Pennsylvania, Governor of. Correspondence with

- Blair, Frank P., jr. .......................................................... 350
- McClellan, George B ....................................................... 391, 800, 801, 866
- Ohio, Governor of .......................................................... 391
- Patterson, Robert ........................................................... 330, 331, 336, 391
- Porter, Fitz John ............................................................ 358, 366, 368, 391
- Schenck, Robert C .......................................................... 1015
- War Department, U. S ..................................................... 791, 821
- Wool, John E ............................................................... 798

Pennsylvania Troops. Mentioned.

Artillery—Heavy—Regiments: 2d, 768, 1166, 1187, 1192, 1256–1258, 1265.

Artillery, Light—Batteries: C, 120, 121, 139; E, 120, 121; Keystone, 1003.

Regiments: 1st (Battery), A, 151, 446, 691; B, 110–112, 126, 128, 129, 151, 153, 446, 691, 981; D, 83, 84, 873, 975; F, 981; G, 115, 691, 981.

Cavalry—Companies: 1st Philadelphia City Troop, 428.

Regiments: 1st, 68, 67–69, 71, 432, 558, 569, 579; 2d, 562, 760, 994; 3d, 170, 239–242, 477, 558, 703, 787, 810, 818; 4th, 75, 138, 170, 210, 211, 730; 5th, 69, 558, 579, 862, 900, 926, 927, 958, 970–972, 989, 1000, 1268, 1269, 1285; 6th, 558, 626, 632, 654, 698, 716, 717, 878, 881; 8th, 119, 559, 654, 786; 11th, 1269–1271; 12th, 976, 999, 996, 1011, 1035; 13th, 212–221, 742, 962, 967, 976, 978, 1011; 14th, 177, 964, 990, 1035, 1037; 17th, 975; 18th, 994; 20th, 1072.

Infantry—Companies: Zouaves D'Afrique ('Collis'), 615.

Regiments: 1st (Militia), 397, 407, 414; 1st Reserves, 109–111, 142, 143, 177, 737; 2d (Militia), 397, 422; 2d Reserves, 111, 112, 132, 147, 426, 429; 3d (Militia), 397, 422; 3d Reserves, 114, 125, 126, 129, 132, 143, 144, 737; 4th (Militia), 403, 408, 414; 4th Reserves, 114, 126, 128, 129, 144, 145, 737; 5th (Militia), 344; 5th Reserves, 111–113, 132, 145–147; 6th (Militia), 372, 390, 397, 422; 6th Reserves, 113, 147, 118; 7th (Militia), 398, 422; 7th Reserves, 114, 127–130, 148, 152; 8th (Militia), 398, 422; 8th Reserves, 113, 128–130, 148, 149, 691, 737; 9th (Militia), 398; 9th Reserves, 113, 149–151, 153; 10th (Militia), 398, 423; 10th Reserves, 113, 149–152; 11th, 68, 140, 141, 286, 287, 289, 291, 292; 11th (Militia), 398, 406; 11th Reserves, 114, 153, 154, 737, 752; 12th Reserves, 130, 131, 132, 133, 134, 138, 155, 156, 166, 639, 691, 753; 14th (Militia), 398, 404, 406; 15th (Militia), 398, 404, 406; 16th (Militia), 398; 17th (Militia), 402, 404, 410, 415, 422, 424; 18th (Militia), 405; 19th (Militia), 405; 20th (Militia), 390, 398, 429; 21st (Militia), 390, 397, 429; 22d (Militia), 405; 23d, 188, 189, 475, 479; 23d (Militia), 372, 390, 397, 415, 422; 24th (Militia), 390, 397, 406; 25th (Militia), 344, 345, 379, 410, 415, 416; 26th, 203, 435, 985; 27th, 414, 435, 896, 985; 28th, 429, 454, 467, 563; 29th, 791; 31st, 475, 479; 36th, 502, 507, 508; 45th, 502; 46th, 191; 47th, 489; 48th, 726; 49th, 489; 50th, 493, 726; 51st, 726; 52d, 963; 53d, 507; 54th, 690, 724, 867; 55th, 1187, 1260–1263; 56th, 287, 295, 296, 613; 57th, 80, 1277; 58th, 613, 1248; 61st, 181, 182, 184–186, 491; 62d, 461; 63d, 79, 116, 491, 760, 1277; 67th, 994, 996; 68th, 242–244, 1276; 69th, 175, 178, 307; 71st, 175, 426; 72d, 175; 73d, 74th, 75th, 895; 81st, 298–300, 1228; 84th, 607; 85th, 506, 1167, 1232, 1237, 1238; 87th, 1038; 88th, 74, 286, 287, 292, 489, 495; 90th, 73, 75, 606.

*Also called 1st.

Infantry—Regiments—Continued.

91st, 708, 776; 95th, 502; 97th, 1247; 98th, 495; 99th, 236, 708, 1279; 100th, 493, 726; 102d, 478; 104th, 84, 85, 99, 100, 963, 1197; 105th, 80, 491, 1276, 1277; 106th, 175; 109th, 123, 883; 110th, 236; 111th, 123, 893; 114th, 243, 244, 790, 1276; 116th, 304, 796; 118th, 801; 121st, 296, 796, 877, 981; 123d, 157, 158, 776, 799; 124th, 125th, 893; 126th, 161, 776; 127th, 889; 129th, 160, 776; 131st, 157, 158, 776, 799; 133d, 157–159, 776, 799; 134th, 160, 776, 799; 135th, 985; 136th, 877; 137th, 951; 140th, 179, 180, 297–300; 141st, 1277; 142d, 295, 877, 981; 143d, 985; 145th, 304, 305; 148th, 305; 149th, 150th, 985; 151st, 969, 985; 155th, 157–159, 1194; 157th, 1165; 158th, 1078; 167th, 1076; 168th, 1078; 169th, 1075; 171st, 1078; 172d, 1075; 173d, 177th, 1076; 183d, 297, 300; 188th, 1248; 200th, 205th, 1185, 1192; 208th, 211th, 1192.

Pennybacker, Nathan A. Mentioned .................................................. 638

Perdue, Mentioned .................................................................................. 1241

Perkins, Delavan D. Mentioned ......................................................... 429

For correspondence as Chief of Staff, see Nathaniel P. Banks.

Perkins, Henry W. Mentioned .............................................................. 909

For correspondence as A. A. A. G., see Daniel Butterfield.

Perry, Calvin R. Mentioned ............................................................... 167

Perry, Edgar. Mentioned ........................................................................ 1249, 1286

Perry, Frank W. Mentioned ................................................................... 918

Perry, John C. Mentioned ....................................................................... 235

Perry, Thomas. Mentioned .................................................................... 135, 169

Peters, William E. Mentioned .............................................................. 42

Petersburg, Va.

Assault upon and capture of fortified lines in front of, April 2, 1865. See report of Batchelder, p. 258.

Engagement at, June 9, 1864. Reports of Morton, Peter .................................................. 1271

Stetzel, George ....................................................................................... 1269

Petersburg Lines. Assaults on, June 15–18, 1864.

Casualties. Returns of Union Troops ....................................................... 1256, 1258

Reports of

Bell, Louis ................................................................................................ 1247

Curtis, N. Martin .................................................................................. 1246

Stetzel, George ...................................................................................... 1270

West, Robert M. .................................................................................. 1268

See also reports of Duncan, p. 265; Holman, p. 263; Merrill, p. 235; White, p. 272.

Petrikin, Hardman P. Mentioned .......................................................... 146

Pettes, Frederick H. Mentioned ............................................................ 275

Pettitt, Lewis. Mentioned ......................................................................... 1280

Peychaud, E. Mentioned .......................................................................... 227

Peychaud, H. Mentioned .......................................................................... 227

Pfau, Philip. Mentioned .......................................................................... 464

Pfeffer, Henry. Mentioned ....................................................................... 138

Phelps, John W.

Assignment to duty .................................................................................. 455

Mentioned ............................................................................................... 446, 455, 482, 506, 507

Relieved from duty in Department of Virginia ......................................... 506

Staff. Announcement of ........................................................................... 482

Phelps, N. B. Mentioned .......................................................................... 227

*Originally known as 21st.

†Originally known as 13th.
<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Name</th>
<th>Mentioned/Correspondence</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Phelps, Othello W.</td>
<td>1280</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Philadelphia, Steamer</td>
<td>330</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Philip, W. H.</td>
<td>628</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Phillips, Joseph A.</td>
<td>151</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Piatt, A. Sanders</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Correspondence with</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>- Miles, Dixon S</td>
<td>725</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>War Department, U. S.</td>
<td>524</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Platt, Benjamin M.</td>
<td>484, 525, 527, 728, 792, 938</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Piatt, Donn.</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Pickett, George B.</td>
<td>92, 174, 222, 225, 226, 247, 1284, 1285, 1288</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Pickett, James B.</td>
<td>167</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Pickett, Josiah.</td>
<td>1261</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Piedmont, Va. Engagement at, June 5, 1864</td>
<td>1225</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Pierce, Byron R.</td>
<td>234, 235</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Pierce, Lewis B.</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Correspondence with</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>- Samuel D. Sturgis</td>
<td>755</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>755</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Pillow, Gideon J.</td>
<td>371</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Pihsen, John.</td>
<td>577</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Pinckney, Joseph C.</td>
<td>405</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Pinkerton, Allan.</td>
<td>693</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Pinner, Moritz.</td>
<td>104</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Piper, Alexander.</td>
<td>1258</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Pitkin, Perley P.</td>
<td>251</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Pittman, Samuel E.</td>
<td>875</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Plaisted, Harris M.</td>
<td>1248</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Correspondence with</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>- Alfred H. Terry</td>
<td>1245</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>1234, 1241–1244, 1246</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Report of engagement at Proctor's Creek and Drewry's Bluff, Va., May 12–16, 1864</td>
<td>1241</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Plan of operations.</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Communications from</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Army Headquarters</td>
<td>339, 369, 386, 388</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>McClellan, George B.</td>
<td>338, 374, 383</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Ohio, Governor of</td>
<td>337</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Plato, Nelson.</td>
<td>871</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Platt, Edward R.</td>
<td>806</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Pleasants, Henry.</td>
<td>1189</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Pleasonton, Alfred.</td>
<td>1152</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Assignment to duty</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Correspondence with</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>- David B.</td>
<td>1054</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Buford, John</td>
<td>1121</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Butterfield, Daniel</td>
<td>947</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Doubleday, Abner</td>
<td>917</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Gregg, David McM</td>
<td>1047, 1113–1117</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Hofmann, J. William</td>
<td>916</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Huey, Pennock</td>
<td>740</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>McClellan, George B.</td>
<td>778, 786, 802, 803, 810, 811, 818, 819, 824, 829, 830, 840, 845, 848, 849, 852, 853, 856, 860, 862, 870, 873, 886, 894, 900, 903, 907, 910, 911, 915, 921, 925, 929, 936</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Marcy, Randolph B.</td>
<td>916</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Meade, George G.</td>
<td>1088</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Merritt, Wesley</td>
<td>1140</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>
Pleasanton, Alfred—Continued.

Correspondence with

Reynolds, John F. ............................................. 987, 1054
Stoneman, George ........................................... 947
Willcox, Orlando B. .......................................... 944

Relieved from duty with Army of the Potomac ... 1152

Plimpton, Josiah I. Mentioned............................. 1232, 1236

Plummer, Lincoln K. Mentioned.......................... 287

Poe, Orlando M.

Mentioned .................................................. 15, 16, 334, 339, 371, 376, 377, 408, 439, 441, 443, 762

Reports of engagement at Rich Mountain, W. Va., July 11, 1861 ... 11, 15, 16

Pohick Church, Va. Reconnaissance to, Nov. 12, 1861. Communication from Samuel P. Heintzelman ........................................... 504

Poindexter's Farm, Va. Battle of, July 1, 1862. See Malvern, Hill, Va.

Poland, John S. Mentioned ................................. 201

Polk, Leonidas. Mentioned .................................. 896

Pomeroy, Ohio. Skirmish at, July 18, 1863. See report of Hayes, p. 207.

Pond, Francis B. Mentioned .................................. 537

Pond, Levi E. Mentioned ..................................... 637

Poolesville, Md., Commanding Officer at. Correspondence with Abraham Lincoln ........................................... 498

Pope, Edmund M. Mentioned .................................. 243

Pope, John.

Assignment to duty .......................................... 455

Correspondence with

Army Headquarters .......................................... 761
McClellan, George B ....................................... 788
McDowell, Irvin ............................................ 720
Porter, Fitz John ............................................ 767, 771
Reno, Jesse L ................................................ 740, 743, 746
Sturgis, Samuel D .......................................... 726, 755
Wool, John E .................................................. 713

Mentioned .................................................. 106, 130, 455, 710, 712, 725, 726, 728, 742, 753, 756, 758, 759, 767, 769–771, 775, 780, 788, 812, 1096

Port Conway and Port Royal, Va. Expeditions from Belle Plain to, April 20–23, 1863. Congratulatory Orders of John F. Reynolds ........ 1009

Porter, Ambrose E. Mentioned ......................... 623

Porter, Andrew.

Assignments to command .................................. 408, 425, 443, 455, 532, 937

Correspondence with

Brackett, Albert G ........................................ 358
Pinkerton, Allan ........................................... 693
Porter, Fitz John ........................................... 336
Thomas, George H ........................................... 336

Mentioned .................................................. 18, 349, 351, 368, 408, 414, 425, 430, 443, 455, 532, 601, 653, 687, 937

Porter, Burr. Mentioned .................................. 1006, 1056, 1068

Porter, Daniel S. Report of Seven Days' Battles, June 25–July 1, 1862 .... 114
INDEX.

Porter, David D. Correspondence with
Butler, Benjamin F. ........................................... 1290, 1291
War Department, U. S. ....................................... 1199

Porter, Fitz John.
Assignments to command .................................. 455, 456, 461
Assumes command of Provisional Army Corps .......... 619

Correspondence with Adjudant-General's Office, U. S. A. ......................... 345
Alexander, Charles M. ...................................... 891
Army Headquarters ........................................... 832
Belger, James ................................................. 349, 360-362
Bennett, David A .............................................. 687
Burnside, Ambrose E .......................................... 759, 763
Butlerfield, Daniel ........................................... 731, 732, 906, 913, 914, 945
Cameron, James Donald ..................................... 363-365
Clarke, James C ................................................ 363, 364
Cooke, Philip St. George ................................... 675, 687, 698
Couch, Darins N ................................................ 909, 913
Delafield, Richard ........................................... 359
Farnsworth, John F ............................................ 685, 693
Franklin, William B .......................................... 677, 902
Graham, Lawrence P ......................................... 355, 356
Hooker, Joseph ................................................. 945
Humphreys, Andrew A ....................................... 826,
829, 832, 833, 835, 843, 844, 861, 887, 888, 906, 910, 913, 919, 920, 945
Hunt, Henry J ................................................... 634
Jackson, C. Feger ............................................. 736
Lansing, Henry S ................................................ 588
McClellan, George B .......................................... 391, 564,
645, 669, 679, 699, 700, 706, 712, 721, 722, 728, 729, 755, 758, 788, 789,
791, 792, 822, 832, 854, 857, 863, 864, 866, 867, 875, 883, 885, 887, 893, 896, 898, 902, 903, 907, 908, 912, 913, 918, 929, 932, 933, 939
McDowell, Irvin ................................................. 362
McNitt, John ...................................................... 367
McQuade, James ................................................ 701
Marcy, Randolph B ........................................... 540
Marshall, Elisha G ............................................. 625
Martindale, John H ............................................ 675
Massachusetts, Governor of ................................ 891
Maynadier, William .......................................... 352
Palmer, William J ............................................. 361, 363
Parke, John G .................................................... 758
Patterson, Robert ............................................. 335, 349, 354, 367, 398
Pennsylvania, Governor of ................................ 358, 366, 368, 391
Pope, John ....................................................... 767, 771
Porter, Andrew ................................................ 356
Scott, Henry L .................................................... 349, 353-355, 358, 367
Scott, Thomas A ............................................... 353, 367
Seymour, Truman ............................................... 718
Small, Alex ......................................................... 359
Stoneman, George ............................................. 700
Sykes, George ................................................... 635, 700, 718, 721, 758, 905, 919, 933, 945
Symington, John ............................................... 353, 357
Thomas, Charles ................................................. 353, 357
Porter, Fitz John—Continued.

Correspondence with

Thomas, George H ................................................. 349, 365-358
War Department, U. S. ................................. 328, 348, 716
Warren, Gouverneur K ........................................... 632
Wecks, Henry A ................................................... 571
Wright, John A ................................................... 354
Wynkoop, George C ............................................. 364-366

For correspondence as A. A. G., see Army Headquarters; War Department, U. S.; and Robert Patterson.

Staff. Announcements of ........................................ 475, 619
Porter, James. Mentioned ..................................... 116
Porter, Joel. Mentioned ....................................... 1279
Porter, Jonah G. Mentioned .................................. 51
Porter, Peter A. Mentioned .................................. 761
Port Republic, Va. Engagement at, June 8, 1862. See report of Timmons, p. 95.
Port Royal, Va. Expedition from Belle Plain to, April 22-24, 1863. Communication from John F. Reynolds ........................................... 1009
Portsmouth, Va. Demonstration on, March 4-5, 1864. Communications from Benjamin F. Butler ........................................... 1150
Port Walthall Junction and Chester Station, Va. Engagements at, May 6-7, 1864. See reports of Eshleman, p. 222; Owen, p. 225.
Poschner, Frederick. Mentioned ................................ 508, 509
Post, Charles P. Mentioned .................................. 1277
Potomac, Army of the. (Union.)
Abercrombie, John J., assigned to duty in .................................... 472
Banks, Nathaniel P., assigned to duty in .................................. 455
Barry, William F., assigned to duty in .................................. 455
Biddle, Charles J., assigned to duty in .................................. 472
Blenker, Louis.
Assigned to command of division of .................................. 497
Assigned to duty in ............................................. 455
Buell, Don Carlos.
Assigned to command of division of .................................. 479
Assigned to duty in ............................................. 477
Relieved from command of division of .................................. 503
Burnside, Ambrose E., assigned to duty in .................................. 462
Butterfield, Daniel, assigned to duty in .................................. 490
Caldwell, John C., relieved from duty with .................................. 1152
Casey, Silas.
Assigned to duty in ............................................. 472
Relieved from duty in ........................................... 715
Cooper, James, assigned to duty in .................................. 455
Cooke, P. St. George, relieved from duty in .................................. 715
Couch, Darius N.
Assigned to command of division of .................................. 551
Assigned to duty in ............................................. 455
INDEX.

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Name</th>
<th>Assignment/Action</th>
<th>Page</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Potomac, Army of the.</td>
<td>(Union.)—Continued.</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Davies, Thomas A.</td>
<td>relieved from duty in</td>
<td>558</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Distances traveled daily. Schedule, March 29-May 11, 1865</td>
<td></td>
<td>261</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Dix, John A.</td>
<td>assigned to duty in</td>
<td>455</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Duryea, Abram</td>
<td>assigned to duty in</td>
<td>472</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Elliott, Washington L.</td>
<td>relieved from duty with</td>
<td>1098</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Franklin, William B.</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Assigned to command of division of</td>
<td>461</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Assigned to duty in</td>
<td>455</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Assumes command of division of</td>
<td>466</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Assumes command of 6th Army Corps</td>
<td>628</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Relinquishes command of Left Grand Division</td>
<td>978</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>French, William H.</td>
<td>relieved from duty with</td>
<td>1152</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Garrard, Kenner</td>
<td>relieved from duty with</td>
<td>1131</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Gorman, Willis A.</td>
<td>assigned to duty in</td>
<td>480</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Graham, Lawrence P.</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Assigned to duty in</td>
<td>472</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Relieved from duty with</td>
<td>674</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Gregg, David McM.</td>
<td>assigned to command of Cavalry Corps</td>
<td>1153</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Hamilton, Charles S.</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Assigned to command of division of</td>
<td>551</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Assigned to duty in</td>
<td>455</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Hancock, Winfield S.</td>
<td>resigns command of 2d Army Corps</td>
<td>1139</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Heintzelman, Samuel P.</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Assigned to command of division of</td>
<td>491</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Assigned to duty in</td>
<td>455</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Keyes, Erasmus D.</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Assigned to command of division of</td>
<td>503</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Assigned to duty in</td>
<td>455</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Howard, Oliver O.</td>
<td>assigned to duty in</td>
<td>473</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Jameson, Charles D.</td>
<td>assigned to duty in</td>
<td>480</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Kearny, Philip</td>
<td>assigned to duty in</td>
<td>455</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Kenly, John R.</td>
<td>relieved from duty with</td>
<td>1152</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Lander, Frederick W.</td>
<td>assigned to duty in</td>
<td>472</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Lockwood, Henry H.</td>
<td>assigned to duty in</td>
<td>455</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>McDowell, Irvin</td>
<td>assigned to command of division of</td>
<td>455</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Martindale, John H.</td>
<td>assigned to duty in</td>
<td>455</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Meade, George G.</td>
<td>assigned to duty in</td>
<td>473</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Meredith, Solomon</td>
<td>relieved from duty with</td>
<td>1105</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Montgomery, William R.</td>
<td>assigned to duty in</td>
<td>455</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Morell, George W.</td>
<td>assigned to duty in</td>
<td>455</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Newton, John</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Assigned to command of 1st Army Corps</td>
<td>1066</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Relieved from duty with</td>
<td>1152</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Orders, series 1861—Franklin: No. 1, 466.</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Orders, series 1862—Reynolds: No. 70, 752; Nos. 71, 72, 753. Smith: Dec. 9, 955.</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Orders, series 1864—Sedgwick: Feb. 5, 1142; March 1, 1150.</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Orders, Circulars, series 1861—McClellan: Sept. 13, 479.</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Orders, General, series 1861—McClellan: No. 7, 472; No. 13, 480. Franklin: No. 13, 496; No. 15, 497.</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Orders, General, series 1862—McClellan: No. 60, 535. Butterfield: No. 53, 909. Cox: No. 2, 874. Franklin: No. 2, 628; No. 31, 806; No. 37, 571; No. 42, 576; No. 48, 597; No. 50, 610; No. 51, 612. Griffin, C.: No. 1, 947. Hooker: No. 1, 945. Kearny: No. 27, 717. Keyes: No. 61, 692; No. 82, 739; No. 87, 770. Meade: No. 3, 858. Paul: No. 105, 953. Porter: No. 1, 619; No. 2, 624; No. 11, 737; No. 12, 739; No. 15, 792; No. 21, 901; No. 22, 908; No. 35, 565; No. 44, 619. Reynolds: No. 26, 892; No. 28, 898; No. 32, 917; No. 32, 922; No. 33, 927; No. 38, 944; No. 41, 948; No. 42, 947; Nos. 43, 50, 949; No. 61, 953; No. 62, 954; No. 64, 956. Slocum: No. 1, 890; No. 5, 893. Smith: No. 45, 953. Stoneman: No. 1, 946. Wadsworth: No. 110, 965.</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Orders, General, series 1865—Parke: No. 3, 1206.</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Orders, General Field, series 1864—Wilcox: May 10, 1162.</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>
INDEX.

Potomac, Army of the. (Union.)—Continued.

Orders, Special, series 1861—McClellan: No. 1, 454; No. 3, 455; No. 5, 456; Nos. 11, 13, 461; No. 14, 462; No. 16, 464; No. 29, 469; Nos. 30, 31, 34, 470; No. 45, 475; No. 46, 476; Nos. 51, 53, 478; No. 58, 479; No. 60, 480; No. 80, 488; No. 82, 489; No. 87, 491; No. 88, 493; No. 89, 494; No. 93, 495; No. 98, 496; Nos. 99, 110, 497; No. 117, 502; No. 136, 503; Nos. 138, 140, 505; No. 155, 507; No. 170, 509; No. 187, 511; No. 190, 513; No. 194, 514.

Orders, Special, series 1862—McClellan: July 3, 714; July 4, 715; No. 3, 790; No. 4, 796; No. 8, 516; No. 25, 831; No. 31, 522; No. 37, 526; No. 38, 527; No. 40, 528; No. 49, 532; No. 54, 538; No. 71, 550; No. 75, 551; Nos. 77, 81, 552; No. 83, 553; Nos. 89, 90, 558; No. 93, 561; No. 94, 562; No. 101, 567; No. 121, 581; No. 179, 674; No. 192, 697; No. 194, 715; No. 195, 716; No. 206, 723; No. 237, 738; No. 241, 754; No. 260, 860; No. 263, 863; No. 262, 885; No. 299, 885. Burnside: No. 48, 872; No. 334, 951. Cox: No. 6, 771, 865; No. 8, 870. Doubleday: No. 155, 943. Heintzelman: No. 32, 534. Hooker: No. 3, 801; No. 6, 809; No. 7, 818; Nos. 8, 9, 824; Nos. 10, 12, 828. Keys: No. 100, 751; No. 101, 754; No. 102, 756; No. 105, 762. Porter: No. 2, 623; No. 4, 624; No. 11, 641; No. 15, 656; No. 40, 681; No. 41, 682; No. 56, 698; No. 58, 701; No. 103, 733; No. 106, 738; No. 108, 736; No. 110, 737; No. 112, 743; No. 116, 755; No. 118, 761; No. 123, 789; No. 124, 801; No. 165, 904; No. 166, 908; No. 168, 921; No. 170, 930. Reynolds: No. 21, 874; No. 24, 877; No. 28, 883; No. 34, 889; No. 40, 898; No. 42, 903; No. 44, 922; No. 48, 944; No. 62, 951. Sigel: No. 138, 960. Stahel: Dec. 6, 954. Williams, A. S.: No. 59, 874; No. 60, 876.

Orders, Special, series 1863—Hooker: No. 39, 983; No. 80, 995; No. 83, 996; No. 104, 1007; No. 112, 1043; No. 156, 1046; No. 161, 1063; No. 163, 1059. Meade: April 28, 1014; No. 178, 1066; No. 186, 1073; No. 187, 1074; No. 188, 1075; No. 189, 1077; No. 190, 1078; No. 196, 1081; Nos. 205, 206, 1083; No. 216, 1084; No. 225, 1085; No. 251, 1089; No. 266, 1098; No. 273–2/9, 1102; No. 273–7/9, 1105; No. 288, 1115; No. 310, 1131; No. 315, 1134; No. 332, 1135. Newton: No. 223, 1091; No. 269, 1121. Reynolds: No. 15, 974; No. 29, 981; No. 77, 995; No. 79, 998; No. 148, 1067. Stahel: No. 16, 975; No. 18, 976. Wadsworth: No. 76, 995.

Orders, Special, series 1864—Meade: No. 75, 1152; No. 76, 1153; No. 92, 1155; No. 94, 1156; No. 137, 1163; No. 139, 116; Nos. 143, 147, 152, 1166; May 5, 1162; May 14, 1163. Cutler: May 22, 1165. Warren: May 29, 1166.

Orders, Special, series 1865—Meade: No. 43, 1201; No. 78, 1207; No. 87, 1211; No. 88, 1212; Nos. 100, 107, 1216. Parke: No. 54, 1202. Willcox: No. 2, 1197.

Organization of Cavalry of Communications from George B. McClellan ........................................... 558, 716

Organization of siege train in. Communication from George G. Meade ........................................... 1158

Peck, John J., assigned to duty in ........................................... 475
INDEX.

Potomac, Army of the. (Union.)—Continued.

Pleasanton, Alfred, relieved from duty with ........................................ 1152
Porter, Andrew, assigned to duty in .................................................. 455, 461
Porter, Fitz John.

Assigned to duty in ............................................................................... 455, 461
Assumes command of Provisional Army Corps ........................................ 619

Recommendations for promotion in. Communications from

McClellan, George B........................................................................ 756, 890
Meade, George G.................................................................................. 1181

Re-enforcements for. Communications from

Ferry, Orris S...................................................................................... 707, 708
McClellan, George B............................................................................ 578, 658, 659, 663
McDowell, Irvin..................................................................................... 708, 709
Sturgis, Samuel D................................................................................. 712
Reynolds, John F, assigned to duty in ................................................... 477
Richardson, Israel B., assigned to duty in ............................................ 455, 552
Sedgwick, John.

Assigned to duty in ............................................................................... 472
Assumes command of 6th Army Corps ................................................ 946
Sherman, William T., relieved from duty with ..................................... 481
Sickles, Daniel E., assumes command of 3d Army Corps .................... 987
Slocum, Henry W.

Assigned to duty in ............................................................................... 455
Assumes command of 12th Army Corps .............................................. 890
Smith, William F., assigned to duty in .................................................. 455
Stone, Charles P., assigned to duty in ................................................. 455
Stoneman, George.

Assigned to duty in ............................................................................... 455, 716
Assumes command of 3d Army Corps ................................................ 946
Relieved from duty with .................................................................... 754
Relinquishes command of 3d Army Corps .......................................... 983
Sumner, Edwin V., assigned to command of division of .................... 507
Sykes, George, relieved from duty with .............................................. 1152
Wadsworth, James S., assigned to duty in ......................................... 455
Warren, Gouverneur K., assigned to command of 2d Army Corps ...... 1084, 1139
Williams, Alpheus S., assigned to duty in ......................................... 481

Transfer of, from Peninsula. Communications from

McClellan, George B........................................................................... 738, 763
Porter, Fitz John..................................................................................... 736, 737, 739, 743, 746
Sawtelle, Charles G................................................................................ 757
Tucker, John.......................................................................................... 757

Potomac, Military Division of the. (Union.)

McClellan, George B., assumes command of ........................................ 428
Orders, General, series 1861—McClellan: No. 1, 428; No. 2, 430.

Orders, Special, series 1861—McClellan: No. 4, 432; No. 7, 433; Nos. 9, 10, 434; No. 11, 438; No. 12, 441; No. 15, 439; Nos. 18, 21, 443; No. 22, 445; No. 25, 446; No. 26, 448; No. 32, 449.

Union troops in. Organization, strength, etc., Aug. 4, 1861.................. 434, 435

Potomac River. (Lower.) Operations on. Communications from

Barnard, John G..................................................................................... 542
Hooker, Joseph..................................................................................... 561
McClellan, George B............................................................................. 530, 532, 536, 540
Wells, George D................................................................................... 514

Potomac River. (Upper.) Operations on. Communications from

Banks, Nathaniel P............................................................................... 511, 529, 531, 535
INDEX.

Potomac River. (Upper.) Operations on. Communications from—Cont’d. | Page |
---|---|
Barstow, Simon F. | 544, 545 |
Landor, Frederick W | 523–525, 533, 539 |
McClellan, George B | 478, 490, 516, 518, 520–525, 536–539, 543, 544, 547 |
McClellan, George B | 540, 541 |
Rosecrans, William S | 525 |
Stone, Charles P | 434, 456, 463, 466, 489, 490, 493 |

Potter, Carroll H. For correspondence as A. A. G., see Samuel P. Heintzelman. | 1277 |

Potter, John E. Mentioned | 146 |

Potter, Joseph H. Assumed command of 2d Brigade, 3d Division, 24th Army Corps | 1192 |
Mentioned | 1185, 1192 |

Potter, Robert B. Correspondence with John G. Parke | 1202 |
Mentioned | 1162, 1184, 1188 |

Potts, J. D. Mentioned | 868 |

Powell, Alfred H. Mentioned | 31 |

Powell, David. Mentioned | 1012 |

Powell, Lemuel. Mentioned | 1278 |

Powers, Charles J. Mentioned | 1143 |

Powers, Michael. Mentioned | 1279 |

Powhatan, Steamer. Mentioned | 330 |

Pratt, Calvin E. Mentioned | 180 |

Pratt, George W. Mentioned | 405 |

Pratt, Myron C. Mentioned | 918 |

Pratt, S. C. Mentioned | 1280 |

Prentiss, Benjamin M. Assignment to duty | 455 |
Mentioned | 371, 455 |

Prescott, Charles B. Mentioned | 8 |

Prescott, Henry A. Mentioned | 19 |

President, U. S. Omission of prayers for. Communications from Charles Minnigerode | 1212, 1215 |

See also James Buchanan and Abraham Lincoln.

Pressey, George H. Mentioned | 285 |

Presstman, Stephen W. Mentioned | 34 |

Preston, Charles S. Mentioned | 206 |

Preston, Robert T. | 30–62 |

Prevost, Charles M. Mentioned | 801 |

Price, Alice, Steamer. Mentioned | 621 |

Price, Charles A. Mentioned | 1280 |

Price, R. Butler. Assignment to command | 801 |
Correspondence with Philip Kearny | 760 |
Mentioned | 760, 801, 921, 994 |

Pride, William G. Mentioned | 1236 |

Prime, Frederick E. Mentioned | 341, 413 |

Prince, Henry. Correspondence with William H. French | 1130 |
Mentioned | 123, 712, 1081, 1083, 1088, 1104, 1107–1109, 1111, 1112, 1127, 1131, 1149 |

Prisoners of War. Treatment, exchange of, etc. Communication from George B. McClellan | 663 |

Private Property. Action touching. Communication from Robert Patterson | 412 |
Proctor's Creek and Drewry's Bluff (or Fort Darling), Va. Engagements at, May 12–16, 1864. Report of Harris M. Plaisted. 1241

See also reports of Ehleman, p. 223; Hero, p. 229; Norcom, p. 231; Owen, p. 226; Richardson, p. 227.

Props, Noah W. Mentioned 55

Pryor, Roger A. Mentioned 92, 93

Purdy, E. Sparrow. Mentioned 482, 628, 806

For correspondence as A. A. G., see William B. Franklin.

Putnam, At Lee W. Mentioned 1093, 1094

Putnam, Haldimand S. Mentioned 396, 413

Putnam, Israel H. Mentioned 1289

Quail, Samuel H. Mentioned 213

Quan, David. Mentioned 210

Quartermaster-General’s Office, U. S. A. Correspondence with

Quinn, Henry. Mentioned 1278

Quinn, James. Mentioned 1279

Quinnebaug, Steamer. Mentioned 624

Quint, Monroe. Mentioned 1280

Radcliffe, James D. Mentioned 2

Radowitz, Paul von. Mentioned 707, 723

Rafter, Frank. Mentioned 1277

Ramsay, Douglas. Mentioned 19

Ramsay, George E. Correspondence with Ordnance Department, U. S. A. 842, 846, 847

Mentioned 345, 368, 379, 389

Ramsey, James. Mentioned 1277

Ramsey, Jesse B. Mentioned 638

Ramsey, John. Mentioned 1205

Ramsey, Riley. Mentioned 55

Randol, Alanson M. Mentioned 116, 723

Randolph, George B. Correspondence with David B. Birney 1044

Mentioned 1131

Randolph, Robert. Mentioned 250

Randolph, T. J. Mentioned 31

Randolph, W. A. Mentioned 224, 225

Rankin, Robert G. Mentioned 2

Ransom, Dunbar R. Mentioned 144

Ransom, Robert, jr. Mentioned 174, 222, 223, 229, 231, 245, 1234, 1289

Report of operations on the south side of James River, Va., May 4–June 2, 1864 221

Rapp, William. Mentioned 1280

INDEX.

Rappahannock, Department of the. (Union.)

Orders, Circular, series 1862 —McDowell: June 19, 683.
Orders, General, series 1862 —McDowell: No. 4, 575.
Orders, Special, series 1862 —McDowell: No. 46, 603; No. 144, 683.

Ricketts, James B., assigned to command of division of .................................. 683

Rappahannock Station, Va., Commanding Officer at. Correspondence with Oliver O. Howard ................................................. 1090

Rauch, John H. Mentioned ........................................ 68

Rawlins, John A. For correspondence as Chief of Staff, see U. S. Grant. 871

Rawlins, William C. Mentioned ..................................... 1177

Ray, Josiah H. Mentioned ............................................ 66

Raymond, Carrington H. Mentioned ................................ 1090

Raymond, Don Alonso. Mentioned .................................. 1190

Raynolds, William F. Mentioned ................................... 124

Rea, Mason A. Mentioned ........................................... 1242, 1246

Read, John F. W. Mentioned ......................................... 222, 223, 228–230

Read, Theodore. Mentioned .......................................... 1249

Reading, Thomas R. Mentioned ...................................... 95

Reber, Charles T. Mentioned ........................................ 871

Recruitment, Organization, etc. See Confederate Troops and Union Troops; also respective States.

Redden, William O. Correspondence with Robert C. Schenck ............... 975

Reddick, George H. Mentioned ....................................... 1279

Reddy, James. Mentioned ........................................... 1281

Reddick, Oliver C. Mentioned ........................................ 1277

Reed, George J. Mentioned ........................................... 1277

Reed, Horatio B. Mentioned .......................................... 723

Reed, James S. Mentioned ............................................ 214, 215

Reel, John. Mentioned ................................................ 59

Reese, Chauncey B. Mentioned ....................................... 670, 686, 687

Reese, Henry, jr. Mentioned ........................................ 188

Reeves, Samuel. Mentioned .......................................... 33

Reid, Elihu D. Mentioned ........................................... 981

Reilly, James. Mentioned ............................................ 2

Reilly, Terrence. Mentioned .......................................... 138

Reinhardt, Gustavus. Mentioned .................................... 43

Rennick, William. Mentioned ........................................ 1280

Reno, Jesse L.

Assignment to duty .................................................. 513

Correspondence with
  Buford, John ................................................................ 745, 749, 750
  Chantilly, Va., Commanding Officer at ................................ 782
  Nagle, James ......................................................... 751
  Pope, John ................................................................ 740, 745, 746
  Stevens, Isaac I. ...................................................... 745, 749
  Willcox, Orlando B .................................................. 827

Mentioned ................................................................. 374, 513, 726, 741, 749, 759, 827, 831, 833

Restieaux, Edward B. W. Mentioned ................................ 213

Reynolds, Alexander W. Report of engagement at Carnifex Ferry, Gauley River, W. Va., Sept. 10, 1861 ..................................... 41

Reynolds, Hosea C. Mentioned ........................................ 137
Reynolds, John F.
Assignments to duty........................................... 469, 472, 477, 480
Assumes command of division, 5th Army Corps.................. 752
Congratulatory Orders. Expeditions from Belle Plain to Port Conway and Port Royal, Va., April 20–23, 1863......................... 1009

Correspondence with
Birney, David B.................................................. 1056
Buford, John....................................................... 1065
Doubleday, Abner................................................... 880, 883
Fairchild, Lucius................................................... 986
Gavin, James..................................................... 986
Hooker, Joseph.................................................... 1050
Howard, Oliver O................................................ 1064
McCullom, George A.............................................. 681, 698, 701
McClellan, George B............................................ 823, 872, 879, 892, 903, 912, 917, 922, 931, 938
McDowell, Irvin................................................... 763
Paul, Gabriel R...................................................... 955
Pleasanton, Alfred.............................................. 987, 1054
Sedgwick, John................................................... 1034
Sickles, Daniel E................................................... 1066
Taylor, Nelson...................................................... 955

Rien, Charles...................................................... 693, 696
Rien, Stephen..................................................... 695
Rice, Edmund. Correspondence with William A. Olmsted.............. 1201
Rice, James C.
Assignments to command........................................ 1085, 1091
Correspondence with George G. Meade............................ 1137
Mentioned.......................................................... 1085, 1089, 1091

Rice, Walter. Mentioned........................................ 1277
Richards, Samuel T. Correspondence with John E. Wool.............. 883
Richards, Thomas S. Mentioned.................................. 432

* Battery attached to 1st R. I. Infantry.
† Sometimes called 8th Battery.
INDEX.

Richards, William V. Mentioned ........................................ 1188
Richarso, Edward C. Mentioned ......................................... 1232, 1233
Richardson, Hollon. Correspondence with Gouverneur K. Warren .... 1204
Richardson, Israel B.
Assignments to command ............................................ 409, 455, 552
Correspondence with Edwin V. Sumner .......................... 587, 589, 592
Mentioned ................................................................. 409,
414, 435, 454, 455, 472, 491, 532, 565, 567, 572, 587, 661, 738, 831, 834, 835, 837
Staff. Announcement of .............................................. 473
Richardson, John B.
Mentioned ................................................................. 39, 40, 189, 191, 222–225, 231
Reports of
Chancellorsville, Va., Campaign, April 27–May 6, 1863 ............. 192
Richardson, John H. Mentioned ...................................... 670
Richardson, Lyman E. Mentioned ................................... 19
Richardson, Reuben. Mentioned .................................. 1279
Richardson, Thomas F. Mentioned ................................ 86, 88–90
Richmond, Lewis. For correspondence as A. A. G., see Ambrose E. Burnside.
Richmond, Va.
Bread riot in. Communication from Erasmus D. Keyes ............. 1002 Expedition from Yorktown against, etc., Feb. 6–8, 1864. Communications from
Butler, Benjamin F .................................................. 1284, 1285
Wistar, Isaac J ......................................................... 1284, 1286
Orders for government of, April 5, 1863. George F. Shepley ......... 1210
Ripley, Edward H., assigned to command of troops doing guard duty in .. 1210
Richmond, Va., Campaigns.
June 13–July 31, 1864.
Casualties. Returns of. Union Troops ................................ 269
Communications from
Curtis, N. Martin .................................................... 1169
Voris, Alvin C ....................................................... 1167
Reports of
Batchelder, Richard N ................................................ 256
Beahen, Michael ...................................................... 271
Duncan, Samuel A .................................................... 265
Eckert, Thomas T ...................................................... 261
Holman, John H ....................................................... 263
Ingalls, Rufus .......................................................... 251
Lee, W. H. F .......................................................... 272
Martindale, John H .................................................... 1255–1258
Morgan, Charles H .................................................... 269
Stannard, George J ................................................... 1250, 1262, 1263
White, John H .......................................................... 272
Communications from
Butler, Benjamin F .................................................... 1192
Heckman, Charles A .................................................. 1186, 1187
Meade, George G ...................................................... 1193
Potter, Joseph H ....................................................... 1185
Spaulding, Ira ........................................................... 275
Hospital records of Army of the Potomac during ...................... 281, 282

90 B 2—VOL LI, PT I

Digitized by Google
INDEX.

Richmond, Va., Campaigns—Continued.

Reports of

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Name</th>
<th>Page</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Michler, Nathaniel</td>
<td>274</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Smart, Charles</td>
<td>277</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Jan. 1–April 3, 1865.

Communications from

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Name</th>
<th>Page</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Bingham, Henry H</td>
<td>1208</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Humphreys, Andrew A</td>
<td>1207–1210</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Meade, George G</td>
<td>1207</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Miles, Nelson A</td>
<td>1205, 1209</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Mott, Gershom</td>
<td>1205, 1206</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Parke, John G</td>
<td>1202</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>William, John</td>
<td>1209</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Reports of

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Name</th>
<th>Page</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Adams, J. Webb</td>
<td>285</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Baxter, Henry</td>
<td>286</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Bush, Archibald McC</td>
<td>293</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Church, Nathan</td>
<td>297</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Cook, Jervis D.</td>
<td>298</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Crafts, Welcome A</td>
<td>297</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Dailey, Dennis B</td>
<td>294</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Egbert, George T</td>
<td>300</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>French, George</td>
<td>298</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Hamlin, James H</td>
<td>304</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Hamlink, Derrick F</td>
<td>305</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Herpst, Henry H</td>
<td>296</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Huber, Oscar F</td>
<td>301</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Jack, John T</td>
<td>295</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Lane, Nathaniel P</td>
<td>303</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>McIvor, James P</td>
<td>306</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Megraw, David W</td>
<td>304</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Mintzer, William M</td>
<td>303</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Nagent, Robert</td>
<td>301</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Olmsted, William A</td>
<td>306</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Overmeyer, John B</td>
<td>291</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Rodgers, Thomas B</td>
<td>300</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Schaffer, George W</td>
<td>298</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Scott, George W</td>
<td>1227</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Smyth, Thomas A</td>
<td>307</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Spofford, John P</td>
<td>290</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Tilden, Charles W</td>
<td>288</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Tremlett, Henry M</td>
<td>289</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Tyrer, Theodore</td>
<td>302</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Wilson, William</td>
<td>299</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Richmond, City of, Steamer. Mentioned. .......................... 623

Reports of

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Name</th>
<th>Page</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Manson, Mahlon D</td>
<td>8</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Poe, Orlando M</td>
<td>11, 15, 16</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Sullivan, Jeremiah C</td>
<td>10</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Sketches .................................................. 15, 16

Ricketts, James B.

Assignment to command .................................. 683
INDEX. 1427

Ricketts, James B.—Continued.
Correspondence with
McDowell, Irvin .................................................. 606, 668, 672, 735, 736, 741, 750, 762
Schrider, Edmund .................................................. 664
Wallace, Lew .................................................. 1175–1177
Wright, Horatio G .................................................. 1187
Mentioned .......................................................... 73, 75–77, 122, 139, 141, 601, 630, 662, 664, 668, 672, 676, 677, 683, 731, 747, 801, 818, 824, 828, 858, 872–874, 877, 889, 892, 898, 901, 917, 922, 1162, 1176
Riddle, William. Mentioned .................................. 113
For correspondence as A. D. C., see John F. Reynolds.
Ringo, Benjamin. Mentioned ................................ 871
Ripley, Edward H.
Assignments to command .................................. 1185, 1186, 1205, 1210
Correspondence with
Minnigerode, Charles ............................................. 1212, 1215
Peck, John J .................................................. 1008
Mentioned .......................................................... 1185–1187, 1204, 1205, 1210–1212
Ripley, James W. Mentioned ................................ 67
For correspondence, etc., see Ordnance Department, U. S. A.
Ripley, William Y. W. Mentioned .................. 3, 5
Rizer, Martin. Mentioned .................................. 178
Roach, H. J. Mentioned .................................. 1278
Roach, Thomas F. Mentioned .................................. 183
Roanoke Island, N. C. Battle of, Feb. 8, 1862.
Congratulatory Orders of John G. Foster .................. 537
Report of Charles W. Tillotson ................................ 57
Robb, James. Mentioned .................................. 184
Roberts, Benjamin S.
Correspondence with Robert C. Schenck .................. 994, 997, 1037
Mentioned .......................................................... 729, 990, 997, 1019, 1035, 1037
Roberts, Charles W. Mentioned .................. 864, 866, 867
Roberts, James S. Mentioned .................. 235
Roberts, Joseph. Correspondence with A. H. Bowman .... 1156
Roberts, Joseph G. Mentioned .................................. 183
Roberts, R. Biddle. Mentioned .................. 110, 111, 147, 149, 431, 458
Reports of
Maryland Campaign, Sept. 3–20, 1862 .................................. 142
Seven Days' Battles, June 25–July 1, 1862 .................. 109
Roberts, Samuel H. Mentioned .................. 1157, 1212
Robertson, Colonel. Mentioned .................. 61
Robertson, Beverly H. Mentioned .................. 724
Robertson, James M. Mentioned .................. 137, 138, 722, 1134
Robertson, William B. Mentioned .................. 879
Robinson, Gilbert P. Mentioned .................. 1189, 1206
Robinson, James M. Mentioned .................. 1096, 1097
Robinson, James R. Mentioned .................. 1281
Robinson, John C.
Correspondence with John Newton .................. 1103, 1104
Mentioned .......................................................... 656, 760, 1057, 1064–1066, 1079–1082, 1089, 1102, 1104, 1106, 1115, 1120, 1126, 1129, 1135, 1142
Robinson, Lucius N. Mentioned .................. 1219
Robinson, O'Neil W. Mentioned .................. 120
INDEX

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Name</th>
<th>Page</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Robinson, William H. Mentioned</td>
<td>1279</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Robison, James D. Mentioned</td>
<td>545</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Rockville, Md., Expedition, June 10–July 7, 1861. Communications from Army Headquarters</td>
<td>407, 412</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Mansfield, Joseph K. F. Mentioned</td>
<td>400, 401</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Stone, Charles P. Mentioned</td>
<td>403, 402</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Rockwell, Alfred P. Mentioned</td>
<td>1232, 1234</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Rodes, Robert E. Mentioned</td>
<td>244–246, 1015</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Rodgers, Hiram C. Mentioned</td>
<td>890</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

For correspondence as A. A. G., see Henry W. Slocum.

Rodgers, John.

- Correspondence with George B. McClellan | 591
- Mentioned | 565, 591, 615, 685, 713, 732

Rodgers, Robert S. Mentioned | 1141

Rodgers, Thomas B. Report of Richmond, Va., Campaign, Jan. 1–April 3, 1865 | 300

- Rodman, Daniel C. Mentioned | 1232, 1234
- Rodman, Isaac P. Mentioned | 827

Roebling, Washington A. Mentioned | 1125

Roemer, Jacob. Mentioned | 120, 1189

Rogers, Arthur L. Mentioned | 31

Rogers, Clayton E. Mentioned | 638

Rogers, George. Mentioned | 265–266

- Rogers, Lewis M. Mentioned | 273

- Rogers, Robert M. For correspondence, etc., see Julius Stahel.

Rohrig, Christian. Mentioned | 1276

Romeyn, James W. Mentioned | 871

Roome, William P. Mentioned | 189

Rose, Albert H. Mentioned | 1279

Rose, Laurin L. Mentioned | 180

Rose, Preston B. Mentioned | 280

Rose, William H. Mentioned | 1158

Rosecrans, William S. Assignment to command | 399

- Correspondence with Adjutant-General’s Office, U. S. A. | 513, 518
- Cox, Jacob D., 439, 444–446, 448–450, 452–454, 456–465, 467, 468, 470–479, 481–488
- Hartsuff, George L. | 515–517
- McClellan, George B. | 463, 519, 520, 522, 523, 525, 527, 528, 543, 544, 546, 547
- Reynolds, Joseph J. | 516
- Tyler, Erastus B. | 444
- War Department, U. S. | 567, 574, 599, 608

- Mentioned | 13, 14, 40, 439, 443, 453, 455, 460, 463, 469, 471, 508, 509, 518, 525, 527, 531, 534, 541, 575, 1098, 1153

- Staff. Announcements of | 439, 443
- Rosencrantz, Marcus C. Mentioned | 1277
- Ross, Charles H. Mentioned | 11, 947

- Ross, Edward. Mentioned | 342, 1093–1096
- Ross, George W. Mentioned | 1248
- Ross, John. Mentioned | 184
- Rosser, James M. Mentioned | 134

- Rossiter, C. E. Mentioned | 227

- Report of reconnaissance to and action at Lewinsville, Va., Sept. 11, 1861. | 42

- Rossiter, Thomas L. Mentioned | 171, 248–250, 1136
INDEX.

Rouss, Milton. Mentioned ........................................... 772

Rousseau, John C. For correspondence as A. D. C., see Alfred Pleasonton.

Rowe, A. C. Mentioned ........................................... 1278

Rowe, D. Watson. Report of Maryland Campaign, Sept. 3–20, 1862 ............. 161

Rowe, P. F. Mentioned ........................................... 1278

Rowland, C. H. Mentioned ........................................... 627

Rowley, Thomas A.
  Assignments to duty ........................................... 996, 998
  Mentioned ...................................................... 998, 999, 999, 1066, 1154
  Relieved from command of Draft Rendezvous ........................ 1154

Rowley, William W. Mentioned ........................................... 586, 803

Rozafy, E. M. Correspondence with Colin B. Ferguson ..................... 770

Rucker, Daniel H.
  Correspondence with Ferguson, Colin B. ........................................... 758
  Sawtelle, Charles G ........................................... 757
  Thomas, Charles W ........................................... 757
  Van Vliet, Stewart ........................................... 604
  Mentioned ...................................................... 78, 341, 342, 775, 842
  Report of operations, April, 1861–June 30, 1863 ..................... 1092

Ruger, Thomas H.
  Assignment to command ........................................... 893
  Mentioned ...................................................... 893
  Report of battle of Cedar Mountain, Va., Aug. 9, 1862 ..................... 123

Ruggles, Daniel. Report of attack on Mathias Point, Va., June 27, 1861 ....... 6

Ruggles, George D. For correspondence as Chief of Staff, see John Pope; as A. D. C., see George B. McClellan.

Runge, G. H. W. Mentioned ........................................... 2

Runyon, Theodore. Mentioned ........................................... 414

Rupert, Alfred. Mentioned ........................................... 143

Rush, Richard H.
  Correspondence with Charles E. Cadwalader .............................. 881
  Mentioned ...................................................... 558, 625, 626, 632, 716, 881, 882

Russell, Charles H. Mentioned ........................................... 820

Russell, Charles L. Mentioned ........................................... 537

Russell, Charles S. Mentioned ........................................... 1190

Russell, David A. Mentioned ........................................... 1046, 1047, 1149

Russell, Evan. Mentioned ........................................... 62

Russell, Harry. Mentioned ........................................... 945

Russell, Harvey Y. Mentioned ........................................... 1073

Russell, Henry S. Mentioned ........................................... 264

Russell, John. Mentioned ........................................... 2

Russell, Volney. Mentioned ........................................... 294

Russell, William, Jr. Mentioned ........................................... 1079

Rutherford, John P. Mentioned ........................................... 795

Ryan, George. For correspondence as A. A. A. G., see George Sykes.

Ryan, Patrick. Mentioned ........................................... 719

Ryan, Timothy. Mentioned ........................................... 135

Ryder, Henry W. Mentioned ........................................... 909

Sadler, John. Mentioned ........................................... 57

Sadler, John D. Mentioned ........................................... 108, 110
INDEX.

Sailor's Creek, Va. Engagement at, April 6, 1865. See report of Batchelder, p. 259.

St. Albe, Gustavus. Mentioned ................................. 74
Saint Lawrence, U. S. Frigate. Mentioned ......................... 549

Salm, Felix Prince. Mentioned .................................. 998, 999
Salter, Theodore R. Mentioned ................................... 19
Salvor, Steamer. Mentioned ....................................... 624
Salyer, L. H. N. Mentioned ........................................ 42
Samuel L. Brewster, Steamer. Mentioned ......................... 1145
Sanders, Daniel L. Mentioned .................................... 148
Sanders, Horace T. Mentioned ..................................... 1259, 1260
Sanders, William P.
Correspondence with George B. McClellan
Mentioned .......................................................... 830, 881
Sanderson, James M. Mentioned ..................................... 64, 65, 67, 68
Sandford, Charles W.
Assignments to command ............................................ 388, 416
Correspondence with Army Headquarters ......................... 327, 372
Mentioned .................................................................. 388, 412, 416, 429
Relieved from duty in Department of the Shenandoah .......... 429
Sandy Swamp, or Indiantown, N. C. See Indiantown, or Sandy Swamp, N. C. Skirmish at, Dec. 15, 1863.
Sanford, Edward S. Mentioned .................................... 336
Sanford, Oliver S. Mentioned ....................................... 1239
Sangster, Thomas R. Mentioned ..................................... 7
Sangster's Station, Va. Skirmish at, March 9, 1862. Report of Bradley T. Johnson .......................................................... 60
Santiago de Cuba, Steamer. Mentioned .......................... 1291
Sares, Thomas M. Mentioned ......................................... 298
Sargent, Horace Binney. Mentioned ............................... 918
Satterly, Colonel, Schooner. Mentioned ......................... 620
Saunders, W. M. Mentioned ......................................... 7
Savage, Henry. Mentioned ........................................... 2
Sawtelle, Charles G.
Correspondence with
Ingalls, Rufus .......................................................... 757
McClellan, George B. .................................................. 759, 804, 814
Rucker, Daniel H. ...................................................... 757
Mentioned .................................................................. 736, 796, 813
Sawyer, Roswell M. Mentioned ....................................... 80
Saxton, Rufus.
Correspondence with War Department, U. S.................. 641–643, 648
Mentioned .................................................................. 640, 660
Sayles, James A. Mentioned .......................................... 954
Sayles, Stephen D. Mentioned ....................................... 11
Scammon, Eliakim P.
Correspondence with
Duffié, Alfred N ........................................................ 1133, 1134
Hayes, Rutherford B .................................................... 592, 594, 595, 599, 601–604, 606, 608, 609, 611, 1039
Mentioned .................................................................. 207, 471, 592, 738, 751, 771, 865, 998, 1019, 1038, 1039, 1141
Schaeffer, Frank B. Mentioned ...................................... 27
INDEX.

1431

Schaffer, George W.
Mentioned .............................................. 298
Report of Richmond, Va., Campaign, Jan. 1–April 3, 1865 .......... 298
Schaffer, Jacob. Mentioned .............................................. 1278
Schaffle, Charles D. Mentioned ............................................ 146
Scheetz, Henry A. Mentioned .............................................. 68
Schenck, Daniel F. Mentioned ............................................ 275
Schenck, Robert C.
Assignments to command .............................................. 399, 453
Correspondence with
Adjutant-General's Office, U. S. A ..................................... 961
Allen, Samuel H. .............................................. 962
Army Headquarters .............................................. 965, 966, 997, 1010, 1055, 1058
Averell, William W .............................................. 1057
Baltimore, Md., Mayor of .............................................. 1056
Boyd, William H .............................................. 1036
Briggs, Henry S .............................................. 1010, 1054, 1056, 1058
Brooks, William T. H .............................................. 1060
Burnside, Ambrose E .............................................. 1019
Cannon, William L .............................................. 1067
Couch, Darius N .............................................. 1055, 1060
Dornin, T. Aloysias .............................................. 1067
Doull, Alexander .............................................. 1078
Elliott, Washington L .............................................. 989
Ely, William G .............................................. 968
Galligher, James A .............................................. 967, 968
Garrett, John W .............................................. 1069
Heintzelman, Samuel P .............................................. 1011, 1041
Kelley, Benjamin F .............................................. 964–967, 974,
976, 989, 993, 997, 1010, 1012, 1016, 1017, 1019, 1035, 1038, 1039, 1054, 1055
Kenly, John R .............................................. 964
Lincoln, Abraham .............................................. 1055
Lockwood, Henry II .............................................. 970, 1058
Milroy, Robert H .............................................. 978, 990, 996, 997, 1012, 1013, 1037
Montgomery, William R .............................................. 992
Moorhead, James K .............................................. 1016
Morris, William H .............................................. 1011
Mulligan, James A .............................................. 1019, 1057
Pennsylvania, Governor of .............................................. 1015
Redden, William O .............................................. 975
Roberts, Benjamin S .............................................. 994, 997, 1037
Schoonmaker, James M .............................................. 984
Stoneham, George .............................................. 1011
Sumwalt, Charles L. K .............................................. 968
Truex, William S .............................................. 967, 969, 1012, 1013, 1059
Tyler, Daniel .............................................. 1055
War Department, U. S .............................................. 546, 547, 961, 966
Wheat, James S .............................................. 1013
Mentioned .............................................. 17, 131, 399, 413,
453, 494, 546, 547, 623, 967, 968, 970, 974, 989, 990, 1012, 1037, 1054, 1062, 1076
Schimmelfennig, Alexander.
Assignment to command .............................................. 895
Mentioned .............................................. 895, 965
Schlachter, Frederick. Mentioned .............................................. 621
Schleich, Newton. Mentioned .............................................. 425
| Schley, William L. | Mentioned | 976, 990, 1041 |
| Schmidt, Herman | Mentioned | 1280 |
| Schoeffel, Francis A. | Mentioned | 81–83 |
| Schofield, Alva W. | Mentioned | 1280 |
| Schofield, John M. | Mentioned | 263, 350 |
| Scholes, Clayton | Mentioned | 19 |
| Schoonmaker, James M. | | |
| Correspondence with Robert C. Schenck | 964 |
| Mentioned | 114 |
| Schriver, Edmund | | |
| Correspondence with | |
| Bayard, George D | 668 |
| Haupt, Hermann | 615 |
| King, Rufus | 583 |
| McDowell, Irvin | 662, 664, 668, 671, 672 |
| Ricketts, James B | 694 |
| Shields, James | 622 |
| For correspondence as Chief of Staff, see Irvin McDowell |  |
| Mentioned | 62, 65–67, 76, 78, 552, 626, 1078 |
| Schroeder, Henry T. | Mentioned | 1139 |
| Schultz, Julius C. | Mentioned | 1281 |
| Schultze, John S. | Mentioned | 1045 |
| Schumaker, William | Mentioned | 1280 |
| Schutz, Carl | | |
| Assignment to command | 895 |
| Correspondence with Abraham Lincoln | 783 |
| Mentioned | 835, 920, 976, 977, 1083 |
| Schutt, Edward H. | Mentioned | 213 |
| Schuyler, Philip | Mentioned | 237 |
| Scott, Andrew | Mentioned | 358 |
| Scott, Charles | Mentioned | 1277 |
| Scott, Eben G. | Mentioned | 115 |
| Report of Seven Days' Battles, June 25–July 1, 1862 | 114 |
| Scott, George W. | Mentioned | 179, 297, 299–302, 306, 1205, 1227 |
| Report of action at Watkins House, Va., March 25, 1865 | 1227 |
| Scott, Henry B. | Mentioned | 125 |
| Scott, Henry L. | | |
| Assignment to command | 441 |
| Correspondence with Fitz John Porter | 349, 353–355, 358, 367 |
| Mentioned | 349, 357, 411 |
| Scott, Jus. R. | Correspondence with Crawford W. Shearer | 662 |
| Scott, Michael | Correspondence with John E. Wool | 795, 796 |
| Scott, Robert E. | Mentioned | 74 |
| Scott, Rufus | Mentioned | 1138 |
| Scott, Thomas A. | | |
| Correspondence with | |
| Army Headquarters | 813 |
| Porter, Fitz John | 353, 367 |
| War Department, U. S. | 330, 332, 357, 812, 846 |
| For correspondence as Actg. Sec., see War Department, U. S. |  |
| Mentioned | 346, 347, 349, 354, 357, 368, 427, 555, 813 |
| Scott, William C. | Mentioned | 41 |
| Report of engagement at Greenbrier River, W. Va., Oct. 3, 1861 | 41 |
<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Name</th>
<th>Mentioned</th>
<th>Page</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Scrymser, James A.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>980</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Scudder, Aaron A.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>213</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Seabury, Robert S.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>178</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Sealy, Israel R.</td>
<td>For correspondence as A. A. A. G., see John W. Turner.</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Sedgwick, John</td>
<td>Assignment to duty</td>
<td>472</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Assumes command of 6th Army Corps</td>
<td>982</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Correspondence with

- Birney, David B.                                                                                       | 1070–1072 |
- Brooks, William T. H.                                                                                   | 1015      |
- Burnham, Hiram                                                                                                | 183       |
- Butterfield, Daniel                                                                                       | 1015      |
- Eustis, Henry L.                                                                                         | 1148      |
- French, William H.                                                                                        | 1120      |
- Heintzelman, Samuel P.                                                                                   | 504       |
- Hooker, Joseph                                                                                                | 992, 1033, 1034, 1043, 1046, 1053 |
- McClellan, George B.                                                                                      | 538       |
- Meade, George G.                                                                                          | 1068, 1077, 1105–1107, 1118–1120, 1122 |
- Newton, John                                                                                                | 1049      |
- Reynolds, John F.                                                                                          | 1034      |

Segar, Joseph. Correspondence with War Department, U. S.                                                   | 318       |

Selfridge, Robert O. Mentioned                                                                              | 728       |

Sellers, Eli G. Correspondence with Alfred L. Pearson                                                      | 1195      |

Sellers, W. H. Mentioned                                                                                   | 173       |

Sellmer, Charles. Mentioned                                                                                 | 1246      |

Sentman, Charles W. Mentioned                                                                              | 1279      |

Serrell, Edward W. Correspondence with Quincy A. Gillmore                                                  | 1164      |

Seven Days’ Battles, June 25–July 1, 1862.

Communications from

- Dix, John A                                                                                               | 709       |
- Keenan, Peter                                                                                                | 705       |
- Keyes, Erasmus D                                                                                           | 699, 704  |
- McCall, George A.                                                                                          | 698, 701  |
- McClellan, George B.                                                                                       | 700, 702, 703, 706, 707, 712 |
- Porter, Fitz John                                                                                            | 698, 700  |

Congratulatory Orders. Kearny                                                                               | 717       |

Reports of

- Batchelder, Richard N                                                                                        | 100       |
- Fisher, Joseph W                                                                                            | 112       |
- McCandless, William                                                                                         | 111       |
- McKean, Henry B                                                                                             | 113       |
- Miller, Stephen                                                                                             | 180       |
- Owen, William H                                                                                            | 103       |
- Porter, Daniel S                                                                                            | 114       |
- Roberts, R. Biddle                                                                                          | 109       |
- Scott, Eben G                                                                                                | 114       |
INDEX.

Seventh Days' Battles, June 25–July 1, 1862—Continued.

Reports of
Thomas, Edward L. .................................................. 117
Thompson, James ..................................................... 116
Todd, Lemuel ......................................................... 110

Sewall, Frederic D. Mentioned .................................... 482
Seward, William H. Mentioned .................................. 79, 637

For correspondence, etc., see State Department, U. S.

Sexton, Andrew J. Mentioned .................................... 638
Seymour, Captain. Mentioned ..................................... 71
Seymour, Isaac, jr. Mentioned ................................... 728

Seymour, Truman.
Assignments to command ........................................... 752, 1159, 1162
Correspondence with Fitz John Porter ......................... 718
Mentioned ............................................................. 74, 109, 110, 115, 117,
129, 130, 140, 142, 147, 150, 156, 681, 722, 735, 736, 752, 858, 872, 1159, 1162

Shackelford, B. H. Mentioned .................................... 33, 34
Shackler, John. Mentioned ........................................ 232

Shaffer, James R.
Correspondence with Quincy A. Gillmore ....................... 1167
Mentioned ............................................................. 1159

Shaffer, John W. Mentioned ...................................... 1148, 1165, 1288

For correspondence as Chief of Staff, see Benjamin F. Butler.

Shaler, Alexander.
Assignment to command ............................................. 1043
Mentioned ............................................................. 1043, 1119

Shannon, James T. Mentioned .................................... 638

Sharpsburg, Md. Battle of, Sept. 16–17, 1862. See Antietam, Md.

Sharra, Abram. Mentioned ......................................... 1061
Shaut, William B. Correspondence with Peter II. Allabach ...... 158
Shaw, A. Percival. Mentioned .................................... 147
Shaw, Franklin. Mentioned ......................................... 1277

Shaw, H. H. Mentioned ............................................. 1278

Shearer, Crawford W.
Correspondence with
Kelley, Benjamin F .................................................. 662
Scott, Jus. R ............................................................. 662
Mentioned ............................................................. 662, 665

Shearer, John C. Mentioned ...................................... 1261, 1262

Sheehan, Patrick. Mentioned ...................................... 1281

Shehuf, James. Mentioned ......................................... 177

Sheilman, George K. Mentioned .................................. 60

Shelton, John W. Mentioned ....................................... 136

Shenandoah, Department of the. (Union.)
Orders, General, series 1861—Banks: No. 36, 428; No. 38, 431.
Orders, General, series 1862—Banks: No. 20, 586.
Orders, Special, series 1861—Banks: Nos. 133, 141, 429; No. 144, 430;
No. 147, 432; No. 168, 442; No. 173, 444; No. 177, 445; No. 213, 458; No. 219, 461.

Sandford, Charles W., relieved from duty in .................. 429
Thomas, George H., relieved from duty in ..................... 461
Union troops in. Organization, strength, etc., July 29, 1861 .... 428, 429
INDEX.

Shenandoah Valley. Operations in.
July 2–25, 1861. Communications from
Patterson, Robert .................................................. 411, 420
Stone, Charles P .................................................. 410
April 22–May 16, 1863. Communications from Robert C. Schenck .... 1010

Shenandoah Valley Campaign, Aug. 7–Nov. 28, 1864.
Communications from
Averell, William W .................................................. 1180
War Department, U. S ........................................ 1186
Wright, Horatio G .................................................. 1187

Reports of
Gilman, George E .................................................. 284
Henry, William W .................................................. 283
Shepard, David L. Mentioned ........................................ 3, 5
Shepard, James B. Mentioned ...................................... 1281
Shepherd, Oliver L. Mentioned .................................... 398

Shepherdstown, W. Va.
Reconnaissance from, Sept. 25, 1862. Communications from George B. McClellan ........................................ 862, 863

Shepley, George F.
Assignment to command ............................................. 1160
Mentioned .......................................................... 1160, 1192
Orders of, for government of Richmond, Va., April 5, 1865 .......... 1210

Sheridan, Philip H.
Correspondence with War Department, U. S .......................... 1199
Mentioned .......................................................... 239, 247, 250, 254, 257–259, 283, 1156, 1180, 1186

Sheridan's Expedition, May 9–24, 1864. See report of Lee, p. 250.

Sherman, Roger Mentioned ........................................ 156
Sherman, Thomas W. Mentioned .................................... 331, 347, 382, 472
Sherman, William T.
Assignments to command ............................................ 408, 455
Mentioned .......................................................... 17, 406, 408, 413, 434, 435, 455, 461, 493
Relieved from duty with Army of the Potomac .................. 461

Sherman, Job Mentioned ........................................... 1278
Shetucket, Steamer Mentioned ..................................... 624

Shields, James.
Correspondence with
McDowell, Irvin .................................................. 622, 639, 642
Olmsted, Edwin B .................................................. 95
Schriver, Edmund .................................................. 622
War Department, U. S .......................................... 596, 598, 607, 614, 616
Mentioned .......................................................... 75–79,
546–548, 558, 560, 591, 610, 636, 641, 642, 645, 664, 668, 672, 677, 726, 1141

Shields, Samuel Mentioned ........................................ 1277
Shields, William H. Mentioned .................................... 53
Shingler, W. P. Mentioned ....................................... 926
Shiras, Alexander B. Mentioned .................................. 541
Shoaf, James M. Mentioned ...................................... 1276
Shockley, Martin V. B. Mentioned ................................ 136
Shoemaker, Samuel M. Correspondence with War Department, U. S. .... 1068
Shockley, George Mentioned ...................................... 1189
INDEX.

Page

Short, James. Mentioned .................................................. 206
Shorts, William. Mentioned .............................................. 170
Showalter, John H. Mentioned ........................................... 1017
Shreve, Captain. Mentioned ............................................ 402
Shugart,  .... Mentioned ................................................... 177
Shuman, Doctor. Mentioned .............................................. 66
Shunk, Francis J. Mentioned ............................................. 838
Shuter, James. Mentioned ................................................ 1278
Siber, Edward. Mentioned ................................................ 509, 738
Sibley, Caleb C.
Assignment to command .................................................. 1136
Mentioned ................................................................. 1136
Sickel, Horatio G. Mentioned ......................................... 730, 981, 985, 1002, 1007

Sickles, Daniel B.
Assumes command of 3d Army Corps .................................. 987
Correspondence with
Berry, Hiram G ............................................................. 999
Birney, David B ............................................................. 999
Hooker, Joseph ............................................................. 988, 993, 1036, 1040
Humphreys, Andrew A ..................................................... 1066
Lincoln, Abraham ........................................................... 998
McClellan, George B ......................................................... 935, 941
Reynolds, John F ............................................................ 1066
Whipple, Amiel W ............................................................ 999
Mentioned .................................................. 172, 180, 462, 496, 654, 930, 1029, 1033, 1036, 1062, 1065, 1099
Staff. Announcements of ............................................. 987, 1042

Sigel, Franz.
Assignments to command .............................................. 455, 710
Correspondence with
Burnside, Ambrose E ....................................................... 952
Butterfield, Daniel .......................................................... 959
Candy, Charles ............................................................... 978
Di Cesnola, Louis P ......................................................... 958, 960
Dumfries, Va. Commanding Officer at ................................ 960
Hooker, Joseph ............................................................... 982
Lincoln, Abraham ............................................................. 1151
McClellan, George B ......................................................... 785, 793, 930, 934, 940, 942
Slocum, Henry W ............................................................. 976
Stahel, Julius ................................................................. 952, 985
War Department, U. S ..................................................... 710

Sigfried, Joshua K. Mentioned .................................... 1184, 1188

Signal Corps, U. S. A.
Communications from
Banks, Nathaniel P ......................................................... 586
Burnside, Ambrose E ......................................................... 586
Myer, Albert J ................................................................. 555, 586
Orders, General, series 1862—Myer: No. 24, 555.
Orders, General, series 1863—Myer: No. 3, 983.

Sim, Thomas. Mentioned ............................................... 987
Simmonds, Seth J. Mentioned ............................................ 508, 1039
Simmons, P. D. Mentioned ................................................. 227
Simmons, Seneca G. Mentioned ........................................... 113
Simpson, James H. Mentioned .......................................... 406, 428
<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Name</th>
<th>Mentioned/Reported</th>
<th>Page(s)</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Simpson, John H.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>1281</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Simpson, Robert H.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>33</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Sinclair, Archibald</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>1277</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Sinclair, James</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>33</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Sinclair, Peter J.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>33</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Sinclair, William</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>147, 1008</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Report of Maryland Campaign, Sept. 3-20, 1862</td>
<td></td>
<td>147</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Singleton, William F.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>36</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Sinkley, Donald</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>1280</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Sisson, Henry T.</td>
<td>Correspondence with Francis L. Lee</td>
<td>1011</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Skeen, Peter J.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>1276</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Skeenes, Peter J.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>1276</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Sketches</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Bull Run, Va. Battle of, July 21, 1861</td>
<td></td>
<td>26</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Embrasure blinds for siege batteries</td>
<td></td>
<td>580</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Fort Pendleton, Va.</td>
<td></td>
<td>1229</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Fredericksburg, Va. Battle of, Dec. 11-15, 1862</td>
<td></td>
<td>1033</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Rich Mountain, W. Va. Engagement at, July 11, 1861</td>
<td></td>
<td>15, 16</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Skinner, Major</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>38</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Skinner, Frederick G.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>133</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Skinner, Willis J.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>167</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Skipwith, William M.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>11</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Skeen, Peter J.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>1276</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Sloan, Hannibal K.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>114</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Sloan, John B. E.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>30</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Slocomb, C. H.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>43</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Slocum, Henry W.</td>
<td>Assignments to command</td>
<td>455, 470</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Assumes command of 12th Army Corps</td>
<td>890</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Correspondence with</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Franklin, William B.</td>
<td></td>
<td>682</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>McClellan, George B.</td>
<td></td>
<td>915, 935</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Sigel, Franz</td>
<td></td>
<td>976</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Williams, Alpheus S.</td>
<td></td>
<td>1063, 1070, 1074, 1089, 1092</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>66, 201, 205, 455, 470, 495, 628, 721, 960, 1014, 1061, 1063, 1074, 1077</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Staff. Announcement of</td>
<td>890</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Slocum, John S.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>19</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Slosson, John S.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>75</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Slough, John P.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>641, 787, 814, 1008, 1165</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Small, Alex.</td>
<td>Correspondence with Fitz John Porter</td>
<td>359</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Small, George F.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>1281</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Smart, B. W.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>1278</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Smart, Charles</td>
<td>Report of Richmond, Va., Campaign, Aug. 1-Dec. 31, 1864</td>
<td>277</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Smead, John R.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>115, 722</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Smeed, E. C.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>638</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Smith, __________</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>991</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Smith, (Deputy Sheriff.)</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>211, 212</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Smith, Abel</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>405</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Smith, Allen</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>1278</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Smith, Anthony</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>1281</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Smith, Benjamin</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>11</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Smith, Benjamin F.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>990, 1035, 1054, 1076, 1099, 1108</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>
INDEX.

Smith Briggs, Steamer. Mentioned ................................................. 1050

Smith, Charles F.
Assignments to command ............................................................... 320, 322
Assumes command of Department of Washington .................................. 322
Assumes command of troops on duty in Washington, D. C., and at Fort Washington, Md ............................................................................. 321

Correspondence with Clay, Cassius M ........................................................................... 335
Lane, James H. .............................................................................. 335
McDowell, Irvin ............................................................................ 335

Mentioned ....................................................................................... 320, 322, 324, 330, 335

Orders, General, series 1861: No. 1, 321.
Orders, Special, series 1861: No. 119, 324.

Relinquishes command of Department of Washington to Joseph K. F.
Mansfield ......................................................................................... 341

Staff. Announcements of ................................................................. 322, 325, 329

Smith, Charles H. Mentioned ........................................................... 1104, 1184

Smith, Charles Ross. For correspondence as Chief of Staff, see Alfred Pleasanton.

Smith, Clark. Mentioned ................................................................. 1240, 1255

Smith, Edward W. Correspondence with Quincy A. Gillmore .................... 1188

Smith, E. Kirby. Mentioned ................................................................ 576, 665, 896

Smith, Francis H. Correspondence with George H. Thomas ....................... 311

Smith, Gaines C. Mentioned ................................................................ 94

Smith, George. (Negro.) Mentioned .................................................. 66

Smith, George. (Sergeant.) Mentioned .............................................. 1276

Smith, George A. Mentioned ............................................................. 136

Smith, Gustavus W. Mentioned .......................................................... 931, 934–938

Smith, Henry W. Mentioned ................................................................ 482, 488

Smith, James B. Mentioned ................................................................ 1190

Smith, James J. Mentioned ................................................................ 302

Smith, James M. Mentioned ................................................................ 208

Smith, J. Brice. Mentioned ................................................................ 406, 428

Smith, Joseph B. Mentioned ................................................................ 59

Smith, Joseph S. Mentioned ................................................................ 269, 270

Smith, Lindroff W. Mentioned ............................................................ 184

Smith, Lycurgus. Mentioned ................................................................ 183

Smith, Mahlon. Mentioned .................................................................. 1279

Smith, Normand. Mentioned ............................................................... 1210

Smith, Orland.
Assignment to command ........................................................................ 886

Mentioned .......................................................................................... 886, 1049

Smith, Robert K. Mentioned ................................................................ 1186

Smith, Samuel J. Mentioned ................................................................ 19

Smith, Samuel M. Mentioned .............................................................. 621

Smith, Stephen E. Correspondence with Erasmus D. Keyes ...................... 862

Smith, William. (Captain.) Mentioned ............................................... 58, 591

Smith, William. (Colonel.) Mentioned ............................................... 29, 31
Smith, William F.
Assignments to command ........................................... 432, 455
Assumes command of Yorktown and Gloucester Point, Va. .......... 1158
Correspondence with
Franklin, William B .................................................. 601, 973, 975
Grant, U. S. ............................................................. 1153
McClellan, George B .................................................... 526, 543, 601
Sumner, Edwin V ....................................................... 583, 592
Willeox, Orlando B .................................................... 989
Smith, William H. Correspondence with Mayor of Norfolk, Va .................. 628
Smith, William Prescott.
Correspondence with War Department, U. S .......................... 841, 846
Mentioned ................................................................. 637, 868
Smith, William S. Mentioned ........................................... 453, 454, 483
Smithfield, W. Va. Reconnaissance to, from Sharpsburg, Md., Oct. 16–17, 1862. Reports of Curtis, Greeley S ....................................................... 170
Hazlett, Charles E ...................................................... 171
Smyth, Thomas A.
Correspondence with Andrew A. Humphreys ................................ 1200
Mentioned ................................................................. 285, 306, 1182, 1208
Report of Richmond, Va., Campaign, Jan. 1–April 3, 1865 ............ 307
Snay, J. Henry. Mentioned ............................................. 146
Snicker's Gap, Va. Reconnaissance to, Nov. 3, 1862. Communications from
McClellan, George B .................................................... 915, 916
Porter, Fitz John ....................................................... 918, 919
Snoots, John. Mentioned ............................................... 177
Snow, Jonas. Mentioned ................................................ 1277
Snowden, Harald. Mentioned .......................................... 34
Snyder, Conrad. Mentioned ............................................ 1281
Snyder, James A. Mentioned .......................................... 541
Snyder, Spencer W. Mentioned ........................................ 1240
Sondershoff, Charles. Mentioned ..................................... 12
Sophia, Steamer. Mentioned ........................................... 623
Sorrel, G. Moxley. Mentioned ........................................ 90
South, Department of the (Union.) Orris S. Ferry relieved from duty in. 1072
South Carolina Troops. Mentioned.
Cavalry—Regiments: 5th, 221.
Infantry—Regiments: 4th, 32; 5th, 39; 23rd, 272, 273.
Miscellaneous—Hampton Legion, 28; Holcombe Legion, 1283.
South Mountain, Md. Battle of, Sept. 14, 1862. Communications from George
B. McClellan ........................................................... 831, 833
See also reports of Allabach, Peter H., p. 157.
Bolar, Andrew J., p. 154.
Clark, John, p. 113.
Corse, Montgomery D., p. 169.
Dick, Samuel B., p. 148.
Flan, Joseph W., p. 145.
Lyman, Chauncey A., p. 148.
McGee, Dennis, p. 155.
Tapper, Thomas F. B., p. 144.
Spates, Alfred. Mentioned .............................................. 512
<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Name</th>
<th>Page References</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Spaulding, Ira.</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Correspondence with</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Duane, James C.</td>
<td>1120</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Michler, Nathaniel</td>
<td>275</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>275, 653, 656</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Spaulding, S. R., Steamer</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>480</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Speakman, Franklin B.</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Correspondence with</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Peter H. Allabach</td>
<td>159</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Spear, George C.</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>181, 182</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Spear, Samuel P.</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>1286</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Speed, Horace</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>1278</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Speer, Abraham</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>405</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Speer, G. F.</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>638</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Spencer, W. W.</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>227</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Sperry, Carlos A.</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>1073</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Spillan, Timothy</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>1281</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Spinola, Francis B.</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Assignment to duty</td>
<td>1073</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>876, 1073</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Spofford, John P.</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>287</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Report of Richmond, Va.,</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Campaign, Jan. 1–April 3,</td>
<td>290</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>1865</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Spofford, Winslow P.</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>1232</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Spooner, Edmund D.</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>1073</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Spooner, Lyman A.</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>280</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Spotsylvania Court-House,</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Va.</td>
<td>Operations about, May 8–21, 1864.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Wilcox</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>See also reports of</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Anderson, p. 248; Merrill</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>p. 234; also itinerary,</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>p. 243.</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Sprague, John W.</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>449</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Sprague, William</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Correspondence with</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>War Department, U. S.</td>
<td>559</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>24, 310; 311, 336</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Sprigg's Ford, Va.</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Skirmish near, Feb. 28,</td>
<td>215</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>1864</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Report of Edward O'Shea</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Springer, Isaac</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>719</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Springfield Armory,</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Superintendent of</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Correspondence with</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>War Department, U. S.</td>
<td>352</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Springer and Burke's</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Stations, Va.</td>
<td>Scent to vicinity of, Jan. 17, 1862.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Report of James E. Larkin</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Spurlock, Hurston</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>211, 212, 1140</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Squires, Charles W.</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>190–192</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Reports of</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Great Falls, Md.</td>
<td>Skirmish at, Sept. 4, 1861</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>New Bridge, Va.</td>
<td>Skirmish at, June 5, 1862</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>S. R. Spaulding, Steamer</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>480</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Stackpole, Patrick</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>1281</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Stahel, Julius</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Assignments to command</td>
<td>497, 895, 960, 994</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Correspondence with</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Candy, Charles</td>
<td>971</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Ciesnola, Louis P.</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>966, 977</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Heintzelman, Samuel P.</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>1043, 1044</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Mann, William D</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>1042, 1043</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Sigel, Franz</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>992, 985</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Wynkoop, John E</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>1072</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>
INDEX.

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Name</th>
<th>Mentioned/Assignment to Command</th>
<th>Page</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Stainrook, Henry J.</td>
<td></td>
<td>123</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Stanford, Matthew</td>
<td></td>
<td>57</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Stanfield, Rufus P.</td>
<td></td>
<td>1212</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Stanly, Edward</td>
<td></td>
<td>680, 696</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Stannard, George J.</td>
<td></td>
<td>1008</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Assignment to command</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Correspondence with</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Abercrombie, John J.</td>
<td></td>
<td>1037</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Caswell, Adin W.</td>
<td></td>
<td>1261</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>268, 1008, 1006, 1086, 1252-1258, 1261, 1265</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Reports of</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Cold Harbor, Va.</td>
<td>Battle of, June 1–3, 1864</td>
<td>1260–1262</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Richmond, Va.</td>
<td>Campaign, June 13–July 31, 1864</td>
<td>1250, 1262, 1263</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>For correspondence, etc., see War Department, U. S.</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Starkweather, John C.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>398, 400, 406</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>State Department, U. S.</td>
<td>Correspondence with.</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Starkweather, John C.</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Army Headquarters</td>
<td></td>
<td>409</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>McClellan, George B.</td>
<td></td>
<td>618</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Staunton, John F.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>990</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Stedman, Charles</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>1274</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Stedman, Griffin A., jr.</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>1253–1258, 1260, 1262, 1263</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Report of operations about Cold Harbor, Va. May 31–June 12, 1864</td>
<td>1263</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Stedman, Fort</td>
<td>See Fort Stedman.</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Steere, William H. P.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>1162</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Steinwehr, Adolph von.</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Stellwagen, Henry S.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>449</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Stelton,</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>696</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Stephan, Carl</td>
<td>Report of siege of Yorktown, Va. April 5–May 4, 1862</td>
<td>80</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Stephenson, Colonel</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>71</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Sterling, William R.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>949</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Stetzel, George</td>
<td>Reports of Petersburg, Va.</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Engagement at, June 9, 1864</td>
<td>1269</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Petersburg Lines. Assaults on, June 15–18, 1864</td>
<td>1270</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Steuart, George H.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>50, 61, 240</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Steuben, Baron von.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>998</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Stevens,</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>350, 360</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Stevens, Aaron F.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>879</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Stevens, Hazard</td>
<td>For correspondence as A. A. G., see George W. Getty.</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Stevens, Hiram</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>482</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Stevens, Isaac I.</td>
<td>Assignment to command</td>
<td>489</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Correspondence with Jesse L. Reno.</td>
<td>745, 749</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>489, 726, 747, 748</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Stevens, James C.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>1279</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Stevenson, James M.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>2</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Stevenson, John D.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>284, 1179</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Stevenson, Thomas G.</td>
<td>Correspondence with Ambrose E. Burnside</td>
<td>1161</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

91 R R—VOL LI, PT I
INDEX.

Stewart, Archibald W. Mentioned

Stewart, Charles. Mentioned 47, 498

Stewart, C. Seaforth.
Correspondence with John G. Barnard 630, 631, 635
Mentioned 682

Stewart, Jacob H. Mentioned 22

Stewart, James, jr. Mentioned 1185

Stewart, Joseph D. Mentioned 204

Stewart, Joseph H. Mentioned 61

Stewart, Levi S. Mentioned 51

Stewart, William W. Mentioned 110

Stiles, John W.
Mentioned 429

Report of skirmish at Harper's Ferry, W. Va., July 4, 1861 7

Stocker, Charles H. Mentioned 223, 229, 230

Stockholm, John. Mentioned 1277

Stockton, Howard. Mentioned 79

Stockton, Thomas B. W. Mentioned 801

Stokes, Mentioned 62

Stokes, John D. Mentioned 180

Stone, Charles. Mentioned 1278

Stone, Charles P.
Assignments to command 389, 455

Correspondence with
Army Headquarters 404, 407, 412
Baker, Edward D. 502
Banks, Nathaniel P. 456, 466, 490, 501, 502
Copeland, R. Morris 502
Everett, Charles 402
Geary, John W. 454, 489
Hardie, James A 517
Jewell, J. Grey 401
Lincoln, Abraham 498
McClellan, George B 463, 466, 498-501, 515, 521
Mansfield, Joseph K. F. 400-402, 404
Patterson, Robert 410, 411
Pell, John H. 493

Stone, Daniel. Mentioned 636, 637

Stone, Frederick P. Mentioned 285

Stone, Goodwin A. Mentioned 215

Stoneman, George.
Assignments to command 455, 698, 716, 830
Assumes command of 3d Army Corps 946

Correspondence with Averell, William W. 724
Gregg, David McM. 671
McClellan, George B 725, 865, 873, 881, 884, 936
Pleasanton, Alfred 947
Porter, Fitz John 700
Schenck, Robert C 1011
War Department, U. S. 713
Young, William H 477
INDEX.

Stoneman, George—Continued.
Mentioned .................. 61, 62, 106, 107, 113, 118, 172, 175, 455, 491, 511, 626, 631, 632, 647, 671, 675, 698, 700, 709, 716, 717, 738, 754, 830, 878, 879, 882, 900, 911, 920, 921, 925, 934, 938, 941, 943, 944, 948, 949, 957, 1022, 1024, 1033, 1038, 1104
Relieved from duty with Army of the Potomac .................. 754
Relinquishes command of 3d Army Corps .................. 983
Staff. Announcement of .................. 946
Stots, Andrew. Mentioned .................. 1276
Stoughton, Edwin H.
Assignment to command .................. 953
Mentioned ................. 953, 975
Stoughton, Homer R. Mentioned .................. 974
Stover, Archibald H. Mentioned .................. 5
Strachan, David. Mentioned .................. 1277
Strong, Edward J. Mentioned .................. 252
Strange, John B. Mentioned .................. 26, 30–32
Straub, Florentine H. Mentioned ................. 144
Street, A., & Co. Mentioned ..................
Strength of Troops. See Organization, Strength, etc.
Strobing, Robert M.
Mentioned .................. 86, 89
Report of battle of Williamsburg, Va., May 5, 1862 .................. 67
Stringham, Silas H. Mentioned .................. 442, 450
Strong, George C. Mentioned .................. 494
Strother, David H. Mentioned .................. 690
Strout, G. J. Mentioned .................. 1281
Stryker, William B. Mentioned ................. 556
Struve, Gustav. Mentioned .................. 575
Stuart, J. E. B.
Correspondence with Field, Charles W .................. 50
Hill, Daniel H .................. 50
Lee, Fitzhugh .................. 249
Reports of
James River, Va. Campaign from the Rapidan to, May 4–June 12, 1864 .................. 248, 249
Mountville, Va. Skirmish at, Oct. 31, 1862 .................. 171
Stuart, William D. Mentioned ................. 169
Stuart’s Expedition, Oct. 9–12, 1862. Operations during. Communications from Franklin, William B .................. 878
Kenly, John R .................. 880
McClellan, George B .................. 877–882
Reynolds, John F .................. 880, 883
Rush, Richard H .................. 881
Wool, John E. .................. 882, 883
Stumbaugh, Frederick S. Mentioned ................. 239
Sturdivant, N. A. Mentioned ................. 229
Sturgis, Samuel D.
Correspondence with
McDowell, Irvin ................. 708, 709, 712
INDEX.

Sturgis, Samuel D.—Continued.
Correspondence with Pierce, Lewis B. .................................................. 755
Pope, John .......................................................... 726, 755
Willcox, Orlando B. .............................................. 895, 899, 910, 914, 944, 993
Mentioned ......................................................... 699, 707, 728, 729, 790–793, 865, 902, 903, 914, 915, 943, 944

Sturrock, Robert W. Mentioned .................................. 112
Subsistence Department, U. S. A. Correspondence with George Bell .................. 711 Subsistence Stores. See Munitions of War.
Suckley, George. Mentioned ...................................... 545, 558, 588
Sugar Loaf Mountain, Md. Skirmishes at, Sept. 10–11, 1862. Communication from George B. McClellan ........... 808

Sullivan, Jeremiah C.
Mentioned ......................................................... 9, 563
Sullivan, Jerry A. Mentioned ...................................... 81, 82
Sullivan, Thomas C. Mentioned ................................ 316

Sullivan, Timothy.
Assignment to command ........................................ 718
Mentioned ......................................................... 718

Sully, Alfred. Mentioned .......................................... 108
Summers, Charles G. Mentioned .................................. 204
Sumner, Alexander B. Mentioned ................................ 183

Sumner, Edwin V. (General.)
Assignment to command ......................................... 507

Correspondence with
Keyes, Erasmus D. ................................................................ 587, 589, 592
McClellan, George B. ................................................................ 560, 562, 563, 566, 581–583, 585, 587, 638, 640, 649, 653, 635, 657, 660, 666, 672, 682, 697, 709, 759, 805, 806, 814, 821, 826, 831, 834, 838, 839, 842, 849, 856, 858, 863, 938
Richardson, Israel B. ................................................................ 587, 589, 592
Smith, William F. ................................................................ 583, 592
War Department, U. S. ...................................................... 716

Sumner, Edwin V. (Lieutenant.) Mentioned .................................. 946
Sumner, John H. Mentioned .......................................... 1280
Sumner, Samuel S. Mentioned ........................................ 682

Sumwalt, Charles L. K. Correspondence with Robert C. Schenck .................. 968

Surrender of Army of Northern Virginia. See Northern Virginia, Army of.
Surrender of.
Susquehanna, Department of the. Napoleon J. T. Dana relieved from duty in .................................................. 1085
Suter, Charles R. Mentioned .......................................... 985

Suydam, Charles C. For correspondence as A. A. G., see Erasmus D. Keyes.

Swann, Thomas, Steamer. Mentioned .................................. 624
Sweet, Edwin J. Mentioned ........................................... 1278
Sweet, Horace. Mentioned ............................................. 1277

Sweitzer, Jacob B.
Assignment to command .................................................. 947
Mentioned ....................................................... 947

Sweitzer, Nelson B. Mentioned ........................................ 1132

INDEX.

Swigart, Joseph R. For correspondence as A. A. A. G., see James Shields. 134

Swindler, Aylett A. Mentioned 491, 1152

Sykes, George.
Assignments to duty 1062, 1065, 1105, 1118

Correspondence with
Ayres, Romeyn B 948–950, 957
Bartlett, Joseph J 1118, 1125, 1128
Butterfield, Daniel 322, 325
Crawford, Samuel W 1105
McCandless, William 800, 815, 826
McClellan, George B 1105
Martin, Augustus P 1105
Meade, George G 1044, 1046, 1053, 1070
Porter, Fitz John 635, 700, 718, 721, 758, 905, 919, 933, 945

Relieved from duty with Army of the Potomac 1152

Sylois, James. Mentioned 1276

Symington, John.
Correspondence with
Army Headquarters 357
Porter, Fitz John 353, 357

Mentioned 374

Symonds, Henry C. Mentioned 396, 432

Taber, Emerson. Mentioned 68

Tafft, Henry S. Mentioned 556

Taggart, James. Mentioned 113

Taggart, James A. Mentioned 9

Talbot, Theodore. Mentioned 322, 325

For correspondence as A. A. G., see Charles F. Smith.

Taliaferro, William B. Mentioned 44

Taliaferro, William T. Mentioned 6

Talley, William C. Mentioned 143

Report of Maryland Campaign, Sept. 3–20, 1862 113

Tannatt, Thomas R. Mentioned 1042

Tappan, Mason W. Mentioned 429

Tapper, Thomas P. B. Reports of Maryland Campaign, Sept. 3–20, 1862 144, 145

Tarno, Henry. Mentioned 305

Taylor, Algernon S.
Correspondence with John Harris 313
Mentioned 312, 313

Taylor, Anna. Mentioned 685

Taylor, David. Mentioned 1279

Taylor, Gamaliel S. For correspondence as A. A. A. G., see George H. Chapman.

Taylor, George W.
Correspondence with Philip Kearny 506
Mentioned 50, 682

Report of Skirmish near Burke's Station, Va., Dec. 4, 1861 49
Index.

Taylor, James M. Mentioned ........................................ 33
Taylor, James T. Mentioned ........................................ 1279
Taylor, J. McLean. Mentioned ....................................... 1140
Taylor, John. Mentioned ........................................... 177
Taylor, John C. Mentioned .......................................... 1277
Taylor, Joseph H. Mentioned ....................................... 682
For correspondence as Chief of Staff, see Christopher C. Augur and Edwin V. Sumner.
Taylor, Joseph P. Mentioned ......................................... 1140
For correspondence, etc., see Subsistence Department, U. S. A.

Taylor, Nelson.
Assignment to command .............................................. 874
Correspondence with John F. Reynolds ............................ 955
Mentioned .................................................................. 874, 946
Report of battle of Fredericksburg, Va., Dec. 11–15, 1862 .......... 172

Taylor, Peter A. Correspondence with
Jerome, Aaron B ....................................................... 1121
Kilpatrick, Judson ................................................... 1099–1101
McClellan, George B .................................................. 886, 897
Meade, George G .................................................... 1123
Norton, Lemuel B ..................................................... 1089, 1100, 1101, 1108–1116, 1120–1126, 1128, 1129

Taylor, Tennessee Troops. Mentioned. (Confederate.)
Infantry—Regiments: 1st P. A., 719; 17th, 1190.

Tepe, Mary. Mentioned ............................................. 1276
Terrell, William H. H. Mentioned ................................ 386
Terrill, James B. Mentioned ....................................... 245
Terry, Adrian. Mentioned .......................................... 1235

Terry, Alfred H.
Correspondence with
Grant, U. S. ............................................................ 1200
Plaisted, Harris M ................................................... 1245
War Department, U. S. .............................................. 1199
Mentioned .............................................................. 1165, 1224, 1237–1239, 1241–1246
Reports of Ware Bottom Church, Va. Skirmish at, May 20, 1864 ............ 1235

Terry, Henry D.
Assignment to command ............................................... 1083
Mentioned .............................................................. 1083, 1122

Terry, William R.
Mentioned ............................................................. 1235, 136
Report of battle of Fredericksburg, Va., Dec. 11–15, 1862 ....... 174

Terwilliger, James N. Mentioned .................................. 1277
Terwilliger, William H. Mentioned ................................ 302

Tew, George W. Mentioned ....................................... 310
Thayer, Charles. Mentioned ........................................ 1280
Thelikuhl, Ferd. Mentioned ....................................... 276
Thoburn, Joseph. Mentioned ...................................... 1141
Thom, William H. Mentioned ...................................... 71
Thomas, Mentioned .................................................. 602
INDEX.

Thomas, Charles.
Correspondence with
Army Headquarters .................................................. 357, 366
Porter, Fitz John ....................................................... 353, 357
Mentioned .............................................................. 348, 356

Thomas, Charles W. Correspondence with Daniel H. Rucker .......... 757
Thomas, Daniel G. Mentioned .......................................... 1094

Thomas, Edward L.
Mentioned .................................................................... 117
Report of Seven Days' Battles, June 25–July 1, 1862 .......... 117

Thomas, George H.
Assignment to duty ......................................................... 455

Correspondence with
Army Headquarters .................................................. 354
Patterson, Robert ....................................................... 392
Porter, Andrew .......................................................... 356
Porter, Fitz John ......................................................... 349, 355–358
Smith, Francis H ........................................................ 311
Virginia, Governor of ............................................... 317
Relieved from duty in Department of the Shenandoah ........ 461

Thomas, Jacob N. Mentioned ........................................... 141

For correspondence as A. A. G., see Army Headquarters; also Adjutant-General's Office, U. S. A.

Thomas, Thomas C. Mentioned ........................................ 638
Thomas, William. Mentioned ......................................... 1279

Thomas Swann, Steamer. Mentioned ................................ 624

Thompson, Ambrose. Mentioned ...................................... 75, 521

Thompson, Chauncey H. Mentioned .................................. 9

Thompson, James. (Battery C, Pennsylvania Volunteers.) Reports of Cedar Mountain, Va. Battle of, Aug. 9, 1862 ....................... 120
Maryland Campaign, Sept. 3–20, 1862 ................................. 139

Thompson, James. (2d U.S. Artillery.)
Mentioned ................................................................. 117
Report of Seven Days' Battles, June 25–July 1, 1862 .......... 116

Thompson, James F. Mentioned ....................................... 1240
Thompson, John. Mentioned ........................................ 1167
Thompson, Lucian D. Mentioned ..................................... 283
Thompson, William S. Mentioned ..................................... 1022
Thompson, W. F. Mentioned ........................................... 1279

Thomson, J. Edgar.
Correspondence with War Department, U. S. ....................... 327
Mentioned ................................................................. 336

Thorburn, Charles H. Mentioned .................................... 41, 42
Thornton, Francis. Mentioned ......................................... 1226, 1227
Thornton, William A. Mentioned ..................................... 354

Thrall, Henry. Mentioned ............................................... 469
Throop, William A. Mentioned ....................................... 1183
Tibbitts, William H. Mentioned ...................................... 1201
Tidball, John C. Mentioned ........................................... 722, 1206
<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Name</th>
<th>Mentioned</th>
<th>Page</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Tilden, Charles W.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>1276, 1277</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Report of Richmond, Va., Campaign, Jan. 1–April 3, 1865</td>
<td>287</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Tilden</td>
<td></td>
<td>288</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Tilghman, James</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>504</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Tillinghast, Otis H.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>19, 306, 413</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Tillotson, Charles W.</td>
<td>Report of battle of Roanoke Island, N. C., Feb. 8, 1862</td>
<td>57</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Tillon</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>121, 606, 752</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Timmons, Daniel R.</td>
<td>Report of operations in Shenandoah Valley, Va., May 15–June 17, 1862</td>
<td>95</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Timmons, J. G.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>192</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Tioga, U. S.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>732</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Tippin, Andrew H.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>1276, 1277</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Report of campaign from the Rapidan to James River, Va., May 12, 1864; and operations to June 30, 1864</td>
<td>242</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Titan</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>1150, 1151</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Tod, David</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>1099</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Todd, Charles D.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>1189</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Todd, Lemuel</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>110, 111</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Report of Seven Days' Battles, June 25–July 1, 1862</td>
<td>110</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Todd's Tavern, Va.</td>
<td>Combat at, May —, 1864. See Wilderness, Va.</td>
<td>110</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Toiles, Cornelius W.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>466, 628, 806</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Tomlinson, Abia A.</td>
<td>Correspondence with William R. Brown</td>
<td>1140</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Tompkins, Charles H. (Assistant Quartermaster.)</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>1097</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Tompkins, Charles H. (1st Rhode Island Artillery.)</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>182, 429, 975, 1077, 1080, 1149, 1150, 1257</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Tompkins, Daniel D.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>328</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Tompkins, John A.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>528</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Toombs, Robert</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>161, 163, 164, 166, 167, 173</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Toothacher, John A.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>1279</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Torbert, Alfred T. A.</td>
<td>Assignment to command</td>
<td>983</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Correspondence with War Department, U. S.</td>
<td>1199</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>248, 249, 257, 983</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Torbert, William P. A.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>1073</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>For correspondence as A. A. A. G., see William H. French</td>
<td>1073</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Torpy, William</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>1281</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Torre, Robert H.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>987</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Torrence, Hugh A.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>153</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Totman, John F.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>234</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Totten, Enoch</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>183</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Toucey, Isaac</td>
<td>For correspondence, etc., see Navy Department, U. S.</td>
<td>183</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Tower, Levi</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>19</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Tower, Reuben</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>1280</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Tower, Zealous B.</td>
<td>Assignment to command</td>
<td>683</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Correspondence with Irvin McDowell</td>
<td>744</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>141, 143, 683</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Townsend, Edward D.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>407, 424, 463</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>For correspondence as A. A. G., see Adjutant-General's Office, U. S. A., and Army Headquarters.</td>
<td>407, 424, 463</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Townsend, Frederick</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>1230</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Townsend, George M.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>285</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>
INDEX.

Townsend, John F. Mentioned ............................................. 298
Townson, James E. Mentioned ........................................... 33
Tracy, Albert. Mentioned ................................................. 564
Tracy, Benjamin F. Correspondence with John E. Wool .................. 882
Trade and Intercourse. Communications from John A. Dix ............ 428, 431, 442
Transportation. (Army.) See Munitions of War.
Transportation. (Railroad and Water.) Communications from Devereux, John H .......................................................... 664
Garrett, John W ............................................................ 637, 658, 685
Haupt, Hermann .............................................................. 636, 867
Kelley, Benjamin F .......................................................... 659
McDowell, Irvin ............................................................... 569, 574, 578, 621
Miles, Dixon S ................................................................. 661
Scott, Thomas A ............................................................... 332
Thomson, J. Edgar ............................................................ 327
Tucker, John ................................................................. 600
War Department, U. S ....................................................... 327, 623
Traver, George. Mentioned ............................................... 1278
Travers, George W. Mentioned ............................................. 1166 Treasury Department, U. S. Correspondence with Barstow, Simon F ............................................................. 546
Dix, John A ................................................................. 428, 412
Treat, Richard B. Mentioned ............................................... 465
Tredway, William M. For correspondence as Chairman, see Virginia Convention.
Tremlett, Henry M. Mentioned ............................................ 286, 287
Report of Richmond, Va., Campaign, Jan. 1-April 3, 1865 .............. 289
Trumble, Isaac R. Mentioned ............................................... 1015
Tripler, Charles S. Mentioned ............................................ 398, 401, 428, 444, 446
Tripp, Porter D. Mentioned ............................................... 235
Trueett, P. F. Mentioned .................................................... 188
Trueworthy, B. T. Mentioned ............................................. 1280
Trux, William S. Correspondence with Briggs, Henry S ............................................................. 1012
Schenck, Robert C ........................................................... 907, 969, 1012, 1013, 1059
Wool, John E ................................................................. 788
Mentioned ................................................................. 968, 975, 1193
Truman, Lucius. Mentioned ............................................... 156
Trumbull, Thomas S. Mentioned .......................................... 1236
Tubman, Albert M. Mentioned ............................................. 135
Tucker, ——. Mentioned ..................................................... 48
Tucker, James. Mentioned .................................................. 1263
Tucker, John. Correspondence with
Army Headquarters .......................................................... 746, 757
War Department, U. S ...................................................... 570, 509, 600, 605, 623
Mentioned ................................................................. 551
Tucker, Louis N. Mentioned ............................................... 950
Turner, John W. Correspondence with
Curtis, N. Martin ............................................................ 1169
Voris, Alvin C ................................................................. 1167
Mentioned ................................................................. 1163, 1164, 1209, 1232, 1242, 1244, 1251, 1253
Turner, S. Mentioned ....................................................... 227
Turner, Smith S. Mentioned ........................................ 135, 169
Turner's Pass, Md. Battle of, Sept. 14, 1862. See South Mountain, Md. ........................................ 349, 368
Turnley, Parmenas T. Mentioned ........................................ 1060
Tyler, Burr. Mentioned ........................................ 1060
Tyler, Daniel.
Assignments to command ........................................ 389, 396
Correspondence with Robert C. Schenck ........................................ 1053
Mentioned ........................................ 17, 347, 389, 396, 410, 411, 413, 418, 1054, 1057, 1059
Staff. Announcement of ........................................ 410
Tyler, Erastus B.
Assignment to command ........................................ 1217
Correspondence with
Gilpin, Charles ........................................ 1171, 1172
McClellan, George B ........................................ 786, 797
Rosecrans, William S ........................................ 444
Wallace, Low ........................................ 1171, 1174, 1176
Yellott, John I ........................................ 1171
Mentioned ........................................ 189, 258, 450, 452–454, 457, 459, 460, 463, 482, 526, 544, 545, 563, 707, 708, 710, 729, 776, 792, 793, 799, 825, 832, 919, 924, 928, 1175, 1217
Tyler, Francis E. Mentioned ........................................ 202, 204
Tyler, Robert O.
Assignments to command ........................................ 791, 1007, 1135
Correspondence with George B. McClellan ........................................ 776, 781
Mentioned ........................................ 625, 626, 632, 633, 701, 702, 722, 768, 776, 781, 792, 971, 973, 1007, 1009, 1111, 1127, 1134, 1135, 1165
Tyman, Charles. Mentioned ........................................ 59
Tyndale, Hector. Mentioned ........................................ 1074, 1075
Tyrer, Theodore. Report of Richmond, Va., Campaign, Jan. 1–April 3, 1865 ........................................ 302
Uffendill, Isaiah. Mentioned ........................................ 638
Uncapher, Israel. Mentioned ........................................ 141
Union Troops.
Casualties. Returns of.
Bull Run, Va. Battle of, July 21, 1861 ........................................ 17–19
Cold Harbor, Va. Battle of, June 1–3, 1864 ........................................ 1267
Petersburg Lines. Assaults on, June 15–18, 1864 ........................................ 1256, 1258
Richmond, Va., Campaign, June 13–July 31, 1864 ........................................ 299
Mentioned.
Colored.
Artillery, Light—Regiments: 2d (Batteries), B, 264, 266.
Cavalry—Regiments: 1st, 2d, 1147.
Infantry—Regiments: 1st, 264, 267, 1288; 4th, 264–269; 5th, 210, 264–269; 6th, 265–269; 7th, 9th, 1146; 22d, 265–269.
Regulars.
Artillery, Light—Batteries: West Point, 312, 314, 316, 343. Regiments: 1st (Batteries), D, 314, 316, 325, 1233, 1234; E, 116, 404, 420, 429, 458, 528; G, 528; I, 18, 21, 314, 316, 343, 414, 439, 467; K, 528; M, 1232, 1243; 2d (Batteries), A, 314, 316, 434, 528; B, 528, 786; D, 18, 66, 414, 766, 975; E, 17, 314, 316, 324, 335, 343, 413, 528, 745, 900; G, 19, 116, 414, 434, 435; H, 314, 316; I, 405; K, 314, 316; L, 528, 786; M, 17, 137–139, 189, 435, 528, 786, 916; 3d (Batteries), C, 138, 528; E, 17, 331, 347, 360, 362, 414, 434, 493; F, 528; G, 138; K, 528; L, M, 528, 900; 4th (Batteries), E, 68; E, 385; F, 120, 121, 332, 343, 420, 429, 528, 534, 669; G, 14, 385, 528; I, 385, 471, 508; K, 405, 528; L, 58, 547; 5th (Batteries), A, 528; C, 109, 110, 114–116, 126, 144, 150, 528; D, 18, 23, 171, 414, 565; E, 242; F, 196; I, K, 528; L, 987, 989; M, 283.
INDEX.

Union Troops—Continued.

Mentioned.

Regulars.

Cavalry—Regiments: 1st, 18, 381, 559, 848; 2d, 18, 343, 347, 349, 355–358, 400, 413, 414, 428, 434, 435, 467, 716, 763, 766; 4th, 716, 775; 5th, 170, 538, 724, 860; 6th, 538, 632, 635, 740, 830, 848, 878, 881.

Dragoons—Regiments: 2d, 18.

Engineers—Battalions: Harwood's, 274.

Infantry—Regiments: 1st, 325, 332, 343, 373; 2d, 18, 219, 220, 381, 398, 414, 425; 3d, 18, 312, 398, 414; 4th, 130; 8th, 18, 414; 12th, 656.

Volunteers.

Infantry—Regiments: 1st Sharpshooters, 80, 476, 565, 644, 656; 2d Sharpshooters, 974.

For other Volunteers, see respective States.

Organization, strength, etc.

- Annapolis, Department of ........................................ 405
- North Carolina, Department of .................................. 726, 727
- Northeastern Virginia, Department of ........................... 413, 414
- Ohio, Department of ............................................ 471
- Pennsylvania, Department of .................................... 397, 398, 406, 415, 416
- Potomac, Army of the ......................................... 258, 488, 489, 528
- Potomac, Military Division of the ................................ 434, 435
- Shenandoah, Department of the .................................. 428, 429
- Washington, Department of ..................................... 343, 344, 409, 410

Upton, Emory.

- Mentioned ......................................................... 1119, 1178
- Staff, Announcement of ......................................... 1178

Urban, Gustavus. Mentioned ...................................... 482, 674

Valentine, J. B. Mentioned ..................................... 482, 674

Van Alen, James H. Mentioned .................................. 558, 748, 770, 1009

For correspondence as A. D. C., see Joseph Hooker.

Van Auken, Daniel. Mentioned ................................ 57

Van Brocklin, Martin. Mentioned ................................ 274, 275

Van Buren, Daniel T. For correspondence as A. A. G., see John A. Dix.

Van Buren, James Lyman. Mentioned ............................ 1188

Van Buren, Thomas B. Mentioned ................................ 123

Vanderbilt, Cornelius. Mentioned ............................... 562

Van Dusen, Charles A. Mentioned ................................ 1279

Van Dusen, James E. Mentioned ................................ 1280

Van Rensselaer, Henry. Mentioned ............................. 64, 67, 70, 71, 74, 76, 718

Van Rensselaer, Walter A. Report of campaign from the Rapidan to James River, Va., May 4–June 12, 1864, and operations to July 30, 1864. ........................................ 237

Van Vliet, Stewart.

- Correspondence with Daniel H. Rucker ................................ 604
- Mentioned ......................................................... 428, 530, 541, 600, 659, 715

Van Went, Edwin. Mentioned .................................... 1280

Vaughan Road, Va. Battle of, Feb. 5–7, 1865. See reports of Baxter, p. 286; Tilden, p. 288.

Vaughn, Augustus D. Mentioned ................................ 1240

Vaughn, Thomas F. Mentioned .................................. 46, 48

Veale, Moses. Mentioned ........................................ 123

Vegesack, Ernest von. Mentioned ................................ 728

Verdi, Tullio S. Mentioned ..................................... 392

Vermont. Military Department embracing .......................... 491
Vermont Troops. Mentioned.

Artillery—Heavy—Regiments: 1st*, 805, 813, 1009, 1163.
Cavalry—Regiments: 1st, 558, 563, 894.
Infantry—Regiments: 1st, 3–5; 2d, 18, 414, 435, 489; 3d, 435, 489, 671, 688; 4th, 5th, 489; 9th, 1186; 10th, 283, 284, 878, 879, 1002; 12th, 13th, 14th, 15th, 16th, 901, 1002.

Viele, Egbert L.
Assignments to command ........................... 472, 613
Assumes command of U.S. troops at Norfolk and Portsmouth, Va. 613
Mentioned ........................................ 472, 613

Villasana, Frank P. Mentioned ....................... 224

Vincent, Strong. Mentioned ......................... 950, 1045, 1048
Vincent, Thomas M. Mentioned ..................... 416, 425
Vinton, Francis L. Mentioned ....................... 1024

Virginia, C. S. S. (U. S. Frigate Merrimac.)
Destruction of, measures for. Communication from Quartermaster-General's Office, U.S.A. ................................................. 548
Mentioned ........................................... 58, 59, 73, 548, 549, 569, 573, 600
Operations of. Communication from George B. McClellan .................. 549

Virginia.
Affairs in, generally.
Communications from
McDowell, Irvin .................................. 597
Pinkerton, Allan .................................. 693
Statement of Charles Rian ........................ 693

Movement of troops into, etc. Communications from Virginia Convention ................................ 315
War Department, U.S. .............................. 315

Operations in.
Jan. 1–April 30, 1864. Communications from
Buford, John ..................................... 1121
Castle, Davis E .................................. 1125
Clarke, George J .................................. 1102
Clendenin, David R ................................. 1132
Crawford, Samuel W ............................... 1084
French, William H ................................. 1088, 1099, 1104, 1107–1112, 1127, 1130, 1131
Gregg, David McM ................................ 1113–1115, 1117
Gibbs, Alfred .................................... 1132, 1133
Howard, Oliver O ................................. 1090–1092
Kilpatrick, Judson ................................ 1086
Meade, George G ................................. 1092, 1101–1107, 1109, 1111, 1119
Newton, John .................................... 1089, 1102, 1106, 1108, 1115, 1120, 1126, 1135
Norton, Lemuel B ................................. 1101, 1112, 1113, 1116, 1129
Pleasonton, Alfred ................................ 1088, 1114, 1116, 1117
Robinson, John C ................................ 1103, 1104
Sedgwick, John ................................... 1105–1107, 1118–1120, 1122
Spaulding, Ira .................................... 1120
Sykes, George .................................... 1118, 1125, 1128
Taylor, Peter A ................................. 1089, 1099–1101, 1108–1116, 1120–1126, 1128, 1129

* Also called 11th Vermont.
INDEX.

Virginia—Continued.

Operations in.

Jan. 1–April 30, 1864. Communications from
Gregg, David McM .................................................. 1159
Heckman, Charles A ............................................. 1147, 1148
Heintzelman, Samuel P ........................................... 1287
Kerwin, Michael .................................................... 1116
Newton, John ....................................................... 1142
Pleasanton, Alfred ................................................ 1140
Sedgwick, John ..................................................... 1142, 1148–1150
Warren, Gouverneur K ........................................... 1143, 1145
West, Robert M ..................................................... 1282
Wistar, Isaac J ...................................................... 1145, 1154, 1155, 1282

Relief of destitute citizens of. Communication from James C. Rice ........................................... 1137

Transfer of arms, etc., from. Communications from Keyes, Erasmus D .................................................... 318
McCue, J. M .......................................................... 319
Segar, Joseph ......................................................... 318

Virginia, Army of. (Union.)

Cox, Jacob D., transfers command of District of the Kanawha to Joseph
A. J. Lightburn ..................................................... 742

Orders, General, series 1862—Cox: No. 1, 754; No. 31, 742. Kearny: No.
44, 748. King: No. 64, 718.

Orders, Special, series 1862—Pope: No. 11, 720; No. 24, 728; Nos. 25, 26, 32, 729; No. 34, 730; No. 35, 732. Cox: No. 150, 738.

Re-enforcements for. Communications from
Burnside, Ambrose E .............................................. 737, 745
War Department, U. S. ............................................ 754
Roberts, Benjamin S., assigned as chief of cavalry .............................................. 729
Sigel, Franz, assigned to command of 1st Army Corps ............................................. 710

Virginia Convention.

Correspondence with War Department, U. S. ............................................. 315
Resolution of ................................. 315

Virginia, Department of. (Union.)

Affairs in, generally. Communications from Benjamin F. Butler ........... 446, 449

Orders, General, series 1861—Butler: No. 10, 407. Wool: No. 15, 488;
No. 24, 497.

Orders, General, series 1862—Wool: No. 1, 613; No. 13, 547; No. 23, 555.
Viele: No. 1, 613.

Orders, Special, series 1861—Wool: No. 41, 480; No. 108, 506; No. 109, 507.

Orders, Special, series 1862—Wool: No. 120, 613. Dix: No. 108, 860; No.
122, 876.

Phelps, John W.
Assigned to duty in ................. 455
Relieved from duty in ............... 506

Viele, Egbert L. Assumes command of U. S. troops at Norfolk and Ports mouth, Va ..................................................... 613

Virginia, Eastern Shore.

Confiscation, etc., on. Communication from John A. Dix ......................................... 505
Operations on. Communication from John A. Dix ............................................. 518
Raid on, March 5, 1864. Communication from William Webster .................................. 1150

Virginia, Governor of. Correspondence with George H. Thomas ................................. 317 Virginia, Northern.

Campaign in, Aug. 16–Sept. 2, 1862. Communications from

- Burnside, Ambrose E ........................................ 759
- Cox, Jacob D .................................................. 777
- Haupt, Hermann ............................................... 769
- Kearny, Philip ................................................ 760, 762
- McClellan, George B ........................................... 767, 769, 770, 774, 775, 777–781
- McDowell, Irvin ............................................... 741, 743, 744, 747, 752
- McKeever, Chauncey .......................................... 756
- Mansfield, Joseph K. F ........................................ 742
- Miles, Dixon S ................................................ 772
- Pope, John ...................................................... 771
- Porter, Fitz John .............................................. 755, 758, 761, 763
- Reno, Jesse L .................................................. 745, 746, 749–751
- Sturgis, Samuel D ............................................. 755
- Williams, Seth .................................................. 776

Operations in.

Aug. 1, 1861–March 17, 1862. Communications from

- Kearny, Philip ................................................. 506, 550
- McClellan, George B ........................................... 526, 549–551

March 17–Sept. 2, 1862. Communications from

- Abercrombie, John J ......................................... 576
- Banks, Nathaniel P ........................................... 563, 607, 676, 682
- Blenker, Louis ................................................ 572
- Geary, John W .................................................. 590, 596, 617
- Hartzuff, George L ........................................... 598
- King, Rufus .................................................... 662
- Lincoln, Abraham ............................................. 674
- McClellan, George B ........................................... 561–563
- McDowell, Irvin ............................................... 567, 575–577, 579, 589, 605, 625, 631, 635, 639–643, 668, 672, 727, 731, 733, 735
- Miles, Dixon S .................................................. 640, 656, 659, 665, 723
- Pope, John ...................................................... 726, 730
- Schriver, Edmund ............................................. 583, 664, 671, 672
- Shields, James ............................................... 614
- Sumner, Edwin V .............................................. 560
- War Department, U. S ........................................ 589, 591, 628, 642

Sept. 3–Nov. 14, 1862. Communications from

- Franklin, William B .......................................... 901, 942
- Pleasonton, Alfred .......................................... 916, 917, 921
- Reno, Jesse L ................................................... 896, 898, 899
- Reynolds, John F ............................................. 901, 902, 904–910, 912–914, 919, 920, 923, 924, 928, 929, 932, 933, 939, 941, 942
- Wilcox, Orlando B ........................................... 899, 900, 902, 914, 915, 943, 944

Nov. 15, 1862–Jan. 25, 1863. Communications from

- Burnside, Ambrose E ........................................ 953
- Butterfield, Daniel .......................................... 947–950, 959
- Candy, Charles ................................................ 978
- Comstock, Cyrus B ............................................ 952, 954, 956
- Franklin, William B .......................................... 973
- Heintzelman, Samuel P ..................................... 961
- Meysenburg, Theodore A .................................... 965
INDEX.

Virginia, Northern—Continued.

Operations in.

Nov. 15, 1862–Jan. 25, 1863. Communications from

Reynolds, John F. .................................................. 946, 949, 953–956
Sigel, Franz .......................................................... 958, 960
Stahel, Julius ....................................................... 954, 956
Stoneman, George ................................................. 947

Jan. 26–June 3, 1863. Communications from

Comstock, Cyrus B. ............................................. 980, 982, 984, 1003
Heintzelman, Samuel P ........................................ 1041
Hooker, Joseph .................................................... 993
Mann, William D. ............................................... 1042
Schenck, Robert C ............................................. 996, 997, 1011, 1041
Sickles, Daniel E ................................................ 988, 993, 999
Sigel, Franz ......................................................... 982
Wadsworth, James S ............................................ 995

June 3–Aug. 3, 1863. Communications from

Barnes, James ................................................. 1045
Birney, David B. ............................................... 1051, 1053, 1060
Hancock, Winfield S. ........................................ 1060
Hooker, Joseph .................................................... 1015, 1046, 1050, 1053
Howard, Oliver O ............................................... 1061, 1083
Newton John ................................................... 1049
Pleasanton, Alfred ............................................. 1064
Reynolds, John F ................................................ 1054, 1056

May 1–Aug. 3, 1864. Communication from Christopher C. Augur .......................... 1165

Virginia Troops. Mentioned. (Confederate.)

Artillery, Light—Batteries: Beckham's, 38; Blount's, 273; Eubank's, 162; Fauquier, 86, 87; Latham, 27–30, 32, 86–90; Letcher, 73, 75; Loudoun, 27–29, 32, 135; Parker's, 190, 191; Richmond Fayette, 85–87, 89; Richmond Howitzers (Companies), 1st, 88; 2d, 86; 3d, 34, 35; Rockbridge, 34–36; Staunton, 29; Stuart Horse, 89; Surry, 228; Williamsburg, 85, 88; Wise (Alburtis), 34, 35.

Cavalry—Batteries: 1st* (Lee's Legion), 7; 2d, 671; 42d, 1283; 43d, 217–221, 1061, 1063, 1086, 1087; Loudoun, 928. Companies: Kincheloe's, 217–219. Regiments: 1st, 38, 899; 2d, 32, 1133; 3d, 899; 4th, 119, 217–220, 694, 899; 5th, 863, 899, 970; 6th, 49, 50, 209, 220; 7th, 220; 9th, 55, 585, 899; 10th, 55; 12th, 772, 773, 1069; 13th, 1159; 15th, 220, 926; 16th, 1139.

Infantry—Batteries: 9th (Hansbrough), 581; 25th (City), 1282. Companies: Flat Top Copperheads (Foley), 599, 602. Regiments: 1st, 27, 32, 33, 92, 133, 174; 7th, 134, 136; 8th, 27, 29, 32; 11th, 134, 169; 17th, 33, 34, 134, 135, 169; 18th, 26, 29, 31, 32; 19th, 26, 27, 29–32; 22d, 609; 23d, 43; 24th, 134–136, 174, 175; 25th, 44; 26th, 1247; 28th, 26, 29–32, 93, 94; 30th, 7; 31st, 32d, 581; 33d, 606; 35th, 863; 36th, 608, 609, 1226; 44th, 44, 45; 45th, 594, 595, 601–603, 606, 608, 609; 46th, 272, 273; 49th, 27–29, 31, 32; 50th, 41, 42; 56th, 169; 58th, 581.

Virginia Troops. Mentioned. (Union.)

Cavalry—Batteries: Loudoun Rangers, 177, 764–766, 772, 773, 781, 914, 996.

Virginia and North Carolina, Department of. (Union.)

Hinks, Edward W., assigned to command of District of Saint Mary's .......... 1154
Marston, Gilman, relieved from command of District of Saint Mary's .......... 1154

Orders, General, series 1864—Smith: No. 1, 1158.

* Merged into 9th Cavalry.
<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Name</th>
<th>Mentioned/Correspondence</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Walker, Aldace F.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Walker, Benjamin F.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Walker, Elijah.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Walker, Francis A.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Walker, Henry H.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Walker, James A.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Walker, John G.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Walker, Joseph.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Walker, Robert C.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Walker, William A.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Walker, William S.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Vooris, Alvin C.</td>
<td>Correspondence with John W. Turner</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Voss, Arno.</td>
<td>Correspondence with John E. Wool</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Voss, Gustavus.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Wadeleigh, Andre J.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Wadsworth, Craig W.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Wadsworth, James S.</td>
<td>Assignments to command</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Assumes command of 1st Division, 1st Army Corps</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Correspondence with George B. McClellan</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Wainwright, Charles S.</td>
<td>Assignment to command</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Reassumes command of 1st Division, 1st Army Corps</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Relieved from duty with brigade, Army of the Potomac</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Staff, Announcement of</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Wagner, Orlando G.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Walden, C. R.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Wales, Elijah.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Walker, Aldace F.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Walker, Benjamin F.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Walker, Elijah.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Walker, Francis A.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Virginia and North Carolina, Department of.</td>
<td>(Union.)—Continued.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Communications from Eliakim P. Scammon</td>
<td>1133–1135</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>
INDEX

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Name</th>
<th>Mentioned</th>
<th>Page</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Wallace, James</td>
<td></td>
<td>451</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Wallace, John M.</td>
<td></td>
<td>429</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Wallace, Lew</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Correspondence with</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Cadwalader, George</td>
<td></td>
<td>402</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Catlin, Lynde</td>
<td></td>
<td>1174</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Clendenin, David R</td>
<td></td>
<td>1172, 1173, 1175</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Gilpin, Charles</td>
<td></td>
<td>1172</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Patterson, Robert</td>
<td></td>
<td>399, 403</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Ricketta, James B</td>
<td></td>
<td>1175–1177</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Tyler, Erastus B</td>
<td></td>
<td>1171, 1174, 1176</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Yellott, John I</td>
<td></td>
<td>1170, 1171, 1173</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td></td>
<td>400, 423, 1152, 1170, 1172, 1175, 1176</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Wallace, Sidney H.</td>
<td></td>
<td>135</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Wallace, William</td>
<td></td>
<td>1265</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Walls, J. W.</td>
<td></td>
<td>95</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Walsh, James W.</td>
<td></td>
<td>239</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Walsh, Joseph</td>
<td></td>
<td>1278</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Walton, E. F.</td>
<td></td>
<td>789</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Walton, James B.</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td></td>
<td>34, 193</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Report of Chancellorsville, Va., Campaign, April 27–May 6, 1863</td>
<td></td>
<td>189</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Walton, Thomas</td>
<td></td>
<td>1278</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Ward, Colonel</td>
<td></td>
<td>600</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Ward, Charles G.</td>
<td></td>
<td>1216</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Ward, George H.</td>
<td></td>
<td>498</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Ward, George T.</td>
<td></td>
<td>94</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Ward, Isaac M.</td>
<td></td>
<td>741</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Ward, J. H. Hobart.</td>
<td>Assignment to command</td>
<td>951</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Correspondence with David B. Birney</td>
<td></td>
<td>1044, 1071</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td></td>
<td>106, 201, 648, 951, 1063, 1081, 1144, 1278, 1279</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Ward, William G.</td>
<td>Correspondence with Adjutant-General’s Office, U. S. A.</td>
<td>761</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>War Department, U. S.</td>
<td>Correspondence with</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Army Headquarters</td>
<td></td>
<td>312, 317, 321, 382, 491, 496, 1000</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Augur, Christopher C.</td>
<td></td>
<td>1186</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Banks, Nathaniel P</td>
<td></td>
<td>568, 569, 585, 605, 610, 619, 623, 676, 692, 706, 710</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Berrian, Hobart</td>
<td></td>
<td>320</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Blair, Frank P., jr.</td>
<td></td>
<td>350</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Blenker, Louis</td>
<td></td>
<td>572, 575</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Buchanan, James</td>
<td></td>
<td>436</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Burnside, Ambrose E.</td>
<td></td>
<td>607, 673, 676, 680, 696, 724</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Butterfield, Daniel</td>
<td></td>
<td>959</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Cameron, James Donald</td>
<td></td>
<td>328</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Clark, John S.</td>
<td></td>
<td>640</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Congress, U. S.</td>
<td></td>
<td>435, 510, 517</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Couch, Darius N</td>
<td></td>
<td>1059</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Cox, Jacob D.</td>
<td></td>
<td>754</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Crawford, Samuel W.</td>
<td></td>
<td>689</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Custer, George A.</td>
<td></td>
<td>1199</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Dix, John A.</td>
<td></td>
<td>378, 381, 382, 674, 709, 717, 725, 1007</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Name</td>
<td>Page</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>---------------------------</td>
<td>------</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>War Department, U. S.</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Correspondence with</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Du Pont, Henry</td>
<td>328</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Duryea, Abram</td>
<td>636</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Felton, Samuel M</td>
<td>336</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Forney, John W</td>
<td>813</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Franklin, William B</td>
<td>571, 717</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Frémont, John C</td>
<td>564, 566, 581, 584, 592, 616, 697, 703, 706</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Garrett, John W</td>
<td>531, 637, 658, 685, 840, 841</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Halleck, Henry W</td>
<td>1062</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Hamilton, Charles S</td>
<td>643</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Hancock, Winfield S</td>
<td>1151</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Hartsoe, George L</td>
<td>590, 598, 607, 612, 673</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Haskin, John B</td>
<td>328</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Haupt, Hermann</td>
<td>599, 636</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Heintzelman, Samuel P</td>
<td>716</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Howard, Oliver O</td>
<td>1049</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Hunt, Henry J</td>
<td>311</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Kelley, Benjamin F</td>
<td>659, 662, 665, 711</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Keyes, Erasmus D</td>
<td>716</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>King, Rufus</td>
<td>639, 702, 705, 707</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Koontz, George S</td>
<td>841, 845</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Lander, Frederick W</td>
<td>533</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>McClellan, George B</td>
<td>388, 511, 538, 551, 552, 554, 555, 557, 567, 570, 578, 614, 615, 645, 658, 660, 663, 673, 677, 686, 718</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>McCue, J. M</td>
<td>319</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>McDowell, Irvin</td>
<td>567, 569, 585, 597, 619, 621, 622, 626, 638, 640, 642</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>McMichael, Morton</td>
<td>813</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Mansfield, Joseph K. F</td>
<td>680</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Marcy, Randolph B</td>
<td>648</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Maryland, Governor of</td>
<td>317, 326, 451</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Meade, George G</td>
<td>1181</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Miles, Dixon S</td>
<td>640, 656, 661, 663, 669</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Myer, Albert J</td>
<td>596</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Navy Department, U. S.</td>
<td>312</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Nye, James W., et al</td>
<td>344</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Ohio, Governor of</td>
<td>337</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Ordnance Department, U. S. A</td>
<td>538</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Patterson, Robert</td>
<td>326, 340</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Peirpoint, Francis H</td>
<td>692</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Pennsylvania, Governor of</td>
<td>791, 821</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Piatt, A. Sanders</td>
<td>524</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Porter, David D</td>
<td>1199</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Porter, Fitz John</td>
<td>328, 348, 716</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Quartermaster-General's Office, U. S. A</td>
<td>628</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Rhode Island, Governor of</td>
<td>310, 311, 336, 342</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Rosecrans, William S</td>
<td>567, 574, 599, 608</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Saxton, Rufus</td>
<td>641–643, 648</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Schenck, Robert C</td>
<td>546, 547, 961, 966</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Scott, Thomas A</td>
<td>330, 332, 557, 812, 846</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Segar, Joseph</td>
<td>318</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Sheridan, Philip H</td>
<td>1199</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Shields, James</td>
<td>596, 598, 607, 614, 616</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Shoemaker, Samuel M</td>
<td>1068</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>
INDEX.

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>War Department, U. S.—Continued.</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Correspondence with</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Sigel, Franz</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Smith, William Prescott</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Sprague, William</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Springfield Armory, Superintendent of</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Stoneman, George</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Sumner, Edwin V</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Terry, Alfred H</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Thomson, J. Edgar</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Torbert, Alfred T. A</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Tucker, John</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Virginia Convention</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Watson, Peter H</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Webb, William B</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Webster, Thomas</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Weightman, R. C</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>White, Julius</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Wool, John E</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Orders, series 1862: March 18, 555.

| Wardlaw, Samuel. Mentioned         | 1276|
| Wardrop, David W. Mentioned        | 58  |
| Ware Bottom Church, Va. Skirmishes at. |
| May 9, 1864. See report of Voris, p. 1224. |
| May 20, 1864. Reports of           |
| Howell, Joshua B                   | 1237|
| Terry, Alfred H                    | 1235|

| Waring, J. Fred.                  |
| Mentioned                          | 50  |
| Report of skirmish near Burke's Station, Va., Dec. 4, 1861 | 49  |
| Warne, Eliha. Mentioned            | 1276|

| Warner, Adoniram J.               |
| Mentioned                          | 152, 774, 776 |
| Report of Maryland Campaign, Sept. 3-20, 1862 | 151  |

| Warner, Fred. R. Mentioned        | 8   |
| Warner, James M. Correspondence with Charles R. Lowell, jr | 1177|
| Warren, Charles. Mentioned        | 1210|
| Warren, Gouverneur K.             |
| Assignments to command            | 1084, 1139 |
| Correspondence with               |
| Hays, William                     | 1085 |
| Humphreys, Andrew A               | 1145 |
| Kilpatrick, Judson                | 1086 |
| Meade, George G                   | 1085, 1125|
| Parke, John G                     | 1202|
| Porter, Fitz John                 | 632 |
| Richardson, Hollon                | 1204|
| Report of engagement at Big Bethel, Va., June 10, 1861 | 1230|
| Warren, James M. Mentioned        | 94  |
| Washburn, Francis. Mentioned      | 264 |
| Washburn, Israel, jr. For correspondance, etc, see Maine, Governor of. |
<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Washburn, Peter T.</th>
<th>Mentioned</th>
<th>284</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Report of engagement at Big Bethel, Va., June 10, 1861</td>
<td>3</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Washington, George.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>430</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Washington, D. C.</td>
<td>Assembling of troops in</td>
<td>433, 436</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Communications from War Department, U. S.</td>
<td>312, 314, 404</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Defense of, measures for</td>
<td>510</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Communications from</td>
<td>320</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Army Headquarters</td>
<td>315, 316</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Barnard, John G</td>
<td>768</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Berrian, Hobart</td>
<td>320</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Brown, Harvey</td>
<td>320</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>McClellan, George B</td>
<td>335</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Paulding, Hiram</td>
<td>351</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Smith, Charles F</td>
<td>510</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>War Department, U. S</td>
<td>430</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Interruption of communication with</td>
<td>319</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Communications from</td>
<td>319</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Army Headquarters</td>
<td>330, 331</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Pennsylvania, Governor of</td>
<td>348</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>War Department, U. S</td>
<td>348</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Magruder, John B</td>
<td>359</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Assigned to command of troops in</td>
<td>359</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Assumes command of troops in</td>
<td>360, 362</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Officers and soldiers visiting, regulations for</td>
<td>363</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Communication from George B. McClellan</td>
<td>364</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Opening and securing route to</td>
<td>365</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Communications from</td>
<td>366</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Belger, James</td>
<td>367, 368</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Butler, Benjamin F</td>
<td>369</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Cameron, J. Donald</td>
<td>369</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Palmer, William J</td>
<td>370</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Patterson, Robert</td>
<td>370</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Porter, Fitz John</td>
<td>370</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>War Department, U. S</td>
<td>370</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Wright, John A</td>
<td>371</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Wynkoop, George C</td>
<td>371</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Assigned to command of troops in</td>
<td>430</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Assumes command of troops in</td>
<td>430</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Washington, D. C., Defenses of

| Banks, Nathaniel P. | assigned to temporary command of | 796 |
| Barnard, John G. | assumes command of | 751 |
| Bayard, George D. | assigned to command of cavalry south of the Potomac | 870 |
| Casey, Silas, assigned to command of division of | 901 |

| Orders, General, series 1862—Barnard | No. 1, 751; No. 6, 782 | 1007 |
| Orders, Special, series 1862—Banks | No. 3, 825; No. 4, 830; No. 7, 840; No. 15, 862; No. 18, 870; No. 30, 878; No. 34, 885; No. 37, 888; No. 38, 889; No. 47, 895. Barnard: No. 5, 776. Heintzelman: No. 49, 897; No. 50, 891; No. 53, 912; No. 81, 951; No. 86, 953; No. 101, 962; No. 110, 969. | 1007 |
| Orders, Special, series 1863—Heintzelman | No. 3, 970; No. 6, 971; No. 11, 972; No. 12, 973; No. 16, 975 | 1007 |

| Crawford, Samuel W., assigned to command of brigades in | 1043 |
INDEX.

Washington, Department of—Continued.

Limits extended ................................................................. 331

Orders, General, series 1861—C. F. Smith: No. 2, 322; Nos. 2, 3, 325; No.
4, 326; Nos. 5, 6, 329; No. 8, 341. Mansfield: Nos. 11, 12, 341;
No. 13, 343; No. 20, 372; No. 23, 377; No. 26, 382; No. 34, 434.

Orders, Special, series 1861—C. F. Smith: No. 2, 325; No. 12, 329; No. 16, 330; No. 19, 332; No. 22, 335; No. 32, 337. Mansfield: No. 34, 345; No. 35, 368; No. 40, 369; No. 43, 370; No. 75, 379; Nos.
106, 107, 389; No. 140, 399; No. 167, 409; No. 169, 410.

Orders, Special, series 1863—Heintzelman: No. 2, 985; No. 36, 994; No. 55, 1002; No. 57, 1006; No. 60, 1008; No. 64, 1009; No. 91, 1042; No. 99, 1043.

Orders, Special, series 1864—Augur: No. 171, 1177.

Patterson, Robert, assumes command of .................................. 331

Smith, Charles F.
  Assigned to command of ................................................................ 322
  Assumes command of ...................................................................... 322
  Relinquishes command of, to Joseph K. F. Mansfield .................. 341
  Stahel, Julius, assigned to command of division of ......................... 994

Union troops in. Organization, strength, etc.
  April 30, 1861 ........................................................................... 343, 344
  July 2, 1861 ................................................................................ 409
  July 3, 1861 ................................................................................ 410

Washington, N. C. Siege of, etc. March 30—April 20, 1863. Communication from Francis L. Lee ..................................................................... 1011

  Charles F. Smith .......................................................................... 335, 337

Waterford, Va. Skirmish at, Aug. 27, 1862. Communications from Bamford, Robert C ................................................................. 766
  Means, Samuel C. ..................................................................... 766
  Miles, Dixon S ........................................................................... 761

Waterhouse, John. Mentioned ........................................................ 1276

Waters, Nathaniel. Mentioned ...................................................... 1279

Waters, Patrick. Mentioned .......................................................... 1280

Watkins, Lientenant. Mentioned .................................................. 10

Watkins, Richard H. Mentioned .................................................. 172

Watkins House, Va. Action at, March 25, 1865. See reports of Church, Nathan, p. 297. ......................................................... 871
  Cook, Jervis D., p. 298. ............................................................... 562
  Crafts, Welcome A., p. 297. ....................................................... 562
  Egbert, George T., p. 300. ......................................................... 562
  Hamlin, James H., p. 304. ......................................................... 562
  Hamlink, Derrick F., p. 306. ....................................................... 562
  Hulser, Oscar F., p. 301. ......................................................... 562
  McIvor, James P., p. 306. ......................................................... 562
  Megrarw, David W., p. 304. ...................................................... 562
  Nugent, Robert, p. 301. ............................................................ 562
  Olmsted, William A., p. 306. .................................................... 562
  Rodgers, Thomas B., p. 300. ..................................................... 562
  Schaffer, George W., p. 298. .................................................... 562
  Scott, George W., p. 1227. ....................................................... 562
  Smyth, Thomas A., p. 307. ....................................................... 562
  Tyrer, Theodore, p. 302. .......................................................... 562
  Wilson, William, p. 299. .......................................................... 562

Watson, Alexander T. Mentioned ............................................... 562

Watson, Peter H.
  Correspondence with War Department, U. S ................................ 562
  For correspondence as Assistant Secretary, see War Department, T. S.
  Mentioned .................................................................................. 569, 717

Watts, Richard A. Mentioned ...................................................... 1189

Waugaman, Eli. Mentioned .......................................................... 154

  Communication from William R. Brown .................................... 1140
  Report of John S. Witcher ....................................................... 211

Wead, Frederick F. Mentioned .................................................... 1249
<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Name</th>
<th>Mentioned/Correspondence</th>
<th>Page(s)</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Weaver, Charles C.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>1276</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Weaver, Peter</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>1277</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Weaver, Virgil</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>249</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Webb, Alexander B.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>722, 768, 1143, 1182, 1207, 1220</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Weber, H. C.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>1278</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Weber, Max.</td>
<td>Assignment to command</td>
<td>613</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Correspondence with</td>
<td>833, 834</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>George B. McClellan</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>507, 613, 805, 832, 1178, 1179</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Webb, Charles A.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>5</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Webb, William A.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>1289</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Webb, William B.</td>
<td>Correspondence with</td>
<td>368</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>War Department, U. S.</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Weber, Max.</td>
<td>Correspondence with</td>
<td>426</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Army Headquarters</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>429</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Webster, Thomas.</td>
<td>Correspondence with</td>
<td>813</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>War Department, U. S.</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Webster, William.</td>
<td>Correspondence with</td>
<td>1150</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Benjamin F. Butler</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Weddle, George.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>1276</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Welch, James M.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>156</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Weld, Horace N.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>264</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Weld, Stephen M., jr.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>619, 933</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Wenning, D. A.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Wentworth, Harmon E.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Welsh, Charles A.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>804</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Welsh, Thomas.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>871</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Wendler, John.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>1279</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Weldon Railroad, Va.</td>
<td>Battle of, Aug. 18–21,</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>1864. See report of</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Batchelder, p. 257</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Wells, George D.</td>
<td>Correspondence with</td>
<td>514</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Robert Cowdin</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Wells, George D.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>1141</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Welch, Thomas.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>871</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Wendler, John.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>1279</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Wentworth, Harmon E.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>1281</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Werber, William.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>1276</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Wesilogh, George W.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>1280</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Wessells, Henry W.</td>
<td>Correspondence with</td>
<td>845</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Erasmus D. Keyes</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Welles, Gideon.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>320, 633</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>For correspondence, etc.,</td>
<td>see Navy Department, U.</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>S.</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Welch, James M.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Weld, Horace N.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Weld, Stephen M., jr.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Wendler, John.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Wentworth, Harmon E.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Werber, William.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Wesilogh, George W.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Wessells, Henry W.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>
INDEX.

West, Clement L. Mentioned ............................................ 757
West, George W. Mentioned ........................................... 233
West, Robert M.
Assignment to command .................................................. 1160
Correspondence with
Couch, Darius N ............................................................ 84
Keyes, Erasmus D ......................................................... 1068
Wistar, Isaac J .............................................................. 1282
Mentioned ............................................................... 84, 1004, 1052, 1160, 1224, 1233, 1282, 1286, 1289
Report of assaults on Petersburg Lines, June 15–18, 1864 ........ 1268
West, William A. Mentioned ............................................ 509
West, William H. Mentioned ............................................ 192
Western Department. (Union.)
Curtis, Samuel R., assigned to duty in ................................ 455
Grant, U. S., assigned to duty in ...................................... 455
Hurlbut, Stephen A., assigned to duty in ......................... 455
McClernand, John A., assigned to duty in ......................... 455
Pope, John, assigned to duty in ...................................... 455
Prentiss, Benjamin M., assigned to duty in ....................... 455
Sigel, Franz, assigned to duty in ..................................... 455
Western Virginia, Department of (Union.)
Cox, Jacob D., assumes command of District of the Kanawha .... 515
Milroy, Robert H., assigned to duty in ............................. 490
Orders, General, series 1861—Cox: No. 1, 515; No. 33, 510.
Orders, Special, series 1861—Rosecrans: No. 51, 508.
West Point, Va. Engagement at, May 7, 1862. Congratulatory Orders of William B. Franklin .................................................... 612
West Virginia. Operations in.
April 16–July 31, 1861. Communications from
   Army Headquarters ................................................... 379
   Cox, Jacob D .......................................................... 416, 418, 420, 425
   McClellan, George B ............................................... 377, 378, 380, 389–396
   Ohio, Governor of .................................................. 391
Aug. 1, 1861–March 17, 1862. Communications from
   Cox, Jacob D .......................................................... 439, 444–446, 448–450,
   452–454, 456, 457, 462–465, 467, 468, 470–474, 476–479, 481, 482, 484–488, 495
   McClellan, George B ................................................ 463
   Rosecrans, William S ................................................ 459, 460, 463, 465, 475, 483–487, 508, 513, 516, 527
   Tyler, Erastus B ........................................................ 441
March 17–Sept. 2, 1862. Communications from
   Cox, Jacob D .......................................................... 738
   Frémont, John C ....................................................... 506, 581, 584
   Hayes, Rutherford B ................................................ 594, 595, 599, 601, 602, 606, 608, 609, 611
   Kelley, Benjamin F .................................................. 662
   Scott, Jus. R ............................................................ 662
Nov. 15, 1862–Jan. 25, 1863. Communication from George Crook .. 951
Jan. 26–June 3, 1863. Communications from
   Hayes, Rutherford B .................................................. 1039
   Kelley, Benjamin F .................................................. 1019, 1035
   Scammon, Eliakim P ................................................ 1039
   Schenck, Robert C .................................................... 989, 997, 1012, 1013, 1015–1017, 1019, 1037–1039
   Stoneman, George .................................................. 1011
   June 3–Aug. 3, 1863. Communications from
   Hayes, Rutherford B .................................................. 1073
   Schenck, Robert C .................................................... 1057, 1058
Jan. 1–April 30, 1864. Communications from
Averell, William W .............................................. 1136, 1137
Hall, James R. .................................................. 1139

West Virginia, Department of. (Union.)
Carlin, William P., assigned to temporary command of 1st Infantry
Division of .................................................... 1216
Crook, George, assigned to command of 3d Division ............... 1146
Fesseuden, Francis, assigned to temporary command of 1st Infantry Divi-ision of .................................................... 1216

Flags and badges of. Communication from George Crook .......... 1197

Orders, series 1863—Scammon: Dec. 11, 1134; Dec. 15, 1135.
Orders, General, series 1864—Campbell: No. 1, 1157. Sigel: No. 24, 1160.
Orders, General, series 1865—Crook: No. 2, 1197.
Orders, Special, series 1864—Crook: No. 151, 1178. Kelley: No. 27, 1146.

Sigel: No. 65, 1154.
Orders, Special, series 1865—Crook: No. 8, 1198. Emory: Nos. 91, 105, 108, 1216; Nos. 123, 130, 1217.

Recommendations for promotions in. Communication from Benjamin F.
Kelley ......................................................... 1140

West Virginia Troops. Mentioned.
Artillery, Light—Batteries: A, 814; B, 1038.
Cavalry—Companies: Gilmore's, 471, 509, 595, 609; West's, 471, 509. Regiments: 1st, 672, 754, 954, 994; 2d, 509, 594, 595, 603, 610, 738, 1073; 3d, 211, 212, 994, 1140; 7th, 509, 1137.
Infantry—Regiments: 2d, 51, 95; 4th, 471; 5th, 130, 211, 994; 9th, 211, 212, 1037, 1038; 10th, 1037, 1038; 12th, 1038; 13th, 176, 207, 212, 994; 16th,
1006, 1007.

Wetmore, Henry A. Mentioned ........................................ 909
Weyss, John E. Mentioned ........................................ 276
Wheat, Chatham R. Mentioned ...................................... 30, 31
Wheat, James B.
Correspondence with Robert C. Schenck......................... 1013
Mentioned .................................................. 1010

Wheaton, Frank. Mentioned ......................................... 1049, 1257
Wheeler, Daniel D. Mentioned ................................... 1178, 1249
Wheeler, Horace M. Mentioned .................................. 183
Wheelock, Charles. Mentioned .................................... 1183
Whiddin, George A. Mentioned ................................... 1281
Whipple, Amiel W.
Assignment to command ......................................... 799
Correspondence with
Humphreys, Andrew A ........................................ 825
McClellan, George B ........................................... 767, 780
Sickles, Daniel E .............................................. 999
Mentioned .................................................. 62, 64, 65, 413, 748,
751, 776, 792, 797, 799, 878, 898, 899, 920, 925, 941, 943, 950, 957, 1037, 1040

Whipple, William D. Mentioned ................................ 410, 425, 488, 992
For correspondence as A. A. G., see Robert C. Schenck and John E. Wool.
White, Cada. Mentioned ........................................ 1280
White, Carr B. Mentioned ........................................ 1134, 1135, 1141, 1142
White, Charles A.
Mentioned .................................................. 217, 219
Report of skirmish near Greenwich, Va., March 9, 1864 .......... 218

* Originally 8th Infantry.
<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Name</th>
<th>Mentioned</th>
<th>Page</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>White, Edwin M.</td>
<td></td>
<td>1277</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>White, Elijah V.</td>
<td></td>
<td>772</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>White, Frank J.</td>
<td></td>
<td>1186</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>White, Henry A.</td>
<td>Correspondence with John E. Wool</td>
<td>712</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>White, John H.</td>
<td>Report of Richmond, Va., Campaign, June 13–July 31, 1864</td>
<td>272</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>White, Julius</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Correspondence with Miles, Dixon S</td>
<td></td>
<td>794, 798, 804, 812, 819, 820</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Correspondence with War Department, U. S.</td>
<td></td>
<td>798</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Correspondence with Wool, John E</td>
<td></td>
<td>819</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Relieved from command of Draft Rendezvous</td>
<td></td>
<td>1169</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>White, Nathan J.</td>
<td></td>
<td>871</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>White, Richard</td>
<td></td>
<td>1242</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Whitehead, J. B.</td>
<td></td>
<td>627</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Whitehead, Robert</td>
<td></td>
<td>1279</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>White House Landing, Va.</td>
<td>Destruction of stores, etc., at, June 28, 1863.</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Whittier, Charles A.</td>
<td>For correspondence as A. A. G., see Andrew A. Humphreys and Horatio G. Wright</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Whittlesey, Eliphalet</td>
<td></td>
<td>176</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Wickham, John</td>
<td></td>
<td>1280</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Wickham, Williams C.</td>
<td></td>
<td>171, 172</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Whiting, William H. C.</td>
<td></td>
<td>694</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Whitson, James M.</td>
<td></td>
<td>1157</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Whittemore, F. L.</td>
<td></td>
<td>1280</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Whittemore, Horace O.</td>
<td></td>
<td>5</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Whittemore, James M.</td>
<td></td>
<td>64, 65, 67</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Wilcox, Cadmus M.</td>
<td></td>
<td>85, 87</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Wilcox, Orlando B.</td>
<td>Assignment to command</td>
<td>1139, 1195</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Wild, Edward A.</td>
<td>Assignment to command</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Wilds, John D.</td>
<td></td>
<td>730, 864</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Wilkins, William D.</td>
<td></td>
<td>124, 473</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Wilkinson, Morton S.</td>
<td></td>
<td>22</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Wilkinson, Nathan</td>
<td></td>
<td>990, 1010, 1016, 1141</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Willard, George L.</td>
<td></td>
<td>775</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Willard, Joseph C.</td>
<td></td>
<td>69–72, 76, 78, 575, 638</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Congratulatory Orders</td>
<td>Combat at Ny River, Va., May 9, 1864</td>
<td>1162</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Correspondence with</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Burnside, Ambrose E</td>
<td></td>
<td>902, 943, 1161</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Getty, George W</td>
<td></td>
<td>899, 900, 915, 993</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Hawkins, Rush C</td>
<td></td>
<td>994</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Leasure, Daniel</td>
<td></td>
<td>914</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Pleasonton, Alfred</td>
<td></td>
<td>944</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Reno, Jesse L</td>
<td></td>
<td>827</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

See report of Owen, p. 104.
Willcox, Orlando B.—Continued.

Correspondence with
Smith, William F. .......................................................... 989
Sturgis, Samuel D. ......................................................... 885, 889, 910, 914, 944, 993
Mentioned ................................................................. 18, 30, 408, 414, 865, 899, 910, 916, 920, 925, 936, 944, 948, 949, 1024, 1025, 1159, 1162, 1183, 1188, 1206

William P. Clyde, Steamer. Mentioned ................................ 623

Williams, Alpheus B.
Assignments to duty ....................................................... 423, 455, 481, 493
Correspondence with Henry W. Slocum ............................... 1063, 1070, 1074, 1089, 1092
Mentioned ................................................................. 396, 399, 423, 455, 473, 481, 493, 521, 533, 534, 536, 539, 543, 544, 547, 676, 814, 816, 817, 831, 847, 855, 856, 858, 1063, 1064, 1070, 1072

Williams, Edward C. Mentioned ........................................ 366
Williams, J. Elliott. Mentioned ........................................ 728
Williams, John W. (Captain.) Mentioned ................................ 139
Williams, John W. (Sergeant.) Mentioned ............................. 1279
Williams, Lawrence A. Mentioned ................................. 322, 325, 374, 376, 379, 380, 383, 386
For correspondence as A. A. A. G., see Charles F. Smith.

Williams, Robert. (Captain.) Mentioned ................................ 428
For correspondence as A. A. G., see Nathaniel P. Banks.

Williams, Robert. (Colonel.)
Correspondence with George B. McClellan ............................. 781
Mentioned ................................................................. 770, 774, 775, 779

Williams, Seth.
Correspondence with
Barnard, John G. .......................................................... 776
McClellan, George B. ...................................................... 774–776, 838
For correspondence as A. A. G., see Joseph Hooker, George B. McClellan, and George G. Meade.
Mentioned ................................................................. 63, 350, 374, 403, 428, 466, 769, 776, 779, 1005, 1046, 1181, 1191

Williams, Thomas.
Assignment to duty .......................................................... 490
Mentioned ................................................................. 490, 534
Relieved from duty in Department of North Carolina ................ 534

Williams, William B. Mentioned ........................................ 73

Williamsburg, Va. Battle of, May 5, 1862. Reports of Brown, J. Thompson ....................................................... 85
Clapton, William I ......................................................... 87
Coke, John A. ............................................................. 88
Dearing, James ............................................................ 88
Fortier, Lestang ........................................................... 86
Stribling, Robert M ....................................................... 87
Wilcox, Cadmus M ......................................................... 90

Williamson, Henry V. Mentioned ......................................... 8

William, John. Correspondence with Andrew A. Humphreys .......... 1209
Willloch, August. Mentioned ............................................. 12
Willis, Edward. Mentioned .............................................. 245

Wilson, John L. Mentioned ................................................ 735
For correspondence as A. D. C., see Dixon S. Miles.

Wilson, George. Mentioned .............................................. 1230
Wilson, Amos. Mentioned ................................................ 600
Wilson, David G. Mentioned ............................................. 1279
INDEX.

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Name</th>
<th>Mentioned/Correspondence</th>
<th>Page</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Wilson, Elicot</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>1279</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Wilson, Henry</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>496</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Wilson, J.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>227</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Wilson, James B.</td>
<td>Correspondence with Alfred L. Pearson</td>
<td>1185</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Wilson, James H.</td>
<td>Correspondence with William W. Averill</td>
<td>1180</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Wilson, John</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>183</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Wilson, John F.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>300</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Wilson, John M.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>11</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Wilson, Samuel</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>1184</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Wilson, Samuel B.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>1281</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Wilson, Stephen C.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>1279</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Wilson, Thomas J.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>451</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Wilson, W. G.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>1278</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Wilson, William</td>
<td>(Lieutenant-Colonel.) Report of Richmond, Va., Campaign, Jan. 1-April 3, 1865</td>
<td>299</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Winchell, Edward R.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>1276</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Wimberly, W. J.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>972</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Wingfield, Isaac W.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>249</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Winnisimmet, Ferry-boat</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Winslow, Gordon</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>1230,1231</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Winter, Amos G.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>1280</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Winters, Cornelius</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>1279</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Winthrop, Frederick</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>1183</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Winthrop, Theodore</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>5</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Wirth, Julius</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>70,72,75</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Wisconsin Troops</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Artillery, Heavy—Regiments: 1st (Batterie), A, 971.</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Wise, Henry A.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>418, 421, 425, 440, 444-446, 448, 459, 464-466, 474, 478, 479, 482, 484-487, 531, 958</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Wisewell, Moses N.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>879</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Wistar, Isaac J.</td>
<td>Correspondence with Butler, Benjamin F</td>
<td>1143, 1145, 1154, 1155, 1282, 1284-1286</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>West, Robert M.</td>
<td>1282</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>1234</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Witcher, John S.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>1140</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Report of skirmish near Wayne Court-House, W. Va., Jan. 27, 1864</td>
<td>211</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Withers, Robert E.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>29, 31, 32</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Wittich, William J.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>719</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Wolcott, Christopher P.</td>
<td>For correspondence as Assistant Secretary, see War Department, U. S.</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Wolfe, Jonathan E.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>146</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Name</td>
<td>Page</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>-------------------------</td>
<td>------------</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Wolfinger, Franklin</td>
<td>1195</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Wood, A. G.</td>
<td>1278</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Wood, Alfred M.</td>
<td>409</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Wood, George P.</td>
<td>1279</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Wood, James, Jr.</td>
<td>1091, 1092</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Wood, John C.</td>
<td>231</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Wood, John T.</td>
<td>53</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Wood, Ralph T.</td>
<td>81, 82</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Wood, William H. (Acting Inspector-General.)</td>
<td>396, 413</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Wood, William H. (Sergeant.)</td>
<td>67</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Woodbury, Daniel P.</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Correspondence with</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Barnard, John G.</td>
<td>625</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Comstock, Cyrus B.</td>
<td>946, 956, 959</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>McClellan, George B.</td>
<td>652</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>567, 626, 660–663, 671, 688, 698, 776, 825, 955, 981, 982, 1147</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Woodhouse, Levi</td>
<td>406, 422</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Woodhull, Max.</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>For correspondence as A. A. G., see Lew. Wallace.</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Woodruff, Carle A.</td>
<td>682</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Woodruff, Henry D.</td>
<td>68</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Woodruff, William B.</td>
<td>421</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Woods, Charles R.</td>
<td>415, 428</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Woodward, John J.</td>
<td>91</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Wool, Fort.</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>See Fort Wool.</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Wool, John E.</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Correspondence with</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Army Headquarters</td>
<td>313, 491, 757</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Crosby, Franklin B</td>
<td>796</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Davis, Benjamin F</td>
<td>768</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Johnson, Robert C.</td>
<td>826</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Kelley, Benjamin F</td>
<td>689, 711, 712, 753, 865</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>McClellan, George B.</td>
<td>549, 576, 581, 596, 781, 803, 882</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Miles, Dixon S</td>
<td>689, 711, 723, 747, 750, 764, 765, 771, 781, 784, 790</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>New York, Governor of</td>
<td>758, 761</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Pennsylvania, Governor of</td>
<td>798</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Pope, John</td>
<td>713</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Richards, Samuel T</td>
<td>883</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Scott, Michael</td>
<td>795, 796</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Tracy, Benjamin F</td>
<td>882</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Truex, William S</td>
<td>788</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Voss, Arno</td>
<td>766</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>War Department, U. S</td>
<td>569, 573, 574, 617, 618, 626, 633, 639, 727, 771</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>White, Henry A</td>
<td>742</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>White, Julius</td>
<td>819</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>79, 447, 449, 455, 472, 490, 552, 555, 562, 613, 627, 674, 690, 747, 750, 765, 804, 812, 817, 868, 869, 961, 982</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Staff. Announcements of</td>
<td>488, 497</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Wooldridge, William B.</td>
<td>230</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Wooster, William B.</td>
<td>1211</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Wormley, Doctor</td>
<td>654, 655</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Wormley's Ferry, Pamunkey River, Va. Expedition to, June 2, 1862. Communication from George B. McClellan</td>
<td>654</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Worth, Selden</td>
<td>1277</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Name</td>
<td>Mentioned/Assignment to Command/Correspondence with</td>
<td>Page</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>------------------</td>
<td>----------------------------------------------------------</td>
<td>--------</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Worthington, Captain</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>74</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Wright,</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>211, 212</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Wright, Dexter R.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>951</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Wright, Elias</td>
<td>Assignment to command</td>
<td>1178</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>264, 265, 267, 1178</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Wright, Horatio G.</td>
<td>Correspondence with</td>
<td>1202</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Parke, John G.</td>
<td>354</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Ricketts, James B.</td>
<td>354</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>812</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Wright, Joseph J. B.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>408</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Wright, L. M.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>638</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Wright, Samuel</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>1189</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>W. W. Harlee, Steamer</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>2</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Wyckoff, Jesse F.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>1012</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Wyman, Jeremy P.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>1281</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Wyman, Robert H.</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>532, 536, 540</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Wyndham, Percy</td>
<td>Correspondence with Samuel P. Heintzelman</td>
<td>988</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>78, 558, 608, 954, 985</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Wynkoop, George C.</td>
<td>Correspondence with</td>
<td>366</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Army Headquarters</td>
<td>364–366</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>347, 349, 360, 363, 368, 397–399, 415, 422</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Wynkoop, John E.</td>
<td>Correspondence with Julius Stahel</td>
<td>1072</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Yates, Richard</td>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>371, 374</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Yellott, John I.</td>
<td>Correspondence with</td>
<td>1171</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Tyler, Erastus B.</td>
<td>1170, 1171, 1173</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Wallace, Lew</td>
<td>794</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Yellow Tavern, Va.</td>
<td>Reconnaissance in front of</td>
<td>58, 569</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Siege of, April 5–May 4, 1862. See report of Stephan, p. 80.</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Communications from</td>
<td>576, 577, 591</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>McClellan, George B.</td>
<td>571, 588</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Porter, Fitz John</td>
<td>583</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Smith, William F.</td>
<td>581, 582, 585, 587, 589, 592</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Sumner, Edwin V.</td>
<td>84</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Flood, Edward H.</td>
<td>83</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Name</td>
<td>Page</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>-----------------------------</td>
<td>------</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Yorktown, Va.—Continued.</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Siege of, April 5–May 4, 1862.</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Reports of</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Jameson, Charles D.</td>
<td>79</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Stephan, Carl</td>
<td>80</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Skirmish near, April 11, 1862. See reports of Jameson, p. 79; Stephan, p. 82.</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Young, Andrew J.</td>
<td>5</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Young, Francis G.</td>
<td>46</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Young, Harrison D. F.</td>
<td>987</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Young, Ralph W.</td>
<td>186</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Young, William H. (Colonel.) Correspondence with George Stoneman</td>
<td>477</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Young, William H. (Lieutenant-Colonel.) Mentioned</td>
<td>20</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Youngman, John C.</td>
<td>1197</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Zagoni, Charles.</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Assignment to command</td>
<td>568</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td>568</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Zentmyer, David.</td>
<td>146</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Zentmyer, Frank.</td>
<td>146</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Ziegler, Thomas A.</td>
<td>398</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Zook, Samuel K.</td>
<td>1034</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Mentioned</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Report of Chancellorsville, Va., Campaign, April 27–May 6, 1863</td>
<td>178</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Zwissler, Charles J.</td>
<td>1280</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>